By the time the crews came through the railroad bridge at the start of the last mile, California had moved from as far back as open water to a half length behind, and Washington's gallant bid was about spent. That meant California would probably come through, for this Navy eight, fighting its heart out for its coach, injured two days before the race, must have given all it had to offer.

That was the picture as the crews entered the last half-mile. The Middies had made a game bid, but they were falling now. Perhaps even Washington or the amazing Columbia crew would nip them. California, going up, slightly, bore down and passed them. Then, less than a quarter mile from home, these Midshipmen found something.

Roaring on up to forty strokes a minute, they came surging back while the crowd bellowed its excitement and fifty yards from home they had it. They were definitely the rulers of the river when they finished. And no race ever rowed here, in background and actual racing, ever had the drama of this one.

Navy rowed 31 and 32 over most of the course. It went to a very critical 35 to stand off a California bid at the three-mile mark and finished high. Most of the crews rowed at about the same pace, even Columbia dropping lower than it usually does.

There was disappointment, of course, in some of the boathouses along the river tonight, but it didn't belong there. For all of the crews had contributed a full measure to one of the finest regattas the Hudson has seen. And the magic of the West had been broken at last, for not only did Navy win, but the other Eastern crews stayed alongside the West for a good part of the varsity race.

Australians Reaching Montreal Today For Match With Japanese

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, Aug. 1—The Australian Davis Cup team, which scored an easy five-match victory over Mexico in Kansas City, will arrive here on Wednesday to commence training for the American zone finals to be played against Japan, on August 11, 12, 13. The winner will meet Germany, European zone winner, for the right to challenge the United States, present holder of the Cup.

Meanwhile, the Japanese Davis Cup squad, which swept through to a brilliant victory over Canada, is continuing daily practices. Favored by fine weather, the condition of the Japanese players has improved greatly, and indications are that their chances for success in the forthcoming battle against the Australians are brighter.

4th Higher School Girls Win Kanto Swim Laurels

Scoring heavily in all events, the Furitsu Fourth Higher Girls School swimmers captured the third annual Kanto women's swimming championships for the third straight year at the Meiji Shrine pool Tuesday afternoon with 83 points. The principal point winners follow: Furitsu Sixth Higher School 51 points; Furitsu First Higher School 26 points and Chiyoda Girls High School 12 points.

Miss Tomiko Iijima of the Sixth Higher School was one of the brightest performers, setting new records for the annual competition in the 100-meter backstroke and 100-meter freestyle in times of 1 minute 20.8 seconds and 1 minute 15 seconds respectively.

Miss Kimiko Nonaka of the winners also established two new records when she came in first in the 100-meter breaststroke in 1 minute 33.6 seconds and in the 200-meter breaststroke in 3 minutes 21.2 seconds.

Two other meet records were set. The Fourth Higher School team of the Misses Osawa, Ozawa, Hagihara and Sano, registered the one in the 200-meter relay in 2 minutes 29.2 seconds while the Sixth Higher School trio of the Misses Iijima, Fujiyama and Sato, hung up the other in the 300-meter medley in 4 minutes 39.2 seconds.

Roush Finds Lack Of Bunt, Hit-Run Plays

NEW YORK.—Edd Roush who returned to baseball as coach of the Cincinnati Reds after an absence of several years, blames the minor leagues for their failure to produce major leaguers who know how to bunt and how to put on the hit-and-run.

The one time king of all National League outfielders regrets the passing of these two plays from the game.

"Nowadays," says Edd, "It's a rare thing to find a player who can hit behind the runner or drop down a hunt wherever he wants.

"In the old days players were taught to hit to all fields but now they are nearly all one-field batters. You find a fellow hitting either to left or right almost all the time and the pitchers and fielders naturally take advantage of that and pitch and field accordingly.

"It's much easier to pitch to a batter, for instance, if you know he is a dead right field hitter and that there isn't one chance in a hundred that he may cross you up by hitting to left.

"The old timers, could and did hit to all fields, but Babe Ruth and his long swing changed all that. Nowadays everybody goes up there taking a full swing and you rarely find anybody choking the bat and punching one over the infield to a certain spot.

"This free hitting may produce more home runs but it produces fewer smart plays.

"I notice another difference today. The present high class type of player would never stand for the abuse the old timers had to take from rough and ready manager like John McGraw. McGraw was a wonderful manager—none better—but if he were operating today he would have to change his tactics.

"Still, I imagine there is just as much fun playing the game today as there was in my time. And I noticed the same old battle go on between some of the catchers and the hitters.

"That reminds me of the fun I used to have when Earl Smith was catching. Earl used to engage the hitter in an argument and when he figured he had the hitter's attention distracted he would call for a fast ball and before the batter could get set he had another strike on him.

"He fooled me two or three times that way and then I happened to notice that he always called for a fast ball when he got me talking.

"So, thereafter I used to make a point of starting a row with Earl but all the time I was watching the pitcher out of the corner of my eye and when he started to throw I'd whirl and slam the fast ball I knew was coming.

"That went on for quite awhile until one day Earl says to me: 'I'm not going to talk to you any more. I notice every time I do, you get a base hit, so from now on, I'm going to be a clam.

"Yes, those were the days but I still get a lot of fun teaching a few things to the youngster."

Tuesday's Inter-City Ball Games Washed Out

Rain washed out the second day's tilts of the Osaka Mainichi and Tokyo Nichi Nichi's 12th annual national inter-city baseball championships scheduled Tuesday at the Korakuen Stadium, at Suidobashi.

The games to be played today were:

Keijo versus Hakodate, at 10:30 a.m.

Otsu versus Anshan, Manchoukuo, at 1 p.m.

Kawasaki Columbia versus Niigata; 3:30 p.m.

Japanese Boy On U.S. Swim Team Going To Europe

Domei Tsushin

LOUISVILLE, Kentucky, Aug. 1—Takashi Hirose, 15-year old American-Japanese swim sensation from Hawaii, has been named a member of the team of nine American aquatic stars who will tour four European countries this month, officials of the Amateur Athletic Union announced here today. It was also revealed that Kiyoshi Nakama, another Hawaiian record holder of Japanese parentage, has been appointed alternate.

The nine stars who will compete against the best swimmers of four European nations, were chosen on the basis of their performances during the three-day National A.A.U. men's outdoor swimming and diving championships, which closed here yesterday.

Pool officials, meanwhile, announced that the Ohio State University swimming squad had won the A.A.U. team championship by amassing 30 points. The Detroit Athletic Club finished second with 25 points, followed by the Miami Biltmore Athletic Club with 15 and the Hawaiian A.A.U. with 12.

Tennis Of Today Poor Man's Game, Says Fred Perry

PHILADELPHIA.—Tennis today is a poor man's sport, according to Fred Perry, former English Davis Cup star, who is doing quite well financially as a professional.

"In 1900 or so," Perry asserted while visiting here, "nine out of the 10 top ranking players in the country were millionaires. Today I'll bet that the wealth of the first 10 ranking American amateurs does not total more than $35,000—and a few of them don't have a dime.

"Why," asked Perry, "are Don Budge, Robby Riggs and others working hard at tennis? Because they know that when they're highly ranked they are going to be in line to make money out of professional tennis either playing or instructing.

"That is the difference between today and yesterday in tennis. They played the game for the sport of it yesterday—but newer blood and newer ideas are taking their places in the amateur associations."

The time is coming, Perry believes, when tennis will be dominated by professionals, "if the amateurs won't meet us professionals 50-50."

"We professionals could do a lot for amateur tennis if the officials would let us," the Englishman continued. "We could go around to the colleges and coach their best young material, and we could help out with the Davis Cup practices."

U.S. Wrestlers To Meet Meiji On Monday Night

The visiting American amateur wrestlers will make their second appearance as a team in Tokyo next Monday night at the Meiji Shrine sumo grounds when they take on the Meiji University squad. The first bout is scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m.

The most interesting bout should be that between Fortune Masdeo and Yoshioka, who clashed in the final of the national championships in the lightweight class Monday night at the Hibiya Public Park amphitheater. Yoshioka won after a nip and tuck battle all the way through, the decision going to him because of his aggressiveness.

The bouts follow:

Bantamweights

Kurihara (Meiji) versus Dalo (U.S.A.).

Omori (Meiji) versus Hendershot (U.S.A.).

Featherweights

Shimizu (Meiji) versus Weede (U.S.A.).

Matsunouchi (Meiji) versus Conley (U.S.A.).

Lightweights

Yoshioka (Meiji) versus Masdeo (U.S.A.).

Welterweights

Kin (Meiji) versus Bruno (U.S.A.).

Meiji is a slight favorite to win as Kurihara, Shimizu and Matsunouchi are expected to take their bouts for three points. On the other hand, Hendershot and Bruno are figured to beat Omori and Kin respectively. The bout between Yoshioka and Masdeo is likely to decide the winner of the meet. Each has beaten the other once to date.

There will be two exhibition bouts. Helmut Lehman of Germany, who won the national middleweight title Monday night, will meet Kamei of Meiji, while Nishiyama of Meiji and Iwai of Senshu University will clash in the other.

Coombs Makes Great Record At Duke University

DURHAM, N. C.—Winning 18 of their 21 games and capturing both state and Southern conference championships, Duke university's 1938 baseball team put additional 10th year at the institution.

This year's team ran Coombs' record for the past five years to 102 victories against 19 defeats and gave the former major league hurling great a 10-year mark of 170 wins against 47 losses.

That, as far as is known, is the best college baseball record in the country over the same period of time.

In his years of coaching at Duke, Coombs has sent player after player to the major leagues. At the present he has four in the majors—Bill Werber, Chubby Dean, Wayne Ambler and Ace Parker, all with the Philadelphia Athletics.

He has 13 others playing major league ball in various parts of the country, with the New York Yankees—who have probably signed more Duke players than any other club—having strings on most of them.

A Train Longer Than The Railroad Itself

The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad of the New York Central System, owns and operates a total of 234 miles of road, excluding all their sidings and second, third and fourth main tracks. If all the 31,527 cars owned by the P. & L. E. were coupled together in a single train, that train would be 268 miles long—29 miles longer than the railroad itself.

Dear Mr. Vaccari,

I have the honour to express to you my hearty respect and gratitude for your worthy work "Complete Course of Japanese-Conversation Grammar" and its "Supplement." It was really a great joy to me to find in these books an easier and smoother way to attain success in my teaching Japanese language here. Your books have especially delighted my students because of the treatment of the Japanese grammar in a similar way to that used in teaching European languages as adopted by you in your volumes, and in this respect, above all, your method is highly estimated.

Your Grammar and Supplement are really the best things for foreigners to master the Japanese language without discouraging themselves.

this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, July 6—Playing grim, tight-lipped baseball behind three of their master moundsmen, Colonel Bill Terry's National League forces throttled the might and power of the American League today as they brought down Marse Joe McCarthy's troops in the sixth annual All-Star game, 4 to 1.

It was only the Nationals' second victory in the six classics played, but to the 27,067 who paid to jam every available inch of Crosley Field, it was a struggle long to be remembered.

For the gathering, strictly National League and bursting with civic pride at the spectacle of four of its amazing Reds in the starting line-up of the victors, roared and roared every step of the way as first Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati's sensational rookie left-hander, then Bill Lee of the Cubs and finally Mace Brown of the Pirates held the dreaded sluggers of the American League to seven hits and a lone tally, which did not make its appearance until one was out in the ninth.

There was even a fourth pitching great of the National League hovering in the background. Although he never got into the struggle, his very presence tuning up in the bull pen seemed to weigh down upon the straining foe. For he was the lean Carl Hubbell, whom the adroit Terry held in reserve from the fourth inning on.

A Nerve-Wracking Struggle

It was a tight, nerve-wracking battle which the American Leaguers, with Lefty Gomez, Johnny Allen and Bob Grove on the firing line, did not relish at all to the end that they finally bogged down under a mess of four errors that made three of the four runs the Nationals rolled up unearned.

A grievous misplay by Joe Cronin, the Red Sox pilot, set Gomez back for a tally in the first inning and two errors on one play, a wild heave by Jimmy Foxx to an uncovered base and another wild toss by Joe DiMaggio, sent two runs scurrying across the plate in the seventh against the venerable Grove.

The lone earned tally for the National Leaguers was struck in the fourth and so far as the crowd was concerned the making of it provided the finest sight of the day. For, though a triple by Melvin Ott of the Giants paved the way, the mighty Ernie Lombardi, ponderous catcher of the Reds, followed with a blazing single to left to send Master Melvin home.

Vander Meer, recent hero of the two successive no-hit games, allowed the American Leaguers one hit, a single by Cronin, in his three innings, a performance also without precedent when it is considered that up to today the 22-year-old Dutchman never had seen an All-Star game.

Dickey Gets Lucky Double

The tall, strapping, right-handed Lee pitched equally well, also allowing one hit and that a very fluky one. It was a pop fly over the infield by Bill Dickey that Leo Durocher lost in the sun for a double.

In the closing three rounds, the American Leaguers began to rumble and there were moments when it looked as if Brown, regarded as the weakest of the National League's pitching trio, surely would go under.

Indeed, one almost could have heard a pin drop in the seventh when, with the bases full and two out, Marse Joe pulled what he doubtless deemed his master stroke when he called upon the sensational Rudy York of the Tigers to pinch hit for Allen. But with the count three and two, the Pirate right-hander fanned Detroit's renowned home-run clouter and the noise that followed was positively ear-splitting.

This seemed to remove the final pressure from the shoulders of the National Leaguers, who in the same inning doubled their earlier output of runs, so that when a DiMaggio single and a Cronin double gave the McCarthy forces their tally in the ninth it caused no great concern. For the Terry troops still had left a margin of three and good old Hub was still toiling in the bull pen, ready for the emergency call which never came.

Different Story This Time

It was, indeed, in sharp contrast to the battle of a year ago in Washington when the might of the world champion Yankees literally tore the National Leaguers apart. For this time the Yanks had only two of their stars, DiMaggio and Dickey, in the line-up for the entire game and each contributed only one hit.

Two others toiled part time. Gomez pitched the first three innings, allowed only two hits and yet was charged with the defeat, for the run scored in the first inning kept his side behind for the remainder of the game. As a result, Lucky Lefty, five times victorious in world series competition and winner of three previous All-Star games, lost his first decision to a National League rival.

The other Yankee part-timer was Lou Gehrig. Sidetracked at the start for Foxx as the American League's first baseman, Lou finally got into the struggle in the fifth, when he batted for Third Baseman Buddy Lewis. Lou then continued at first while Foxx replaced Lewis at third in the game.

While this kept the Iron Horse's record intact in having appeared in all six All-Star games to date, he contributed no thundering blows. His best in three tries at the plate was an infield hit which helped fill the bases in that memorable seventh.

It was clear, sunny and insufferably hot as the rival forces gathered for baseball's midsummer classic and there was a grimness about the Nationals not to be mistaken. Taunts that they were the "inferior league" by reason of their numerous All-Star and world series defeats in recent years apparently had found a mark and they were out for vindication.

It started coming their way as early as the first when Stan Hack, Cub third sacker, slapped Gomez for a single to left. His team-mate, Billy Herman, bounced a tantalizing grounder to short which hopped through Cronin's legs for the first error and Hack was on third.

There was an expectant roar as Ival Goodman, the Reds' home run clouter, came up, but Gomez fanned Ival and the crowd groaned. However, Joe Medwick, lone entry of the once mighty Cardinals in this struggle, came along with a long fly to Earl Averill in center and Hack scored after the catch.

Cronin Drives Single

The National Leaguers were one up and so far as Vander Meer was concerned the margin was all he needed. He retired the first six men to face him with only one of them, Mike Kreevich of the White Sox as lead-off hitter, lifting a fly to the outfield.

Cronin broke the spell momentarily with a single that opened the third, but the youngster quickly regained his poise and three more easy outs were recorded. Vander Meer received a thunderous ovation as he walked off the field at the close of his stint and fittingly enough, as his team remained ahead to the end, the victory was awarded to him.

There was a slight flurry at the start of the fourth as Lee opened with a pass to Charlie Gehringer who, besides Gehrig, was the only player on the field making his sixth All-Star appearance.

No Help Needed

Although Hubbell at once was ordered to warm up in the bull pen, Lee never needed assistance. During his three rounds only one other rival got on base, Dickey on his scratch double in the fifth.

Allen, like Gomez, allowed only two hits for his middle three rounds, but they were costly to the extent of giving the Nationals another tally in the fourth when Ott slammed into the Indians' star right-hander for a triple against the center-field fence and Lombardi followed with his eye-filling single. After that, Allen held matters in a tight grip while his comrades still sought in vain for a run.

Grove's appearance in the seventh was met with almost immediate disaster. Frank McCormick, the fourth Redleg in the game, opened with a single to center. Durocher then attempted a sacrifice, but what followed looked more like a mild jam in a six-day bike race.

Foxx, now playing third, tore in for the ball and fired it to first only to find neither Gehrig nor Gehringer there. As the ball bounded into the right-field bull pen, McCormick scored while Leo also kept going. From a scramble of American League players, DiMaggio retrieved the ball and back to the plate the ball sped, only to sail yards beyond Dickey's reach.

So the Dodger shortstop, who at this moment must have thought he was back in Brooklyn, also counted to give the National Leaguers two runs for the inning before the veteran Grove had retired a man.

These tallies made it decisive, especially since in the upper half of this same seventh the American Leaguers had had their big moment to put themselves back in the ball game and missed.

Foxx opened against Brown with an infield hit to Durocher. Then Jimmy was forced by DiMaggio, who stole second. Dickey was retired on a high infield fly, but Cronin drew a pass and when Gehrig outgalloped an infield hit to Durocher the bases were full.

Crowd Roars With Relief

The sweltering crowds scarcely dared to move while Brown matched wits with the robust York, but when Rudy swung and missed for the third strike the gathering really went to town.

What followed was all anti-climax. DiMaggio, hitless in his first three tries, finally drove a single to left to open the ninth. Dickey followed with a wallop to left center that looked like more trouble as Medwick and Ott, the latter playing the strange role of center field for the National Leaguers, tore in pursuit. Medwick finally caught up with it, speared the ball in his outstretched glove and went down in a heap. But he held the white pill and there was one out.

Cronin then came along with a drive to the same sector and this time it went beyond Medwick's reach for a double that sent DiMaggio over the plate.

But the tally merely enabled the American Leaguers to squirm out of a shut-out. Gehrig's best was to drive Goodman back to the right-field bleachers for the second out and Marse Joe then played his last card. He called upon Bob Johnson, the Athletics' clouting outfielder, to bat for Grove. But Bob, after keeping the tension going as long as he could, took a third strike and the conflict was over.

The gate receipts were $38,469, with taxes deducted. After the further deduction of about $10,000 expenses, the remainder of the proceeds will go to the Ball Players' Benevolent Fund.

Sore Arm Or No Sore Arm, Dean To Pitch

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, July 11—Dizzy Dean—sore arm or no sore arm—was ordered today to return to duty as a starting pitcher for the Cubs.

Owner Phil K. Wrigley, tired of fiddling around with varied treatments while the team's pennant prospects burned, announced he had directed his $185,000 hurling hand to "be ready to pitch within a week."

Dean, out of action more than two months, told his boss he was "ready to go."

Grimm Concurs

Manager Charley Grimm said Dean would take the mound again within the stipulated time "if his arm is better, and I think it will be."

The decision was reached at a conference attended by Dean, Wrigley and Grimm.

Grimm reported the latest X-ray pictures of Dean's problem arm showed some improvement. He added: "He's down to 190 pounds and in perfect physical condition. There's no reason why he can't get in there and win. He'll lob 'em over for the rest of the week, and a week from today he may pitch.

"Diz might have a sore arm for two years and he won't hurt it any more."

Dean, credited with three 1938 victories, has been idle since May 4. Meanwhile, the Cubs dropped to fourth place.

Hurler's Courage Praised

"We didn't need Dean during the first part of the season, but we do now," Wrigley stated, "and I'm going to put him to work. He has lots of courage and enthusiasm and he's anxious to get going.

"Dizzy will be a better pitcher with a sore arm than half the major league pitchers who have good ones."

Grimm predicted Dean's arm would improve with service and that he would win ten more games.

Forgotten for the time being was Dean's threat to sue the Cardinals for $250,000 on the claim that his work for them after an injury last year had impaired his ability.

The Cubs, who gave $185,000 and three players for him during the Spring, aim to find out.

Fukuoka Normal School Wins Fencing Tourney

U.S. Pro Football To Stress Passing

CHICAGO.—Sammy Baugh and a change in the rules have made coaches more pass-conscious than ever.

Ed Milan Creighton, head coach of the Chicago Cardinals National Football League team, found in discussing trends of the game with leading college strategists, gathered at Minneapolis recently.

"Lessening the penalty for incomplete passes over the goal line and making them touchbacks only on fourth down," Creighton said, "gives quarterback greater latitude in directing the offense.

"They are no longer afraid to call pass plays inside an opponents' 20-yard line. And, after watching Baugh pitch the Washington Redskins to a world's championship, college and pro coaches are beginning to appreciate the more potent possibilities of an aerial attack."

Passing is becoming a more important factor in pro football every season, Creighton points out. No team, with its roster limited to 30 men, can go through to a championship on power alone, he said. The physical limitations of even the giant young men in the National League are such that they will not stand up under the terrific play that characterizes pro football, the Cardinal coach maintains.

"Passing is the great preserver," Creighton says. "We play three games in eight days against the league's leading teams at one point in this year's schedule. We'll have to do a lot of passing to conserve our stamina. A club may powerhouse its way through one or two games, but, thereafter, it is an easy mark for the caliber of opponents we have to meet and the same is true in major college competition.

"While you try passing, you are putting most of the strain on the ends. Linemen, aside from the ends, are spared. It is tough on ends, but we'll get around that by frequent substitutions."

Creighton views the Chicago Bears as the team to beat for the Western division championship, with Detroit and his Cardinals rating a good chance, if misfortune overtakes the Bears. In the Eastern division, Creighton predicts a return to supremacy for the New York Giants. Every club in the league will be stronger, with Cleveland and Philadelphia especially showing vast improvement, Creighton thinks.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"—by Ripley

Comfort In The Clouds

Test flights of the new Douglas DC-4, about a month ago at Santa Monica, California, were more than satisfying to the builders and airline operators. The plane performed better than they had hoped, exceeding even the promises of its engineers. With a top speed of about 250 miles per hour, the DC-4 will accommodate 42 passengers in daytime, 30 in sleeper service, with a crew of five—all enjoying the luxuries of a modern hostelry. This giant of the clouds cost more than $1,500,000 to develop, built to the order of five leading airline operators of United States, and it is strange to note that it embodies the "tricycle" landing gear—the same as the Wright Brothers' "Kitty Hawk," which made its first successful flight 35 years ago. The tricycle landing gear is a great safety factor, permitting the ship to fly into a landing and coming to a quick stop with brakes without any danger of nosing over.

Don Budge Was Much Too Good For H.W. Austin

London Times

LONDON, July 2—J. D. Budge was much too good. He won his second Championship at the All-England Club yesterday by beating H. W. Austin in just over the hour by 6-1, 6-0, 6-3, and looked as though he could go on winning so long as he cares to come to Wimbledon. After a match that was full of interest for more serious students of the game—the outcome was only too clearly in view for those who love a dog-fight—Budge and Austin were presented to Queen Mary, who, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Kent, presided over the Center Court for the first time this year. Queen Mary remained until Budge had again entered his third final, the mixed doubles, in the last match of the day.

So one championship is in American keeping, and it is most probable that the other four will follow it when the Wimbledon fortnight, perhaps the most uneventful in its long history, is concluded today. It is something, at any rate, to have had Austin, H. Henkel, of Germany, who is in two doubles finals, and Mme. Mathieu and Miss Yorke, the defenders of the ladies' doubles, to challenge American supremacy at the last ditch; their chance seems to be about as slender as Austin's was—not that he was altogether massacred or ever gave up trying yesterday in what must have been a heart-breaking endeavor. Today brings the last chapter in a greener setting after the rain than when the Championships were begun. Budge was always the hero or the villain of the piece according as we interpreted the plot; but what of Mrs. Moody and Miss H. Jacobs, who will be meeting this afternoon in maybe the tensest match of them all? Miss Jacobs has never really beaten Mrs. Moody; and even with memories of Miss Jacobs' historic match ball three years ago I still think Mrs. Moody will win her eighth championship. But a vivid struggle it is bound to be.

Merciless Speed

Figures, one has read, are the root of all knowledge, but in the case of yesterday's singles final they belie Austin's quite skilful attempt at giant-killing. Yet they bear out only too accurately the merciless mastery of Budge, the first American to have played through and won two years running—the first man, indeed, to have accomplished quite a number of things. This was not an example of the Vines versus Austin slaughter of six years ago; but phenomenal though Budge is for the power and control of strokes at angles no one else has thought of, how we sighed for the days of 10 years and more ago when there were quite a lot of giants! What, for instance, would Tilden and Perry and Cochet have done against this rampant man of speed? Austin, at a disadvantage in build and reach, did all he could: some of his aces—and there were 68 of them to Budge's 99—were as impressive in length and severity as his adversary's; but what could he really do against a man who hit winners off shots that would have beaten most people? They were beating Henkel all right in the semi-final round, and Austin played just as well as he did then. In Budge he had an adversary who could attack any ball from any position, who hardly made a defensive stroke the whole match through. Austin, with an attacking serve, might have had a stronger chance. All the time he was being forced on the defensive from the first stroke of a rally, driven far out of court on one side with scant hope of reaching the volley or drive to the other. And the remarkable thing was that Budge's loose strikes could be counted on the two hands; he was driving wide across the court, and punishing the ball, off angles that would call for a defensive stroke in any other player. By what magic he did it, how he kept the ball in court in such severe limits, goodness knows. Still, Austin was always in the match, as this record of the point-score will show—

First Set

Budge	9	0	4	6	4	7	4—6
Austin	7	4	2	4	1	5	2—1

Second Set

Budge	5	4	5	4	8	4	—6
Austin	3	1	3	2	6	1	—0

Third Set

Budge	5	4	7	4	1	4	2	4	4	—	6
Austin	3	2	5	6	4	0	4	1	3	—	3

Austin's Tactics

Austin, at all events, gave Budge a better match than Von Cramm did last year—and Budge has vastly improved since then. I thought there was something rather inflexible about Austin's attack on the backhand corner, considering that Budge makes most of his withering retorts from that side. Now and then there was a loose forehand stroke from Budge to suggest that a more intent attack on it might bring points, but the hope was very faint, for if Austin tried to volley he was usually passed by feet wherever he put the ball. No, Budge dominated the court by service drive and volley. His long arm and flying feet were everywhere, and when he really hit the ball the impetus of the stroke, every inch of him in it, carried him clear of the ground. His most menacing move, in the form of a wide V, was the cross-court drive on the backhand and the answering backhand volley to the other corner. Sometimes Austin tried the straight backhand drive as a reply, and then you should have seen Budge's forehand volley, made with a round-arm action that sent the ball streaking away more swiftly than ever. The only hope for Austin was that Budge would "crack"; but he was never pressing, all his strokes were smooth and controlled, and if he could have managed quite well without the luck of the net-cord the many shots that clipped the tape bespoke the attacking lowness of his aim.

The Center Court stirred expectantly when Austin held Budge for five minutes in the first game of all. If Budge were to serve his aces, Austin showed that he could attack the high-hopping second ball by killing it altogether. Austin even had three points for this game, his drives were clean and deep, and one felt that if he could win it a miracle might yet happen. He did not; but he held his service to love in the second game and showed that he was ready to use the volleys. So far so good, but Austin did not win another game until Budge had taken 14 in a row by dint of most astonishing strokes. Austin, as may be gathered from the figures given above, was within a point of winning quite a few of them, but always Budge brought out a stroke that only he would have thought of: he was forcing too many yielding half-court balls, and a half-court ball to Budge is child's play. The sky grew darker and Budge swept on. Then, wonder of wonders, Austin won Budge's service at 3-0 in the third set. Even better, he twice drove Budge out of court and had a finishing volley in winning the next game in a drizzle of rain, and he had returned to a length. But Budge, unshakable, replied with a love game. Austin hung on, and after a delay of half an hour for rain (it was a pity for Austin that it fell just then) Budge came back and wrought the execution in three minutes. At least Austin was a worthy runner-up.

Olympics Not For 1 Country

Werner Klingeberg, (standing), whose services as technical adviser to the Olympic Organizing Committee have been cancelled because of the abandonment by Tokyo of the 12th Olympic Games in 1940, gave a farewell dinner Thursday night at the Imperial Hotel. "The Olympic Games do not belong to one country but to the young people of the world," he said in his "Goodbye" speech. He leaves at the end of the month. His guests were members of the O. O. C. and others with whom he has been in contact in connection with his work.

Traynor Sails Pirate Craft On High Seas

By EDWIN RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, July 11—With 11 straight victories behind them, the Pittsburgh Pirates are taking the play away from other contenders in the National League pennant race. Although the New York Giants are still in front, this morning holding a two-game edge over the field, the onrushing rivals from Pennsylvania threaten more seriously than a majority suspect.

Perhaps the outstanding factor in the Pirate challenge is their ability to win the close ones. Since the beginning of the current season, the Bucos have captured 21 games by the margin of a single run. They have dropped six by the same method. No other club in the league can approach this record.

Traynor Solid

The Pirates took an early lead in the 1938 race, but stayed there for only about two weeks. The Cincinnati Reds, the surprise club of the season, knocked them out of the driver's seat in a series at Crosley Field. A short while later there arose rumors of Manager Pie Traynor's departure from Forbes Field. But such a suggestion is now met with a hearty guffaw as Pittsburgh fans point to the National League standing.

Traynor's fortunes took a turn for the better when he shifted the pitching burden from his veterans to the younger members of his staff. In this race toward the top of the standing, the Bucos have leaned heavily on Bobby Klinger, Russ Bauers, Jim Tobin and Mace Brown. Brown's pitching in relief is one of the sensations of the year and won him a prominent spot in the recent all-star game at Cincinnati.

Not since Fred Marberry pitched for the Washington Senators has a rescue hurler reached the prominence of Brown. He has started only one game, but recently passed the 11 mark in victories.

Young Pitchers

Traynor's policy on his young pitchers had an effect on Cy Blanton, who was not in shape until about two weeks ago. Cy is going great now, however, and will be up with the leaders when the curtain falls in early October.

Gus Suhr, who was benched several weeks ago because of light hitting, is currently pacing the Bucos at the plate. Johnny Rizzo, the rookie outfielder, is not far behind.

By winning a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday, the Pirates equaled the National League's 1938 consecutive victory mark. The Giants put together 11 straight earlier in the year.

To date, the Giants have withstood all challenges. But will they be successful in this new duel with the Pirates? As long as Traynor's young pitchers stand up on their own feet, the Bucos have a chance to break the New York monopoly. The Giants, you remember, are trying for their third pennant in a row.

Meanwhile, the Cleveland Indians have held off another Yankee threat in the American League, and this morning led the race by two full games. The world champions went 10 games without defeat, including a tie with Washington, but dropped two out of three to the Red Sox over the week end.

Move Renewed To Drop Mako Off Davis Cup Team

NEW YORK, July 11—There is noted a renewal of the campaign to get Gene Mako off our Davis Cup team, the fear being expressed that unless J. Donald Budge has a better doubles partner forced upon him we will be in dire danger of losing the cup this fall at Germantown.

For those who are easily alarmed about such matters, and to calm Mako's admirers, we hasten to get down that Gene will play alongside the big Californian in the challenge round against Australia, and that Uncle Sam will retain the gilded reservoir by about four matches to one. Shucks, make it five to nothing.

The reasons that Mako will stay right in there, despite the viewing-with-alarm, are twofold: (1) Budge, the world champeen, won't have any other doubles partner, and (2) the absence of anything resembling dangerous opposition.

With Budge and Bobby Riggs playing the four singles matches in the challenge round, and probably winning all of them, it would do no appreciable harm if Budge and Groucho Marx got the doubles assignment, with the latter swinging a banjo. In fact, it might add some comic relief.

Dismissing what little real tennis talent there is left in Europe since Gottfried von Cramm went to prison, it seems virtually certain that the showdown at Germantown will find the two Australians, Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwick, trying to lift the cup.

The two other Aussie stars, Vivian McGrath and Jack Crawford, are reported to have tired of the annual struggle, and, anyway, Quist and Bromwich have been trimming them regularly of late.

Quist, though still about the best doubles player in the world, isn't the singles threat he was in 1936, when he beat men like Wilmer Allison and Bunny Austin and gave Von Cramm a sensational scrap in the inter-zone final at Wimbledon.

Bromwich, the other man, is a terror in Australia. He is the world's most unorthodox player, hitting the ball "double-handed" from both sides and generally acting like a sleight-of-hand artist. The only thing: He isn't yet quite 20, and something seems to happen to his game on this side of the world.

Budge, of course, will trim both of them, and it wouln't be surprising to see Riggs do the same. That is, taking it for granted that Riggs has shown normal improvement since the last national championships at Forest Hills. At least, you may figure that he will defeat Bromwich.

Riggs is a much better player than most people think, judging from the fact that there has been some conjecture about the No. 2 singles berth on the American cup team. It isn't even a contest. The tennis fathers don't like Bobby much, but they do want to keep the cup.

Strangely enough, the much-maligned Gene Mako also is a better doubles partner than he has been made out. He isn't a George Lott or even a John Van Ryn, and he can't beat anybody at singles, but he and Budge have proved themselves the best doubles pair in the world for the last two years. It's just possible that Budge wouldn't do as well with another partner.

Kawasaki Beats Niigata, 5-1, In Inter-City Play

The Kawasaki Columbia team established itself as a strong contender for the championship of the 12th annual national inter-city baseball tournament sponsored by the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokyo Nichi Nichi at the Korakuen Stadium at Suidobashi by eliminating the Niigata representatives, 5 to 1, Thursday afternoon.

A four-run rally in the seventh clinched victory for the Kawasaki aggregation. Fujita, who had been engaged in a pitcher's duel with Yamasaki of the Columbia squad, lost his control after retiring the first man and walked the next two players. A two bagger to left by Kisso brought in one and a bad infield error sent two more runs across. Kano singled and Nakane switched over from center to pitch. Yamasaki gained life at first on the shortstop's error to fill the bases. Kurosaki then tallied on Terakado's fly to right.

Behind the airtight pitching of Tokushima, the All-Keijo nine triumphed over Hakodate by a 5 to 1 score. He yielded but four hits.

Yuasa, veteran pitcher of the Anshan nine of Manchoukuo, was in fine form and he allowed but five hits to help his team down Otsu, 6 to 1 in the other game of the day.

The two teams will play a series of games in Chosen and in Manchoukuo.

Vander Meer Tops Cubs For Reds, 3-1

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, July 10—Johnny Vander Meer, the Red's young hero of two straight no-hit games, made his debut at Wrigley Field an auspicious one today by beating the Cubs, 3 to 1, with four hits before a crowd of 30,793.

It was his eleventh victory as against three defeats and enabled Cincinnati to sweep the three-game series. The setback was Chicago's fourth in a row.

Staked to a 2-to-0 lead in the second inning when Frank McCormick singled, Ernie Lombardi doubled and Harry Craft tripled against Bill Lee, Vander Meer was master at all times.

The only run off him was unearned. It came in the sixth inning. Billy Herwan walked, went to third when Second Baseman Lonnie Frey booted Carl Reynolds's grounder and scored as Gabby Hartnett grounded out.

The brilliant Cincinnati southpaw fanned six and walked two. The only extra base hit he allowed came off the bat of Frank Demaree, who doubled to start the second inning.

Cincinnati's other run came in the third when Wally Berger singled and McCormick doubled him home. McCormick had three hits and Berger two.

Lee's defeat, his fifth against nine victories, reversed last Sunday's result at Cincinnati, where Lee bested Vandy, 4 to 3, although neither finished the game. Lee went out for a pinch hitter today and Charley Root pitched the last two frames.

Britain Beats Norway, 72 To 67 In Track Meet At White City Stadium

Observer

LONDON, July 10—One of the strongest teams that Great Britain have ever fielded beat Norway by 72 points to 67 in their return athletics match, which was concluded at the White City Stadium yesterday. The first match between the two countries was held at Oslo last year, when Norway rather unexpectedly beat a semi-representative British team by 74 points to 65.

When the contest was resumed yesterday, Norway's lead was increased from 30 points to 28 instead of 30 points to 29, as it was ruled that E. Boyce, who acted as substitute for F. R. Webster—who was injured in the Pole Vault and retired—should not score the one point for occupying fourth place. How vital this point might have been was seen when there were only three events to go, and the scores were level at 51—51.

It was a meeting full of surprises, starting on Friday with the splendid victory of the Scottish substitute, G. M. Carstairs, in a fast 5,000 meters, and the defeat of the great English half-milers, A. J. Collyer and J. W. Alford in the 800 meters. Yesterday the unexpected occurred four more time. First E. L. Page, who was an A.A.A. sprint champion nearly ten years ago, won an easy victory in the 100 meters in the fast time of 10.7 sec., to beat the Empire champion C. B. Holmes quite decisively. Holmes this summer seems lacking in his old fire, whereas Page appears to have retrieved all his former buoyancy.

Field Event Successes

Norway is one of the strongholds of field events. It was therefore immensely satisfactory for those who are specially interested in this department of the sport to see W. E. N. Breach carry off the long jump with a magnificent 23 ft. 9¾ in., Blakeway gain second place with a great javelin throw (for an Englishman) of nearly 200 ft., and D. Young secure second place in the discus event with a moderate throw of 141 ft. Obviously the work of the A.A.A. Summer School at Loughborough is bearing fruit. One cannot readily recall so many British field events successes in an international meeting since the War, and it is to our throwers and jumpers that we owe our victory.

If we won the match by rising above our form in the field events, the track runners certainly contributed their full share D. O. Finlay and J. St. L. Thornton again gave a brilliant exhibition over the high hurdles, despite the soft track, and C. A. J. Emery, the international cross-country champion, successfully cracked H. Lehne, last year's 1,500-meters winner, and made things easy for S. C. Wooderson, who won in (for him) moderate time. At one moment it looked as if Emery, who is a runner of the highest class, might defeat Wooderson. Though this race was superb, it was eclipsed by the A. G. K. Brown-W. Roberts duel in the 400 meters. Brown, as usual, managed to call on some superhuman source of strength in the finishing dash, and the more spectacular effort of Roberts was beaten by 1½ yards.

Junior Championship

Several good performances were recorded in the A.A.A. Junior Championships which formed part of the same program as the International match, though only one record was broken. That was accomplished in the 120 yards hurdles by H. W. J. Hearn (Southgate H.) with 15.3 sec. in the first heat, as against the previous best time of 15.5 sec. Hearn had a easy victory in the final in 15.4 sec. R. J. B. Roach (Palmer's School, Grays) equalled the 100 yards Junior record of 10.1 sec. in winning the final of that event by two yards from the Southern champion, C. O. Holland (Short's A. C.).

J. Timmins (Tipton H.) ran a fine race to win the Junior one mile. He was always lying handy in a very bunched race, and went away at the bell with a long raking stride to open up a gap of about ten yards. Not until the last bend did D. W. Parks (Ardingly College) break through, but his sprint was too late, except to give him second place, three yards behind Timmins.

Hosei Captures Title In 8th Annual Kanto Students Riding Meet

Hosei University's team sprung a surprise by winning the championship of the eighth annual Kanto students equestrian meet at the Army Preparatory College's field Friday on the closing day of the 3-day competition.

Hosei and Waseda entered the finals by disposing of Tokyo Imperial and Meiji. Hosei triumped over Waseda in the finals, the scores being minus 294 and minus 301 respectively.

The Peers' School team won the title in the "B" division, defeating the Nihon University Medical College riders by minus 221 and minus 245 scores.

Guernsey Wins U.S. Collegiate Tennis Crown

By FRED HAWTHORNE
N.Y. Herald Tribune

HAVERFORD, Pa., July 9—Frank Guernsey jr., of Rice Institute, won the national intercollegiate singles championship this afternoon on the No. 1 clay court of the Merion Cricket Club. The little transplanted Texan (he was born, reared and learned his tennis in Florida) won in hollow style from young Morey Lewis, of Kenyon College, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0.

It required only fifty-five minutes for Guernsey to clinch his honors, the first national championship he has ever held. But this little fellow fully deserved the crown, for he won his way through a strong field headed by Joe Hunt, of Southern California, No. 5 in the national ranking; Donald McNeill, of Kenyon, No. 9 in the country's first ten, and other players nominally rated above him.

Today's match did not approach in interest or tense situations yesterday's semi-final in which Guernsey turned back Robert Harman, of California, in five desperately fought sets. But then yesterday's match was an exceptional display by both winner and loser.

Lewis Unseeded in Draw

Lewis, who was unseeded, should have few regrets, even in defeat. Not considered as having even a chance when play began last Monday, the blond and sturdy youngster, one of the tennis pupils of Bruce Barnes at Kenyon, eliminated three seeded players in his advance to the finally bracket.

Julius Heldman, No. 4; William Murphy, No. 8, and Lewis Wetherell, No. 7, all lowered their colors to Lewis.

It was another day of grilling heat when the finalists went on the court to "bat up" and a capacity gallery was in the stands on either side of the court. In one box were Joseph Wear, of Philadelphia, and Fred L. Pond, of New York. Norris Williams 2d, former Davis Cup star, and Henry W. Slocum jr., national titleholder of 1888, all members of the national association, were also noted in the stands.

The match began with Guernsey holding the service, but Lewis was off to a fine start, taking a lead of 3-0 as he broke Guernsey's service in the first and the third games.

Guernsey Calm Under Fire

Those who do not know the Rice student's ability and coolness under fire visioned Lewis as a pretty sure winner of this set. But Guernsey, playing with calm deliberation and biding his time until he had gained full control of his strokes, speeded up with the start of the fourth game, and from that point on was in complete command of the situation. Lewis, although he knew it not, was to win only two more games in the next twenty.

Guernsey, who plays with almost effortless ease and a wrist action that recalls Wallace F. Johnson, the great chopper of thirty years ago, proceed to run the sturdy Lewis ragged with a bewildering array of shots, including flat forehand drives, slow or speedy spinners off both sides and deftly executed trap shots.

The Rice No. 1 player was going for his openings with the accuracy of a sharpshooter, rarely missing the bullseye. As he increased the length and speed of his forehand drives, Guernsey moved up quickly behind these forcing shots that were continually opening up his opponent's court and finished off with brilliant low cross-court volleys that Lewis was rarely able to reach.

Lewis Is Put to Rout

Taking six of the last seven games to win the opening set at 6-4, Guernsey played even more impressively in the last two, letting Lewis down with only one game, the first and then running off twelve in a row, giving him the second set at 6-1 and the third at 6-0. In the final set Lewis, working as hard as he could, totaled only six points. As the match score indicated, the championship match was nothing less than a rout after the first three games.

Guernsey showed himself to be a most formidable player for his age. He possesses a keen tennis head and remarkably fine match-play temperament. Again today, as he did yesterday when, two sets down to the hard-fighting and hard-flitting Harman, Guernsey played his finest tennis where facing big leads of his opponent. He is most dangerous when trailing.

There are departments, of course, in which this youth still lack top-class stroke equipment, but he should be able to strengthen his game in these respects with added experience.

Service Lacks Punch

His service, while well placed and of good depth, needs to be speeded up until it develops the "punch" that it lacks now. His forehand drive will also gain in effectiveness when more finishing power is developed, but Guernsey is still at the real start of his tennis career. As he stands today, he is a "first-class fighting man" and appears destined for high achievements on the courts.

Whitcombe Wins British Open Carding A 295

By BERNARD DARWIN
British Golf Expert
N.Y. Times

SANDWICH, England, July 8.—Reginald A. Whitcombe, youngest of three great golfing brothers, won the British open golf championship today with a 72-hole score of 295. Jim Adams was second with 297 and Henry Cotton, last year's champion, third with 298. No one else finished under 300.

When it is remembered that after the first two rounds three men led at 140 and that thirty-seven players had 148 or better, these scores may give you some faint notion of what the wind was like today. It was not cold, and there was but one shower of rain, but the gusts that swept across the course were fierce.

Only big, strong, heavy men could hope to stand against the gale, and it was a perfect day for the new champion, who has a fine short, compact swing and plenty of weight to keep himself steady.

Putting Unnerves Many

Hard as the long game was under these conditions, I am not sure putting was not more devastating to the nerves, for the ball continually looked as if it would roll over, and numberless long putts which looked as if they would be stone dead crept just four or five feet past the hole. As for a five-foot putt, it was enough to turn a man's hair gray or take a year off his life.

In these circumstances, Cotton's score of 151 for the day and Whitcombe's 153, on a course of tall sand hills when the ball often must be hit high into the air, were not far short of miraculous.

Whitcombe had a great chance, for he started first of all, and it is a wonderful thing to get your blow in first. On the other hand, he had to play with one of his most dangerous competitors, Adams, who led him on the first day by one stroke. Whitcombe began with golf that would have been perfect in perfect conditions. He was 2 under 4s for eight holes.

Then he went amiably mad and took four putts on the ninth green. He turned in 36, playing splendid golf, and fought his way home in 39, with one 6 in it due to a bold attempt to carry across a bunker at the fifteenth, which gave him a horrible lie.

Burton Tied at 303

Adams could not quite go this pace, but he hung on well for his 78. Dick Burton also took a 78, finishing with a total of 303, where he was tied for fourth place by Alf Padgham, J. J. Busson and Allan Dailey.

Cotton, who had been praying for wind as his one chance of catching up, very nearly had a great round, but he played one foolish shot at the fourteenth which cost him dear. Playing a brassie from a bad lie when an iron would have done just as well, he saw his ball float miles out of bounds, and that meant a 7. In the end, I think, that killed him. After fifty-four holes, the scores were: Whitcombe 217, Burton 218, Adams 219, Padgham 221, Alf Perry 222 and Cotton 224.

Out went Whitcombe and Adams again, and what a duel they had! Whitcombe began by again taking four putts. Adams got a fine 4, and they were level. By the sixth Adams had his nose in front. By the turn, Whitcombe again led by one.

Then Whitcombe put in a grand row of 4s, and all seemed over when he was 4 up with 4 to go. Adams promptly holed a run-up for a 3 at the fifteenth and got a par 3 at the sixteenth, whereas Whitcombe, in two bunkers, took 5.

Whitcombe's lead was down to one, and he might lose after all. He rose to the occasion and got a glorious 4 against a 6 at the seventeenth, and that was that.

Everybody else seemed to be blowing up all over the course. The wind beat them all save one. Cotton, with a really heroic display of golf defied the hurricane. He was out in 35, went on 4—3—5, and was three under 4s for twelve holes

It almost seemed that he might achieve the impossible, but the task proved just too great. Three 5s followed at three long holes, and he wanted 3—4—4 to tie. At the short sixteenth, his ball hesitated, then, at the last gasp, fell into a bunker. He took 4, and knew that hope was gone, for no man could do a 3 and a 4 in the teeth of that gale. In fact, he finished in 6 and 4. It had been a great fight, even if a vain one.

U.S. Wrestlers Slated To Show In Farewell Bouts Next Tuesday

The visiting American amateur wrestlers, who are booked to sail for their homes in the Pacific coast of the United States next Thursday on the Tatsuta Maru, will appear in a farewell exhibition next Tuesday night, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium at Kanda. Sunday afternoon, beginning at 3 p.m., they will take on the Meiji University team.

The bouts for next Tuesday night follow:

Bantamweights: Hendershot (U.S.) versus Matsunouchi (Keio); Dalo (U.S.) versus Ota (Waseda).

Featherweights: Conley (U.S.) versus Michiaki (Waseda); Weede (U.S.) versus Tobari (Keio).

Lightweights: Masdeo (U.S.) versus Michiaki (Waseda).

Welterweights: Bruno (U.S.) versus Kazama (Waseda).

London Girl Cop's Diving Title For 3 Straight Years

Observer

LONDON, July 10.—Miss B. Slade, a young London girl, won the women's English Spring Board Diving championship for the third year in succession yesterday, when the diving championships of England and the International speed contests, in which English, Scottish, and Welsh swimmers took part, were concluded at the Empire Pool, Wembley.

In the 400 yards free-style women's race, Miss M. Jeffery, the Olympic swimmer, equalled the best time ever accomplished in the International series. Her time was 5 min. 14.3 sec., the same as that in which she won last year's race in Scotland. M. H. Taylor, the A. S. A. champion, was too good for his rivals in the men's 150 yards backstroke contest. He drew away after one length and won with four yards to spare.

England gained their eighth consecutive victory in the international match, totalling 34 points against the 20 of Scotland and 18 of Wales. England won nine of the ten events. F. Dove, English champion, equalled record for the meeting when he won the men's 100 yards free-style event in 54.4 sec.

INTERNATIONAL MATCH

Ladies' 400 Yards Free Style—M. K. Jeffery (Croydon) Ladies' S.C., England), 1; S. Browning (Newport S.C., Wales), 2; J. McGuffie (Southside S.C., Glasgow, Scotland), 3. 20 yards; same. Time, 5 min. 14.8 sec. (equals record).

Men's 150 Yards Back Stroke—M. H. Taylor (Sheffield B.C., England), 1; G. Huxtable (Swansea S.C., Wales), 2; E. G. Wood (Bon Accord S.C., Aberdeen, Scotland), 3 4 yards; yard. Time, 1 min. 45.8 sec.

Ladies' 200 Yards Breast Stroke—D. Sotrey (Montagu Burton S.C., England), 1; B Wilmot (Newport S.C., Wales), 2; E. Hendry (Falkirk S.C., Scotland), 3. 35 yards; 1½ yards. Time, 2 min. 46 sec.

Men's 100 Yards Free Style—F. Dove (Otter S.C., England), 1; G. Anderson (Glasgow Police, Scotland), 2; S. H. Capon (Cardiff S.C., Wales), 3. 1½ yards; foot. Time, 54.4 sec. (equals record).

Ladies' 400 Yards Medley Relay—England (L. Frampton, D. Storey, M. K. Jeffrey, and E. Gibson), 1; Scotland, 2; Wales, 3. Won by 4 yds.; 8 yds. Time, 4 min. 27.6 sec.

Result of Match—England, 34 points, 1; Scotland, 20 points, 2; Wales, 18 points, 3.

Ladies' Springboard Diving Championship (England).—B. J. Slade (London D.C. (holder), 102.53 pts., 1; E. L. Child (Plaistow United S.C.), 95.63 pts., 2; L. M. Bisbrown (Birmingham A.D.C.), 89.2 pts. 3.

Men's Highboard Diving Championship (England).—L. G. Marchant (Highgate D.C.), 103.51 pts., 1; C. D. Tomalin (R.A.F., S.A.) (holder), 102.5 pts., 2; J. Rasch (Highgate D.C.), 86.8 pts., 3.

Water-Polo Match—Great Britain (Basic Team) beat The Rest by 5 goals to none.

Osaka, Nagoya, Omiya Out Of Inter-City Play

Osaka, Nagoya and Omiya were eliminated in the final first round games of the 12th annual national inter-city baseball championship sponsored by the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokyo Nichi Nichi Friday at the Korakuen Stadium here. Ideal weather for baseball prevailed and a capacity crowd of 20,000 fans jammed the stadium.

Timely hitting won for Dairen over Osaka by a 9 to 2 score in the day's first game. The Kamaishi team from Sendai, competing for the first time in the series, ran roughshod over the Omiya team, usually a strong contender, by a 19 to 1 count. The Fujikura Electric team of Tokyo proved too powerful for Nagoya in the third game, winning by an 8 to 0 score.

In the first two games of the quarter-finals today, the Yawata team of Kyushu was scheduled to take on Kobe at 1 p.m. while Keijo was to meet the Anshan squad of Manchoukuo at 3 p.m.

Carlisle Breaks Outboard Record

GENEVA, N. Y., July 10—A world outboard motor boat record fell today as Clinton R. Ferguson of Waban, Mass., won the New York State championship.

Although Ferguson took the Governor Lehman Trophy, Lewis G. Carlisle of Geneva provided the major thrill of the two-day regatta. Carlisle established a new world mark in Class F, Division 1, when he drove his slender craft 55.419 miles per hour.

The new record exceeds by more than a mile an hour the previous mark set by Douglass C. Fonda of Orange, N. J., at Red Bank, N. J., last year.

Bedford Davie of Tuxedo Park established a new American record for outboards in competition when he drove his Class X boat 56.05 miles per hour for six and two-thirds miles. Davie won the first of a series of special races for Class X boats. The other two races will be held at Boston and Red Bank.

Ferguson piled up 2,225 points to snare the championship. Arthur J. Wullschleger of Larchmont was second with 2.069 points and James Mullen of Richmond, Va., third, with 1.894. All of the three leaders were amateur pilots. Fred G. Chase off Northampton, Mass., was the first professional with 1,669 points.

Wullschleger's high scoring gave him the Finger Lakes championship scored on a basis of points in class standings.

Miss Jacobs Back In America From Britain

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, July 18—Reluctant to speak of the incident which led to her downfall in the Wimbledon final against Mrs. Helen Wills Moody two weeks ago, Miss Helen Hull Jacobs returned from England yesterday aboard the Cunard White Star liner Georgic attempting vainly to hide the effects of her accident on the court, lest they be misconstrued as a loser's alibi.

It will be recalled that Miss Jacobs, deadlocked at 4-all with her opponent, suddenly pulled up lame and, refusing to retire or even take time out, insisted that the match go on with the result that Mrs. Moody rode roughshod over her California rival and recorded a 6-4, 6-0 victory.

The injury was described by Miss Jacobs as a torn sheaf in the Achilles tendon, which will keep her on the sidelines for at least three weeks or a month longer.

Rests With Her Doctors

"I hope to be able to resume playing before the nationals at Forest Hills and possibly will be ready by the time the Essex tournament starts. Seabright is definitely out. At any rate, my doctors will have to decide for me. I dare not risk permanent injury," she said.

Miss Jacobs was seated on a chair when approached by interviewers. Rising to greet them, she tried to walk unaided, but soon reached for a malacca cane, which she purchased for "three shillings" in London, for support. "Please don't say anything about the cane," Miss Jacobs requested. It was only after it was pointed out that the cane was "news" that she withdrew the request.

But when photographers and newsreel men asked her to pose with the walking stick she refused point-blank. "I'm sorry," she said, "but I'm afraid that wouldn't look right. Let's just forget about it." She then posed for other pictures willingly and patiently.

Miss Jacobs did touch lightly on her match against Mrs. Moody, the twelfth meeting of the pair, but refused to comment or speculate as to what would have happened were it not for the accident. "Yes," she stated, "I was absolutely satisfied with my own game at the time, but Mrs. Moody also was playing well. Of course, I'm disappointed, but not downhearted."

Ever on the Alert

Asked what words were exchanged between her and her opponent at the conclusion, Miss Jacobs replied: "I simply said 'Congratulations. I'm awfully sorry I couldn't have made a better match of it.'" Beyond that she dismissed the Wimbledon final, ever alert and cautious that nothing she said might take the form of an alibi.

Sun-tanned and apparently in fine condition, except for the pronounced limp—it's her right ankle—Miss Jacobs appeared to have added a bit of weight. "Oh, yes," she admitted, "I think I have gained a few pounds. However, that is only natural for an athlete forced into idleness. I'll get back to normal as soon as I start playing again."

That brought a question regarding the rumor that she contemplated retirement. "Definitely not," she said. "I am looking forward especially to Forest Hills and, furthermore, I think I'd like to continue for several years. My game hasn't suffered at all."

Miss Jacobs is working on a new novel. Her first was a successful work entitled "Barry Cort," which she had published under the name of H. Braton Hull so that she would receive no undue publicity because of her tennis fame. "This new story is still in a nebulous state," she remarked, "but now that I have nothing to do perhaps I'll get some work done."

Also returning on the Georgic were members of the Kent School crew, which captured the Thames Challenge Cup in the recent Henley Regatta. The party included the Rev. F. H. Still, headmaster; Evan Thomas, Chug Brothwell, Julian Simmons, Phil Wilson, Fred Reguardt, Charles Awtry and Richard Anderson. Four others remained abroad.

Oxford Defeats Cambridge Four By 8 Goals To 4

Observer

LONDON, July 10—In the annual University polo match, which was played at Hurlingham yesterday, Oxford beat Cambridge by 8 goals to 4. Of the fifty-four matches played to date Cambridge have won twenty-eight, and Oxford twenty-six.

L. S. White hit the first goal for Cambridge, and the Hon J. J. Astor also scored for Oxford in the opening chukker. There was no score in the next period, but in the third period two Cambridge goals, hit by Mr. White and Mr. Allhusen, were followed by Mr. Summers scoring for Oxford with a twenty yards free-hit for a foul. At halftime Cambridge were leading by 3—2.

In the fourth period an equalising goal was hit by Mr. Mansfield, and then, after a fine run, Mr. Astor put Oxford ahead for the first time, and hit another good goal in the same chukker. The fifth period produced two more goals, hit by Mr. Astor, and another by Mr. Summers, while the final goal of the match was made by Mr. Watt for Cambridge. Lady Astor presented the challenge cup.

Oxford—J. E. Mansfield, No. 1; the Hon. J. J. Astor, No. 2; J. D. Summers, No. 3; and the Hon. N. H. Villiers, back.

Cambridge—F. E. Allhusen, No. 1; L. S. White, No. 2; A. P. S. Wood, No. 3; and K. R. Watt, back.

The principal match at Roehampton yesterday was the second semi-final tie of high handicap tournament for the Shaw Cup. This was won by the Gauchos, who had no difficulty in conceding on handicap 4½ goals to Adsdean, whom they beat by 14 goals to 8½.

Owing to the absence in Paris of R. Loewenstein, the Gauchos had a substitute at No. 1 in young J. Traill, who played very well. For two periods the game was evenly contested, the score at the end of the second chukker being 8½ goals to 4 in favor of Adsdean. Then R. L. Cavanagh, who had been at No. 3, and the No. 2, H. H. Hughes, exchanged places, and after this the Gauchos did all the scoring. At the end of the fourth period they led by 10—8½, scored three times in the fifth chukker, and got another goal in the last period. Mr. Cavanagh hit 6 goals, Mr. Hughes 4, and Mr. J. P. Robinson hit all four of the losers' goals.

Cauchos—J. B. Traill, No. 1; H. H. Hughes, No. 2; R. L. Cavanagh, No. 3; and R. S. Santamarina, back.

Adsdean—The Hon. M. R. Samuel, No. 1; J. P. Robinson, No. 2; Capt. H. G. Morrison, No. 3; and Capt. Lord Louis Mountbatten, R. N., back.

Miss Rains Adds 2 Swim Titles

N.Y. Times

LIDO BEACH, L. I., July 10.—The 13-year-old Women's Swimming Association sensation, Miss Helene Rains, added to her imposing collection of championships by winning the metropolitan senior 220-yard breast-stroke and 440-yard free style titles today at the A. A. U. meet held in the Lido Beach Country Club's outdoor fifty-meter pool. She successfully defended her 300-meter individual medley laurels yesterday.

In taking the breast-stroke title Miss Rains finally brought an end to the seven-year reign of Miss Elsie Petri, her W. S. A. co-member, who was runner-up.

A large and enthusiastic crowd eagery awaited the duel between the 13-year-old lass and Miss Petri. At the outset Miss Rains jumped about three yards ahead of Miss Petri, while Miss Evelyn Spamer of the St. George Dragons was third. This was the order throughout. Miss Rains won by three yards in the dazzling time of 3:26.

Pitted against a field that included two champions, Miss Rains came through to a sterling triumph in the 440. With Miss Gloria Callen, metropolitan senior 880-yard ruler, and Miss Mavis Freeman, national long-distance titleholder, in the field, Miss Rains had to maintain a fast pace in the last furlong to win by five yards over Miss Callen. Miss Freeman was a close third. The victor's time was 5:56.

The two non-title tests, the 100-meter back-stroke and 100-meter free style, both handicap events, rounded out the short but exciting program. Holder of the national indoor laurels, Miss Jean Laupheimer of the St. George Dragons, who started from scratch, won the back-stroke. Miss Marguerite Holle of the W. S. A. continued her winning exploits in the free style, taking the event in 1:15.

It was announced that Mrs. Ellizabeth Kompa Wright and Miss Freeman, as well as the Misses Rains, Elizabeth Ryan and Erna Kompa, who were named yesterday, will represent the W. S. A. in the national championships at Santa Barbara, Calif., July 22-24.

The Summaries

220-Yard Metropolitan Senior Breast-Stroke Championship—Won by Miss Helene Rains, W. S. A.; Miss Elsie Petri, W. S. A. second; Miss Evleyn Spamer, St. George Dragons, third. Time—3:26.

440-Yard Metropolitan Senior Free Style Championship—Won by Miss Helen Rains, W. S. A.; Miss Gloria Callen, W. S. A., second; Miss Mavis Freeman, W. S. A., third. Time—5:56.

100-Meter Back-Stroke Handicap—Won by Miss Jean Laupheimer, St. George Dragons (scratch); Miss Constance Lang, W. S. A. (4 second), second; Mrs. Elizabeth Kompa Wright (2 seconds), third. Time—1:22.3.

100-Meter Free Style Handicap—Won by Miss Marguerite Holle, W. S. A. (6 seconds); Miss Patricia Wiseman, W. S. A. (3 seconds), second; Miss Mildred Safarik, W. S. A. (7 seconds), third. Time—1:15.

Dairen Tumbles Kawasaki, 7-5 In Inter-City Play

Dairen eliminated the strong Kawasaki Columbia team by 7 to 5 in the quarter-finals of the 12th annual national inter-city baseball championships sponsored by the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokyo Nichi Nichi Sunday afternoon at the Korakuen Stadium.

The other game between the Tokyo and Kamaishi teams was declared a no contest because of rain which halted the game in the last half of the fifth with the score standing 2 to 1 in favor of the team from Sendai. They were to play it over today.

Yawata Downs Kobe

Yawata registered itself as a strong contender for the title by overwhelming the Kobe team, 19 to 3 in the quarter-finals on Saturday. The All-Keijo nine of Chosen downed the Anshan squad from Manchoukuo by 10 to 5 in the other game on Saturday.

Despite the rain Sunday morning, an overflowing crowd estimated at 50,000 turned out for the games.

The contest between Kawasaki and Dairen was a nip and tuck affair all the way through. Kawasaki deadlocked the score at 5-all in the last half of the seventh when Terakado doubled to right center and came in on two successive flies to the outfield.

Pitcher Suzuki, who had relieved Yamasaki in the seventh for Kawasaki, pitched good ball in the eighth and ninth but Dairen pounced on him for two runs in the first half of the tenth. Yamamoto started the fireworks with a double over the right fielder's head. Pitcher Takami came through with a Texas Leaguer to center to bring in Yamamoto. Takami went to second on the throw-in. He then went to third as Dobashi grounded over to second and checked in a moment later on Shiozaki's fly to right field.

Kawasaki Retired

Kawasaki never had a chance in the last half of the tenth. Omata field out to center. Mizusawa grounded out to second and Kurozaki struck out.

The summaries follow:

		R.	H.	E.
Dairen	201 020 000 2	7	13	0
Kawasaki	021 001 100 0	5	12	2

Batteries: Takami and Sakurai; Yamasaki, Suzuki and Beniya.

Waseda Wins Another In Honolulu, Beating Wanderers By 8 To 5

Domei Tsushin

HONOLULU, Aug. 6—The Waseda University baseball team continued to make an impressive showing before local fans by walloping the strong Wanderers nine by a score of 8 to 5 this afternoon. Today's victory gives the invading collegiate nine four wins out of five games played so far.

The Waseda team will play their next game against the Asahi nine, composed entirely of Japanese, who are their hosts and who were recent winners of the Hawaii League championship.

U.S. Wrestlers Down Meiji By 4 To 0 Score

The American amateur wrestlers, who are leaving for their homes on the Tatuta Maru on Thursday, scored revenge against the Meiji University team Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine sumo arena by sweeping through all four bouts. Meiji had won in their first meeting at Nagoya.

The results of the bouts follow:

Bantamweights

Dalo (U.S.) decisioned Kurihara (Meiji).

Hendershot (U. S.) decisioned Omori (Meiji).

Featherweights

Weed (U.S.) decisioned Shimizu (Meiji).

Welterweights

Bruno (U.S.) won by fall from Kin Ko (Meiji), 4 minutes 15 seconds.

Sasebo Naval Base Wins Hatsushima To Atami Swim Race

Sasebo naval station's five-men team won the first all-Japan long distance swimming race, over a 10 kilometer distance from the island of Hatsushima to Atami, Sunday, registering the time of 3 hours 23 minutes 4 seconds. From second to fifth places were won by teams from the Yokosuka naval base.

Of the civilian teams, the Atami Young Men's Association was first to make goal in sixth place.

Twenty eight teams, including 140 swimmers, left Atami on Sunday at 4 a.m. by excursion boat for Hatsushima. The gun was fired at 9:20 a.m.

Members of the winning team were: Eiji Yamaguchi, 28; Masazumi Matsushita, 23; Soichi Motosu, 24; Harumi Kida, 21 and Masaru Kono, 20.

Amano Swims 1,500 Meters Under 19 Mins.

Tomikatsu Amano, newcomer of Nihon University, established himself as a strong threat to shatter Arne Borg's 10-year record of 19 minutes 7.2 seconds in the 1,500-meter swim when on Sunday afternoon at the Nihon University pool he negotiated the distance in the remarkable time of 18 minutes 50.2 seconds. The Japanese record for the distance is 19 minutes 8 seconds which Kusuno Kitamura, the 1932 Olympic champion, set in 1933.

Although the time will not be recognized as a new world record as it was made during practice, the indications are bright for Amano to win added laurels to Japan in the forthcoming Kanto championships.

Amano's time at the 1,000-meter mark Sunday was 12 minutes 30 seconds which shattered the world's record of 12 minutes 41.8 seconds which Hiroshi Negami of Rikkyo University had set up at the Meiji Shrine in 1934 in the Kanto championships.

At the time trials at the Rikkyo University pool the same day were two national records broken Shigeo Arai of Olympic fame swam the 400-meter freestyle in 4 minutes 44 seconds and the 200-meter freestyle in 2 minutes 10 seconds. The national records are 4 minutes 45 seconds in the 400-meter distance, held by Nagami, and 2 minutes 11.2 seconds in the 200-meter race by Masanori Yusa.

Stagehand Equals Track Mark To Cop From Fighting Fox

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, July 10— Smashing onward in an electrifying rush, Stagehand yesterday came from last place to take the $12,950 Empire City Handicap, in track record time, thus more firmly establishing his claim to the 3-year-old championship which still hangs in the balance.

Favored at 8 to 5, despite his top impost of 124 pounds, the winner of the Santa Anita Derby and Handicap passed his rivals one by one from the top of the stretch to the wire and scored going away by half a length. His time of 1:51 equaled the course mark held jointly by Dalmatian, Roamer, Yellow Hand and Top Row.

At the sixteenth pole, there still were three horses ahead of Stagehand, but Jack Westrope found a hole and through it charged the amazing son of Sickle and Stagecraft, who is the leading money-winning thoroughbred of the year. The $9,450 first money brought Stagehand's total earnings to $151,760.

Conditions Favor Rivals

Stagehand looks all over a natural router, and if any 3-year-old is to emerge as best of the division this year Maxwell Howard's principal colorbearer seems the one. Earl Sande had him trained to the minute for a race that was shorter than Stagehand's forte, but the colt spotted his seven rivals all the favorable circumstances and then drove through them like a champion.

Fighting Fox, in his return to competition since his defeats in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was second, another half length before the obscure Galapas, who made all the early pace. Thanksgiving was fourth, Mythical King fifth and then came Stormscud, who had caused such a surprise in conquering Stagehand's fleet stablemate, The Chief, at Delaware Park last Saturday. Consul and Gentle Savage were the trailers.

Another capacity crowd of more than 12,000 witnessed the seven-race program, which also saw the mile-and-a-half track record equaled as Mamas Choice finished the nightcap in 2:34 to duplicate the mark of Henry O. However, the mile-and-a-half distance is run infrequently at the Hilltop, whereas many of the best thoroughbreds in the country have shot at the mile-and-a-furlong mark and failed to change it.

Record Set In 1910

In July, 1910, Dalmatian set this record under 118 pounds. Roamer equaled it in 1918 under 128. In 1921, Yellow Hand carried 115 in the same time, and three years ago Top Row, one of the country's great handicap stars, shouldered the same 115 and was caught in the same 1.51 flat.

Germans Feared In Swim Championships At London

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON.—The biggest swim-gala here since the 1908 Olympic Games—the 1938 championships of Europe at the Empire Pool, Wembley—promises to bring the present British competitive season to a smashing climax, Aug. 6-13. At least 23 of the 28 nations affiliated with the federation which controls the sport internationally are planning to compete, and its looks as if the entries will total around 300. The most formidable contingent being expected from Germany, leader in most forms of sport on the European Continent these days.

The only people who would be ranked above the Germans for swimming are the Americans and the Japanese. And they, of course, have no part in such matters as the championships of Europe.

Now, although the general standard of swimming here is definitely below those obtaining in the United States, Japan and Germany, it is a good deal higher than it used to be. Which encourages the belief that British representatives will give a good account of themselves at Wembley. The stars and near-stars here are all training industriously right now and the composition of the national side depends upon their performances in real hard competition during the English championships at Great Yarmouth, on the east coast, July 18-21.

Water-Polo, Too

Swimming and diving are not the only items on the Wembley agenda. There is also water-polo, at which Great Britain has something of a tradition to uphold for success in international play. The British won the Olympic championship in 1908, 1912, and 1920; but the balance of sporting power has been redistributed considerably since the World War and during the last Olympic Games—at Berlin in 1936—the British could do not better than share seventh (and last) place in the final standing with the Swedes. The order of the first six was Hungary (Olympic champion in 1932 as well); Germany (Olympic champion in 1928); Belgium, France (Olympic champion in 1924); Holland and Austria. Excepting that Austria has lost its entity in sport, as in other matters, since then, this list could be taken, I think, as an accurate order of estimated merit among the nations concerned at the present time.

I am forming the opinion that Britishers are not nearly so casual about sport as they used to be. And this view is supported by the thorough manner in which raising a water-polo team for the 1938 Eurobean championship has been tackled. For the first time, a real training and coaching scheme has been put into operation early and as far back as May inter-district trials were being held to bring to light the best talent in the North and Midlands; Wales and the West; the North East and Scotland; and the South.

Then what you might term a basic team was selected and matched against the representative sides of the four areas. The whole business being calculated to ensure, not only that the best men in the country were picked, but also that they were really a team all the time.

Available Talent

Ranging an unofficial eye over the swimming talent available, I suppose one would cite M. H. Taylor, of Sheffield, as the Britisher most likely to win one of the European championships. And the one that he is thought likely to win is the backstroke race, the only event gained for Britain at the last European championships held at Madgeburg, Germany, four years ago. The man who did the trick on that occasion was J. C. P. Besford.

Taylor is only a youngster, still in his 'teens; but he has had experience of big-time racing. At the British Empire Games at Sydney, New South Wales (Australia) last February. There he took third place in the backstoke final behind P. Oliver, Australia, and G. Kerr, Canada. Since then, Taylor has put in a great deal of hard work at his event and is coming along as well as even the most exacting trainer could wish.

At the opposite end of the scale from Taylor, so far as length of experience is concerned, stands the remarkable Bob Leivers, finalist in both the 400 and 1,500 meters, freestyle, at the last Olympic Games. He and Norman Wainwright are described as the two best middle-distance swimmers Britain has ever produced. Bob did nothing to belie his share of that description, I assure you, when he won the 1,650-yard final at the Empire Games last February and took second place, behind Robert Pirie, Canada, in the quarter-mile. Wainwright also competed at Sydney—he was third in the 1,650 yards—and when the Empire Games were over he came home leisurely via the United States and has done very little serious swimming since his return to Britain.

Star Divers

For the diving contest, Britain can call on the high-board champion of the Empire, Douglas Tomalin, who also was runner-up (to R. Masters, Australia) in the springboard competition at Sydney. This young officer in the Royal Air Force is diving better now than at any previous time and there is very little to choose between him and the two renowned German aces, Herman Stork and Erhardt Weiss.

Among British women divers an outstanding personality is little Bettey Slade, rising 18 and national champion off the springboard. This season she has been giving good displays from the high-board as well.

Britain can also call upon a couple of Empire champions for the men's and women's breaststroke races. J. G. Davis and Doris Storey were victorious at Sydney, but the European championships bring to these people a special problem, the problem of the "butterfly" stroke now considered right and proper in all countries excepting England. As the European championships take place under the rules of the International Swimming Federation, the "butterfly" stroke will be permitted. But English competitors will be handicapped because they have not had the opportunity to use it in competition under the laws of the English Amateur Swimming Association.

You see, the English administrators cling tenaciously to their view that this method of propulsion through the waters is not a breaststroke within the meaning of the act. The shoulders come forward out of the water instead of through it, and the English authorities just won't tolerate that in the name of breaststroke swimming. In spite of the fact that the new style is approved in all other countries. This business of the "butterfly" is an exceedingly polemical matter. Some people here are in favor of approving the new stroke. The majorty—in the council chamber at any rate are not. One way and the other.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 7—Miss Tonny Peterson, crack Danish girl swimmer, today hung up a new record for the women's 1,000-yard freestyle event by covering the distance in 13 minutes 15.9 seconds, 7.7 seconds better than the officially-recognized mark of 13 minutes 23.6 seconds established in 1931 by Miss Helen Madison of the United States.

Schumacher Tops Vander Meer, 3-2 At Cincinnati

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, July 15.—By dint of great perseverance and no end of perspiring, the Giants today accomplished a monumental task. For though it was still insufferably hot and the Reds were even hotter, they succeeded in cooling Bill McKechnie's inspired Cincinnatians sufficiently to bag their only victory of the three-game series, 3 to 2, while a capacity crowd of 27,443 groaned in dismay.

That abruptly stopped the rampant Reds' seven-game winning streak and at the same time restored Bill Terry's suddenly devivified cast to that peculiar mathematical arrangement whereby they actually are a half game ahead of the first-place Pirates though still trailing them in the more important percentage column by 2 points.

This little matter still is too involved for the Giants to figure out, but as they steamed out of here tonight they felt satisfied they were close enough to the front runners, with whom they open a crucial four-game series in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

Homer Ends Schumacher

It was Prince Hal Schumacher against the Reds' wonder pitcher, Johnny Vander Meer, in the final struggle here, and though Prince Hal had to fade out before the end, victory nevertheless came his way. Schumie was jolted out of the game in the eighth on the wings of Ival Goodman's twenty-third homer.

That cut a two-run margin right in half. But at this point Dick Coffman hustled on the scene and saved the day to give Schumacher his ninth victory of the season against six defeats. The setback was the sensational young Vander Meer's fourth against his imposing string of eleven triumphs.

As a matter of fact, the boys really owed Schumacher something, for it was Prince Hal's bat as much as his arm that paced the Giants to victory. He singled to center in the third and two runs followed when Jimmy Ripple doubled and Bob Seeds, though he fanned the rest of the day, came through with a timely one-base blow.

Poor Running Costs Tally

The Reds got one of these back in the fourth when Harry Craft, a source of great annoyance all afternoon, singled and counted on Lew Riggs' double to left center. Cincinnati just missed getting another tally. Dick Bartell fumbled the relay on the Riggs double, putting Lew on third. But Riggs lost his chance to score when Hank Leiber's throw-in after catching Billy Myer's short fly went astray at the plate, and in the end the oversight proved costly.

In the seventh the Giants filled the bases on Vander Meer with none out, yet scored only one run on Schumacher's second single. Still, the margin was again 2 and the situation looked well in hand until Goodman unloaded his homer in the eighth.

Frank McCormick followed with a single and Coffman was rushed to the mound. Ernie Lombardi greeted him with another single, but a this point Fireman Dick put on real pressure and the Red uprising was quickly subdued.

265 At Princeton, Including Konoye, Receive Insignia

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., July 10—Princeton University has honored 265 with Spring sports insignia, according to an announcement today by R. Kenneth Fairman, '34, graduate manager of athletics. The awards went to twenty-one teams in seven branches of sport.

Varsity participants in the Spring program received 121 of the awards, jayvee representatives 51 and freshmen 93. Emblems went to 242 athletes, awards to student managers completing the total.

Sixty-four six-inch major P's were given to members of varsity squads in baseball, rowing, golf, tennis and track. Twenty-seven four-inch P's were granted in golf, lacrosse, polo and tennis.

Recognition for Golfers

Princeton's success in Spring athletic competition found major letters going to golf and tennis players for their championship seasons. Six golfers, who won the Eastern Intercollegiate Association title for Princeton and ten courtmen, undefeated but tied once, were honored.

Twenty-six members of the Orange and Black track squad, without loss against twelve opponents, twelve baseball players, whose '577 record for the season was the best for Princeton nine in more than a decade, and ten crew men shared in the varsity recognition.

Four-inch letters were awarded to nineteen members of the varsity lacrosse team, six members of the varsity polo team, one varsity golfer and one varsity tennis player. Twenty-one oarsmen on the Tiger junior varsity and 150-pound varsity crews gained insignia.

Jayvees Athletes Rewarded

Three-inch class numerals went to twenty-six junior varsity athletes and fifty-five freshmen. Nine on the unbeaten '41 tennis team won large numerals for their championship season. The nineteen cub trackmen given major numerals also were undefeated. Forty-nine other jayvee and freshmen players received two-inch numerals.

Bruno Meets Lehman Tonight In Farewell Bouts Of U.S. Team

Amateur wrestling fans will have a rare treat tonight at the Y M. C. A. gymnasium at Kanda for Helmut Lehman, visiting German grappler who last week won the national title in the middleweight division at the Hibiya Park amphitheater, will take on Emilio Bruno, welterweight champion of the United States, in one of the farewell exhibition matches held in honor of the American team which leaves Yokohama aboard the Tatuta Maru on Thursday.

It will be a case of American versus European technique in the bout between Brunuo and Lehman. Hendershot, Dalo, Conley, Weede and Masdeo of the American team will compete.

The first bout is scheduled to start at 6 o'clock.

Dizzy Dean Beats Bees, 3 To 1, In Brilliant Return

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, July 17—The one and only Dizzy Dean—and the rest of the Chicago Cubs—came through in spectacular style today.

At the crossroads of his career, the pitcher for whom the Cubs paid $185,000 and three players, and who had been nursing a sore arm since May 3, went to the mound and hurled a brilliant four-hit game to whip the Bees, 3 to 1, in the opener of a double bill.

In the nightcap Chicago won, 4 to 0, behind Bill Lee's five-hit hurling for its sixth straight victory in four days and measurably brightened its pennant hopes, which only recently had been fading.

The Cubs went into third place, replacing the Reds, who lost a double-header to the Dodgers.

Seven Blows Off Turner

Old Diz beat Jim Turner, one of Boston's "old men," in a fine duel, Turner allowing but seven safeties.

In his first appearance on the hill in more than two months Diz did a neat job of quieting reports that his arm was "gone"—reports which apparently had something to do with Dean voicing a recent but now-forgotten threat to sue the club which sold him, the St. Louis Cardinals, on the grounds he was overworked last Summer.

A throng of 35,623 packed Wrigley Field for the double program and from the first pitch of the opener it was Dizzy's show.

Grinning cockily, as he did in the days when he ranked as one of the game's greatest flingers, Dean received applause every time he came out of the dugout. As he finished a performance which stamped him as fully ready to pitch regularly, the great one received a tremendous ovation.

Hop on the Fast Ball

He used his fast ball fairly often and it had lots of "hop." His marvelous control and sharp-breaking curves had the Bees swing helplessly most of the way. He walked no men, fanned three and was ahead of the hitters consistently. After the game he said his arm felt good.

Dean felt a slight twitch of pain, he said, on the fast ball with which he fanned Pinch-Hitter Maggert in the ninth. The other Bees who went down on strikeouts were Vince Di Maggio and Gil English, both victims of curves.

Diz retired the first fourteen men in order. The fifteenth Bee hitter, Elbie Fletcher, tripled with two out in the fifth. His drive down the first base line, the first Bee safety, struck the bull pen bench and he was allowed to take third only after a protest by the Bees, Umpire Ziggy Sears first holding him at second.

Diz apparently grew a little careless with the next batter, Ray Mueller, and he slammed the first pitch for a double to score the lone Boston run. Rabbit Warstler ended the inning by grounding out.

The Cubs scored one run in their half of the fifth to knot the count, then put the game on ice in the seventh as Frank Demaree doubled, Collins tripled, and Phil Cavarretta scored Collins with a long fly.

Dean made exactly 100 pitches and hurled to thirty-one batters in achieving his fourth triumph of the season in five appearances on the hill. On May 3 he beat Philadelphia but retired after seven innings with a tired arm. Since then he has been regularly visiting doctors who could not ascertain what Diz had to find out today for himself—that his arm, even with some soreness, still can throw a baseball fairly well.

Olympic Stars In Kanto Swim Races Wednesday

The Kanto swimming championships, serving as the Kanto tryouts for the national championships to be held at the Koshien pool during the middle of this month, are slated for Wednesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine pool, beginning at 2 p.m.

Keenest attention is centered on the men's 1,500-meter race for the reason that Tomikatsu Amano, newcomer of Rikkyo University, is considered to have a chance of shattering Arne Borg's 10-year standing world's record. In trials Sunday at the Nihon University pool, he negotiated the distance in the remarkable time of 18 minutes 50.2 seconds, as compared with Borg's record of 19 minutes 7.2 seconds.

Competing will be a number of Olympic stars that shone at the Berlin Games in 1936. They are Tetsuo Hamuro of Nihon University, world record holder in the 200-meter breaststroke, Shigeo Arai, Rikkyo University sprinter, and Masanori Yusa of the Nihon University O. B. team.

The time schedule follows:

2:00 p.m.—Men's 400-meter freestyle, finals.
2:15 p.m.—Men's 200-meter breaststroke, finals.
2:25 p.m.—Women's 200-meter breaststroke, finals.
2:35 p.m.—Men's 100-meter freestyle, finals.
2:45 p.m.—Women's 400-meter freestyle, finals.
3:00 p.m.—Men's 50-meter backstroke, finals.
3:10 p.m.—Women's 50-meter backstroke, finals.
3:20 p.m.—Men's 1,500-meter freestyle, finals.
3:45 p.m.—Women's 100-meter freestyle, finals.
3:55 p.m.—Men's 100-meter breaststroke, finals.
4:05 p.m.—Women's 100-meter breaststroke, finals.
4:15 p.m.—Men's 200-meter freestyle, finals.
4:25 p.m.—Women's 100-meter freestyle, finals.
4:35 p.m.—Men's 100-meter backstroke, finals.
4:45 p.m.—Women's 200-meter freestyle, finals.

11-YEAR OLD WORLD SWIM RECORD SHATTERED

Splashing His Way

Tomikatsu Amano swimming his way to establish a new record.

Amano Breaks Arne Borg's Mark In 1,500 Meters

Tomikatsu Amano, Nihon University aquatic star, in the final of the 1,500-meter free style event of the Kanto Swimming Championships and a preliminary meet of the All Japan Championships held at the Meiji Jingu swimming pool at 2 p.m. Wednesday registered a new world record time of 18 minutes and 58.8 seconds, clipping 8.4 seconds off the present world record of 19 minutes and 7.2 seconds established by Arne Borg of Sweden in 1927.

Defeating his three opponents by a wide margin, Amano finished the first 500 meters in a new record time of 6 minutes and 9/, seconds and the first 1,000 meters in also a new record time of 12 minutes and 33.8 seconds. The present world record for the first 500 meters is held by Arne Borg who negotiated the distance in 6 minutes and 1.2 seconds while that of the first 1,000 meters is held by Negami of Japan who covered the distance in 12 minutes and 1.8 seconds.

In another outstanding event of the day, the finals of the 200-meter men's free style, Shigeo Arai of St. Paul University won the event with a brilliant record of 2 minutes and 9.6 seconds, a new 200-meter world and Japanese record for a 50-meter pool. The present Japanese 50-meter pool record in the 200-meter event is 2 minutes 11.2 seconds made by Norimasa Yusa, former Olympic swimming ace.

Tomikatsu Amano who broke Arne Borg's 11-year-old record in the 1,500-meter free style Wednesday afternoon, is a freshman at the Nihon University and made an amazing record of 18 minutes and 50.2 seconds during his practice here last week.

The new world record holder is about five feet four inches in height weighing around 130 pounds and became known as a hopeful distance swimmer when he defeated Jack Medica in the 1,500-meter event in the 1937 Japan-America Swimming Championship meet placing fourth as a middle school student from the Kurata Middle School in Kyushu.

The following table shows the splendid world record in the making:

Olympic Technical Adviser Received By Prince Chichibu

His Imperial Highness Prince Chichibu received the German technical adviser to the cancelled Tokyo Olympic Games, Werner Klingeberg, in audience at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday upon the latter's departure for Germany, it was announced.

Mr. Klingeberg was accompanied by Dr. Matsuzo Nagai, Count Michimasa Soyeshima and Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura.

It was also disclosed that H.I.H. Prince Chichibu expressed deep regret for the cancellation of the 1940 Olympic Games.

Baer May Fight Joe Louis At '39 Frisco Fair

NEW YORK.—Joe Louis vs. Max Baer at the San Francisco 1939 World Fair!

That bout, the promotion of which will be undertaken by Mike Jacobs if the Coast proposition meets his demands, will bring together once more the two most talked about heavyweights since a fellow named Dempsey was knocking over all opposition.

That Baer is easily the most colorful figure to stroll along Cauliflower Boulevard since the Manassa Mauler cannot be contested. Sports writers will tell you that. At one of the get-togethers in New York just prior to the Louis-Schmeling fight, boxing writers from all over the nation were herded together in a room. Someone asked:

"If a train were coming in, and you needed a story badly, who, above everyone else, would you rather see step onto the platform?"

The almost unanimous answer was "Baer." The reason, I think, is that the fellow talks such a good fight. He will, if you listen to him long enough, convince you that Louis will be taking his life in his hands if he steps through the ropes against the Livermore Lothario.

I am not too sure that, given ten minutes alone in a room, he couldn't convince Louis, himself. He has great routines of patter, to use the old vaudeville argot. He has one routine which goes something like this:

"I've got to win this one for my kid. I don't want him to grow up and feel that his old man let him down. That's . . . etc."

Routine number two: "I'm the head of the familiy now, and the only way I can keep bringing that bread in is to beat Louis. I know how to fight him now. You see . . . etc"

Don't get the impression from that that we doubt Baer's sincerity. He believes in his own mind that he will belt Louis out in jig time. He can hit as hard with a right hand as Louis. That opinion comes from Max Schmeling, who has tasted both Mary Anns, and who should know. He (Baer) can take a punch as well as anyone, if he is in the mood. Louis is authority for that statement. Joe claims that he hit Baer harder punches in their late, lamented bout than he ever hit anyone before or since.

What then, you ask, can possibly stop Max from winning? The answer lies in Baer's mind. Not that anyone can question Baer's courage. No man who walks down the aisle into a prize ring can be lacking in courage. It takes something to climb through those ropes. But Max has too much imagination for a fighter. From the time the contracts are signed until the bell clangs at the start of the first round, Baer will be mentally fighting the battle in his craw. By the time the fight roles around, Max will have built Louis up into an ogre again, and if Louis should start punching at the bell, as he did against Schmeling, Baer might once again shake his head when the referee asks whether he wants anymore of the Saffron Slugger.

It should be one of the most lavishly discussed bouts in recent years, and if Mike Jacobs closes the thing with the Frisco folks next week when he travels to the Coast on his vacation, prepare yourself for such a ballyhoo as you have never seen before. This is what the boys call a natural.

It will be the first heavyweight championship fight for the Coast since the turn of the century. They waited a long time, but when they got one, they got a pip!

U.S. Wrestlers Invite Japanese For Bouts In Fall

Announcement was made Wednesday afternoon by L. R. Ardouin, manager of the visiting American wrestling team, that the American Amateur Wrestling Association will invite a group of Japanese wrestlers including one manager and six grapplers in the middle part of November this year for three months. The American wrestling team manager also disclosed his admiration for the wonderful advancement of wrestling in Japan within a short space of time.

The team is sailing for the United States this afternoon from Yokohama aboard the Tatsuta Maru. A farewell party was held at Koraku, Akasaka, Wednesday night.

The Japanese Amateur Wrestling Association immediately accepted the invitation and the selection of the wrestlers will soon be made, it was meanwhile revealed.

It is understood that the Japanese wrestlers will visit Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and the Pacific states to hold approximately 20 tournaments.

Ichiro Hatta is likely to be appointed manager of the Japanese team from his previous experiences in this field of sport as well as in America.

Eiichi Kazama, 22-year student of Waseda University and Hideichi Yoshioka, 24-year old student of Meiji University are the prospective candidates to join the Japanese team to America. They were both in the Japanese Olympic wrestling team to Berlin.

The Pan-Pacific Free-style Wrestling Championship will be promoted by America and Japan for the nations surrounding the Pacific Ocean, it was reliably learned.

The proposed championship will be held at Tokyo in 1941 inviting Canada, Hawaii, Philippine Commonwealth, Australia, China and Manchoukuo besides Japan and America.

Pirates And Yanks Are Leading In Major Leagues

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—The Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees, respective leaders of the National and American loops, had lengthened their leads as the 17th week of major league baseball got under way yesterday.

The high-stepping Pirates stretched their lead to 6½ games by winning 10 and dropping only 6 during the past fortnight, while the second-place New York Giants were apparently still unable to shake off their slump, losing 10 games and winning only 5.

Meanwhile the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, who have been battling neck-and-neck for third place, are tied with an equal number of wins and losses, pressing closely on the heels of the stumbling Giants, who have only a 1½-game lead.

In the American League, the devastating Yankees, 1937 World Series winners, obtained a firmer stranglehold on the lead by blasting out 13 wins and dropping only 3 games during the past two weeks. The Cleveland Indians meanwhile stayed in second place despite hot pursuit by the third-place Boston Red Sox.

The Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Browns continued to hold undisputed cellar posts in their respective leagues.

The standings of the teams, including today's games, are as follows:

National League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Pittsburgh (Pirates)	61	35	.635
New York (Giants)	56	43	.566
Cincinnati (Reds)	54	44	.551

Hubbell Trims Pirates

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, July 17—Flanked and hemmed in by a hostile, roaring crowd, the largest baseball gathering this seething metropolis has ever seen during a championship season, the Giants today missed by a whisker of completing two heroic strides that tonight would have put them back at the top of the National League's torrid pennant race.

With Carl Hubbell outpitching Jim Tobin in a blistering mound duel, Bill Terry's champions downed the Pirates in the opener of the day's double-header, 2 to 1, a double by Johnny McCarthy and a single by Gus Mancuso deciding this struggle in the ninth inning.

But in the nightcap, with a milling mob of 43,241 storming all over the playing field and tossing pop bottles whenever fancy pleased them, a second victory slipped out of the Giants' grasp as the Corsairs wrenched two tallies from Relief Pitchers Cliff Melton and Walter Brown to deadlock the score in the ninth.

7 O'clock Law Enforced

A few minutes later Pittsburgh's 7 o'clock Sunday curfew closed down on the strange scene to end the battle with the score 7—all.

To miss this one came as a bitter blow to the Terry forces, who, while in the process of routing Russ Bauers, sent six runs scurrying across in the seventh. Four of these rode in on Mel Ott's twentieth homer of the campaign, a shot with the bases full. A moment later Hank Leiber greeted Mace Brown with another circuit blow, his tenth of the year.

Despite that frustration at the finish, the Giants tonight had the satisfaction of bringing themselves virtually on even terms with Pie Traynor's Buccos. They still are a couple of points behind the Pirates in the percentage column, but actually are half a game in front again.

The final game of the current series will be played tomorrow. Today's tie will be played off as part of a double-header on the Giants' next visit.

Exceeded by World Series

Only once has Pittsburgh ever seen a larger baseball crowd than today's. That was in the 1925 world series when, with the help of temporary bleachers in right field, 43,810 saw the Pirates battle the Senators, but today, with no temporary bleachers about, the crowd, which packed the arena beyond its capacity two hours before the first game, simply swarmed all around the outfield.

It remained orderly enough during the opening game, in which Hubbell spun a masterpiece to hang up his tenth victory of the year against six defeats. But in the nightcap it virtually made a travesty of the contest as it charged out to compete with outfielders for batted balls and converted singles into ground-rule doubles.

Terry and Traynor sent a total of seven pitchers to the mound while the crowd, disgruntled because Umpire Larry Goetz saw fit to bounce Johnny Rizzo out of the game, sprayed the field with bottles that held up all other action for several minutes in the seventh.

Castleman Through in Sixth

Clydell Castleman opposed Bauers at the outset of this stormy nightcap and was the first driven to the showers when, with the score 1-all, the Buccos rushed him for three runs in the sixth with the help of a Rizzo double and a single by Pep Young when the bases were full.

But in the seventh the Giants swept back into the lead with their cluster of six, which they started by filling the bases on a pair of singles by Alex Kampouris and Pinch-Hitter Sam Leslie and a confusing play by Lee Handley on Dick Barttell's sharp grounder.

A fly by Jimmy Ripple drove in one. Came a pass to Bob Seeds, to fill the bases again, and Ott emptied them with a soaring shot into the upper right tier. Then, as Mace Brown replaced Bauers, Leiber unloaded his homer over the left-field fence.

The outburst seemed to have the issue settled, but Melton, who had entered the game in the seventh after Leslie had hit for Dick Coffman, started wavering in the eighth and gave up one run on Arky Vaughan's double.

Crowd Stretches Single

Al Todd opened the ninth with a double into the crowd in right. Bill Brubaker, pinch hitting, smacked what might have been only a single to left, but the crowd cut in on the ball ahead of Seeds and made that a double. Walter Brown replaced Melton and retired the next two. But he walked Paul Waner, and a line single to right by Gus Suhr drove Brubaker in with the tying run.

After that there was time only to retire two Giants in the first half of the tenth and the umpires had to call the game.

All the excitement of the opener crowded itself into the ninth, which Mancuso first won, then almost lost in the same round. The Giants had yanked one run from Tobin in the first inning and it was not until the sixth that the Pirates drew even on Hubbell when Handley doubled and scored on long flies by the two Waners.

There were two down in the ninth when McCarthy smacked a double against the screening in front of the lower right stand and scored on Mancuso's single to left to give the Giants a 2-1 lead.

But there were some harrowing moments in the last of the ninth when, also with two out, Todd singled and went to second on Young's single. Then, while Hub was pitching to Tobin, Mancuso let a passed ball scoot through him.

The ball banged off the stand while Woody Jensen, running for Todd, rounded third and headed for home. But Hubbell reached the plate first, sprawled all over it as he received Mancuso's throw, and fittingly enough, tagged Jensen to complete the final putout himself.

Tornado Specialist Never Saw A Tornado

Mr. Flora says: "It is a fact that I have the greatest collection of tornado cloud pictures that is to be found anywhere else in the world. I have hundreds of different views of these peculiar funnel-shaped, or elephant-trunk-shaped, clouds in my collection at the Weather Bureau Office in Topeka, where I am the Government Meteorologist. It is also a fact that, while I have lived in Kansas for 33 years and have been collecting these tornado cloud pictures for 25 years, I have never seen a tornado myself. Several have appeared near Topeka in the past 15 years and have been visible from my office window but it has happened I have been too much occupied with other matters to look out while they were in view."

Japan-Australia Cup Matches Postponed

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, Aug. 11—The first day singles matches of the final round of American zone Davis Cup competitions between Japan and Australia, scheduled to be played here this afternoon at the Mount Royal Club courts, were postponed at the last minute until tomorrow afternoon because of heavy rains.

Fumiteru Nakano, Japan's No. 2 player, will meet Adrian K. Quist in the opening match at 2:15 p.m., while Jiro Yamagishi, foremost Japanese star, will face John E. Bromwich in the second and what is regarded to be the crucial match of the series.

To Meet Bromwich

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, Aug. 10—Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's foremost amateur, will meet John E. Bromwich, Australia's No. 1 net star, and Fumiteru Nakano, Japan's No. 2 player, will be matched against Adrian K. Quist, second ranking star of Australia, in tomorrow's crucial opening singles matches of the final round of the American Zone Davis Cup competitions, it was announced here today.

Pairings for Friday's doubles play will not be announced until tomorrow morning, but in the remaining singles matches on Saturday Yamagishi is booked to face Quist, while Nakano will battle Bromwich.

Captain Abe Comments

Commenting upon Japan's chances to beat Australia for the right to meet Germany, winner of the European zone finals, Tamin Abe, non-playing captain of the Japanese squad, declared that if Nakano should succeed in beating Quist tomorrow, Japan's hopes of reaching the challenge round would be materially strengthened.

The Japanese team, he added, has become accustomed to the local courts, and even if Yamagishi may not be in his best form, the Japanese team is fully capable of putting up a good fight against the Australians.

Yamagishi Satisfied

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, Aug. 9—Working out for the first time this morning with his colleagues after having undergone successful treatment at the General Hospital here for a blister on the middle finger of his right hand, Jiro Yamagishi, foremost Japanese Davis Cup player, today declared that his condition was "satisfactory" and that he was confident Japan had excellent chances to win in the final round of the American zone competition to be played here on August 11, 12 and 13 against Australia.

Other members of the Japanese Davis Cup team were all reported to be in fine shape, particularly Fumiteru Nakano, who was said to be in excellent condition. His playing was described as "much more accurate."

The Australian stars, meanwhile, continued to train in a "leisurely" manner. John E. Bromwich and Adrian K. Quist, No. 1 and No. 2 players respectively, will in all likelihood participate in both the singles and doubles matches, some local newspapers opined, but others predicted that Harry C. Hopman may substitute for Quist in the doubles.

Officials meanwhile decided to announce the drawings for the singles matches at 11 a.m. tomorrow and for the doubles at the same time on Thursday.

Two World Marks Broken In Regatta

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., July 16—Two record-breaking performances and two spectacular spills marked the close of the Havre de Grace Yacht Club's ninth annual regatta on the Susquehanna River today.

Frank Dobson of Annapolis and A. N. Kerr of Yonkers, N. Y., established new world marks as some of the East's outstanding speed-boat pilots vied in tests of speed and skill that kept the Susquehanna's broad surface churned into a frothy speedway.

Dobson, who set two new marks yesterday, pushed his big Class J Watersprite to another record, hitting 42.056 miles an hour over the mark of 40.891 M. P. H. he established yesterday.

Betters Lofland's Mark

Kerr established a new speed of 41.939 miles an hour for 91-cubic-inch hydroplanes, bettering the old mark of 41.744 miles per hour set here last year by Earl Lofland of Wilmington, Del.

Hard luck entries of the day were Harry Eckloff and his sister, Alice, of Baltimore, Eckloff's big Pep IV took a bad spill in the second race, dumping the Eckloffs into the water as it leaned high into the air and sped away driverless.

Coast Guardsmen patrolling the regatta on the cutter Calypso rescued the Eckloffs and the boat and, after making minor repairs, the couple came back to win the last event for unlimited runabouts.

W. Dyer, Washington sportsman, also took a bad spill. His light speed boat left the surface of the water and did a flip-flop as Dyer led a fast field down the straightaway in front of the committee boat. He was picked up uninjured.

Cannon a High Scorer

Among high scorers at the two-day regatta were Frank Muzzey Jr. of Philadelphia, Julius Schloss of Baltimore, George C. Cannon of Rockledge, Fla., and Byron Rustle of North Long Branch, N. J.

Rustle won the Maryland State championship for 135-cubic inch hydroplanes, then came back to take the event for 151-cubic inch hydroplanes.

Cannon took the five-mile event or 220-cubic inch runabouts, and Muzzey beat Dobson in the final heat of the Class J event.

No official mark for Class J boats, those having a displacement of 1,025 cubic inches, had existed until the event was run yesterday, when Dobson established the mark of 40.891 miles per hour. He bettered that with 42.056 miles per hour today, but Muzzey had an even better speed of 43.478 miles per hour. Muzzey's speed was not recognized as a record, however, because his boat did not meet the requirements of the class.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 16—Fully sustaining the role of giant killer which he had assumed when he defeated in succession Jug McSpaden, Ray Mangrum, Horton Smith and Henry Picard, little Paul Runyan, of the Metropolis Golf Club, White Plains, N. Y., bowled over Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., 8 and 7, to capture the Professional Golfers' Association championship today at the Shawnee Country Club.

The margin was the largest ever registered in the final since the national professional championship was launched back in 1916. Runyan, who was champion of the P. G. A. back in 1934, gave probably the greatest exhibition of shot control that a final of the match play links classic ever has witnessed. He allowed Snead to win only one hole in the entire twenty-nine.

Snead in Front Off Tee

Snead from the tee usually was from twenty to fifty yards in front of Runyan. When two shots had to be strung Snead was out sometimes as far as 100 yards in front. To Runyan this meant little or nothing. The little fellow hit a No. 4 wood almost as accurately as his opponent could pitch a No. 4 iron hit. As far as the seventh Runyan left the fairway only once. He had hooked ever so slightly at the eighth in the morning round and landed on a mound. He had to play safe. With his third, a No. 9 iron, the Metropolis pro laid his ball within little more than a yard of the cup and holed for a par 4, halving the hole.

Again in the afternoon when Runyan left the fairway at the seventh he merely sped another poisoned dart into the suffering Slammin' Sammy, who appeared to be on the verge of a rally at this point, having scored his first success at the previous hole, when Runyan missed a putt of about four feet. With two of the best shots he has hit at the hole all week long Snead was away down in front of the bunker guarding the 567-yard seventh.

Having struck his brassie second into the rough, Runyan was away behind. The rough caught Runyan's club and sent his third shot spinning far to the right, and he had to play from the rough again. Pitching to within twenty-five feet of the cup, he holed for a par half.

Runyan's Putts Upset Foe

That was merely a sample of what Runyan had been sending out to Snead all day long. For a few holes in the morning Snead appeared to have an edge on the shot for the pin. The situation changed presently and after that it was usually Runyan who was the closer on the second shot. When Snead appeared to have the situation under control he was likely to find himself jolted by one of Runyan's unerring putts.

Runyan started his charge at the third hole in the morning when he approached stone dead from a bunker. Snead had gone over the green into a trap. Fighting back at the fourth, Snead laid his second shot within six feet of the cup after Runyan landed one within twenty feet. Presently Sam found himself requiring that putt for a half.

Even a stymie at the short fifth did not stop Runyan. The White Plains pro deliberated long over that problem. Then he took his niblick and with dexterous flick of the wrists lofted the ball into the cup. That was the handwriting on the wall. Runyan was not be stopped even by stymies. He was out in 35 for a lead of 2 up and when he came back in 32 he had added three holes more to his lead and was five under par for the round.

On the sixth with Snead on in two Runyan chipped from the rough and holed an eight-foot putt for a half. They halved the long seventh in par. At the eighth Runyan made his brilliant recovery for a half after hooking to the mounds. The ninth Runyan played safe for a par 4. He won the hole for Snead first hooked to the rough then landed his second in a bunker, missing a seven-foot putt after a new recovery.

Snead had his chance at the tenth but passed it up through a bad No. 5 iron shot. Although short of the green with a No. 2 wood, Runyan putted out a half.

Runyan Presses Attack

At this point the champion-to-be put on another attack. He had to use a No. 4 while his opponent was playing a No. 8 at the eleventh but he laid the ball less than a yard away and holed after Snead had failed to sink a twenty-footer. At the punch bowl twelfth Runyan sank a seven-foot putt for his second successive birdie.

They halved the next two but Runyan captured the fifteenth when Snead three-putted from twenty-five feet. The sixteenth and eighteenth the finalists played for par halves. The seventeenth went in a birdie half. Here the shots to the green were made with a No. 4 wood against a No. 2 iron.

Hopes of a Snead rally were blasted when Runyan ran down a fifteen-foot putt to capture the second hole of the afternoon round. Runyan played a No. 6 iron, Snead a No. 8. But Sammy was twice as far from the cup as his opponent.

Six holes to the good Runyan proceeded to heap coals of fire upon the head of the celebrated long driver from White Sulphur. Sam went off into the rough from the tee, played his next into a bunker then exploded out brilliantly to within four and a half feet of the cup. Runyan split the fairway with two woods and chipped his third six feet past the cup.

Runyan holed and Snead missed whereupon the banner carrier changed the sign announcing to the gallery that the 2-to-1 favorite was 7 down.

The fourth and fifth were halved and the players drove from the hill top again turning toward the sixth green down by the Delaware where vacationists were gliding in canoes oblivious to the anguish of one Samuel Jackson Snead.

Both split the fairway this time Snead reached the green with a No. 5 iron whereas Runyan with a No. 4 wood and a gentle favoring wind went over into short rough. As the pin was placed well to the back of the green an over approach did not appear to be dangerous. Runyan came out in royal style to within little more than a club's length from the cup.

Then to the general dismay he missed. It was virtually the only real slip he had made on the greens all day.

Then came the eighth in which with that long putt for a half after a tour through the rough Runyan figuratively knocked Snead against the ropes. The eighth of 434 yards brought the knockout punch, for Runyan slammed his second to within four feet of the cup. Thirty yards closer to the hole, Snead could not match this stroke. In fact, he no more than made the edge of the green on the right. Sam chipped up close, but it was too late. Runyan had his birdie and was 7 up again.

Snead pushed his drive to the rough at the ninth. He was on to within twelve feet of the cup, Runyan within seven feet. They halved in 4. On the tenth Snead hooked into the rough, missed his second, then played a brassie down near the green. With two straight shots to build on Runyan chipped within twelve feet and holed for a birdie 4.

A spectator stepped on Snead's ball at the eleventh, which proved to be the last hole of the match. "What's the matter?" grinned Sam to George Jacobus, P. G. A. president, who was acting as referee. "Are they afraid I might win this match?"

Snead was given a free lift. With a No. 7 iron he landed his ball within seven feet of the cup. There was a possibility that the match, now dormie, would continue. But Snead could not make it. He missed the putt after Runyan had run up close from twenty feet away.

Mayehata Pool Opening Sees Noted Mermaid In Action

Domei Tsushin

WAKAYAMA, Aug.—On the occasion of the second anniversary of the victory of Mrs. Hideko Mayehata Hyodo in the 200-meter breaststroke event at Berlin, a swimming pool was dedicated today in her honor at Hashimoto-machi.

Mrs. Hyodo swam across the pool in graceful style at the opening ceremony while Miss Kazuye Kojima, another Olympic swimmer from the same town joined the ceremony.

Mr. Kasai, announcer of JOAK, who sent a dramatic broadcast from Berlin two years before today, was also a guest of honor. More than 1,000 people were present.

Football Giants Sign Garland And Grimstead

When the New York Football Giants go into training, shortly for the All-Star game at the Polo Grounds on September 7, they should be able to generate tremendous power in the tackle positions, according to the New York Herald Tribune. John V. Mara, president, announced recently that two more new tackles had been signed, bringing the total number to nine—of which four are veterans and five are "sophomores."

Bob Grimstead, of Washington State, and Tubby Garland, of Catawba, are the latest to fall into line. Grimstead is a 218-pounder who was the outstanding lineman in the East-West game last New Year's Day.

Garland weighs 225 and played at guard and end as well as tackle at Catawba. He was rated for two years on the "Little All-America" and last fall played with Paterson, Syracuse and Wilmington.

May Shift to Guard

Frank Copa, of Santa Clara; John Mellus, of Villanova, and Jim Moffit, of Manhattan, are the other new tackles who will battle Ed Widseth, Ox Parry, Gerry Dennerlein, Jack Haden and Len Grant, the veterans, for posts on the squad. Steve Owen, coach, will probably try a couple of the newcomes at guard, where the material is not so plentiful, although four veterans—John Dell Isola, Tarzan White, Kayo Lunday and Pete Cole—are under contract to report on August 15.

The Brooklyn Football Dodgers will have more "all-star" recruits than any team in the National Football League, according to Potsy Clark, coach, who is busy trying to line up new material for the revamping process he expects to put into operation when the Dodgers report in Farmingdale on August 27. More than fifteen college graduates of the 1938 class will report after participating as members of various all-star teams in different sections of the country.

Druze, Barberi Signed

The Dodgers will probably have at least four Eastern All-Stars playing against the New York Giants in the Polo Grounds on September 7 and maybe more, depending upon invitations being considered by Andy Kerr, of Colgate, who is to tutor the All-Stars. John Druze, Fordham captain last year, and Andy Barberi, of N. Y. U. are under contract to Brooklyn and are also being considered for All-Star posts. Boyd Brumbaugh, husky Duquesne halfback, will also be one of the outstanding figures for this collegiate aggregation.

Myron Sterngold, husky tackle from Lehigh, who lives in Lawrence, L. I., is among those expected to play against the Philadelphia Eagles in an August all-star engagement in Temple Stadium. Leo Disend, of Albright, and John Earle, of Villanova, are also to play in the Philadelphia game.

Five or more players are expected from the Chicago all-star squad which will oppose the champion Washington Redskins.

The Dodgers offered renewals to only about a dozen veteran players and two have been returned signed, giving the Brooklyn club five veterans in line. Tony Kaska, blocking back from Illinois Wesleyan, forwarded his contract from Johnson City, Ill., where he is honeymooning. Norman (Red) Cooper, center from Howard College, forwarded his agreement from his home in Rogersville, Ala.

Traynor Men Boost League Lead, Routing Melton

By ARTHUR E. PATTERSON

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PITTSBURGH, July 16—The Giants are working on a non-profit basis this trip everywhere but at the gate. They are drawing the crowds but the crowds are drawing considerable pleasure out of watching the home teams trounce the champions. Businessman though he is, Bill Terry is deriving no joy from this procedure.

Today it was a Pittsburgh assemblage of 15,197 pennant-mad fans that raucously acclaimed a 7-to-3 licking administered by Pie Traynor's no longer meek Corsairs. It was the sixth triumph for the Pirates in their last seven meetings with the defending champions and the third victory of the year scored over them by the rookie, Bob Klinger, who has won eight and lost one this season.

In his seventh straight winning performance the former link in the Cardinal chain handcuffed the lordly Giants, holding them to one run until the ninth and thoroughly outpitching Cliff Melton, Bill Lohrman and Walter Brown.

Pirates Boost Lead

The result placed the Giants a half game behind the Pirates again and the Buccaneers hold a three-game margin on the vital losing side.

Traynor never has been noted as an orator, but it would seem he has picked up a new power this season. Before the game he was commenting upon his team's downfall against the second-division Dodgers.

"Just a reaction after the streak," said Traynor. "I'm going down now and give them a little talking to and maybe that will work."

If today's showing is any indication of Traynor's persuasive powers, the Giants hope he comes up with tonsillitis overnight. The Pirates hit like men possessed. Johnny Rizzo almost tore Mel Ott's hand off in the first and Arky Vaughan knocked Melton's glove right off his hand. If it had not been for two super-special catches by Jimmy Ripple and one by Bob Seeds, the winners' total would have been well into double figures in the first five innings.

Lee Handley led off against Melton with a single to center and Lloyd Waner walked. Ripple then raced within a few feet of the right field wall and somehow got his glove on Paul Waner's terrific liner, Handley, going to third after the catch.

Pirates Continue Attack

Melton seemed out of danger when he picked up Gus Suhr's grounder and threw Handley out at the plate, but Rizzo handcuffed Ott with a single and Vaughan shot one under the towering pitcher, each driving in a run.

Dick Bartell, who drove in all the Giants' runs, sent one home with a single in the third, but the Pirates retaliated with a cluster of four in the fourth when ten men came to bat. Todd and Klinger singled, Handley doubled and Lloyd Waner singled past the indrawn infield. With three runs in, Melton went away, Lohrman came in and McCarthy went to first for Leslie, who has a pulled muscle in his leg.

Paul Waner almost bowled McCarthy over with a liner through him at first and, after two out, Rizzo walked, filling the bases. A Lohrman pitch hit Vaughan in the back, forcing in a run. The only tally thereafter was Lloyd Waner's homer inside the park in the eighth. But two runs were en route to the plate in the fifth, when Seeds staggered under Paul Waner's bid for extra bases.

Meanwhile Klinger was taking care of the Giants in the manner to which he has become accustomed. After the run in the third he was nicked for two hits in the fourth, one in the sixth and another in the seventh, but it was not until two Giants were out in the ninth that Bartell drove two around with a double. Ripple's liner ended the threat.

Jackson's Status Undecided

Travis Jackson isn't a coach after all. Following a converastion with Terry this morning he decided to return to New York and talk things over with Horace Stoneham. Meanwhile Tom Clarke received a wire at Altoona, Pa., switched trains and this evening was back with the Giants. If this keeps up Eddie Brannick will buy a shuttle ticket for Clarke.

The Permanent Passenger

When Major H. E. Long reached retirement age in His Majesty's army service, he decided to spent the remainder of his life voyaging on the P. & O. between England and Australia on the regular runs. This he has done for almost four years, never missing a voyage. He likes the sea and he likes to travel, and is perfectly happy in the great change from routine army life. However, Major Long states he does hope to get in a few trips between England and South America, before he really settles down on the Australian run.

German Cup Team In U.S. For Interzone Final

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Members of the German Davis Cup team, which recently emerged victorious in the European Zone by defeating Yugoslavia, arrived here this afternoon from Bremen in preparation to meet either Australia or Japan in the interzone play-off at Boston next week. The matches are scheduled to start on Tuesday.

Besides non-playing Captain Konrad Uhl, three players made the trip from Germany, leaving for Boston immediately after their arrival in order to practice up for the matches. They were Henner Henkel, Georges von Metaxa and R. Goepfert, who accompanies the team as alternate.

Interviewed by reporters, Henkel said he expected Australia to be Germany's opponent in the interzone matches and that the Reich's chances of winning through to the Challenge Round were slight because he and Metaxa "have not been playing together long enough."

Another Yorkshire Victory

LONDON, July 30—A double century by Don Bradman, who scored 202 against Somerset, and yet another victory by Yorkshire to assume a commanding lead in the race for the County Championship were the features of the first-class cricket matches concluded yesterday.

Bradman gave another of his scintillating displays at Taunton to pass the 200 mark. The result was a heavy defeat for Somerset, who lost by an innings and 218 runs.

Yorkshire's latest victims in their march to another title were Northants, who have yet to win a match. Verity was in fine form with the ball, claiming five victims for 114 and again five for 52.

At Newport—Glamorgan beat Sir Julien Cahn's XI by six wickets.
Sir Julian Cahn's XI 215 (Jackson 99, Matthews five for 39) and 69.
Glamorgan 210 (Dyson 110 not out, Walsh nine for 101) and 75 for four.

At Bournemouth—Hampshire beat Warwick by an innings and 62 runs.
Warwick 238 for nine declared and 123 (Herman six for 53).
Hampshire 423 for seven declared (McCorkell 136).

At the Oval—Worcester beat Surrey by ten wickets.
Worcester 406 for nine declared (Gibbons 178, Howorth 100) seven for no wicket.
Surrey 149 (Perks seven for 58) and 261 (Perks five for 87).

At Manchester—Essex beat Lancashire on the first innings.
Essex 300 (Nichols 98) and 85 for five.
Lancashire 178 (Nichols six for 65).

At Nottingham—Notts beat Gloucester on the first innings.
Notts 332 (Hardstaff 162) and 97 for two.
Gloucester 227 (Hammond 111 Wood head five for 56).

At Taunton—Australians beat Somerset by an innings and 218.
Somerset 110 and 136 (Fleetwood-Smith five for 30).
Australians 464 for six (Bradman 202, Badcock 110, McCabe 56 not out).

At Leicester—Leicester beat Sussex on the first innings.
Sussex 334.
Leicester 430 for eight.

At Scarborough—Yorkshire beat Northants by six wickets.
Northants 283 (Verity five for 114) and 155 (Verity five for 52).
Yorkshire 311 and 128 for four.

Woman Golfer Takes Up Dog Racing In Earnest

LONDON.—Miss Diana Fishwick, one of the most famous women amateur golfers in England, has taken up a new form of sport—greyhound racing. She has bought nine greyhound youngsters, which she will race at White City and Harringay.

Four of her string are Melksham bred, by Melksham Ivan out of Melksham Iris, January 1937. They are Melksham Ormond, Melksham Opal, Melksham Orchid and Melksham Oriental.

Miss Fishwick has used great originality in naming a litter of three by Ataxy out of Getting Restless, March 1937, which have come under the charge of Trainer Ashley, of Harringay.

Using Golfing Terms

She has used the "G. R." prefix, by which all dogs bred by the G.R.A. are registered, and cleverly adapted it to golfing terms.

The names chosen by Miss Fishwick for her "golfing" litter are Good Round, Great Recovery and Great Roke.

The remaining puppies bought by the sportswoman are progeny of Gallant Ranker—the former White City greyhound whose racing style was said to be track-perfect.

These puppies are Gay Renouncer and Gay Rattle, and their dam is Nanki's Last.

The litter was one of the first to be sired by Gallant Ranker.

Miss Fishwick is yet another famous person to take up greyhound ownership on G.R.A. tracks.

Her golfing record made history. She started on the road to fame by winning the Girls' Championship in 1927-8, and since then she has remained one of the sport's most prominent personalities.

She was the British Ladies Open Champion in 1930 and the English Native Champion in 1932. She also became German Champion in 1932. —Reuter.

Italy's Wonder Horse

As Nearco, Italy's wonder horse, returned to the paddock after beating the field in the Grand Prix in Paris recently, with his owner, Frederico Tesio, who the next day sold his horse to Martin Benson, a London bookmaker, for a reported price of approximately $300,000, one of the highest figures ever recorded for a thoroughbred.

Cincinnati Leads Rookie Parade In 1938 Campaign

By EDWIN RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, July 16—This has been a banner season for rookies. As National and American league clubs continued today, in the hotly contested pennant races, some 25 freshmen were holding regular berths. Where Boston last year contributed three prominent newcomers—Lou Fette, Jim Turner and Bobby Doerr—the Hub currently has only Jim Bagby, Jr., in the rookie parade.

The tight flag races can be traced directly to the influx of new talent. The arrival of outstanding freshmen with the Indians and Red Sox have reduced the Yankee monopoly in the American League. For the same reason, the Reds and Pirates are giving the Giants and Cubs an interesting battle in the National.

The honor of owning 1938's outstanding rookie belongs to Bill McKechnie at Cincinnati. In Johnny Vander Meer the Reds have a young pitcher who should left-hand senior circuit batters for many years. He pitched successive no-hit games against the Bees and Dodgers. He stopped the powerful American League hitters cold in the recent all-star game. Johnny wins the 1938 award by a comfortable margin.

Runnerup honors in the majors will probably belong to either Joe Gordon of the Yankees or Ken Keltner of Cleveland, two American Leaguers. Keltner shot to the front during the first half of the season and is in a large measure responsible for the rise of the Indians. He has filled a big hole in his team's defense at third base and also added punch to the attack. Ken has passed the 60 mark in runs batted in.

But during the past few weeks, Gordon has come fast and will give Keltner a battle in the final analysis. Joe has sparked a Yankee team that was floundering before he returned to second base. If the Yanks are successful in their bid for that third straight pennant, Gordon will undoubtedly hold an edge on Keltner. However, if the Tribe upsets the race, Ken will be the man.

Cincinnati wins the team rookie honors with four places. Along with Vander Meer, the Reds have Frank "Buck" McCormick, first baseman, who shapes up as one of the coming stars of the National League; Harry Craft, center fielder, and Willard Hershberger, catcher. The last named is in the shadow of Ernie Lombardi, but has shown McKechnie enough to warrant permanent retention.

Johnny Rizzo, from Columbus, and Bob Klinger, a draftee from Sacramento, have played major parts in Pittsburgh's climb among the National League contenders. Rizzo is a right-hand-hitting outfielder. Klinger is a right-handed pitcher.

The Dodgers present three newcomers in Ernie Koy, an outfielder who formerly belonged to the Yankees; and Pressnell and Posedel, a pair of winning pitchers. The Cardinals have Enos Slaughter, a hard-hitting outfielder, and Bill McGee, a husky right-handed hurler. The Phillies offer Emmett Mueller, second baseman, and the Giants, Bill Lohrman, a relief pitcher.

In the American League, Connie Mack has discovered Sam Chapman, the University of California outfield flash, and Dario Lodigiani, a little Italian second sacker. Along with Keltner, Cleveland has Jeff Heath, left fielder, and Johnny Humphries, who looks like a real pitcher.

Steinbacher, White Sox; Case, Senators; Chandler, Yankees; Bagby, Red Sox; Eisenstat, Tigers, and Howard Mills, Browns, round out the more prominent American roster.

Babe Didrikson Now Is A Mystic

Domei Tsushin

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, perhaps the world's greatest woman athlete, has added a new feat to her varied repertoire.

The Babe, who claims to have psychic powers, gave a demonstration at a golf club here, and told a number of club members their mother's name without slipping up even once.

Among Babe's other feats are numerous track and field records and the ability to hit a golf ball as far as most competitive male golfers.

Aggressive Chess Marks First Round Of Championship

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, July 16—The first round of the finals of the American Chess Federation Congress, now in progress at the Hotel Touraine, Boston, was filled with exciting contests. In the championship section, the games were hardly out of the opening before I. Horowitz, New York expert and member of several victorious United States teams in international competition, had scored a point at the expense of Burton O. Dahlstrom, Chicago expert, who drifted into an inferior variation of the Sicilian and lost a piece, resigning on his 21st move.

One of the most exciting games was between David Polland, defending champion, and Boris Blumin. In mid-game complications of a Queen's Indian, Polland allowed his Queen side to be broken up, at the same time forcing his opponent's king into the center. Just when it looked as if Blumin could consolidate his position and win with extra pawns, Polland offered another pawn, clearing the way for his Bishop to administer the coup de grace. The concluding play delighted and amazed the spectators. Polland scored in 44 moves.

The only other game to finish in the evening session was between two New Yorkers, Jack Collins and P. Rosenzweig. Collins played aggressively and at one point sacrificed a piece. This was declined, but Collins lost the exchange, with very favorably posted bishops. Rosenzweig defended carefully, and was able to push a passed pawn and win a piece, scoring in 39 moves.

Harold Morton, New England Champion, carried the battle in his encounter with Charles Jaffe, veteran New Yorker, and was able to win a pawn. At adjournment, Morton was a pawn ahead, with two rooks for a queen. His chances are excellent, but the winning process will be slow.

One of the most aggressively played games was won by Weaver Adams, Massachusetts champion, in the Consolation section. He finally mated David Marcus, present Massachusetts schoolboy champion, after a violent king side assault.

Pirates Assume Lead As Streak Goes To 13 Games

By EDWIN RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, July 13—Riding high on the crest of a tidal wave that has brought 13 straight triumphs—their longest winning streaking in 16 campaigns—the Pittsburgh Pirates were today in possession of the National League leadership. Breathing first place air at this stage of the season is a new experience for a majority of the current Bucos. July 13, in recent years, has generally found them bouncing around the bottom of the first division.

Analyzing the Pittsburgh streak, it is discovered that the club has averaged better than 10 hits and 5½ runs per game since Johnny Vander Meer, the Cincinnati gash, handed them their last setback on June 28. Not a robust offense, but dangerous in a pennant race that lacks an outstanding contender.

Blanton Has Won Three

In the climb to first place, Cy Blanton has won three games on the mound, Bill Swift, Bob Klinger, Mace Brown and Russ Bauers two each, and Jim Tobin and Ed Brandt one apiece. It is unusual, in a winning streak of this length, to note that in only seven of the 13 games has Manager Pie Traynor's starting hurler lasted the route. Brown won both of his games in relief roles.

Yesterday's 14-to-6 victory over the Cubs, in Chicago, marked the end of the Pirate road trip. They are housed at Forbes Field defending against eastern rivals until July 25, when they go out on another Pullman adventure.

The Pirate lead is slim—only three percentage points. But the long stay at home that lies just ahead, together with the fact that the Giants are touring the western half of the circuit, gives the Buccaneers the edge through the remainder of this month.

Finished Third in 1922

The last time a Pittsburgh team put together 13 straight triumphs—back in 1922—it finished in a tie with the Cardinals for third place. The Pirates won their last National League pennant in 1927, losing the World Series to the Yankees in four straight. Traynor was playing third base then.

Only the Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, among the present set, were regulars on that 1927 outfit. Lloyd paced his mates at bat with a .400 average in the World Series. Paul hit .333. Traynor, of course, has assumed the role of bench pilot.

For the Giants, it marks their first disappearance from the leadership since June 8, when they succeeded the Cubs. They fought off a Cincinnati threat, but were unable to pace the Pirates.

It seems like old times, with the Brooklyn Dodgers beating the Giants at a critical stage of the race.

Filipino Outfights Japanese Boxer

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Small Montana, former world flyweight champion, gained the first leg tonight in the mad scramble for the right to be named the successor to Benny Lynch, who was forced to relinquish his world title because of his inability to make the 112-pound limit.

The little Filipino clouted out an easy vitcory over Katsumi Morioka, Japanese flash and leading Canadian 112-pounder.

The scrapper from Manila outpunched and outmaneuvered the hard-hitting and fast-moving lad from Vancouver in fifteen furious rounds.

It was the first of a series of elimination battles for the right to be named leading contender for the vacant title.

By virtue of his victory, Montana will clash with Little Dado, another Filipino, in the next bout. The winner will probably oppose Jackie Jurich, American champion, for the title if Jurich should win out against other contenders.—United Press.

MacPhail Hints Ruth Not Certain To Pilot Dodgers

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, July 13—The best information now is that Babe Ruth, for all the excitement occasioned by his recent signing as a Brooklyn coach, is no nearer to realizing his ambition to become a big league manager than before Larry MacPhail pulled him out of retirement.

The former homer king's admirers felt certain for a time that their hero would succeed Burleigh Grimes at the Dodger helm in due time, but they are having their doubts now.

It seems that MacPhail, the showman, simply paid $15,000 for the privilege of exhibiting Ruth for the remainder of the season, in the same spirit that P. T. Barnum once intrigued the public with the "missing link." The Babe missed out somewhere.

MacPhail, after first maintaining mysterious silence as to his plans for Ruth, has let it be known lately that he is satisfied with Grimes as manager and intends to sign him again for 1939, no matter where the Dodgers wind up in the current campaign.

He has emphasized this by rushing into the minor league market the last several days and buying some expensive talent. If his wish had been to discredit Grimes and set the stage properly for Ruth's grand entrance next season, MacPhail could have waited until the winter to make such extensive repairs.

The Babe has got a bang out of coming back to the game, however briefly, and has made himself popular with the young Brooklyn players. He has proven that he still can hit the ball. In an exhibition game up-state he smashed one a mile.

There are conflicting opinions on the Babe's value as a base coach, but he still is a remarkable drawing card. He packed the parks at Syracuse and Elmira, and MacPhail is busy now arranging five or six more exhibition games.

He also has pulled many a fan into the Brooklyn orchard, though whether he already has paid his $15,000 salary in added attendance, as MacPhail claims, is debated in some quarters.

Wherever the Brooklyns go, the autograph fans still swarm all over the Babe. After he had signed about 40 assorted books, envelopes, baseballs, and scraps of wrapping paper the other day, he remarked: "I'm glad I've got a short name. What if it was Throckmorton Dingleberry, or something like that?"

Deaf And Dumb Soccer International

LONDON, Aug. 3—One of the strangest games of soccer ever played must have been the international match between deaf and dumb players of Bulgaria and Rumania.

A large crowd filled the Younak Stadium at Sofia to see the match and were alarmed by the sudden outbreak of rifle fire. Their alarm, however, relapsed into amazement when they realized that the rifle fire was merely a substitute for the referee's whistle.

A small detachment of infantry was stationed alongside the ground and, when signaled by the referee, discharged a round of blank cartridges. The players, though deaf, responded immediately to the repercussions of the report and were able to play a perfectly correct game.

This new method is quite new. Formerly deaf and dumb games had been controlled by flags or light signals but this meant that the players had to keep on the watch for signals at the expense of their game.

Before the match, the players were medically examined and declared to be all deaf and dumb.

Bulgaria won the match by 4 goals to 0.—Reuter.

Blind Watchmaker

John H. Smith of La Cygne, Kansas, is not only one of the best watchmakers in Kansas but is equally apt in the radio sales and service industry, though he has been blind since 3 years old. He has built all his radio service equipment, including fine, sensitive apparatuses to detect immediately flaws in radio sets. But most astounding is his ability to repair all kinds of watches, even the finest and most delicate ladies' wrist watches, which he has taken apart, repaired and completely re-assembled in 45 minutes. The tips of his fingers, of course, are ultra-sensitive, but to locate the tiniest parts, he used the tip of his tongue, which he says is many times more sensitive than his fingers.

Traffic Violator Really Seeking Mental Balance

COLUMBUS, O., July (INS)—Dr. Herbert A. Toops, of the department of psychology at Ohio State University, believes that the traffic law violator may be using his car as a means of maintaining a mental balance.

"Maybe he has a nagging wife whom he is quite unable to manage; or perhaps his employer is equally demanding without the posibility of a come-back," Dr. Toops said. "If that is true maybe his car is his only way to 'get even'."

Dr. Toops' observations are expressed in a newly published book "Psychology and the Motorist," by himself and Dr. S. Edson Haven, of Wayne University, Detroit.

Quist Defeats Yamagishi And Australia Tops Japan 3 To 2 In Davis Cup Play

Australia defeated Japan, 3 to 2, in the finals of the American zone of the Davis Cup competition Sunday at Montreal when Adrian Quist triumphed over Jiro Yamagishi in a torried match, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6 and 9-7, according to a Domei dispatch received this morning. The Japanese ace, who had bested John Bromwich on the opening day, was favored by some experts, including Captain Tamio Abe of the Japanese team, to win.

In the other singles match that followed and hence did not matter in the final scoring, Fumiteru Nakano beat Bromwich when the latter conceded the match to the former with the score standing 12-all in the fifth set. The scores of the first four sets were: 6-1, 1-6, 6-4 and 3-6.

Australians Lead

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, Aug. 13—Japan's hopes of reaching the Davis Cup interzone final for the first time in eleven years suffered a serious setback on the Mount Royal tennis club courts today as Australia's powerful 1938 team, 7-to-3 favorites to cop the American Zone championship, forged into a decisive two-to-one match lead by winning the doubles. One more singles victory will give them the series.

The Australians swept within sight of a team conquest as Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano, who yesterday battled to an even break in the opening singles, went down to a costly straight-set defeat at the hands of John Bromwich and Adrian Quist when play resumed at 2:30 this afternoon. The scores were 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

Large Gallery On Hand

A large gallery attracted by Yamagishi's unexpected four-set win over Bromwich yesterday watched the Japanese put up a gallant but futile fight against the smooth-working Australian combination. Playing like cogs in a well-oiled machine, Bromwich and Quist were out in front on all except two brief occasions and were never extended to extra games.

With the Australians in possession of a one-match advantage, only a miraculous clean sweep of tomorrow's concluding singles matches, in which Yamagishi will face Quist and Nakano will meet Bromwich, can give the Japanese a team triumph placing them in the interzone final against Germany.

If this miracle should happen, it would be the first time Japan has reached the interzone play-off since Takeichi Harada and Yoshio Oita waged an unsuccessful pre-challenge round battle against the great French team of Henri Cochet and Rene Lacaste in 1927. If not, it will mark the third time since 1928 that a Japanese team has reached the zone finals but lost.

With Yamagishi serving, the Japanese took the opening game of the first set and were again in the lead at 2-1, when it looked as if the match were going to be a close battle. The Australians, however, unleashed a vicious, lightning-like offensive which carried them through the next five games in a row to end the set. Quist displayed particular brilliance at the net, while Nakano was guilty of repeated errors.

Japanese Steadier

The second set found the Japanese playing a steadier defensive game, lobbing accurately to the back corners as Quist and Bromwich rushed the net in an attempt to put away kills. Errors by Bromwich helped the Japanese to forge into the lead at 4-3, but the Australians, on their own service, came back to even the count and then run out the next two games for the set. Set point was won on a lucky net-cord ball which, had it fallen back in Australian territory, would have douced the game.

With Quist again performing brilliantly at the net, the Australians opened the final set with a determined offensive concentrated chiefly on Nakano's side of the court. The latter stood up well under the barrage, but perfect teamwork usually gave the Australians the deciding points at the close of spirited rallies.

The fifth game of the set went to the Japanese as Nakano, serving brilliantly, put across three aces which clipped the corners beyond the Australians' reach. The latter's lead was cut down to 4-3 by a last-ditch Japanese offensive, but Bromwich and Quist then turned on full steam to win the next two games and match.

Tomii Attends

Fine, autumnlike weather favored the matches, with brilliant sunshine and a slight breeze. Among the many distinguished spectators was Shu Tomii, Japanese minister to Ottawa, who afterward gave a dinner for the members of both teams at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Commenting on today's match, Non-Playing Captain Tamio Abe of the Japanese team warmly praised the Australians' perfect teamwork but expressed the opinion that Yamagishi and Nakano ought to have given a better showing.

Yamagishi, he concluded, seems almost sure to win another singles victory against Quist tomorrow, but whether Nakano will succeed in beating Bromwich, thus giving the Japanese the third point needed for a team victory, he admitted to be uncertain.

Following this afternoon's doubles match, Yasumine Kuramitsu, of the Japanese squad, met L. A. Schwartz, of Australia, in an exhibition singles match which the Australian won by scores of 6-4, 6-4. Neither player has seen action in the present series.

The final singles matches will get under way at 2:15 p.m. tomorrow.

Chinese Mermaid Gets Job In Singapore Office

SINGAPORE, Aug. 5—Petite Yang Hsiu Keng, who swam for China in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, finds life in present day China too noisy and has taken a job as typist in a Chinese insurance office in Singapore.

Miss Yang, who is extremely popular in China, is known throughout her country as Mayyan-yu ("The Mermaid").

After office hours "The Mermaid" plans to give charity swimming demonstrations at Singapore's British Swimming Club, the proceeds to go to the China Relief Fund.

Triangular Track Meet Won By English Team

London Times

LONDON, July 25—There were many good performances at Lansdowne Road, Dublin, on Saturday in the triangular international match between England, Scotland, and Ireland, which was revived after a lapse of seven years. England won with a total of 34½ points, Ireland being second with 44½ points and Scotland third with 23 points.

G. M. Carstairs, the Scottish three miles champion, lowered the Irish record for that distance by 17.2 sec. when he won from P. Hennesey (England) in 14min. 29.8sec. after a thrilling race between the pair. F. Cummins made most of the running, but was beaten three laps from home. Carstairs then led, pursued by Hennesey, and there was a great duel between them until the home straight, where Carstairs sprinted away and won by six yards.

E. L. Page (England) and F. G. Moran were concerned in exciting finishes to the sprint races. Page got up in the last six yards and beat Moran in the 100 yards, but just failed to catch the Irishman in the furlong.

The results were:

880 Yards.—Private A. G. Baldwin (England), 1; R. Littlejohn (Scotland), 2; A. J. Collyer (England), 3; A. D. G. White (Scotland), 4. Won by inches; 2ft. Time, 1min. 57.9sec.

100 Yards.—E. L. Page (England), 1; F. G. Moran (Ireland), 2; H. C. Wickerson (England), 3; R. H. Dryden (Scotland), 4. Won by inches; half a yard. Time, 10.1sec.

120 Yard Hurdles.—J. St. L. Thornton (England), 1; W. F. W. Lewis (England), 2; R. H. Wallace (Ireland), 3; R. N. Coote (Ireland), 4. Won by two yards; a yard. Time, 15.5sec.

Putting the Shot.—R. L. Howland (England), 46ft., and L. N. Horan (Ireland), 46ft., equal 1; H. Reeves (England), 42ft. 3¼in., 3; J. Armstrong (Ireland), 37ft. 1½in., 4.

Long Jump.—W. E. N. Breach (England), 23ft. 0¼in., 1; L. Carroll (Ireland), 22ft. 5½in., 2; R. C. E. Kiralfy (England), 22ft. 4¼in., 3; S. S. Beattie (Scotland), 22ft 3¾in., 4.

220 Yards.—F. G. Moran (Ireland), 1; E. L. Page (England) 2; J. Craigie (Ireland), 3; H. C. Wickerson (England), 4. Won by inches; half a yard. Time, 22.6 sec.

Hammer Throw.—B. Heallion (Ireland), 162ft. 6in., 1; N. H. Drake (England), 149ft. 8½in., 2; T. McAnallen (Ireland), 147ft. 7½in., 3; D. Clarke (Scotland), 144ft. 4in., 4.

440 Yards.—J. G. Barnes (England), 1; H. E. Pack (England), 2; S. S. de Vere (Ireland), 3; R. H. Wallace (Ireland), 4. Won by a yard; same. Time, 49.8sec.

One Mile.—C. A. J. Emery (England), 1; J. Gifford (Scotland), 2; P. J. Alwell (Scotland), 3; S. G. Gunn (England), 4. Won by six yards; two yards. Time, 4min. 20.6sec.

High Jump.—H. C. Stubbs (England), 6ft. 3in., 1; R. K. Kennedy (Scotland), 6ft. 2in., 2; R. O'Rafferty (Ireland), 6ft. 1in., 3; E. C. Hoar (England), 6ft., 4.

Three Miles.—G. M. Carstairs (Scotland), 1; P. Hennesey (England), 2; F. Cummins (Ireland), 3; P. C. Dainty (England), 4. Won by six yards; 150 yards. Time, 14min. 29.8sec.

Hop, Step, and Jump.—J. Higginson (England), 45ft. 5in., 1; B. Shillington (Ireland), 45ft. 2in. 2; S. S. Beattie (Scotland), 43ft. 11in., 3; E. Boyce (Ireland), 43ft. 3in., 4.

One Mile Medley Relay (880, 220, 220, 440 yards).—England (Private A. G. Baldwin, E. L. Page, H. C. Wickerson, and J. G. Barnes), 1; Ireland (B. F. McCabe, S. de Lacy, J. Craigie, and N. S. de Vere), 2; Scotland, 3. Won by two yards. Time, 3min. 41.8sec.

Miss Hveger Breaks World's Record In 400-M. Freestyle

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, Aug. 13—Miss Ragnhild Hveger, sensational Danish woman swimmer, established a new world's record in the 400-meter freestyle event and also helped to break another in the exciting European Swimming Championships at Wembley this afternoon.

The Danish star raced through the 400-meter event in 5 minutes, 9 seconds—a new world's record for a 50-meter pool. She also holds the world mark of 5 minutes 8.2 seconds for this distance for a short pool (25-meter tank).

Following her individual triumph, Miss Hveger teamed up with the crack Danish 400-meter relay quartet and helped set a new international mark in the final of this event by negotiating the distance in 4 minutes 31.6 seconds for a 50-meter pool. The other members of the winning team were the Misses Arndt, Karst and Ove-Peterson.

Fujii Captures Students' Riding Championship

Shohei Fujii of Waseda University won the individual riding honors in the 10th annual All-Japan students equestrian meet held Sunday at the Korakuen Stadium, defeating a field of 50 contestants.

The meet opened with impressive ceremonies at 7:30 a.m. after which general horsemanship competition and an obstacle race were held to weed out 30 riders. The championship was decided in the afternoon in another obstacle race and a jumping event. Toshiki Maeda of Hosei scored 188 points out of a possible 200 to lead in the morning, followed in order by Shogo Yokoda of Keio, Shin Takagaki and Fujii. Maeda maintained his lead after the first hurdling race in the afternoon with Fujii creeping up. Maeda faltered in the second and Fujii emerged victorious.

Tomizo Seki of Doshisha also nosed out Maeda to finish in second place.

Pirates Triumph In 11th By 3-2; Tie Dodgers On Wild Pitch In 9th

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, July 14—The Pirates resumed their pennant drive on a wild pitch today.

Round Freddy Fitzsimmons made the heave in the ninth inning with the Waner brothers on second and third and two out, so a five-hit, 2-0 shut-out suddenly slipped from Fitz's fingers as Lloyd and Paul romped home to tie the score.

In the eleventh Lee Handley belted a three-bagger off the left-field walls and a moment later Lloyd (Little Poison) Waner rifled his third straight single down the rightfield foul line to give the Buccaneers a 3-2 triumph.

Tighten Hold on Lead

These two blows also gave the Traynor firebrands a lead of a half game and 16 percentage points above the losing Giants in the National League race.

The Dodgers, taking advantage of Lloyd Waner's muff of Dolf Camilli's long drive in the second inning, scored both their runs then. Ernie Koy sacrificed Dolf to third. Cookie Lavagetto drew a pass and Captain Leo Durocher walloped one of Cy Blanton's pitches on a line to deep right center for two bases to drive home both Camilli and Lavagetto.

They might have scored another run off Blanton in the fourth but for Koy's temerity in trying to go from first to third on Lavagetto's single to Paul Waner's sector. But they didn't, and neither could they capitalize on Tuck Stainback's opening double in the sixth.

Fitz meanwhile was breezing along and had pitched to only three over par when eight innings were completed, allowing only three singles during that period. Paul Waner got one in the first and was picked off by Fitz Blanton one in the third and Lloyd Waner the other in the seventh.

Both Waners Single

When Handley bounced out to Fitz to start the ninth ladies' day crowd of 8,606 settled back, resigned to another defeat. Little Poison brought a mild cheer with a single to left, but the folks really got excited when Big Poison shot another to right, Lloyd stopping at second.

Here Gus Suhr sent a towering drive to Goody Rosen and both runners advanced after the catch—an important move, as it proved. With Johnny Rizzo up, Fitz hurled a ball into the dirt, it went past Merv Shea 110 feet to the stands and both Waners scored.

Jim Tobin, who pitched the last three frames after Blanton went out for a pinch-hitter, set the Dodgers down in order and was credited with his seventh victory against three defeats. It was Fitz's fifth setback with four successes.

Burleigh Grimes succeeded in getting himself tossed out of the game by Bill Klem at the end of the Dodgers' ninth when he protested a decision by the arbiter that put Koy out at third base. It was the fourth time this year the Brooklyn manager has been thumbed out.

Dodgers' 18 Hits Crush Reds, 12-5

N.Y. Times

CINCINNATI, July 16—Picking up where they had left off against the Pirates, the Dodgers today set the ambitious Reds back on their heels, 12 to 5.

While the Flatbushers were belting three hurlers for eighteen hits, good for twenty-three bases, 5,347 fans forgetful of the Reds' recent seven-game winning streak, booed the proceedings with great fervor.

The fierce Brooklyn attack was led by two young outfielders, Goody Rosen and Tuck Stainback, with a triple and three singles each. Fred Frankhouse, replacing Bill Posedel in the third, was credited with his second triumph, while Joe Cascarella, supplanting Long Jim Weaver in the third, was the loser.

A Costly Triumph

What satisfaction Manager Burleigh Grimes derived from the victory, however, was nullified by a serious injury to Gilly Campbell, which will keep the new catcher out of action for at least three weeks. Campbell was spiked on the left foot by Frank McCormick as the first baseman slid home in the third with the Reds' fourth and tying run.

Campbell collapsed while trying to remove his paraphenalia and had to be carried from the field by his mates. He was taken to Christ Hospital, where ten stitches were taken in the wound. Hospital attaches said he would be kept in bed three or four days.

The Reds started in a promising manner when Ival Goodman slapped his twenty-fourth homer of the season far into the right field seats with Lonnie Frey aboard via a single in the first.

But Weaver wavered badly in the third. When the Dodgers tied the count on a pass to Rosen, Campbell's single, Weaver's error on a bunt, another pass to Dolf Camilli and Cookie Lavagetto's long fly, he was removed.

Cascarella came in to get Leo Durocher on a grounder and give an intentional pass to Ernie Koy. Then Johnny Hudson blew this strategy to bits with a two-bagger to right center that scored Stainback and Camilli.

Posedel Hits Berger

In the third Posedel hit Wally Berger, who advanced on an infield out and scored on McCormick's single to center. After a conference, Posedel gave way to Frankhouse. Freddy walked Ernie Lombardi and saw McCormick cross with the tying run on Harry Craft's single to left.

The Dodgers promptly untied it in the fifth on a pass to Leo Durocher, singles by Frankhouse and Merv Shea and Rosen's triple. Shea's blow ended Cascarella's tenure.

Three more Brooklyn runs crossed in the sixth against Lee Grissom on only a pair of singles by Rosen and Lavagetto. Grissom and Willard Hershberger made errors and Lee issued a pass to Hudson, so Rosen's blow drove in two runs.

Stainback carried the eleventh run home in the seventh, opening with a triple and scoring on Durocher's single with two out. Rosen singled in the eighth and reached home with the final marker on singles by Stainback and Camilli.

Grissom scored the fifth Red run in the seventh by singling, moving to third on Frey's double and coming in as Durocher fumbled Berger's grounder for the lone Dodger misplay.

U.S. Trackmen Defeat Oxford-Cambridge, 9-3, To Even Count At 4-All

N.Y. Times

LONDON, July 23—The combined track forces of Princeton and Cornell, surprising English critics with their balance and good form, drew even in their international rivalry with Oxford and Cambridge by winning today's meet, nine events to three, at White City Stadium.

Each team has won four and there has been one tie since the series was inaugurated in 1921.

Jim Pender and Ham Hucker of Cornell were the heroes of the American victory. Pender came home first in the 100-yard and 220-yard sprints, while Hucker captured the 120-yard high hurdles and 220-yard low hurdles.

In both dashes Pender got off the mark first and stayed in front of Oxford's Alan Pennington, who had been established as favorite in the two events.

Olympic Veteran Shines

With only first places being counted in the point score, England had little to offer except its bespectacled 1936 Olympic runner, Arthur Godfrey Kiler Brown of Cambridge. Brown accounted for two of the Britons' three points by winning the 440-yard and half-mile runs.

Crossley Holland, also of Cambridge, gained the other British victory, beating Ed Mezitt of Cornell in the mile by a yard and a half in 4:23.4.

The combined efforts of both teams produced only one new meet record. That went to Howard (Wreck) Welch, Cornell distance star, who was timed in 14:44.8 for three miles while scoring by forty yards over E. C. Weir of Cambridge.

Wise Wins Shot Put

While Cornell accounted for five points in the track events, Princeton men won the four field events.

Grandin Wise took the shot put with a heave of 48 feet 1 inch; Anson Perina won the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 9½ inches; Richard R. Robinson cleared 6 feet 1 inch to win the high jump, and Richard F. Patterson won the pole vault at 12 feet 6 inches. Patterson's victory was the one that clinched the meet for the visitors.

The Americans placed one-two in four events. Al Van Ranst of Cornell was runner-up in the shot, Charles J. Rainear of Princeton took second in the vault, Palmer Way of Princeton was beaten by two and a half inches by Perina, and Walter W. Zittel ran second to Hucker in the low hurdles.

Hucker's times were 15 seconds flat and 0:24.4, and Pender's 10 seconds flat in the 100, which he won by inches, and 0:22.4 in the 220, in which Pennington was nosed out by six inches.

The summaries:

Track Events

100-Yard Dash—Won by J. B. Pender, Cornell; second, Alan Pennington, Oxford; third, W. Wilson, Princeton. Time—0:10.

220-Yard Dash—Won by James B. Pender, Cornell; second, Alan Pennington, Oxford; third, W. H. Loader, Cambridge. Time—0:22.2

440-Yard Run—Won by A. G. K. Brown, Cambridge; second, C. H. Kearney, Oxford; third J. H. Nevius, Cornell. Time—0:48.9.

880-Yard Run—Won by A. G. K. Brown, Cambridge; second, Paul M. Douglas, Princeton; third, J. O. Moreton, Oxford. Time—1:56.6.

One-Mile Run—Won by Crossley Holland, Cambridge; second, E. F. Mezitt, Cornell; third, S. L. Dorman, Cambridge. Time—4:23.4.

Three-Mile Run—Won by Howard Welch, Cornell; second, E. C. Weir, Cambridge; third, J. K. Hawkey, Oxford. Time—14:44.8. (New meet record.)

120-Yard High Hurdles—Won by J. Hamilton Hucker, Cornell; second, T. L. Lockton, Oxford; third, F. V. Scopes, Oxford. Time—0:15.

220-Yard Low Hurdles—Won by J. Hamilton Hucker Cornell; second, W. W. Zittel, Cornell; third, R. A. Palmer, Cambridge. Time—0:24.4.

Field Events

High Jump—Won by Richard R. Robinson, Princeton; second, A. W. Selwyn, Oxford; third, Lester E. Murdock, Cornell, Hight—6 feet 1 inch.

Pole Vault—Won by Richard F. Patterson, Princeton; second, Charles J. Rainear, Princeton; third, H. T. Kennedy, Cambridge. Height—12 feet 6 inches.

Broad Jump—Won by Anson Perina, Princeton; second, Palmer M. Way, Princeton; third, R. A. Powell, Oxford. Distance 23 feet 9½ inches.

Shot-Put—Won by Grandin Wise, Princeton; second, Al Van Ranst, Cornell; third, P. Hincks, Cambridge. Distance—48 feet 1 inch.

10 Student Riders To Compete Against Chosen Team At Keijo

The ten best performers in the national students riding championships held Sunday at the Korakuen Stadium will compete against an all-Chosen team at the Keijo Riding Club on August 21, according to announcement today. The team will leave Tokyo Station by the 9 p.m. train on Wednesday, accompanied by Viscount Isao Shishido, vice-president of the All-Japan Students Riding Association, and Kenzo Kawazaki, general director of the association.

Members of the team leaving are: Obata, Chuo University, captain; Fujii, Waseda; Seki, Doshisha; Maeda, Hosei; Kokubo, Meiji; Komura, Tohoku; Okata, Doshisha; Takagaki, Waseda; and Miwa, Nagoya Higher Commercial.

Gordon Sets Pace By Slight Margin

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, July 12—Unique in that none of the contestants had ever participated in the grueling endurance test previously, eight athletes began their quest for the National A. A. U. senior decathlon championship yesterday at the New York Athletic Club's Travers Island quarters. They completed half of the ten-event program.

With the 100-meter dash, 400-meter run, running broad jump, running high jump and the 16-pound shot put disposed of, Eddie Gordon of the Grand Street Boys Association, who at 28 is the oldest man in the field, enjoyed a slight edge over the others.

Aided principally by his performances in the broad jump—he won the 1932 Olympic championship in this event—and the high jump, Gordon amassed a total of 3,559½ points to forge ahead of his younger rivals. Since most of his best events are finished, Gordon's lead, of course, is none too secure.

Former One-Man Team

Trailing the pace-setter with a total of 3,513 points was Joseph Scott, 22-year-old Western Reserve University ace, who, in turn, was closely pursued by Allen Scisco, 21, of Tuskegee Institute, who wound up with 3,439½. The next man was Anton Kishon, former one-mun track team at Bates and now at the New York A. C., who scored 2,906 2-3.

Behind the burly Kishon followed Hamilton Morningstar of Michigan Normal with 2,904 2-3, John Ehrhardt of the Columbus Council, Ks of C., with 2,847½, and Donald Sutton of the Millrose A. A. with 2,579.

The eighth man in the field was Kenneth Button of the Millrose A. A., Donald's brother. However, he eliminated himself at the very outset when, at the start of the 100-meter dash, he suddenly pulled up lame and was compelled to retire for the day.

The last five events, the 110-meter high hurdis, 1,500-meter run, pole vault, discus and javelin throws, are slated for this afternoon at Randalls Island Stadium as an added feature to the all-star track and field meet sponsored by the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The decathlon will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

Get Off to Fine Start

First of yesterday's tests was the 100-meter dash, which was run in four heats. The best performances here were the 0:11.2 negotiated by both Scott and Scisco. Thus this pair got off to a fine start, each tallying 787 points.

The next event was the broad jump, and the outcome was a foregone conclusion, with Gordon clearing 23 feet 6½ inches, the equivalent of 7 meters 18 centimeters on his third jump, for 852 points, which sent him into the lead. Scisco's leap of 22 feet 2¾ inches was next best and good for 744 points.

To the surprise of no one at all, Kishon captured the shot-put and profited to the extent of 133 points. He tossed the iron ball 43 feet 2½ inches on his first attempt and then fouled the next two trys, but that didn't really matter, for no one was close enough to him to make a difference.

Then Gordon went over the 6-foot mark in the high jump to protect his advantage. Although this was good enough to win, it was some what of a disappointment for Gordon, who has cleared 6 feet 4 inches several times this season.

The 400-meter run concluded the program. In this event, run in two heats, Ehrhardt's 0:53.2 was being trailed by Scisco's 0:53.5. Gordon and Kishon lost valuable ground here, the former being clocked at 0:56.6 and the latter in 0:58.9.

Yamagishi Badly Off Form In Play Against Quist

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, Aug. 14—Japan for the third time since 1928 suffered defeat in the zone finals of the annual Davis Cup tourney today as Australia, by virtue of a singles victory on the last day of the series played at the Mount Royal tennis club here, eked out a narrow one-match margin to win the American Zone championship and enter the interzone final against Germany.

Though conceded a 99 per cent certain team win after capturing yesterday's doubles, the Australians annexed their third point and the series in a way far different from what was expected. Adrian Quist clinched the outcome by upsetting Jiro Yamagishi in the first of the final singles matches, whereafter John Bromwich, with nothing to lose, defaulted his match to Fumiteru Nakano when the score stood at 12-all in the deciding set.

Quist Shines

Playing with a brilliancy and determination which upset the dopesters, Quist turned back Yamagishi in four seesaw sets, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7. It was now too late to stave off a Japanese defeat, but Nakano won the acclaim of a sympathetic gallery as he battled Bromwich to a standstill in the longest and closest match of the series.

Conceded little chance of beating the favored Australian, Nakano held his own throughout four torrid sets and finally won when Bromwich retired at the end of 24 evenly divided games in the fifth set. The scores of the first four sets were 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, 3-6.

Quist's unexpected defeat of Yamagishi spelled the collapse of Japanese hopes of reaching their first interzone final since 1927 and marked the third time in a decade that a Japanese team has battled unsuccessfully for top honors in one of the divisions of the Cup competition.

Onld once in the history of the tourney has Japan gotten as far as the Challenge Round, and that was curiously in 1921, the first year in which a Japanese team participated. In both 1926 and 27, Japan went to the interzone final but lost to France.

With an expectant crowd again filling the galleries, Yamagishi started off his match against Quist by taking his own service and then breaking through the Australian's delivery to lead at two-love. The Japanese star's drop shots were working perfectly, and it looked as if he were going to have little trouble.

Quist Storms Net

Quist, however, launched a strong counter-offensive in the third game, storming the net to break through Yamagishi's service and reeled off the next five games before he was checked. The Japanese recovered temporarily to narrow Quist's lead to 5-4, but the latter ran out the set on service.

With both players adopting more cautious tactics, Yamagishi again ran up an early lead of 3-love and then 4-1 in the second set. Again, however, the Australian launched a brilliant spurt which gave him the next five games and set as Yamagishi was guilty of repeated errors.

Steadying down somewhat as the third set got under way, Yamagishi took the opening game on service and the score went to two-all. He then unleashed his first brilliant tennis of the day, hitting beautiful placements to all parts of the Australian's court to win the next four games in a row and end the set.

When the fourth set started after a ten-minute rest period, the Japanese again took the offensive and forced Quist to run all over the court in order to recover his sharply-angled placements. Though showing signs of fatigue, Quist however maintained an iron-wall defense and games went with service until the score was deadlocked at 5-all.

Breaking through Yamagishi's delivery for the first time in the set, Quist led at 6-5 and four times reached match-point in the next game on his own service. Yamagishi, however, fought back desperately to deuce the count, finally breaking through to win the game and again tie the score at 6-all.

After the next two games went with service, Quist again broke Yamagishi's delivery to lead at 8-7. Near exhaustion but determined, the fighting Australian ran out the set and match on his own service, finally putting across the winning shot after Yamagishi twice robbed him of match-point.

Nakano Determined

Despite the fact that Yamagishi's defeat spelt the loss of the series, Nakano went out with obvious determination to beat Bromwich and amazed the spectators by running through the first set with the loss of only a single game. Frequently acing Bromwich on service, Nakano concentrated a powerful attack on the ambidextrous Australian's left forehand to score repeated winners.

Light rain fell in the early part of the match but was insufficient to cause any postponement.

Bromwich rallied strongly to win the second set at 6-1, but Nakano again went out in front as he outdrove the Australian in long baseline rallies to win the third at 6-4. Both players frequently resorted to drop-shots, but neither ventured to the net except on rare occasions.

After Bromwich evened the score at two sets all by winning the fourth, Nakano launched a determined offensive which carried him to a 5-3 lead in the fifth and deciding set. The Australian, however, won the next two games to tie the count, whereafter the lead seesawed back and forth with neither player able to eke out the necessary margin of victory.

The match ended after the 24th game when Bromwich, at the order of the Australian captain, withdrew in order to spare himself for the interzone finals against Germany opening at Boston on Tuesday. Nakano received a tremendous ovation when he left the court at the end of the match.

Yamagishi Off Form

Though warmly congratulating the Australians on their victory, Non-Playing Captain Tamio Abe told Domei after the matches that he thought Yamagishi was badly off form in today's battle against Quist and that the Japanese ought to have won had he not made so many errors in the second and fourth sets. He on the other hand voiced enthusiasm over Nakano's success against Bromwich.

After resting up here for two days, the Japanese team will leave on Wednesday for New York. Yamagishi is scheduled to sail homeward from Vancouver on August 28, while Nakano and Abe will remain in order to enter the American national doubles championships taking place at Boston.

3 Japanese Davis Cup Players To Compete In U.S. Championships

Captain Tamio Abe, Fumiteru Nakano and Yasumine Kuramitsu of the Japan Davis Cup team which lost to Australia over the week end in the finals of the American zone at Montreal will compete in the American national doubles championships to be held at the Longwood Cricket Club at Brooklyn beginning on August 22 and in the national singles championships at Forest Hills starting on September 8, according to a special dispatch to the Yomiuri.

Jiro Yamagishi, the No. 1 team member, however will not compete. He is scheduled to board the Hioi Maru from Vancouver on August 28 for home, according to the dispatch.

It is expected that Nakano and Abe will be entered in the doubles.

Loss Of Fast Ball Admitted By Feller

BOSTON, July 23—Bob Feller admitted today his fast ball, which made him the boy wonder of baseball, is gone.

The Cleveland pitcher, knocked out of the box here the fifth time in four weeks, said he didn't know what was the matter.

"Somewhere between last season and this I've lost my fast ball," the troubled 19-year-old Iowan revealed. "I mean I still throw a good fast one, occasionally, but I can't pump it in, pitch after pitch, like I did last year. Worse than that, I can't snap off that fast curve anymore without making it practically a wild pitch."

Feller's biggest problem has been his wildness, most of his exits following a parade of batters around the bases on passes. He said he had not altered his delivery to any great degree, but he expressed some concern when he told of a "click" in his arm since his elbow was injured last season.

"When I first started to pitch in the American League, batters invariably pulled away from the plate as they swung at my fast one. Now they're stepping into it.

"I think they used to regard me simply as a freak and weren't going to take any chances of having their heads knocked off. Now they seem to regard me as just another pitcher."

Bob admitted he becomes upset when infielders come in and talk to him during one of his wild streaks.

"They always tell me to get it over the plate. What do they think I'm trying to do—throw it up in the press box?"

What's Feller going to do about it? He's going to work twice as hard on his control. "I've got plenty of stuff to win if I can get the ball over," he declared.

"I'm frankly disappointed in him," observed Manager Oscar Vitt. Feller has won ten games against five defeats, but has failed several times in

Runyan Conquers Snead By 8 And 7 For P.G.A. Title

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON

N.Y. Times

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 16—Employing the tactics he used yesterday in removing Henry Picard from the Professional Golfers Association championship, Paul Runyan, slender young Westchester pro, today gained the crown for the second time as he dealt a decisive beating to Sam Snead in the final round at the Shawnee Country Club.

Out in front of the White Sulphur Springs whacker from West Virginia from the third hole in their thirty-six-hole match, 5 up with a 67 in the morning, Runyan, who is from the Metropolis Club, closed Snead out on the twenty-ninth hole, victor by 8 and 7.

It was the most decisive match in the history of the championship, now twenty-one years old. Up to today 6 and 5 was the high-water mark. Walter Hagen having beaten Bill Mehlhorn by that margin at Olympia Fields in 1925, Leo Diegel having stopped Al Espinosa at the thirty-first hole at Five Farms three years later, and Gene Sarazen having beaten Willie Goggin five holes from the finish at Blue Mound in 1933.

Others Not So Bad

But Mehlhorn, Espinosa or Goggin never took such heartrending punishment as Runyan dealt to Slamming Sam on the sun-flooded Shawnee course today.

Of all the twenty-nine holes played, Snead, ranked as one of the world's greatest golfers, won only one, the sixth in the afternoon when Runyan's ball overran the green and stopped in the rough, from where he chipped too strong and missed a five or six-foot putt.

That, incidentally, was the only bogey the 30-year-old Arkansas-born golfer had in the whole round, and his first in sixty-six holes of match-play golf against men rated tops in their profession and on a course where strokes were easy to slip.

Today, as yesterday, Runyan, whose other P. G. A. title was gained at Buffalo in 1934 when he beat Craig Wood, his discoverer and first employer, in a thirty-eight-hole match, was a veritable golfing machine that broke Snead's heart just as it broke Picard's yesterday.

His woods and irons, both long and lofted, sent his ball on the greens with a regularity that became monotonous, and once on the velvety putting carpets, his putter was a harbinger of bad news in carload lots to Snead. His putting was marvelous to behold, not so much in the long ones he holed, but in the few chances he missed.

Known as "Little Poison"

Among his fellow-professionals, Paul, who uses an unusual method of striking the ball, a method that enables him to overcome his deficiency in hitting power and one he controls with amazing success, long has been known as "Little Poison." But after yesterday and today they will have to step him up to "Big Poison," at least.

With Snead already slightly off his own game and put more and more off by Runyan's deliberateness and precision, the match, in which Sam started as outstanding favorite for some unknown reason, became a walkaway after the tenth hole.

Though he is one of the biggest hitters in the game, Snead's length gave him not an ounce of advantage over Runyan, even on the longest holes, for although he might be thirty, forty or fifty yards in front of the tee and as much as a hundred in front after the seconds, invariably he had to play the odd on the greens.

Worth Only a Half

Take a sample hole, the No. 7, which is 567 yards long and today was into the wind. In both rounds Snead covered almost 500 yards and had a niblick pitch left, whereas Runyan was forced to use a club several degree stronger. Neither time did Sammy get anything more than a half.

And in the afternoon Runyan, after being in the rough on his first, second and third shots, put the skids completely under Snead by holing a twenty-five foot putt for a half.

If there was any critical hole in the match it was that one, for Sam had just won the twenty-fourth by the skin of his teeth. No doubt surprised to see Runyan make an error and give him a chance, Snead just got th ball into the hole from four feet or so.

And when Paul pushed his next tee shot into the rough it looked as if he might be getting back to golf both hunnan and humane. But the putt was the pay-off.

The only mistakes Runyan made in the first half were a bunkered second shot to the third hole, which he atoned for by a magnificent explosion shot; a weakly played chip shot on the tenth and one putt on which he left himself two feet short of the hole. By that you can see just what chance Sammy had. And on seven greens Runyan took one putt each, three for halves, the other four for winning holes.

National Swim Championships Start On Friday

The national swimming championships will be held this year away from Tokyo for the first since the fourth annual meet at the Kyoto Second Commercial School pool in 1929. The foremost swimmers of the country will compete in the three-day meet, beginning Friday, at the Koshien pool, near Osaka. The shift was made early this year in anticipation of renovation work at the Meiji Shrine pool in Tokyo in connection with the then projected plans for preparation of facilities for the now cancelled 12th Olympic Games in Tokyo.

No Foreigners

For the first time in several years, there will be no foreign contestants. Last year, for instance, there were Jack Medica, 1936 Olympic 400-meter freestyle champion, Adolf Kiefer, world's premier backstroke swimmer, John Higgins, exponent of the butterfly stroke in the breaststroke, Miss Katherine Rawls, now Mrs. Thompson, America's most versatile woman star, and Elbert Root, Olympic diving champion, competing. It will be remembered that Japanese swimmers realized an ambition of many years when Shozo Makino, veteran Olympic swimmer of Waseda University, unleashed a strong spurt and defeated Medica in the 400-meter freestyle event.

On top of it, swimmers of Waseda University have decided not to enter the championships, due to strain from a trip to Chosen. This means that Makino, Kiichi Yoshida, star backstroker, Shigeo Sugiura and Torajiro Kataoka, able sprinters, will not compete to dampen some interest in the meet.

Amano To Swim

But there will be Tomikatsu Amano, 19-year-old newcomer of Nihon University, to watch. In the Kanto championships last week, he swam the 1,500 meters freestyle in 18 minutes 58.8 seconds to shatter Arne Borg's 11-year standing record of 19 minutes 7.4 seconds. Immediately after the race, Amano told reporters that he had been too tensed and could not make the time he had aimed to. Three times previously, he had swam the distance under 19 minutes at an average of 18 minutes 52 seconds, he said. All of which means that there is strong possibility that he will reduce his time of last week. With any bit of competition, he should have no trouble doing so. In the race last week, he took the lead from the bark of the gun and swam single-handedly for the 30 laps of the tank. A change in the catch of his stroke contributed to his improvement since last year, the swimmer said.

According to Ikkaku Matsuzawa, head coach of Japan's Olympic team and foremost swimming authority in the country, who was thrilled more than anybody else at Amano's feat, it is most interesting that Amano's style resembles Borg's, with a little more polish to suit his own technique.

Being a three-day meet, Amano is expected to enter the 400-meter race as well. It will be no surprise if he does things to the existing record for he is in top form at the present time.

Hamuro Entered

Tetsuo Hamuro, Olympic 200-meter breaststroke champion, and Reizo Koike, former national champion, should stage another duel in the 100 and 200-meter breaststroke championships.

Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo University is a strong favorite in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle championships.

U.S. Athletes Win Five Out Of Seven Events In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 22—Fred Wolcott, Rice Institute's brilliant hurdler, paced the touring United States track and field forces yesterday as the invaders again took five of the seven events on the second day of the international meet.

Wolcott repeated his victory in the 110-meter high hurdles Wednesday by skimming over the timbers in 13.9 yesterday. The time was only .2s. away from the accepted world's record of 13.7s. set by Forest (Spec) Towns at Oslo in 1936. Lidman of Sweden again placed second to the Rice star, his time was 14.4s.

Ben Johnson, the Plymouth (Pa.) flyer, won the 200-meter dash in 20.9s. Howie Borck of Manhattan, the IC4A mile champion, won the 1,000-meter run in 2m. 31s.

Pekuri, or Finland, and Miklos Szobo, of Hungary, finished one-two in the two-mile run, the only flat event not won by a U. S. runner. Pekuri was timed in 9m. 1.8s., and Szabo in 9m. 6s.

Gil Cruter, the Colorado high jumper, scored the only United States victory in the field events with a leap of 6ft. 6¾ in. Pete Zagar of Stanford and the Olympic Club of San Francisco was fifth in the discus throw with a heave of 151 ft. 1 27-64 in. The event was won by Hedvall of Sweden with a toss of 161 ft. 10 9-16in.

A relay team of Johnson, Wolcott, Cruter and Ray Malott of Stanford and the Olympic Club, won the 1,000-yard medley relay in 1m. 56.3s.

Harris Hits 2 Homers In Game In Hokkaido

Bucky Harris, hustling catcher of the Eagles, hit two homers to aid his team to triumph over the Senators, 14 to 8, in an exhibition game at Otaru, Hokkaido, Tuesday afternoon, fresh from a tour of Karafuto.

Over in Dairen, the Osaka Tigers, champions of the Spring season of the Japan Professional league, downed the strong Dairen Industrial Club by a 6 to 2 score.

U.S. Lawn Tennis Held Definitely On The Upgrade

NEW YORK, July 22—Business definitely is on the upgrade in the tennis market.

Don Budge and Gene Mako sail for home tomorrow, and will arrive in Montreal next Thursday. The European zone Davis Cup eliminations have reached the semifinal stage, with the final round scheduled for next week end.

At Forest Hills, the Japanese are preparing for the North American zone meeting with Canada at Montreal next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and the Mexican team is on its way to Kansas City for its match with Australia on the same dates.

And Seabright today made the draw for its annual tournament, which opens on Monday and is one of three through which Davis Cup Capt. Walter Pate expects to line his sights on the U. S. cup defenders' No. 2 singles man. The other proving grounds are the Eastern grass courts championships at Rye, N. Y., Aug. 6-14, and the Newport Casino tourney opening Aug. 15.

No. 2 is a Stranger

At the moment that No. 2 singles man is just as much of a stranger to Pate as you are. If he had to pick one now, he undoubtedly would select Bobby Riggs, the Nation's second-ranking star. But between now and Aug. 24, when Pate must name his squad, a lot of things can happen.

"Someone might beat Riggs at Seabright, Rye, and Newport," Pate explained. "I'm not saying that's likely to happen, but you can't dismiss the possibility. And any player able to do that certainly would be a hard one to overlook."

Several of the candidates for the No. 2 spot are well-established figures. One is Riggs. Another is Parker, who looked "very good indeed" in winning at Spring Lake. Then there are Bitsy Grant, despite the fact he labeled himself a "quitter" in last year's interzone finals with Germany; Don McNill, indoor champion from Oklahoma City, and Wilmer Allison and Sidney Wood.

But Pate also has a surprise contender up his sleeve in black-haired, intent Gil Hunt of Washington, D. C. Fellows like Joe Hunt, Wayne Sabin, Hal Surface, McNeill, and Mako stand high above his No. 19 ranking, but that won't stand in Hunt's way as far as Pate is concerned.

Has Fine Half-Volley

"Somewhere, in between his studies for several degrees, Gil has worked up a game that has no discernible flaw and one extraordinarily strong point," said Pate. "He has developed a half-volley comparable to Henri Cochet's."

Hunt, a runner up to Allison at Longwood a year ago, already has won two tournaments, at Nassau and Baltimore.

Open-minded on the singles problem, the Davis Cup chief is less open to suggestion on a new doubles partner for Budge.

"I'd hate to take the responsibility for breaking up a team like that," Pate explained. "Mako is capable of playing and has played better doubles than Budge ever will, and Don would be the first to admit it. Of course, there have been times when Gene was down-right punk. But he has a knack for being at his best when the ships are down, and it would be hard work to break in any new combination that would be effective in a game where closely coordinated teamwork is so essential."

It would be particularly difficult in the brief time that will be at the cup defenders' disposal. Between the close of the national doubles at Brookline and the start of the challenge round Sept. 3 at Germantown, the Americans will have only five days to work together under Pate's direction.

Yanks, Pirates Lead Races In Major Leagues

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—The New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates, leaders in the American and National Leagues, respectively continued to maintain a fairly safe margin of wins over their nearest rivals as major league baseball swung into its 18th week with approximately 50 more games for each team to go.

Winning six of its eight games this week, the New York Yankees lengthened its lead over the Cleveland Indians to 7½ games, while the high-stepping Pitt Pirates aggregation in the National loop was comfortably ahead of the New York Giants by a 4½ game margin, despite a bad week in which it won only two of its five games.

The neck and neck race between the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs for third place in the National loop ended this week in favor of Chicago Cubs by one game. Both teams were tied for third last week.

Major league standings remained for the most part unchanged. Philadelphia Pillies and the St. Louis Browns still hold the cellar of their respective loops. Team standings including games played today were as follows:

American League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York Yankees	68	33	.673
Cleveland Indians	60	40	.600
Boston Red Sox	55	43	.561
Washington Senators	55	51	.519
Detroit Tigers	49	55	.471
Chicago White Sox	42	51	.447
Philadelphia Athletics	36	62	.367
St. Louis Browns	36	65	.356

43,000 See Dean

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, July 23—Dizzy Dean, the $185,000 enigma of baseball and perhaps the most talented performer of his time when putting a serious mind to it, swept back today as the most commanding figure of the National League pennant race.

By the sheer wizardry of his right arm, which at no time seemed to zoom across a single one of the dazzling fast balls of old, Ol' Diz tripped the Giants and hurled Gabby Hartnett's Cubs to a brilliant 3-to-1 victory in the second game of the day's double-header.

The first game also went to Gabby's suddenly revivified clan. They won this one behind Bill Lee, 7 to 4, by routing Harry Gumbert with a six-run splurge in the second inning to set the stage for a double triumph that sent a capacity crowd of 43,223 roaring out of the arena.

Chicagoans Rush On

For the two victories edged the Chicagoans to within two and a half lengths of the scond-place Giants, who dropped to a similar distance behind the pace-setting Pirates.

It was Dean, though, who supplied the whole show, which not even a spirited fist fight between Dick Bartell and Billy Jurges in the fourth inning could dim.

The Great One allowed only five hits, all singles, got two blows himself, one a double, and consumed in all only 1 hour and 39 minutes to complete a job which he seemed to do with almost ridiculous ease.

Dean delivered exactly eighty-eight pitches, walked one batter and fanned five to hang up his fifth victory of the year, against no defeats.

It was the first time this year the Giants had glimpsed Dean, who was making the second start of his recent come-back, and after it was all over they were frank to confess they had never seen anything quite like it.

Look Vainly for Speed

Straining and waiting in vain for that famed hard, high one Ol' Diz used to "fog through," the Terry forces fished futilely for a sweeping side-arm curve and a tantalizing "glider" that slid harmlessly off their bats as if it was operated on a string.

Gone with the fast ball was all the inimitable braggadocio of Dean. For it was a serious-minded Diz who outpitched Hal Schumacher, and not until it was all over did he allow himself a broad grin as the jovial Hartnett and the others rushed out to shower him with congratulations.

Schumacher had luck against him from the start. The Cubs scored a run in the first without a hit. Jurges walked, stole second, and after Billy Herman had grounded out, Stan Hack lifted a high fly to Bob Seeds in Left. Bob's throw to third to head off Jurges went wide and Jurges scored.

In the second the Giants got the run back, a pass to Mel Ott, who later got two of the five Giant singles, a hit by Johnny McCarthy and Seeds's fly to left tying the score.

Reynolds Sends in Run

But in the fourth the Cubs broke the deadlock with two tallies, and these settled the game. A double by Carl Reynolds and two outs accounted for the first run. Rip Collins followed with a single, and so did Dean for his second hit.

Then Jurges doubled to center, Collins scored and the next moment there was a great flare-up as Jurges, trapped between second and third, crashed into Bartell for the third out. The two gamecocks went at it at once and it took nearly all the players on both sides to pry them apart. Both were then bounced from the game by the umpires.

New York Attack Sputters

Once the Cubs uprooted Gumbert with that six-run explosion there was really little that could be done about the opener. For, despite the fact that the Giants kept poking away at Lee's offerings until they had run up a total of fourteen blows, they never seemed able to keep any sort of concerted drive going.

Singles by Jimmy O'Dea, who was doing the chores behind the plate for Manager Hartnett in this game, and Augie Galan started the Cub rush in the second inning that plunged Gumbo out of the fray and eventually to his eighth defeat of the year against the same number of victories.

Reynolds followed with a double to score one, and after Frank Demaree walked, filling the bases, Collins banged in two more with a single to right.

That sent Dick Coffman rushing up for relief but the relief did not come at once. For Lee here took it upon himself to tear off a line smash to right center, and though Jimmy Ripple got his hands on the ball, he could not hold it, and as the ball rolled away for a triple, two more galloped home amid an ear-splitting din.

One Splurge Sufficient

Presently Lee came in on Billy Herman's fly to right, to round out the cluster of six for the inning, and that proved all the Cubs needed, although they did pick up one more off Coffman in the sixth on Galan's double. Demaree's infield hit and a fly by Collins.

After Ott's double had pushed one run across in the first and Ripple's single had poked another home in the third the Giants never got anything going until the seventh. Even then, though they reeled off four straight hits, the last one a double by Leiber, they came up with only two runs, chiefly because our Sambo Leslie stalled the rally by getting himself thrown out on a futile try for an extra base.

Babe Ruth Is Winner Of Home Run Hitting

Babe Ruth, former home run king and who recently was signed up as a coach for the Brooklyn Dodgers after several years of retirement, can still sock the apple, as is evidenced from the fact that he won a $50 first prize in a long distance hitting contest staged at St. Louis on July 23, according to a Domei mail dispatch.

Measurements were taken accurately by an army anti-aircraft firing range finding device.

Katy Thompson Retains 3d U.S. Swimming Title

N.Y. Herald Tribune

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 23—Two championships remained intact and two passed into new hands today as a capacity crowd of 1,800 turned out for the second day of the Amateur Athletic Union national outdoor aquatic meet for women.

Topping the title brigade was Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson, of the Miami Beach (Fla.) Swimming Club, who successfully defended her third title in the 440-yard freestyle championship.

Miss Iris Cummings, of the Los Angeles, Athletic Club, held fast to her 220-yard breaststroke crown, but the Women's Swimming Association team, of New York, took charge of the 880-yard relay, ending a three-year reign of the Washington Athletic Club, of Seattle, and Miss Jeanne Laupheimer, of Brooklyn, captured the 220-yard breaststroke event, dethroning comely Miss Erna Kompa, of New York.

Mrs. Thompson, who tomorrow will defend her fourth championship, the 880-yard freestyle, stroked through the blue waters of the Biltmore Coral Casino pool in the 440 in 5 minutes 34.5 seconds. Twenty yards back came fourteen-year-old Miss Ann Hardin, of Louisville. Third and fourth places went to two Portland, Ore., girls, the Misses Nancy Merki and Brenda Helser.

The summaries:

220-yard breaststroke—Won by Miss Iris Cummings, L. A. A. C., Los Angeles; Miss Helene Rains, W. S. A., New York, second; Miss Edith Pemberton, unattached, San Mateo, Calif., third; Miss Dorothy Schiller, Shawanee C. C., Chicago, fourth. Time, 3:18.7.

880-yard relay—Won by the Women's Swimming Association, New York (Misses Helene Rains, Gloria Callen, Marvis Freeman and Elizabeth Ryan); Los Angeles A. C., second; Washington A. C., Seattle, third. Time, 10:55.5.

220-yard backstroke—Won by Miss Jeanne Laupheimer, St. George Dragon Club, W. S. A., second; Miss Ann Cooney, Multnomah A. C., Portland, Ore., third; Miss Erna Kompa, W. S. A., fourth. Time, 3:00.2.

400-yard swim—Won by Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson, Miami Beach Swimming Club, Miami Beach, Fla.; Miss Ann Hardin, Lakeside Club, Louisville, second; Miss Nancy Merki, Multnomah A. C., Portland, Ore., third; Miss Brenda Helser, Multnomah A. C., fourth.

Team standings—Women's Swimming Association, New York, 25; Los Angeles A. C., 19; Miami Beach Swimming Cub, 15; Lakeside Club, Louisville, 8; Washington A. C., Seattle, 5; Dragon Club, Broonlyn, 5; Multnoham Club, Portland, Ore., 5; Fairmont Club, San Francisco, 3; Shawnee C. C., Chicago, 1; San Pedro, Calif., Swimming Club, 1.

British Ruggers Win 7th Game In South Africa

London Times

PRETORIA, July 13—The British Rugby football touring team scored their seventh victory in South Africa when they beat a strong Northern Transvaal side, which included seven internationals, by 20 points (two goals, one dropped goal, and two penalty goals) to 12 points (one goal, one dropped goal, and one try) here today. The Northern Transvaal side is one of the strongest likely to be met during the tour. Captained by D. Craven, they had several players who have toured England.

By holding the Northern Transvaal pack, which was much heavier than their own and contained five Springboks, all of whom are considered to have a good chance of playing for South Africa again this year, the British side did much to re-establish themselves after Saturday's defeat.

The teams were:—

British XI.—G. J. Morgan (Old Belvedere and Ireland), back; E. J. Unwin (The Army and England), D. J. Macrae (St. Andrew's University and Scotland), and C. V. Boyle (Dublin University and Ireland), three-quarter backs; B. E. Nicholson (Harlequins and England) and H. Tanner (Swansea and Wales), half back; G. T. Dancer (Bedford), W. Travers (Newport and Wales), M. E. Morgan (Swansea and Wales), C. R. A. Graves (Wanderers and Ireland), S. Walker (Instonians and Ireland), A. R. Taylor (Cross Keys and Wales), R. B. Mayne (Queen's University and Ireland), and I. Williams (Cardiff), forwards.

Northern Transvaal.—C. Colenbrander, back; J. Broodrik, J. C. Glies, W. Kriel, and F. Venter, three-quarter backs; Du Toit and D. Craven, half-backs; H. J. Martin, P. Tindale, F. de Wet, G. P. Uys, A. R. Sheriff, W. F. Bergh, L. C. Strachan, and J. Bierman, forwards.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"---by Ripley

The Last of the Sailing Whalers

The Centenarian Whaler "Truelove," built in Philadelphia in 1764, sailed the seas for 106 years. She was outfitted as a privateer in 1776, but was captured by a British cruiser and sold to a shipping firm in Hull, England. During the war against France, she served as a man-of-war against France. In 1784 she was transformed as a whaler, and made 80 voyages to Greenland, crossing the Atlantic and the Arctic 160 times. She captured 500 whales worth about $5,000,000, withstood successfully a dozen ice jams, rescued the crews of 21 shipwrecks, and always escaped without a scratch. She made her last whaling trip in 1808, and was then used in the Norway-England ice trade. Although she was "handy as a cutter, safe as a lifeboat, tight as a bottle" after 106 years of seafaring, she was pronounced unseaworthy and broken up.

AUSTRALIA TAKES OPENING SINGLES FROM REICH

Bromwich Beats Henkel; Quist Tops Von Metaxa

Australia took an impressive lead over Germany Thursday in the opening day of the Davis Cup inter-zone finals at the Longwood Tennis Club at Brooklyn, Mass., by winning both singles, according to a dispatch this morning to Domei.

John Bromwich, Australia's No. 1 player who lost to Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano for the only Japanese victories in the recent finals of the American zone at Montreal, was in superb form and virtually swamped Henner Henkel, the Reich ace and third world's ranking player last year, in the first match. He took only an hour in winning, the score being 6-2, 6-3 and 6-3.

In the match that followed, Adrian Quist of Australia likewise won in three straight sets from Henkel's team-mate, George von Metaxa, 6-3, 6-2 and 6-1.

The result of the matches Thursday were indicative of Germany's weakness without the presence of Baron Gottfried von Cramm, who almost carried his team to victory over America in the inter-zone finals last year.

Bromwich and Quist are strongly favored to beat Henkel and von Metaxa in the doubles scheduled for today and thereby clinch the right to play the United States in the challenge round.

Australians Heavily Favored

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLYN, Mass., Aug. 18—Australia's powerful 1938 Davis Cup team, which won a 3-to-2 victory over Japan at Montreal last Sunday, was heavily favored this morning to repeat its triumph against Germany in the interzone final and thus gain the right to meet America in the Challenge Round.

With play scheduled to start 2 p.m. today at the Longwood Tennis Club, both teams wound up their practice sessions at dusk yesterday and were this morning resting in preparation for the matches. Members of the German team voiced frank pessimism regarding their chances of winning the series.

Suffering from a pulled muscle in his right arm, Henner Henkel, mainstay of the Reich team, said that he felt somewhat better today after having the arm treated by a doctor, but he added that it would surprise him if he succeeded in beating John Bromwich, Australian ace, in this afternoon's opening singles matches.

Henkel's team-mate, Georges von Metaxa, who is scheduled to meet Adrian Quist, of Australia, in the second match, meanwhile told reporters that he thought the heat too great for the Germans to play their best.

Bromwich, who was responsible for both Japan's victories in the recent Montreal matches, seemed to have regained his touch in yesterday's final workout and is believed likely to overcome Henkel this afternoon.

Newark Halts Montreal's Winning Streak

N.Y. Times

MONTREAL, July 21—League-leading Newark halted the Royals' unbeaten streak at nine games tonight by winning, 3—1, in the first game of a double-header, Marius Russo, young Newark southpaw, held Montreal to six hits. The Bears made only six hits themselves, but four of them were good for extra bases, one a homer by Jimmy Gleeson.

Hawaiians Surprised Fans Of Honolulu By Beating Waseda Nine By 5-1 Score

By WALLACE HIRAI

Nippu Jiji

HONOLULU, July 28—Just as local ball fans were about to make up their minds that the Waseda ball nine is a mite too good for our Hawaii league teams, something happened at the Stadium yesterday and now the folks don't know what to think of the invaders.

In their first appearance here on Sunday, the Japanese collegians played million-dollar ball to annihilate a better-than-average Braves club, 10 to 0.

Yesterday, the man turned around and bit the dog, with the result I have a surprising story to relate today.

Due to their near-perfect performance in their initial start, the Tokyo school boys were heavy favorites to take the Hawaiians into camp. Conceded only an outside chance to win, the Native Sons played a bangup game to offset the favorites by the tune of 5 to 1.

Yesterday's contest was a duplication of the Waseda-Braves tilt, only this time Waseda was on the taking end.

Al Silences Waseda Guns

A veritable Big Bertha against the Indians' pitching, the Waseda offense crumbled to pieces against Al Nalua's sharp speed and fast-breaking curves. Usually wild and erratic, Nalua held the invaders to five hits, struck out four and walked the same number. His teammates afforded him wonderful support afield, with Iwa Mamiya, one of the two Japanese players who performed for the Natives, running off with the fielding laurels with nine perfect chances in the alley.

I might point out here that Iwa was the real hero of the contest though Nalua contributed a lion's share to the Natives' unexpected victory.

What really knocked the spirit out of the Japanese aggregation was Iwa's sensational fielding in the fifth frame. Catcher Ogusu, first up, slammed a hard single to center. Pitcher Ishiguro popped out weakly to Backstop "Sleepy" Meyer, after which Reizo Asai cracked a Texas leaguer beyond Thirdbaseman Chico Gamez' reach.

To the spectators, it seemed a miracle had happened when Iwa raced down fast and made a leaping catch of the ball. No other Honolulu shortstop but Iwa could have made such a catch. That putout was important because immediately afterward Yasuo Murase, shortstop, hammered a single to right, advancing Ogusu all the way to third. Zenji Miyoshi, left fielder, grounded out to Iwa for the final out.

Possible Rally Checked

Now, had Iwa missed Asai's low fly over third, Ogusu would have tallied on Murase's hit. With two on and only one hand gone, Miyoshi might have hit safely. Anyway, the Wasedas would have been in a fine position to rally.

As it was, they failed to accomplish anything, so the collegians were mighty downhearted because at that time they were trailing by one run, the Honolulans having tallied their initial marker in the third period as Richard Yamada squeezed in Gamez, who had got on an infield hit, moved to second on Nalua's sacrifice and gained a peg on Ishiguro's wild throw to second in attempting to pick off the runner.

The game's first turning point came in the third. After two away, Asai punched out the first Waseda hit off Nalua, then Murase and Miyoshi walked in succession. Saburo Nagata, third in the batting order, appeared at the plate. He took a cut at the first pitched ball, flied out to Nalua to rescue the latter from a tight fix.

Should Have Waited

Under the circumstances, a smart ball player would have waited for the full count, or at least until the pitcher seemed to have the better of it in the matter of the count. Nalua had walked two in a row, and it was evident that he was having a tough time controlling his pitches. With the bases loaded, a walk would have served just as well as a hit. The team at bat certainly couldn't risk a chance, especially with two hands gone.

Waseda's scoring chances were confined to the fruitless third and fifth and the sixth, when Coach Katsuo Tanaka's student players suddenly took heart and whipped over their first and only point. Capt. Takasu, who forced Nagata then stole second, returned on Minamimura's single to right center. Minamimura remained stranded on third when Ogusu failed to come through. Batting before Minamimura was the powerfully built Go, who struck out.

In the eighth, Miyoshi, first up, singled to left. It seemed then that the Wasedas would pull through with at least a run or a couple of them. But once again they were stifled as Dick Yamada and Iwa Mamiya doubled off Miyoshi and Takasu.

Meyer Triples In Iwa

After scoring their first marker in the third, the locals added two more in the lower sixth, Mamiya returning on Meyer's triple to left and Manuel Cordeiro driving in "Sleepy" with a single to center. Cordeiro, incidentally, was the game's leading swatsman with three out of four. He and Sonny Fernandez and Gamez, all of the victors, were the only ones to connect safely more than once.

For good measure Ted Nobriga's men nailed Ishiguro with two more in the eighth. Cordeiro and Art Nobriga singled in order then Gamez rifled a double to center to chase in both runners.

In all, the Natives hammered out 10 hits off Ishiguro.

For a week-day crowd, yesterday's was an appreciable one. About a thousand attended the contest.

The visitors will play the Chinese next on Saturday. Then on Sunday, they will meet Navy. They will conclude their series here against the Wanderers and Asahis the following Saturday and Sunday.

Formal Bids Received To Send Wrestlers, Boxers To Philippines

Formal invitations were received Thursday from Dr. Regino Ylanan, honorary secretary of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, for the dispatch of a Japanese boxing team and wrestling team as well to the Philippines for competition from December to January next, it was revealed Friday by the Japan Amateur Boxing and Wrestling Federation.

If the bids are accepted, leaving by the N.Y.K. liner Atsuta Maru from Kobe on December 17 would be a coach and five boxers and an official and four wrestlers. Their return to Kobe is slated on January 26 aboard the Kamo Maru.

South Kanto Contingent Beaten By Heian Nine In Middle School Play

One run in the second inning coming as a result of three singles won for the Heian Middle School of Kyoto against the Asano Middle School, South Kanto district representatives, 1 to 0, in the quarter-finals of the 24th annual Osaka Mainichi national middle school baseball championships Thursday at the Koshien Stadium near Osaka.

In the two other games of the day, the Gifu Commercial nine blanked the Shimonoseki Commercial squad, 5 to 0, while the Koyo Middle School bumped off the Tottori Middle School, 3 to 0.

The semi-finals, slated for today, the seventh day of the series, are: Takasaki Commercial versus Heian Middle School; Koyo Middle School versus Gifu Commercial.

British Complain Of Heavyweight Boxers In Country

London Observer

LONDON, July 24—The position with regard to the British and Empire heavyweight championships is thoroughly unsatisfactory. There seems to be very little hope that Farr will return to defend his titles, and even if he did, difficulties would arise in connection with the £750 which the Boxing Board of Control has ordered him to pay.

Phillips and Doyle have been matched for a contest at Harringay on September 13. There is no doubt that this will attract a large crowd, but it will be sensations and not boxing that they will be there for. It is not generally realized that Doyle has met only two first-class men, Petersen and the younger Baer. Against Petersen the Irishman was disqualified in the second round, and he was knocked out by Baer in the first.

Phillips had little difficulty in evading the heavy swings of Foord, who is faster than Doyle, and he ought to win with some ease, notwithstanding the two stone or so he will be giving away. But Phillips, though he did very well against Foord, is capable of most inexplicable lapses. If Doyle casts caution to the winds and goes all out for a quick win he may succeed, for Phillips is a very nervous starter, but if the Irishman tries to box, as he did against Levinsky, he is a certain loser.

James, the young heavyweight champion of Wales, is very promising quite as much so, in fact, as Farr was a couple of years ago. He is a sound and skilful boxer, with a heavy punch in either hand. Like most men of his long and rangey build, he has developed rather late, but is now putting on weight fast. Various estimates of his height and weight have been given, but after seeing him several times I should put him at about 6 ft 3 in. and 14 stone, which is big enough for anything. He will, however, probably put on another half stone or more. His latest performance has been to stop Jacob Schonrath, a tough German boxer, in five rounds. James would already extend to the full any boxer we have in the country, but it is his almost unlimited possibilities of improvement that make him interesting.

Another young boxer of the highest promise is Boon, the lightweight. His latest contest was against Renard, the champion of Belgium, who is said never previously to have been knocked out. Boon, by terrific hitting, stopped him in the first minute. He is under the management to Broadribb, who is not likely to make the mistake of overworking him or keeping him too long in the lightweight division. Boon has an attractive style of boxing and hits tremendously hard. Attempts are being made to match him with Danahar, the ex-amateur, who is unbeaten as a professional. Boon's heavier hitting should pull him through if the contest takes place.

Negro Armstrong Beats Ambers For Lightweight Title

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — Henry Armstrong, sensational negro boxer from Los Angeles, last night won his third ring title by a decision over Lou Ambers, world lightweight champion, before a crowd of 18,000 in the Madison Square Garden.

The clever negro fighter, who has already annexed the feather and welterweight crowns, thus became the first boxer in ring history to hold three world's fisticuffs championships simultaneously.

Galento Ill

ORANGE, N. J., July 24—Tony Galento, heavyweight boxer who was scheduled to meet John Henry Lewis in a fifteen-round bout in Philadelphia Tuesday, is a "very sick man," according to Dr. Joseph Higi, his personal physician. At the Orange Memorial Hospital, where he is being treated for lobar pneumonia under an oxygen tent, it was said that, while he was conscious, his breathing was hard and his condition could be described as serious.

Shortly after noon today, Dr. Higi called into consultation Dr. Norman Plummer, a pneumonia specialist of New York; Dr. Dean Marquiz of East Orange and Dr. W. H. A. Warner of Orange.

Galento was given two blood transfusions, one at 4 p.m. and the other at 6 p.m. In the first operation a pint of blood given by Detective Sergeant Joseph McGinley of the East Orange police was infused into his veins. Patrolman Fred Millman of the Orange police gave a similar quantity of blood for the second infusion.

Unaware of Transfusions

Physicians attending the patient, fearing that they might depress his spirits, did not let him know that his blood supply was being replenished. The blood was taken from the veins of the two police officers in one room, then carried into another room and administered, Galento being told that the injections were of liquid food.

Physicians said that reaction from the infused blood will not be felt by the patient for twelve hours. His temperature throughout the day was stationary at 104 degrees. At one time last night it was 105.6.

The pugilist's doctors said they did not know whether he would experience the crisis which usually is associated with pneumonia cases.

Both Sergeant McGinley and Patrolman Millman are on the hospital's regular list of blood donors, and both are friends of the patient, McGinley having, on different occasions, served him as bodyguard. Both have the Type 3 blood required.

X-Ray Pictures Made

Last night, X-rays taken of the fighter indicated lobar congestion of the left lung, and throughout the night he was being watched lest the infection spread to the other lung. While his condition has not grown worse, he is far from having passed the critical stage of his illness.

Lewis, his manager, Gus Greenlee, and Herman Taylor, promoter of the canceled bout, drove from Philadelphia during the evening and visited Galento.

After a consultation physicians permitted them to see the stricken man.

Lewis, it was learned, shook hands with Galento, saying "Awfully sorry, Tony. Hope you get well soon."

"I'll be all right," Galento was said to have replied. "Remember, I've got a date with you."

Encouragement also was offered by the other visitors. Several hundred persons gathered outside the hospital when they learned that Lewis was in the institution.

The Merchant Prince of Ivanhoe

Corbett's Department Store in Ivanhoe, N.C., is getting along all right despite the fact that there has never been a customer in it. Customers can't get in because of Corbett's merchandising policy. From floor to ceiling is stacked all the miscellany of the country emporium, in the wildest disarray. Whenever a new order of goods comes in, it is pitched on top. It might be coal scuttles, and on top of that is pitched dress goods, and if the next shipment is plowpoints, they're piled right on top of the dress goods. The customer gives his order from outside, and Corbett, armed with a flashlight, edges between the narrow stacks of goods and digs out the wanted article. Corbett says lots of storekeepers make fun of the place, but it suits him and his customers all right.

Waseda Nine Vanquishes Chinese, 3-0, Navy, 7-5 To Capture Honolulu Fans

By WALLACE HIRAI
Nippu Jiji

HONOLULU, Aug. 1—Kanemitsu "Lefty" Kondo, kingpin of the Waseda pitching staff, pulled off an iron-man stunt at the Stadium over the week-end.

After shutting out the Chinese, 3 to 0, on Saturday, the bespectacled southpaw beat the Navy yesterday, 7 to 5, in a ten-inning encounter. In yesterday's torrid tussle, however, Kondo pitched only five innings, having entered the fray in the sixth when the two preceding Waseda twirlers, Eizo Matsui and Chuzo Ishiguro, got themselves entwined in too many troubles.

Coach Katsuo Tanaka's decision to lift Ishiguro in favor of Kondo was a wise move for without Kondo, the visiting collegians certainly would have lost to Skipper John Halloran's mates who found both Matsui and Ishiguro to their liking.

Kondo, on the other hand, proved to be a big headache to the Jack Tars. The gobs, like the Chinese and Braves, just couldn't solve the southpaw's tricky delivery. So much so that only two sailors got on, one via a walk and another by a hit.

Through his wonderful pitching yesterday and in his two earlier starts, Kondo completely won over the hearts of the 5,000 spectators who attended yesterday's double bill. Kondo, in their estimation, is one of the greatest moundsmen to visit Hawaii from Japan.

The record he has compiled thus far brims with excellence, superbness and every other adjective you would have.

Totals 27 Strikeouts

In the 23 innings he has pitched, he hasn't issued a single run. Against the Braves, he allowed only five hits, struck out nine and walked two. Against the Chinese, he yielded only three hits, struck out ten and allowed only a single pass. Hit only once by Navy, in 23 frames the popular southpaw has given out a total of eight blows, only one of which was an extra-base hit. This two-bagger was collected by Al Duarte in the Braves game. Either Shortstop Murase or Left Fielder Miyoshi could have caught the ball but the pellet dropped in safe territory when the two Waseda players stopped short of the ball, fearing a collision.

The fact that Kondo has allowed only eight bingles stamps him as a better-than-average tosser, but the amazing thing about this southpaw is his strikeout record. In 23 innings, my dearies, he has whiffed 27! That's something in anybody's league, and even a Grove or a Dean would gloat over such a mark.

Besides specializing in deception, Kondo is also a great one for control. He has walked only four.

Of Kondo's pitching, Earl Vida, coach of the Chinese, remarked after Saturday's game: "He's a mighty good bluffer. The batter can't guess what he's going to throw over. His drops are beautiful. Kondo really doesn't have to use curves to fool the batters. His delivery alone is hard to figure out. Besides having what it takes to be a good pitcher, Kondo is one of those 'head' players. That fellow certainly uses his head."

Kondo Drives Run

A compliment like this coming from a judge like "Lako," who was a handy man himself once upon a time, and even now, there's no question that Kondo is a real capable hombre.

Against the Chinese, Kondo needed only one run to win the game. His teammates went him two better by providing him three runs with four hits in the third frame.

Catcher Ogusu fired up the rally with a three-base explosion to left center. Kondo, following him, made up his mind that he'd win his own game, so immediately he punched a hit to right, scoring Ogusu. Asai grounded out, but Murase singled, sending Kondo across the plate. Murase tallied later on Go's wallop to right.

Go, incidentally, accounted for the team's third homer yesterday, plunting the pellet into the right center in Section 5 of the football bleachers. It was a terrific drive, the ball clearing the barrier by several yards.

Go's homer was an important factor in deciding yesterday's contest against the Navy because at the time the sailors were leading by 4-2. The circuit came with one aboard, and it tied the score.

Halloran Triples

Navy pinned the first figure in the scoring column with a four-run burst in the fourth. Skipper Halloran personally took charge of the rally with a three-base lead-off to deep left. Both Conley and "Doc" Howk walked.

With the chips down, Dave Warfield slapped a two-baser to center to score Halloran and Conley. Pyrdol's deep fly to right center scored Howk, then Warfield returned when Matsui uncorked a wild one past catcher. When Cerillo and Jemison hit in succession, Matsui was called off the box. Catcher Ogusu left the game in the same canto when a "duster" by Ishiguro found him in the knee-cap.

In the following inning, Asai's infield hit to pitcher and Murase's walk provided the collegians with their first big opportunity. In the preceding period, Minamimura singled and Takasu followed with a double but as two hands were away, the hits proved ineffective as Ogusu, though one of the hardest hitters on the team, faded on a grounder to short.

In the third, Asai seemed headed for his second homer but Dave Warfield denied the Waseda centerfielder even a single with a beautiful catch within a few yards of the scoreboard.

With Asai and Murase on, Miyoshi grounded to short. Cerillo, overanxious for a double out threw wild to Pyrdol. By the time the ball was retrieved, Waseda had tallied two and another runner was safely perched on third. But Waseda's hopes for a third run flickered out when on Nagata's grounder, Miyoshi was thrown out at the plate, Bertero to Howk. It was immediately after this play that Go hoisted a long fly into the bleachers for an unquestionable homer.

Sailors Lead Again

Navy jumped into the lead again, Warfield singling in Conley in the lower half of the same frame, but a determined Waseda nine tied the accounts again in the sixth, Kataoka, pinch hitting for Ishiguro, doubling home Tsujii, who had singled to get on. Waseda might have tallied another marker but Kataoka was nabbed at the plate, Pyrdol to Howk.

Cerilla walked and Jemison singled in the sixth but Jemison was recalled. Chief Ump "Kanky" Chun ordered a replay, nullifying Jemison's hit because Kondo had balked. On his second attempt Jemison popped out to Capt. Takasu, second sacker.

With "Lefty" Fastnacht holding his own against Kondo, the game lagged on scoreless until the tenth when Fastnacht finally crumbled before the timelier hitting team.

When Minamimura led off with a double to left, the spectators knew that the game was all over. Takasu bunted in an attempt to advance Minamimura but the latter played safe and the Waseda captain was thrown out at first. Minamimura made up with a steal to third and sprinted all the way home when Bertero missed Catcher Howk's peg.

Three In Row!

Tsujii walked. Kondo flied out to Bertero. The latter, on picking up Asai's grounder, pegged wide to Halloran to continue Waseda's life at the plate. Murase singled sharply to center, driving in Tsujii.

Read carefully as to what Kondo did to the three Navy batsmen who opposed him in the lower tenth.

Conley. Strikeout. Yates, Strikeout. Warfield. Strikeout. Three in a row, and Kondo didn't even pitch a dozen times.

Waseda Nine Returns From Jaunt To Hawaii

With an impressive record of eight victories and but one setback, the Waseda University baseball team returned this morning on the N.Y.K. liner Chichibu Maru at Yokohama from Honolulu. In charge of 16 players were Dr. Tadaoki Yamamoto and Coach Katsuo Tanaka.

The Maroons were proclaimed the best Japanese collegiate team ever to perform in Honolulu, according to information from Hawaii.

Also returning aboard the same steamer was the Waseda University fencing team after a tour of the west coast of the United States.

Miss Ito Cracks National 50-Meter Backstroke Mark

All favorites qualified in the trials held Friday in the three-day national swimming championships at the Koshien pool near Osaka. Masamori Yusa, former national sprint champion, and Noboru Terada of Keio, 1,500-meter Olympic champion at Berlin in 1936, did not compete.

The only record of the day was established by Miss Satoshi Ito of the Nakaizumi Higher School when she won her heat in the 50-meter backstroke in 39 seconds flat.

Shibabara Wins Diving

Tsuneo Shibabara of Nihon University defended his title in the men's springboard championship, scoring a total of 144.92 points. Second was Koyanagi of Waseda with 138.52 points. Third was Kubo, a newcomer from the Third Kobe Commercial School, with 110.78 points.

Tomikatsu Amano of Nihon University, who recently shattered Arne Borg's 11-year standing record in the 1,500-meter freestyle, slashing it by eight seconds, showed himself a strong contender for the 400-meter freestyle title and possibly a new national or even a world record by negotiating the distance in the best time of 4 minutes 49.6 seconds without any pressure.

The results of the semi-finals were:

Men's 50-meter backstroke—A heat: first, Yasuhiko Kojima (Mita), 31.8 secs.; second, Kono (Nihon University); third, Akira (Nichiritsu Kozan); fourth, Hiraga (Rikkyo); B heat: first Toshiro Taniguchi (Nihon), 32 secs.; second, Sakamoto (Rikkyo); third, Nakanishi (Ashi Swimming Club); fourth, Moriya (Rikkyo).

Men's 100-meter breaststroke—A heat: first, Tetsuo Hamuro (Nihon), 1 min. 17.2 secs.; second, Oura (Rikkyo); third, Nagahisa (Mita); fourth, Shimizu (Doshisha); B heat: Reizo Koike (Shizuura), 1 min. 14.4 secs.; second, Ito (Showa Kogyo); third, Hamuro (Nihon).

Men's 400-meter freestyle—A heat: first, Takeshi Sasaki (Nihon), 60 secs.; second, Koyanagi (Chukyo Commercial); third, Ota (Miyakojima Ko); fourth, Miyagi (Taiwan Communications). B heat: Sakae Tsuruoka (Rikkyo), 62.6 seconds; second, Shoda (Kwansei Gakuin); third, Nezu (Shizuoka Middle School); fourth, Yokobayashi (Taiwan Railways).

Men's 100-meter freestyle—A heat: first, Tomikatsu Amano (Nihon), 4 mins. 49.6 secs.; second, Koshito (Nihon); third, Honma (Rikkyo); fourth, Asano (Chukyo Commercial); B heat: Shigeo Arai (Rikkyo) 4 mins. 51.3 secs.; second, Miyamoto (Tadotsu Middle School); third, Kurihara (Nihon); fourth, Baba (Nihon).

Women's 400-meter freestyle—A heat: first, Hana Miura (Yokohama Swimming Club), 6 mins. 8 secs.; second, Miss Fumiko (Doi Kojo); third, Miss Kajita (Aichi Shukutoku); fourth, Miss Kishida (Kyoto Furitsu Nijo). B heat: first, Shinako Tatematsu (Sugiyama Jogakuin), 6 mins. 14.2 secs.; second, Miss Muraoka (Osaka Jugo); third, Miss Sakaguchi (Nakaizumi Kojo); fourth, Miss Nagata (Tomazu Jogakuin).

Women's 100-meter freestyle—A heat: first, Miye Takuma (Hagoromo Kojo), 1 min. 16.4 secs.; second, Miss Iijima (Tokyo Furitsu Rokujo); third, Miss Matsumura (Yamaguchi Kojo); fourth, Miss Fujita (Tosa Kojo); B heat: first, Miyoko Taniguchi (Nijo Kojo) 1 min. 16.6 secs.; second, Miss Furuta (Joshi Taisen); third, Miss Inouye (Aichi Ichijo); fourth, Miss Eda (Taihoku Kojo).

Women's 50-meter backstroke—A heat: first, Masako Soda (Hiroshima Girls School), 40.4 secs; second, Miss Kitajima (Sugiyama Jogakuin); third, Miss Unekawa (Doi Kojo); fourth, Miss Ariga (Kyoto Furitsu Nijo). B heat: first, Satoshi Ito (Nakaizumi Kojo), 39.6 secs.; second, Miss Yamamoto (Aichi Shukutoku); third, Miss Yamane (Shijo Kojo); fourth, Miss Hirota (Kobe Nijo).

Women's 100-meter breaststroke—A heat: first, Kinuko Nakayama (Tokushima Kojo), 1 min. 33 secs.; second, Miss Nonaka (Tokyo Shijo); third, Miss Nanri (Kobe Nijo); fourth, Miss Hara (Joshi Taisen); B heat: first, Hisako Goto (Taihoku Ichijo); 1 min. 34.2 secs.; second, Miss Kajioka (Doi Kojo); third, Miss Yamasawa (Taichu Kojo); fourth, Miss Azuma (Kyoto Furitsu Ichijo).

Heian Middle School Enters Series' Final

For the fourth year, the Heian Middle School team of Kyoto entered the finals of the annual national middle school baseball championships, sponsored by the Osaka Asahi Shimbun, at the Koshien Stadium, by defeating the Takasaki Commercial team, 7 to 2, Thursday afternoon.

The other semi-finals game between Gifu Commercial and Koyo Middle School started at 2:05 p.m. but was called off at the end of the first inning because of heavy rain. They were scheduled to meet today at 1 p.m.

A hundred thousand fans were on hand.

Vines Making Good In Amateur Golfing Circles

Christian Science Monitor

LOS ANGELES—Ellsworth Vines has turned amateur golf player. The links are inviting him to another career, one which perhaps may be as successful for him as the one he has chopped for himself in the world of glaring courts.

Right now, the ambition of "Elly," one of the greatest tennis players of all times, is to qualify for the national amateur golf tourney via the California preliminary.

There are several sound reasons why he should branch out. The chief is because he likes golf. This would be enough without the others: his Winter swing with Fred Perry, for gold and glory netted him a "tennis" elbow which he wishes to rest in the different exertion required by golf; and he is waiting for Don Budge to turn pro. Vines firmly believes, from the commercial standpoint which most of us would embrace if we were in his shoes, that he can make, with the grand-slam tennis amateur as a partner, more money than he made with William Tilden and the redoubtable Englishman.

A Big Order

That is a big order. Yet he is so sure of its possibilities that he allows circulation of rumors that he would forego his national amateur golf aspirations if Budge would forego amateur ranks before the season is over—itself a highly unlikely event.

What gives hope to a surprise decision on the part of Budge is the tell-tale experiences in the baseball world of the Dean brothers, and Schoolboy Rowe, bush-league pitchers who too few years back were the best in the majors.

No doubt Budge realizes that, if he is to turn pro seriously, he must be in as good shape as are both Vines and Perry. The last named were good enough to give the appearance of equality in the season before last, and no one can prove differently. Vines, however, cleared his conscience by winning a majority of the matches in the season just completed. That's why Budge must be sure he is far from burned out when he "comes out in the open."

Meanwhile Vines is serious enough about his golf to practice it while clipping coupons from his tennis proceeds. He could very easily write a check, without genuflections to any amateur or sponsoring body, for first-class accommodations to the Davis Cup matches in the East this year, but he has stated that his golf means more to him than anything except a sudden decision by Budge. Instead of treating himself to watching the international matches which are still intensely interesting to him, he practices golf every morning, and in the afternoon hooks up with someone for a real match.

To show how good he is with the clubs, he lost in the recent Los Angeles amateur tourney on public courses only to Bruce McCormick, the city fireman who has been low amateur in this town for some time.

Best Tennis-Golf Player

Just as Vines's amateur and professional records at tennis make him a candidate for the greatest tennis player active today, his opponents on the links are ready to say that while he may not as yet be a national amateur champion, he is certainly the best combination tennis-golf player to be had today, anywhere.

His combined efforts suggest the double-duty attempts of others. Wilmer Allison, who is slightly older than Ellsworth, has gone on from his tennis preoccupation to shoot 70 golf with excursions into the 60's from time to time. He is still able to team up with John Van Ryn and make Budge and Gene Mako exert themselves, as they probably will against each other in the national doubles play this year at Longwood.

Others who have tapered off with golf are Maurice McLoughlin, California comet of a generation ago who progressed from the courts to the links, meeting champions on both; and Norman Brookes, the Australia great, who was almost unbeatable with a racquet in his hand and who now gets into the 60's and 70's with niblick and mashie.

Australia Wins Right To Meet U.S. For Trophy

Australia won the right to meet the United States in the challenge round of the Davis Cup international tennis competition beginning on September 3 at the Germantown courts in Philadelphia by taking the doubles from Germany Friday at the Longwood Tennis Club at Brookline, Mass., to lead 3 to 0 in the interzone finals. The results of the remaining two singles matches slated for today will have no bearing on the final outcome.

John Bromwich and Adrian Quist took the measure of Henner Henkel and Georges von Metaxa easily in three straight sets, 6-3, 6-1 and 6-0, according to a dispatch today to Domei.

Henkel Has Sore Arm

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 18—Australia gained a virtual stranglehold on the right to challenge the United States for the possession of the Davis Cup today as both John Bromwich and Adrian Quist easily won their opening singles matches in the interzone final against Germany at the Longwood Tennis Club. The powerful 1938 Australian squad needs only one more victory to clinch the series.

The Australians, favorites to cop the meet, ran roughshod over the German players, taking both matches in straight sets. Bromwich played a masterful game, tumbling Henner Henkel, whose playing was greatly handicapped by a case of tennis elbow, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Quist had a harder time in beating Georges von Metaxa, ranking No. 2 German player, although the scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Suffering from tennis elbow in his right arm, Henner Henkel, mainstay of the German team, proved to be no match for Bromwich. The latter required only one hour to eliminate the German star, whose performance was obviously far from his best. Bromwich hit the corners with amazing accuracy and with great depth, rarely advancing to the net.

The ranking Australian net ace pulled off one drop shot after another catching Henkel in the back court. Steadily running the German ace down, Bromwich took the first two sets, allowing Henkel only six games.

In the last set, with the score 40-love, Henkel twice prevented Bromwich from taking a match point, but after returning a volley of hard drives by the German, the youthful Australian star won the game and match with an overhead smash.

In the second match, Quist found some difficulty in putting away Georges von Metaxa. The German ace pounded out three winning games with strong aces, but later the Australian became steady and pulled out of one crucial point after another with pretty lobs and well placed drop shots.

Outstepping the southpaw opponent from the start, Mextaxa took the first set and then led 2-1. Although early in the game, the German broke Quist's service, but the latter had no trouble thereafter driving rapid right and left far-court shots. In the second set, Quist quickly regained his form and had the German racing all over the court.

The Australian allowed the German to win only five games during the first two sets. In the final set, he raced through seven games. The German took the first game of the last set with a powerful series of services, but after the second game with Quist lobbing the ball with machine-like precision, Metaxa was unable to stop the Australian. Quist tackled down after the first game and raced through the last set. The match ended in approximately 55 minutes.

Quist and Bromwich will be paired against Henkel and von Metaxa in the doubles contest tomorrow. The Australians are expected to win the match without much difficulty in view of the fact that the two players, having teamed up on many occasions, are more qualified for closer cooperation than the German doubles squad.

This afternoon's matches were witnessed by a crowd of some 5,000. The weather was sultry and cloudy.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"---by Ripley

The Horse Doctor

What was once considered the greatest institution of learning in Germany, the University of Berlin, is now headed by the 40-year-old veterinary Dr. Wilhelm Kruger. Dr. Kruger, who is addressed by the title of Your Magnificence, worked a year and a half as a horse doctor in the slaughterhouse of a little provincial town in Germany. Then he emigrated to the United States, where he worked as an assistant to a chicken farmer, as a laborer in a box factory and as a furrier. After 1½ years in America, he returned to Germany, joined the Nazi movement, and is now Rector of the University of Berlin.

The Longest Barrel Roll

Colonel Sir Edward Sabin (1788-1883) went to Africa in 1822 to study the variation in different latitudes of the length of the pendulum vibrations, for the Royal Society. While off Cape Lopez he witnessed the wreck of a ship laden with palm oil. A year later, Colonel Sabin traveled for the same purpose to Hammerfest, Norway. While he was making his scientific investigations there, he saw the barrels of oil from the wrecked ship being washed ashore. They had floated 6250 miles in a year.

Arai Establishes World Record In 200-M. Freestyle

It was Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo University, famed Olympic swimmer, and not Tomikatsu Amano of Nihon University, who recently smashed Arne Borg's 11-year standing record in the 1,500-meter event, who stole the show in the annual national three-day championships which closed Sunday afternoon at the Koshien pool near Osaka.

Arai, on Sunday, won the 200-meter freestyle title in 2 minutes 10.6 seconds for a new national record and a world record for the long distance. He was far ahead of Miyamoto of Tadotsu Middle School of Shikoku, whose time was 2 minutes 15.8 seconds.

Amano Disappointing

Amano, who had been expected to swim the 1,500 meter event under 19 minutes and possibly trim his record time of 18 minutes 58.8 seconds—Borg's time was 19 minutes 7.2 seconds—was in poor form and though he won, his time was 19 minutes 19.2 seconds. Second was Honma of Rikkyo University in 20 minutes 1.4 seconds.

On Saturday, Arai clinched the championship in the 400-meter freestyle event after a spirited race with Amano, winning by the difference of the touch. His time was 4 minutes 47 seconds. Arai set a new national record for the first 300 meter distance by negotiating it in 3 minutes 30.8 seconds.

Tetsuo Hamuro of Nihon University equalled the national record in the 100-meter breaststroke on Saturday when he was timed at 1 minute 13 seconds flat. Reizo Koike of Keio University, the former champion, was nosed out by .3 second. Hamuro also retained his title for the 200-meter distance on Sunday in 2 minutes 42.2 seconds. Second was Oura of Rikkyo University in 2 minutes 46.6 seconds.

Tasuhiko Kojima of Keio University was an easy winner in the 100-meter backstroke in 1 minute 9.2 seconds. Taniguchi of Nihon University was second in 1 minute 11 seconds.

Takeshi Sasaki of Nihon University became the new national champion in the 100-meter freestyle when he won the event on Saturday in 60 seconds flat. Tsuruoka of Rikkyo was second in 62.4 seconds.

Kojima won the 50-meter backstroke championship on Saturday in 31 seconds. Taniguchi of Nihon University was second in 32 seconds.

Miss Soda Ties Record

Miss Masako Soda of Hiroshima tied the national record in the 50-meter backstroke on Saturday when she captured the title in 39.4 seconds.

The other woman champions crowned were:

100-meter freestyle—Miss Miyoko Taniguchi, Kyoto Nijo School, 1 minute 16.6 seconds.

400-meter freestyle—Miss Hana Miura, Yokohama Swimming Club, 6 minutes 1.4 seconds.

100-meter breaststroke—Miss Kinuko Nakayama, Tokushima Girls School graduate, 1 minute 32.2 seconds.

200-meter freestyle—Miss Hana Miura, Yokohama Swimming Club, 2 minutes 51 seconds.

100-meter backstroke—Miss Satoshi Ito, Nakaizumi Higher School, 1 minute 26 seconds.

200-meter breaststroke—Miss Kinuko Nakayama, Toskushima Girls School graduate, 3 minutes 20.4 seconds.

Tsuneo Shibahara of Nihon University won the men's high diving on Sunday, with 108.74 points. Tomio Koyanagi of Waseda was second with 103.77 points.

Miss Osawa Wins

Miss Reiko Osawa of the Mizuno Sporting Goods firm was first in the women's high diving with 33.46 points. Second was Miss Tanaka of the Wakaba Club with 32.82 points. Miss Masayo Osawa, a sister, of the Sanseido firm, captured the women's platform diving title on Saturday with 38.95 points. Her sister, Reiko, was second with 36.78 points.

Australians Sweep Through Germans In Davis Cup Play

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 20—Australia's mighty Davis Cup squad of John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, by winning the two remaining singles matches on the Longwood Tennis Club courts this afternoon, made a clean 5-0 sweep against Germany to climax the 1938 interzone finals here.

Exhibiting considerably better form and more consistent playing than at any time during the past three days, both Quist and Bromwich whipped their opponents, Henner Henkel and Georges von Metaxa, respectively, with apparent ease.

Quist, Australia's No. 2 player, defeated Henner Henkel, the mainstay of the Reich's 1938 squad, in three sets, but was forced to play 14 games in the final set to obtain victory. Though suffering from a case of tennis elbow, Henkel played better today than yesterday. The scores were 6-1, 6-0, 8-6.

In the climaxing match, Bromwich, the No. 1 Australian lion of the courts, easily defeated Georges von Metaxa in three straight sets. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-1. Although assured of the right to play the United States in the challenge round at Germantown, Pennsylvania, on September 3, by virtue of their doubles victory yesterday, the Australians clearly showed their superiority by dashing through today's contests.

Bromwich won most of his points on hard back court shots, although he had no difficulty in smashing von Metaxa's services. After the matches, both the Australian and German players posed at length before photographers, while movie cameramen took shots of the men in action.

Harry C. Hopman, captain of the Australian squad, beamed with the Australians' successes, declaring, "We feel we have a very good chance to win the challenge round."

Wooderson Smashes World's Record In ½ Mile At London

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, Aug. 20—Sydney Wooderson, England's premier miler, this afternoon established to new middle-distance world records when he ran the half-mile in 1 minute 49.2 seconds and then finished the 800 meters in 1 minute 48.4 seconds in an athletic meet held at the Hot Spur Park, in the outskirts of London.

The previous record for the half-mile event, held by Elroi Robinson, American runner, was 1 minute 49.6 seconds, while that for the 800 meters, established by Thomas Hampson, British miler, in 1932, was 1 minute 49.8 seconds.

Gabby Hartnett Says Shirkers Are Not Wanted

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, July 21—His face flushed by the realization of an old ambition, Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, baseball idol of millions, today donned mask and pads and directed the Cubs as playing manager.

The 38-year-old catcher, who succeeded his 14-year-long pal, Charlie Grimm, received a roaring tribute from the crowd when he stepped behind the plate to receive the first of Clay Bryant's fiery pitches in the first game. He did his managing from the bench in the second contest.

Before leading the team on the field, Hartnett talked to his players in the clubhouse, promising to be strict with any member of the club who failed to hustle.

"You've got to get out there and win," he told them. "You've got to hustle every minute, no matter what the score. The hustlers will have no trouble with this ball club. Those who don't won't last long."

This was a feverish day for Hartnett. Hundreds of telegrams poured in from fans all over the country. Between innings, while the Dodgers were out on the field, Hartnett paced up and down on the dugout, patting his players on the back, like a quarterback in a football game, beseeching them to win. When it was all over, his red face split in a wide grin.

"Gosh, I wanted to get over that first one," he beamed.

Grimm hid any heart tugs he may have had over leaving the team. With Mrs. Grimm at the wheel, he stepped into her car and drove to his home near Normandie, Mo., where he intends to rest for three weeks.

Before leaving, Grimm visited the Cub offices and was paid in full for the remainder of the season. Thus he is free to receive any other baseball proposition.

Grimm went to the ball park early to gather his personal belongings.

The only players present were Charley Root and Jack Russell, pitchers. Hartnett said Grimm warmly wished him luck. They parted the best of friends, as they have been all these years. As they shook hands, Grimm remarked, "Nothing will come between our friendship."

War Admiral, 7-10, Defeats Esposa

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 30—War Admiral won on a rough and cuppy track before 15,000 persons today, when he gained a neck victory over William Ziegler Jr.'s Esposa, who just missed giving her owner a double stake victory. Previously El Chico had carried the Ziegler silks to a six-length score in the $12,050 United States Hotel Stakes.

The Saratoga Handicap, in which War Admiral was all out to triumph, grossed $10,050, of which $7,500 went to Owner Samuel D. Riddle to raise the famous colt's earnings to $248,975. This placed War Admiral almost on a level with his famous sire, Man o' War, the first American thoroughbred to win more than $200,000.

Man O' War raced almost twenty years ago, and in the interim many horses have passed the $220,000 mark, with Sun Beau now on top of all the world's thoroughbreds at $376,744. Mr. Riddle saw his colt win, and while he seemed prouder than ever of War Admiral's courage and ability, it is safe to say that he and other admirers of his colt had some most uncomfortable moments as Esposa gained stride by stride through the stretch.

Starter Is Criticized

At the finish the mare who won the stake last year was wearing down War Admiral, and many were of the opinion that if the race had been a few steps longer Esposa would have beaten him. There was a much larger group, however, that had another criticism of the race.

These observers pointed to the advantage accorded to War Admiral at the start. He was taken to the outside of the stall gate, but was not placed two lengths behind it as the rules require for an obstreperous horse. Inasmuch as War Admiral prevailed by only a neck, and was all out at that, backers of Esposa felt that she had got something less than all that was coming to her.

Esposa earlier in the week had proved no match for War Admiral under scale weight—126 pounds for the colt and 121 for the mare. With War Admiral under 130 and Esposa under 116, however, she came within an ace of beating him.

It seemed in a way like a lucky victory, but champions frequently score lucky victories because they make their "breaks," and have that little bit extra which always seems to tip the scale their way. This time the starter gave War Admiral his "break."

U.S. Swimmers Set New Record In 400-M. Relay

The American swimming team now on a tour of Europe under the management of Coach "Bob" Kiphuth, of Yale University and who is well-known in Japan having been here twice, set a world's record in the 400-meter relay last Saturday in the opening day of the meet against a European team at the Olympic pool at Berlin, according to a Domei dispatch. The time was 3 minutes 59.2 seconds.

Members of the team were Takashi Hirose of the Hawaiian A. A. U., Otto Jaretz of Chicago, Paul Wolfe of Venice, Calif., and Veter Fick of New York. They swam in the order named.

The time of the European team was 4 minutes 3.1 seconds.

Kiefer Shatters Records

N.Y. Times

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 31—A team of nine aquatic stars was chosen tonight to represent the United States on a barnstorming tour of four European countries next month at the conclusion of the annual three-day men's national A. A. U. swimming championships. The last four events of the meet, which saw titles retained in six events, were held today in a dismal rain.

Ralph Flanagan of the Miami (Fla.) Biltmore Club and Adolph (Sonny) Kiefer, unattached swimmer from Chicago, took individual laurels by winning three events apiece. Kiefer set the only new record on the final day in the 300-meter medley.

Personnel of Team

Following a meeting of the national A. A. U. swimming committee, Chairman Lawrence J. Johnson of Boston announced the following swimmers had been selected to make the European tour:

Springboard diving, Al Patnik of Pittsburgh, representing Ohio State University; platform diving, Elbert Root of the Detroit Athletic Club; long and middle distance free style, Flanagan; back stroke, William Neunzig of Dayton, Ohio, representing Ohio State University; breaststroke, James Werson of Alameda, Calif., representing the San Francisco Olympic Club; free style sprinters, Peter Fick of Philadelphia, representing the New York Athletic Club; Takashi Hirose of the Hawaiian A. A. U.; Paul Wolf of Venice, Calif., representing the University of Southern California, and Otto Jaretz of Chicago, unattached.

Kiefer, champion in the medley, 220-yard free style and 100-meter back stroke, was selected for both back-stroke and free-style sprint events, but he informed the swimming committee he would not be able to go.

R.J.H. Kiphuth, Yale swimming coach and both coach and manager of the American team going to Europe, said the squad would leave Louisville late tonight or early tomorrow for New York and would sail on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen next Friday.

Ohio State University won the team championship with 30 points. The Detroit Athletic Club was second with 25, the Miami Biltmore Club third with 15, the Hawaiian A. A. U. fourth with 12 and the Stockton (Calif.) Olympic Club fifth with 10.

List of Alternates

The following alternates, who will replace team members if any of the latter become incapacitated, also were chosen:

Earl Clark of Columbus, Ohio, unattached, springboard diving; John Riley of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, platform diving; Kiyoshi Nakama of the Hawaiian A. A. U., long and middle distance free style; Fred Van Dyke of the Stockton, Calif., Olympic Club, back stroke; Michael Sojka of Buffalo, unattached, breast stroke, and three free-style sprinters, Thomas Haynie of Detroit, representing the University of Michigan; Edward Kirar of Kenosha, Wis., representing the University of Southern California, and Paul Herron of the Stockton, Calif., Olympic Club.

Kiefer set a new American long-course record for the medley, finishing six splashes up and down the 50-meter course in 4:02 to dislodge Buster Crabbe's mark of 4:05.8, set in 1935. The Chicagoan is a back-stroke specialist who had won the 100-meter back stroke and 220-yard free style earlier in the meet.

Patnik retained his three-meter springboard diving championship. Flanagan successfully defended his third national title in the 880-yard free style. Fick repeated in the 100-meter free style, swimming to a one-foot victory over Jaretz in 1:00.2, considerably slower than his record of 0:56.4, set in 1936 at New Haven.

Men's Swim Team Likely To Be Sent To Helsinki Games

Every attempt will be made to send a men's swimming team to the 12th Olympic Games in Helsinki to defend Japan's championship, it was decided by the Japan Swimming Federation at its meeting Sunday at Osaka immediately after the close of the national championships at the Koshien pool. And on this basis will the training of swimmers be carried out.

The Federation also decided to invite another American team over next year to hold the third series of America-Japan meets at Osaka and Tokyo.

Riggs Captures Second Leg On Seabright Bowl

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30—Robert L. Riggs gave one of the greatest performances of his tennis career today to win his second successive leg on the Seabright Bowl, the first player to do so since Vincent Richards repeated in 1926.

Before packed stands that included Walter L. Pate, captain of the Davis Cup team; Holcombe Ward, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and Lawrence A. Baker, second vice president, the 20-year-old Californian crushed Elwood Cooke Jr. of Portland, Ore., in the final round of the fifty-first annual invitation tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. The score was 6—1, 6—3, 6—1.

It is extremely improbable that any amateur in the world with the exception of Donald Budge, the national champion, could have stood up against the tennis that Riggs produced this swelteringly hot afternoon on perfectly groomed turf.

Near-Perfect Showing

His almost faultless exhibition must have gone a long way toward convincing Captain Pate that he need look no further for the player to handle the No. 2 Davis Cup singles assignment, though it is possible that Sidney Wood, with a little more match competition behind him after his long lay-off, may yet challenge Riggs persuasive credentials for the job.

Cooke, conqueror of Frank Parker and Wilmer Allison on successive days here and with a fine record behind him for the past three months, never had a chance from the time he dissipated his 40-0 lead in the opening game and dropped two more that went to deuce in falling behind at 0—4. On repeated occasions he had opposed Riggs this season and each time to Californian was extended to win, but today he faced Riggs who was keyed up to throw all his energies into the fray and to show no mercy from the word go.

The beautifully fashioned ground strokes that had won so healthy a respect from Cooke's opponents were utterly unavailable against the punishing pressure of Rigg's speed, length and angles as the Californian attacked with a discernment and purpose that opened up the court inexorably for his finishing shots.

Match Attracts 2,000

Cooke was not nearly so accurate as he has been for weeks on end, and his constant errors hastened his downfall. But though his showing must have been keenly disappointing to the crowd of 2,000 who filled the stands, allowance should be made for the fact that many of his mistakes were forced upon him by the never-slackening vigor and baffling generalship of his opponent's offense.

Ordinarily, Riggs appears to be in no hurry to make the kill and goes to work in earnest only after he has encouraged his opponent with a lackadaisical start. Today, the California youth wanted every point, and his rival got precious little that he did not earn on his own merits.

Heian Nine Cops Middle Schools' 24th Annual Play

In a game played before 100,000 rabid ball fans, including a number of wounded soldiers back from the China fronts, the Heian Middle School ball tossers of Kyoto won the championship of the 24th annual Osaka Mainichi national middle school tourney Sunday at the Koshien park, near Osaka, by nosing out the Gifu Commercial team, champions of 1936, 2 to 1 in the finals.

Battle Royal

The contest was a battle royal all the way through with neither team scoring in the first eight innings. Scoring one run in the first half of the ninth, many of the fans had begun trekking their way out of the stadium to avoid the rush after the end of the game, but they had not reckoned with the fighting spirit of the boys from Kyoto. They rallied to put over two runs in their portion of the ninth to clinch the series, the first title to go to the old capital in 23 years.

Pitcher Amagawa of the Heian nine was in superb form and held Gifu to three hits. Oshima of the losers was not bad either, allowing nine hits, keeping them scattered up to the end of the eighth inning.

Gifu had an opportunity to score more than the one run in the ninth, loading the bases with only one away after Nishimatsu's hit to right had brought in Kondo who had gained life at first on the third baseman's error. But Amagawa bore down and retired the next two men. Yoshi Kato popped out weakly to third and Pitcher Oshima, who had a chance to win his own game, flied out to center.

Oshima Walks Two

It must be said that Oshima's lost of control in the last half of the ninth was one of the causes leading to his defeat. Uyemura and Amagawa walked to start the inning. Uyemura then cleverly pulled off a delayed steal to third, after which Amagawa also stole second. With the Gifu infielders playing in close, Minoru Kimura came through with a short hit over short to bat in Uyemura, sending Amagawa to third. Kimura then stole second. Furuya grounded out to Oshima. With the Gifu infield still playing in close with the view to cutting off the winning run at the plate, Yasui's fly back of second fell out of the second baseman's reach for a hit and Amagawa romped home for the winning run.

The summaries:

Gifu	000 000 001	1	3	0
Heian	000 000 002	2	9	2

Batteries: Oshima and Kato; Amagawa and Uyemura.

Gifu Commercial had entered the finals by eliminating the Koyo Middle School team by a 3 to 1 score on Saturday afternoon.

British Ruggers Top Rhodesia By 45 To 11

BULAWAYO, July 23—The British rugby tourist side gained their biggest win today when they beat Rhodesia by six goals and five tries (45 points) to a goal and two penalty goals (11 points). It was their second success of the week against Rhodesia as they had won by 25 pts. to 11 at Salisbury on Wednesday.

Jones scored three tries, Nicholson, Waters and Alexander two each, and Morgan and Taylor one each. Taylor converted three and Giles, Jenkins, and Macrae converted one each. For Rhodesia Napier got over for a try which Gordon converted, and Phillip kicked both penalty goals.

The British record to date is—won 10, lost 3—and their good form in recent matches augurs well for the first match with South Africa at Johannesburg on Saturday week.—Exchange.

Wooderson Beats Beccali In Mile; Osdendarp Wins Dashes In London Meet

Observer

LONDON, July 17—But for the extreme slowness of the track and the sultriness of the air when the A.A.A. Championships were concluded at the White City yesterday, D. O. Finlay's high hurdling would most certainly have established a world record. In spite of the conditions the crowd of 35,000 saw him equal the British High Hurdles' record of 14.4 sec. held by the Olympic champion, F. G. Towns. F. R. Webster added half an inch to his own English native record of 12 ft. 9 in. in the Pole vault, and A. Maffei (Italy), who was fourth in the Olympic Games, cleared 24 ft. 8 in., to beat the A.A.A. record held by L. Long (Germany) by 1¼ inches.

Altogether fourteen of the titles went to foreign competitors—six to Italy, two each to Holland, Eire, and Northern Ireland, and one each to Belgium and South Africa, Great Britain winning the remaining nine.

Having contested fifteen events in the R.A.F. championships during the weeks, Finlay's hurdling was really brilliant. He flashed away from J. St. L. Thornton, who was fifth in the Olympic Games, and won unchallenged in the equivalent of his time on the perfect Reichsportfield track. Winning his event for the seventh year in succession, he equalled the record set up by A. A. Cooper in the two miles' walk on Friday.

L. Beccali, the former Olympic 1,500 meters champion and world record holder, looked dangerous in the mile for two and a half laps, but when Wooderson drew out ahead of Beccali, J. W. Alford, and D. B. Pell there was only one man in the race. All but the third of the four laps were recovered in world record schedule, and Wooderson won in the fastest A.A.A. time apart from his own record. Beccali is obviously past his prime. Alford looked stale, and Pell is not quite up to world-beating class.

Osendarp, who was third in the Olympic 100 and 200 meters, proved that he is still the fastest sprinter in the world apart from the United States negroes. Even if the holder, A. W. Sweeney, had been in the 100 yards along with the Empire champion, C. B. Holmes, the result would surley have been the same. The Dutchman's terrific bid to win the 4 x 110 yards relay from the Italians was perhaps the most spectacular incident of the day. So forceful was Osendarp's lunge for the tape that he could not steady his towering body for fifty yards. The winning Italian team included three of the four men who were runners-up to the U.S.A. in the Olympic 4 x 100 meters, and were efficiency itself.

A Terrific Quarter-Mile

The 440 yds. brought together those three classic quarter-milers, A. G. K. Brown, W. Roberts, and A. Pennington, in a race each wanted desperately to win. It was an intense struggle from the start, and 25 yards from the tape it was still anybody's race, though Roberts was perhaps a yard behind. Brown was clearly not quite at his best, and Pennington almost caught him, while Roberts gave a few feet. It was a real blanket finish and was worth yards inside 49.2 sec.

There was another magnificent finish in the 3 miles. At the bell Emery, the international cross-country champion, who ran a 4 min. 13 sec. mile last summer, led the champion and English native record holder, P. D. Word, while G. M. Carstairs, the Anglo-Norwegian match winner, P. C. Dainty, Britain's second string, and the R.A.F. champion, P. Hennessey, were less than 10 yards away. When Emery, pursued by Ward and Hennessey increased his speed down the back straight, Dainty and Carstairs were forced to fall back. Emery, with his head back, continued to pile on tremendous pace and appeared unapproachable, but in the last few yards Ward glided up to him, and looked as if he could have won easily in another ten yards. Hennessey, too, was charging along desperately. The time was only 4 sec. outside Ward's English record, and it is probable that Britain has never fielded five more formidable runners in the 3 miles. Emery has now proved himself a middle-distance runner of the highest class.

Collyer's clear victory in the Half-Mile was excellent, and J. W. Beaman's Marathon success was a triumph for a man of forty-two, who has been trying hard since 1922. Robertson, five times winner of the Marathon and holder, retired after 15 miles. Only Murdoch (Scotland), winner of the furlong in 1931, troubled W. van Beveren over this distance yesterday, Sweeney, Holmes, and Pennington, the British hopes, being all out of the running. R. E. M. Blakeway's 197 ft. 1¾ in., with which he won the javelin, did not count as an English native record, although he competes for the Achilles Club.

To The Colors

Shuhei Nishida, who surprised the world by placing second in the pole vault at the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932, and repeated at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936, who has been summoned for military service and expects to go to the China front.

U.S. Tops Europe In Swim Meet At Berlin, 38-36

Rallying on the second and final day to capture first places in the platform diving, breaststroke, backstroke and medley relay, the European team led the barnstorming Americans, 7 to 5, in first places but were unable to emerge ahead in points in their two-day meet ending on Sunday at the Olympic pool at Berlin. The Americans won the meet by 38 to 36 points, according to a special dispatch to the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Erhardt Weiss of Germany, who placed fourth in the high diving during the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936, defeated Elbert Root, who was second to Marshall Wayne, a team-mate, in the same event. Weiss scored 118.47 points as against 115.30 points by Root, who was in Japan last year.

Joachim Balke of Germany won the 100-meter breaststroke on Sunday in 1 minute 12.3 seconds. James Werson of Alameda, Calif., was second in 1 minute 18.2 seconds.

Schlauch Wins

Heinz Schlauch of Germany won the 100-meter backstroke in 1 minute 9.7 seconds. William Neunzig of Dayton, Ohio, was second in 1 minute 11 seconds.

Ralph Flanagan, the American champion who was here in Japan two years ago, captured the 1,500-meter freestyle event in the good time of 19 minutes 9.5 seconds. Borg of Sweden was second in 20 minutes 9.4 seconds.

The American team won the 880-meter relay in 9 minutes 3.6 seconds. Time of the European team was 9 minutes 10 seconds.

Winning time of the European team in the 300-meter medley was 3 minutes 21.2 seconds. The American representatives finished in 3 minutes 28 seconds.

Flanagan Keeps Title

N.Y. Herald Tribune

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 30—Two champions retained their titles and a new individual and a relay champion were crowned today in the National A. A. U. men's swimming meet.

Jim Werson, of Alameda, Calif., became the new individual title winner by taking the 220-yard breaststroke in 2:49.2.

The Ohio State University quartet swept the 880-yard freestyle relay in 9:51.4.

Two youths barely in their twenties, Ralph Flanagan, of Miami, and Adolph (Sonny) Kiefer, of Chicago, added a victory apiece to their triumphs of last year's meet.

Flanagan, twenty-one, won the 440-yard freestyle in 4 minutes, 51.1 seconds, 5.1 seconds slower than his American record of 4.46 flat for a long course.

Kiefer, twenty-year-old brackstroke specialist, splashed to victory in the 100-meter backstroke. His time, 1:07.8, was three seconds slower than his world and American record of 1:04.8, set in Detroit in 1936.

Flanagan won the mile swim last night and will compete tomorrow in the nation 880-yard freestyle. Kiefer last night took the 220-yard freestyle.

Kiyoshi Nakama, of the Hawaiian A. A. U., finished second to Flanagan and William Neunzig, of Dayton, Ohio, swimming for Ohio State University, was second in the backstroke race.

Kiefer and Flanagan, by their victories, won places on an American team scheduled for a barnstorming tour of Europe in August.

Four events tomorrow will conclude the meet.

Werson, representing the San Francisco Olympic Club, failed by 10.8 seconds to equal the American record of 2:38.4 set at New Haven, Conn., by Jack Kasley, of the University of Michigan, in 1936.

Ray Kaye, of the Detroit Athletic Club, defending champion, finished third in the breaststroke. Michael Sojka, of Buffalo, swimming for the University of Texas, was second.

Ohio State University's team defeated the Detroit Athletic Club's squad in 9:51.4, considerably slower than the American record of 9:20 flat set by the Lake Shore Athletic Club at Chicago in 1937. The Lake Shore club did not defend its title.

The summaries:

National 440-yard freestyle—Won by Ralph Flanagan, Miami Biltmore Club; Kiyoshi Nakama, Hawaiian A. A. U., second; Paul Herron, Long Beach, Calif., for Stockton, Calif., Olympic Club, third; Andrew Clark, Detroit Athletic Club, fourth. Time, 4:51.1.

National 100-meter backstroke—Won by Adolph Kiefer, Chicago, unattached; William Neunzig, Dayton, Ohio, for Ohio State University, second; Fred Van Dyke, Stockton, Calif., for the Stockton Olympic Club, third; Bob Tailton, Fort Worth, Tex., for the University of Texas, fourth. Time, 1:07.8.

Women's national junior 100-meter breaststroke—Won by Virginia Hunt, Indianapolis Athletic Club; Mary Ann Walts, Colonial Club, New Albany, Ind., second; Elsa Erhart, Louisville Lakeside Club, third. Time, 1:42.

National 220-yard breaststroke—Won by Jim Werson, Alameda, Calif., for the San Francisco Olympic Club; Michael Sojka, Buffalo, for the University of Texas, second; Raye Kaye, Detroit Athletic Club, third; John Haigh, Chicago, for the University of Michigan, fourth. Time, 2:40.2.

National 880-yard freestyle relay—Won by Ohio State University (William Quayle, Miami, Fla.; Elwood Woodling, Akron, Ohio; Robert Johnson, Columbus, Ohio; William Neunzig, Dayton, Ohio); Detroit Athletic Club (Andrew Clark, Detroit; William Prew, Detroit; Gus Sharnett, Detroit Gordon Kerr, Windsor, Ont.), second. Time, 9:51.4.

Star Performer

Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo University, with the trophy for the 400-meter freestyle championship at the three-day national meet which ended Sunday at Koshien. He also won the 200-meter freestyle title.

Greenberg Has Chance To Break Ruth's Record

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, July 31—Along about this time every year the Figure Filberts sharpen up their pencils, scribble numbers all over the nearest blank spaces and confidently conclude that Joe Zilch or Luke Glotz has a chance to bust Babe Ruth's eleven-year-old record of sixty homers for one season.

Baseball men tell you those Filberts might just as well figure up their next year's income tax, because they'd come as close to the right answer. For when you start monkeying with the Babe's all-time fence-busting high, the way to do it is to begin with the final month of the season—that gaudy September when he parked seventeen among the cash customers in thirty days—and work back.

This year, however, the boys might have something there. Big Hankus Pankus Greenberg is on a spree. Right now he's twenty-one games in front of the Bam's record four-base pace.

Now, don't get the idea that Big Hank is going to do it. The odds are all against him. He's a right-handed hitter, and American League parks are a lot friendlier to the fellows swinging from the south side of the plate. He still has to meet up with Ruth's merriest month. Moreover, the Detroit line-up, as now constituted, offers opposition pitchers a chance to walk the six-foot-four Jewish jolter rather than let him tag one of their select offerings.

On the other hand, there's Hank with thirty-seven round-trip whacks to his credit already. He hit two more Friday as the Tigers trampled the Athletics, 9 to 2—the third time in a week and the sixth time this season he has paired his pokes. He's getting hotter all the time, has clouted fifteen this month to date, and is the only man to hammer one in every park in the league. Ruth belted his thirty-seventh in his 113th game. Greenberg's thirty-seventh came in his ninety-second yesterday after scoring his thirty-sixth in the first game with the Athletics.

All in all, it's safe to say that if Hank can start September five homers in front of the Babe's pace he has an even chance of wiping that mark off the books.

Hein Breaks 25-year Mark In Hammer Throw

Domei Tsushin

OSNABRUECK, Aug. 21—Shattering a world's mark which stood for 25 years, Karl Hein, German Olympic champion, today tossed the hammer 58.24 meters to surpass the record held by Patrick J. Ryan, of the United States, by nearly one meter. Ryan established the record (57.77 meters) in August, 1913.

Full Program Of Events Slated For 1940 Games

Domei Tsushin

LAUSANNE, Aug. 21—Despite previous indications that the contests might be restricted because of insufficient time for preparations, the 1940 Olympic Games to be held at Helsinki will include a full program of athletic events, the permanent executive office of the International Olympic Committee announced here today.

The competitions, according to the announcement, will include track and field, gymnastics, boxing, fencing, wrestling, shooting, rowing, swimming, horseback riding, the modern pentathlon, bicycle racing, weight-lifting and yachting.

No reference was made to the program of the Winter Games, the site of which has not yet been fixed.

Burk Breaks Canada Henley Sculls Record

FORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 30—Joe Burk, the "robot sculler" from Philadelphia and the big aggregation of oarsmen representing the Buffalo West Side Club made it almost a United States parade in the final events of the fifty-sixth Royal Canadian Henley regatta today.

Burk, the Diamond Sculls winner and United States champion, overpowered his Canadian rivals in retaining his senior singles title and smashing the course record to bits. With no one even threatening after his first few rapid strokes, the Penn A. C. ace covered the mile and five-sixteenths in 7:19. The previous record of 7:54.4 was made by Jack Guest, of Toronto, in 1928.

Johnny Coulson, of the Toronto Argonauts, finished second, ten lengths behind Burk, leading two teammates, Herb Miller and Jim Russell. Bill Carroll, of Buffalo, winner of the association singles Friday, was fifth.

Leaders Place Second

The West Sides took two of today's senior titles and in doing it beat out the Argos for team honors, 55 points to 50. The Hamilton Leanders, winners of two lightweight titles from Buffalo eights today, placed third with 35 points, followed by the Wyandotte (Mich.) Boat Club, 21; Winnipeg Rowing Club, 20, and the Detroit Boat Club 18. Other scores, on an 8-3-1 basis were: New York A. C., 16; Penn A. C., 18; Bachelors Barge Club, Philadelphia, 3, and Riverside Boat Club, Cambridge, Mass., 1.

The Buffalo club's senior eight, which won the U. S. title at Red Bank, N. J., last week, outrowed the Hamilton (Ont.) Leanders in the day's feature battle and won by two lengths. The West Sides boosted their stroke to 42 in the last quarter mile to gain their margin. The Toronto Dons placed third and Hamilton's lightweight eight, which had beaten at West Side crew in the 150-pound senior test an hour before, came in fourth.

The deciding race was the senior fours, which the Buffalo crew won from Lachine, Que. R. C. by a length. The Argos, who went into this race with a chance for the team crown, came in a poor third.

N. Y. A. C. Doubles Triumph

United States oarsmen took three other titles. Wyandotte won the senior 150-pound fours with coxswain from St. Catherine's, Ont., and the Argos. The New York A. C. pair of Dan Barrow and Sam Bulger took the senior double sculls by a length over Walter Pfaumer and Chris Anderson, of the Bachelors Barge Club, Philadelphia. R. W. Cutler and R. B. Cutler, of Cambridge, Mass., placed third. Lafayette High School, of Buffalo, won the race for high school eights over a short course in 4:55, beating crews from the West Sides and the Argos.

In the closest race of the day, the 140-pound double sculls, the Toronto Argo pair of Ken Thorburn and Jack Flavelle, won by a short length from Frank Van Derkar and Wes Reutter, of Detroit, after the Wyandotte team of Bill and Lou Tank, who were leading, collapsed in a scorching drive. Previously Flavelle had beaten Lou Tank by four lengths in the 140-pound singles.

The Hamilton 140-pound eight, which won the junior title Friday, repeated in the senior event by a length over the West Side entry.

Yankees In Lead By 11 Games Over Cleveland

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—Both the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates lengthened their respective leads in the American and National Leagues during the past week as a brilliant winning streak placed the Yankees full 11 games out in front of the Cleveland Indians and the Pirates, despite four losses and only three wins, gained half a game thanks to a still poorer showing by the second-place Giants.

Overwhelming all opposition, the hardhitting Yanks battered out seven wins in eight contests during the week, thus increasing their margin by 3½ games as the Indians suffered a relapse with four losses and three victories. The Giants stumbled badly in the other loop, losing four out of six to round out the Pirates' lead to five games.

Other impressive developments in the American League race were the third-place Boston Red Sox's advance to within 1½ games of the Indians and the Detroit Tiger's hot pursuit of the fourth-place Washington Senators. The Red Sox took six out of eight contests during the week, while the Tigers annexed the same number of victories with only one defeat.

The St. Louis Browns, forgotten team of the American loop, meanwhile stepped out of the cellar position where they were replaced by the Philadelphia Athletics.

In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds forged up half a game to tie the Chicago Cubs for third place. The positions of the other teams in the loop, however, underwent no radical changes.

Standing of the teams, including today's games, are as follows:

American League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York Yankees	75	34	.688
Cleveland Indians	63	44	.589
Boston Red Sox	61	45	.575
Washington Senators	57	57	.500
Detroit Tigers	55	56	.495
Chicago White Sox	44	57	.436
St. Louis Browns	39	69	.431
Philadelphia Athletics	37	69	.349

National League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Pittsburgh Pirates	66	42	.611
New York Giants	63	49	.563
Cincinnati Reds	61	51	.543
Chicago Cubs	61	51	.545
Boston Bees	53	56	.483
Brooklyn Dodgers	53	58	.477
St. Louis Cardinals	50	61	.450
Philadelphia Phillies	34	73	.318

Powell Suspended

N.Y. Herald Tribune

CHICAGO, July 30—Jake Powell, the Yankees' left field alternate, was suspended today by Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, for ten days because of a radio interview before Friday's game in which Powell made an "uncomplimentary remark about a portion of the population."

Powell, buttonholed by a sports broadcaster on the field, was asked, among other things, what he did in winter. Jake replied that he was a policeman in his home town and then, in answer to a query as to what type of police work he did, he said in effect that he hit "niggers" on the head with a club.

There is no record of Powell's exact words, so there are a dozen versions of what he said. All, however, express the same idea.

Protests Pour In

Powell was cut off the air immediately upon uttering the uncomplimentary sentence, made with a vague notion of being funny. Five minutes later the large Negro population in Chicago was seething with indignation. Negroes telephoned the White Sox officials at the ball park in the heart of the Negro district. They telephoned the Yankee hotel. All night the station over which Powell's unfortunate remark had been broadcast issued apologies.

Today there were telegrams of complaint. Committees from Negro organizations presented themselves to officials of the White Sox. But by that time Landis had Powell, Joe McCarthy and the radio people on the carpet and had suspended Powell, even though he felt that the remark had been made thoughtlessly and without any intention of hurting any one.

Powell denies having said any such thing. He says he said he "patrolled the Negro district."

Anyway, every one concerned feels badly about the whole thing. McCarthy particularly resents the genesis of the affair, which was a radio broadcaster on the field asking silly questions.

Landis May Ban Talks

It would not be surprising if Landis were to forbid extemporaneous radio interviews with ball players on the field.

Powell remained in the hotel during the game. So he was not around to see a delegation of Negroes march to the plate and present to the umpires a request that he be banished from baseball for life.

Jake will not be in uniform here. He will work out in Detroit and Cleveland, but will not play again until the Yankees return to the Stadium. Meanwhile, the Yankees will have to get along with one extra outfielder.

There were no demonstrations at the game, nor were any special precautions necessary.

Orientalism Congress Opening In Brussels

BRUSSELS, Aug. 10—The twentieth International Orientalism Congress will take place in this city under the patronage of His Majesty the King from September 5 to September 10.

Five hundred orientalists from all over the world will attend the meetings.

Most of the foreign governments and about one hundred universities and scientific institutions will be represented by official delegates.

The Congress will be divided into nine sections grouping scientists in accordance with their specialities.

4 Ex-stars Of Tokyo Varsity Ball League Called To The Colors

Four former stars of the Six University Baseball League of Tokyo have been summoned to the colors.

They are:

Tadashi Yamazaki (former name-Kumashiro), who was star third sacker until last year for the Kawasaki Columbia team after his graduation from Hosei University.

Shichiro Uzawa, reliable twirler for Hosei University, who was graduated in 1937 and has been in the employ of the Japan Broadcasting Company.

Tokuo Miyazaka, pitcher and first sacker of Hosei University.

Katsuzo Ito, former star catcher of Keio University who has been manager of the Dai Tokyo professional baseball team of late.

Danish Girl, 19, Swims Baltic Sea In 40 Hours

N.Y. Times

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 29—Denmark's 19-year-old swimming star, Jenny Kammersgaard, who entered the Baltic Sea at Gedser, South Denmark, Wednesday evening, this morning reached the German coast at Nienhagen, about five miles west of Warnemuende after being in the water 40 hours and 9 minutes.

Following the international ferry route between Denmark and Germany and accompanied by two motorboats containing doctors and trainers, the girl swam indefatigably through two nights, eating every few hours while swimming.

Stepping ashore in high spirits today, she was welcomed by Mayor Volckmann of Rostock and local Nazi leaders and thousands of excited spectators from coastal resorts.

After 40 hours in the water, the first thing she wanted ashore was a bath.

"I am not tired," she said. "I could have swum still longer and if necessary would have continued all day because I was determined to get over."

She received numerous telegrams of congratulation, including one from King Christian and one from Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Miss Kammersgaard's ability to maintain normal body temperature, despite long immersion, is a biological wonder. It was further emphasized today when an examination on her arrival in Germany showed even her fingertips retained their normal temperature.

The Warnemeunde and Rostock municipalities gave a dinner in her honor tonight.

The arrival of The Netherlands royal couple, Princess Juliana and Prince Bernhard, with the infant Princess Beatrix by ordinary train ferry at Gedser, today from Warnermuende was overshadowed by excitement over Miss Kammergaard's exploit. The royal party motored to the estate of Count Athlefeldt at Ourupgaard to spend a quiet holiday.

WARNEMUENDE, Germany, July 29—After nearly two full days of fighting waves and currents, Jenny Kammersgaard completed a swim across the Baltic Sea today. She and her backers believed she was the first ever to do it.

She covered a straight-line distance of twenty-eight miles, but currents often took her far off her course, so that she had to swim about thirty-seven miles. She also struck icy cold patches of water about half way across and at one point required nine hours to cover about four miles.

(The famous swim of Gertrude Ederle, an American, across the English Channel on August 6, 1926, required 14 hours and 34 minutes. This was from Cape Gris-Nez, France, to Dover, England, a straight-line distance of about twenty-three miles.)

Accompanying Danish boats were equipped with a searchlight and a radio. Dance music was played for her as she struggled through the waves.

She ate fried eel and fruit salad.

Feller Of Indians Stops Athletics

CLEVELAND, July 26—Bob Feller's father, William, came from Iowa today and watched his 19-year-old son regain control to turn in his eleventh victory of the season against five defeats. Feller granted seven hits, but walked only three in his 4-2 triumph over the Athletics.

The Mackmen tallied once in the second on a walk, a single and a double steal which sent Lodigiani home. They scored again in the fourth on two walks, a wild pitch and a balk.

Then Feller settled down, winding up with ten strikeouts and retiring twelve men in order as Earl Averill and Jeff Heath connected for home runs off George Caster to put Cleveland ahead. Rollie Hemsley, Tribe catcher, was hit on the right foot by a wild pitch and was sent to a hospital. X-ray photos will be made to determine if there is a broken bone in his instep.

Waseda Wins 2 Extra Games On Hawaii Trip

By MUTSUJI NAKASHIMA

Nippu Jiji

HANAPEPE, Kauai, Aug. 4—Waseda university's classy ball club made a clean sweep in their Garden Island invasion yesterday winning their scheduled two games from the Kauai All-Star Filipino and Japanese nines.

Playing before a record crowd of five thousand fans at the Hanapepe park, the collegians barely defeated the All Filipinos 2 to 1 in the seven-inning curtain-raiser and then came to life in the six-inning nightcap by trouncing the local Japanese outfit by a lopsided 13 to 5 margin. Due to limited time both games were shortened. The visitors arrived early yesterday morning and departed in the evening.

A sparkling pitching duel featured the opening game when Crispin Mancao, All-Chinese hurler from Honolulu twirled a beautiful four-hitter for the locals. On the other hand Ishiguro also heaved creditable ball allowing only five hits Asai's timely single in the fourth frame scoring Minamimura turned the tide for the visitors.

The second game found the Wasedas in their hitting stride and as a result the collegians lambasted three opposing hurlers for twelve hits and thirteen runs. Matsui was the big sticker with a homer and a triple in two trips to the plate. Go and Minamimura also homered.

Display Hitting Form

Takasu walked and returned on Ogusu's three-bagger to right. Matsui followed with another hefty four-sacker, sending in two more runs.

Gen Loses Decision To Mexican Fighter In Bout At Stockton

Domei Tsushin

STOCKTON, California, Aug. 23—Umio Gen, plucky Chosenese holder of the Japanese featherweight boxing crown, lost a close decision to Tomboy Romero, hard-punching Mexican fighter, in a fast 10-round slugfest last night. Romero tipped the scales at 130 at the start of the fight, while Gen weighed in at 131. This was the Japanese' third fight here since coming to California from Tokyo early this year.

Rumor Insists Frisch Leaving Cards This Year

By EDWIN RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, June 30—This year for the first time since Frankie Frisch's arrival as manager, the Cardinals are relegated to the second division of the National League. With each passing week, new rumors of Frank's departure circulate. Such rumors generally follow the club in a prolonged slump. But this time report seems based on rock foundation.

It is Branch Rickey's job to run the business end of the Cardinals. Frisch and Rickey, however, are not on friendly terms. The fact that they were until recently, adds momentum to the rumor that Frank's dismissal is not far away. The latest news out of St. Louis has the former Fordham flash moving to other quarters at the conclusion of his 1938 contract

Dizzy Dean Missing

If Frisch is fired this year, he will be supported by a host of sympathizers. He cannot be blamed for the slump of John Mize at the plate—the same Mize who gave Joe Medwick a battle for the National League batting crown in 1937. It is not Frank's fault that Dizzy Dean is pitching for the Chicago Cubs, after seven winning years in a Cardinal uniform. It is not the manager's fault that Don Gutteridge has failed to fill Leo Durocher's shoes at shortstop, and that the catching staff is manned by a pair of youngsters whose combined experience in the majors amounts to one year.

Frisch probably made a mistake, however, when he asked that Leo Durocher be traded. Leo is a great shortstop. But Frank suspected that he had managerial ambitions and preferred to have him exercise them elsewhere. It was unfortunate, though, that Rickey insisted Gutteridge be shifted from third base to short. Don goes well enough at the hot corner. Yet, 99 out of every 100 ball players will tell you that the Red Birds would never reach the first division with the fleet youngster in the short field. He makes too many errors.

Myers at Shortstop

Now Gutteridge has settled at third, with an occasional play at second in emergencies, and the Cardinals are going better. Lynn Myers, young brother of Cincinnati's Bill, is getting a chance at the berth once occupied by Durocher. Lynn is not hitting, but he can smother those ground balls.

Mize is back on first base and hitting close to his normal pace. Although Dean's victories of other years are missed, Frisch is getting fair pitching. But this situation has been a long time arriving. Perhaps a late-season rally, that would lift the Cardinals among the money winners, would bring a renewal of Frank's contract in 1939. But Rickey may have different ideas.

Winning Team In Pro League Needs Passer

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, 30—The team with the best forward passer in all probability will be the winner of the National Football League championship if history repeats during the season which gets under way on September 4 when the Pittsburgh Pirates will face the Eagles in Philadelphia.

For the past two years the championship has gone to the team possessing the leading passer of the pro grid circuit. So closely matched are the 10 rivals of the major circuit now that the added effectiveness of a passing genius generally turns the tide.

Two years ago it was Arnold (Flash) Herber, black-haired Green Bay tosser, who set a new yardage record for aerials and showed the way for the Packers to garner the Ed Thorp Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the league title.

Sammy Baugh in 1937

Last fall Sammy Baugh flashed across the pro grid horizon to lead the Washington Redskins to their first title as he set a new mark by completing 81 passes and gaining 1127 yards on these completed tosses. Herber still holds the circuit mark of 1239 yards, but that total was made in 12 games as against Baugh's yardage total for 11 encounters.

That is why the coaches of the circuit give particular attention to any collegian prospect who shows signs of developing passing genius. Milan Creighton of the Chicago Cardinals is heartened at his prospects for the 1938 campaign mainly by the acquisition of the two best tossers from the Southwest Conference, the same conference that sent Baugh up the year before. Jack Robbins and Dwight Sloan of Arkansas' championship eleven are both lined up to join the Cards and that will make a big difference in the Chicago eleven

Masterson Up With Leaders

Bernie Masterson was right up with the leaders in passing last fall and so was his team, the Chicago Bears. The Detroit Lions have always stressed the running game and seem to be the exception; but the few passes they throw show a high percentage of completions.

New York kept in the Eastern race last fall and in the Giants backfield was Ed Danowski, whose passing record is truly remarkable. The former Fordhamite in three and one-half seasons of league competition has a 48.3 per cent average, making good on 185 out of 383 attempts and has had only 27 of his tosses intercepted.

All of which seems to bear out the theory that a team without an outstanding passer stands little chance of grabbing off top honors.

Abe And Nakano Eliminated In Doubles Tourney

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 22—Tamio Abe and Fumiteru Nakano, of the 1938 Japanese Davis Cup squad, lost a hard-fought four-set match to the highly touted combination of Bobby Riggs and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant in the opening round of the National Doubles Tennis Championships here today. The scores for the match were 6-3, 6-4, 10-12, 6-4.

The veteran doubles combination of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryan, former Davis Cup players, defeated another doubles team in which a Japanese star was entered. The losers Yasumine Kuramitsu and John Weston, of Australia, were defeated in three straight sets: 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

The only seeded team beaten was the California-Utah duo of Frank Kovacs and Robert Harman, who were defeated by Gilbert Hunt and Ernst Sutter in four torrid sets. The scores for the matches were 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

The favorites of the tourney, Donald J. Budge and Gene Mako, leading American doubles entry, and the Adrian Quist-John Bromwich team, the backbone of the 1938 Australian Davis Cup squad, advanced to the second round with one-sided victories.

Ten foreign teams and 22 American doubles entries are participating. Two German players Henner Henkel and Georges von Mextaxa defaulted because they were ordered home by the German Tennis Association. The default also prevented Rolf Goepfert, who accompanied the German Davis Cup squad here for the Interzone finals against Australia, from teaming up with the veteran French Davis Cup players, Jacques Brugnon.

CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS
By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 5½ lbs.
Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage.

Mako Picked With Budge On U.S. Davis Cup Team To Battle Australians

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—Composition of the 1938 American Davis Cup team, which will meet the Australians in the Challenge Round at the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, on September 3-4-5 was officially announced by Walter Pate, non-playing captain, here today.

The American Lawn Tennis Association which named the team members, Pate said, chose J. Donald Budge, Bobby Riggs, Gene Mako and Joe Hunt. The latter was selected over Sidney Wood, after a long and serious discussion by the Association. The decision was taken because the majority of the nominating committee felt that there is the future to be considered and it is better to start with young men. Hunt, who is 19 years old, has the makings of a great player.

The burden of this year's playing will fall upon the shoulders of J. Donald Budge, the sensational California redhead, who will be entered in two singles matches and in the doubles with his California teammate Gene Mako. Pate, however, gave no indication whether Riggs, the nation's No. 2 star, or Hunt, a runner up to Allison at Longwood a year ago, will play in the singles.

Deny Split

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—There will be no split of the Don Budge-Gene Mako doubles combination if the principal parties have anything to say about the matter—and they have. Yesterday morning the country's top-ranking tennis duo returned from a triumphant world tour aboard the Cunard White Star liner Britannic and scoffed at rumors that they were ready to sever their partnership.

Having campaigned together for approximately two months, traveling more than 25,000 miles and engaging in sixty-five singles and doubles matches, Budge and Mako stated in no uncertain terms that they will continue to play as a team. Budge, doing most of the talking, was surprised that any one should even think of a change.

"Why should Gene and I split?" Budge asked. "We've been together for four and a half years now and we're still the best of friends. We've lost a couple of matches here and there, but our record speaks well enough for itself. We won all our Davis Cup matches last year and captured the Wimbledon championship earlier in the month. Pretty soon we hope to repeat in the Davis Cup final this year. No. There is absolutely no reason for us to part."

No Pro Offer Received

Budge, who scored a brilliant singles victory at Wimbledon, denied that he was considering professionalism. "That's entirely out of the question. Besides, I haven't even been made an offer. Perhaps nobody is interested in me," he laughed.

Although he said he was not tired from the schedule that carried him through France, Australia, England, Ireland, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and the Netherlands, Budge showed signs of fatigue, as did Mako. Incidentally, when they played in Budapest they were accorded a tremendous ovation. It was there that Mako was born twenty-two years ago.

The 23-year-old Budge, holder of most of the world's major tennis honors, was at his best against Bunny Austin in the Wimbledon final. "I guess I was keyed up to the situation then—and a bit lucky," he said. Nevertheless, he could not laugh off the fact that he has not lost a single tournament match since Fred Perry downed him at Forest Hills in the 1936 finals.

Budge was vanquished only twice throughout the trip, but each time it was in an exhibition match. His conquerors were Franz Kukuljevic and Ferenc Puncec, Yugoslav aces, of whom he spoke highly. He also recommended the playing of Bernard Destremeau of France and Cejnr of Czechoslovakia.

Has His Own Problem

The question of who would be the No. 2 singles man on the United States Davis Cup squad amused Budge. "Right now I'm beginning to worry about my own chances of making the team," he stated. He agreed, however, that Bobby Riggs of Chicago might be the man.

Concerning his immediate plans, Budge declared, "I want to get into shape for the Davis Cup final. It will probably be against Australia and that team will be slightly favored to beat us. I shall rest for a week. Then Mako and I will play in the Eastern grass-court doubles at Rye and both the singles and doubles at Newport.

"I hope particularly to win at Newport. You see, I have two legs on that beautiful trophy there, and one more victory will enable me to retire the cup. Then the national doubles with Gene and the mixed doubles with Alice Marble at Longwood. After that comes the national singles at Forest Hills. So you see, I still like tennis enough to go in for most of the tournaments."

Australians Rated Highly

Mako stated that he is tentatively listed to play with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody in mixed doubles. He and Budge agreed that the team to beat in men's doubles is the Jack Bromwich-Adrian Quist Australian combination.

With that the pair begged off and hurried to the ship's dining room for a late breakfast. As they strode away Budge called out, "Say, when we played in Dublin, Douglas Corrigan was one of the spectators. We met him. He's a fine, pleasant chap."

"And so is Budge," remarked one of the interviewers to his colleagues, who agreed unanimously.

Belgian Mermaid Sets New World Mark In 1,000-Yd. Freestyle

Domei Tsushin

OSTEND, Belgium, Aug. 23—Clipping more than 20 seconds off the recognized world's mark held by Miss Helen Madison, of the United States, Miss Caroen, sensational Belgian tank discovery, today established a new record for the women's 1,000 yard freestyle by negotiating the distance in 13 minutes 3.2 seconds in a meet here.

Miss Caroen's performance not only bettered the official world's mark of 13 minutes 23.6 seconds but also surpassed the recent unofficial record set by Miss Tonny Petersen of Denmark who swam the distance in 13 minutes 15.9 seconds.

Pop Bottles Fly As Chicago Cubs Defeat Dodgers

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, July 27—Pop bottles and hard words, with Vice President Larry MacPhail, Manager Burleigh Grimes and Captain Leo Durocher tossing most of the verbal brickbats, flew about the confines of Ebbets Field yesterday as the embattled Dodgers opened their home stand before more than 11,000 fans by dropping a 10-to-8 decision to the climbing Cubs.

The Dodgers came from behind twice to tie the score and the second time they did it—with four runs in the seventh inning—was when war really was declared.

With one out and two Dodgers on the bases Billy Jurges seemingly muffed a double play throw on Dolf Camilli's grounder from Ziggy Sears, officiating at third base. This brought Grimes and Durocher storming out of the dugout to Klem, who then passed the buck to Sears. The latter insisted Gilly was out, banished both the Dodger manager and shortly the glassware began descending on the field, accompanied by roars of disapproval from all sections of the stands.

Lavagetto Draws Pass

A pass to Cookie Lavagetto, a base-clearing pinch double by Buddy Hasett and a single by Ernie Koy sent in the four runs to deadlock the game, but it was lost in the ninth after two were out when Tot Pressnell, third Brooklyn hurler, walked Gabby Hartnett and allowed a single by Rip Collins and a two-bagger by Larry French, Chicago's third and winning pitcher. Tot also made a wild pitch, allowing Hartnett to score the first run of the frame.

MacPhail, red-faced and shaking with rage, accosted Sears near the dressing room after the game and told the umpire, with appropriate embellishments, what he thought of the decision.

Shortly afterward he delivered oration No. 2 to the writer.

"It was, and I want you to quote me," he rasped, "the worst exhibition of incompetence I've seen since I've been in baseball. Klem, ten feet from the play, didn't see it and Sears, at third base, said he did see it. I'm asking Frick and his supervisor of umpires (Quigley), who was here, to meet with me tomorrow morning, but I don't think they'll do it."

As a matter of fact, however, President Ford Frick agreed to such a meeting, which is to be held in his offices this morning, with MacPhail, Grimes, Durocher and the three umpires—Ballanfant, Klem and Sears—present.

The game was not continued under protest, since it was purely a question of an umpire's judgment on a play and not a matter of rule interpretation.

Ruth Drives Homer As Dodgers Lose, 7-6

N.Y. Times

ALBANY, July 25—Babe Ruth drew 1,714 spectators tonight to Hawkins Stadium. It was the biggest crowd ever to see a ball game in the State capital.

Babe came through, too, with a blow over the right-field fence in the first inning for his first homer since quitting baseball as a player three years ago. The evening was made perfect for the overflow crowd when the Albany Senators came from behind to take a 7-6 decision from the Dodgers in an exhibition.

Babe's wallop came with two out and Johnny Hudson on base in the first inning. Jimmy Sullivan, a fast right-hander, was the victim. In two subsequent trips to the plate Ruth was passed. He retired after five innings to catch a train for New York, where his daughter Julia is in a hospital with a throat infection.

Johnny Hudson, with a homer and three singles, paced the Dodger ten-hit offensive. The Senators collected a dozen safeties off Johnny Chambers and Van Lingle Mungo, the latter pitching for the first time since July 4.

The score by innings:

Brooklyn (N.)	200	200	002	6	10	2
Albany (E.)	004	120	00	7	12	0

Batteries—Chambers, Mungo and Thomas; Sullivan, Gehrman and Jackson, Chozen.

Illness Keeps Mrs. Moody Out Of Nationals

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 23—Because of a sudden attack of neuritis and fibrositis which will force her to undergo treatment for at least a year, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, of California, will not play in the 1938 national women's singles championships next month, her physician announced today.

Mrs. Moody, who ended three years of retirement by participating in the Wimbledon singles tourney and winning the women's title last July, is suffering from neuritis caused by thickening of the tissues over the muscles of her back and legs.

Has No Feud

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, July 26—Denying all rumors of feuds, retirement and matrimony, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who recently gained her eighth Wimbledon tennis championship, returned yesterday aboard the North German Lloyd line Europa intent upon continuing her "comeback" campaign. Apparently in excellent condition, except for a back strain, Queen Helen was anything but difficult to interview.

Smiling and gracious, she delayed her lunch while answering questions for more than a half hour as the ship steamed past Quarantine. She spoke freely, so that all concerned were fully at ease.

A striking figure in a silk print dress and black straw hat, adorned with artificial pink and white flowers, Mrs. Moody told of her immediate plans. "I strained my back while packing for the trip home, but aside from being most uncomfortable, it's really nothing. However, I'll be unable to practice for at least another week. Then I hope to be ready for the Essex invitation tournament at Manchester, Mass., next month, and after that the national mixed doubles at Brookline and the national singles at Forest Hills."

Rival's Play Praised

Of the incident in the Wimbledon final when Miss Helen Hull Jacobs suddenly suffered a torn sheath in the Achilles tendon of her right foot, Mrs. Moody remarked: "That was an unfortunate accident. It was a swell match up to that point, but afterward she could not run after the ball. I'm awfully sorry that it happened. As to what would have followed if it had not happened, no one knows. Helen was playing very well at the time."

Mrs. Moody was asked about her own game. "Yes," she said, "I'm satisfied with it, but as to whether or not it has gone back any I can't judge. That's entirely up to the persons on the sidelines."

Though she did not exactly say so, one was struck with the thought that she felt it was still a fine brand of tennis.

The question of contemplated retirement was next, and Mrs. Moody dismissed it immediately. "I see no reason to retire now. Next year I never plan so far in advance, but right now there's nothing to it. I'll continue."

Return Meeting Possible

It was remarked that Miss Jacobs also plan to play in the Essex tournament, setting the stage for a possible return meeting between the two California Helens. "Of course, one never knows about reaching the final, but I always look forward to playing with Miss Jacobs. And about that feud, there is nothing to it. Absolutely nothing! Of course, when two persons meet in any sport as many times as we have, there's likely to be some tension. It's natural."

At this point Mrs. Moody remarked that the two have opposed each other approximately twenty times, and not only twelve, as has been printed. "We met in a number of minor tournaments in California," she stated.

"Before I forget," she continued, "I must say something nice about Ireland. I must say that Ireland is the most attractive, pleasant and prettiest country I have ever visited. It is grand." She added that she missed the landing of Douglas Corrigan.

Mrs. Moody said she would stay temporarily at the Colony Club and then, perhaps, move into a hotel. "I will remain in New York several months," she said, "and in October I shall begin a lecture tour under the directions of the Feakins Lecture Bureau. That will carry me all over the United States, and my topics will be more or less general, although there will be some tennis in them."

Professionalism Not Involved

Would that make her a professional?

"Oh, no. It would be just like my speaking over the radio as a dress designer."

Professionalism is entirely out of order, she said. "I won't even consider it."

Rumors regarding her engagement to one Captain Victor Cazalet, M. P., were scouted by Mrs. Moody. "You may say that I am not engaged to any one," she advised.

Queen Helen further enlightened the interviewers with the following remark:

"Don Budge at Wimbledon was marvelous. He's better now than at any time and could hold his own with any of the previous great players in tennis history, including Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines."

Pro Baseball Loop's Fall Season Starts Saturday At Korakuen

The fall season of the Japan Professional Baseball Federation will start on Saturday at the Korakuen Stadium with an additional team in its folds, the Nankai Electric Railway Company team of Osaka, which makes it nine competing clubs for the championship.

Four games will be played on Saturday with the newly admitted Nankai nine taking on the Tokyo Giants in the curtain-raiser.

Each team will meet the other clubs in five games apiece, or a total of 180 games.

Chief interest will be whether the Osaka Tigers, who won the title last year and the spring title this year, will be stopped.

Halas Predicts Great Season For Pro Football

CHICAGO, July 27—The fans who want the most in sport thrills for their money will be able to get a real "buy" from football this fall, believes George Halas of the Chicago Bears, who predicted yesterday that both the professional and collegiate divisions are heading for a banner season.

"From an attendance standpoint it looks as though 1938 will be one of the finest years the sport ever has enjoyed," said the owner and coach of the Bears. "Colleges are reporting record season ticket sales. Out at Nebraska more than two-thirds of the stadium has been subscribed for. In our national professional league, Detroit, Washington and Green Bay are doing especially brisk business on season books.

Not to Disappoint Fans

"I'm certain the fans aren't going to be disappointed if it's thrilling, interesting games they're after. With 22 men on the field, and all of them in the action on every play, football has an edge on every other sport for producing games which don't let the fans down.

"In my opinion football fans are more consistently critical of football players than they are of athletes in any other line of sport. They know the game from A to Z. People who watch college stars for two or three seasons want to follow the progress of those who become professionals, and we are getting more and more patronage from people who once would attend only collegiate contests."

Great Crop of Rookies

Halas, who 19 years ago had the idea which gave birth to the national professional league, said that this year's crop of collegiate rookies "is likely to produce some of the greatest stars professional football ever has developed."

More and more professional owners, he said, are signing small-college players who never have had much national recognition. Many of these boys, Halas believes, will outshine more highly-rated graduates to the professional ranks.

Halas was the first professional team owner to establish a daily practice program. In 1925 he paid Harold (Red) Grange, famous as Illinois' "Galloping Ghost," $105,000 for eight games in 17 days and Halas believes Grange, now a Bear coach, was largely responsible for focusing interest on the play-for-pay circuit.

Hunt And Wood Beaten In Upset By Australians

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 23—Except for three upset victories, two in the men's division and one in the women's, all favored teams survived their second-round matches in the United States national doubles championships at the Longwood Tennis Club today.

Joseph Hunt and Sidney Wood, second-seeded American combination, were the victims of one of the upsets as they went down to defeat at the hands of Harry Hopman and Leonard Schwartz, of Australia. Russell Bobbitt and Frank Guernsey, of the United States, turned in the second by routing the Yugoslavian Davis Cup team of Ferenc Puncec and Franjo Kukuljevic, seeded in the foreign division, to the tune of three straight sets.

An Australian team was also responsible for the only unexpected development in the women's division, Mrs. Harry Hopman and Miss Dorothy Stevenson defeating Miss Barbara Winslow and Miss Marilyn McRae, fourth seeded American combination, in two sets.

Donald J. Budge and Gene Mako, who are highly favored to cop the title which they lost last year to Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel, of Germany, dropped a set but overcame their fellow American team of Wayne Sabin and Elwood Cook. John Bromwich and Adrian Quist of Australia, first-seeded foreign entries, meanwhile disposed of Hal Surface and Donald McNeil, of the United States.

Other anticipated victories were won by Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, former national champions, who defeated Patrick Hughes and Charles Hare, of England, and by Bobby Riggs and Bryan "Bitsy" Grant. Yvon Petra and Bernard Destremeau, of France, were also among the survivors.

Scores of the individual matches are as follows:

Men's Division (Second Round)

Donald Budge and Gene Mako (U.S.) defeated Wayne Sabin and Elwood Cook (U.S.) 4-6, 9-7, 6-3, 6-3.

John Bromwich and Adrian Quist (Australia) defeated Hal Surface and Donald McNeil (U.S.) 6-8, 7-5, 6-3, 6-0.

Wilmer Allison and John van Ryn (U.S.) defeated Patrick Hughes and Charles Hare (England) 3-6, 6-3, 14-12, 6-1.

Yvon Petra and Bernard Destremeau (France) defeated August Ganzeenmuller and Norman Anderson (U.S.) 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Robert Riggs and Bryan Grant (U.S.) defeated Lieutenant S. James and Farrin Howard Jr. (U.S.) 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Harry Hopman and Leonard Schwartz (Australia) defeated Joseph Hunt and Sydney Wood (U.S.) 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

Russell Robbitt and Frank Guernsey (U.S.) defeated Ferenc Puncec and Franjo Kukuljevic (Yugoslavia) 6-2, 10-8, 8-6.

G. A. Radermuller and George Toley (U.S.) defeated Gilbert Hunt and Ernest Sutter (U.S.) 7-5, 11-9, 5-7, 0-6, 6-2.

Women's Division (Second Round)

Mrs. Harry Hopman and Dorothy Stevensen (Australia) defeated Barbara Winslow and Marilyn McRae (U.S.) 6-3, 6-4.

Mistaken Tactics Reason England Failed To Win 'Ashes' From Australia

By C. G. MACARTNEY

Observer

LONDON, July 31—Australia, by winning the fourth Test match at Leeds, has retained the "Ashes" of internatioonal cricket for another two years, and England must now wait until her representatives visit Australia before she can wrest the title from her opponents. While the visitors will fight to a finish at the Oval in order definitely to win the rubber, the position now occupied will enable them to play their natural game free of any great strain, since they know that the laurels are theirs. The fact that the match is of unlimited duration will suit the Australians, who are accustomed to games of this character. Furthermore, the wicket at the Oval in fine weather lasts as well as any in England. It is a batsman's paradise, and if it suits any bowling at all, it will be more amenable to a spin attack than to speed.

The big danger to Australia in the fifth Test match will be in the event of rain during the progress of the game, but if conditions are as nearly equal as possible, then I consider that Australia will be victorious.

The Dominating Factor

While the fourth Test match provided one of the most interesting and exciting games seen for a considerable time, the dominating factor throughout was the wicket. The pitch at Headingley was of a character that would always render unnecessary any extension of time for Test matches in England. At no time was it dangerous as far as physical injury is concerned, and as long as that is the case, then the preparation has been quite sufficient. But it was a wicket that brought the bowler on even terms with the batsman—something that has been wanting for a long time.

For years now everything has been done with an eye to the batsman, and unless the quality bowler is encouraged by the possibility of receiving a fair reward for his labors, no one can blame him for giving up the thankless task in disgust. The fourth Test wicket was one that called for both batting and bowling skill, supported by such a field that every chance counted full value. The bowling and fielding on the whole performed admirably, but, excepting in isolated cases, the batting was found wanting.

To some extent the over-prepared pitches are responsible for such batting failures. When a pitch like that of Headingley is encountered, and the opposition attack contains sustained accuracy and controlled spin, the batting is temporarily perplexed by the amount of resource required to circumvent it. Were more Test wickets like that at Leeds presented to the players, it would not be long before more skilful cricketers would be seen, and certainly more bowlers of the true spin class, essential for the uplift of the game.

Cause of Defeat

Before criticizing the methods employed by the English batsmen during the recent Leeds Test, it is only fair to say that England probably would have been much better fortified had Hutton and Ames been available for action. They would certainly have strengthened the department that was the sole cause of defeat. I have nothing but admiration for Price's wicket-keeping, which was almost flawless, but Ames would have lent that confidence and assurance to the batting that England so sorely needed. However, I am convinced that England lost the Test at Leeds by their false batting policy as demonstrated on the first day.

In their second innings, when their batting again failed against Australia's spin attack, there was a mite of excuse—the wicket then was revealing signs of wear and tear, and perceptibly assisting the spin bowlers. But in the first innings, having first use of a wicket that must then be at its very best, whatever the quality, and knowing that the crumbling process would take place more rapidly than usual, their primary objective should have been runs, and runs made quickly, but with discretion. Such runs can only be compiled by the adoption of certain methods—aggression, enterprise, and footwork.

England possessed batsmen fully capable of employing these tactics, but they were not forthcoming. Instead, they adopted defensive tactics, which absolutely played into the hands of such bowlers as O'Reilly and Fleetwood-Smith, who asked for nothing better. These bowlers were thus enabled to force matters without fear of punishment, and furthermore, the field were never pressed as they should have been in a Test Match. Much too frequently did the cream of England's batsmen play a stroke which was neither forward nor back—uncertain for defensive purposes, and impossible for run-making—what more could the heart of a bowler like O'Reilly desire!

Counteracting Spin

When one remembers Barnett's brilliant innings at Nottingham, one wonders why such magnificent stroke play should be suddenly extinguished. A stroke player of the caliber of Edrich, one of the finest young and aggressive batsmen England has produced for years, should never be forced perpetually back on his wicket. Compton, another stroke-maker, who should rank high in the near future, was bowled with his feet net six inches from the stumps. Hardstaff, too, a batsman naturally gifted with powerful strokes if he would only use his feet, will never counteract the wiles of an O'Reilly by the methods he employs.

I repeat that the one and only way to foil a spin attack is by quick footwork, aggression, and the spirit of adventure. If the batsman gets out in the process, he at least has the satisfaction of knowing that he got out doing the right thing. I am not blaming England because they lost. But I am convinced that had the right tactics been observed in the first innings, they would have won—another 100 runs, perhaps even fifty would have done the job. England has the players, but they are on the wrong lines.

Let the purely defensive defence but for heaven's sake let the stroke-players produce the strokes! There is room in a properly chosen side for all, and if they do their work according to their ability, they will at least not be caught at silly-poin when they should have been caugi on the boundary.

Horiguchi Takes On De Guzman Monday In Ten-Round Battle

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, who has been absent from the ring for virtually a year because of illness, will take on Fighting de Guzman of the Philippines over 10 rounds next Monday night at the Kokusai Gekijo at Asakusa in a bout that is balyhooed for the featherweight championship of the Orient. The latter title is now claimed by Horiguchi.

De Guzman is a younger brother of B. de Guzman whom Horiguchi defeated in Honolulu two years ago for the title.

On the card, sponsored by the Fuji Boxing Club, there will be two other eight-rounders, two six-rounders, and three four-round preliminaries.

Lewis Dethroned By Boxing Board Of New York

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, July 28—John Henry Lewis, world light heavyweight champion, was summarily dethroned yesterday, as far as New York State is concerned, at a meeting of the State Athletic Commission. The action was taken because of repeated refusals of Lewis to meet Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., who had been designated the No. 1 challenger.

More than a month ago Lewis had been given fifteen days to agree to terms for a title bout with Fox, but he took no action. As a result, the commission vacated his title and suggested a series of elimination bouts that would lead to a new title-holder. These involve Fox and Al Gainer, Amello Bettino and Gus Lesnevich. The winners of these two bouts will come together in Madison Square Garden early in October and the winner of the contest will be the new champion among the light heavyweights.

Borbett Bout Suggested

The commissioners also withheld recognition of title honors from Al Hostak, who knocked out Freddie Steele, middleweight champion, in a bout at Seattle Tuesday night. It was contended that Fred Apostoli had been named as the leading challenger. The commissioners suggested that Apostoli meet Young Corbett, the winner to fight Hostak in a bout to determine the titleholder. If Corbett does not want to meet Apostoli, then a fight between Apostoli and Hostak would be regarded as a championship encounter.

Dealing with the flyweight situation, the figtic fathers decided to ignore whatever claim Jackie Jurich of San Francisco may have to the title. Jurich recently opposed Benny Lynch, who was universally recognized as the ruler of the 112-pound brigade, in a scheduled fifteen-round bout for the title. Lynch came in six pounds overweight, and the British Board of Boxing Control promptly assigned his title to Jurich.

Stopped Jurich in 12th

Lynch went on with his fight with Jurich, and knocked out the American in the twelfth round. The outcome, however, had no bearing on the title status, to which Jurich naturally ascended through Lynch's overweight default. The New York Commission, however, ruled the title vacant and suggested an elimination tournament among Jurich, Small Montana, Yatsumi Marioka and Little Dado.

Meantime, Lou Ambers, lightweight champion, and Henry Armstrong went through their paces in preparation for their fifteen-round fight at the Polo Grounds Aug. 10, in which Armstrong will attempt to acquire his third world title.

Mack Names Cochrane As Best Catcher

PHILADELPHIA.—Of all the catchers that have paraded past the veteran eyes of Connie Mack, venerable chieftain of the Philadelphia Athletics, Mickey Cochrane until recently manager of Detroit, gets Connie's vote as the best the game ever produced.

"In years gone by I used to call practically all the pitches from the bench," Connie declared in reminiscing about men who have held his "favorite" team position. "But when Mickey came I met a young fellow who wasn't afraid to tell me I was wrong.

"Many times in games I'd think I was 'signing' him the right thing to do and Mickey would shake off my signs and do as he pleased. In all the years he caught for me he wasn't wrong more than a couple of times.

"He'd notice that a batter was standing an inch or so further away or closer to the plate and call for the ball hardest for the batter to hit. Mickey was great on getting the other fellows' signals for the hit and run and a steal.

"Even in the World Series he'd do as he pleased. He was the first catcher I ever had who knew the batters as well as I did. There weren't many people who knew he could run a team and plot strategy after he had been catching regularly for only two years."

Mack lauded Cochrane as a natural born manager, referring to the latter's years with the Athletics.

"When he was sitting on a bench without a chance to bat in an inning," Connie said, "he was studying something the other fellows were doing. If they were our men, he'd sometimes tell them in a nice way what he thought was wrong and suggest some way to overcome the fault. And if it was an opposition player, he'd know just what to do to profit by the men's mistakes.

"The fans keep their eyes on the pitcher and the batter and the fielder to whom the ball is hit. But after I know my pitcher is working all right, I keep my eyes on the catcher. For that's where the game is played—right there behind the plate."

Farewell For Star Athlete

In center of photo is Shuhei Nishida, who placed second in the pole vault at the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932 and did so again at the 11th Olympiad at Berlin in 1936, who was honored at a farewell party Thursday night at the Suehiro restaurant in the Echigo Building on the Ginza. He has been called to the colors.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 27—War Admiral won the Wilson Stakes through Saratoga's mud by six lengths today to raise his total earnings to $241,475 and settle some of Owner Samuel D. Riddle's doubts about the mud-running ability of his crack son of Man o'War. It was only a three-horse race, with Fighting Fox second, a length and a half before Esposa, last year's winner of the stake, which is a memorial to the late Richard T. Wilson.

George H. Bull, who succeeded Mr. Wilson as president of the Saratoga Association, presented the piece of plate to Mr. Riddle, who saw the race from his box. Mrs. Riddle, who has been ill, watched from an automobile parked in an advantageous spot near the mile chute from which the horses broke.

Because of the condition of the track, there was doubt whether War Admiral would start, but Mr. Riddle and Trainer George Conway decided to send out the 4-year-old colt. His appearance was cheered and Mr. Riddle was congratulated on his decision, especially in view of War Admiral's recent defeat in muddy footing at Suffolk Downs.

Slow Time in Stake

It is clear that War Admiral is not a superior mudder. He played with his weak opposition, but he turned in the slowest mile in the history of the stake. Caught at the finish in 1:39, 2-5, War Admiral was a full second behind the time made by Esposa last year. The conditions—even in the spots where the track was not muddy, was only good—doubtless caused the slow time.

Before the early rains changed the track there was speculation on how short War Admiral's price would be. Some predicted 1 to 4, based on the weight-for-age conditions which allowed War Admiral in with 126 pounds. Esposa shouldered 121, having the benefit of the five-pound sex allowance, while Fighting Fox, a 3-year-old, had to carry only 116.

When the prices were posted in the ring, however, 1 to 2 was put up. Even at this supposedly generous price the layers could not get the favorite played. Not many wished to back War Admiral on a muddy track.

This caused the price to recede to 7 to 10, and even some 4 to 5 was available. This caused a bit of a flurry just at the end, as some thought 4 to 5 a good price against War Admiral, mud or no mud. He closed at 3 to 5.

War Admiral behaved well enough until he reached the gate. There he cut up in his usual manner, but Starter Cassidy at last got him into the stall and the three away to a good start.

Fighting Fox Away Fast

That War Admiral didn't like the muddy footing was apparent at once, as Fighting Fox dashed away to the lead. He had War Admiral headed by a length as the three shot out of the chute and aimed for the turn into the backstretch.

At this point War Admiral got a break in luck he probably didn't need. Fighting Fox ran out. This seemed to put him out of the race. Esposa then ran within a length and a half of War Admiral as Charlie Kurtsinger kept the favorite straight along the fence, but at the far turn Esposa's challenge petered out in rather surprising fashion. Still there was another thrill when Jimmy Stout, having brought Fighting Fox back under control, came on with such speed that he again headed War Admiral.

This was only a momentary lead, however, as the effort of losing so much ground took its toll. War Admiral in the meantime continued about his business. Turning for home he was shaken smartly by Kurtsinger and came on by himself.

This year War Admiral has earned $60,175, including $2,025 today. He is being pointed for other engagements here and Trainer Conway made no secret of the fact that he wanted War Admiral to race to keep him at his top form. This was one reason why he was willing to risk the mud.

Keio Nine Returns From Mandate Isles

Keio University's baseball squad of 18 players returned to Yokohama aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kasagi Maru Thursday night from a trip to the Japanese mandate islands to popularize the sport there. Said Coach Morita:

"We played four exhibition games at Saipan, Tenian and Palao between our 'A' and 'B' team, and at Palao, took on an all-Palao team. We won 21 to 0. We also had time to do considerable sightseeing and were overwhelmed with the hospitality of the residents."

Riggs And Grant Are Eliminated In U.S. Doubles

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 24—An absence of upsets continued to mark the United States national doubles championships at the Longwood Tennis Club today as seeded teams in both the men's and women's divisions won victories in their quarterfinal matches.

Rain forced the postponement of two contests in the men's division, but before further play became impossible two seeded American teams had won straight-set victories to place themselves in the semi-final round.

Donald J. Budge and Gene Mako, of California, who are favored to cop the title in a repetition of their triumph at Wimbledon, easily turned back the inexperienced combination of Russell Babbitt and Frank Guernsey, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, veteran American doubles team, meanwhile turned back Bobby Riggs and Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, 6-1, 8-6, 6-2.

Four remaining teams failed to see action in the men's division due to the postponement of play, these including the powerful Australian combination of Adrian Quist and John Bromwich, first-seeded foreigners, and the French Davis Cup pair of Bernard Destremeau and Yvon Petra.

Play in the women's bracket, where all quarterfinal matches were safely run off, saw Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of the United States, enter the semifinals together with three other teams, all foreign. The top-seeded Americans came within an ace of losing to Madame Sylvia Henrotin, of France, and Mrs. D. R. Andrus, of the United States, but finally emerged victorious after a three-set struggle.

The doubles combination of Rene Mathieu, foremost French woman singles player, and Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, the Polish champion, routed the United States' team of Dorothy Bundy and Dorothy Workman in straight sets. The scores were 6-2, 6-2.

The team of Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Fabyan, nationally seeded No. 1 and No. 2 players, respectively, apparent favorites to cop the title, down the Franco-American combination of Sylvia Henrotin and Dorothy Andrus, but was forced to play 22 games in the third and final set to eke out a victory. The Americans took the first set 6-4, lost the second 5-7, and took the last by a score of 12-10.

Mrs. Harry Hopman and Miss Dorothy Stevenson, of Australia, who yesterday pulled an upset by defeating Miss Barbara Winslow and Marilyn McRae, fourth-seeded U.S. combination, lost a valiant fight to the English combination of Kay Stammers and Miss Margot Lumb. The Britons won in three sets 6-1, 1-6, and 11-9.

On the other hand, another Australian pair, Nancy Wynne and Thelma Coyne, in the last of today's quarter-finals events defeated Virginia Wolfenden and Patricia Canning in two sets, 10-8, 6-2.

In the men's quarter-final matches, the seeded No. 1 team of Donald Budge and Gene Mako easily defeated the team of Russell Bobbit and Frank Guernsey. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn won a surprise victory over Bobby Riggs and Bryan Grant in three sets 6-1, 8-6, 6-2.

Two other quarter-final matches were postponed until tomorrow because of rain.

Scores of the individual matches are as follows:

Women's Division (Quarter-Final)

Mme. Rene Mathieu (Fr.) and Mlle. Jadwiga Jedrzejowska (Pol.) defeated Miss Dorothy Bundy and Miss Dorothy Workman (U.S.) 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Fabyan (U.S.) defeated Mme. Sylvia Henrotin (Fr.) and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus (U.S.) 6-4, 5-7, 12-10.

Miss Kay Stammers and Margot Lumb (Eng.) defeated Mrs. Harry Hopman and Miss Dorothy Stevensen (Australia) 6-1, 1-6, 11-9.

Miss Nancy Wynne and Miss Thelma (Australia) defeated Miss Virginia Wolfenden and Miss Patricia Canning, 10-8, 6-2.

Men's Division (Quarter-Final)

Donald Budge and Gene Mako (U.S.) defeated Russell Bobbit and Guernsey (U.S.), 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn defeated Robert Riggs and Byran Grant (U.S.), 6-1, 8-6, 6-2.

Hatafuku Returns To Eagles' Payroll To Bolster Team

The Eagles will be the team the Osaka Tigers, champions for 1937 and winners of the Spring season this year, will have to beat to add another pennant to its string in the Fall season which opens Saturday at the Korakuen Stadium.

For the Eagles have seen the return to its folds of Pitcher Toshihide Hatafuku, one of the best hurlers in the league before his resignation last year. In Ted Kameda, who came from Honolulu late in the Spring season, the team has the leading pitcher of the circuit. Now with Hatafuku able to give him a rest, the Eagles have a formidable pitching staff.

With Bucky Harris, reputed the best catcher in the circuit, Terauchi, Nakagawa, Nakane and Urushibara, plus Kameda himself, in the line-up, the Eagles have plenty of offensive power.

If Kameda comes through as he did in the Spring season, it will be no surprise if the Eagles unseat the Tigers for the championship.

Kwansei Gakuin, Keio Teams Enter Finals Of Doubles

Ikujima and Yamagata of Kwansei Gakuin and Tsuruta and Kagitomi of Keio entered the doubles finals of the annual national students tennis championships of the Koshien courts, near Osaka, on Thursday.

Ikujima and Yamagata defeated Miura and Washimi of Waseda, 6-3, 6-3 and 6-2.

Tsuruta and Kagitomi eliminated Hirose and Okumura of Kansai University, 6-2, 6-1 and 6-4.

Whitcombe, Cotton Defeat South Africans

London Times

LONDON, July 28—After a tremendous struggle T. H. Cotton and R. A. Whitcombe beat their South African challengers, S. F. Brews and A. D. Locke by 2 up and 1 to play in their four-ball match over four rounds of Walton Health, which was concluded yesterday. The golf was very fine; the time spent on it was very long, so that the match was at once wonderfully interesting and wonderfully boring. England champions, who grew, I think, very weary, deserve all credit for a fine spurt in the last lap which just brought them home.

Of the losers, Locke had to bear the chief burden, since Brews could not help his partner much; he had an almost paralyzing headache, though I daresay he would not like me to say so. In the circumstances Locke performed prodigies alike of courge and skill, and though he played very slowly he certainly did play magnificently. If there is a better putter I should like to see him.

Records were still being broken in the third round, for this one took three hours and 51 minutes, as compared with three hours and 38 minutes of the second. I felt a cynical wish that four hours might be "broken," but it was not to be; still the last crucial round remained, full of hope. There was a large crowd and much inevitable lifting of balls, but still the time occupied was excessive, and it seemed to me that our players had all they knew to keep their impatience in check. Locke was no doubt right from his own point of view not to let himself be hustled by adverse comment, and it is one of the strong points of his temperament that he goes on his own way undeterred, but his movements were terribly deliberate, and however well a man may hit the ball this is not the way to play golf.

Locke's Putting

A strong southerly wind made the game perceptibly more difficult than on Tuesday, and was all in favor of England's stronger and heavier pair. In fact, they turned a deficit of two into a lead of one, but they had their work cut out to do it, since Locke, though his long game was noticeably less accurate, continued to hole putts with a deadly accuracy and a freedom of striking that was a lesson to all beholders. Whitcombe, who had not been his best self on Tuesday, took charge of the game for England on the way out. He got a good 3 at the first hole for a half; he missed a shortish but nasty putt at the second for a win, and he did win the third with a fine 3 to square the match. He is usually the most rapid of players, but this time he seemed to rely a great deal on his caddie's advice as to the line. Perhaps he thought that something must be done to kill time. At the fourth all square loomed almost certain when Cotton, out-hitting and out-playing everyone, reached the back of the green in two vast hits, whereas no one else could come near to reaching it. However, Locke popped up from a bunker unawares and holed a fine putt and the hole was halved in 4.

Then Whitcombe took charge again and did most of the work, but try as he would he could do no more than halve. After the turn Cotton really began. At the 10th, which measures 390 yards, he nearly drove the green and squared the match with a great 3. At the 12th, after Brews had laid a fine second dead, he played a pugging pitch from the left and nearly holed it: result a half in 3. Incidentally his drive at this hole, down wind and down a slope no doubt, was at least hole high and the hole is 370 yard long. At the 13th the Englishmen got their noses in front with a 4, and both the next two holes gave them their chances, but they would not quite take them on the green: Cotton put them two up with a perfect 4 at the 16th—he was the only man who played it without fault—and the short 17th was halved, and two up at luncheon seemed certain. Locke, however, had other views and banged his putt home for a 3 at the home hole. He must be a terrible man to play against, alike for the time he takes over a putt and the demoniacal accuracy with which he strikes it. The best ball scores were:—

Cotton and Whitcombe:
Out.—3, 5, 3, 4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 4.
Home.—3, 3, 3, 4, 5, 5, 4, 3, 4.

Brews and Locke:
Out.—3, 5, 4, 4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 4.
Home.—4, 3, 3, 5, 5, 5, 4, 3, 3.

The Fourth Round

The fourth round, and so the whole issue, turned largely on one hole, the new 12th. It was one of the most dramatic ever played. At this point the South African pair had again made a brave recovery and turned one down into one up. Locke had won the fourth in a beautifully played 4 against the wind and he had also won the eighth, where Cotton missed a putt, short, but not so short as most of the spectators thought. Two halves followed, the sands were running out, and something had to be done for England.

The 12th hole is 370 yards long, a pronounced dog leg, the tee shot to the left the pitch to the right. The straight line from tee to hole is a sea of bracken some 280 yards long. Cotton left it to Whitcombe to play the safe game and then, having the crowd cleared away on the right, blazed straight for the pin across that perilous sea. He hit a magnificent shot, carried the bracken by a couple of yards and finished some 35 yards short of the pin. This stupendous effort he consummated by laying a delicate and beautiful chip stone-dead. That 3 did it, for the South Africans could not quite get their 4's at either of the next two long holes and Whitcombe, holing out confidently, got his two 4's.

That was two up with four to play. The 16th took longer to play than any hole I ever saw or heard of. Whitcombe at length holing an eminently missable putt to halve it in five. That was another and nearly final nail in the coffin; Brews and Cotton halved the 16th in four and Cotton having the honour to the 17th put his tee shot so near the pin that hope must have died in the gallant enemies' breasts. He got his three in two little taps and the end had come. The best ball scores were:—

Cotton and Whitcombe:
Out.—3, 4, 4, 5, 3, 3, 4, 5, 4.
Home.—4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 4, 3.

Brews and Locke:
Out.—3, 4, 4, 4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 4.
Home.—4, 3, 4, 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 3.

The time constituted a moral defeat of the record, 3 hours 48 minutes for 17 holes. Had there been one more hole the four hours desired of the more cynical observers might have been attained. Well, well!

At last the bell ringeth to evensong. At the end Lord Russell of Killowen made the presentation to the winners and a consolation prize of £100 each, given by the News of the World, to the losers.

30 P.C. Cut Made In Receipts Split

Distribution to teams of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league of their share of the receipts will be reduced by 30 per cent, it was decided by the Education Ministry Friday at a conference with officials of the league.

The action was taken in connection with the present governmental drive for economy in consumption of materials.

Distribution of the teams' share will be made after the completion of the schedule, the rest of the funds to be kept in custody of the league.

The fall season is scheduled to start on September 10.

Wooderson Fails To Break Record In Glasgow Meet

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 8—The Rangers F.C. Sports attracted 50,000 people to Ibrox Park (Glasgow) on Saturday, and was a recordbreaking meeting, but there was no new record for S. C. Wooderson, the mile champion and world record holder, whose attack on the world's 1,500 meters figures was the principal event on the program.

Wooderson ran in a special handicap, but although he ran strongly and tried hard to close the gap after the bell, he was well beaten for first place by D. B. Pell, who had received a start of 30 yards. Pell's time for the distance, less his start, was 3min. 46.9sec., and Wooderson finished more than a dozen yards behind in 3min. 49sec., so that J. Lovelock's record of 3min. 47.8sec. remains. That was made two years ago to the day—August 6, 1936, at the Olympic Games.

The results were:—

Invitation 1,500 meters.—D. B. Pell (Herne Hill H.) (30 yards), 1; S. C. Wooderson (Blackheath H) (scratch), 2; A. V. Reeve (Polytechnic H.) (42 yards), 3. Won by 15 yards. Time, 3min. 46.9sec., Wooderson's time, 3-min. 49sec.

Invitatoin Half-mile.—F. R. Handley (Salford A.C.) (6 yards.) 1; R. T. A. Littlejohns (Edinburgh H.) (12 yards), 2; A. J. Collyer (Watford H.) (scratch), 3. Won by a foot; a yard. Time, 1min. 52.4sec. Collyer's time, creating Scottish All-Comers record, 1min. 52.8sec.

100 Yards Open Handicap.—W. McMullen (Edinburgh E.H.) (6½ yards), 1; David Milne (Trinity A.A.C.) (5 yards), 2; W. S. Millar (Watsonian A.C.) (6 yards), 3. Won by a yard; 2 yards. Time, 10.2sec.

Half-mile Open Cycle Handicap.—W. W. Tagg (Glasgow Wheelers) (25 yards), 1; A. C. Campbell (Tweedside C.C.) (52 yards), 2; J. S. Gibb (Northern C. C., Uister) (65 yards), 3. Time, 1min 3.6 sec.

440 Yards Invitation.—W. Frith (Canada) (scratch), 1; J. Loaring (Canada) (6 yards), 2; C. F. Campbell (Springburn H.) (17 yards), 3. Won by two yards. Time, 48sec. (Scottish All-Comers' record).

High Jump Handicap.—Duncan Stalker (Field Events Club) (15in.), 6ft. 11in., 1; F. L. Robertson (Trinity Academical A.C.) (13½in.), 6ft. 7½-in., 2; M. Walker (U.S.A.) cleared 6ft. 5½in., but was unplaced.

120 Yards Invitation Hurdles.—D. O. Finlay (Royal Air Force), 1; J. Patterson (U.S.A.), 2; A. Tolnich (U.S.A.), 3. Time, 14.7sec. (Scottish All-Comers' record).

120 Yards Invitation.—P. Walker (U.S.A.) (scratch), 1; J. M. Cole (Glasgow Police A. C.) (5½ yards), 2; A. A. Clarke (Dumbarton A.A.C.) (5½ yards), 3. Won by two yards. Time, 11.7sec.

One Mile Cycle Handicap.—C. W. Potter (Glasgow Wheelers) (52 yards), 1; W. W. Tagg (Glasgow Wheelers) (50 yards), 2; W. W. Maxfield (Kentish Wheelers) scratch), 3. Time, 2min, 14.4sec.

High Laps Steeplechase.—J. C Ross (Shettleston H.) (90 yards), 1; G. Porteous (Maryhill H.) (210 yards), 2; A. McLean (Glenpark H.) (150 yards), 3. Time, 9min. 59.5sec.

Half-mile Open Handicap.—J. U Reid (Aberdeen City Police A.C.) (16 yards), 1; Nath. Nelson (Victoria Park A.A.C.) (35 yards), 2; A. P. Kenny (Springburn H.) (34 yards), 3. Time, 1min. 53.8sec.

Ladies' 100 Yards Open Handicap.—Agnes Gray (Ardeer R.C.) (7½ yards), 1; Alice McKee (Edinburgh University W.A.C.) (5 yards), 2; B. G. Anderson (Bellahouston H.) (11½ yards), 3. Time, 11.7 sec.

Pole Vault Handicap.—D. M. Hastie (Hillhead H.S.F.P.A.C.) (3ft. 9in.) 14ft. 7in., 1; H. Hood (Edinburgh Police A.C.) (2ft. 9in). 14ft. 3in., 2; C. Warmerdam (U.S.A.) (scratch), 14ft. 3in., 3 (British and Scottish All-Comers' record).

Marathon (26 miles 385 yards).—T. F. Lalande (Herne Hill H.), 1; T. A. Strachan (Glasgow Y.M.C.A. A.C.); 2; L. H. Griffiths (H.H.H.), 3. Time, 2hr. 46min. 58sec.

Australian Team In Semi-Finals Of U.S. Doubles

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 25—An Australian-American battle for the United States men's doubles title was assured at the Longwood Tennis Club today as two "Aussie" teams, including the powerful Davis Cup combination of John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, forged their way into the semifinals of the national tourney by winning delayed quarter-final victories.

With America's formidable Budge-Mako and Allison-Van Ryn combinations already in the semifinals due to wins scored yesterday, Bromwich and Quist pounded out a convincing straight-set victory over George Toley and G. Mulloy, of the United States, winning by scores of 6-1, 9-7, 6-2.

The second Australian victory of the day was scored when Harry Hopman and Leonard Schwartz, who earlier upset the second-seeded American team of Joseph Hunt and Sidney Wood, turned in another surprise by ousting Ypon Petra and Bernard Destremeau, of France, 6-0, 9-7, 8-6.

In tomorrow's semi-final matches, Budge and Mako will battle Allison and Van Ryn, while Bromwich and Quist will likewise meet their own countrymen to decide which will carry Australia's colors in the final. This assures an American-Australian fight for the title with Budge-Mako and Bromwich-Quist believed virtually certain finalists.

Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, top-seeded American team, meanwhile won an easy, straight-set victory over Miss Kay Stammers and Miss Margot Lumb, of England, in one of the two women's semi-final matches. The second match, in which Madam Rene Mathieu, of France, and Miss Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, of Poland, were scheduled to face Miss Nancy Wynne and Miss Thelma Coyne, of Australia, was postponed until tomorrow.

Australian players also scored a success in the mixed doubles today when Quist and Miss Wynne won their quarterfinal match against Bobby Riggs and Mrs. Fabyan, of the United States.

Men's Division (Quarterfinals)

John Bromwich and Adrian Quist (Australia) defeated George Toley and G. Mulloy (U.S.) 6-1, 9-7, 6-2.

Harry Hopman and Leonard Schwartz (Australia) defeated Yvon Petra and Bernard Destremeau (France) 6-0, 9-7, 8-6.

Women's Division (Semifinals)

Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan (U.S.) defeated Miss Kay Stammers and Miss Margot Lumb (England) 6-2, 6-2.

Mixed Division (Quarterfinals)

Adrian Quist and Miss Nancy Wynne (Australia) defeated Bobby Riggs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan (U.S.) 9-7, 6-2.

Keio, Waseda Teams In Doubles Finals

It will be a Keio versus Waseda affair in the finals of the doubles in the 10th annual national students tennis championships being held at the Koshien courts, near Osaka.

Takuo and Tanaka of Waseda eliminated Ikujima and Yamagata of Kwansei Gakuin, 6-2, 6-1 and 9-7 while Tsuruta and Kagitomi of Keio defeated Matsuoka and Tamai, also of Keio, 6-4, 6-4 and 6-2, in the semi-finals on Friday.

Hungarian Champ Almost Beaten In 100-Yd. Trials

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 8—The fifth European Swimming Championships were begun at the Empire Pool (Wembley) on Saturday. The representatives of 15 competing nations paraded round the edge of the bath and Lord Aberdare declared the meeting open.

There were 8,000 people present to see the first event, 100 meters men's free style heats. There was very nearly a sensational opening to the championships. Dr. F. Csik, the Hungarian winner of the title at Magdeburg in 1934, when the championships were last held, was relegated to fourth place in the second heat, and only by a narrow margin qualified for the semi-finals as the fastest fourth man. The heat was won by H. Fischer, Germany's holder of the European record at 56.8sec. Fischer was in front at the end of a dozen yards and was never in danger of defeat. Csik did not have a good start and was last until about 20 yards from the finish, when he spurted and snatched fourth place. The two British competitors in the event, N. Wainwright and F. Dove, both qualified, each being second in his respective heat. Dove was not impressive over the first length of the bath but swam strongly afterwards, moving from fifth to second place, while Wainwright failed only by a touch to catch K. Hoving (Holland) in the third heat.

In the semi-finals Csik was more prominent, for he dead-heated with H. Heibel (Germany) for first place in the second heat. F. Dove (Great Britain) was third and so qualified for the final. Dove turned for home for the final length in the last position, but he spurted so well that he was almost challenging for first place, and was very close to Csik and Heibel when they touched together.

Norman Wainwright, the other British, had a different experience in the first semi-final heat, for he was failed off in last position. H. Fischer (Germany) winning. B. Borg, the Swedish champion, who arrived in England with a big reputation, also failed in this heat, for he was fourth.

The results were:—

100 Meters Men's Free Style.—Championship record, 59.7sec., by Dr. F. Csik (Hungary), the holder, in 1934. European record, 56.8sec., by H. Fischer (Germany), 1936.—Heat 1.—Bjorn Borg (Sweden), 1; Hermann Heibel (Germany,) 2; Olaf Tandberg (Norway), 3. Won by a foot. Time, 61sec. Heat 2.—H. Fischer (Germany), 1; F. Dove (Great Britain), 2; Nakache (France), 3. Won by two yards. Time, 60.4sec. Heat 3.—K. Hoving, jun. (Holland), 1; Norman Wainwright (Great Britain), 2; S. Korosi (Hungary), 3. Won by a touch. Time, 61.8 sec.

First Semi-Final.—Fischer, 1; Hoving, 2; Korosi, 3. Won by a foot. Time, 60.4 sec. Second Semi-Final.—Csik and Heibel equal 1; Dove, 3. Time, 61sec. Dove's time, 61.4sec.

Ladies' 200 Meters Breast Stroke.—Championship record, 2min. 9.1sec., by Genenger (Germany), 1934. European and world record, 2min. 56.9-sec., Waalberg (Holland), 1937. Heat 1.—J. M. E. Waalberg (Holland), 1; Valborg Christensen (Denmark), 2; N. D. Williams (Great Britain), 3. Won by a touch. Time, 3min. 5.6sec (championship record); second time, 3min. 6.8sec. Heat 2.—Inge Sorensen (Denmark), 1; Yvonne Vande Kerckhove (Belgium), 2; D. Storey (Great Britain), 3. Won by half a yard. Time, 3min. 7.2sec.

Ladies' 100 Meters Free Style.—Championship record, 1min. 7.1sec., by Willi Den Ouden (Holland), 1934. European and world record, 1min. 4.6sec., by Willi Den Ouden (Holland), 1936. Heat 1.—R. Hveger (Denmark), 1, G. J. Malcorps (Holland), 2; Acs (Hungary), 3. Won by three-quarters of a yard. Time, 1min. 9sec. Heat 2.—R. van Veen (Holland), 1; B. Ove-Petersen (Denmark), 2; A. D. Hirsch (Norway), 3. Won by half a yard. Time, 1min. 8.2sec.

U.S. Swimmers To Be Invited Here Next Year

An invitation was to be dispatched today by letter by the Japan Swimming Federation to the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States to dispatch a swimming team to Japan for two America-Japan meets in the Summer of 1939, according to a decision of the Federation reached Friday.

The American team would arrive about the middle part of August and a three-day meet would be held in Tokyo and another two or three-day meet in Osaka, under tentative plans.

To make it a genuine dual affair on an equal basis, both teams would be comprised of the same number of contestants. As in past meets, there will be 12 events on the program.

While the A. A. U. is opposed to the sending of a team abroad during the year immediately prior to the Olympic Games, it is believed that the Federation's invitation will be accepted. Reason for this belief according to Masaji Tabata of the Federation, is that the A. A. U. dispatched a team to Japan in 1931, the year before the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles, and that it will serve as a good medium for combined training of the American Olympic candidates.

If the invitation is accepted by the A. A. U., there is a strong possibility that at least one Hawaiian-born Japanese will be on the American team. In this connection, it is interesting to point out that Takashi Hirose of the Hawaiian A. A. U. is a member of the American swimming team now competing in Europe.

Yamagishi Thinks U.S. Will Defeat Australian Team

Domei Tsushin

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25—The belief that the United States will sucessfully defend the Davis Cup against Australia, with Bobby Riggs, second ranking American ace gaining at least one of the singles, was expressed by Jiro Yamagishi, foremost Japanese tennis star, upon his arrival here today from New York.

He left no doubt in the minds of his interviewers that the Americans would retain the prized Cup, asserting that after having played against the Australians at Montreal and after having watched the U.S. squad in practice he was sure of his decision.

Commenting upon Japan's narrow defeat to Australia in the American zone finals, Yamagishi said it was a "big mistake" for the Japanese not to have concentrated their energies on the singles. "We might have been able to lick them if we had abandoned the doubles and concentrated our attacks against John Bromwich," he said, adding that he believed the team of Bromwich and Adrian Quist to be the world's most powerful doubles combination.

Yamagishi will return to Japan by the N.Y.K. liner Tatsuta Maru, leaving San Francisco next Wednesday. During the next six days he hopes to make a sight-seeing trip of California cities, and possibly, might play in a few exhibition matches.

Budge And Mako Tumble Australians In 3 Sets To Win U.S. Doubles Title

Domei Tsushin

BROOKLINE, Massachusetts, Aug. 27—Two American teams walked off with major title honors in the United States national doubles tourney today as Donald J. Budge and Gene Mako, of California, swept to an amazing straightset triumph over John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, of Australia, while the women's crown was successfully retained by Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan.

Capping the climax of six days' competition at the Longwood Tennis Club, Budge and Mako turned back the hitherto undefeated Australians in one of the briefest and most lopsided final matches witnessed in the national tourney during recent years. In only 57 minutes of fast and furious play, the Wimbledon title-holders battered down their opponents' defenses to win by scores of 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Miss Marble Winner

The first match of the day had already seen Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabyan retain the women's crown by defeating the formidable Franco-Polish team of Madame Rene Mathieu and Miss Jadwiga Jedrzejowska. Budge and Miss Marble later made it a grand slam for the United States by winning the mixed doubles from Bromwich and Miss Thelma Coyne, of Australia.

With 4,500 breathless spectators watching from the galleries, the men's final got under way with both teams so determined to take the aggressive that, after the Americans won the opening game of the first set on Budge's service, the next five games in a row went against delivery to bring the score to 4-2, Budge and Mako leading.

The Americans then crashed through on Make's service to lead 5-2, and after the Australians came back to win the next on their own delivery, Budge ran out the set with a series of cannonball serves, acing Quist to take the final point.

The second set saw the Americans continue a lightning-like offensive which placed them in the lead at 2-1 and then swept through the next three games in a row before they yielded to Bromwich's service. Tearing big holes in the Australians' defenses, the Wimbledon champions ran out the next game on Mako's delivery, ending the set at 6-2.

The final set was a complete Australian rout as Budge and Mako turned on even greater steam to run out the match with the loss of only a single game. The contest ended as Bromwich, with the Americans leading at 5-1 and match-point, netted one of Budge's low, baffling returns.

Budge Too Powerful

Experts credited the unexpectedly one-sided Budge-Mako victory to their success in keeping the Australians away from the net where they are most effective. The hard-hitting American pair forced Bromwich and Quist to meet them in a fast, driving game in which Budge's unmatched offensive power carried them to triumph.

The victory meant another step in Budge's campaign to annex all the world's major tennis titles for 1938 and also foreshadowed a virtually unquestioned defeat for the Australians when they try to wrest the Davis Cup away from the United States in the Challenge Round series at Philadelphia a week hence.

Finally, it meant the return of the title to American possession, Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel, of Germany, having wrested it away from Budge and Mako in last year's Brookline tourney.

The battle for the women's crown was close but finally ended in a victory for Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabyan, thus repeating the latter's triumph at Wimbledon last July. They lost the first set to Mrs. Mathieu and Miss Jedrzejowska by an 8-6 score but came back to take the next two, 6-4 and 6-3, to annex the title.

Budge and Miss Marble won the mixed doubles championship with little difficulty, defeating Bromwich and Miss Coyne in the last match of the tourney by scores of 6-1, 6-2. In order to complete competition on schedule time, both teams had to take the courts twice after the Australians finished out an incomplete quarterfinal match against Wilmer Allison andd Mrs. John Van Ryn.

Starting from where play was suspended yesterday, Bromwich and Miss Coyne took two straight games to end the match, 6-2, 2-6, 8-6. In the semifinals, they went on to triumph over their compatriots, Quist and Miss Nancy Wynne, by scores of 7-5, 6-4, while Budge and Miss Marble turned back another Australian team composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopman in the other bracket. The scores of the latter match were 6-3, 6-3.

A summary of today's matches follows:

Men's Division (Final)

Donald Budge and Gene Mako (U.S.) defeated John Bromwich and Adrian Quist (Australia) 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Women's Division (Final)

Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan (U.S.) defeated Mrs. Rene Mathieu (France) and Miss Jadwiga Jedrzejowska (Poland) 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

Mixed Division (Quarterfinals)

John Bromwich and Miss Thelma Coyne (Australia) defeated Wilmer Allison and Mrs. John van Ryn (U.S.) 6-2, 2-6, 8-6. (Match continued from yesterday).

(Semifinals)

John Bromwich and Miss Thelma Coyne (Australia) defeated Adrian Quist and Miss Nancy Wynne (Australia) 7-5, 6-4.

Donald Budge and Miss Alice Marble (U.S.) defeated Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopman (Australia) 6-3, 6-3.

(Final)

Donald Budge and Miss Alice Marble (U.S.) defeated John Bromwich and Miss Thelma Coyne (Australia) 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Marble Routs Miss Bundy In Seabright Play

By ALLISON DANZIG
N.Y. Times

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31—The Seabright Women's Challenge Bowl passed permanently into the keeping of Miss Alice Marble today.

In a repetition of the one-sided victory of Robert L. Riggs over Elwood Cooke Jr. yesterday in the men's final the former national champion played one of the best matches of her career to defeat Miss Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica in the concluding round of the fifty-first annual invitation tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. The score was 6-2, 6-2.

Thirty-three minutes after Louis Shaw had started the contest from the umpire's chair President Holcombe Ward was presenting the trophy to Miss Marble. The blond Californian thus became the first player, man or woman, to carry off the singles honors here for three years running since 1923, when Mrs. Molla Mallory and William Johnston each scored a third consecutive triumph.

Inspired to Finest Tennis

Miss Marble had a particular incentive to win today, aside from her desire to gain outright possession of one of the most-prized pieces of tennis silver. Last year Miss Bundy defeated her in the national championship and the memory of that setback lingered on to inspire the former titleholder to her greatest tennis.

There were some who were prepared to see Miss Bundy win again today. The sturdy Santa Monica girl has seldom shown to better advantage with her weighty, fluent drives and her crisp volleys than she did against Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan in the semi-finals, whereas Miss Marble had caused her admirers some disquieting moments with the shakiness of her forehand against Miss Virginia Wolfenden.

But Miss Bundy had no more chance of winning today than Cooke had against Riggs. Miss Marble was in full command of her whole armory of weapons and hit with so much finality and such steadfast control from every part of the court that the power of her opponent's robust drives could make little impression.

Miss Marble plays tennis as much like a man as any woman in history and the masculinity of her game was particularly impressed upon the gallery this afternoon. No other woman player in this reviewer's observation has used the twist service so effectively as she did, to score aces even on the second ball.

Answer for Every Shot

Her volleying and overhead smashing were the last word, and her kills of lobs rising high from the turf in the back court were worthy of Vincent Richards. Most convincing of all was the stanchness of her ground strokes in standing up against the bombarding forehand of Miss Bundy. Unless she had to take the ball on the dead run, and she is much faster than the average woman player, Miss Marble had an answer to almost every shot from either the forehand or the backhand.

M'Kechnie Gives Reds Confidence

By FRANCIS J. BURKE

PHILADELPHIA.—Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, currently occupying a first division berth in the National League, credits his success with the erstwhile cellar team to "confidence."

"I can't get out and play," he confided to sportwriters here. "I can't give them courage when the test comes, but I do try to give them confidence in themselves—and a man who has confidence in himself will often accomplish miracles."

Bill illustrated the success of his theory with the story of Pitcher Jim Weaver, released from four major league teams because of wildness.

"The first day in camp," related McKechnie, "I called Jim aside and told him he was starting from scratch with the Reds. I told him his 'wildness' was all in his mind and to go out in the box and put the ball over the plate. At present Jim is winning games and he has all the confidence in the world."

The veteran manager believes that pitchers "are like little boys—a pat on the back is worth two kicks in the shins." A few pats on the back, he thinks, will turn Bucky Walters, recent hurling acquistion from the Phillies, into a first rate major league tosser.

McKechnie's greatest joy at the moment is, of course, Johnny Vander Meer, sensational two successive no-hit pitcher. Sports writers hail Johnny as "a likeable, modest youngster" and throw in a few anecdotes to prove it.

The Cincinnatti team was scheduled to leave for Boston at midnight, one story ran, but Vander Meer arrived two hours earlier and was refused admittance to the sleeper because he didn't have a pass. Instead of creating a scene, as many ball players might, Johnny withdrew and explained his plight to the team's secretary by telephone. The secretary rushed over and enlightened the redfaced train officials.

On another occasion, it was said, Vander Meer would accept only four complimentary tickets for one of his team's games and purchased a fifth ducat for his sweetheart. "I didn't want to be a hog," he was quoted as saying.

Araki Supports Swimming

The rain Sunday morning didn't stop Education Minister General Sadao Araki from keeping his speaking date at the Meiji Shrine pool at the opening of the national children's swimming program throughout the nation, the four 500-meter relays, any style allowed, for boys and girls, both for the elementary and higher elementary grades, being directed by radio broadcast from the Shrine pool. The Minister praised swimming as one of the finest sports for Japanese children.

5 Records Broken In Girls' Swim Meets At Nagoya

Two new records were created in the national open women's swimming championship Sunday at the Nagoya pool.

Miss Hana Miura, Yokohama's leading mermaid, set one by winning the 400-meter freestyle title in 6 minutes 3.4 seconds.

The other mark was established by Miss Tsutako Koeda of Tsuyama Higher Girls School when she won the 100-meter freestyle in 1 minute 16.6 seconds.

Miss Shizuko Kitajima of the Sugiyama Girls School captured the 100-meter backstroke title in 1 minute 32 seconds.

The 200-meter freestyle title went to Miss Tsuneko Furuta of the Girls Physical School in 2 minutes 51.8 seconds.

Miss Kinuko Nakayama of the Tokuyama Higher Girls School won the 200-meter breaststroke in 3 minutes 17.8 seconds.

Considerably better times were made in the third annual girls middle school championships held simultaneously at the same pool. Three new records were set and two marks tied.

The new marks were:

400-meter freestyle, 5 minutes 59.2 seconds, by Miss Miye Takuma, of Hagoromo Higher School.

100-meter breaststroke, 1 minute 31.4 seconds, by Miss Kimiko Nonaka, of Kyoto 4th Prefectural School.

100-meter backstroke, 1 minute 26 seconds, by Miss Satoshi Ito, of Nakaizumi Higher Girls School.

The marks tied were:

50-meter backstroke, 40.2 seconds, by Miss Satoshi Ito, of Nakaizumi Higher Girls School.

100-meter freestyle, 1 minute 14.8 seconds, by Miss Miye Takuma, of Hagoromo Higher School.

The Sugiyama Girls School of Nagoya won the team championship with 47 points. Aichi Shukutoku was second with 33 points and Nakaizumi Higher Girls School, third, with 29 points.

New Record Set

MITCHAM, England, Aug. 27—Clipping nearly seven seconds from the previous mark, Miss Olive Hall, British sprinter, today established a new women's world record for 880 yards by finishing the distance in two minutes 19.7 seconds in an athletic meet held here.

The previous record of two minutes 26.6 seconds was established by Miss Lines, of Britain, in 1922.

Tokyo And Kyoto Win In Teidai Baseball Series

Tokyo and Kyoto were victorious in the four Imperial universities baseball tourney's opening games Sunday at the Tokyo Imperial University's grounds at Hongo.

Using a number of second stringers, Tokyo defeated the Tohoku Imperial nine, 4 to 0, while Kyoto took the measure of the Kyushu Imperial squad by a 7 to 1 score.

Gen Is Knocked Out By Chinese Fighter From Honolulu

Domei Tsushin

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26—Umio Gen, Chosenese holder of the Japanese featherweight boxing crown, was knocked out in the second round of a bout here tonight with Kuikong Young, Chinese-American fighter from Honolulu. The latter floored Gen four times before the plucky Chosenese boxer finally went down for the count.

Tonight's knockout was Gen's second defeat this week since he lost on a decision to Tomboy Romero, hard-punching Mexican fighter, at Stockton on Wednesday.

West Sets World Mark In Motorcycle Event

Domei Tsushin

BELFAST, Aug. 21—Setting a world speed record for the 500 cc event in the Ulster Grand Prix at Clady Circuit, near here, yesterday, J.M. West, riding a German BMW motorcycle, covered the distance of 246 miles at an average speed of 93.98 miles per hour.

At one point, West averaged 115.76 m.p.h. for half a mile.

Another German machine, a DKW, ridden by a Briton, E. O. Thomas, won the 250 cc event over 205 miles.

E. A. Mellers, riding a Velocette, won the 350 cc event over a 225½ mile course.

Matsumoto Wins Students Singles Crown For 1938

Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei University captured the singles title in the 10th annual national students tennis championships Sunday afternoon at the Kokusai courts at Koshien, near Osaka, by downing Matsuoka of Keio University in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-4 and 6-1.

Matsuoka led 4 to 1 in the first set but Matsumoto's back hand began working to penetrate his opponent's weak forehand and he won the next five games to take the set, 6-4.

Matsuoka took to the net in the second set but Matsumoto crossed him up with well placed passing shots to annex the set, 6-4.

Matsumoto had rounded into form by the time the third set came along and his baseline shots proved too much for Matsuoka.

Yasuo Tsuruta and Kokichi Kagitomi of Keio won the doubles title by defeating Tanaka and Takao of Waseda in three sets, 6-1, 7-5 and 6-4.

Hayama Captures Marathon To Fete Victory At Berlin

Toraichi Hayama of the Kure Naval Arsenal was first to cross the tape in the second annual marathon held Sunday by the All-Japan Marathon Federation in commemoration of Kitei Son's victory for Japan in the event in the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936. His time was 3 hours 11 minutes 42 seconds, slow, handicapped by the rain.

None of the first string runners was among the 18 contestants that were on their marks to respond to the starting gun at 2 p.m. at the Meiji Shrine Stadium. The course was to Mitaka, in the suburbs, and back.

Tadashi Inamura, also of the Kure Naval Arsenal, was second in 3 hours 17 minutes 55 seconds.

Third was Ri Aoyama of Senshu University, whose time was 3 hours 19 minutes 31 seconds.

German Breaks World's Hammer Throw Record

Domei Tsushin

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 27—Bettering a world's mark which was established only a week ago, Erwin Blask, German Olympic champion, today tossed the hammer 59 meters to surpass the record held by Karl Hein, another German Olympic star, by 0.76 meters. Hein set the record (58.24 meters) at Osnabrueck, Germany, last Sunday, shattering a world's mark of 57.77 meters, held by Patrick J. Ryan, of the United States, which had stood for 25 years.

Horiguchi Scores K.O.

Horiguchi K.O.'s DeGuzman In 6th At Kokusai Gekijo

Before a capacity crowd at the Kokusai Gekijo at Asakusa, reputed the largest movie-house in the Far East, Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's leading featherweight boxer, knocked out Fighting DeGuzman of the Philippines in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-rounder Monday night. It was Horiguchi's first appearance in a Tokyo ring in a year, his absence having been due to illness. The bout was ballyhooed by the Fuji Boxing Club, the sponsors, for the featherweight championship of the Orient, which Horiguchi is claimed to have won in a fight against DeGuzman's older brother in Honolulu two years ago.

But it was no easy victory for the Japanese battler, who lacked speed in his punches. As a matter of fact, it was a lucky left hook to the jaw as DeGuzman came boring in and a right uppercut which he followed up to the same spot in the sixth round that carried him to victory. At that, it was the opinion of those at the ringside that the Filipino could have risen from the canvas before the count had gone to ten. But he had lost his fighting spirit and decided to quit.

Horiguchi's performance was a disappointment to his ardent supporters. Up to the knockout in the sixth round, the only round he had won was the third. DeGuzman took the first and second rounds, scoring with an effective left and right attack to the head and body. He had Horiguchi worried in the second round when he connected with a stiff left to the jaw.

Horiguchi's right uppercut to the jaw which sent the Filipino down came after 1 minute 55 seconds of fighting in the sixth round.

Horiguchi weighed in at 123 pounds and DeGuzman at 122 pounds.

The results of the eight round semi-final bouts follow:

Goro Kikuchi (Shinko), 119 pounds, decisioned Yoshiyasu Kusumoto (Fuji), 120 pounds.

Toshiro Aoki (Fuji), 125 pounds, decision Masao Nakamura (Nitto), 125 pounds.

U.S. Track Stars Win 8 Of 11 Tests Against Germans

N.Y. Times

DORTMUND, Germany, Aug. 7—Paced by Mozel Ellerbe of Tuskegee Institute and Michigan's Bill Watson, the touring United States team won eight of the eleven events in which it was entered in a track and field meet today.

Ellerbe took the 100-meter dash in 10.4 seconds, with Clyde Jeffrey of Riverside (Calif.) Junior College second and the German, Steinmetz, third. Wilbur Greer of Michigan State was fourth.

Watson, Michigan's one-man track team, captured the shot-put at 51 feet 4 5-32 inches and gave Martens of Germany a fight in the high jump. Martens prevailed with a leap of 6 feet 4 25-32 inches, while Watson's best was 4 feet 1⅝ inches, for second place.

Ellerbe and Jeffrey reversed places at 200 meters, the former scoring in 21.1 seconds, while Ellerbe placed second. Steinmetz was third in 0:21.8, four-tenths of a second behind Ellerbe.

Harley Howells of Ohio State, who has waged several 400-meter duels with Harbig of Germany, lost by four-tenths of a second to Harbig.

John Marion of Prairie View (Texas) Teachers College annexed the 800-meter run in 1:52.1 from Howells and Blaine Rideout, of North Texas State Teachers College. Howells did 1:53.5 and Rideout was a second slower.

Rideout, however, came back to capture the 1,500-meter run in 3:59.8, while Wisconsin's Walter Mehl turned on a great finishing spurt to beat Legge of Germany at 5,000 meters. Mehl was timed in 15:43.2 to Legge's 15:44.

The 400-meter relay also went to the invaders in 40.6 seconds to Germany's 0:41.8.

Chuck Soper of Southern California scored the final United States victory in the javelin throw with a toss of 186 feet 7 1-64 inches. Karl Hein of Germany, the Olympic champion, took the hammer throw with a heave of 187 feet 8 1-64 inches while Irving Folwartshny of Rhode Island State was second at 165 feet 2 21-64 inches.

DiMaggio Hits 20th Homer, Aids Yankees To Win

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

DETROIT, Aug. 4—Their start was bad but the track was lightning fast today, and once the Yankees gained momentum, the result was practically inevitable.

For the McCarthymen exploded six runs in the fifth, Joe DiMaggio subsequently unfurled his twentieth homer of the year, and it all added up to a decisive 8-to-4 triumph over the Tigers in the series final.

That gave the front-running champions the odd game of the three-game set, produced no end of anguish among 16,000 onlookers and sent the Yanks steaming out of here for Cleveland, where tomorrow they will open a three-game series with the Indians. The latter, kept idle today by rain, are now two and a half lengths to the rear.

Sixth in Row for Pearson

Monte Pearson pitched this one for the Yanks and, though bowled over for four runs in the first two innings, stuck resolutely to his guns, firm in the conviction that sooner or later something would blow his way. In the fifth it did, and from then on Three-Card Monte was invincible as he hung up his ninth victory of the season and his sixth in a row.

There were some troublesome moments at the outset, however, when with two down in the first inning, the Tigers filled the bases on Charlie Gehringer's double, Hank Greenberg's infield hit and a pass and Chet Morgan banged home two with a single.

In the second the Yanks had one of those old sinking spells in the field that of late have been giving Marse Joe McCarthy no end of jim jams, on the bench. DiMaggio dropped a line drive right in his hands, and after Vernon Kennedy had singled, Red Rolfe stumbled over Jo-Jo White's sacrifice as if some one had strung some low wire out there to keep the little boys off the grass. Came a double by Billy Rogell and two more Tigers counted.

Kennedy Stays Ahead

In the meantime, Kennedy, quite proud of his achievement as a hitter, was going along in fine style on the mound, blanking the Yanks for four successive innings.

But in the fifth it was Kennedy's turn to draw a complete blank, the Yanks routing him before he had a chance to retire a man. Doubles by Joe Gordon and Pearson behind a pass to George Selkirk started the big rush. Frankie Crosetti singled, and after Rolfe walked, Kennedy also walked, Lefty Jake Wade taking his place.

Jake did not bring immediate relief to the sorely beset Mickey Cochrane, who is wearing himself to a frazzle on the bench these days. Myril Hoag, batting for Tommy Henrich, walked, forcing in the third tally of the inning, two infield outs pushed over two more, and Joe Glenn, understudying for Bill Dickey, made the most of his chance by banging in a sixth with a single.

With Wade vacating for a pinch-hitter in the sixth, George Coffman came on for the seventh, only to see his first pitch belted into the upper right tier. It was DiMaggio's No. 20.

Then, just to ease Marse Joe's mind some more, the boys picked up another run in the eighth on infield hits by Gordon and Crosetti and a long fly to left by Rolfe.

Australians Top Scotland By 61 Runs At Cricket

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 3—The Australians beat Scotland in a one-day match at Glasgow on Saturday by 61 runs, but as in the previous game the Scots did well to dismiss their famous opponents so cheaply. Once again, however, the Scottish batsmen failed badly and could never master the spin bowling of O'Reilly.

P. A. Gibb, who won the toss, took the bold course of putting the Australians in to bat, but his action proved justified. White was out in the first over the day and the fourth wicket went down with only 38 on the board. McCabe and Barnes then made a recovery, adding 32 for the fifth wicket, but Barnes alone held out for long afterwards. He played a valuable innings lasting just over two hours and his defense took him through a trying period on a soft ditch which always helped bowlers. Scotland used six bowlers, the most successful being Paris, who took three wickets for 22 runs.

Scotland began their reply fairly well, but so soon as O'Reilly went on the batsmen were helpless. Gibb alone stayed any length of time, but he never seemed happy and scored only 15 in 70 minutes. Spinning the ball quickly and often beating the batsmen in the air, O'Reilly proved almost unplayable and in ten overs he took seven wickets for 39 runs, three of his wickets coming in one over.

South Africa Tops Britain, 26 To 12 In Rugby Contest

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 6—A record crowd of 35,000 attended the first International Rugby match between South Africa and Great Britain, played at Ellis Park in glorious weather.

The game was delayed at the start owing to a section of the crowd encroaching on the ground. Great Britain started well, and within three minutes had taken the lead, Taylor kicking a penalty goal. Immediately afterwards Brand, full-back, hit the post with a penalty kick; but the game was only ten minutes old when Brand had better luck with another penalty. It was also a penalty, magnificently taken by Jenkins, that put Great Britain ahead again at 6 points to 3. The South Africans were carrying the scrummages, and the visitors missed Travers, their regular hooker.

South Africa now pressed strongly, and Williams got over for a try following brilliant work by Harris. Brand converted and South Africa led at 8 points to 6. Jenkins, however, restored the lead of Great Britain by brilliantly placing a penalty from five yards inside his own half. The home team were proving far superior in the tight scrummages, gaining possession regularly, and Britain's line had many narrow escapes.

Just before half-time South Africa deservedly scored again. Reynolds was tackled in possession and lost the ball, and Dutoit ran strongly to within a yard of the line, where he was brilliantly tackled but Louw dived over for a try, which Brand converted.

At the interval South Africa led by 2 goals and a penalty goal (13 pts.) to 3 penalty goals (9 pts.).

The South African forwards started the second half with a passing rush which took the ball half the length of the field, but determined tackling saved Britain. The amazing kicking continued when Brand scored a magnificent penalty goal from the half-way line. The home scrummage was far superior in the tight, but the British backs were always dangerous when they got the ball.

After persistent pressure by the home side Harris got the ball in the Tourists' "25" and went through to score from an an easy position; and with Brand again converting they led by 21 points to 9. Then Britain returned to the attack and Jenkins kicked another fine penalty.

Brand for once failed with a fairly easy penalty, and although the British forwards retaliated with a a foot rush, the South Africans were soon attacking again, only another of many penalties saving the visitors. Brand once had to touch down after a great foot rush by the British forwards, who were showing more dash than in the first half, while their backs, given no chance to show their brilliant attack, defended courageously.

From a swift passing movement Wiliams made a grand ten yards dash to dive over in the corner Brand converting with another great kick. This was the extent of the scoring, and South Africa won somewhat easily by four goals, two penalty goals (26 pts.) to four penalty goals (12 pts.).

Tokyo Captures Title In Teidai Annual Tourney

Tokyo Imperial University's nine won the championship of the four Imperial universities' anual baseball series Monday afternoon at the Teidai grounds at Hongo by running roughshod over the Kyoto Imperial University squad by a 13 to 3 score. It was the Tokyo team's third title in three straight years.

The Tokyo ball tossers took advantage of Pitcher Miki's inability to find the plate and pushed over four runs in the second inning to clinch the game.

Pitchers Kawai and Yutani limited the Kyoto team to six scattered hits.

The summaries follow:

Armstrong Wins Welterweight Fighting Crown

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—Henry Armstrong, already world's featherweight and welterweight champion, made ring history last night as the first man ever to hold three titles at one time, when he beat Lou Ambers, holder of the world's lightweight championship, in a 15-round bout for the lightweight championship at Madison Square Garden.

Armstrong won seven rounds, lost six and drew two. He would have won two more, but as deprived of them for fouling. However, he managed to build up a strong enough lead to overcome the penalties.

Gruelling Fight

The bout was one of the most gruelling ever fought at Madison Square Garden.

The decision was an unpopular one, Armstrong being loudly booed by the spectators, while Ambers was given a tremendous ovation.

Armstrong won the first three rounds as a result of a series of hard righthooks and body punches.

Ambers got in with a number of good jaw blows in the close-in fighting. Ambers hit the ropes several times.

Amstrong was obviously forcing the fight, but Ambers got in several good blows to the jaw.

Ambers was twice downed, first in the fifth round, when he was knocked down by the last of three successive rights and was only saved by the bell. The second was in the sixth round, when he was downed for as much as a count of nine from a right hook.

Despite Armstrong's demon-like endeavor to score a knockout, however, Ambers won the sixth round.

The negro won the next two rounds, Ambers the ninth, while the tenth was even. Then Ambers followed up by winning the next two rounds on Armstrong's fouls. He also took the thirteenth and fourteenth, both fighters showing signs of extreme tiredness.

Armstrong, however, recovered and came back to win the fifteenth in a magnificent finish.

Split Decision

It was a split decision, one judge giving 8 rounds to Armstrong and 7 to Ambers, while another judge gave the reverse. The referee gave Armstrong 7 rounds, Ambers 6 and 2 even.

Many considered that Ambers earned a draw.

The ex-champion was at a disadvantage from the negro's forcing style, nevertheless kept his head and scored most of his points with rights to the head.

Fight For Empire Featherweight Title Is A Draw

Domei Tsushin

GLASGOW, Aug. 18—Each would-be champion going at it hammer and tongs throughout the hard fought tussle, the Empire featherweight championship between Johnny McGrory and Benny Caplan, held here last night, resulted in a draw.

McGrory was the more aggressive in his tactics.

In the second and third rounds, the Londoner was shaken by his opponent's body punches, but defended himself gamely, although he was bleeding from the mouth.

From the tenth round onwards to the end of the contest, Caplan rallied strongly, punishing McGrory with hard rights up to the final bell.

Eight thousand enthusiastic spectators cheered Caplan's plucky display.

In view of the fact that he was four pounds overweight for the fight, the Boxing Board announced that McGrory's British Empire titles are now vacant.

Caplan is considered to be the chief contender.

Hankyu Clouts 4 Homers To Top Giants, 6-2

Blasting away four homers, the Osaka Hankyu ball tossers bumped off the Tokyo Giants by 6 to 2 in Monday's tripleheader of the professional circuit at the Korakuen Stadium here. It was the team's third straight victory in as many games in the recently opened Fall season.

Saburo Miyatake, former star pitcher and heavy sticker of Keio University, registered two of them while Backstop Ohara and Shortstop Uyeda accounted for the other two. All four homers were poled off Pitcher Mayeda.

Nagoya Beats Eagles

Nagoya kept in running with the Hankyu for the top place in the league standings by upsetting the strong Eagles team of Tokyo, 1 to 0, for its third straight win.

The Osaka Tigers, champions of the Spring season, blanked the Nagoya Dolfins, 4 to 0, in the other game.

Pitcher Mayekawa seemed to have more speed than usual and headed for a good afternoon, but Miyatake crossed him up in the second inning with a homerun into the left field bleachers with a man on. Miyatake swung at a curve and the ball barely cleared the fence on a virtual beeline drive from the plate. Then it was Ohara who slammmed one into the left field stands for the third run in the same frame.

Mayekawa settled down in the next two innings but he got into trouble again in the fifth. Nishimura walked after two outs and this time it was Shortstop Uyeda, who hails from Hawaii, who lifted one that barely cleared the short right field fence. The Giants protested that the ball had grazed the fence and it was no homer, but the umpires would have none of it. This homer just about salted the game away for the Hankyus.

Miyatake's No. 2

Miyatake hit his second homer in the ninth, another smash into the left field bleachers.

Pitcher Morii was the hero for the Nagoya's surprising win over the Eagles. He had fine control of his curve ball and allowed nary a hit in the first seven innings. This is exceptionally fine pitching when it is considered that the Eagles is one of the best hitting teams in the league.

It was Right Fielder Ota that got the first hit off Morii at the outset of the eighth inning. A sacrifice sent him to second and Ted Kameda, sent in as a pinchhitter, came through with a hit that sent Ota to third, in position to deadlock the score at 1-all, Nagoya having scored in the fourth. The relay from center was a bad throw that rolled to the back net but Ota had failed to follow the ball, and was unable to take advantage of it.

Furukawa of the Eagles pitched a good game, being effective in the pinches.

The Tigers clinched the game against the Dolfins by scoring two runs in the fourth. Hits in succession by Kageura, Matsuki, Tanaka and Monzen turned the trick.

The summaries follow:

16 Blows By Cubs Rout Pirates, 9-3

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12—The Cubs personally probed the pennant proceedings today and found that two of the Pirates' best pitchers could be touched for sixteen hits, sufficient to win, 9 to 3.

After Pittsburgh jumped into a one-run lead in the third the Cub began getting to Jim Tobin, who now has won ten games and lost six, and finally forced him to the showers in the seventh after Stan Hack po'ed a home run into the right-field stands with one on.

Brown Unequal to Task

Mace (Fireman) Brown, only other Pirate pitcher who has won ten or more games, failed to put out the conflagration, and Chicago added three runs in the ninth.

Carl Reynolds put the Cubs in front for the first time in the sixth by tripling with two on after a double and a single had made the count 1-1 in the fifth. Reynolds scored on Manager Gabby Hartnett's second double, but Tobin got the side out and faced three men in the seventh.

Brown gave seven hits but held Chicago scoreless until the ninth, when two singles, Rip Collins's triple and a long fly counted three runs.

Bill Lee, in winning his fourteenth game against eight defeats, allowed seven hits.

Waners Get to Lee

The Waner brothers gave him the most trouble. Lloyd hit three times in four trips to the plate and scored twice. The first time he raced in on brother Paul's double to deep center in the third inning. His second score came on a double against the right-fie'd screen by Gus Suhr, who tallied later on a single by Arky Vaughan.

Pep Young, who hadn't missed an inning this season at second base, strained a muscle in the ninth and was replaced in the Pirate line-up by Tommy Thevenow.

World's Best Amateur Player

J. Donald Budge, mainstay of the American Davis Cup team and number one tennis star of the world in the amateur ranks, reveals his beautifully executed running forehand stroke in this series of photos taken with the magic eye camera during a practise session recently at the Westchester Country Club at Rye. He executes this difficult stroke with perfect timing and precision, utilizing his long legs to catch up to the ball and for the split second of the stroke's duration, retains perfect balance and form.

Teamwork Wins For Australians In Doubles Tilt

Domei Tsushin

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—Australia's two-man Davis Cup team composed of the youthful John Bromwich and the veteran Adrian Quist which suffered a double setback in yesterday's singles matches, came back strong today to defeat by scores of 0-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, the powerful American doubles squad of Donald J. Budge and Gene Mako, recently winners of the Wimbledon men's doubles crown.

The Australians, already handicapped by a two-match lead, played inspired tennis today to draw repeated applause from the thousands who gathered at the Germantown Tennis and Cricket Club to witness the match.

Despite the presence of Budge who defeated Bromwich in four sets in one of yesterday's singles matches, the latter easily was the hero of the day. It was, however, the superior teamwork of the Bromwich-Quist combination which enabled the Australians to win after dropping only the first set.

Budge and Mako played furious tennis in the first set. Neither of the Australians could handle the scorching drives which the Americans repeatedly sent down the sidelines. The Australians dropped the first set at love.

Once the Australians got under way in the second set, however, there was no doubt as to the eventual outcome of the match. Displaying perfect teamwork, the Australians had Budge and Mako at their mercy.

Budge and Mako equally were responsible for today's defeat. Neither could match Bromwich or Quist in steadiness and the Australians had little difficulty in breaking through their opponents' services.

Danish Mermaid Cracks Helene Madison's Mark

Domei Tsushin

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 4—Clipping more than 57 seconds off the officially recognized world mark held by Miss Helene Madison, of the United States, Miss Eleonore Ragnhild Hveger, crack Danish swimmer, established a new record for the women's 1,000-yard freestyle event by negotiating the distance in 12 minutes 26 seconds in a meet here today.

Miss Hveger's sensational performance not only bettered the official world's mark of 13 minutes 23.6 seconds but it also eclipsed the unofficial record set two weeks ago by Miss Caroen of Belgium, who swam the distance in 13 minutes 3.2 seconds.

Hanada To Meet Kikuchi Thursday Over Ten Rounds

Yoichiro Hanada of the Teikoku Boxing Club, recognized as the flyweight champion of Japan, will take on Goro Kikuchi, up and coming fighter of the Shinko Boxing Club, over 10 rounds at the Hibiya Park amphitheater on Thursday night.

Tamiya Igarashi of the Teikoku Boxing Club and Kanji Yamaguchi of the Dai Nippon Boxing Club will clash in the six-round semi-final.

There will be two other six-round and three four-round preliminary bouts on the card.

British Ruggers Beaten, 26-8 In South Africa

London Times

DURBAN, Aug. 13—The British Rugby football team was surprisingly beaten by a Northern Provinces XV by 26 points to eight here today. This was the fifth British defeat of the tour in 16 matches. Great Britain played an experimental team with F. J. Reynolds in the three-quarter back line in place of H. R. McKibben, who took Reynolds's place at stand-off half-back. Changes were also made in the positions of some of the forwards.

Winning the early scrummages, the touring side attacked, and in spite of the inability of Tanner and McKibben to combine they took the lead when Taylor kicked a penalty goal from 35 yards. The British team then scored again. Intercepting a pass from Francis to Waring, E. Jones ran brilliantly, beat the full-back, and scored between the posts. Taylor converted for a lead of eight points to none. The South Africans, however, fought back well and were holding their own in the scrummages. Breaking from a loose maul, Bastard, the Springbok International, sold a dummy cleverly and got right through. He passed to van Rensburg, who scored. Francis converting. Three minutes later Todd, the South African scrummage half-back, went round the blind side in the British "25" and passed to Brookdryk, who scored in the corner.

With Reynolds and McKibben changing places in the second half, the British line began to move with great cohesion. The British had the better of the play in the first 10 minutes of the second half until Grobler put the South Africans ahead by kicking a great penalty goal from the halfway line, 15 yards inside the touch line. Two minutes later Sheriff, after receiving a cross kick from Waring, kicked the ball past Grieve, the British full-back, and scored. Francis converted to make the score 16—8 in favor of the South Africans. After a scrummage at about halfway Francis went round the blind side and passed to Brookdryk, who scored, Francis again converting. Just before the end a passing movement ended in Brookdryk scoring between the posts. Francis converted, and the Northern Provinces had won by 26 points to eight.

The teams were:—

Northern Provinces.—Rivers, back; Brookdryk, Waring, Wallace, and Lyster, three-quarter backs; Francis and Tood, half-backs; van Rensburg, C. Niekerk, Gafney, Bastard, Sheriff, Grobler, Smollan, and Louw, forwards.

British Touring Team.—C. F. Grieve (The Army and Scotland), back; E. Jones (Llanelly), F. J. Reynolds (Old Cranleighans and England), B. E. Nicholson (Harlequins and England), and C. V. Boyle (Dublin University and Ireland), three-quarter backs; H. R. McKibben (Queen's University, Belfast, and Ireland) and H. Tanner (Swansea and Wales), half-backs; S. Walker (Instonians and Ireland), W. H. Travers (Newport and Wales); G. T. Dancer (Bedford), A. R. Taylor (Cross Keys and Wales), J. A. Waters (Selkirt and Scotland), S. R. Couchman (Old Cranleighans), A. G. Purchas (Coventry), and R. B. Mayne (Queen's University, Belfast, and Ireland), forwards.

Locke Defeats Padgham, 2 Up In Prize Match

Times, London

LONDON, Aug. 15—A. D. Locke beat A. H. Padgham, a former Open Champion, by two holes in their 36-hole challenge match for £100 a side on the Selsdon Park Club's course yesterday.

Locke generally played the steadier golf, but it was not until the 16th hole of the evening round that he got in front. Two thousand people followed the play, but they were not always fully under control, and in the excitement of the afternoon nobody could say that Locke's ball, at the 18th hole, was not trodden on. Again at the fourth in the second round Locke drove to the top of a bunker, and in the crowd's haste a man accidentally kicked the ball into the hazard. On consultation and with Padgham in agreement, the ball was replaced on the top of the bunker. Both players went round in 68 in the afternoon, and in the evening Locke took 67 to Padgham's 69.

During the first nine holes of the second round Padgham twice gained the lead and was once brought back to all square, so that he was still a hole in front at the turn. He had led for the second time at the sixth, where a great second shot left the ball 4ft. from the pin. Locke drew level at the 12th, where Padgham, after being bunkered, missed a yard putt, and Locke robbed himself of a possible win at the 14th by laying himself a half-stymie. He won the 16th, to take the lead for the first time, his putt of 10ft. finding the hole, and, halving the 17th, he was dormy one. Both were on the green in 2 at the 18th. Padgham putted first and just missed, but Locke, from 10 yards, holed out.

The figures were:

PADGHAM

Out: 4, 3, 6, 3, 4, 3, 4, 3, 4—34.
In: 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4, 4—35.

The First Round

Both players did the first round in 68, and were all square after 18 holes. Locke had not led to that point. He was stymied at the first hole, which cost him 6, but he squared the match at the third, where Padgham topped his second shot. Halves followed until Padgham holed from 4½ yards for a 2 at the eighth, where he again led, and he reached the turn with that advantage somewhat luckily, as at the ninth the South African was again stymied. Locke was only a yard away in 2, and Padgham's ball from six yards came to rest on the line. Locke squared at the 10th, where Padgham, from a bunker, found the trunk of a tree. He tried to play a rebound shot off the tree, but failed. Padgham, however, was again in front at the 13th, where Locke's ball failed to climb the steep bank to the green, and became two up when Locke drove into the trees at the 14th, where, for the second time in the afternoon, he sent his next shot into the crowd. Locke, however, holed from three yards at the 16th and then played the shot of the round at the 17th to square the match. From a hundred yards he placed his second right on the lip of the hole.

The figures for the first round were:—

A. H. PADGHAM

Out: 5, 3, 5, 3, 4, 4, 4, 2, 4—34.
In: 5, 4, 3, 4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 4—34.

Maranville Quits As Manager Of Montreal Team

MONTREAL, Aug. 12—Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, twenty-seven years in baseball, resigned tonight as manager of the slumping Royals of the International League.

First Baseman Alex Hooks, in his first year with the Royals, was selected to pilot the club through the rest of this season.

Maranville's departure from the team had been predicted for some time. Although he brought Montreal to second place in the final standings last year, his first as manager, he has been unsuccessful this season. The Royals are in seventh place.

Maranville has been in baseball since 1911, when he joined New Bedford. Coming up to the major league with the Boston Braves in 1912, he played twenty-three years as shortstop and second baseman with Boston, Pittsburgh, the Cubs, Dodgers and again with the Braves.

He broke a leg in 1934, but played twenty-three games in 1935. Then, leaving the major leagues, he managed Elmira to a New York-Pennsylvania League title in 1936, for which he got his chance in double-A ball with Montreal.

The Rabbit resigned when the Royals returned from a disastrous trip. Club officials said he asked for release from his contract after the Royals split a double-header with Jersey City tonight.

The Royals couldn't get a single earned run tonight but managed to take the opener, 2-0, with the help of a pair of errors and the six-hit pitching of Harry Smythe.

Tom Baker posted his sixth victory of the year in the nightcap, blanking the Royals 6-0. A homer by Tom Winsett in the sixth after George Myatt had tripled featured the Little Giants' scoring.

Cincinnati Takes Place Of Giants In Second Place

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—Although the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates, leaders in the American and National Leagues, respectively, continued to top their rivals by wide margins, an important change in team standings occurred in the senior loop when the second place Giants relinquished the runner-up position and dropped to fourth place. The Cincinnati Reds, winning six games and dropping one, leaped to second in the standings.

The League-leading Pirates, meanwhile, lengthened their lead over their nearest rivals to six games. The Chicago Cubs clung to third place only a game behind the Reds and a half-game ahead of the Giants.

In the American League, the World Champion Yankees boasted a 11½-game lead over the Boston Red Sox, who are holding down the runner-up position.

The Boston Red Sox, who split even this week, were in danger of being overtaken by the pursuing Indians who by winning five out of six games sliced the Red Sox's lead from four to a meagre one-game margin.

Standings, including games played this week, were as follows:

American League

	W	L	Pct.
New York Yankees	87	40	.685
Boston Red Sox	72	52	.581
Cleveland Indians	71	53	.573

Yankees Beaten

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—Back from their triumphant smash through the West, the Yankees prepared for a grand entry into the Stadium yesterday. But directly after they had bowed acknowledgment to the plaudits of a gathering that numbered 7,167, a number of things unexpectedly went wrong.

For one thing, there was an unguarded moment when somebody permitted the singular Senators to gain entrance, and that was almost enough in itself. For the crafty Bucky Harris, with his strange collection of old shoes and new, has been doing some strange things this year and none more strange than in this series opener when he started a left-hander, Kendall Chase, to trip the Yanks, with their very prepossessing Spud Chandler on the mound, 4 to 2.

Late Attack Is Decisive

Two runs wrenched from Spud in the ninth, with Chase himself belting in the first to break the 2-all deadlock, did the trick. If Marse Joe McCarthy's face was very red at that point, one may rest assured it was not all sunburn.

However, it was only Chandler's third defeat against his ten victories, so the matter is not at all serious, especially as the Indians still trail by five games, since their even break enabled them to draw only half a length closer.

But to be set down by a 24-year-old left-hander, who previously had won only two games while losing seven, was nevertheless a blow to the pride of the Bronx Bombers. They gathered, all told, only six singles, and to make matters more embarrassing, they scarcely were entitled to either of the two tallies they did score, despite the fact that they drew nine passes.

In fact, Chase just about ran the show for both sides. He virtually made the Yanks a present of their first run in the fourth when he passed three in a row, an infield out driving in the tally that matched the run the Senators had made in the first on singles by Buddy Lewis and Zeke Bonura.

Gordon and Glenn Single

Then, in the sixth, after Joe Gordon and Joe Glenn had singled, Chase wild pitched Gordon home to offset the run the Senators had scored in the same inning on Bonura's double and Max West's single.

Before the concluding number, Chase put on a few more thrillers. He permitted Joe DiMaggio to hit two tremendous blows, measuring 450 feet apiece, but West caught both alongside the flagpole in center. Then in the eighth, two passes resulted in George Selkirk reaching third and Glenn first. Whereupon Chase trapped Joe off first and nailed Selkirk by a whisker at the plate.

It seems it was exactly what the young man was awaiting. He singled to right to break the tie. George Case followed with another, the tenth hit off Chandler, and the Senators were two up. Chandler then gave way to Steve Sundra.

Hoag Makes Thrilling Catch

With the opposing pitching left-handed, Myril Hoag broke into the line-up for a change and immediately let the folks know he was about by making a spectacular one-handed catch of West's clout in the first that just missed being a homer into the right-field stand. But at the plate Myril appeared to be suffering badly from bench rust, going hitless in five tries, not to mention slapping into a double play.

Bill Dickey's injured leg is mending so rapidly that the Yankee backstop seems certain to be back in harness before the end of the week. However, there really is no rush, for our voluble and really valuable Mr. Glenn continues to do a first-class job as understudy.

2nd Ranking U.S. Tennis Star

Germany Wins Cup Of Europe In Swim Meet

Times, London

LONDON, Aug. 15—Europe's record-breaking championships were concluded in the Empire Pool at Wembley on Saturday. Germany won the Cup of Europe for the country scoring most points in the men's events, and Denmark, whose swimmers in the women's events gained a majority of points, won the Bredin Cup. Hungary, unbeaten in six games, retained the Dubonnet Cup and, again proved themselves worthy world champions at water-polo. Norway won the Consolation events for the Harold Fern Trophy.

Individual honors during the week went to Bjorn (Sweden), Miss Ragnhild Hveger (Denmark), and Erhardt Weiss (Germany), all of whom had dual successes. Each had won earlier in the week and on Saturday gained further honors. Weiss then added the highboard diving to his spring-board championship; Borg, the 400 meters champion, got the better of Leivers in the 1,500 meters final, which produced a gruelling race with a thrilling finish, and Miss Hveger won the 400 meters ladies' freestyle on Saturday, having previously won over 100 meters. Miss Hveger, who could claim 10 word's records before the start of the championships, may have the list raised to 11. On Saturday she won the 400 meters event in 5min. 9sec., as against her standing world's figures of 5 min. 12.4sec., but she also has a better time than 5min. 9sec. awaiting ratification.

A world record on Saturday came from the quartette of Danish swimmers who won the Ladies' 400 Meters Team Race in 4min. 31.6sec., 1.2sec. better than the existing world's best. Holland, holders of the record, beat the championship figures but had to be content with second place. Miss Hveger shared in this success, although she did not have to give of her best over the final stage. Miss G. B. Kraft, taking the second relay, covered her 100 meters in 67.5sec., a time that was not beaten by any other swimmer over any stage.

Budge Tops Quist And U.S. Retains Davis Cup, 3 To 2

Domei Tsushin

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5—Successfully turning back Australia's courageous bid for international tennis honors, the strong American Davis Cup team, by capturing one of today's final singles matches of the Challenge Round, took the coveted trophy for the twelfth time and the second consecutive year.

Already holding a commanding lead of two matches to one, the Americans, at the start of today's play, needed only one more victory to give them possession of the Cup for another year.

With thousands of tennis fans on hand at the Germantown Tennis and Cricket Club, play was begun between America's sensational star, Donald J. Budge and the veteran Australian Adrian Quist. After a somewhat unsteady first set which went 14 games before the American could win, Budge was completely master of the situation.

The Australian player, though playing hard and courageously, was no match for Budge who continually forced him into making errors. Quist was also the victim of many service aces and beautiful baseline drives which he could not touch. The scores of the match were, 8-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Reduced to a mere exhibition match due to Budge's victory over Quist, the Riggs-Bromwich match proved sluggish. The young American, who has made a rapid rise to tennis fame, did not seem to try while his opponent played as if the outcome of the series depended upon his victory over the American.

Bromwich, after winning the first set 6-4, dropped the second 4-6, but recovered and ran out the match with the loss of only two more games, 6-0, 6-2.

4 Homers Feature Game As Tigers Beat Lions, 9 To 7

Both the Osaka Tigers and the Tokyo Lions poled out two homers apiece but the former outhit the latter by 10 hits to four and finished on the long end of a 9 to 7 score in Tuesday's doubleheader of the professional baseball league at the Korakuen stadium here.

The Nankai team of Osaka, newly admitted into the league, won its first game in three starts by nosing out the Nagoya Dolfins, 3 to 2 in the curtain-raiser.

The Tigers just about clinched victory in the encounter with the Lions in the first inning when hard hitting Kageura slammed one into the left field bleachers for a homer with two on the bases. Then it was Third Baseman Igauye who picked one of Kondo's shoots for a clout into the left field stand in the third inning.

Second Baseman Nakamura and Center Fielder Tsubouchi registered the homers for the Lions.

The summaries follow:

Ritsumeikan Beats Keio Nine By 6 To 2

The Ritsumeikan University baseball team of the Kansai defeated Keio University by a 6 to 2 score Tuesday afternoon in an exhibition game at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Apparently not caring much for victory and bent on preparing for the Tokyo Six University league which opens on Saturday, Keio sent 22 players into the game to attempt various combinations.

Pitcher Nakatani of the Kansai aggregation checked Keio to seven hits while his team-mates hit three new Keio pitchers for 13 hits.

The score by innings:

Ritsumeikan	101 003 100—6
Keio	000 000 020—2

3-District Girls' Track Meet Set For October 8-9

The best women track and field athletes of Japan will be seen in action in the All-Japan three-district meet on Saturday and Sunday, October 8 and 9, at the Meiji Shrine stadium, under the joint auspices of the Japan Track and Field Federation, the Welfare and Education Ministries.

Indications are that the affair will be hotly contested as the East Japan, Central Japan and West Japan teams are evenly matched. Hokkaido has been added to East Japan, and Kyushu and Taiwan to West Japan to average athletes on a fair basis.

On the East Japan team are four athletes who competed at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936: Miss Kou Nakamura and Miss Hide Minejima, who placed fourth and fifth respectively in the discus throw; Miss Junko Nishida, running high jump, and Miss Miyoko Mitsui, 80-meter hurdles.

Another Berlin athlete is Miss Fumi Kojima, who has hurled the discus for the fifth best mark in the world this year, on the Central Japan team. She holds the national record at 41.34 meters. Her name is also in the books as national record holder in the shot put at 12.64 meters.

On the West Japan team is Miss Yuriko Hirohashi, running high jump, who competed in the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932.

Performing under the Central Japan team colors will be Miss Rie Yamauchi, holder of the national record in the high jump at 1.55 meters. Then there are the Misses Kiyoko Itoda, Toyoko Yoshino, Fumiko Koshiyama and Rie Yamauchi, who as members of the Tokai team hold the national record for the 400-meter relay at 50 seconds flat. Incidentally, the same Miss Itoda is reputed the best sprinter in the country today.

On the basis of past records, 15 members have been picked for each team by the Japan Track and Field Federation. To each team will be added five additional members after the national track and field championships on September 24 and 25 at the Koshien Stadium near Osaka.

The regulars already selected follow:

East Japan

Miss Hide Minejima, discus throw; Miss Miyoko Mitsui, 80-meter hurdles; Miss Junko Nishida, high jump; Miss Kou Nakamura, discus throw; Miss Namie Shimizu, javelin throw; Miss Haruko Kubo, 100-meter and 200-meter dashes, 400-meter relay; Miss Hisako Ugai, 100-meter dash, 400-meter relay; Miss Kiyoko Katayama, 200-meter dash and 400-meter relay; Miss Ito Hasegawa, 400-meter relay, javelin throw; Miss Toshi Kimura, 80-meter hurdles; Miss Yoshiko Takahisa, broad jump; Miss Kinko Ishihara, broad jump; Miss Tetsuko Sato, high jump; Miss Shizue Yamaki, shot put; Miss Sadako Ei, shot put.

Central Japan

Miss Fumi Kojima, shot put, discus throw; Miss Kiyoko Itoda, 100-meter dash; 400-meter relay; Miss Koko Yada, javelin throw; Miss Rie Yamauchi, high jump; Miss Toyoko Yoshino, 400-meter relay and broad jump; Miss Fumiko Koshiyama, 100-meter dash and 400-meter relay; Miss Yoshiko Kondo, 200-meter dash; Miss Kano Takami, 200-meter dash; Miss Kimiko Goto, 400-meter relay; Miss Yoshiko Yamashita, 80-meter hurdles; Miss Suzuko Nakano, 80-meter hurdles; Miss Yoshiko Naito, broad jump; Miss Kiyoko Arinaga, high jump; Miss Yoshiko Miura, shot put and discus throw; Miss Masami Ishikawa, javelin throw.

West Japan

Miss Yuriko Hirohashi, high jump; Miss Getsuun Rinshi (Taiwanese), broad jump; Miss Kimiko Mori, 100-meter dash and 400-meter relay; Miss Shizuko Mori, 400-meter relay; Miss Takiko Kamada, 100-meter dash and 400-meter relay; Miss Miyoko Kamitsuji, 200-meter dash; Miss Hasue Tazoe, 200-meter dash and 400-meter relay; Miss Kazuyo Mukai, 80-meter hurdles; Miss Motoe Okawara, 80-meter hurdles; Miss Fujio Yoshida, broad jump; Miss Kiyoko Sugi, high jump; Miss Sujho Koshi (Taiwanese), shot put, discus throw and javelin throw; Miss Isuzu Tsujii, discus throw; Miss Masato Kakegawa, shot put; and Miss Fumie Koyama, javelin throw.

Flaherty Bemoans Baugh Style Too Well Known Now

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Coach Ray Flaherty of the Washington Redskins figures he has just about everything he needs for another professional football title—everything except ideas.

Having signed Sligin's Sammy Baugh to a three-year contract, Flaherty said today he was hard pressed for new pass plays for the Texas tosser, who pitched the Redskins to a world championship last season.

"Practically every football team in the country knows our passes," the coach wailed in his most collegiate way, for the first test of the year for his champions will be against the College All-Stars at Chicago, Aug. 31.

Baugh's style in heaving a football, sighed Flaherty, has become as familiar to football coaches and players as the Vardon overlapping grip to golfers.

"Everybody tries to copy it because it's the correct way," the coach explained.

The Redskins will begin practice at near-by Ballston, Va., tomorrow. Forty-five players have been ordered to report. Missing from the Redskins' line-up will be great runner, Cliff Battles, who has turned to college coaching. The professionals are counting on a westerner to take his place.

"He's Automatic Karamatic from Gonzaga, and he's a good boy," Flaherty said.

The Redskins had hoped to use Andy Farkas, fast-running back from Detroit, but he has been selected for the all-star team. He will report to Washington after the Chicago game, having signed last year.

Adds Another Title To His String

Henry Armstrong, right, the sensational colored fighter, in the first round with Lou Ambers, recently at Madison Square Garden, whom he defeated to deprive him of the lightweight title. Armstrong already had the featherweight and welterweight titles in his possession.

Celtic Crushes Kilmarnock In Soccer, 9 To 1

GLASGOW, Aug. 13—The 1938-'39 Scottish League soccer season was ushered in today with a deluge of goals, no fewer than fifty-six being scored in the ten first-division matches. It was a great start for the eight-and-a-half-month campaign.

In the vanguard of power-laden combinations was last year's league champion, Celtic, which humbled Kilmarnock, 9 to 1, gaining some revenge for its defeat by the Killies in preliminary rounds of the cup competition last season.

The Killies, managed by Jimmy McGory, oldtime Celtic star, astounded the football world with hard-earned victories over his old teammates and the Glasgow Rangers in the cup last year, but they couldn't stem the Celtic attack in the opener. The Colts were pre-season favorites to win both league and cup trophies.

Thirteen goals were scored at Motherwell, the Fir Parkers defeating Queen of South, 8 to 5. Other high-scoring contests were staged between St. Mirren and Clyde, the latter winning 4 to 2, and at Glasgow, where Third Lanark bowed to the Hearts, 6 to 1. St. Johnstone and the Glasgow Rangers finished in a deadlock, 3 to 3.

The new season's debut by the Raith Rovers and the Albion Rovers was shadowed by away-from-home defeats. Raith lost, 2 to 1, at Ayr and Albion was defeated, 3 to 2, by Arbroath. Demoted to the second division for the first time in history, Dundee overwhelmed Brechin City, 5 to 0, and Morton, also relegated at the end of last season, dropped a 6 to 5 verdict to East Fife.

The Celtic-Kilmarnock game was three minutes old when McAvoy shot the Killies into the lead. After that Celtic steered a straight path to the Kilmarnock goal and at halftime led, 6 to 1, Delaney and Divers each netted twice, Lyon, Murphy, Geatons, MacDonald and Crum each scoring one.

The results:

First Division

Arbroath, 3; Albion Rovers, 2.
Ayr United, 2; Raith Rovers, 1.
Celtics, 9; Kilmarnock, 1.
Falkirk, 1; Queen's Park, 0.

Araki Is Requested To Pitch First Ball

General Sadao Araki, the Education Minister, has been asked to pitch the first ball in the opening ceremonies for the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league which will open with a doubleheader on Saturday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

A reply to the Tokyo University Baseball Federation will be made before Saturday by Chief Iwahara of the Physical Department of the Education Ministry.

Pirate Fans File World Series Bids

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—The Pirates, who raised their National League lead to six and one-half games on an Eastern swing, won't schedule any more exhibition games this year.

They finished their 1938 exhibition schedule tonight, beating an all-star semi-pro team at McKeesport, 9—2, before 3,000 fans, in a benefit game.

President William E. Benswanger said today "nobody knows the players are dead tired any better than I do. The heat in the East was dreadful. Incidentally, who would ever have thought that we would go through the entire month of July without a single game being rained out?"

The rain which interrupted the series with the Giants at New York Saturday gave the Pirates their first day off since July 7, the day after the All-Star game. In that stretch they played thirty-five games on twenty-nine consecutive days.

Arky Vaughan and Pep Young, whose slick work around second base is the reason the team leads the league in double plays, haven't missed an inning all season. Little Lee Handley, the Pirate "Jeep," is playing with both ankles tightly wrapped. Others have swollen hands.

World series reservations are "pouring" into the Pirate offices, Benswanger discloses, but all are being returned.

"I have said all along I think the team is capable of winning the pennant—and rest assured the business office wants it as much as anybody—but baseball rules prohibit us from accepting series reservations until the commissioner orders."

Smoker Is Scheduled At Osaka On Saturday

Special To The Japan Times

KOBE, Sept. 7—A smoker will be held at the Nishinomiya Baseball stadium, at Nishinomiya near Osaka, Saturday, September 10 at 7 p.m. In case of rain it will be postponed to Sunday.

The bouts (8 rounds) follow:

Noboru Shirai (Chugai) vs. Kunio Kitami (Kykuto).

Tamiya Igarashi (Teiken) vs. Bobby Wills (Philippine).

Takashi Saigo vs. Koreto Tanaka.

Haruichi Motoyama (Token) vs. Tatsuo Kaneko (Kansai).

Motoshige Murata (Fuji) vs. Tetsu Yamaoka.

Boom In Pro Football Seen As White Signs

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2—This sports-conscious steel city buzzed today with talk of another championship—in football.

While Pie Traynor and his Bustling Bucs held their five-game lead in the National League baseball race, Byron (Whizzer) White agreed to put off his Rhodes-scholarship career long enough to score a few touchdowns for Pittsburgh's National Football League Pirates—and accept $15,000 for the season.

Results of White's acceptance of the fabulous offer were these:

1. Art Rooney, head of the Pirates, and Coach Johnny Blood predicted at once the Buccaneers would be the team to beat in the National Football League race.

2. The Philadelphia Eagles had postponed their opening game with the Pirates, scheduled for early September, but word came yesterday they might reconsider because of the crowd White would be expected to draw.

3. The Green Bay Packers, hosts to the Buccos on Oct. 23, wired congratulations and predictions the Whizzer's appearance would swell the gate.

4. Charley Murray, promoter of a Pirate-Eagle game in Buffalo on the night of Sept. 14, wired that he had sold $258 worth of tickets yesterday after newspapers appeared on the streets with the announcements that White would wear a Pittsburgh uniform.

5. George Marshall, owner of the champion Washington Redskins, wired Rooney:

"Congratulations. Now how about hiring the Pitt Stadium on Oct. 2 for the battle between the Whizzer and the Slinger (Sam Baugh)? That should fill the State of Pennsylvania."

White, University of Colorado's all-America back last season, had considered Rooney's offer for months, then had turned it down to accept the Rhodes scholarship and study in England.

Suddenly he reopened negotiations, explaining that he had been able to have his cake and eat it too by playing the coming season, then entering Oxford University next January.

The Whizzer, it became known today, actually will draw more than $15,000 for his season's play. He will get a share of the gate at exhibition games. And he'll get the record-breaking purse even if he should be injured and incapacitated, for the contract is written that way.

Finland's Plans Call For Stress On Sportsmanship

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 10—Finland's simplified plan for holding the 1940 Olympics calls for emphasis upon sports and sportsmanship, in keeping with the Spartan keynote sounded by the country's delegates in their unsuccessful bid for the games two years ago.

Pomp and ceremony, such as have marked some former Olympiads, will be minimized in the program being arranged by the Finns as a substitute for the games abandoned by Japan.

That task will not be easy, but two committees of five members each, representing the Finnish government and Helsingfors civil authorities, already have arranged to provide finances.

The center of competition will be the Helsingfors stadium, opened in May. It will be enlarged to accommodate 60,000 spectators. Exhibition hall, where last year's national festival was staged, will be used for some events. Shooting will be held on the new field where world championship rifle competition was conducted a year ago.

Swimming provides a problem, but authorities have devised two alternate plans, neither of which has been announced.

Some groups would like to see hockey, basketball, handball, and polo held in some other country, but provision for those sports might be made later. The tentative program calls for:

Track and field—eight days in the stadium.

Boxing—five days at exhibition hall, seating about 12,000.

Fencing—twelve days at exhibition hall and stadium hall.

Shooting—at Malm rifle range.

Gymnastics—two days at stadium hall.

Sailing—at Nylund Yacht Club headquarters, which is more than adequate for Olympic competition.

Football—at Helsingfors football ground.

Riding and jumping—at the equestrian stadium built for the northern riding championships in 1936.

Rowing and canoeing—near Helsingfors.

Weight lifting—at stadium.

Competitors will be housed in an Olympic village either at Mejlans or Kottby, both of which are within a few minutes of the stadium.

Caring for spectators, however, has created a larger problem. Helsingfors hotels can accommodate about 5,000 persons, and there are many villages near the city where visitors could stay.

Housing facilities, however, aren't concerning the Finns. In a pinch, and probably anyway, ocean liners coud be anchored in Helsingfors harbor, which is practically in the center of the city.

Food also is an easy problem. There are scores of first class restaurants in Helsingfors, and even the second class places are second class only in appearance, not in food.

Backstopping the food question will be the women's section of the voluntary defense army composed of housewives, teachers, office girls and socialities. They usually provide food for the national festivals, and feeding the Olympic crowds would be as simple as making a crisp pie crust.

Japanese Boxers And Wrestlers Going To Manila

Accepting the invitation which has been tendered by Dr. Regino Ylanan, honorary executive secretary of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, the Japan Amateur Wrestling Association and the All-Japan Amateur Boxing Federation will send a team each to the Philippines next Winter. The decision was reached Thursday by the two organizations.

It will be the second successive Winter that Japanese boxers and wrestlers will be competing in the Philippines. Early this Summer, Filipino boxers and wrestlers performed in Japan at the invitation of the two Japanese organizations.

The teams to be dispatched will be five boxers, one each from the flyweight to welterweight classes, and four wrestlers, from bantamweight to welterweight, and a manager for each team.

They are scheduled to leave Kobe on the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Atsuta Maru on December 17 and will return to Kobe on the Kamo Maru on February 26, according to tentative plans.

Besides competing at the Philippine Carnival Games at Manila, the Japanese athletes will appear in dual meets on the islands of Cebu, Iloilo and Davao.

Dean Tops Pirates For Cubs, 11 To 5

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13—The Cubs unloaded a powerhouse attack again today to crush the league-leading Pirates for the second straight time, 11 to 5, although the great Dizzy Dean and his $185,000 arm failed to last the full nine innings.

It was the second time in a row Dizzy was unable to go the route, but he received credit for his sixth triumph as Chicago, hot on the heels of the second-place Giants, blasted seventeen hits and scored in all except three innings.

As a result, the Pirates lost half a game to the Giants, who split a double-header at Philadelphia and are five games off the pace. The Cubs closed the gap to half a game behind New York.

Dizzy Batted Hard

Pittsburgh plastered Dizzy for five hits and four runs in the seventh inning, driving him from the box, but the rally made the game close only momentarily.

Cy Blanton, who had won eight straight games, started for the Pirates but he did not last the first inning. Frank Demaree, with four for four, including a home run, had a perfect day at bat, and Stan Hack tripled twice for the Cubs. Their hitting helped send the Cubs off to a fast start, three runs in the first and one each in the next four innings, to which four were added in the ninth.

Dizzy, who had not worked since two weeks before when the Phillies disposed of him in five innings, used his curves and floaters judiciously to hold Pittsburgh to five hits for six innings before he blew up. It was his first effort against the Pirates this season.

Double Play Ends Inning

The Pirates closed the gap to 7 to 5 with a four-run rally in the seventh. In the eighth, they loaded the bases with one out, only to go scoreless as Vance Page, who relieved Dean, forced Pep Young to hit into a double play.

Joe Bowman, one of the four Pirate pitchers who saw service, folded up in the ninth, giving three hits and three bases on balls while the Cubs put on their clinching drive.

U.S. Team Leads Germans In Track And Field Meet

N.Y. Herald Tribune

BERLIN, Aug. 13—America's well-balanced array of track and field athletes established a clear lead today over Germany's best, most of them members of the 1936 Olympic team, in the first of the two-day competition in Olympic Stadium.

The United States team, taking six firsts and as many seconds in the ten events, scored 53 points to the Germans' 49. The invaders won five of the six track events, finishing one, two in two of them, and captured the two top positions in the pole vault. As expected, the Germans showed their strength in the field events.

A crowd of 60,000 saw the meet open with a surprise victory by Germany's Rudolf Harbig over the American pair of Charlie Beetham and Howie Borck in the 800-meter run and end with a record-smashing performance by the United States quartet in the 400-meter relay. A wet track handicapped the athletes in the early events, but it was lightning fast for the relay.

The American team of Wilbur Greer, Mozel Ellerbe, Clyde Jeffrey and Ben Johnson reeled off the 400 meters in 40 seconds flat, only three-tenths of a second short of the world record established by a United States four in the last Olympics. The time clipped six-tenths of a second off the old German mark. The Germans also were under the former record with a clocking of 40.3 seconds.

Earlier in the afternoon, Johnson and Ellerbe had run one, two, respectively, in the 100-meter dash, with the former Columbia University Negro star flashing across the line in 10.5 seconds.

The most colorful event from the spectators' viewpoint was the 10,000-meter race, won by Eino Pentti, of New York, only Olympic athlete on the American team, in 32:11.2. J. Errol Vaughn, of New York, alternated at setting the pace and running last, but couldn't keep pace with Pentti when the latter stepped to the front with three laps to go. Fifty yards separated them at the finish, with Walter Schoenrock, first of the Germans, another 200 yards back.

Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske, winner of the 1,500 meters, was one of the heroes of the day with Germany's younger athletes, who studied his style intently as he stepped the distance in 3:53.8. Getting off to a slow start with Blaine Rideout, of North Texas Teachers and the Germans, Harry Mehlhose and Helmut Koertner, Fenske ran third throughout the first 800 meters speeded up with the rest during the next 400 and then took the lead and won easily.

Rideout apparently had second place won when the Germans made a gallant bid in the last 200 meters. While Koertner fought it out with the Texan twin fifty meters from the finish, Mehlhose came from behind to beat both, with third place going to Koertner.

Wolcott Scores in Hurdles

The 110-meter hurdles was a walk-away for Fred Wolcott, of Rice Institute, who was clocked in 14.1 seconds. Allan Tolmich, of Wayne University, his nearest rival, was five-tenths of a second slower.

That the Americans would win the pole vault with little opposition had been expected, as also were Germany's victories in the hammer throw, discus and hop, step and jump. America's pole-vaulting pair of Cornelius Warmerdam, of San Francisco, and George Varoff, of Oregon, finished one-two. The former cleared 13 feet 11¾ inches and the latter 13 feet 7⅛ inches.

Germany's Erwin Blask, who recently bettered Pat Ryan's twenty-five-year-old world record, won the hammer throw with a heave of 187 feet 8 inches. Karl Hein, the Olympic champion, was second, while Irving Folwartshny and Bill Lynch, the American entries, were outdistanced.

Willie Schroeder fell far short of his world record in the discus, but his heave of 167 feet was good enough to beat the American pair of Phil Levy and Pete Zagar.

The summaries:

800-meter run—Won by Rudolf Harbig, Germany; Charlie Beetham, United States, second; Howard Borck, United States, third; Fran Eichberger, Germany, fourth. Time, 1:52.4.

100-meter dash—Won by Ben Johnson, United States; Mozel Ellerbe, United States, second; Manfred Kersch, Germany, third; Gerd Hornberger, Germany, fourth. Time, 0:10.5.

1,500-meter run—Won by Charles Fenske, United States; Harry Mehlhose, Germany, second; Helmut Koerting, Germany, third; Blaine Rideout, United States, fourth. Time, 3:53.8.

110-meter high hurdles—Won by Fred Wolcott, United States; Allan Tolmich, United States, second; Karl Pumpmann, Germany, third; Erwin Wegner, Germany, fourth. Time, 0:14.1.

Hammer throw—Won by Erwin Blask, Germany, 187 feet 8 inches; Karl Hein, Germany, 185 feet 4⅞ inches, second; Irving Folwartshny, United States, 175 feet ⅛ inch, third; Bill Lynch, United States, 172 feet 11¼ inches, fourth.

Pole vault—Won by Cornelius Warmerdam, United States, 13 feet 11¾ inches; George Varoff, United States 13 feet 7⅛ inches, second; Joseph Hartmann, Germany, 12 feet 5 inches, tied for third.

10,000-meter run—Won by Eino Pentti, United States; J. Errol Vaughn, United States, second; Walter Schoenrock, Germany, third; Josef Berg, Germany, fourth. Time, 32:11.2.

Hop, step and jump—Won by Karl Kotratschek, Germany, 47 feet 11⅛ inches; Heinz Woellner, Germany, 47 feet 8½ inches, second; Hiney Kent, United States, 47 feet 1 inch, third; Herschel Neil, United States, 44 feet 4¼ inches, fourth.

Discus—Won by Willie Schroeder, Germany, 167 feet; Phil Levy, United States, 163 feet 11¾ inches, second; Ernst Lampert, Germany, 162 feet 9¼ inches, third; Pete Zagar, United States, 155 feet 10½ inches, fourth.

Bees Bang Out 16 Hits To Rout Giants By 8 To 2

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, Aug. 10—There was pleasant news for the Giants on the score board at Bees' field today when, shortly after 3 o'clock, the big white numerals revealed that the Pirates had been shut out by the Cards. But there are no joyous tidings to be transmitted to the folks back home tonight.

Colonel Bill Terry's men, inept in winning yesterday, were even more so in losing today to the Bostonians, who pounded sixteen hits off five pitchers for an 8-to-2 victory.

Thus the Giants remained six and a half games behind the Pirates, but their hold on second place now is threatened by the Cubs, who won and advanced to a point only half a length back of New York.

Jo-Jo Moore was the only man to contribute a telling blow for the fading champions' cause. His hitting had won the first game and he saved his team from a shut-out when he rapped a single in the fifth with the bases filled to drive in both runs.

Otherwise the boys did much futile swinging against Master Richard Merriwell Errickson's slants, despite the fact that they collected eleven safeties. Five times Melvin Ott came up with men aboard and just as many times failed to hit, although he drew one pass.

Leslie Fails to Hit

This not only helped beat the Giants but shattered a consecutive hitting streak of eighteen games for Mel. Sam Leslie also gathered an embarrassing cluster of zeros in five trips to the plate.

Three Giant errors, two of them very wild throws by Cliff Melton, the starting and losing pitcher, and Bill Lohrman, who mopped up in the eighth, were more than helpful to the Bees, the misplays being largely responsible for half their tallies.

Melton started with a bang for the Bees and the 4,167 paying spectators when, in the wake of an opening pass to Vince DiMaggio and Johnny Cooney's double, the towering Cliff heaved a ball high over Leslie's head to let in the first two runs.

Lohrman made an almost identical toss fielding Tony Cuccinello's bunt in the eighth, an error that permitted Debs Garms to score from first base. The other misplay was made by Ott in the fifth when his throw for an attempted force play went into right field.

Four Bees—DiMaggio, Cooney, Garms, Elby Fletcher—got three hits each. Only Joe Stripp and Al Lopez failed to connect safely.

Garms Has Good Day

Garms scored the third run in the first inning after reaching second on Melton's wild throw on Tony Cuccinello's single. Then Debs singled DiMaggio home in the second with big Walter Brown on the mound. Walter stuck until the fifth, when Dick Coffman took over, only to see two more Bees score on singles by Fletcher and DiMaggio, wrapped around a pass to Rabbit Warstler, Errickson's scoring fly and Ott's error.

Johnny Wittig was pitcher No. 4, working two frames and giving another run in the seventh on Warstler's single, Errickson's sacrifice and DiMaggio's double. Garms' single in the eighth preceded Cuccinello's bunt and Lohrman's error for the last run.

The Giants' first inning was prophetic of a bad day. Moore cracked Errickson's first pitch to left center for two bases and immediately moved to third on a wild pitch. But there he was compelled to remain while Harry Danning popped to Fletcher, Jimmy Ripple lifted another high one to Warstler and Ott grounded to short.

Hanada Sluggish, Fails To Defeat Kikuchi In Bout

Goro Kikuchi, bantamweight of the Shinko Boxing Club, should have been awarded the decision of Yoichiro Hanada of the Teikoku Boxing Club, the flyweight champion of Japan, in a 10-round bout Thursday night at the Hibiya Public Park amphitheater, but the upshot of the disapproval by fans of the draw decision that was announced, was that the decision was reserved to a future date—something that can happen only in Japan where there is no governing boxing commission.

The bout was a slow affair. Both fighters were in poor physical condition, not yet fully recovered from recent fighting in the Kansai. Kikuchi was the more aggressive of the two and for this reason, it was believed that he should have been given the decision.

Hanada, who has been famous for his speedy footwork and lightning fast left and right swings, was terribly slow. The result was that even the slow of foot Kikuchi scored time and again with lefts and rights to the face and body as he bored in.

Hanada weighed in at 114 pounds and Kikuchi at 118 pounds.

Kanji Yamaguchi of the Dai Nippon Boxing Club, 143 pounds, decisioned Tamiya Igarashi of the Teikoku Boxing Club, 145 pounds, in the six round semi-final.

Eyston Establishes Auto Speed Mark Of 345.49 Miles

Domei Tsushin

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Aug. 27—A new world record for the measured mile of 345.49 miles an hour was set up by Captain George Eyston in his car "Thunderbolt" here today.

The northward run was covered in 6.45 seconds, at an average speed of 346.81 m.p.h., while the southward run took 6.50 seconds, an average speed of 343.51 m.p.h.

Eyston was given a terrific reception after completing this new record, hundreds clambering over each other from the stands in an effort to shake his hand.

"I never had any difficulties during the runs," Eyston declared afterwards. "I am tremendously pleased with the record because it represents a notable advance technically."

"Now we are learning more about the car," he went on, "we are finding each outing more interesting and productive of useful information."

Eyston added that he had never had the throttle full out and that the "Thunderbolt" was capable of greater speeds still.

Kubota Captures Students' Golf Crown For 1938

Muzuho Kubota of Meiji University won the national students goif championship for 1938 Friday afternoon at the Musashino Country Club course by defeating Oguri of Keio University, 6 and 4, in the 36-hole match play finals.

It was the fourth time the two had met in tourneys in the last two years and Oguri had had the better end of the score, leading 3 to 1. He had also beaten Kubota in the recent inter-collegiate play.

Although he started off badly with a six to lose the first hole, Kubota evened the count on the second hole when Oguri failed to make par. Shooting par on the fourth and a birdie on the fifth, Kubota was two up and thereafter he was never headed in the scoring. Shooting consistent golf, he was five up at the end of the first 18 holes in the morning round.

Failing to even par on the first and third holes at the outset of play in the afternoon, Oguri was only three holes down. Kubota, however, rallied and shot a birdie on the fifth and took the sixth hole as well when Oguri three-putted to lead five up again.

As they made the turn, Oguri was still in sluggish form. He was on with a two but three-putted again to lose the 10th hole and be six down. They havled the 11th and 12th and it was dormie for the long 13th hole. Oguri was on with a three as against a four by Kubota when the latter's approach was short, and took the hole to be five down. Oguri hooked his drive for the short 14th hole into the bunker. Kubota's was on the green. Oguri's bunker shot was three yards from the pin. Kubota's putt stopped at the edge of the cup. Oguri's only chance lay in sinking his putt but it was a bit too strong by five inches, and the championship went to Kubota.

The scores were:

DiMaggio Hits 22nd Homer As Yankees Win

By ARTHUR J. DALEY
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—Whether it is baseball or bridge, bad distribution can ruin some mighty fine playing. The Yankees made twenty-one hits in their double-header with the Athletics at the Stadium yesterday but spread them around in most injudicious fashion. Only five were apportioned to the first fray, which the Philadelphians won, 5 to 4, while sixteen provided a New York crusher in the nightcap. The score was 16 to 3.

Red Ruffing pitched a neat six-hitter in the opener but his home run ball was sliding down the groove too much. Bump Hadley gave only seven safeties in the second engagement, so that the Yankee hurling department upheld its end nicely.

But the hitters were not as consistent. Odd'y enough, three of the five blows that the Ruppert Rifles exploded in the opener were homers that accounted for four runs. The Mackmen matched that with three homers for four runs.

In the afterpiece the Yanks outhomered the Philadelphians, three to one, so that the round trip tota's for the afternoon were ten, an item that was duly appreciated by a ladies' day crowd of 25,864.

Home Run Distribution

Here is how they went: George Selkirk hit three for eight runs; Joe DiMaggio one for two runs; Frankie Hayes one for two runs; Lou Finney two for two and single shots were fired by Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey and Bob Johnson.

The first encounter was a good ball game. Ruffing held his own with Lynn Nelson for seven innings but Lefty Ed Smith took over just in time to receive credit for the victory when Johnson hit his twenty-fourth circuit smash in the ninth.

This strict'y was a home-run show and ended appropriately. The Athletics picked up a run on a pair of singles in the first, then everybody went in for distance clouting. DiMaggio cracked his twenty-second with a runner ahead of him in the first to send the Yanks in the lead.

In the fourth Hayes walloped a two-run homer to restore the Athletics on top. Dickey and Selkirk hit in succession in the sixth and there were the Bronx Bombers ahead, 4 to 3. Finney's round-tripper in the seventh and Johnson's in the ninth swung the tide.

The second game had not gone far before it got out of hand. The McCarthy men batted around in the fourth, Selkirk touching off the biggest blaze with a three-run homer. But even that could not match his hitting the jackpot in the seventh, a shot with the bases full.

Three Athletic pitchers saw service—Buck Ross, Dave Smith and Al Williams. The defeat went to Ross. The box scores:

Sapporo To Push Staging Of 1939 Skiing Tourney

The 17th annual All-Japan skiing championships will be held after all as originally scheduled next February at Sapporo in the Hokkaido, it was announced Friday.

Due to the abandonment of the 12th Olympic Games and the Fifth Olympic Winter Games in 1940, the impression had been gained that the plans of Sapporo City to stage the 17th annual national championships on an Olympic program for one-week next February had been cancelled in the entirety.

The championships will be held on the same schedule of past years.

Mrs. Thompson Wins 2 1-2 Mile Race With Ease

By ARTHUR J. DALEY
N.Y. Times

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13—The versatile Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson of the Miami Beach Swimming Club, who has won national championships in freestyle sprinting, breaststroking, fancy diving and medley competition, romped off with top honors in the women's long distance swimming competition in Playland Lake today.

The Florida Olympian spread eagled a field of fifty-six in a two-and-a-half-mile race that she covered in pretty close to record time as she annexed the first leg on the Bernard Macfadden Trophy.

The competition really was something of an aquatic triple-header. In addition to the trophy itself, there also were the metropolitan and New York State championships at stake. The odd part of this was that Mrs. Thompson was eligible for neither of these titles, Florida being slightly out of the geographic bounds of the New York and metropolitan districts.

Down Another Notch

In the ordinary course of events, the runner-up would ascend to the joint crown. But it just so happened that this was something of a Rawls family day at Playland. Miss Evelyn Rawls was second and this moved the double title down another notch. Miss Gloria Callen of the Women's Swimming Association, the senior national distance champion, taking both honors by annexing third place.

Another of the W. S. A. stars, Miss Helene Rain, the 13-year-old wonder, was fourth and another of the Rawls youngsters, Dorothy, was fifth, as the Rawls family took top team honors with the remarkably low total of eight points.

Again geography stepped in to take the team title away from the Florida girls. The W. S. A. won the New York State crown (there was no metropolitan team championship at stake) and the Shelton Dolphins took the assorted swimming clubs laurels, with Miss Sue Hernstorf the individual winner in that category.

Victor Is Never Headed

As for the race itself, it was all Mrs. Thompson. She took the lead from the crack of the gun and was never headed. Her winning time was 1:00:51.6, which was extraordinarily fast for the approximate distance of two and a half miles—an average of twenty-four minutes a mile, which is not far off the world-record.

Mrs. Thompson was so fast, as a matter of fact, that she just missed disqualifying the entire race. The A. A. U. rule specify that if a distance race finish in less than an hour, it will be labeled no contest. The Florida Olympian was only fifty-one seconds over that deadline.

She had a ten-yard lead in the first quarter of a mile, a thirty-yard advantage at a half mile and seventy-five yards at a mile. After that she eased up slightly, even though she did hold fast to a substantial part of that advantage at the finish, fifty yards over Sister Evelyn, who was thirty yards ahead of Miss Callen. These three were at the head of the parade all the way.

Four Fail to Finish

A field of fifty-six started and all but four finished over a traingular course that was traversed twice. Some of the young women swam backstroke or breaststroke all the way. As for Mrs. Thompson, she relied on a powerful freestyle from start to finish.

Abe Eliminated In First Round Of U.S. Singles

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 8—With 241 tennis players from all over the world, including three from Japan, assembled at the Westside Tennis Club, the first rounds of the National Singles Championships got under way today.

Of the three Japanese entrants, two survived the opening day's play. Tamio Abe, non-playing captain of this year's Japanese Davis Cup team, met defeat at the hands of the young American star, Joe Hunt. The Japanese player lost in four sets, 8-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In one of the first matches of the tourney, Fumiteru Nakano, second-ranking player in Japan, barely managed to defeat Lewis Wetherell, former American public parks champion in five sets, 3-6, 6-3, 3-8, 6-2, 6-2.

The second Japanese victory came when Yasumine Kuramitsu defeated Verne Hughes in four sets, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2. Jiro Yamagishi, Japanese ace and mainstay of the Davis Cup squad, is not participating in the tourney as he left for Japan immediately after the conclusion of the Australia-Japan Davis Cup tie.

In the single upset registered today, Hal Surface, up and coming American player, overwhelmed the veteran French ace, Jacques Brugnon, with the loss of only four games. The scores were 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Girls' Soft Ball Team Of California Coming In October

Domei Tsushin

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8—Thirty-one girls from sunny California, the pick of the Golden State's soft ball leagues, accompanied by chaperons, teachers and coaches, will leave here aboard the Tatsuta Maru on September 23 on a combined goodwill and barnstorming tour of Japan, it was announced today by Marty Fielder, Los Angeles soft ball magnate.

Split into two teams, the girls are scheduled to give a series of exhibition games in the principal cities in Japan, which will include Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka. Two local Japanese girls, Miss Noma Fujioka and Miss Kazue Oshiki, have been placed in the group.

Mr. Fielder, who is sponsoring the tour, declared that the trip is intended as a goodwill mission as well as to introduce the American soft-ball craze to Japan.

System Planned To Help Wayward Stay Out Of Jail

Judicial Protection Commissions To Be Set Up Over Nation

Preparations are being made by the Justice Ministry for the establishment of a judicial protection commission system. By applying the system, the Ministry intends to prevent ex-convicts from violating laws again.

It is understood that the total number of members of the commissions throughout the country will reach 5,000, of which approximately 500 will be selected from among the residents of Tokyo City.

The aim of the projected commissions is (1) to investigate the living conditions and thoughts and feelings of ex-convicts, (2) to try to achieve stability in their livelihood and to guide their thoughts and (3) to push feasible measures for the protection and guidance of their families.

In this connection, Suyehiko Shiono, Justice Minister, told the press:

"Ex-convicts have the same honorable duty to this country as the Japanese people in general. It is one of the principal aims of law to prevent ex-convicts from committing crimes again. Such being the case, the judicial protection system will be applied in close cooperation with the people."

day, the enemy carried out a night assault on Hunangmei with two divisions from the direction of Tayunshan. After about eight-hour engagements, the enemy fled leaving some 300 dead. Last night the enemy about 1,000 strong again made a counter-attack on Shihling, west of Kwangtsi, but was easily repulsed by us.

Japanese Push Attack on Shikuling

Domei Tsushin

KIUKIANG, Sept. 10—Early this morning, the Tsuda, Yasumi, Chokai and Yamada units started a vigorous attack on the enemy positions atop Shikuling on the northeastern range of Lushan. Severe hand-to-hand fighting is still going on.

During the engagement that continued up to this morning since Thursday evening, in which the Japanese took complete control of part of Shikuling, more than 600 Chinese were killed. A large quantity of arms and ammunition, including 300 machine-guns and rifles and 14,000 bullets and hand-grenades were captured by the Japanese.

Meanwhile, reliable information reaching here today states that eight divisions of the Chinese troops under the command of Hsueh Yo, are defending the area connecting Aikowchieh and Niaoshihmen in a desperate effort to check the Japanese advance to the south.

cluding German, Russian, Hungarian and Czech;

4. Universalization of the suffrage with secret balloting;

5. Extension of a government loan of 1,000,000,000 crowns to depressed regions, 700,000,000 crowns of which will be alloted to the German districts;

6. All public offices, national and local, to be apportioned among the various nationalities in proportion to population; and

7. Maintenance of the central government's control over the gendarmerie coupled with permission to the cantons to organize their own local police forces.

At the Sudetens' request, the full official text of the proposals was withheld from publication until after the negotiations are resumed tomorrow, but it is understood that the seven points revealed this evening constitute the essence of the plan. The text reportedly covers seven closely-typewritten pages.

Benes To Speak

Meanwhile, it was announced that President Dr. Eduard Benes will deliver his anticipated radio speech explaining the plan at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow. He will speak first in the Czech language and then in German.

Reports reaching Prague indicated that several thousand Sudetens today staged a demonstration in front of the police station at Jaegendorf, near the Czech-Polish border, but no violences resulted. The demonstration reportedly took place as a protest over the death of a minor Sudeten leader who was killed by falling off a train while in the custody of Czech soldiers. Possible disorder is feared when the funeral is held tomorrow.

Aim To Improve Cooperation For Benefit Of All East Asia

The inagural meeting of the Industrial and Technical Federation of Japan was held at the Hibiya Public Hall Saturday.

Aims of the newly body are; (1) to bring about the cooperation with engineers well-versed in modern industrial technique and those who can understand the true meaning of industrial technique, (2) to draw up and pursue appropriate national policies on the basis of synthetic, productive technique and (3) to push feasible measures for economic reconstruction of East Asia, considering all of East Asia as a unit.

Addresses were given by Kamei Hatta, director-in-chief of the Koseikai, and Count Rainei Arima, president of the Japan Technical Society.

Among the congratulations offered were those of Premier Fumimaro Konoye, War Minister Seishiro Itagaki, Navy Minister Mitsumasa Yonai, Education Minister Sadao Araki, Finance and Commerce Minister Seihin Ikeda, Home Minister Nobumasa Suyetsugu, Agriculture and Forestry Minister Rainei Arima, Communications Minister Ryutaro Nagai, Railway Minister Chikuhei Nakajima, Welfare Minister Koichi Kido, Governor Toyotaro Yuki of the Bank of Japan, Vice-Admiral Takuo Godo and Yunosuke Kurimoto of the Political and Economic Research Institute.

Hummel-Hummel Seen 1,700 Miles Off U.S., Nearing Destination

Domei Tsushin

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9—The eight-ton Chinese junk Hummel-Hummel, which left Yokohama on July 12 on a 4,500-mile cruise across the Pacific under the command of its American owner, Dr. E. A. Peterson of Los Angeles, was sighted 1,700 miles off the American coast by the steamer Sveraborg, according to a radio message received by the Los Angeles Times today.

Having negotiated over two-thirds of its voyage, the Hummel-Hummel is expected to arrive here by the early part of next month. Accompanying Dr. Peterson aboard the junk are his American-born Japanese wife and two White Russian sailors.

They are scheduled to participate in the Nazi Party Congress now in session at Nuremberg until Monday, when the Congress terminates, and then leave the following day for Frankfort.

2 Japanese Lose In Forest Hills Tennis Tourney

Nakano, Kuramitsu Put Out Of National Championships

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9—Fumiteru Nakano and Yasumine Kuramitsu, who survived yesterday's opening round of the National singles championships now being played at the Westside Club here, were both defeated in the second round of play today, thus eliminating all Japanese entries in the tournament.

Both Japanese players met defeat at the hands of young American stars. Nakano lost to Gilbert Hunt in a heartbreaking match. After taking the first two sets 6-8, 1-6, the Japanese could not keep up the pace and dropped the remaining three, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Kuramitsu, in his match against Frank Kovacs, sixth-seeded American player, dropped the first set but took the next two by virtue of strong, steady play. The American, however, by displaying a powerful offensive, took the remaining two sets and match. The scores were 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Boys At Top, Bottom Of Mental Scale, Girls In Middle, Examination Shows

Intelligence tests given by the Welfare Ministry to 20,177 boys and girls between 11 and 12 years of age in Tokyo, Osaka and 20 towns and villages reveal that boys generally run to extremes, some being exceptionally brilliant and others very dull, while girls have an average normal intellect.

The test consisted of problems in mathematics, composition, memory, thought relation, etc. The perfect mark was 218 points. While the girls averaged between 80 and 120 points, the boys were divided into two extreme groups, one averaging zero to 80 points, and the other 120 to 160 points.

The highest mark, 184, was made by Kinjiro Ota, a boy of Kyobashi, Tokyo. Second was another boy, Toshio Katsura of Osaka who scored 181 points. Among the girls, Miss Kazuko Akaba of Kyobashi, scored 178 points, highest among the girls.

The children were also given physical tests, but the results of these are not yet announced.

The test also proved that intellectually the children of cities were about 30 points above the rural children. Tokyo children averaged 120 to 130 points, while those of a village near Tokorozawa, Saitama prefecture averaged 90 to 100 points.

'Fair Skies, Cool Winds' Is Weatherman's Word For Immediate Future

A "north wind, fair, and cooler" is the glad news issued by the Central Meteorological Observatory for today the "220th day," usually regarded as a stormy day. The weather will be at its best for baseball and hiking.

"From today it will be much cooler," said Weatherman Hatakeyama. "Autumn has set in and we shall have a few successive fair days. This fair period is due to the strong high atmospheric pressure of 758 m.m. over the upper stream of the Yellow River as against a weak low atmospheric pressure of 744 m.m. heading northeast, east of Hachijo Island."

Wounded Soldiers Themselves To Staff Expanded Association

Enlargement of the Japan Wounded Soldiers' Association and reorganization, into a juridical person were discussed by the Kanto Block Conference of the Wounded Soldiers' Protection Board in a meeting held from 8:30 a.m. Saturday at the Home Office. All chiefs of the social affairs and employment sections of prefectures in the Kanto took part in the conference.

With the reorganization of the headquarters of the Association, a Wounded Soldiers' Personal Affairs Counsel is to be installed in each local branch. The Counsel will give advice on such items as employment, procedure of application for pensions, family affairs.

Branches will be set up in the prefectural offices, and will be supervised by the local governors. Several sub-branches are also to be established. They will be staffed by qualified wounded soldiers. The Board already has a subsidy of ¥400,000 for these purposes, it is said.

The Wounded Soldiers' Association was organized in December, 1936, under the membership system. General Senshi Hayashi was appointed President. There are 33,000 members at present, and the number is on the increase.

Illini Expects Football Team To Be Stronger

Christian Science Monitor

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 9—There's a comfortable feeling about the football outlook in the Illinois camp as Bob Zuppke prepares to start his 26th season as coach of the Fighting Illini.

With few losses from last year's team to lament and a squad of 17 seasoned lettermen and a sophomore group that includes much ability available, it is believed the Illini should be stronger than last season.

They are not looking through too rose-colored spectacles, however, for it is realized most of the opponents the Illini face on a formidable schedule will be stronger, too. Illinois will play five Big Ten teams, Indiana, Northwestern, Michigan, Ohio State and Chicago as well as Ohio University, De Paul and Notre Dame.

High spots of last year's campaign were a scoreless tie against a favored Notre Dame team and an upset victory over Northwestern. The Illini lost a 6-7 game to Michigan, faltered against Ohio State but struck a fast clip in the closing game against Chicago. In the opening games Ohio University was defeated but the DePaul game was a scoreless deadlock.

Experienced Line Except Ends

Zuppke will have an experienced line from tackle to tackle with sufficient weight, height and the "reach" he considers so necessary. If the sophomore reinforcements measure up to hopes, the backfield will be stronger. Only at end do the Illini appear to be weaker.

Only seven of the 11 lettermen who are gone saw any considerable action: Capt. Lowell Spurgeon, who was obliged to withdraw midseason after a brilliant start; Bennis, Klemp and Bell, ends; Berner, quarterback, voted the most valuable player; Fay, guard and Carson, fullback who will not be available. The lettermen gone also include Brown, quarterback; Knox and Siebold, guards; Skarda, tackle; Turnbull, center and Glosecki, fullback lettermen in 1936.

Capt. Jim McDonald, who ranked with the best Big Ten centers in the opinion of the Illinois coaches, heads this roster of 16 returning lettermen, one or two of whom may possibly not be available; Lasater, Reeder, Cramer and Lundberg, tackles; all standing over six feet and weighing more than 200; Brewer, Hodges and Surdyk, guards; Lenich, center, who played capably the entire 60 minutes against Chicago; Castlo and Zuppke, ends; Mazeika, Wehrli, Zimmerman and Wardley, half-backs; Bennett, fullback.

The punting ability of John Kanosky, who won his letter in 1935 when he played fullback for 60 minutes against Ohio State and now returns to the squad, may win him a position, possibly at end.

Guard at Blocking Back

Brewer, whose sophomore performance at guard last year was not equaled even by his most illustrious Illini predecessors in the position their first season, was used as blocking quarterback in spring practice, where he is likely to remain unless Zuppke locates a capable substitute who can block and back up the line.

The end situation will be partly relieved if Bob Castelo, who turned in a fine sophomore exhibition but was hampered last year, is in condition again, which he hopes to be. Zimmerman may be shifted from backfield to end and Zuppke has even considered moving Lasater there from tackle.

Tony Mazeika, pony halfback with two seasons' experience on the basis of his performances the latter part of the 1937 campaign, notably against Northwestern, is likely to get his chance to play right halfback.

Squadmen, with more or less experience include Hathaway, shifted from end in spring practice; Stotz, Patterson and Martin, guards; Kirschke, tackle; Pezzoli, Huston, quarterbacks; Wham, end; Burris and Thistlewood, halfbacks. Ed Nelson, Joliet, a junior, will be a candidate for tackle.

Peterson at Halfback

The freshman halfback most talked of is Cliff Peterson, Moline, honorary captain of last year's freshmen. Peterson, a six-footer weighing 185 pounds, will probably be stationed at left halfback at the start. Other new backs who are mentioned favorably are Charles (Chuck) Purvis, Glennville, Ga., a distant relative of the Purdue Purvises, who won his letter at Purdue, then transferred to Illinois; Don Prahl, Riverside; David McDonough, Elgin, and Bill Usinger, Alton, rated as one of the leading sophomore backs at the start last fall when he was put out for the season by an injury.

A possibility for quarterback may be Ralph Ehni, Pekin. The coaches had little opportunity to appraise him since he was out of practice from early last fall with an injury; but he was regarded as one of the best high school backs in the State Ehni, an all-around player who punts, passes and blocks, stands 5ft. 11in. and weighs 175. James Phillips, Woodstock, has appeared at quarterback and fullback.

Wilson (Bud) Schwenk, won fame as a halfback at Beaumont High School, St. Louis, but has been moved to fullback by Coache Zuppke. Schwenk stands 6ft. 2in., weighs 195 pounds and was the best freshman passer. Schwenk will undoubtedly figure largely in Zuppke' backfield calculations.

Japan-Manchou-China Athletic Meet Planned

Domei Tsushin

HSINKING, Sept. 12—An exchange of views took place at noon today between Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura, President of the Japan Amateur Athletic Association now visiting here, and Manchoukuo officials to hold a grand athletic meet at Dairen or Hsinking sometime next March, inviting athletes from Japan, Manchoukuo and China.

Going Stronger Than Ever

Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin, who performed in Japan two years ago, is shown leading D. B. Pell of Great Britain to take the international track meet mile in 4 minutes 19 seconds recently. Uncle Sam's picked athletes dominated the meet held in the White City Stadium, taking seven first places in 14 events against trackmen from 16 nations.

O'Doul Is Sure His Rookie Star Will Make Good

By HAROLD HEROUX

SAN FRANCISCO.—Bill Lillard, the sensational rookie shortstop that the Philadelphia Athletics purchased from the San Francisco Seals, will make good in the "big time" if you want to take the word of Frank ("Lefty") O'Doul, Seal manager.

"Lillard will develop into the greatest infielder ever produced by the Seals—and we've produced quite a few good ones," said O'Doul.

O'Doul is quite correct. The Seals—who have sold nearly one million dollars worth of talent to the majors—produced Frankie Crosetti, New York Yankee shortstop; Hal Rhyne, former Chicago White Sox and Pittsburgh shortstop; Jimmy Caveney, second baseman, who went to the Cincinnati Reds, and Willie Kamm, third baseman who starred for the Chicago White Sox.

Charlie Graham, owner of the San Francisco club, has made quite a well-paying hobby out of developing young players for sale to the big leagues.

In looking back over the list of players sent by the Seals to the majors, Graham challenges any other minor league club to try and duplicate the record of his organization.

"The Seals who went up and became stars would form a team so strong that it would outclass any aggregation in the majors today, including the New York Yankees," Graham contends.

The Seals' all-time "minors-to-big league" team would be composed of:

First Base—Harry Heilman, a Seal of 1915; one of the greatest righthanded batsmen of all-time, who led the American League in hitting for four seasons.

Second Base—Joe Gedeon, who became Eddie Collins' strongest rival among the second basemen of the American League for several years.

Shortstop—Frankie Crosetti, longtime mainstay of the New York Yankees.

Third Base—Buck Weaver, who when with the Chicago White Sox was described the best all-around third baseman of all-time.

Outfielders—Paul Waner, twice winner of the National League batting crown; Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankees' new "bambino," and Earl Averill, one of the most consistent hitters in the majors.

Catcher—Walter Schmidt, who graduated in 1916 to become a top-notcher in the National League with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pitcher—Vernon ("Lefty") Gomez, for the past 10 years one of the five best chuckers in the majors.

Lillard, destined to win a berth on the above all-star team according to O'Doul, has been hitting at a .339 clip with the Seals. This is the first season for the 20-year-old star in Class AA baseball. Last year, when farmed out to the Tucson, Ariz., club, he hit .327. He is a brother of Gene Lillard, a pitcher with the Los Angeles.

Local baseball experts believe Connie Mack—who out-bid five other clubs for Lillard—made a wise deal. And they believe that the sensational performances of his new star outfielder, Sam Chapman, who went to the Athletics direct from the University of California, have completely sold him on California-produced diamond performers.

Danish Girl Lowers 200-M. Swim Mark In Copenhagen Pool

Domei Tsushin

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 11—Clipping 2.9 seconds off the world mark established by Miss Van Veen, of Holland, last February, Miss Elenore Raghild Hvenger, crack Danish swimmer, today set a new record for the women's 200-meter freestyle by negotiating the distance in 2 minutes 21.7 seconds during a meet here.

Baseball Leagues Find Places For Legion Graduates

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—More than 500 graduates of American Legion Junior Baseball are carving out careers for themselves during the current season in the major and minor leagues, the Legion's National Americanism Commission reported today.

Returns made by 118 clubs of the 277 in the country's 39 professional baseball leagues to whom the Commissioner sent questionnaires, showed that 521 youths who played under the American Legion Junior Baseball banner are making good in organized baseball this year.

The total is expected to be increased materially when all of the returns from the survey are received at National Headquarters here. The Commission said 159 clubs had not yet answered the questionnaires.

California topped all other departments of the Legion in sending junior baseball talent to the professional leagues, having 102 of its youthful stars in the money ranks. Illinois was next with 47, Pennsylvania had 31, Missouri 30, New York 26, Michigan 20, Minnesota and Louisiana 18 each, Alabama 17, Georgia 16, New Jersey 15, Iowa and Wisconsin 14 each, Ohio and North Carolina 13 each, Oregon 12, Oklahoma 10.

Among the cities, Chicago led with 24. St. Louis was runner-up with 21. Los Angeles had 19, San Francisco 14, and Detroit 13.

The Americanism Commission also reported that the 1938 junior baseball program shaped up as one of the most successful in the 11-year history of the sports classic. More than 500,000 boys under 17 years of age enrolled in the nationwide program.

While character training is the main objective of the program, members of the commission said it also offered boys an opportunity to rise to fame and fortune in organized baseball. Legion posts sponsoring teams provide the most expert coaching available and youths are given every aid to develop themselves for a professional baseball career.

During the 1938 season, 31 graduates of Junior Baseball held berths on major league teams: Robert Kahle of Richmond, Ind., heads the Indiana Legion-trained youngsters as a member of the Boston Bees.

Others from the Hoosier state include Dale Barnett with the Minneapolis Millers and Lowell Barnett with the Chattanooga, Tenn., Lookouts.

Fire-The-Manager Season Starts In Major Leagues

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, August—The annual Fire-the-Manager season has already opened along the baseball front and the rumor mongers are levelling their guns at one American league pilot and four National League leaders.

The rumor mongers usually wait until the first sessions of the Hot Stove league in the fall before opening their campaign but the strange and apparently unwarranted firing of Mickey Cochrane, has led impetus to their campaign this year.

Street On Way Out

Along the baseball grapevine one hears that Gabby Street of the Browns is on his way out and that Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals, Burleigh Grimes of the Dodgers, Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies and Casey Stengel of the Bees are almost in the ash can right now.

I sincrely hope that these silly rumors—which all too often turn out to be true—will remain only rumors this time. All the aforementioned managers have been great ball players and they have proved their mettle as managers. Why get rid of them? Wouldn't it be far more sensible to get them a few good ball players to manage?

Of course, if a manager is incompetent, it would be wise to get rid of him. But where is there even one incompetent manager in either major league today?

Ball clubs make the manager; no manager ever made a ball club; although I must admit that certain managers will do better than others with the material at hand.

When Connie Mack was winning pennants with Coombs, Bender, McInnis, Baker, Barry, Collins and the rest, he was hailed as the wonder manager of the age. But when these players passed on and Connie was forced into a cellar berth for years, he was denounced as the world's worst manager. Then when he rose to the top again with Simmons, Grove, Earnshaw and others, the fickle public again tabbed him as a wonder.

But he was the SAME manager all the time. The only difference was that he had great players when he was on the top and poor ones when he was on the bottom.

A few years ago, they were saying Frankie Frisch was a great manager and Pie Traynor was a bum. Now Frankie's Cards are down and Pie Traynor's Pirates are up. But the fact is, they were both good managers then and they still are good managers. The Pirates wisely stuck by Traynor and I hope Sam Breadon will have sense enough to stick by Frisch.

Grimes May Go

Burleigh Grimes has done a grand job in Brooklyn despite a host of obstacles that would have broken the heart of a less game citizen and Casey Stengel has done as well as anybody could have done in Boston.

Baseball men generally admit there is no smarter baseball man than Jimmy Wilson. He is a great coach and an able leader. Gabby Street, also, is a capable leader. They are both in the cellar but do you suppose they would be there if they were leading the Yanks and Pirates? On the other hand, do you suppose that Joe McCarthy or Pie Traynor or anybody else could turn the present crop of Browns and Phillies into pennant winners?

Those second division teams in both leagues don't need new managers but they do need a few first division ball players.

Oversight Sends A Good Scout To Boston Bees

By JAMES W. BAGLEY

BOSTON.—Through the oversight of the Red Sox, their National League rivals, the Bees, have gained a mighty important addition to their scouting staff.

Back a few years ago a rabid fan and former umpire in the International League by the name of Billy Myers, recommended a youngster to the Red Sox. At the time, Eddie Collins, general manager of the Bosox sent Tommy Daley, former big league star catcher, who was then bull pen catcher in charge of the young pitchers, to Buffalo, N. Y., to look over the prospect. Daley reported back to Collins that the boy had lots of talent and looked very promising.

As a result of Daley's recommendation, Myers was given a $100 bonus with the stipulation if they took the prospect south he would receive an additional $1,000.

Outstanding Rookie

That prospect is today the outstanding Rookie pitcher on the Red Sox staff. He is Emerson Dickman, 24-year-old Buffalo, New York boy with but one year and a half experience in the minor league.

Dickman was attending high school in Buffalo when Myers first saw him and recommended him to the Red Sox. However, after finishing high school he decided he would like to go to college and he packed up and went off to Washington and Lee where he got his sheepskin in 1936.

Immediately upon his graduation Dickman joined the Red Sox and was sent to Rocky Mount. He won five games and did not lose a decision in the balance of the season with the club.

About this time President Tom Yawkey hired Billy Evans, former boss of the Cleveland Indians to build up a farm system for the Ruddy Sox. Yawkey was convinced after spending almost $5,000,000 he could not buy a pennant. So Evans was brought in to build a farm system in which the Sox could develop their own players.

The story goes that the Red Sox, seeing they had an outstanding prospect, had to give someone the palm. Evans, being the head of the newly formed farm system, got the credit.

Dickman in the meantime was sent to the Little Rock farm for more seasoning in 1937 where he won 18 and lost six games.

When the Sox took Dickman south in '37 and again last spring, the agreement with Myers was overlooked and as a result he failed to get $1,000 bonus.

Dickman at the present time is the best looking pitcher on the Red Sox mound staff. The Buffalo youth has a good fast ball and the best curve seen in the junior loop in the last few years according to Lou Gehrig of the Yankees.

Myers in the meantime got in touch with President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees, National League rivals of the Red Sox. Myers who is employed by the New York Central Railroad, asked Quinn if he could have a job scouting for the Bees in the Buffalo area in his spare time.

Last year when the Red Sox were in Cleveland they had one of Myers' prospects report for a "look." The prospect along with a couple of other high school ballplayers had been recommended by Myers.

Myers on the Job

When Myers heard of this he hopped the first train for Cleveland where he gathered up the youngster and took him home to Buffalo. The boy had one more year in high school and Myers told him he should graduate before thinking of a baseball career.

Sebastian Sisti was the boy's name and he graduated this summer from Canisius High School. He played third base on the school team and was the leading hitter in the league.

Myers brought Sisti to Boston where he worked out under the watchful eye of Casey Stengel, Bees manager, and Casey was convinced. The youngster was sent to the Hartford, Conn., Bees Class A farm. Sisti has been clouting the apple and playing a great game at third base for the junior Bees.

The Bees haven't had a real third baseman since Tony Boeckel, the Californian who was fatally injured in an automobile accident many years ago. Sisti seems to be the answer to the Bees third base problem and if his slugging continues he will be a welcomed addition to the Bees.

So it looks like the Red Sox not only have lost a valuable scout in the person of Myers when they failed to live up to their agreement but they also have lost a mighty fine third base prospect.

U.S. Swimmers Victors In Berlin, Defeating European Stars, 38-36

N.Y. Times

BERLIN, Aug. 21—By the narrow margin of two points, a team of United States swimming stars shaded Europe's top-flight performers, 38 to 36, in a two-day meet which ended at the Olympic Swimming Stadium today.

A crowd of 10,000 sat under umbrellas in a downpour today to watch the Americans preserve enough of the 24-18 edge they gained in the first six events yesterday to win. They took only two of six contests today.

The Germans, Heinz Schlauch, Europe's back-stroke champion, and Joachim Balke, breast-stroke wizard, again proved their mastery over Jim Werson of the Olympic Club of San Francisco and Bill Neunzig of Ohio State.

Neunzig gave Schlauch the same close battle in today's 100-meter back-stroke that he did over yesterday's 200-meter stretch. With a final powerful spurt, Schlauch moved ahead at the end and finished a bare yard ahead of his American rival. He was timed in 1:09.7. The crowd roared its approval at the close of the great race. Neunzig was clocked in 1:11.

Balke had an easier time with Werson in the breast-stroke, winning by eight yards in 1:12.3 against the Californian's 1:18.2.

Ralph Flanagan again showed he was in a class by himself by winning the 1,500-meter free-style race. Swimming strongly and with the smoothest of strokes, the Miami Biltmore Club's free-style star finished almost a tank-length ahead of Bjoern Borg of Sweden. He was timed in 18:39.5.

Each side took a relay race. The American team captured the 800-meter event hands down, while Europe had almost as easy a time with the Americans in the 300-meter medley relay.

Takashi Hirose of Hawaii, Paul Wolf of the University of Southern California and Chicago, Otto Jaretz of Chicago and Flanagan swam on the winning American team which was timed in 9:03.6. The European quartet of Bob Leivers, England; Christian Talli, France; Borg of Sweden and Werner Plath of Germany did 9:10 for the distance.

Schlauch, Balke and Helmuth Fischer of Germany swam on the victorious European medley relay team and were timed in 3:28. Neunzig, Werson and Peter Fick made up the United States trio.

Erhard Weiss of Germany took the high diving contest with 118.47 points to 115.20 for Elbert Root of the Detroit A. C. Both did excellent work despite the slippery footing on the mat.

U.S. Leads

BERLIN, Aug. 20—With the aid of a record-smashing performance in the 400-meter relay, America's touring swimmers took a 24-18 lead over Europe today in the first half of their international meet in the Olympic Swimming Stadium.

Pitted against star mermen from England, the Netherlands, Sweden, Hungary and France as well as Germany's best, the visitors won half of today's six events and took most of the second places as well.

The relay team of Takashi Hirose of Hawaii, Otto Jaretz and Paul Wolf of Chicago and Peter Fick of New York swam the 400 meters in 3:59.2 to defeat an all-star European quartet by ten yards. The record isn't officially recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but the best previous mark recorded was 4:02, made by a Hungarian team.

The European quartet of Frederick Dove of England, who led Hirose on the first leg; Helmuth Fischer and Herman Heibel of Germany and S. Koerosi of Hungary was timed in 4:03.1.

In addition to the relay, the Americans took the 400-meter free-style race when Ralph Flanagan of Miami, Fla., splashed home twenty yards ahead of Bjoein Borg of Sweden in 4:46.8, and the 100-meter free-style test as Jaretz outsprinted his teammate, Fick, to win in 59.3 seconds.

German aces won the three other events. Heinz Schlauch, the European champion, took the 200-meter back-stroke by a margin of three-tenths of a second over Bill Neuzig of Ohio State. His time was 2:34.9. Joachim Balke of Germany easily defeated Jim Werson of the San Francisco Olympic Club in the 200-meter breast-stroke. He did 2:42.8 as compared with Werson's 2:50.9.

Erhard Weiss scored 154.25 points to win the springboard dive. Elbert Root of Detroit placed second with 149.15 points, Al Patnik of Ohio State third with 145.10 and Fritz Haster, Germany, fourth with 138.49.

Pirates Hit Dean Hard To Defeat Cubs By 5 To 2

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Aug. 20—The Pirates extended their National League lead to five and one-half games today by defeating the Cubs, 5 to 2, while the Giants were bowing to the Phillies.

Although the Pirates' veteran, Red Lucas, their only pitcher who had gone nine innings against the Cubs this year, failed to go the route today, the league leaders drove Dizzy Dean from the mound and capitalized on six Chicago errors to keep intact their record of not losing a game in Chicago this year. The Cub errors accounted for three unearned runs.

It was Dean's first loss since his purchase by the Cubs. Although he has been credited with six victories, it was the sixth time in nine starts he has failed to go nine innings.

The Pirates, led by Gus Suhr and Al Todd, whom Manager Harold Traynor benched earlier in the week, made eight hits off Diz and added three more off his successor, Vance Page. Suhr collected a double and two singles and Todd a triple and two singles.

Dean collared the Pirates for four innings, but a single, an error and Woody Jensen's double tied the score at 1-1 in the fifth. The Bucs then went to work in the sixth after Johnny Rizzo had fanned. Consecutive doubles by Arky Vaughan and Suhr and Stan Hack's fumble of Pep Young's grounder sent in one run and sent out Dean. Todd then greeted rescuer Page with a triple that scored two more runs.

The Cubs made eight hits, including Rip Collins' homer in the ninth, off Lucas and Bill Swift, but four double plays minimized their effectiveness. Lucas, who made his first start in seven weeks, retired after six innings, but drew credit for his fourth triumph of the year.

Minnesota, Pittsburgh Rated Best Grid Teams

NEW YORK.—While college gridirons throughout the land are being groomed and moleskins taken out of storage for the fall football campaigns, a glance about the leading teams indicates that Pittsburgh and Minnesota probably will be the standout teams of the country.

Despite the de-emphasis program initiated at Pitt, the Panthers of Dr. Jock Sutherland are highly regarded to capture another National Championship. The Panthers carry over from their juggernaut of last season the star-studded backfield of Quarterback Johnny Chickerneo, Dick Cassiano and Hal Stebbins at the halves and fleet Marshal Goldberg at fullback.

Good Ends

Sutherland also has Bill Daddio and Fabian Hooman at ends and the rest of his line will be made up from a mixture of veterans and promising sophomores.

Glancing over the eastern sector of the country, there's Fordham with a strong outfit, but lacking the stone-wall defense offered the "Seven Blocks of Granite." Engaging in as difficult a nine game schedule as they played last year, Fordham probably will drop a game or so, if only to Pitt, whom they have battled to scoreless ties the past three seasons.

Temple of Philadelphia is ranked among the top in the East along with Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Yale and Harvard.

In the Midwest, Minnesota, rebounding from what they considered a poor season will furnish most of the fireworks in the Big Ten race, with Northwestern, Indiana and Ohio State ranked close behind.

Notre Dame, attempting to regain the gridiron heights, comes up with an inexperienced and graduation-riddled machine. But the Irish, under the crafty coaching of Elmer Layden, still can be counted upon to produce a surprise or two, just as they bowled over the highly favored Minnesota team last season.

The Fighting Irish team may not win district or national honors this fall, but it will be feared by each of its nine major opponents.

Rice Bidding Again

The Crimson Tide of Alabama should continue to lead the parade in the south, with Duke, Tulane and Louisiana State pressing close for sectional laurels.

In the southwest, Rice will be bidding again for the Conference title with Texas Christian and possibly Baylor showing up well, in one of the most bitter campaigns staged in many years.

Southern California's return to the top flight of the nation's gridiron forces will be marked by a highly successful team under Coach Howard Jones. U. S. C. will be back on a par with California and is given an even chance of capturing the Pacific Coast title. St. Mary's Galloping Gaels, with Slip Madigan at the helm, are due for some improvement, but are not expected to threaten the leaders.

With opening of football practice just a few days distant it's a fair prediction that 1938 will see a better brand of football, more evenly matched conference races and stars emerging from all sections of the country rather than from any one special district.

Yanks, Pirates Continue Lead In Major Loops

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—The Chicago Cubs spurted into second place ahead of the Cincinnati Reds providing the biggest change in the National League this week as the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Yankees continued to lead their respective leagues.

In the American League, the pennant bound Yankees finished strongly this week, winning five games and losing two, to maintain a healthy lead of 15 full games over the second-place Boston Red Sox, which split its games this week.

In the National loop, the Pitt Pirates were still out in front 3½ games, despite its poor showing this week in which it won only two out of six contests. The Chicago Cubs played an exceptionally good game of ball, battering out six out of seven starts to oust the Cincinnati Reds from second-place, but other relative standings remained unchanged. The Reds won four and loss three this week.

Team standings, including games played this week, were as follows:

American League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York Yankees	92	42	.687
Boston Red Sox	76	56	.576
Cleveland Indians	76	57	.571

Gehrig Homers

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20—The Yankees and the Athletics, moving at express-train speed in precisely opposite directions, continued their flights at Shibe Park today as the Bronx Bombers toppled the Philadelphians, 11 to 3, before the derisive gaze of a gathering of 9,000.

Three pitchers attempted to derail the streamliner from New York but forgot to get out of the right of way in time. In the first inning, Lee Ross fed Lou Gehrig a home run ball with the bases full and before the Bombers were through they had clouted Ross, Al Williams and Dave Smith for thirteen safeties.

The first-inning shot by the Iron Horse settled things and gave Monte Pearson his eleventh victory against five defeats. After that it was merely target practice for the Ruppert Rifles, as they picked up runs whenever they so desired.

Gehrig, as a matter of fact, hammered a double with two men on a bit later in the program so that he personally attended to sending in six tallies.

Pearson pitched well to supplement the terrific hitting. He gave four blows for three runs in the second and then yielded only four more the rest of the way, this being his eighth straight success.

Gehrig's twenty-fourth circuit shot came so early that Pearson had plenty of room in which to breathe. With one out in the opening frame, Red Rolfe singled and both Tommy Henrich and Joe DiMaggio walked. Then Old Rawhide lashed one over the fence for a perfect jackpot.

Another run came to Marse Joe McCarthy's bright young men in the second, following a double by Flash Gordon. But when the Athletics came to bat they actually made it look as if this was going to be a close ball game.

Sam Chapman, Lou Finney and Wayne Ambler singled in succession to fill the bases. Stan Sperry chased two of them home with a wallop to center and a third came in on an infield out. There was frantic activity in the Yankee bullpen at this point, but Pearson quelled the uprising and was in supreme command the rest of the way.

Of course the New Yorkers made it right comfortable for him. They snared two runs in the fourth when Rolfe singled again and Henrich walked, Gehrig's double driving in two. Another arrived in the eighth when Myril Hoag hit, stole second and rode home on Frankie Crosetti's safety.

Hunt Scores Upset By Topping Riggs In U.S. Singles

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, New York, Sept. 12—Bobby Riggs, rated second only to Donald J. Budge among America's tennis stars, was today eliminated from the National singles championships now being played on the courts of the Westside Club here when he lost his fourth round match to his countryman, Gilbert Hunt, by the scores of 6-2, 0-6, 9-7 0-6, 6-4.

Playing cooly and carefully against a highly-touted opponent, Hunt, despite the loss of two love sets, managed to emerge victorious. The match was a heart-breaker for Riggs who at times had Hunt at his mercy, but was unable to take the contest.

John Bromwich, in another fourth round contest, smashed through to an easy three-set victory over Frankie Parker of the United States. The Australian, who is top-seeded player among the foreign entries, had the youthful American at his mercy. The scores were 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

In two other fourth-round matches, Joe Hunt defeated the French player, Yvon Petra, in four sets, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 9-7, while Gene Mako, Budge's able doubles partner, defeated the Yugoslav star, Ferenc Puncec, 6-2, 6-4, 9-7.

In the third round of the women's singles, Miss Margot Lumb, up and coming English player, defeated the veteran Miss Helen Jacobs of the United States in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2.

Polish Star Back In U.S. In Quest Of Singles Title

By JOHN RENDEL

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Poland's greatest tennis player, Mlle. Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, stepped back into the American picture yesterday from the gangplank of the Gdynia America liner Pilsudski. Her chief objective is the United States women's championship, which will be settled at Forest Hills next month.

Mlle. Jedrzejowska, "Ja-Ja" to American admirers who have trouble handling her name hopes to improve on the second-best she got last year, when she was runner-up to Senorita Anita Lizana of Chile, now Mrs. Ronal Ellis, but she isn't making any predictions at this stage.

"My game is so-so, fifty-fifty," she declared modestly in her halting English and smile wryly when last year's championship was mentioned. Friends who met her at the pier explained that there were some pretty big guns up ahead, notably Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, and the sturdy Polish girl preferred to be noncommittal on her chances.

Proceeds to Boston

Meanwhile, her immediate concern is the national doubles championship in Boston, where she expects to be paired with Mme. Rene Mathieu, the French champion. This begins tomorrow, so Mlle. Jedrzejowska was scarcely off the boat before she was on her way to Boston.

The doubles is the only tournament in which the Polish star will take part before the nationals. Asked why she had not come earlier so that she could sharpen her weapons in some of the other tournaments that have been occupying the top-flight players, she declared that she had competition in Europe to get out of the way first.

She has been representing Poland with her sister Sophie in the Queen Marie Cup event, something of a less-distinguished Davis Cup round-robin.

Poland beat Czechoslovakia and gained the final against Hungary, so right after the nationals here Mlle. Jedrzejowska must hurry to Budapest to finish her bid for the Queen Marie Cup.

Returning After Doubles

After the national doubles, the Polish girl, who wields the most trenchant forehand in women's tennis, will return to New York and Forest Hills for the serious business of getting ready for the big tournament. With the national singles not beginning until Sept. 8 she figures she will have ample time to get to the top of her game.

Mlle. Jedrzejowska said that she had not been playing a great deal of tennis since leaving here a year ago because of her feet. Evidently she is all right now, for this Summer she won the London championship, beating Frau Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling easily in the final, and the Hungarian title. The Polish champion lost to Miss Jacobs in the quarter-finals at Wimbledon.

Mlle. Jedrzejowska will become Mme. Laskowiski. In the course of the interview it developed that she has become engaged to Captain Kasimir Laskowiski of the Polish Army.

Epidemic Of Sore Arms Feature Major Leagues

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—This year long will be remembered in baseball for the epidemic of injuries which has laid low some of the game's most illustrious pitchers, and probably brought to a finish more than one glamorous major league career.

Not all of them suffered their infirmities during the current campaign. In a few instances they started with handicaps incurred last season, but it took this year to reveal extent of the maladies. They simply couldn't go any more.

A pitching staff composed of Dizzy Dean, Lefty Mose Grove and Schoolboy Rowe at the peak of their greatness would out-rank any ever put together through the years. They would give you fast ball pitching, curve-balling, brains and flaming color.

But as things stand now, Dizzy has a tough time going farther than a few innings, Grove is bewildered by recurrence of an old arm injury, and the Schoolboy is in the Texas League striving gamely to work his way back into the Big Show. They may be through with the majors, insofar as anybody can tell at the moment. Dean seemingly has the best chance of getting under way again next season.

Lawton Carver

Then you could add to the list of flinging hospital cases a half dozen more outstanding names, one of them being Deffy Dean, Dizzy's brother, who is down here in the Texas League with the Schoolboy. He, like Dizzy and the Schoolboy, are among those who started the season with more hope than confidence as a result of ailments carried over from last year.

Dizzy's trouble dates back to the All-Star game of last year when he suffered a broken toe. The injury so affected his pitching motion when he again could take his turn, his arm finally gave way, or, anyhow, that is the explanation generally accepted.

He wound up winning only 13 games for the St. Louis Cardinals or the least number in his major league career. Despite that he figured he would come back this season. Soon after he joined the Chicago Cubs in one of the biggest transactions ever completed for a player his arm failed him.

Since he was sent by the Philadelphia Athletics to the Boston Red Sox in another monumental trade, Grove has returned to the peak as a performer. He failed miserably in 1934, his first year with the Sox and won only eight games, but he came back with 20 victories the next season, then followed that with 17 wins in each of his next two campaigns and was fairly rolling along until his arm went dead a few weeks ago.

The Schoolboy was in only 10 games last season with the Detroit Tigers and won a grand total of one, as he sought to get his arm in shape. He thought he had found the secret with the result that the Tigers banked upon him heavily. He neved did get started again.

If Dean hadn't lost his arm, the Cubs possibly, or maybe probably, would have moved out in front in the National League race and stayed there. They still may do it, but it is doubtful. The Sox won't be helped any by Grove's absence, if he remains out, and the Tigers might have made some kind of a race with Rowe in there at his best. As it is, they won't even finish in the first division.

Experience Won For Australians, Says Yamagishi

Lack of experience accounted for the defeat of Japan in the final round of the American zone of the Davis Cup play against Australia at Montreal, according to Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, who returned Wednesday on the Tatsuta Maru ahead of other members of the Davis Cup team to continue his studies at Keio University.

Yamagishi defeated John Bromwich in the opening singles but lost to Adrian Quist in the first singles match on the third day, the Australians clinching victory with a 3 to 1 lead. The other Japanese victory was registered by Fumiteru Nakano in the match following against Bromwich.

Nakano had a good chance to defeat Quist on the first day. As a matter of fact, he played virtually on even terms with him, according to Yamagishi. He even excelled Quist in the back court game. But Quist, a veteran, made each point count and ran through the match a winner. The experience gained by Nakano in that match will prove most valuable to him, Yamagishi said.

As for his own victory over Bromwich, Yamagishi explained that he owed it to luck, but at that he was in fine form and played the brand of tennis he had wanted to. Especially was his drop shot functioning well, and he made from 14 to 15 points on it, he said. He tried the same tactics against Quist, gambling for an ace or an error, but the Australian expertly picked up the ball and placed them softly over the net to score.

A blister in his right hand troubled him considerably, Yamagishi said. It had affected his system so much that he had to be confined in a hospital for six days before the match, and the pain returned on the third day of play in the final round against Australia, he explained.

Yamagishi had much praise for J. Donald Budge and Bobby Riggs, singles players of the American team, describing the combination as unbeatable. Twenty-year-old Riggs has come along at a remarkable pace, and his strategy against a net player is the best in the world, in Yamagishi's belief. The same goes for his lobbying, he explained. Budge is expected to turn professional this Fall after the national championships at Forest Hills, and Riggs undoubtedly will become No. 1 player on the American Davis Cup team, he added.

Some of the newspapers have already printed schedules of Budge's tour with Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry, according to Yamagishi.

Questioned about the development of Japan's tennis, Yamagishi said there is no alternative than to devote all attention to the game itself, omitting all trivial matters.

Operation Needed On Hubbell's Arm

N.Y. Times

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 20—A bone specialist ordered an operation today for Carl Hubbell, depriving the New York Giants of their ace hurler in the thick of the fight for the National League pennant.

The specialist, Dr. J. Spencer Speed, said the operation to be performed Monday should greatly improve the screwball pitcher's ailing left arm. Whether the southpaw star will be able to pitch again this season remained in doubt.

There is a chance, the surgeon said, that Hubbel will be able to take the mound again before the flag chase ends, but as Hubbell expressed it "the season probably will be about ended."

There is a loose piece of bone in the joint of the left elbow.

Hubbell's arm has been paining him all season, but he didn't decide to quit until the game against Brooklyn Thursday when he retired at the end of the fifth inning.

The hurler said he hoped the operation would help. He showed little worry as he laughed and talked with newsmen during the examination.

Says He Doesn't Know

A query about the future of the southpaw elicited a soft-spoken: "I don't know."

"Dr. Speed seemed pretty optimistic. He said I might be able to get in the last of the season, but I don't think so. I'm 35 years old now and I don't heal like a kid of 19 or 20. It takes a long time. He said the old wing had taken an awful beating and you can't make a new arm.

"If I'm able to go and Terry tells me to go, I'll get out there and pitch the best I can," Hubbell said when he was told the operation might make it possible for him to pitch this season.

Lou Chiozza, Giant second baseman, who came home three weeks ago with an injured shoulder, greeted Hubbell when he arrived by plane from New York early today, and spent most of the day with his teammate.

"Every time I pitched a ball that last game I felt a twinge of pain," Hubbell told Chiozza.

He said the screwball pitch was "an unnatural delivery," and "throwing it is a strain." He's been using the screwball for sixteen years.

Teidai Routs Hokkaido Rivals At Rugby, 51-3

In the first rugby game played for the 1938-39 season, Tokyo Imperial University routed the Hokkaido Imperial University fifteen by 51 to 3 points Wednesday afternoon at he Ikko grounds. The score at half time was 23 to 3.

The Tokyo collegians, outplaying their opponents in all departments of the game, registered four goals and one penalty goal in the second.

The Hokkaido players were woefully weak in their tackling.

Home Counties Win In Women's Cricket Match

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 22—The Home Counties beat the Rest by nine wickets in the women's match at Northampton on Saturday. Home Counties increased their first innings total to 249, gaining a lead of 122. The Rest then made 138, leaving Home Counties to get 17 runs for victory and time for only three overs in which to do it. Do it they did, however, the winning hit coming off the fourth ball of the last over. It was a grand match, and the spirit in which it was played was quite delightful.

There were several outstanding individual performances. M. Williamson was very unlucky to miss her century by three runs in the Home Counties' first innings, and M. Lowe also played very well for her 57. These two took part in a second-wicket stand of 112, and it says much for the determination of B. Belton, a fastish bowler, that she should have taken seven for 62 in an innings of 249. When the Rest batted a second time they made a fair start, thanks to a good partnership between J. Davis and P. Snook, but once again their tail was unable to raise any sort of wag, and had it not been for a great fighting innings by B. Archdale they would have been beaten by an innings.

Slightly Agricultural

Lowe and Williamson continued the partnership which they had begun overnight, and Lowe soon received a yorker from Belton. Whether it was bowled by design or accident, it was the only yorker of the match, and Lowe dealt with it firmly. She scored mainly by means of cuts, while Williamson relied chiefly upon a workmanlike and slightly agricultural pull. This stroke may not have been strictly academic, but it was extremely fruitful, and Williamson caught up Lower and reached her 50 first in 70 minutes. Soon after, following suit, Lowe was back in the pavilion after a squeal of appeal from the wicket-keeper, and a more than useful innings was ended. M. Maclagan was strangely ill at ease for so experienced a batswoman and was eventually bowled by Megan Lowe, who was bowling very well indeed, varying her pace and flight. Lowe kept Williamson quiet for a period, and although this batswoman made several mistakes she proved her temperament by forgetting them as soon as they were made and concentrating on the job in hand. When she had been in for two and a quarter hours and had scored 97 she was out to a fine catch on the leg side by the wicket-keeper. She hit six 4's. She had earned all her runs, and would have passed the 100 if the running between the wickets had been better. M. Hide, the most polished all-round cricketer of the lot, was a considerable nuisance to the bowlers, and luncheon arrived with the score at 225 for seven wickets.

Afterward Belton and Lowe soon finished off the innings. Hide was ninth out, being bowled in jumping out to Lowe. She had been very harsh to the bowlers, and had also come near to slaying a cycling spectator. Mention must also be made of the pluck of M. Kynvin, who, though painfully wounded on the previous day, insisted on batting, this being typical of the general spirit.

The Rest began better than they had done in their first innings, and by tea-time the score was 60 for three. Snook made some good pulls and hooks in a dainty little innings before D. McEvoy, who bowled very much better than her analysis of two for 50 would suggest, knocked her middle stump flying out of the ground. Davis made some perfect lefthanded shots through the covers, but of the rest only M. Pollard and Archale showed much fight, and even Pollard was only a shadow of herself of the previous day. Archdale fought every inch of the way for more than an hour, and if she had saved the game her opponents would have been the first to applaud a very gallant effort. But she could get no one to stay with her.

The Home Counties' opening batswomen were so keen that they had to wait a minute or two at the crease before they were allowed to start. Six came off the first over, a mighty smite by E. M. Whelan accounting for four of them, but she was bowled by the second all of the next over. Hide was at the wicket almost before Whelan had left it, and she and McEvoy beat the ball as well as the air to the tune of five more. That was one over left and six to get, with Hide just the person to get them. And so she did, the winning stroke being a superbly confident boundary off her back foot past extra cover-point, and no one could have asked for a better or more sporting finish.

Wooderson Gets Half Mile Mark Back To England

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 22—S. C. Wooderson added to his many successes on Saturday when he attacked successfully world figures for half a mile on the London University track at Motspur Park. His time was 1 min. 49 sec., an improvement of 4.10 sec. on the previous best time of 1 min. 49.6 sec., by the American, Elroy Robinson, in New York last year.

The half-mile record has thus returned to England after a lapse of 50 years. The last Englishman to hold the record was F. J. K. Cross, the Oxford Blue, who covered the distance in 1 min. 45.6 sec. in 1888.

Wooderson, with 1 min. 48.4 sec., also beat world's figures for 800 meters (approximately 875 yards). It was on the same track almost a year ago that Wooderson accomplished his world record for the mile with 4 min. 6.4 sec., so that Wooderson now holds three world's records.

Conditions were good apart from an intermittent wind. Wooderson had as his pace-makers A. Furniss (Blackheath H.) (8 yards), C. A. J. Emery (Achilles Club), A.A.A. three miles, Midland one mile, and international cross-country champion (40), A. D. G. White (Thames Valley H.) (45), R. Henderson (Polytechnic H.) (65), F. S. Whittingham (Blackheath H.), Surrey county quarter-mile champion (70), and S. J. Wooderson (Blackheath H.) (85). A fast first quarter of a mile in 52.6sec. seemed likely to spoil his chances of a new record, for he appeared to tire along the back straight, but a grand fighting sprint enabled him to finish in front of all but his brother, S. J. Wooderson, who broke the tape seven yards in front of him. Wooderson's furlong times were 25.8sec., 26.8sec., 27.7sec., 28.9sec.

The results were:—

Half-Mile Invitation Handicap.—S. J. Wooderson (Blackheath H.) (35 yards), 1; S. C. Wooderson (Blackheath H.) (scratch), 2; F. S. Whittingham (Blackheath H.) (70 yards), 3. Won by seven yards; six yards. Time, 1 min. 48.4 sec. S. C. Wooderson's time of 1 min. 40.2 sec. beat world record of 1 min. 49 49.6 sec.

120 Yards Hurdles Open Handicap.—J. St. L. Thornton (Achilles) (one yard), 1; C. A. Atkinson (Metropolitan Police) (12 yards), 2; K. C. Gooch (Southgate H.) (10 yards), 3. Won by a yard; three yards. Time, 14.7 sec.

100 Yard Open Handicap.—L. C. Powell (Westminister Bank) S12 yards), 1; F. W. Pritchard (Belgrave H.) (nine yards), 2; N. W. Payne (Barclays Bank A.C.) (eight yards), 3. Won by half a yard; inches. Time, 9.6 sec.

Emery (Achilles), 1; S. O. A. Palmer (Mitcham), 2; M. Beaudouin (Club Olympique), 3. Won by 60 yards; two yards. Time, 14 min. 33.4 sec.

Futabayama Is Ill; Unable To Compete In Osaka Tourney

All Japanese wrestling (sumo) fans in the Kansai are sorely disappointed because Futabayama, champion of champions and the most popular wrestler in the country today, will be unable to compete in the third annual 13-day season opening today at the Osaka bowl.

Futabayama returned to Kobe on September 9 from an exhibition tour of the North China front, solely for the purpose of consoling the soldiers, and was forced to enter hospital because of a stomach ailment. Visitors are not allowed him, and he has lost considerable weight, it is said.

He will require the rest of the month to recover, according to his physician.

Giants Trade All Sorts Of Blows With The Phillies

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK Aug. 22—Motivated by sheer desperation, the Giants traded all sorts of blows with the Phillies at the Polo Grounds yesterday but though they managed to come off with a good draw in a first fight, they lost the ball game which, so far as 8,970 onlookers were concerned, was really the main point at issue.

That contest Jimmy Wilson's tailenders grabbed with almost ridiculous ease behind the steady pitching of Max Butcher, the ex-Dodger, by a score of 8 to 3, a defeat not even the two Pirate reversals could soften. For the Giants are still five games off the pace.

In the first fight the only loser appeared to be Umpire Beans Reardon. Getting himself wedged into a terrific uproar between our Rowdy Dick Bartell and Bill Atwood, he absorbed virtually all the punches. One of the blows struck Beans squarely on the nose, at once commanding so much respect among all three of the arbiters that they set something of a precedent by not ejecting either belligerent.

Four in First Decide

As for the ball game, that practically went out the window as early as the first when our collapsible Cliff Melton went down for four runs. However, he managed to answer the bell for the second and remained until the seventh when the Phils, out to prove the first assault was no mistake, did it again for a cluster of three.

That ended Colonel Bill Terry's long suffering patience and he had the elongated lefthander, who has not finished a game since July 10, hauled off again for his twelfth defeat of the season.

The Phils made twelve hits off Melton and three more off two pitchers who followed him.

Singles by Gibby Brack and George Scharein started the opening rush on Melton. They were followed by two passes, three stolen bases and hits by Pinkey Whitney and Del Young, and the Phils had four.

For a time Melton looked to have regained his poise, but he dropped another run in the sixth when Atwood outgalloped an infield hit. A moment later came the flare-up when Atwood tore to second after Harry Danning had caught Young's foul off the screen.

Reardon Jumps Between

The flying Phil bounced into second like a fellow jumping on a mattress, Bartell waited only long enough to receive the ball and followed suit only to find Atwood already on the bag. Both came up fighting, but Umpire Reardon, moving quicker than the eye, got between and blocked nearly everything.

By the time the other players had separated the battlers Reardon was ruefully rubbing his nose and doubtless wishing he had not moved quite so fast.

When order had been restored, Butcher singled to drive Atwood home and in the seventh a single by Whitney with the bases full sent Melton on his way. The blow scored two and a single by Young off Johnny Wittig made it three for the round.

But Butcher already had plenty of margin, for the Giants really made only two serious threats in the entire game. They filled the bases with nobody out in the fourth to score two on outs and singles by Bartell, Johnny McCarthy and Jo Jo Moore produced all of one big tally in the seventh. Shortly after the Giants breathed their last.

The box score:

Hamuro, Amano And Two Others Invited To Manila

For competition in the Philippine swimming championships at Manila in the early part of January, four Japanese swimmers have been invited by the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation, according to an invitation which has been received by the Japan Swimming Federation and Nihon University.

The four swimmers designated are all of Nihon University, as follows:

Tetsuo Hamuro, Japanese breaststroke champion, who won the 200-meter breaststroke championship at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936.

Takeshi Sasaki, new national champion in the 100-meter freestyle event.

Tomikatsu Amano, who recently shattered Arne Borg's 11-year standing record of 19 minutes 7.2 seconds in the 1,500-meter freestyle by swimming it in 18 minutes 58.8 seconds.

Toshihiro Taniguchi, Nihon University's promising backstroke star.

If the invitation is accepted, the swimmers will accompany the boxing and wrestling teams which will leave Kobe on December 17.

War Admiral, 1-3, Annexes Whitney, With Esposa Next

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20—Leading from start to finish, War Admiral surpassed his sire, Man o'War, in money winning as he earned $2,725, first money in the Whitney Memorial Stakes, before 18,000 persons today. Whether War Admiral ever will surpass Man o' War in the general estimate of racing devotees, however, still rests with the future and perhaps never will occur.

But the earnings now stand: War Admiral, $251,700; against $249,465 for Man o' War, the first thoroughbred in American racing to total more than $200,000.

Samuel D. Riddle's colt proved conclusively that he was easily best, under weight for age conditions, even though William Ziegler Jr.'s Esposa ran her gamest and most gallant race to be second, one length back, at the end of the mile and a quarter. The only other starter was the 3-year-old Fighting Fox, a distant third.

The test was run over a fast track in 2.03 4-5. This was reasonably fast for the Saratoga strip, but many had assumed that War Admiral would do better in view of the 126 pounds on his back as the result of the weight for age conditions.

Three Stakes Are Run

There were two other stake events, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' No Competition capturing the $12,450 Grand Union Hotel Stakes. In the $2,345 Beverwyck Steeplechase handicap Mrs Gwaldys Whitney's Gay Charles, outsider at 4 to 1, was first. Gay Charles was timed in 4:21 1-5 for the two miles, while No Competition's clocking for the six-furlong dash was 1:12 1-5. Mr. Mars' cot was a 4-to-1 shot.

Wayne Wright was in War Admiral's saddle for the first time and after the finish he had this to say: "He ran just like a machine. All I had to do was sit there and guide him." Asked if he ever had thought he was in danger, Wright said "No," feeling he had had things under control the whole way.

For all of that, Esposa came within part of a length of War Admiral in the stretch. Under the drive that Nick Wall turned loose it seemed that she was going to make trouble for the champion, but she did not. Doing her gallant best was not enough, although Wright apparently had instructions not to use the whip on War Admiral.

Winner Is Pushed

Yet Wright knew he had been in a race, for all the confidence he expressed after the red board had gone up. He had to push on War Admiral, and while at the end the 4-year-old colt was slowly drawing away from the 6-year-old mare, there was a time in the stretch when even Wright might have wished Esposa a little farther away.

Nevertheless, the race was run as indicated. No thoughtful observer gave Esposa a chance against War Admiral with merely her five-pound sex allowance. She needs a big pull in the weights to make trouble for him. The effort was perhaps the best she ever made, and yet it was only good enough to menace War Admiral.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"- by Ripley

Portable Hospital

One of the most peculiar characteristics of the Carib natives of the Central and Caribbean Islands is their medical practice. This portable "hospital" is nothing but a little wooden shed—made of stray boards from soap or canned goods boxes—decorated with magical and symbolical figures and designs. As soon as a person becomes ill, he is taken out into the open and laid on the ground. Then the sorcerer, or witch doctor, places the "hospital" over the patient. It is placed so that the special signs representing the sky and the earth are near the head; the other symbols at the feet, and a short distance away the doctor places an image of the divinity. Then he sits at the feet of the patient and recites the magic formulas.

A Living Brazier

On cold days the Chinese use the quail (Excalfactoria Chinensis) as a handwarmer. They grasp the bird with both hands and warm their palms by contact with the high body temperature of the bird, which is caught and domesticated for this purpose.

Best Mermen To Compete Here Saturday, Sunday

The best swimmers of the country will be competing Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine pool when the national students championships for 1938 will be staged. The program for Saturday starts at noon and for Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Schools represented will be Waseda, Keio, Nihon, Rikkyo, Meiji and Chuo universities of the Kanto, Gifu Pharmaceutical College of the Tokai, Takamatsu Higher Commercial and Kwansei Gakuin of the Kansai district.

Nihon, Waseda, Keio and Rikkyo universities are expected to stage a battle royal for the top honors.

Arai Watched

Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo, who recently established a new world's record for the long course in the 200-meter freestyle swim at 2 minutes 9.6 seconds, is depended upon to set a better time in this event.

The 400 and 800-meter freestyle events are expected to be the most keenly contested in the meet. Tomikatsu Amano of Nihon University, who recently shattered Arne Borg's 11-year standing record in the 1,500-meter distance, will enter both races. There are those who believe that he will smash the world record of 9 minutes 55.3 seconds held by Shozo Makino of Waseda. The latter has been training conscientiously and it will be no surprise if he spoils Amano's ambition. The 400-meter event will not only see Amano and Makino in it but Takahashi and Terada of Keio, Shinma and Tanaka of Waseda will be gunning for first honors.

Takeshi Sasaki of Nihon University is a hot favorite to take the 50-meter freestyle. He is also expected to give Arai a stiff battle in the 100-meter freestyle.

Tatsuo Hamuro of Nihon University, the 1936 Olympic breaststroke champion, is expected to triumph over Reizo Koike of Keio in both the 100 and 200-meter swims.

Kojima of Keio and Yoshida of Waseda, perennial rivals, will again fight it out in the 50 and 100-meter backstroke events.

Nihon University Favored

Nihon University is a strong favorite to win the 200-meter relay but it will be a four-cornered affair among Nihon, Waseda, Keio and Rikkyo universities in the 800-meter relay.

Tsuneo Shibahara of Nihon University, national diving champion in both the springboard and platform competition, is favored to down Koyanagi of Waseda. The springboard diving was to be held at 2:30 p.m. today. The platform diving will be staged on Sunday.

Bobby Locke Called Second Bobby Jones

By LESTER RICE

NEW YORK—When he was seventeen, a weedy lad, slender as a slat, fabulous tales of his golf prowess began to sift out of South Africa concerning Bobby Locke.

In no wise were these stories extravagantly colored, if we are to compare them to the most recent exploit of this protege of Sid Brews, who is paying the U.S.A. a visit again at the residence of Fred Moore, his cousin, on Westchester way.

The amateur of seventeen is now a professional of twenty and those who have been saying right along that he is the logical man to succeed to the eminence of that other Bobby, the Jones who retired eight years ago, appear to be true prophets.

Locke's triumph in the Irish open championship apparently was a superb performance. He virtually spotted Henry Cotton five strokes and beat him in an extraordinary finish over a course which was gigantic to say the least. Portmarneck, outside Dublin, has been stretched beyond 7,200 yards and given a plable par of 75.

Dublin sportsmen prized Portmarneck so highly they put up $2,000 for the man or men who crept under 70. The offer ostensibly was a challenge to Cotton but he didn't earn a dime of it.

Locke commenced his 4-round journey by taking an 80. He strayed into Portmarneck's knee high tiger country several times and piled up strokes prolifically. But through the next 3 rounds Locke was 13 strokes under the course's regulations. After a 73 the second day he put together a 69 and a 70 and nipped Cotton at the wire.

Needless to say, Locke collected the $2,000 and, in addition, $750, which was the first prize. A tidy sum for a youth who had just resigned a clerkship in a mining office.

It was his courageous finish which evoked the praise of those who reported the tournament. George Greenwood, a keen observer, who isn't easily enthused, said:

"In his final round Locke accomplished the last four holes in 2, 4, 4, 4—four strokes under par. At the 15th he holed a putt of three yards and at the next (517 yards) he ran a long approach putt stone dead. Locke got an easy four at the 467-yard 17th and at the last hole (472 yards) he chipped one from the top of a bunker close to the cup.

"Out in 34, Cotton had four strokes in hand with the last four holes to play. His position seemed impregnable but an amazing collapse was witnessed. Going for a two at the short 15th, Cotton ran a yard past and missed the return. He was thus only two strokes ahead. A stroke was lost at each of the next two holes.

"He was thus left with a four to tie. From the edge of the green he putted four feet short and without apparently taking any pains missed the putt."

Hosei Plays Keio; Meiji Meets Rikkyo In Doubleheaders

The second batch of doubleheaders of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league will be played Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Hosei and Keio will clash at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday and Meiji and Rikkyo in the second game. On Sunday, the latter two teams will meet in the curtain-raiser.

Hosei and Keio are evenly matched and it is a toss-up between them. Meiji, while it made a miserable showing against Tokyo Imperial University, is a heavy favorite to down Rikkyo.

Grimes Ends Clown Era In Brooklyn

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK.—Once the joke of the baseball world, the Dodgers today are a highly-respected and much-feared outfit in the National League.

In those days the Dodgers had more clowns than a circus but where the circus performer worked hard and deliberately to get his laughs, the Dodgers got theirs through their own ridiculous efforts. On and off the field virtually every member of the team was what is known to the trade as a screwball.

Then along came Burleigh Grimes and baseball clowns became a lost species in Brooklyn. "Clowns," said the hard-bitten Burleigh, "belong in a circus, not on a ball field," and he proceeded to get some ball players who were short on cutting up queer didoos but long on hitting, throwing and fielding.

The result has been a pleasant surprise to the long-suffering Dodger fan and an unpleasant shock to the other National league clubs, especially those in the first division.

Grimes' first move was to get rid of the clowns. His second was to land a few hard working youngsters whom he could teach. It took him some time to get results. He couldn't go out and buy ready made stars so he had to take what he could get and develop his own talent.

He thought he had in Van Mungo, a 20-game winner around whom he could build up a pitching staff. But Mungo came up with a sore arm and has been a dead loss to the club. As for the rest of his pitchers, when the other managers looked them over, they laughed out loud. But they are not laughing now.

Tot Pressnell caught on almost from the beginning. Bill Posedel gradually developed into a winner. Luke Hamlin, who, Leo Durocher says, has the trickiest fast ball in the league, began to show real class. And he took on Vito Tamulis, who, many baseball men said would never be more than a minor leaguer, and turned him into a winner.

He developed Johnny Hudson into a star second baseman and is gradually building up a fast, hardhitting outfield.

Best of all, he has instilled in his players the same fighting spirit and fierce desire to win that characterized his own playing.

Like every other smart manager, Burleigh has no particular system. He just makes the best of what he has. If he has a fast youngster who can bunt, he takes advantage of the fact. If he has a slugger, he gives orders accordingly. If he has somebody who hits well behind the runner, he makes use of the hit and run.

He will be well satisfied to top the second division this year, but since he has plenty of trading material, and since the club has enlarged its bank account, he expects to land two or three players who will help him put the Dodgers in the first division next year. And when that happens, those rabid Dodger fans probably will erect a monument in his honor in Flatbush.

British Ruggers Top Border XV By 19-11 Score

Times, London

EAST LONDON, Aug. 20—Playing the 18th match of the South African tour here today the British team defeated a Border XV by 19 points to 11. This was the 13th victory of their tour.

Taylor, Alexander, C. Morgan, Dancer, and Unwin scored tries for the touring side, McKibben converting, those scored by Taylor and Alexander. For Border Hardwich scored a try, which was not converted, Wegener a try, which Evans converted, and Kopke kicked a penalty goal.

C. F. Grieve, who was playing in his third successive match since his injury in June, played well, fielding very safely from all angles and finding touch accurately. He was outstanding in the face of fierce rushes and his positional play was excellent. The British forwards continue to show improvement, and this, one of the most exciting matches of the tour, was marked by very open and very fast Rugby throughout.

The teams were:—

British XV.—C. F. Grieve (Army and Scotland), back; E. Jones (Llanelly), R. H. McKibben (Queen's University and Ireland), F. J. Reynolds (Old Cranleighans and England), and E. J. Unwin (Army and England), three-quarter backs; G. E. Cromey (Queen's University and Ireland) and G. J. Morgan (Old Belvedere and Ireland), half-backs; G. T. Dancer (Bedford), W. Travers (Newport and Wales), C. R. A. Graves (Wanderers and Ireland), A. R. Taylor (Cross Keys and Wales), S. Walker (Instonians and Ireland), R. B. Mayne (Queen's University and Ireland), R. Alexander (Royal Ulster Constabulary and Ireland), and J. A. Waters (Selkirk and Scotland), forwards.

Border XV.—B. C. Reid, back; Hardwich, Moore, S. C. Reid, and Degener, three-quarter backs; Gordon and Evans, half-backs; Kopke Maasdorp, Willielm, Petzer, Woodford, Maatens, Lewis, and Jenning forwards.—Reuter.

Quist Is Beaten By Parker In U.S. Singles Tourney

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 14—Except for Byran "Bitsey" Grant's unexpected four-set victory over Adrian Quist, Australian veteran and seeded second among the foreign entries, all favorites today took their fourth round matches and advanced into the quarterfinals of the National singles championships now being run off at the Westside Club courts here.

Playing a cool and steady game against the Australian veteran, the diminutive American star swept through the first set without difficulty, dropped the second 4-6 then came back strong in the final two remaining sets. The scores were, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Hopman Wns

Harry Hopman, non-playing captain of the Australian Davis Cup team, overwhelmed his American opponent Donald McNeil in straight sets with scores of 6-4, 6-3, 7-5.

In another fourth round match this afternoon, a former American Davis Cup player, Sidney Wood, displayed too much form for the Yugoslavian ace, Franjo Kukuljevic, and trounced him convincingly in straight sets. Wood, however, encountered stiff opposition in the first which went 14 games. The scores were 8-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Donald J. Budge, top-ranking American star who has played exceptional tennis this year, mastered the veteran English player, Edgar Hare, winning by scores of 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Meanwhile, in the fourth round of the women's division Miss Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, of Poland, defeated Miss Dorothy Work, of the United States, 6-4, 6-2, while Miss Alice Marble conquered Miss Dorothy Stevenson, of Australia, by scores of 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Thelma Coyne, of Australia, matched against Mrs. Sarah Fabyn, of America, offered a stiff resistance in the first set, forcing it to 14 games, but wilted before Mrs. Fabyan's superior playing. The scores were 8-6, 6-2. Miss Kay Stammers, of England, meanwhile swept through Miss Barbara Winslow, of the United States, 6-0, 6-2.

Campbell Is Ready

NEW YORK, Aug.—Sir Malcolm Campbell is reported ready to make another assault on the world water speed record, using the same boat, Bluebird, he drove last September to create a new mark of 129.5 m.p.h.

New Miami Coach

MIAMI, Fla., Aug.—The freshman football coach at the University of Miami this year will be Ken Ormiston, who held an all-American berth in 1934.

Ormiston, graduated in 1935 after playing guard at the University of Pittsburgh for three years.

Davis Cuppers To Sail From Seattle, Sept. 30

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 14—Members of the Japanese Davis Cup team composed of Fumiteru Nakano, Yasumine Kuramitsu and non-playing captain Tomio Abe, who were eliminated from the national singles championships staged here at the Westside Club, have decided to return to Japan aboard the N.Y.K. liner Hiye Maru, leaving Vancouver on September 30, it was learned today.

War Admiral Boosts Earnings To $258,300 Mark

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 27—Two champions strode through Saratoga's historic homestretch today, dominating their opposition and confirming more than ever that the thoroughbred strain has a glorious heritage which carries on. War Admiral won the traditional Saratoga Cup race of a mile and three-quarters by four lengths, while unbeaten El Chico overwhelmed his rivals in the rich Hopeful Stakes.

The largest crowd of the meeting, 13,273, watched and cheered, applauded and yelled for both handsome colts, one a brown and the other chestnut. Neither finish was close: neither was a "betting" race, because the prices were so short as to be prohibitive. But that made no difference to grooms, chauffeurs, society folk or business men: they gave to the son of Man o'War and the son of John P. Grier the accolade of champion.

There were not a few who remembered that almost twenty years ago John P. Grier had given Man o'War his hardest race. In the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct then, the cry went up: "Man o' War is beaten." That was a mistake, for Man o' War drove on to win, and today the sons of both drove on as of old on the concluding day of the meeting here.

Peters Rides Champion

War Admiral earned $3,600 in a race that grossed $8,350 and pushed his all-time total to $258,300. He was handled for the first time by Maurice (Moose) Peters, who was so much at ease aboard Samuel D. Riddle's colt that he spent much of his time looking back over his shoulder at Esposa. This gallant mare of William Ziegler Jr. once more did her best, but a mare cannot beat a colt, all other things being equal.

They were equal today; there was a fast track, the races were truly run and The Jockey Club weight scale, hallowed and proved by time, was applied. The 3-year-old filly Anafiame also started, but she was outclassed.

War Admiral won at 1 to 3, under 126 pounds, with Esposa under her 121 ten lengths in front of Anafiame with her 111. Easy as was the victory of Samuel D. Riddle's colt, the time was 2:55 4-5, only four-fifths of a second back of Reich Count's track record.

In the $48,050 Hopeful, which carried $42,550 to the winner, El Chico finished first by three lengths under Nick Wall, rider of Esposa, this time on the horse that was best. The unbeaten colt now has won six times, always in a stake, and is the leading 2-year-old money winner with a total of $74,100. He finished the six and a half furlongs in 1:18 2-5.

Nankai Noses Out Osaka Tigers By 3 To 2 Score

The newest addition to the Japan professional baseball circuit, the Nankai Electric Railway squad of Osaka, earned its most sparkling victory to date by turning the tables over the league's No. 1 team, the Osaka Tigers, by a 3 to 2 score in Thursday's triplecheader at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka.

Good relief pitching by Miyaguchi in the last three innings was a strong factor for the Nankai's victory.

Nankai won the game by scoring two runs in the sixth to forge into a 3 to 1 lead. Third Baseman Iguaya made a great stop of Takano's hit through short but he pegged to first despite his unbalanced position. It was wild and two men romped home.

The lowly Lions also registered an upset by blanking the strong Eagles, 7 to 0, this notwithstanding the fact that the Eagles had Ted Kameda, one of the league's best, on the mound.

Smashing out 14 hits, the Osaka Hankyus swamped the Dolfins, 13 to 4, in the other game.

700,000 Witness Opening Of '38-39 Soccer Season

LONDON, Aug. 27—(Canadian Press).—Colorful ceremonies marked the opening of the 1938-39 English football season today. More than 700,000 persons flocked to the eighty-eight carded matches and closeness of scores all down the line augured well for a banner year.

Thirteen games in the four divisions were decided by one-goal margins, ten clubs were blanked and draws were recorded in eight contests. Rotherham United, in the northern section, posted the highest score of the day, a 7-1 verdict over Rochdale.

Ideal football weather prevailed and all matches were played in brilliant sunshine.

Draws Largest Crowd

Arsenal attracted the largest crowd of the day when 58,000 persons crowded its spacious Highbury Stadium. An added feature of this match against Portsmouth was the inclusion of Bryn Jones on the Gunners' line-up.

The Gunners enticed the Wolverhampton Wanderers and Welsh International inside forward for an all-time high transfer fee of £14,000 early in August. Arsenal won by 2-0 and Jones took the spotlight with a first-half goal. Rochford deflected the ball into the invaders' goal to complete the scoring.

After two years in the second division, Aston Villa, one of the originals of the league formed in 1888, won promotion to the major division this year and opened with a 2-1 away victory over Grimsby Town. Manchester United, also up from the second league, performed at Middlesbrough and dropped a 3-1 decision.

Ipswich Town, a team new to big-time soccer, impressed with a 4—2 victory over Southend, United. The town replaced Gillingham in the southern section.

Preston Loses at Leeds

Preston North End, cupholder, lost by 2—1 at Leeds and Wolverhampton, away from home, held Derby County to a 2—2 deadlock.

A two-team deadlock for first position in the Scottish circuit was broken when Clyde upset pre-game calculations by a 2—0 victory at Falkirk. The team now has eight points for four straight victories, two better than five clubs bracketed in second place.

Today's play in the first division, aside from Clyde's victory and a 3-1 setback suffered by Hearts, hitherto undefeated, was remarkable for the number of penalty kicks. Three of the goals in Motherwell's 5-2 triumph over Kilmarnock came from penalty kicks taken by Ellis, left back.

Partick Thistle shocked Hearts by its 3-1 verdict, in Glasgow. Celtic's youngsters disappointed a home crowd by losing, 2-1, to Aberdeen.

The Blooming Chicken

Little Joyce was visiting her grandmother in the country. The first morning after her arrival she went out into the back yard and saw a peacock.

"Oh, Grandma!" she cried excitedly. "Come here quickly! One of your chickens has bloomed."

No-Hit, No-Run Game Hurled By Pearson As Yankees Rout Indians By 13 To 0

By JOHN DREBINGER

NEW YORK, August 28—Coming as a thrilling climax to an amazing demonstration of superiority over an already thoroughly beaten foe, Monte Pearson, slim right-hander of the Yankees, swept into baseball's Hall of Fame yesterday when, to the accompanying roars of 40,959 onlookers, he pitched a dazzling no-hit, no-run game against the Indians.

Two passes, coming in succession in the fourth inning, alone robbed the performance of being a perfect game. But in all other respects it was perfection itself, with not another member of Ossie Vitt's bewildered Tribe coming even close to getting a real hit or gaining first base by any other means.

The feat, the third in the major leagues this year—Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds pitched the first two in successive games—and the first in the American League since Vernon Kennedy, hurling for the White Sox, held the same Indians hitless and scoreless on Aug. 31, 1935, was achieved in the nightcap of the third and final double-header with the Clevelanders at the Stadium.

A Drum-Fire of Hits

It was made amid a drum-fire of Yankee hits, including pairs of home runs for Tommy Henrich and Joe Gordon, which gave Marse Joe McCarthy's devastating machine a concluding triumph over Cleveland's crestfallen Tribe by a score of 13 to 0.

The first game also went to the Yanks. They won it, 8 to 7, on the wings of three successive triples by their peerless Joe DiMaggio. The third one, hit off Johnny Allen, tied a major league record and broke up the battle in the last of the ninth after the Indians seemingly had at least captured this one win a cluster of four in the upper half of the same inning.

As a result the Yanks, finishing up an exhausting string of five successive double-headers, sent what were once regarded as their "most formidable rivals" out of the arena too stunned to appreciate all that had happened. For the Indians won only one of the six contests of the series and are now sixteen full games behind the blazing pace-setters, who, in turn, maintained their margin of twelve lengths over the second-place Red Sox.

Five Runs in First

It was the great DiMaggio who was the hero of the afternoon as the teams trooped off the field for the intermission between the two games and, as the Yanks tore into Johnny Humphries, Vitt's pitching hope in the nightcap, for five runs in the first inning, that engagement certainly promised little further excitement.

Least of all did any one expect anything startling from Pearson, who, under pressure of the many double-headers of the past week, had to come back after only two days of rest. He had pitched and won the second game of Wednesday's twin bill against the White Sox.

But as the innings wore on, with the Indians going down like reeds before a high gale, the crowd began to sit up and take notice. Nine men went out in order in the first three rounds.

Lyn Lary and Bruce Campbell, however, led off the fourth with a pair of passes, though little attention was paid to this as the Yanks already were leading, 7—0, so the applause was merely perfunctory when Pearson, regaining his grip, struck out Jeff Heath, retired Earl Averill on an infield roller and also fanned Hal Trosky.

Gives Flawless Performance

And from then on Monte pitched with the flawless precision of an intricate piece of mechanism. Not another Indian got to first.

In desperation Vitt, striving to escape this last piece of ignominy, hurled two pinch-hitters into the ninth, Julius Solters and Frankie Pytlak. The former struck out and the latter sent a slow roller to Gordon, who pounced on the ball like a flash.

For those Yanks were really gearing down now, and while the crowd sat in breathless silence, DiMaggio rushed in to provide himself with a better pair of sun glasses. He was the only player now on the field playing with the glaring light right in his eyes.

A moment later Campbell sent a low line drive to left, George Selkirk gobbled it up and the fans cut loose with an ear-splitting roar. They almost mobbed Monte before he had a chance to struggle to the dugout.

All told, twenty-nine men faced him. Two walked, seven struck out. It was his thirteenth victory of the year, and tenth in a row, against only five defeats. It was the first no-hitter for a Yankee pitcher since Sam Jones in 1923.

Opener Proves Thriller

After days of endless "big innings," which blast all semblance of competition out of the Yankees' daily fare for their constituents, the opener provided a thriller such as the Stadium has not seen in a long time. In fact, there were times during the closing rounds in which the crowd seemed to believe the pennant itself hung in the balance on every play as the Yanks twice overhauled their rivals before they finally won.

It started off as a pitching duel between Bump Hadley and the left-handed Al Milnar, with the Cleveland southpaw gaining a two-run jump in the fifth when Odell Hale banged a homer into the left-field stand behind Yytlak's single. In the sixth, the Tribe widened the margin by another tally on Averill's fourteenth homer of the year that landed in the right-field runway.

But in the same round the Yanks began to bestir themselves. With Red Rolfe on first, DiMaggio unfurled the first of his three triples, a tremendous clout in front of the left-field bleachers. That scored Rolfe and ended Milnar's dream of a shutout.

The next round saw Milnar handled even more roughly as the Yanks ripped off three runs on a trio of singles by Myril Hoag, Gordon and Red Ruffing, the latter pinch-hitting for Hadley, and a misplay by Hale. And in the eighth DiMaggio's second triple, with a little more distance to it than the first, ran the Yankee lead up o 5—3.

Two Errors by Gordon

But Johnny Murphy, who had replaced Hadley in the eighth, suddenly ran into an unexpected squall in the ninth. Two singles, two errors by Gordon and a pinch-hit triple by Solters sent four Indian runs across and it required the help of Ivy Paul Andrews to bring the uprising to an end with the tribe again two in front.

Little did Andrews suspect that in the next few minutes he would be rewarded as the winning pitcher.

With Dennis Galehouse now on the mound, Joe Glenn who, with Bill Dickey again nursing an ailing leg, did all the day's catching, singled. The fiery Allen replaced Galehouse at once and retired Dickey, who came up as a pinch hitter, and also Frankie Crosetti. But Rolfe and Henrich singled to push one run in.

Then, in almost story-book fashion, DiMaggio sent another triple soaring over Averill's head in left center and the two runs this blow scored ended the struggle.

Aside from Pearson's pitching masterpiece, there was little else to the nightcap. Henrich's two home runs ran his total for the season to sixteen and Gordon's two brought the Falsh's mark to nineteen. Joe also hit a triple between his homers and Henrich a single.

Koyanagi Wins Springboard Diving Title

Patience and ambition rewarded Tomio Koyanagi of Waseda University Friday afternoon in the springboard diving competition of the national students aquatic championships at the Meiji Shrine pool. For he finally succeeded in beating Tsuneo Shibahara of Nihon University, the national champion who was good enough to place within the first six in the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936.

In the recent national open championships at the Koshien pool in the Kansai, Koyanagi led Shibahara in the compulsory dives but he faltered in one of the optional dives to lose. Friday, he was in superb form and excelled in all but one dive.

It must be said that Shibahara had suffered from having to train for the 50-meter freestyle event as well, which he was scheduled to enter today in the opening of the swimming competition. Thus it was that he was off form in his favorite optional lives.

Scoring 58.76 points in the compulsory dives and 88.12 points in the optional, Koyanagi clinched first place with 146.88 points.

Second was Shibahara with 137.56 points compulsory 56.69 points and optional 80.87 points.

Others placing were: third, Kitada (Keio) 112.06 points; fourth, Mori (Nihon) 108.68 points; fifth, Kamo (Waseda) 103.24 points; and sixth, Mori (Nihon) 98.17 points.

A total of 15 contestants competed.

The platform diving will be held on Sunday afternoon.

Noted Sumo Man Called To Colors

Kyushuzan (his real name is Yoshio Otsubo), one of the cleverest wrestlers Japanese style (sumo) in competition today, has been called to the colors and will report soon to the Army from his home prefecture of Fukushima.

The summons came to him while he was waiting for his bout Friday in the second day of the third annual 13-day tournament at the new bowl at Osaka. No sooner had he mounted the ring for his match against Tsurugamine than the announcement was made through the loudspeaker of the event. The spectators rose in a body and gave him three rousing cheers of Banzai. Kyushuzan responded by saying farewell to the fans, and then defeated his opponent with a favorite throw.

Kyushuzan, while he weighs only about 195 pounds, which is comparatively light for those long-haired wrestlers, has thrown Tamanishiki and other grand champions. Two seasons ago, he almost threw Grand Champion Futabayama, who has been undefeated the last three years.

"I am not so big and should be able to do my bit on the front," Kyushuzan said Friday.

He is the fourth born of five brothers and comes from a soldier family. His immediate elder brother died in gallant action during the Shanghai Incident. The youngest brother is with the Army now in North Manchuria. And the first two sons saw service in the Manchurian Incident.

British Racer Sets New Automobile Speed Mark In U.S.

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 15—Rearing over the smooth dry surface of the Bonneville salt flats at an average speed of 350.2 miles an hour, John Cobb, of England, driving a shark-shaped, super-powered "Railton," today eclipsed the world's automobile speed record which was established here last month by his countryman, Captain George Eyston.

The former mark of 345.49 miles per hour, was set by Captain Eyston in his 24-cylinder racer, "Thunderbolt." Captain Eyston, it was revealed, will attempt tomorrow to lower the mark which was set today.

Hitler Jugend Squad Beaten At Handball

The visiting Hitler Jugend's handball team, its members playing together for the first time, went down to a 19 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Japan Physical College, national students champions, in an exhibition game played Friday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

The score at the end of the first half was 10 to 3 in favor of the Japanese squad.

N. China Basketball Team Coming Here

A North China all-star basketball team will leave Peking on October 15 for a number of goodwill contests in Japan. The squad will be comprised of 12 players selected from universities in Peking and Tientsin.

Arriving in Japan, the team will play at Osaka, Kyoto, Nagoya, Tokyo and Sendai, and then go to Chosen and Manchoukuo for games before returning to Peking on November 10.

Terry Searching For New Players In 1939 Season

By ANTHONY PUGLIESE

NEW YORK.—Although still intent upon keeping his Giants fighting right down to the wire, Manager Bill Terry already is planning to bolster his National League entry for next season.

Terry, since taking over the Giant's reins at the passing of the late John McGraw, has been remarkable in his ability to get from a mediocre combination of players, million dollar performances. In five years, he has come up with three pennants and finished second and third once.

Tight Baseball Won

Through the past two campaigns, Terry's Giants copped the pennants mainly through brilliant pitching, backed up by air-tight defensive play. The potency of some of the Giants' rivals was not there, but tight baseball, featured by the hit-and-run enabled the stellar fingers to protect a slim lead.

Came 1938, and Terry ordered his men to hit for distance and go after "big innings" rather than squeeze out tight victories. The scheme worked well while Hank Leiber, Mel Ott and some of the other lads were slapping the ball.

But then injuries occurred, starting with the loss of second baseman Burgess Whitehead, who failed to respond to treatment after an operation and later suffered a nervous breakdown. Leiber came up with a chronic charley horse, Joe Moore suffered a twisted ankle, and to top it all, the pitching staff, hitherto virtually invincible, came apart at the seams.

As the pitching folded, so did the defensive play. Or was it the loose fielding which placed a terrific burden on the moundsmen. At any rate, the second base spot left unsettled by Whitehead's absence saw the futile parade of Blondy Ryan, Lou Chiozza, Alex Kampouris and Bill Cissell. Cissell alone showed ability to team well with Dick Bartell and Johnny McCarthy in the double killing trade.

It all adds up to this: Terry needs a catcher, two pitchers who can last the route, a second baseman if Whitehead can't come back, a third baseman and at least one outfielder. When he gets a capable performer in each of these positions, he'll have a club capable of sweeping the league.

Cash Available

Owner Horace Stoneham is not averse to loosening the bindings of his billfold in order to strengthen the Giants. For a winning club at the Polo Grounds nets fine dividends in paid admissions. He is reported ready to spend about $250,000 on new material for the Giants.

McCarthy at first has been anything but the flashy youngster Terry hoped for, one of his chief faults being his inability to bat within 40 points of the traditional .300 class. Bartell, at short, seems headed for another fine season.

The third base spot, filled temporarily at least by Rookie George Myatt, of California by way of Jersey City, may prove embarrassing to the Giants.

Mel Ott definitely is not a third sacker. He will patrol the right field sector where he gained his reputation as a brilliant diamond luminary. Leiber is a streaky center fielder and Joe Moore in left is the only other mainstay of the Giants outfielders.

Carl Hubbell, the screwball flinger, was the mainstay of the Giants' mound staff through all the turmoil and instability. But he also has been lost now because of an arm operation. When he will return is problematical.

Cliff Melton, Clyde Castleman and Hal Schumacher will have to assume the pitching chores if the Giants are to prosper. But even at that, Terry could use two starting pitchers who could go the route.

Behind the plate, Harry Danning needs help, as Gus Mancuso will be a year older and a year slower. Terry thinks he has in young George Krause, a catcher with major league potentialities. But it remains to be seen how Krause will perform under fire.

Bromwich, Mako In Semi-Finals Of U.S. Singles

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 15—John Bromwich, Australia's ambidextrous star who is seeded No. 1 among the foreign entries, and Gene Mako, Donald Budge's Davis Cup doubles partner, today advanced to the semi-final round of the National singles championships now being played at the Westside Club courts here.

The Australian star, who has played consistently good tennis throughout the tourney, triumphed over the young American player, Joe Hunt, in four sets. After taking the first set 6-1, Bromwich dropped the second 9-11. Coming back strong, the Australian swept through the last two sets 6-3, 6-4.

Mako, meanwhile, encountered stiff oppsition from Gilbert Hunt who on Monday scored an upset by eliminating Bobby Riggs, rated second only to Budge among the American entries. The scores were 7-5, 1-6, 8-6, 6-0.

In the women's division, Miss Dorothy Bundy of the United States pulled a surprise by defeating the veteran French star, Mrs. Rene Mathieu in three sets, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0. In another match, Miss Nancy Wynne, of Australia, defeated Miss Margot Lumb, of England, 6-4, 5-7, 6-1.

Professional Football Gains In Popularity

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK.—There was a time when the critics in the press box were prone to laugh off professional football as a temporary fad like the current epidemic of shagging and other such nonsense, but by now even the pennant-waving, coonskin-wrapped middle-aged sophomore who once went to college admits the hired hands of the gridiron are here to stay.

What's more they look forward now to one of their greatest seasons as a result of the shot in the arm the game received last year through a number of fortituous circumstances, including the introduction to the professional fans of Sammy Baugh and his astounding pass-throwing. He broke records in his first year with the Washington eleven and put on such a show generally that he will be a magnet all during the coming campaign.

However, it is a good game on its own and the Baughs, and Nagurskis and the Strongs only make it better.

The customers have been finding out for a number of years that the hired hands give their all just as the collegians do, and, in addition, inject some circusy stuff of one kind or another that always goes over big. For one thing, the professional game is a more open game and the action often is flashier. Moreover, every man on every professional team is there because he represents the nearest thing to pure excellence obtainable. He has been combed off some campus and not only is good, but durable as well.

For every Clint Frank who passes up a crack at professional football, there are two or three outstanding performers captured. Some of them you never heard of until they started playing for a weekly pay-day. They may be from some little fresh-water educational joint in the deep south, or midwest or far west, but the professionals track them down and bring them in for an eventual unveiling.

The professionals, in fact, are making their game so attractive from a financial standpoint that a collegian can hardly afford to pass up a contract, if he is any good at all. Naturally, all of them do not get salaries that run up into telephone numbers, but a few do and all of them are well taken care of on the payroll and the hours are good. In fact, they don't have to work much harder than they did in college, they are not harrassed by unreasonable demands that show academic intelligence through laborious sessions in class rooms and the wages are much better.

This is not to say that professional football is any better than college football. They are two separate and distinct games. The professionals couldn't hope to divorce a collegian from the whoopie of homecoming, nor lesson his allegiance to the team he has followed through all the years. And the youthful potential gridiron hero will always be out there following the college game, which stands alone among all sports for the amount of emotion it will stir up on any given Saturday afternoon.

But the professionals have something to sell, too, and they keep on improving their merchandise with the result most obvious at the box offices. They expect to break all previous attendance records on during the coming season.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"- by Ripley

Will Rogers Shrine

On the side of famous Cheyenne Mountain, which rises abruptly above Broadmoore and Colorado Springs, Colorado, the western empire-builder Spencer Penrose discovered a huge pink granite boulder, and when he decided to build the shrine in memory of his dear friend, Will Rogers, Mr. Penrose ordered it to be constructed from this one rock. For more than a solid year, workmen toiled to give this one piece of stone the stately beauty of a feudal castle with a 100-foot tower—6500 cubic yards of granite. The tower contains busts, paintings and personal effects of the beloved humorist, the walls replete with portrait history of the west.

Wakefield Wins Motor Racing At Brooklands

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 29—J. P. Wakefield, driving his new E.R.A., won the Junior Car Club's 200-Mile Race at Brooklands on Saturday at a speed of 70.97 m.p.h. for 88 laps of the Campbell road-circuit. B. Bira was second, his 3-liter Maserati finishing 34sec. behind the winner. Lord Howe, driving his E.R.A. as a member of the official team of this make, was third at a speed of 68.70 m.p.h.

Twenty-six cars lined up on the starting-grid, their positions being determined by their fastest laps recorded in the official practicing periods before the race. R. Mays (E.R.A.), B. Bira (Maserati), C. S. Staniland (Multi-Union), and W. E. Cotton (E.R.A.) were in the front row. The cars made an impressive sight as they accelerated up the straight and swung round the Test Hill Bend with Bira's blue Maserati at their head. The Siamese driver was still leading at the end of the first lap, but the two E.R.A.s driven by Mays and Dobson were only a few lengths behind. Staniland limped into the pits and retired with transmission trouble.

Fifteen minutes later Mays dropped out of the running to change a defective plug. He continued for another quarter of an hour, when his scavenger pump failed and forced him to retire. Dobson now took up the chase of the Maserati, while Wakefield passed Cotton and Tongue in their E.R.A.s to take third place. But this order was not to be maintained for long, Dobson being the next to draw into the pits for a complete change of plugs. The misfiring grew worse, however, and a few laps later a broken piston caused him to retire with a spray of steam and oil pouring from the engine of his E.R.A. Hanson (Maserati) and Brooke (Brooke Special) also retired from the race, while numerous competitors were calling at the pits for a variety of adjustments and replenishments. J. H. T. Smith caused some excitement by skidding round to a standstill at the Test Hill Bend, fortunately without barking any other driver.

The Lead Lost

Bira continued to forge steadily ahead, and after 30 laps he was 1 minute 46 seconds ahead of Wakefield, who in turn led Tongue by 19 seconds. Three more retirements, those of I. F. Connell (E.R.A.), W. E. Cotton (E.R.A.), and Lord Avebury (Alta) were announced, and then, after 1 hour 20 minutes running, the leader pulled into the pits for a change of all plugs and two rear wheels, and replenishments of petrol, oil, and water. These operations were not carried out quite as expeditiously as they might have been, taking 2½ minutes to complete, and by the time the Maserati moved off once more both Wakefield and Tongue had passed to take first and second places. After repeated pit-stops for attempts to cure a leaking radiator A. H. Beadle had to withdraw the 2-liter Alta of which much had been expected. G. E. Abecassis also retired with a stripped supercharger drive on his 1½-liter car of the same make, so that the Alta challenge in the race was now completely eliminated. The Hon. P. Aitken's Maserati broke a piston, and the pits were kept busy by frequent calls from other competitors.

Bira regained a place when Tongue stopped for fuel, a change of front wheels, and a brake adjustment, but the Siamese driver was still 1 minute 12 seconds behind Wakefield after 60 of the 88 laps had been completed. However, his case was not entirely hopeless, for there was every possibility of his being able to catch the E.R.A. driver when the latter stopped for fuel. Then the Maserati began to lose its concert pitch, the engine misfiring slightly and the brakes gradually weakening. Instead of decreasing, the gap between Wakefield and Bira began to lengthen, so that after 70 laps the E.R.A. was 1 minute 24 seconds ahead of its rival. Bira stopped at his pit for a rapid consultation, but it was wisely decided that he should continue as best he could in an endeavor to retain second place, as there was always the chance that Wakefield's E.R.A. might develop trouble. All eyes were now on the latter's pit, and at last the signal was given for the leader to come in on the next lap. Fifteen gallons of fuel were poured into the petrol tank, a hasty glance given to the tyres, and in 20 seconds Wakefield was away again, without having lost the lead.

Locked Brakes

While this was occupying the crowd's attention, an incident occurred at the Fork Bend when the brakes of Tongue's E.R.A. became locked. The driver retained control of his skidding car, but a mechanic had to run from the pits to remedy the trouble and by that time Lord Howe (E.R.A.) and B. D. Evans (Alfa-Romeo) passed to take third and fourth places. Then the remaining car of the E.R.A. team began to splutter when accelerating away from corners, and it seemed that yet another change in the possession of third place might be seen before the end of the race. Lord Howe stopped at the pits, but only for a few gallons of fuel, and was away in 11 seconds without losing much of his advantage over the Alfa-Romeo.

Two more retirements were recorded, A. C. Lace's big Darracq blowing its cylinder-head gasket and I. H. Nickols' M.G. suffering a seized ball-race in one of the front wheels, and the last few laps of the race passed without further incident. There was some speculation as to whether Wakefield's tyres would last out, for a stop to change even one wheel would seriously have jeopardized his position, but they stood the strain well. Two hours 48 minutes, 37 seconds after the start the chequered flag was waved to indicate that J. P. Wakefield had won the eleventh 200 Miles Race at a speed of 70.97 m.p.h. Of the other finishers, Bira must have regretted his decision to run the Maserati instead of his E.R.A., which has shown itself capable of covering 200 miles without a stop for fuel. Lord Howe thoroughly deserved his third place, having driven with characteristic accuracy and polish throughout the race. The same could be said for the fourth man, K. D. Evans, who had only made one brief stop to adjust a brake. The winners of the class awards were Bira, Wakefield, and Cuddon-Fletcher (M.G.), and altogether 12 cars finished out of the 26 starters.

The results were:—

J. P. Wakefield (E.R.A. 1,488c.c.), 88 laps in 2hr. 48min. 37sec., speed 70.97 m.p.h., 1; B. Bira (Maserati 2,992c.c.), 2hr. 49 min. 11sec., 70.63 m.p.h., 2; Lord Howe (E.R.A. 1,488c.c.), 2hr. 50min. 16sec., 68.70 m.p.h., 3; K. D. Evans (Alfa-Romeo 2,905c.c.), 85 laps at 68.35 m.p.h., 4; R. E. Tongue (E.R.A. 1,488c.c.), 83 laps at 66.52 m.p.h., 5; P. W. Maclure (Riley 1,987c.c.), 83 laps at 66.30 m.p.h., 6; A. R. P. Rolt (E.R.A. 1,488c.c.), 82 laps at 65.99 m.p.h., 7; A. Cuddon-Fletcher (M.G. 1,087c.c.), 82 laps at 65.92 m.p.h., 8; N. G. Wilson (E.R.A. 1,090c.c.), 81 laps at 65.16 m.p.h., 9; J. H. T. Smith (M.G. 1,087c.c.), 80 laps at 64.52 m.p.h., 10; M. D. Woolley and P. R. Monkhouse (M.G. 1,087c.c.), 79 laps at 63.62 m.p.h., 11; E. K. Rayson (Maserati 1,496c.c.), 78 laps 12.

Class Winners.—Over 1,500c.c.—B. Bira (Maserati). Up to 1,500c.c.—J. P. Wakefield (E.R.A.). Up to 1,100c.c.—A. Cuddon-Fletcher (M.G.).

Won Laurels In Europe

Hamuro, Amano And Two Others Going To Manila

Tetsuo Hamuro, the world's best breaststroke swimmer today, Tomikatsu Amano, who recently smashed Arne Borg's 11-year standing record in the 1,500-meter race, and two other stars of Nihon University will definitely compete in the Philippine sports carnival at Manila next January.

This was decided Wednesday afternoon when the Japan Swimming Federation formally sanctioned the invitation received by Nihon University recently from Dr. Regino Ylanan, honorary executive secretary of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation.

The two other swimmers are Takeshi Sasaki, who is second only to Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo University in the freestyle sprints, and Toshihiro Taniguchi, one of the best backstrokers in the country.

The swimmers will accompany the Japanese amateur boxing and wrestling teams leaving Kobe on December 17.

Phils' 5 In Fifth Down Pirates, 6-4

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26—The Phils walloped the wobbling Pirates for the third straight time today, 6 to 4, clustering five runs in the fifth inning to come from behind.

Lefty Al Smith, who like Bill Hallahan yesterday had not won a game all season, handcuffed the jittery Pirate hitters and limited them to seven safe blows.

Paul Waner Triples

The National League leaders collected four of these, including Paul Waner's triple and Pitcher Jim Tobin's double, in the first two innings for three runs. But the Phillies chased Tobin with their barrage in the fifth and Pittsburgh never threatened thereafter.

The entire visiting team went to the plate in the big fifth inning, making the five runs on a combination of five singles, an error and a sacrifice.

Gil Brack's triple off Mace Brown scored the Phillies final run in the eighth and the Pirates made a parting gesture in the same frame—Arky Vaughan scoring from second when the Philadelphia infield let Pep Young's pop-up drop untouched between second and third.

Dickshot in Left Field

Pittsburgh played with John Dickshot in left field and Bill Brubaker at third, but afterward Manager Pie Traynor said he intended to put Johnny Rizzo back into the outfield tomorrow and probably would return Lee Handley to the hot corner "in a day or two."

Thanks to the Cardinals, the Pirates maintained their four and one-half game margin over the second-place New York Giants, who lost to St. Louis. The Cubs, beating Brooklyn, gained a game, now standing five and one-half behind Pittsburgh, while Cincinnati, losing to Boston, remained six and one-half in the rear.

Peruvian Soccer Team May Be Asked To Play In Japan

A home and home series between Japanese and Peruvian soccer teams may be arranged in the near future.

The possibility for such competition was freely discussed at a Peruvian-Japanese goodwill roundtable discussion sponsored Thursday by the Kokusai Bunka Shinkokai (Society for International Cultural Relations).

From the Peruvian side, it was said that the soccer teams from Peru have made creditable showings in past Olympic Games, and this would be the only sport in which the Peruvians could give the Japanese fair competition, and negotiations could probably be made for games. The reply was that it would be impossible to send a Japanese team to Peru at this time, because of the Sino-Japanese situation, but that there should be no trouble in inviting a team from Peru to Japan.

Pirates Tumble Giants, 7 To 6, Increasing Lead

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26—A notable experiment born of the desperate pitching situation which surrounds the Giants went awry at Sportsman's Park today and the Terrymen lost a glowing chance to gain on the faltering Pirates.

With no other course open to him, Colonel Bill Terry sent Harry Gumbert against the rollicking Cards with only two days' rest. But he reckoned without the fleet-footed mite, Don Gutteridge, and lost the game. The count was 7 to 6, a triple by Gutteridge deciding the battle with two down and Johnny Mize on base in the ninth.

As a consequence the Giants remain four and one-half games back of the Pirates despite the beating the Traynor band took from the Phils today. Causing more alarm in the Giant camp is the fact the club is but a length ahead of the Cubs, who conquered the Dodgers again and charged into third place, a game ahead of the tottering Reds.

The Cards moved into a tie with the Dodgers for sixth place.

Batted Four Runs Across

Gutteridge was a headache out of all proportion to his modest stature. He hit only for extra bases, and every time his bat spoke it meant enemy runs until he had propelled home four.

In the fourth inning the Cards' flash smacked a double that projected the Frisch clan to the lead after the Giants had come even at 1-all with a run in their third. Bouncing back into the picture, Gutteridge, in the fifth, faced Gumbert again, this time with two aboard, and proceeded to larrup a triple that put the Cards four runs to the good.

This blow influenced the withdrawal of Gumbert for a pinch-hitter in the sixth. So that it was against the overworking Duck Coffman, in there on his forty-second relief call this year, that Gutteridge smacked his most painful blow.

Timely Blow by Leiber

The Giants had pulled even in a riotous sixth which saw Hank Leiber's pinch single keep alive a rally that ended with Jo-Jo Moore's ninth homer, a screaming blow atop the center-field bleacher roof with two aboard. When George Myatt scratched a single Manager Frankie Frisch unceremoniously yanked the left-handed Clyde Shoun, bringing the equally left-handed Mix Macon on the scene to end the assault.

Away the Cards went again in their half of the sixth when Coffman ran head-on into difficulties. Macon scratched a single with one out. Terry Moore exploded a double, forcing Coffman intentionally to pass Stu Martin, filling the bases. On Don Padgett's long fly Macon galloped home, breaking the tie score, which was promptly knotted again in the seventh when Bob Seeds exploded his eighth homer into the left-field bleachers.

This blow carried the teams along deadlocked until the ninth, when Coffman again had trouble. With two out he walked Mize on four pitches. And on his first pitch to Gutteridge, Don lambasted a triple to the center-field wall which saw Seeds take a header trying to corral the ball while Mize galloped home with the winning run.

Stormy Day for Umpires

The umpires had a trying day, as usual. Charley Moran, working his fourth straight game behind the plate, got it intermittently from the Cards' bench.

The ailing George Magerkurth, however, faced a massed verbal assault from the Giant bench in the seventh when he called Ott out on a close play at first.

Old "Maje" forthwith ordered the bench cleared of all non-players—but he tempered his decision. He banished the exiles only to the obscurity of the under-stand runway, giving Boss Terry permission to call on his reserves when he needed them.

As if there weren't enough casualties among the Giants, Bartell came up with a spur on his right elbow today. But he'll play right on, waiting until the season is over to give the complaint medical attention.

Otsu Is Beaten, Fouls Tsuruta In 8th Round

Shoichi Otsu of the Kyokuto Boxing Club, recognized bantamweight champion of Japan, disappointed his backers Wednesday night at the Kokusai Gekijo by being in poor physical condition and losing to Tadatsune Tsuruta of the Fuji Boxing Club by a foul in the eighth round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

The title was not at stake. For that matter, there really is no legitimate champion in this country, with the absence of a boxing commission. Championships are ballyhooed by the different promoters for crowd attracting purposes.

It must be said that Tsuruta too was in no physical shape to perform in a 15-rounder. He weathered through Otsu's wild swinging windmill attack and began scoring with a left and right offensive to the head and body. Otsu was in a bad way as early as the seventh round but Tsuruta lacked the punch to put him away.

The sluggish bout came to a halt in the eighth when a right uppercut by Otsu landed below the belt and he was declared the loser on a foul, an unsatisfactory climax so far as the fans were concerned.

Otsu weighed in at 115 pounds and Tsuruta at 116 pounds.

In the other 15-rounder scheduled for the evening, Motoshige Murata of the Fuji Boxing Club knocked out Tatsuo Kaneko reputed best of the welterweights in the Kansai, early in the second round. A right to the solar plexus turned the trick.

Kaneko did well in the first round, scoring with a two-fisted attack and proving much the faster of the two. He took the round by a wide margin but after one minute of sparring in the second round, he missed with a left hook and Murata landed his haymaker to the belly.

Murata weighed in at 146 pounds and Kaneko at 145 pounds.

England Beats Australia In Final Test Match Of The Present Series

London Times

LONDON, Aug. 25—England beat Australia in the last Test Match of the present series at the Oval yesterday by an innings and 579 runs, the end coming at 20 minutes to 4 on the fourth day. That the game came to so abrupt a conclusion after elaborate arrangements had been made for its continuance, irrespective of time, was largely due to the fact that Australia when their turn came to bat were without D. Bradman.

This implies no lack of appreciation of the share which Hutton and others had played in building up England's enormous total of 903; nor does it overlook the splendid bowling of Bowes and of K. Farnes, but it is a plain statement of fact that this Australian team bereft of Bradman is a very ordinary batting side, bearing but a feeble resemblance to recent Australian teams which contained such players as W. M. Woodfull and W. H. Ponsford.

Had Bradman and Fingleton been able to bat there is no knowing how many runs Australia would have made, or how long the game would have lasted, although it was admitted generally that England, having won the toss and having made full use of a perfect wicket, had already won the match. No praise could be too high for the manner in which W. J. O'Reilly, who confirmed his claim to be regarded as the best bowler in the world, and L. O. B. Fleetwood-Smith, had toiled away while England's score grew and grew, and it is certain that none of the Australian teams of the past could have fielded with greater enthusiasm and accuracy.

A Heaven-Sent Chance

England, for their part, took the heaven-sent chance they were offered, and if they were able to do no more than draw the rubber they supported the contention that this season they have been able to field a team capable of better things than the record of the Leeds match had suggested. Regarded from a more general point of view, it was almost universally agreed that the play in the early stages of this match, when the quality of the cricket was subordinated to the quantity of runs scored, was a severe condemnation of that spurious form of the game known as a time-limitless Test Match.

There was a feeling of unreality when play was begun in the morning, akin to a performance of Hamlet without the Prince. Had Bradman been there Australia would still have been struggling against the inevitable, but at least their death agony would have been relieved by a gay and gallant challenge to fate. During that long, and sometimes wearisome, period when England were amassing a score which might have run into four figures but for the merciful decision of their captain to declare the innings closed, Bradman's fielding and his continual liveliness of spirit were a reminder that even a time-limitless Test Match can provide its measure of enjoyment. His unhappy injury not only denuded the game of all meaning that it had ever possessed, but it robbed us of an opportunity of admiring the greatest of living batsmen in conditions in which he assuredly would have given of his best and most brilliant.

The absence of Fingleton rubbed in the hopeless handicap under which Australia were labouring for he could have been relied upon to give some stability to a side which was beginning to bear the appearance of a clock when a small boy has begun to pull its inside to pieces.

Yorkshire's Match

The score in the morning stood at 117 for three wickets with Brown and Barnes facing Farnes and Bowes, and it was not long before Barnes was surprised by the pace of a ball from Farnes which flew off his bat only just short of second slip's feet. Brown batted in the manner expected of an Australian, apparently unconcerned by the horror of the situation, taking his runs easily and placidly whenever the occasion came his way to put the ball here and there with an ease which showed that at least there was nothing to fear in the state of the pitch.

The score had been taken to 145 before Barnes chopped a ball from Bowes on to his wicket, and in the same over, with only two runs added, Barnett was out to a good catch by Wood, who kept wicket as well for England as he habitually does for Yorkshire—and there could be no higher praise. Waite, as soon as he had arrived, hit one of Bowes' slower balls straight for 4, and he banged another of more normal pace away to the square-leg boundary. That was the limit of his contribution, for in trying to force a ball of good length away to leg he was bowled.

When O'Reilly was caught at the wicket, waving his bat for no particular purpose, seven wickets were down for 160 runs. With Fleetwood-Smith staying in long enough Brown, the excellence of whose batting seemed wasted in so drab a setting, found time to drive Edrich away to long on and to cut a no-ball to the boundary past deep third man.

Sound Judgment

There was an unusual occurrence when Hutton, with the intention perhaps that Fleetwood-Smith should receive the first ball of the next over, helped a stroke by Brown on to the boundary with his foot. The umpire, however, acting according to the instructions issued by the M.C.C., which say that "the runs which have been arranged for a boundary hit are to be added to the runs already made should a fieldsman wilfully cause the ball to reach the boundary," signalled five runs, and Brown gained the bowling. Fleetwood-Smith in the meantime had driven a ball over the bowler's head with a gloriously cross bat, and he had hooked another away to deep square-leg, an affair so serious that Leyland was put on to bowl.

Hammond, too, came on to be hit to leg by Fleetwood-Smith, who was playing one of the longest and most prolific innings of his career. The eighth, and last, wicket fell when Hammond, fielding at leg slip, held a catch at the second attempt from a sweep to leg by Brown.

Australia accordingly went in again soon after 1 o'clock 702 runs behind. This time the runs came fairly freely from the first few overs, Badcock once making a beautiful off-drive off Bowes before his leg stump was sent hurtling out of the ground. In the very next over McCabe, flourishing his bat in a manner significant of what the batsman thought of the state of affairs, was caught at the wicket, and at the luncheon interval, with the score at 31 for two wickets, it was no more than a question of time before the game was over.

The spectators had no sooner swallowed their sandwiches and regained their seats before Hasset was leg-before wicket to Bowes, and a few minutes afterwards Brown was caught at short leg. Barnett, declining to surrender his wicket before he had gained some reward for putting on his pads, hit two balls in succession from Farnes with a glorious thump to the square-leg boundary. With Verity on at one end Hammond bethought himself of trying Leyland as a left-handed bowler of a different variety at the other. Barnes at once driving him past cover-point for 4. When Farnes came on again Barnes cut him square to the boundary, and Barnett with a true left-hander's off-drive and a deflection to leg showed that even if Australia were to be beaten there would at least be one stand made against England's bowlers.

The End

Verity continued bowling at one end, which accordingly remained, if not closed, at least ajar, in so far as scoring was concerned, and he took the next wicket when Barnes, attempting a little too much in trying to hit the ball among the trams, was leg-before-wicket. Waite was out first ball, caught at silly point, and two runs later Barnet had one of his stumps uprooted by Farnes. O'Reilly treated himself to two full blows off Verity into the deep field, from the second of which he should have been caught.

It was the custom when the last man was in and a catch was offered in the deep to Denton ,to remove the balls without watching the ball fall to rest in his certain hands. Wood, considering that Hardstaff was equally reliable, pulled up the stumps to keep as a souvenir of a pleasant engagement at the Oval, but Hardstaff dropped the catch, and Chester had to replace the stumps. Not for long, however, as Fleetwood-Smith gave a catch to mid-on which was held, and the crowd were free to pour across the ground to pay the conventional compliments to Englishmen and Australians alike. It was certainly a decisive victory, which would have been all the more satisfactory had the score card not borne those unkind words "absent hurt."

Waseda Is Favored To Defeat Teidai; Rikkyo Plays Hosei

Waseda University is a heavy favorite to make it two straight over Tokyo Imperial (Teidai) in their Fall series of the Tokyo Six University league Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium. With two victories already over Rikkyo, Waseda is determined to unseat Meiji as league champions.

Waseda, however, may find the Teidai team troublesome if the latter's pitcher Keikichi Yutani, is in form. He checked Meiji to one hit in their scoreless draw in the league's opening doubleheader on September 10.

It's a tossup between Hosei and Rikkyo in the other part of the doubleheaders on Saturday and Sunday.

Tokyo To Request Helsinki To Stage Basketball Series

The movement started by the French Basketball Association to have basketball included in the program at the 12th Olympic Games in Helsinki in 1940 will be supported by the All-Japan Basketball Association.

Pointing out that some 30 countries had already indicated their intentions of competing in this sport at the originally scheduled 1940 Games in Tokyo, the association will urge the Helsinki Olympic Organizing Committee to list basketball on the official program, in a letter to be sent shortly.

Basketball was selected officially on the Olympic program for the first in 1936 at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin.

'Peace At Any Price'

Umpire "Beans" Reardon, determined to have "peace at any price" in the Polo Grounds recently, steps between a punch-tossing festival put on by Atwood, of the Phillies and Bartell of the Giants and promptly gets slugged in the midriff. That's Atwood, left, doing the slugging while Bartell, his gloved-hand clenched is the "dont-hold-me-back, let-me-at-him" gent. Reardon, instead of declaring sanctions on the warring factions, permitted them both to remain in the game. The third base fracas however, instead of drawing glee from the fans, brought nothing but boos and nasty Bronx-born, Brooklyn-fostered, noises.

Garden, 20th Century Club Agree To Do Joint Promotion Of Boxing

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The breach that once existed between Mike Jacobs and the Madison Square Garden Corporation, a breach which attained its widest point in June, 1937, when the Garden attempt to prevent the then heavyweight champion of the world, James J. Braddock, from defending his title under Jacobs' promotion, was completely closed yesterday.

Colonel John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Garden corporation, and Jacobs, who is the head of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, arrived at an agreement yesterday by which both groups would promote boxing enterprises jointly for a period of four years. The compact, to which Colonel Kilpatrick referred as a "landlord-tenant" agreement, will call for the Garden and the Twentieth Century organizations to share equally in all boxing promotions wherever they may take place.

Favorable for Garden

With Jacobs having a personal hold on such fistic magnets as Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong, the agreement would seem to be a most favorable one for the Garden, for the Eighth Avenue corporation will share in the profits of any boxing enterprise Jacobs may undertake to stage anywhere in the United States, or in the world, for that matter, not to mention the New York baseball parks and the Madison Square Garden Bowl in Long Island City.

The tie-up virtually puts the control of major boxing in the hands of Jacobs and Kilpatrick. For Jacobs has the fighters, and Kilpatrick, through the Garden's connections, has the control of sites for big boxing events. Aligned with the Garden are the interests owned by James Norris, who controls the Chicago Stadium, the Detroit Olympia, the Philadelphia Arena and the Duquesne Gardens in Pittsburgh, among others.

Statement by Kilpatrick

In commenting on the entente, which will terminate on May 31, 1942, Colonel Kilpatrick released the following statement:

"On behalf of the board of directors of Madison Square Garden, I wish to congratulate Mr. Jacobs and his staff on the able manner in which professional boxing was conducted in Madison Square Garden last year. The standard of bouts presented was high, and this fact, accepted by the general public, has resulted in excellent attendance and support.

"We anticipate with confidence and assurance that the next four years with Mike Jacobs will see boxing at a new high from a sports and financial standpoint."

The agreement is retroactive, dating from the Garden boxing program of Wednesday night, which brought a net profit of $1,200.

Dodgers Dig Way Toward National Loop Basement

By ROSCOE McGOWEN

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—With the newly ambitious Cubs giving them many a helpful push, the Dodgers today continued diligently to dig their way toward the National League basement. Before a ladies' day crowd of nearly 33,000, they dropped their third straight to the Bruins, 7-3, and ran their losing streak to six games.

For the second consecutive time the Hartnett hammerers came from behind to win, although the distance wasn't so great as yesterday's, as the Dodgers had counted only one run before the big explosion came. The triumph gave the Cubs undisputed possession of third place.

Bill Posedel had blanked the Cubs with two singles, one of them extremely scratchy, when he faced Ken O'Dea to start the fifth. Ken made the first hit and the final out of the frame and in between six runs crossed the plate—some on Bruin batting and others on Brooklyn booting.

Lavagetto's Miscue Costly

Rip Collins followed O'Dea's blow with another single and Cookie Lavagetto fumbled Bryant's grounder to let in the tying run. Bill Jurges bunted and the bases were filled when Posedel tried to make the play at third and Cookie couldn't get back in time. Strangely, this was scored as a hit. Then Billy Herman singled two runs home, Stan Hack drove in another and the first out came as Rosen's throw cut down Herman at third.

A roaring three-bagger to right center by Augie Galan scored Hack with the fifth run and sent the unhappy Posedel away. Tot Pressnell came in and passed Carl Reynolds, the Augie dashed home with the sixth tally after Johnny Hudson made a spectacular catch of Phil Cavarretta's foul. Hudson's throw home was a little wide, but Phelps made no attempt at tagging Galan.

In the next inning Clay Bryant, who breezed through to his twelfth triumph, added the seventh counter with a long blast into the left field bleachers for a homer.

Rosen Triples, Then Scores

Rosen carried home the first run of the game in the opening frame on his triple to left center and Hudson's single to left. Bryant stopped the Dodgers cold—which was in accord with the weather—until the seventh, when doubles by Lavagetto and Pressnell brought another marker. Tot's blow just missed being a home run into the left-field stands.

Dolf Camilli walked in the eighth and got around on Babe Phelps' infield out and Ernie Koy's single to center. Gilly Campbell delivered a pinch single for Pressnell in the ninth with one out, but Rosen filed out and Ki Cuyler, batting for Hudson, swung at a third strike.

Here's How For A Homer

Richard Arlen, famous movie star, (center) showing some Hollywood beauties the proper grip and stance to hit them in the game of softball, now one of the most popular sports in the United States.

Girls' Softball Games Outdraw Men's In U.S.

Editor's note: The following story written by Frank J. Taylor for the Collier's the game of softball should be of especial interest as two women's teams of California, including two girls of Japanese parentage, are tentatively scheduled to come to Japan for exhibition games.

Our hero, Marty Fielder, was filled with deep concern. Time after time he hoped we wouldn't form our notion of softball, the new national game, from this Monday-night spat between Slapsie Maxie's Curvacious Cuties and the Balian Ice Cream Beauties. Fine girls and peppy players, y'understand, and refreshing to the eye. But minor-leaguers on the way up.

Now, if we'd only hold off until Tuesday evening, there'd be a Hollywood league fracas to knock our eyes out. Bank of America Bankerettes versus Columbia Pictures Starlettes. "Tossing Tess" Dodenhoff on the mound against "Skipper" Jean Beck, who pitched two no-hit games in one week last September. Tuesday's game would be a battle to write a piece about.

"Softball's no sissy game, like some people think, because girls play it," admonished Mr. Fielder. "Take it from an old hard-ball player, this is real ball, the way these gals play it."

Now, since Marty Fielder is to softball what Flo Ziegfeld was to the stage, to wit, the glorifier of the American girl athlete, we said all right, we'd hold everything in the way of opinions until Tuesday night. Furthermore, we'd go over to the rival Loyola league's diamond and watch the Payneheat Amazons tie into Pat O'Brien's Shamrocks, the former being last year's Western champs and this year's runners-up to the Diamond Walnuts for the Western pennant.

From the way Mr. Fielder winced, we could see that mention of the rival league was a cruel blow. The Loyolas, it seems, play the game with a short infielder, the way they do in some Eastern cities. Being an old professional ballplayer, Mr. Fielder snorts, "That's not baseball. Why not add another and make it a football team?"

But Miss Ruby Sorber, who manages the female end of the Loyola softball league, replies, "It is so baseball." Ruby has been playing the game in southern California for a decade and ought to know, being organizer not only of the Payneheat Amazons but also of the pioneer San Gabriel Valley girls' baseball league.

Anyway, the Loyolas are affiliated in some way with the American Softball League, sponsored by George Sisler of major-league fame, while the Hollywoods, though still independent, lean toward the National League.

So there you are. Already, the new national game is riven by issues. The short infielder's right to be on the diamond to balance the shortstop is only one of them. The Joint Rules Committee decreed a sixty-foot base, and in the East the teams abide by the decision. Out West they cut the base lines to fifty feet, and place the pitcher's box only thirty-seven and a half feet from the home plate, to speed up the game. In the East, the girls have a special ball, thirteen inches in circumference. "That's sissy," the Western girls say, where they play with the regulation twelve-inch men's ball. In the East, softball is largely a twilight game. Out West and down South, where the twilight is about as long as a first basewoman's panties, it's a night game, played under the arc lights. In the East, the game is dominated by playground instructors. Out West, it is bossed by former ballplayers.

Fortunately, these and other differences don't keep some ten million softball enthusiasts away from the eight thousand miniature diamonds to be found in cities and towns all over the country. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Mexico to and including Canada, softball is packing them in, at admissions ranging from nothing at all up to thirty cents. In several cities, softball is outpulling baseball as a gate attraction.

One of these is Los Angeles and another is Chicago. It happens that Phil Wrigley owns ball clubs in both cities. By way of sizing up the new upstart, Matt Gallagher, who is Mr. Wrigley's right bower with the Los Angeles Club, conducted a careful survey of softball's growth in southern California.

The survey proved an eye-opener. Mr. Gallagher discovered no less than nine thousand softball clubs within a hundred miles of Wrigley Field. There were one hundred and two teams in Long Beach alone. He listed almost a thousand women's teams.

Some of these clubs played on corner lots, some on city playgrounds, others in commercial stadiums. Some represented towns, others churches or societies. The big bulk of them wore the emblems of industries.

With these facts before them, Mr. Wrigley and Mr. Gallagher concluded that in the long run softball might be just the shot in the arm needed to revive public interest in baseball. Which explains why Wrigley Field in Los Angeles is offered free each year for the windup double-headers to decide the championships in both the men's and women's softball leagues. These games draw as many as thirty thousand fans and the $7,000 gate goes to charity, as designated by the winners.

Mr. Fielder was playing up in Canada in the Michigan-Ontario League in 1925 when this softball idea nicked him, leaving a scar that never healed. Mr. Fielder can remember it to the moment. He and his teammates had whiffed through one of those no-hit quickie games before an empty stand of bleachers in an hour and twenty minutes. The gloomy third-sacker was walking back to the hotel when he came upon a vacant corner lot around which most of the town's citizens, young, old and canine, were crowded.

California Liked It

Muscling his way through the multitude to see what it was all about, Mr. Fielder discovered a softball game in progress between two Canadian girls' teams. With the vision of the empty stands in the ball park before him, he concluded then and there that when all the holes were punched in his baseball meal ticket, he'd try promoting a girls' softball league.

The more he mulled the idea, the better it looked. Some time slipped by, however, before he could try it out. He was down in west Texas, booking exhibitions for Jack Dempsey, when the urge overwhelmed him completely. Pausing for the moment in Lubbock, which spotted a huge dance hall, he rented the place and offered the natives their choice, female softball one night, male the next. The girls' games outdrew the men's two to one.

Before long Mr. Fielder had gathered enough dimes to build a twenty-thousand-dollar model softball plant on the outskirts of Hollywood. He was potentate of about amateur leagues, and the sports writers of the town, in recognition of his czardom over the game, had dubbed him "Colonel" Fielder. The scoffers at the idea of dime softball were by this time busily organizing their own leagues, and rival diamonds sprang up all over southern California.

The "sponsor" system proved such a lucky strike that before long emissaries from all over the country were vacationing in Los Angeles to study it at the feet of "the colonel." It, too, is sweeping the land. Banks, bakeries, restaurants, ice creameries, truck lines, industries and businesses of all sorts fall over themselves for the privilege of sponsoring lively, clicking teams of softball players. A good many sponsors are individuals to whom a team has no advertising value, but who burn with the yen to own a ball club. For a modest sum, ranging from a minimum of $600 to an outside of $1,500, a movie star, a businessman, or even a labor leader can "own" a club of girls like Benny Rubin's, Robins, or Pat O'Brien's Shamrocks.

From the start, girls' softball games have outpulled men's games as box-office attractions. Naturally, a lot of citizens jumped to the conclusion that it was the male spectators' lively interest in girls cavorting about in shorts that filled the stands. This notion blew up with a bang as soon as certain teams outclassed others. When the headliners met, the stands were jammed. When the cellar nines played, they were next to empty, although the girls were just as easy on the eyes as those in the major games.

The Babe Ruths and Joe DiMaggios of softball have their followers who pack the stands by the thousands. Girls like Lois Terry, "The Blond Bomber," now pitching for the Orange Lionettes. Lois is good for two homers in a single night, and there's no better drawing card in softball than a pitching battle between this husky little blond swimming instructor and the tall, slender brunette, Jean Beck, known to the fans as "The Skipper." Softball pitching, of course, is entirely underhand, and both girls have what it takes: lightning delivery, change of pace, and balls so fast you can't see them until they've smacked into the catcher's mitt.

For sheer entertainment, the fans go for June "Gabby" Young, champion chatterer of the diamond, or clowning Mary Irwin, the Joe E. Brown of softball. They turn out for the antics of Lois "Goodearth" Roberts, who won't wear shoes and romps barefoot around center field. They yell for Ruby "Beauty" Richards, whose incessant "It's a beauty! It's a beauty!" keeps opposing batters fishing for "Skipper" Beck's wide ones. Their huckleberry in the Hollywood League is cocky little Kay Rohrer, best all-round player in the league at the age of thirteen. But then, Kay's got a head start in the game, her father being "Daddy" Rohrer, for years a pro catcher with the Oakland team. Or the Hogan sister: Ronnie, who pitches and who bursts into tears when they lose a game, and Patty, who catches and stalks off the diamond repeating, "I don't care. I don't care."

Real Competition for the Boys

They are just kids, most of these softball stars, and the average age of the players in both the Hollywood and the Loyola leagues is seventeen years. The recruiting grounds for the team managers are the high schools, where the players learn the game. The girls start in the minor leagues, then move to the majors. By the time they are twenty, they are ready to retire.

Now and then, of course, romance moves in to upset the normal routine. As it did, for instance, the first year Elsie Winchell played a stellar second-base game for the Payneheats. Elsie was good, and every night a young highway patrolman sat in the stands with his attention forcused on the second sack. Well, they were married, and now, four years later, they have two children, but Elsie was one of those exceptional athletes who didn't get pushed out by the up-and-coming youngsters. She still plays second base, with Hubby in the stands and the babies at home with Grandma.

Occasionally the question pops up, "Who plays the best game of softball, the men or the women?" This is a hot potato to handle.

Once, in Hollywood, in a benefit game for sweet charity, a team of girls, recruited in the studios, played a team of men. And walloped them. And were the girls burned up about it! The men didn't play fair. They didn't try to win, the sissies.

We asked Mr. Fielder about the matter and he dismissed us with, "It's bad business to have men playing against women." If you ask the fans' opinion, any crack girls' team from either the Hollywood or the Loyola league is a worthy competitor for any man's team in any league. The girls pitch as hard, swat the ball as far, and handle the pill with the speed and certainty of men players. We were asking Miss Ruby Sorber why one of her top-flight teams like the Diamond Walnuts, or the Payneheat Amazons, didn't tie into some male team and settle the issue, once and for all. She looked at us a while and then she said, "What do you take us for—sissies?"

Giants Continue Lead In Japan Pro Ball League

One-sided scores featured both ends of the doubleheader of the professional baseball league Friday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here. The Tokyo Giants continued their lead in the standings by routing the Nagoya Dolfins 10 to 1 while the Eagles swamped the Senators by 11 to 4.

Over at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, the Tigers had a tough time beating the Lions, 2 to 1, while Nagoya blanked the Nankai squad by a 3 to 0 score.

While his team-mates clouted out 11 hits, Pitcher Stalphin of the Giants yielded but three hits.

The Giants clinched victory right in the first inning, scoring two runs on three successive errors, and registering another on a hit by First Baseman Kawakami. Pitcher Tsunekawa was kept in the game by the Dolfins and fared badly in the seventh and eighth when the Giants pounced on him for four and two runs respectively.

The Eagles outhit the Senators by 13 to 6 hits to win. A home run smash into the left field bleachers by Third Baseman Urushibara with two men on put the Eagles into a 4 to 3 lead at the end of the second inning after which they were never headed in the scoring.

Fighting Irish Expect To Play Before 500,000

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK, Sept.—Armed with an inexperienced but well-rounded squad, Notre Dame's Fighting Irish figure to play to almost 500,000 football fans during its schedule of nine major games this Fall.

Riddled by graduation last June, the Fighting Irish take the field with 10 returning lettermen, only three of whom have been awarded two monograms for gridiron service.

As the team shapes up, Coach Elmer Layden, the worrisome "thin man" will have a major task ahead of him to rebuild the right side of the forward wall, as only right tackle Paul Kell is returning this season.

Layden has an experienced man in every position on the left side of the line with Earl Brown at end, Captain Jim McGoldrick at guard, and Ed Beinor, All-American back in the left tackle berth.

At center, Ed Longhi should maintain his superiority over an ambitious flock of reserves. Lacking a veteran quarterback, Layden has some heavy work ahead in moulding a field general for Notre Dame's grid warriors—the first requirement of the Rockne system.

In Harry Stevenson he has a fine left halfback, skilled in punting, passing and a better than average ball toter. Lou Zontini, who last year also was seen in the left half spot has been shifted to right halfback and with Ed Simonich and Joe Thesing comprises three quarters of a star backfield.

Striving to regain the top position held in the regime of the late Knute Rockne, Notre Dame is expected to come through as usual with a rugged and opportunist team, in keeping with the traditional Irish "under dog" elevens.

Notre Dame opens October 1 against a veteran Kansas team and then the Fighting Irish journey to Atlanta for resumption of hostilities with Georgia Tech. After playing Illinois and Carnegie Tech at Notre Dame, the Irish will perform before 80,000 rabidly partisan fans in the annual scuffle with the Army in New York's Yankee Stadium.

Navy at Baltimore is expected to attract a crowd of about 50,000 and when Minnesota shows up at South Bend seeking revenge for the 7 to 6 defeat of last year, a sellout crowd of 56,000 is assured. With 45,000 more expected to jam through the gates for the Northwestern contest and 90,000 figured to see the Notre Dame-Southern California battle, the Fighting Irish will draw a total of beween 450,000 and 500,000 for the season.

Layden has issued invitations to 100 grid candidates for the opening practice session on September 10, the date agreed upon by the Big Ten. Although Notre Dame is not a member of the Western Conference, it adheres to its athletic regulations. With the opening of classes on September 15, at least 100 other candidates of varying degrees of ability will turn out. Layden refuses to make predictions about the season, but observers point out he seems less worried than in former seasons.

Chosenese Five Eliminated In National Tourney

The 18th annual national basketball championships opened Friday at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Tokyo, with a major upset in the seven games of the first round when the Gakushi Club, composed of graduates of Tokyo Imperial University, triumphed over the Zen-enki team of Chosen, always a contender for the title, by a 50 to 48 score.

The Chosenese players suffered heavily from committing too many personal fouls, a total of 19 as compared with seven by the Gakushi Club. This tendency to fouls crippled the team's offensive especially late in the second half when it should have gambled everything on a rushing attack to overtake the Tokyo quintet's lead.

Forward Tanaka of the Gakushi Club was the high point scorer with 17 points.

The other entrant from Chosen, the Fusei quintet, qualified for the second round by eliminating the Chiba representatives by a 69 to 50 score

Waseda, national and collegiate champions in the last season, routed Keio by a 58 to 31 score.

The results of the other games follow:

Bunrika University defeated Urawa Club, 77 to 29.

Rikkyo defeated J Club, 87 to 27.

Tokyo Imperial defeated North Basketball Club, 63 to 47.

Surugadai Club defeated Shodai, 46 to 43.

Makeup Of Ball Debating Point In Big Leagues

By EDWIN RUMILL
Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, Sept. 1—Throughout the major leagues today, players and managers are discussing the composition of the baseball. With a number of outstanding pitchers forced to the sidelines this season, President Ford Frick of the National League believes the sphere should be deadened, to give the hurler more advantage and lessen the burden on his arm.

The reaction to Frick's statement is natural. The pitchers are in favor of the idea, 100 per cent. The batters are against it. The managers are divided.

Managers Comment

The most sensible comment seems to come from Joe Cronin, Pie Traynor and Bucky Harris. Joe, the Red Sox manager, says the trouble originates in each individual case and has nothing to do with the makeup of the ball. Traynor, of Pittsburgh, points out that the lively ball has been in use since 1922 and this is the first season a group of pitchers have been bothered. Harris, the Washington correspondent, suggests that fellows like Hubbell, Dean and Grove were about due for a letdown.

However, regardless of opinions among the managers and players, the two major circuits will undoubtedly take action on the ball again this December, in their annual meeting at New York. In the American League, there is a slower-ball movement chiefly with the intention of reducing the Yankee monopoly. If the Indians, Tigers or Red Sox cannot stop the powerful Ruppert machine, perhaps a deader sphere will.

The fans certainly would not be in favor of the ball used 25 years ago, through the great pitching era. They like to see runs scored occasionally. And runs were scarce in those days.

Find Happy Medium

But they apparently are tiring of football scores in big league baseball parks. You hear protests through the grandstands and bleachers. Although many persons are still in favor of high scores, no matter how they are achieved, a majority are for a happy medium—between the old dead pellet and the present jack rabbit.

Interest in the National League pennant race today centered on Pittsburgh, where the Giants open a four-game series with the Pirates. This group of games may settle the sensational flag battle. By defeating the Terrymen in a convincing manner, the Buccaneers might open up a gap that could not be crossed by rival contenders. On the other hand, the Giants could do themselves a lot of good by wrecking the Pirate brig.

The final eastern trip looms as important to the Buccaneers, who this morning held a 5½-game lead over the field. Remember what happened back in 1921?

That year the Pittsburgh club was in front by seven games when it made its last tour of the Atlantic coast. Barney Dreyfuss had built extra stands at Forbes Field, in preparation for the World Series. But when the Bucs dropped five straight at the Polo Grounds and continued their slump in Brooklyn, the westerners slid to second place and stayed there. Will the current outfit make the grade?.

Budge Defeats Mako To Make A Grand Slam

Domei Tsushin

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 24—Troucing his Davis Cup teammate and doubles partner, Gene Mako, in four scintillating sets, Donald J. Budge of California today won the national men's singles title to make it a grand slam for 1938.

Miss Alice Marble, a fellow Californian, annexed the women's title by winning almost without opposition over Miss Nancy Wynne, of Australia.

Budge Loses One Set

Budge lost a set to his hard-fighting teammate, but still it was an easy victory for the lanky Californian who has won every major tennis crown this year. Mako took the second set 8-6; the others went to Budge by lopsided scores of 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

His service and drives functioning perfectly, the undefeated champion had Mako at his mercy throughout the greater part of the match. Mako temporarily stemmed the tide in a sensational second set, but even then he was barely able to eke out a two-game margin.

Playing what experts rated the best tennis of his career, Mako broke through Budge's cannonball service three times to win the set and tie the match count at one-all. For a moment it looked as if he might check the champion, but Budge came back like a whirlwind to take the next two sets and match.

The Californian drove placements to the back-corners of Mako's court off both forehand and backhand, and his service again reeled off aces which were too hot for Mako to handle. In the last two sets, the champion dropped only three games.

By winning the title, Budge became the first player in tennis history to hold simultaneously the American, British, French and Australian singles crowns. In addition, he holds the American and Wimbledon doubles championships with Mako, and the mixed doubles titles with Miss Marble.

Miss Marble Wins

The first of the day's finals saw Miss Marble regain the title which she lost last year, defeating Miss Wynne, of Australia, by straight-set scores of 6-0, 6-3. Despite her strong playing in previous rounds, the Australian star was visibly nervous, and all Miss Marble had to do was keep the ball going for a few rallies until Miss Wynne either netted or hit outside the court.

Ruffing Scores 20th Win, First For '38 Season

By JOHN DREBINGER
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—The Yankees, having long made a practice of running down a runner-up the moment he comes within hailing distance, it remained only for the second-place Red Sox to edge into the Stadium yesterday in order to put the McCarthymen immediately on their mettle.

Invalids, discarding their bandages and liniments, came galloping out of the dugout. Joe DiMaggio hit a home run, double and single. Red Ruffing pitched his nineteenth complete game of the season, and in the course of a couple of hours it again became self-evident that in the American League only the Yankees are over first and there never is any second.

For to the accompanying high Cs of a ladies' day crowd of 17,054 the suddenly revivified world champions bowled over the Sox, 6 to 4, in the opening contest of a two-game series.

Losing Streak an Illusion

DiMaggio's clouting did most of the damage, along with a timely seventh-inning triple by Tommy Henrich which Ben Chapman obligingly played badly. But the reassuring presence of Bill Dickey, Red Rolfe and George Selkirk also helped to convince Joe Cronin that the recent two-game losing streak of the Yanks must have been merely something he had read in the papers.

Thus Ruffing became the first pitcher in either major league this year to hang up his twentieth victory. It was also Big Red's sixth triumph in a row.

Jack Wilson was the victim of this latest demonstration of Yankee power when Marse Joe McCarthy starts generating steam in the boilers. The Boston right-hander found himself 3 down in the first inning when DiMaggio slammed his No. 27 of the year into the left-field stand after Rolfe had singled and Henrich walked. To this another tally was added in the third on a DiMaggio single and two-bagger to left by Lou Gehrig.

Red Sox Creep Up

Stubbornly the Sox fought back and grabbed a run in the fourth on Cronin's double and single by Pinky Higgins and Chapman. Higgins pushed another run across in the fifth, and in the sixth, after a passed ball by Dickey had put runners on second and third, Joe Vosmik banged both home with a single to tie the score.

But it is at just such moments that the Yanks say, "What ho!" and go to work again. Frankie Crosetti walked to start the seventh, Henrich drove the ball off the right-field stand, Chapman rather clumsily playing it into a triple, and DiMaggio sent a short high flying into right which fell at Chapman's feet for a double. Two runs were in and the Sox were out, once again a mere distance of fourteen games behind the pace-setters.

DiMaggio's homer restored Jolting Joe to his position as the Yanks' leading circuit clouter, Gehrig follows with 26; Dickey, handicapped a bit because he has not been playing regularly, is next with 25, and Henrich has 21.

Hits Season's First Homer

Center Fielder Reizo Asai of Waseda caught by the camera following through with his swing that knocked a homer off Pitcher Yutani of the Tokyo Imperial University team with a man on to put his team into a 2-0 lead in the fifth inning in Sunday's doubleheader of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Waseda won the game, 4 to 0. In the curtain-raiser, Hosei scored two runs in the beginning of the ninth to down Rikkyo by a 7 to 5 score.

Cornell, Dartmouth Loom As Eastern Grid Champs

By HENRY W. CLARK
Director of Athletics at Lafayette College

Although the calendar and the weather man both agree that football is still a hazy, future event in the sporting world, nevertheless the farsighted football fan would do well to write to either the Dartmouth or Cornell Athletic Associations now and reserve a seat at what should be the outstanding game of the 1938 season.

Everyone in Eastern football agrees that those far away seats of learning at Ithaca and Hanover have become the locale of as nifty a group of football players as the East, or possibly even the country, can boast.

Dartmouth under the regime of Earl Blaik seems well established in a sound coaching technique, has a wealth of veteran material, and undoubtedly a great freshman squad of 1937 to give them a strong first string and plenty of reserves. Cornell is just getting used to the sleight-of-hand, thorough drilling of Carl Snavely. There, too, seasoned veterans will be aided by a strong freshman eleven, so that both teams are favored to bowl over all other opponents, and when they meet anyone's guess is good for the outcome. But you can be certain it will be one of the best games of this season and of many another.

Yale Below Par

Yale having lost Larry Kelley two years ago and Clint Frank last fall does not seem to be coming up with another superb star, but they have a strong freshman team to give them a representative eleven; probably not up to the last two years.

Harvard will have a great first string but no reserve strength. Starting their season against the heavy Brown squad, with Cornell second on the schedule, may dispose of some of those first stringers of Dick Harlow's so that at best Harvard cannot look to better than an in and out season.

Penn and Princeton are striving to build hopes anew with new coaching staffs. Penn has good veteran linemen and star freshman backs which should produce a team strong in the later season and troublesome at all times. Princeton without an outstanding so-called climax runner or player seems doomed to another mediocre season with possibilities of better fortune through the thorough drilling that the boys of Nassau are sure to get from Tad Wieman.

Lou Little is manfully facing one of the toughest schedules in the East with material slightly better than Columbia has had for the past two years. Count on him to tip over at least one big one—a good guess will be Yale for the opening game.

Boston College under the veteran Gil Dobie looms as strong in man power. Gil has the material he loves with which to put on his power attack and B. C. should be a problem all season.

Warner May Resign

The Temple-Pitt game on Oct. 1 bids fair to be one of the barometers of the season. Rumor hath it that Pop Warner may resign, and there have been rumblings that Jock Sutherland might once more succeed the old master as he did at Pitt. Pitt looks to have as strong team this year; if anything, stronger than last, as evidenced by the fact that Goldberg may not have to do so much ball carrying. But after this year Pitt does not look so strong.

The annual Army-Navy fuss looks better from the Navy viewpoint at this distance. Army was below par last year and only smart coaching kept them up. This year a change in coaches will be an additional handicap to only fair material.

Moving out West, watch Wisconsin Stuhldreher has been building quietly but thoroughly and should bring them higher than they have been for several years.

Crisler at Michigan will have a great defensive team but he likes to take an extra season to develop his offense. Out on the coast Howard Jones has been rumored out of things, but my guess is that he will be there many years to come unless he chooses to step out. The interesting development will be who steps in at U. C. L. A. to succeed Bill Spalding. Whoever does step in may be the power on the coast for the next two or three years.

Great Season Ahead

Down South, Georgia and the University of Mississippi with new coaches are going to be clubs to watch. Duke will again be strong but never seems to be quite strong enough to get the Rose Bowl bid.

All and all I look for a great season, stronger team, bigger crowds, keener games. Now that the ballyhoo and the reformers alike are letting football alone, the game is taking its rightful place as the great recreation of the young manhood of America.

Shodai Captures National 8-Oared Rowing Title

The Shodai (Commercial College) crew won the eight-oared championship in the 18th annual All-Japan Regatta Sunday at the Ogu course over 2,000 meters by defeating Keio University in the final by half a boat length. The time was 6 minutes 10 seconds.

The Keio oarsmen led up to the 200-meter mark by the canvas but the Shodai shell came up to even terms at the 500-meter mark, then forged into a third boat length at the 1,000-meter mark and was never headed during the rest of the distance.

Members of the crews were:

Shodai: Tsukakoshi, stroke; Hirao, No. 7; Sato, No. 6 Haglo, No. 5; Kurokawa, No. 4; Ishihara, No. 3; Tabata, No. 2; Kakushika, No. 1; Kudo, coxswain.

Keio: Iwatani, stroke; Tanaka, No. 7; Saito, No. 6; Ko, No. 5; Hamatake, N. 4; Ijima, No. 3; Moroi, No. 2; Yamada, No. 1; Shibata, coxswain.

Munog Also Put On List Of 1938 Sore-Armed Pitchers

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2—Two more names went on the long list of sore-armed major league pitchers today—those of Van Lingle Mungo and Wayne LaMaster, both of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland, Cardinal club surgeon who examined the pair here, said after a telephone conference with Larry MacPhail, Dodgers' general manager who was in Cincinnati, that both would return to their homes for the remainder of the season.

"Neither pitcher will need an operation to correct his ailments," Dr Hyland said, "but both need rest.

"I informed Mungo he should not touch a baseball for four or five months, and MacPhail then agreed to let Mungo off for the rest of the season.

"He also gave LaMaster permission to return home, as rest also is the best treatment for his arm."

Dr. Hyland said Mungo was suffering from an injury to the "long head of the right arm biceps," a muscular ailment, and that LaMaster has an injury to the soft tissues of his left elbow. Mungo is a fireball right-hander, and LaMaster a southpaw.

Others who have gone on the sore-arm list this season include Carl Hubbell, Giants' southpaw who recently underwent an operation; Dizzy Dean of the Cubs, Lefty Grove of the Red Sox and Hal Schumacher of the Giants, whose hurling elbow, Dr. Hyland said, "contains several bone fragments."

Woodring Takes 3d Title In Row; Feat Is Small-Bore Rifle Record

N.Y. Times

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 2—William D. Woodring of Alton, Ill., not only won the Remington Small-Bore Trophy match today but was declared national small-bore champion by making the highest aggregate score for four matches fired during the week.

Woodring, who is a direct descendant of Daniel Boone, is 23 years old and has been in the shooting game for several years. He took part in the Pershing Trophy match in England last year and later shot in the matches at Helsingfors as a member of the United States team. He is a graduate of Lehigh University and a ballistics engineer.

In landing the championship and the Critchfield Trophy today, Woodring totaled 1,593 points out of 1,600 in the Western Trophy, the United States Cartridge, the Austin Trophy and the Remington Trophy matches.

Achievement Is Unique

Woodring's feat in landing the title for the third consecutive time was never before accomplished in small-bore shooting.

G. Paul Bomgardner of Palmyra, N. Y., gave Woodring close competition for the championship, as he also finished with 1,593, but he had 52 Xs in his center ring while Woodring had 58.

With 445 competitors firing in the Remington Trophy match today, Woodring took first place with 399 out of a possible 400, defeating Thurman Randle of Dallas, Texas, who also had 399, but not as many center shots as the victor. William P. Schweitzer of Hillside, N. J., was third with 398, outranking several other shooters who finished with the same score. This match was fired over the fifty-meter range, with forty shots for record.

The "400" Club members' small-bore trophy match, with twenty-three contestants firing, was won by Charles G. Hamby of Atlanta, Ga., with a score of 398 out of a possible 400. Merle Israelson of Akron, Ohio, had 397 for second place and George Brandle of Cleveland was third with 396, outranking Schweitzer, who finished with 396 but had 10 X's against 25 for Brandle.

Hemming Shoots 281

Alfred W. Hemming of Detroit, police record-breaker, was on the front lines again today to win the Orton Memorial pistol match with a score of 281 out of a possible 300, one point higher than the record score made last year by Charles Askins Jr. of the United States Border Patrol. The latter's score was equaled today by Walter N. Stark of Los Angeles, who was in second place. Third place went to Paul C. Spavor of St. Louis.

Raymond C. Bracken of Columbus led the civilian division in the Orton match with 272. Corporal Garfield Huddleston of Fort Benning, Ga., took first place in the military division of this match with 278.

The United States Marine Corps team took the A. E. F. Rumanian team match with a score of 576. The United States Infantry was second with 572 and the Washington State National Guard third with 551. Fifty teams of six men each were entered in the match, which is fired over the 600 and 1,000 yard ranges with ten shots per man at each range.

The Rumbold Trophy match, fired over the same course, was won by the California civilian team with 566. The Kansas civilians were second at 549 and Idaho civilians third at 544.

New Yorkers on Team

More than 100 teams have been entered in the Herrick match to be held tomorrow morning. The New York civilian team includes Jack Wark, Buffalo William Brophy, Yonkers; George Allen, Elmira; Carl Petrie, Elmira; Desmond Reilly, Schenectady; Chester A. Perkins, Schenectady; Harold Powell, Manhasset, and Tom Lewis, St. Albans.

Brig. Gen. F. M. Waterbury of Kew Gardens, secretary of the New York State Rifle Association, is team captain and Samuel Milman of New York City team coach.

Australians Top U.S. Women In Tennis Play

N.Y. Times

EAST HAMPTON, L. I., Sept. 4—In the second and concluding series of Australian-United States women's team tennis matches, played on the Maidstone Club courts today, the American stars atoned for yesterday's poor showing at Southampton by winning four out of the six matches played and tying the tally at six matches apiece. To break this deadlock, the series was decided on the number of sets won, and Australia triumphed, 15 to 14.

It was the first time that Australian women had engaged in a team meet with the United States, and the first appearance for the visitors on Long Island.

The United States group was victorious today in three of four singles contests and took one of a pair of doubles engagements. Miss Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, No. 2 and No. 6, respectively in the United States national ranking, showed vast improvement today.

In contrast to her 6—2, 6—2 defeat at the hands of Miss Thelma Coyne, Australia's No. 2 player, at Southampton, Miss Jacobs triumphed over Miss Nancye Wynne, No. 1 player for the invading team, 5—7, 6—2, 6—0. Miss Wynne broke Miss Jacobs' service in the eleventh game of the first set, scoring the last point on a beautiful placement. She took the set game easily.

Then Miss Jacobs took command, using a wide variety of strokes with amazing accuracy. She assumed the lead in the fifth game on a passing shot and won the next after her opponent had double-faulted. She scored easily in the seventh and in the deciding game she held Miss Wynne on the base line and registered on terrific drives down the side.

In the final set Miss Jacobs encountered opposition only in the sixth game, which was marked by magnificent cross-court volleying. The game went to deuce twice before Miss Jacobs won.

Mrs. Fabyan and Miss Coyne had a real battle before the former won by 7-5, 7-5. The American's passing shots decided the issue. She took two love games in the first set, and was at match point in the tenth game, but her rival fought to 5-all and forced the next two games to deuce.

In the second set Miss Coyen broke service to lead at 5-4. A shot that just topped the net gave the American the tenth game. The eleventh went to deuce three times before Mrs. Fabyan could win. She tallied set point in the twelfth with a hard drive.

Miss Dorothy Workman, the only unranked American in the series, won again today, defeating Miss Dorothy Stevenson, No. 4 Australian player, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2.

The Australian victor in today's singles was Mrs. Harry C. Hopman, No. 3, who scored over Miss Dorothy May Bundy, No. 3 American player, 8-6, 6-4.

In the first of the doubles Mrs. Fabyan and Miss Jacobs turned back Miss Stevenson and Mrs. Hopman, 6-2, 8-6. Then Miss Wynne and Miss Coyne won from Miss Bundy and Miss Workman, 9-7, 3-6, 6-3.

The summaries:

Singles

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, United States, defeated Miss Thelma Coyne, Australia, 7-5, 7-5; Miss Dorothy Workman, United States, defeated Miss Dorothy Stevenson, Australia, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2; Miss Helen Jacobs, United States, defeated Miss Nancye Wynne, Australia, 5-7, 6-2, 6-0; Mrs. Harry C. Hopman, Australia, defeated Miss Dorothy May Bundy, United States, 8-6, 6-4.

Doubles

Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Fabyan defeated Mrs. Hopman and Miss Stevenson, 6-2, 8-6; Miss Wynne and Miss Coyne defeated Miss Bundy and Miss Workman, 9-7, 3-6, 6-3.

Yoshioka Still Good

With the white band (hachimaki) around his head is Ryutoku Yoshioka of the Otsuka Club, as he won the 100-meter dash Sunday in the national track and field championships at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, in 10.4 seconds for a new meet record.

Yoshioka Is Still Fastest Of Sprinters In Country

Ryutoku Yoshioka, who is known abroad as the fastest sprinter in the Far East and just about invincible at 50 yards anywhere in the world, is still the peer of all 100-meter dash men in this country. With a 4-meter back wind, he captured the national title in this event at 10.4 seconds for a new meet record Sunday as the 25th annual national two-day track and field championships came to an end at the Koshien Stadium, near Osaka. Mutsuo Taniguchi of Kansai University was second in 10.5 seconds, equalling the meet record.

Miss Yoshiko Yamashita of the Chukyo Girls, School set a new record for the women's 80-meter hurdles in the trials on Sunday when she was clocked in 12 seconds. She later won the title in the finals in 12.8 seconds.

The relay team of Mukai, Matsuda, Sasaki and Yoshioka of the Otsuka Club tied the meet record at 42.5 seconds in the 400-meter relay.

The outstanding performer on the first day of the meet on Saturday was Miss Kiyoko Itoda of the Tokai Sasagawa Club who set a new national record in the women's 200-meter dash in 25.4 seconds, a time which ranks her within the first five top ranking women stars of the world at this distance. Her winning time in the final was a tenth of a second slower.

Taniguchi of Kansai University smashed the record of 21.6 seconds set by Aizawa on a straight course in 1928 when he negotiated the course with a turn in 21.5 seconds, coming from behind to nose out Masao Yazawa of Senshu University.

Yoshio Hirose of Bunrika University established a new national record in the 10,000-meter walk by breaking the tape in 53 minutes 49.6 seconds.

Miss Fumi Kojima, a teacher at the Chukyo Girls' School who competed at Berlin in the 11th Olympic Game in 1936, broke the meet record in the shot put with a heave of 12.52 meters.

Kohei Murakoso, who placed fourth in both the 5,000 and 10,000-meter runs at the Berlin Olympic Games, retained his titles at both distances. His time for the 10,000-meter event on Saturday was 31 minutes 38.4 seconds, and that for the 5,000-meters on Sunday was 15 minutes 12.2 seconds.

Kin Gen Gon, a Chosenese of Keijo, won the hop, step and jump, on Sunday with a leap of 15.45 meters.

Tulane's Grid Squad Is Rich With Halfbacks

Christian Science Monitor

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 30—Tab Tulane's Green Wave is to have its most colorful football halfbacks since the 1934 Sugar Bowl champions washed high and mighty.

Without prophecy of this 1938 team duplicating the record of that team or its illustrious predecessors of 1925, 1929, 1930 or 1931, the latter a Rose Bowl selection of that season, this forthcoming edition of the Wave may be expected to furnish plenty of ball carrying thrills.

With one powerful and well-balanced starting eleven assured and enough reserve strength to provide at least another strong replacement team Coach "Red" Dawson's main strength will rest around a galaxy of fine halfbacks.

It would not surprise if the Greenie strength excelled any former Tulane team in this department of play, provided, of course, that injuries do not lay heavily on the list and all play up to the caliber displayed in Spring training.

Four left halfbacks, for example, appear to have a lot of promise, including "Buddy" Banker, a 196-pound brother of 1929 all-American Bill Banker. In his sophomore debut last Fall Banker was the sensation of the Greenie season. He was a constant threat, being instrumental in five touchdowns in one game and in two others a week or so later when he got back into the line-up.

Dawson added a lot of polish to the Banker's style in Spring training and believes he is now ready to match talent with any back in the country. In fact, the young Greenie will wear jersey number 18 this Fall, a number which was voted to retirement at the end of the 1932 season in honor of Bill Banker and Don Zimmerman, to all-American halfbacks who had previously worn it. But, when the newest Banker set a dazzling pace last Fall and continued to improve in the Spring, a new set of number 18 jersies was ordered for him, Zimmerman and brother Bill both approving the move.

Banker Powerful Runner

Banker, a powerful runner, and fine passer, has become a demon on defense, a sound blocker and a steadily improving punter.

Despite the all-American prophesies being made for him, he'll be kept on the alert by the many threat Greenie, Warren "Bronco" Brunner. Brunner is one of the hardest backs to bring down at Tulane since the days of Harry "Wop" Glover. A loose hipped lad who shakes loose when seemingly stopped, possessing a great change of pace, Brunner is never to be overlooked as a dangerous scoring threat. Like Banker, he also passes and punts.

A High-Point Scorer

Two other left halfbacks who'll help carry the Olive forward are Harry Hayes and Bob Kellogg. Hays, a Texan, promises to be a constant source of annoyance at least to the opposition while Kellogg, a chunky, climax runner is the type who usually gets at least fifty yards or nothing.

Kellogg, whose home is in Arkansas, was one of the nation's highest point scorers last year, turning in a great junior college record at Northeast Center of Monroe, La.

At the right halfback post, Billy Payne, Fred Cassibry, Fred Gloden and Norman Marmillion will alternate the chores.

Payne, a low, powerhouse driving halfback, reminiscent of his brother Francis Payne, one of the great halfbacks of Tulane's 1931 Rose Bowl team, is expected to turn in fine play from that spot. Cassibry a 195-pound sophomore, who is a real triple threater looks promising and Gloden, a smaller but equally versatile sophomore, may also contribute spectacular efforts in the tough schedule his team faces.

The Greenies, with eight major opponents including four teams which played in New Year's Day Bowl games last Jan. 1, will have name for themselves.

Chosenese Five Wins National Basketball Title

The Fusei College team of Keijo, composed of Chosenese players, emerged victorious in the 18th annual national basketball championships Monday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda, by outfighting the Kyoto Imperial University quintet by a 64 to 50 score. It was the Fusei College's second straight title in the competition.

Scintillating play that overwhelmed the Japanese in the extra period that became necessary with the score standing at 49-all at the end of the second half was responsible for the Chosenese quintet's victory. Starting with four field goals in a row by Sai, the Chosenese stopped the Kyoto team's offensive cold and rang up 15 points to the latter's one in the extra session

The game was a battle royal all the way through. The Chosenese players were slow in getting started and Kyoto led 13 to 9 at the end of the first eight minutes of play. Their plays began functioning, however, within the next five minutes and they led 20 to 23 at the end of the first half.

Kyoto rallied at the outset of the second half. With Center Ren playing a strong defensive game and Forwards Mitsuta and Takiguchi storming the basket, the team cut the Chosenese five's lead to 32 to 31. And at 12 minutes, a field goal by Ren put the score on a 38-all basis. And two field goals by Mitsuta put Kyoto into the lead, 43-39, at 14 minutes. The game then developed into an exciting seesaw battle during the next five minutes, and when Mitsuta tossed in a field goal at 19 minutes, it seemed as if Kyoto had clinched victory. But Guard Ahn saved the day for the Chosenese by ringing a field goal to put the scored deadlocked at 49-all as the gun went off.

Marion Breaks Canada Record At 1,000 Yards

TORONTO, Sept. 3—John Marion, husky Negro from Prairie View College, Texas, smashed Phil Edwards' Canadian 1,000-yard record at the Canadian National Exhibition track meet today, covering the distance in 2 minutes 10.6 seconds. It was one-fifth of a second better than Edwards' mark, established over the same track in 1933.

Marion finished eased up with Howard Borican, of New York, another Negro, at his shoulder, and James Herbert, of the New York Curb Exchange, in third place, two yards back.

All the major events went to the American stars, Ben Johnson, of the New York Curb, Negro sprint champion of the United States, taking the 100-yard handicap dash and Don Lash, Indiana's star middle-distance runner, the three-mile race.

Johnson Scores in 0:09.7

Johnson spotted young Gray Miller, making his first start in a ranking meet, eight yards and barely got up in the last stride to edge out the Owen Sound Negro. Johnson's time was 9.7 seconds. Harold Parsons, of Iangford, Ont., with a six-yard handicap, was third.

Lash was given a stern battle by Milt Wallace, of Toronto, Canadian three-mile champion, who faded in the final fifty feet and finished two yards behind the Hoosier. Forest Evaw, of Oklahoma A. and M. College, was third. Lash was clocked in 14:37.6.

Wilf McCluskey, of the Toronto Monarch A. C., won the ten-mile open, forty yards ahead of Duncan McCallum, a clubmate, who had the same margin over Bob Morrison, of the Toronto Achilles. Walter Horby, of Hamilton, was fourth. A distinct surprise was Bob (Scotty) Rankine's failure, the little Preston, Ont., runner finishing far in the ruck. McCluskey's time was 55 minutes 39.3 seconds, compared to Rankine's Canadian record of 53:25.4.

Miss Jeannette Dolson, of Toronto, a Canadian Olympic star, beat off the challenge of Miss Ivy L. Wilson, of the New York Mercury A.C., to win the 100-yard open dash for girls in 11.5 seconds. Miss Beatrice Woods, of Toronto, was third.

Duffy Takes Boys' Dash

Young Joe Duffy, of the Hamilton Olympic Club, a promising Canadian sprinter, was well ahead of the field in the 100-yard dash for boys under eighteen, beating William Kaufman, of Buffalo, and Joseph Marino, of the Butler Mitchell Club, of Buffalo, in that order. Duffy's time was 10.5 seconds.

Buffalo runners finished 1-2-3 in the 220-yard final, from which Johnson withdrew. Tim Galvin, of the Butler Mitchell Club, won the race in 22.1 seconds, with Stan Urbanowicz a half foot back. James Almond was third.

Waseda Ruggers Rout Hosei, 79-0

Waseda University's rugby team, national champions for the 1937-38 season, swamped Hosei, 79 points to nil, Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium in the Kanto Seven University Rugby league. The score at half time was 37 to 0.

The one-sidedness of the game is revealed from the fact that Waseda ruggers registered a total of 18 tries in the game.

Aomori Wins Young Men's Sumo Tourney

Aomori prefecture's wrestlers triumphed in the first annual national young men's schools two-day sumo tournament ending on Sunday afternoon at the Outer Gardens of the Meiji Shrine by defeating the representatives from Akita by two bouts to one in the finals.

A total of 180 wrestlers from 47 prefectures competed.

Fukuoka prefecture placed third in the group competition by beating Nagasaki, 2 to 1.

The individual laurels went to Onishi of the Hokkaido who swept through the second round, quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals without a defeat in four bouts. He lifted Yoshimoto of Nagasaki high up into the air and deposited him outside of the circle in the finals.

Hagihara of Akita prefecture vanquished Suzuki of Aomori in the bout for third place.

York Hits 4th 4-Run Homer

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—Rudy York, Detroit catcher, tied the major league record of four home runs with the bases loaded in a season and Pete Fox contributed another homer with two on as the Tigers defeated Chicago's White Sox, 11 to 4, today in the first of a two-game series.

York's blast, his thirty-second of the year, came in the third inning off Jack Knott. With one out, Dixie Walker singled, Charley Gehringer doubled and Hank Greenberg was walked intentionally, setting the stage for the catcher's wallop into the upper deck of the left-field pavilion.

The record is held jointly by Frank Schulte, onetime Chicago Cub, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Fox hit his homer in the fifth and with York accounted for eight of the Tigers' runs scored off Knott and Harry Boyles. The Sox collected nine hits off Tommy Bridges, four of them in the third when they scored three runs.

Waseda Defeats Teidai Nine, 6-1 For Fourth Win

Behind the airtight pitching of Left Hander Kanemitsu Kondo, Waseda University's baseball team routed Tokyo Imperial University (Teidai) by a 6 to 1 score Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium for its fourth straight victory is as many games in the Tokyo Six University league.

Kondo, who established himself the past Summer as one of the best Japanese collegian pitchers ever to visit Hawaii, allowed but three hits, struck out nine and issued six walks. He also led his team in hitting by registering three hits out of four trips to the plate.

But Kondo's wildness at the outset of the contest was responsible for Teidai's lone run, which came in the first inning. Yamamoto walked. Furukawa flied out to left but Tajima singled to center and Nomura walked to fill the bases. Mitsutake's hit through third brought in Yamamoto. Kondo steadied himself and retired the next two men to stop further scoring.

Waseda clinched the game in the third by scoring five runs off Kawai. Murase walked after one out. Miyoshi singled to left and both men advanced a bag on a passed ball. Nagata walked to fill the bases. First Baseman Go came through with an infield hit to score Murase. Takasu worked Kawai for a walk to force in Miyoshi. Go was nabbed at first on a quick peg by Kawai, but Tsuji singled through first and second to bat in Nagata. Kakijima gained life at first on a Texas Leaguer. And what did Pitcher Kondo not do but single sharply to left center to bring in Takasu and Tsujii. Kakijima was caught between second and third on the same play and thrown out.

Yutani, who had pitched brilliant ball for Teidai on Sunday although he was beaten, relieved Kawai in the fourth inning and checked the hard hitting Waseda team to one run during the rest of the game.

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS
By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 5½ lbs.
Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES
LITERARY SUPPLEMENT
....this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

Grammar: 15 x 22.5 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 (Abroad £1 2s. or $6.00) (with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)
Supplement: Pages 280, ¥5.00 (Abroad 9s. or $2.50)

Important Changes In Code Promise Brighter, Better Play In Field Hockey

Observer

LONDON, Sept. 4—The forthcoming season will commence with two revolutionary changes in the code of playing rules, viz.: the elimination of hooking and the use of the foot for stopping the ball on the ground. Experiments suggested by the Hockey Association, and carried out at the various Eastern festivals, eventually convinced the International Board that these two very contentious points in the rules should be wholly banned. The weight of expert evidence submitted by umpires and players was very clear and has now caused the Board to approve of their abolition. For years and years there had been continuous discussions concerning these two elements in the technique of the game. At last they disappear, and it is be hoped for ever.

It has taken many years for hooking to be banned from the rules of the men's code, although the women, with their usual foresight and sagacity, removed this blemish from their own rules, and their game has proved all the better for it. When the men's rules were thoroughly overhauled in 1934 the International Board made only a partial change in the hooking rule, but leading umpires and players still clamored for its entire deletion. Up to last season it was permissible to hook an opponent's stick which was within striking distance. It was allowable for an opponent to place his own stick underneath another player's stick, but it was not legal to force his opponent's stick upwards, as this constituted "holding." A prolific cause of rough play was created by the hooking of sticks from above, or in a downward direction when far too much force was employed, often developing into the hitting of an opponent's stick and causing it to be held down with such power that the player was compelled to let go of it altogether. Now hooking has gone, and hardly a hockey player, senior or junior, will mourn its passing. In the main, leading umpires were unanimous that hooking should go because they knew by experience that it gave birth to frayed tempers, resulting in rough and dangerous tactics. In future there must be not the slightest interference with a player's stick of any sort or kind.

Relic of Old

One further revolutionary step was also taken by the International Board in that they decided to yield to the insistent demands that foot play, or foot stopping of the ball, should also be dispensed with. Ever since the first code of rules was cast, more than a century ago, the foot has been actively used to stop the ball on the ground before striking it with the stick. One might regard the employment of the use of the foot as a last surviving relic of the bad old days when hockey was mostly of the rough and tumble type and not reduced to a real science, as it has become today. The ideal hockey, of course, and generally admitted, is the playing of the game with the stick only, and also to ban the complete use of the hand for ball stopping, either when in the air or on the ground. Yet this must surely be merely an ideal, and remains an impractical proposition. The playing surface of grounds in the British Isles, nay, probably also in other parts of the world, do, unfortunately, vary, and this important factor must necessarily be considered. To delete the entire use of the hand would be to strike what might prove a mortal blow at the junior section, whose grounds are good, bad, and very indifferent.

The two important alterations now made should surely render hockey, already a very skilful game, even more so and far more open, more scientific, and further designed to improve the general playing technique. Hooking and foot-play always tended to penalize the good player and to lower the standard. Certainly it now removes the cause of so much danger in tactics which was always prevalent even in first-class hockey. Junior players, having to play on rough grounds, may find it a little hardship in not being allowed to employ their feet; but the new rule will call for a greater concentration on the part of defenders and undoubtedly speed up the game as a whole, even though it is surely fast enough as it is for the average player who has to keep himself in strict training.

A famous old international player directs my attention to one salient point in the change made by the International Board in the drafting of the two new clauses of Rule 100. It seems it is at least arguable that, although the goalkeeper may kick the ball, he may not use his body, leg, or foot to stop the ball on the ground or in the air—only his hand or stick. Unless (my international friend goes on to say) it is intended to start an entirely new technique for goalkeepers, he thinks the rule may have to be amended to cover the case of the goalkeeper. This raises a point of extreme importance and it remains for the International Board to clarify the position.

An Oval Fixture

The usual domestic British internationals are to be played, and it is noted that the Hockey Association has decided to stage the England v. Wales match at Kennington Oval on March 18. This will be second men's international to be played on this classic cricket ground, England and Ireland having played there in 1937. While the interest in the England and Wales game is nothing like so widespread as the England and Ireland fixture, nevertheless it should prove attractive, and the central situation of the ground bring together a large attendance. On April 1 England will also meet Holland at Luton. It has become the practice of the H.A. to play one Continental country each season, either home or away. The Dutchmen are very popular visitors to England, and moreover, have built up a steady and increasing repute as one of the strongest hockey international countries in Europe. England and Ireland meet at Edgbaston on March 25, and in view of the fact that the Irishmen have broken their previous record of defeating the Englishmen for two successive years, the Edgbaston match should work up tremendous interest next March, as English hockey prestige remains well at stake.

There will be the same number of English international trials played as of yore. The two final English trials will be played respectively on February 25 at Nottingham University, and March 4 at Beckenham. The latter ground will also once again carry the Inter-Varsity match between Oxford and Cambridge, the date being February 18, instead of a week earlier, owing to the clashing with the big Rugby international at Twickenham, which, if played on the same afternoon, would adversely affect the attendance.

In his report to the annual meeting of the Hockey Association, the chairman, H. J. Greening remarked that hockey was still a great amateur game, played as a game and not as an occupation. So long as that spirit continued, he said, the game of hockey will be preserved from the trend of other sport. At the founding of the Hockey Association competitions were severely banned, and that policy has continued until this day without any demand from any section for a variation of that playing policy. It is considered that that action has proved the very salvation of the game and its continued purity of strict amateurism.

Hosei, Rikkyo Tied In 15-Inning Tilt

Hosei and Rikkyo fought to a 2-all tie that was called off at the end of the fifteenth inning because of darkness Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. But it was an uninteresting affair.

Saigo went the whole route on the mound for Rikkyo. Morishita relieved Akaneya for Hosei in the tenth.

The summaries follow:

Rikkyo	002 000 000 000 000	2	7	5
Hosei	010 001 000 000 000	2	10	2

Batteries: Saigo and Machida, Ito; Akaneya, Morishita and Suzuki.

Riggs Proves Net Greatness Against Quist

By AL LANEY
N.Y. Herald Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Those who have been saying all Summer that Bobby Riggs is a great tennis player found much evidence to support their contention on Germantown's woefully bad turf this afternoon. The evidence was not altogether conclusive, but there can be little question now that this extraordinary young man who, while still little more than a schoolboy, has caused tennis fans to argue endlessly and officials to shake their heads sadly, is one of the best exponents of this game to be found anywhere in the world.

Riggs was on the spot. He never had the experience of international play without which few players ever come to the peak of their development, yet he had declared for all to hear that he would win and win decisively. Well, he did win that way and those who will undoubtedly say that he was helped to his victory by the bad play of his opponent will lose sight of the unusual qualities which he himself possesses.

Quist Regains Form

It is true enough that Quist was not at all times the player who carried Australia to the challenge round two years ago. It is also true that his forehand, a weapon which gave him control of the play through the first set, became completely unstrung for a long time. But an exact sense of values would show that Quist was playing at his very best through the closing stages of the third set, which Riggs won after leading, 5—1, being caught at 5—all and losing six points, any one of which would have let him out.

For a youngster making his first appearance in a challenge round against a player who has been recognized as one of the world's best for several years, to do that establishes the fact that he is himself one of the best.

Taking into consideration Quist's lapses and the terrible condition of the turf which seemed to bother him more that it did his opponent, it stil seems only fair to say that there probably is no other player in this country except Budge who would have been likely to beat Quist today. Quist was inconsistent, yes, but a player who recovers from a bad lapse and begins once more to play extremely well while the match is still in the speculative stage, enjoys a psychological advantage over an opponent.

Riggs Wins in Crisis

That is exactly the situation in which a young player of little experience is calculated to falter. Riggs must have been worried, for Quist's great pull-up had caught the fancy of the crown and he was getting the major share of the applause. These factors can count heavily in a situation of this kind. The loss of that set more than likely would have meant that Riggs would have been beaten. Riggs did not lose it.

Aside from strokes and the manner of making them these are the things one looks for in determining the relative standing of tennis players as well as the players of all other games. Riggs is good certainly, but one may say on the basis of this match that he is one of the great.

He is so good, however, that it will take a player of Budge's caliber to show exactly where he stands, that is to say, it will take one of the truly great.

Victor's Backhand Vulnerable

Quist, though he lost, was able to show that Riggs' backhand is not the stroke of a champion. It is a good stroke, it somewhat labored, but it is vulnerable to attack, for its method of production does not permit either sufficient pace or consistent depth under stress. During the first set it appeared that Quist would be able to defeat Riggs by extracting a volleyable ball from this wing.

Riggs has great regularity of stroke, unusual mobility and ball control that often is astounding, but he could not cheat so good a volleyer as Quist. Yet he found a way of winning the important set of the match while Quist was in full cry. He had discovered that he himself might volley to good purpose if he could direct a good shot to Quist's own backhand.

Lobs Do the Trick

He had discovered in short that Quist cannot depend on his backhand shot down the line, but must come across court to be reasonably certain of making the passing shot The shot down the line, more often than not, is a setup for the good volleyer and Riggs is a very good one.

And so at these crises he threw up some of the most perfect lobs imaginable to make effective one of the best forecourt games, volley and smash, owned by any player in the world.

Jock Bromwich did quite well. He even took a set and he extracted the best game from the champion. There are a lot of good players who cannot do that. In fact there has been only one other to take a set so far this year and very few to bring out the big game. It would be inexact to say that Budge could not have won the third set if the match had depended upon it, but just the same it is something to take a set from the champion.

Bromwich was badly beaten in the end but he appears to be a player of considerable talent. If it were not for the Budges he too might become a champion.

A Bigger Ambition

In center foreground is Shuhei Nishida, famed Japanese pole vaulter, who placed second in this event both at the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932 and the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936, busy as a soldier in one of the divisions here, preparing for front duty in China.

Pirates Leading Cubs By 2 Games In National Loop

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—With the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Giants definitely out of the running by their poor performance last week, a hectic pennant race between the two leading teams in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates and the second-place Cubs, loomed as National League baseball swung into its final week of play.

Playing championship-brand of ball, the strong Chicago aggregation this week drove over six wins out of six encounters to close the Pirate lead from 3½ games to 2 games.

Meanwhile, the Pirates, equally determined to stave off the challenge, played heads-up ball, winning four out of its five starts.

Both the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Giants who were considered in the running last week threw their chanes by poor performances.

U.S. Disqualified In 400-M. Relay In Budapest Meet

N.Y. Times

BUDAPEST, Sept. 4—A United States swimming team which recently set what was claimed to be a world 400-meter relay record of 3 minutes 59.3 seconds cut that time to 3:56 today, but was disqualified for an illegal start.

The relay race, in which the disqualification gave victory to an all-star European foursome, marked the closing program of a two-day meet in which the Americans beat Hungary, 26 to 16.

The United States relay team, with individual times, consisted of Takashi Hirose of Hawaii, 1 minute flat; Otto Jaretz of Chicago, 0:58.8; Paul Wolf, University of Southern California, 0:58.4, and Peter Fick, New York A. C., 0:58.8. Jaretz jumped into the pool a fraction of a second before Hirose touched.

The European team consisted of Zolyomi and Korosi of Hungary, Dove of England and Csik of Hungary, swimming in that order. Their time was 4:00.2.

Ralph Flanagan, crack distance freestyler from Miami, Fla., won the 400-meter event in 4:46.2, with Plath of Germany second in 4:56, and Gros of Hungary and Wainwright of England tied for third.

Angyal of Hungary, who gave the home forces their only victory in yesterday's opening six events, won again today, taking the 200-meter breaststroke in 2:48.2, with Jim Werson of the San Francisco Olympic Club the runner-up in 2:50.8.

Bill Neunzig of Ohio State captured the 100-meter backstroke in 1:10.8, with Erdelyi of Hungary second in 1:14, and Elbert Root of the Detroit A. C. won the high dive with 110.05 points to 104.69 for Hidvegi of Hungary.

English, Dutch Girls Beaten By Danes In Swim

By L. de B. HANDLEY
N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Danish naiads afforded striking evidence of international leadership at the European swimming championships, decided in a fifty-meter pool at Wembley, England. Winning five of seven title tests for women, they shattered two world records and garnered 100 points, outclassing Holland's fair contenders, high scorers at the last Olympic games in Berlin. The latter earned 60 points and the British girls were next with 45.

Miss Ragnhild Hveger was Denmark's outstanding star. She cut the universal standard for 400 meters freestyle to 5:09, a pace of approximately 5:05 for 440 yards in a twenty-five-yard pool; she helped to capture the 400-meter relay in 4:31.6, as against the world mark of 4:32.8, set in a twenty-five-meter tank, and she lowered the championship record for 100 meters freestyle to 1:06.2, with her young countrywoman, Miss Birthe Ove-Petersen, second in 1:06.8, Miss Inge Soerensen won at 200 meters breaststroke for Denmark in 3:05.4, also a new meet record, and Miss Inge Beeken made it five by scoring in platform diving with 37.09.

Holland Scores

Holland's only winner was Miss Cor Kint, first at 100 meters back stroke in 1:15. Miss Betty Slade took the springboard diving for Great Britain with 103.60.

Germany ran up 148 points in the events for men and retained team laurels, swamping Hungary and Great Britain, next in line with 80 and 44. Meet records fell in four of six swimming features, but performances were not nearly so impressive as in the competition for women. Here are new marks established: 400 meters freestyle, 4:51, Bjorn Borg, Sweden; 100 meters backstroke, 1:09, Hainz Schlauch, Germany; 200 meters breaststroke, 2:45.8, Joachim Balke, Germany; 800-meter relay, 9:17.6, Germany. The other winners were: 100 meters freestyle, 0:59.8, K. Hoving, Holland; 1,500 meters, 19:56.6, Bjorn Borg; springboard diving, 148.20, and platform diving, 124.67, E. Weiss, Germany. Holland won the water polo championship with an unbeaten record, Germany was second and Holland third.

Seven more championship records were broken at the second day of competition for the Far Western A. A. U. swimming titles, conducted in a fifty-meter pool at San Francisco, and of chief interest was the feat of Paul Herron, youthful ace of the Olympic Club, of Stockton, in slicing the men's mark for 200 meters freestyle to 2:16.1. This means around 2:12 for 200 yards in a twenty-five-yard pool, so it looks as if Herron will have to be reckoned with at the furlong hereafter, as our national indoor title was won in 2:10.9. The Stockton lad also lowered the figures for the 300-meter medley to 4:06.8 approaching the American long course standard of 4:05.8, and his clubmate, Fred Van Dyke, clipped the mark for 100 meters backstroke to 1:11.8.

The only meet record missed was that for the 400-meter relay. Herbert Brotman, Don Peterson, Steve Aronson and William Lucas won the event for the Olympic Club, of San Francisco, in the comparatively slow time of 4:13.6. Girl contestants bettered standards in all four the tests slated for them, as follows: 200 meters free style, 2:36.6, Miss Virginia Hopkins, Los Angeles A. C.; 100 meters backstroke, 1:22.8, Miss Anna Cooney, Multnomah A. A. A., Portland, Ore.; 300-meter medley, 4:53.6, Miss Iris Cummings, Los Angeles A. C.; 400-meter relay, 4:53.6, Misses Marian Hopkins, Billie Steitz, Esther Williams, Virginia Hopkins, Los Angeles A. C.

W. S. A. Breaks Record

There passed unchronicled last week a noteworthy record-breaking exploit by young stars of the local Women's Swimming Association. The Misses Mildred O'Donnell, Gloria Callen, Helene Rains and Elizabeth Ryan, averaging less than fifteen years in age, negotiated the 400-meter relay in 4:46.4 in a twenty-five-meter pool and slashed the national short course mark of 4:51.6, made in April, 1932, by mermaids of the Washington A. C., of Seattle.

Italy's foremost watermen took part in a carnival staged in a fifty-meter bath at Rome and results were as follows: 100 meters free style, 1:00.8, M. Costa; 400 meters, 5:11.6, N. Schipizza; 1500 meters, 21:05.9, P. Costoli 100 meters backstroke, 1:13.6, E. Ravera; 200 meters breast stroke 3:02.6 C. Bertetti; 300-meter medley relay, 4:33.7, Giordano Club, Genoa; 400-meter relay, 4:18, Guf Club, Milan.

The 100-meter freestyle swim in 0:58.9 turned in a few days ago by Otto Jaretz, of Chicago, at Ludwigsburg Germany, is the most gratifying feat so far attained by one of the American mermen on tour in Europe. Jaretz is sixteen years old and at the swift rate he is improving there, is every reason to hope he will be a formidable candidate for Olympic sprint laurels by 1940.

Antagonism to the butterfly breast stroke seems to be growing steadily Great Britain barred it from national competition some time ago. Australia and New Zealand are following suit. Other countries are debating the desirability of taking the same course, while among those who favor it there is an increasing feeling that separate competition for the orthodox and butterfly breast strokers should be established.

Wooderson Cops 1,500 Meters Race At Paris

Times, London

PARIS, Sept. 5—A decisive victory by S. C. Wooderson in the 1,500 Meters gave Great Britain her fourth success in the European Championships, which were concluded here today. There might well have been a fifth—for the walk on the previous day had brought a rather unexpected win by Whitlock—but the absence of W. Roberts proved fatal to British hopes in the longer of the two relay races. Wooderson might just have saved the situation, but he preferred not to make a second big effort on the same day.

Today's program opened with a German victory in the 400 meters relay race. Great Britain, who had A. G. K. Brown to run one of the four legs of 100 meters, survived a heat as second to the Germans, but in the final it was the Swedish team who occupied second place and Great Britain the third. M. M. Scarr ran well up to form as the British No. 1. Brown came next, and A. W. Sweeney, as No. 3, handed the baton to E. L. Page for the race home. Already, however, Scheuring, the fourth German, was a bit in front. Page, too, was outpaced by Strandberg, the outstanding Swedish sprinter. Mariani, however, was not enough to save Italy from finishing fourth.

Undoubtedly the best team won in both Relay races. By the time that three of the British runners had covered 400 meters each—first J. G. Barnes, next Private Baldwin, and then A. Pennington—A. G. K. Brown found himself set the impossible task of giving a man like Harbig a start of 12 or so yards. That Brown, in his second relay effort on the same afternoon, should have reduced the lead to about eight yards by the time Harbig reached the tape was as much as could reasonably be expected. The race was supposed to be run in lanes, and there even was a special announcement to that effect, but Great Britain's good fortune, as some regarded it, in drawing the inside lane, was soon of no value at all. Barnes was outpaced by the German No. 1 on the outside and foremost lane, and the intermediate runners were soon in pursuit of the leader on the inside of the track. Not that this affected Great Britain's chances very much. Baldwin made one determined spurt, but could not stay the pace. Pennington regained a little of the lost ground, but not nearly enough to offer Brown a fair chance.

Wooderson's Way

A field of 10 started in the final of the 1,500 meters, and one saw in the number a certain danger to a little man like Wooderson. One need not have worried. Wooderson ran his own race in his own way, at his own pace, and almost contemptuously indifferent to the repeated crowdings and changes of position. Beccali set the pace and Staniszewski, of Poland, kept him at it. Wooderson mostly ran at their heels, with Mostert, a Belgian of repute, and Hartikka, a Finn, occasionally disturbing things. J. W. Alford, Great Britain's second runner and an Empire Games champion, somehow did not enter much into the picture. Wooderson took the lead exactly when he felt inclined, shortly before the bell. Beccali and the others paced after him, but the Italian stumbled, perhaps through fatigue, and did not improve the fading chances of Staniszewski. It was Mostert who made the hardest and fastest effort to overtake Wooderson in the straight, but he failed by nearly a second. Wooderson's time of 3 minutes 53.6 seconds broke no record, least of all J. E. Lovelock's, but the victory was conclusive enough evidence of his ability to win in none too comfortable circumstances, and against a strong field.

In addition to winning both of the Relay races and the Discus, Germany produced two surprisingly good distance runners in the 3,000 meters and 10,000 meters steeplechase. L. Kainal failed by 15 yards to overhaul I. Larsson, the Swedish victor, in the steeplechase, but it was something to beat a dangerous Finn into third place. Finland had I. Salminen of the long, unconquerable stride, to win the 10,000 meters in the face of a strong challenge by four men—any one of whom would have been a worthy winner if Finland for once had relented and sent a long-distance runner of the ordinary magnitude. As it was, she was kind enough to send only one on this occasion, and Salminen thus had no Askola and Iso-Hollo to make things easy for him.

Every now and then—after the rest of the field had been shaken off about half way—one of the six leaders would shoot ahead a little, but only one of them, the diminutive Italian, G. Beviacqua, really worried Salminen. With three laps to go, Beviacqua suddenly raced right ahead and kept there so long that the unbelievers imagined they were on the point of witnessing a Finnish tragedy. Beviacqua, indeed, held on to his 15-yard lead for a third of the way round the last lap. Then Salminen brought into full play his advantage in stride and seasoned stamina, and, when at last the straight was reached, he was about level. Next, he was implacably in front and, finally, a decisive winner by five yards. M. Syring, of Germany, ran a smooth race all through and though rather left by Salminen and Beviacqua in the closing stages, finished splendidly and deprived another excellent runner, J. Szilagyi, a Hungarian, of third place.

Trojan Football Players Occupy Variety Of Jobs

Christian Science Monitor

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2—With the opening of football practice scarcely more han a week away, University of Southern California's gridders are now on the home stretch of variety of Summer occupations, from office jobs to bridge building and from movie extra work to walking a police beat.

White collar office workers include Fullback Bill Sangster and End Jim Slatter, who have their headquarters in the Hall of Justice, and End Bill Coleman, who helps keep the books for an oil company. The bridge builder is Quarterback Jimmy Jones who holds forth in the Angeles National Forest.

Some in Movies

Movie extra work from time to time during the Summer months has been performed by Halfbacks Boyd Morgan and Joe Shell, Fullbacks Roy Engle, Bob Peoples and Jack Banta, Center Don McNeil, Quarterback Frank Swirles and Tackle Howard Stoecker. Tackle Quentin Klenk has been helping to keep the peace at Catalina Island as a member of the island police force.

Tackle Frank Bennet, End Sal Mena, Guard Ben Sohn and Quarterback Henry Sasaki worked during the cantaloupe season in a packing house in Imperial Valley. Running Guard Harry Smith also tossed cantaloupe crates about, later worked for an ice company and planned to spend the last week of his Summer as a counselor in a boy's camp in the mountains.

One a Stevedore

Tackle Don Doyle is a stevedore at Avalon for the Catalina Island Company. Quarterback Doyle Nave is a member of an oil well crew near Bakersfield. Halfback Bob Hoffman works in the warehouse of a local department store. Center Alex Atanasoff is an assistant in the University of Southern California Science Building.

Tamanishiki Wins Championship Of Osaka Tourney

Grand Champion Tamanishiki won the championship of the third annual professional wrestling (sumo or Japanese style) tournament at Osaka, which ended on Tuesday after 13 days of competition. He defeated Grand Champion Minanogawa on the final day by shoving him out of the ring for his eleventh victory. Only bout he lost was to Nayoroiwa, stablemate of Grand Champion Futabayama who did not compete because of illness. The other defeat charged to Tamanishiki was by forfeit to Haguroyama when he rested because of a fever.

The championship within the "makunouchi" or first ranking circle outside of the grand champions went to Nayoroiwa, who lost but two bouts.

Municipality Plans To Build Stadium

A large athletic stadium will be built by the Tokyo Municipality at Yodobashi, in Tokyo, to meet a pressing need, if its plans go through.

The decision to stage a movement for the stadium has been reached because of the abandonment of plans for the construction of the Olympic stadium at Komazawa.

The contemplated site is 100,000 tsubo in area.

Newark Bears Win Another Pennant In International

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 2—The Newark Bears, a made-over ball club that could not lose the championship touch, were being hailed today as "winners and still champions" in the International League.

The Bears clinched their second straight pennant last night when they beat the Baltimore Orioles, 9-4, while the second-place Syracuse Chiefs were losing to Jersey City by the same score. As a result, the Bears moved 15½ games in front of the Chiefs with 15 games to play for each team.

Sporting a new manager in Johnny Neun, who replaced Oscar Vitt when the latter moved up to the Cleveland Indians, a new infield and other strange faces, the prized farm team of the New York Yankees jumped into the lead at the very start of the season and never was headed.

While their record was not as devastating as that of the "Wonder Bears" of 1937, who won the pennant by 25½ games, swept through the playoffs in eight straight games and then won the "Little World Series" from Columbus of the American Association, it was enough to spoil the race by mid-May.

Late in April the Bears, sparked by the home run slugging of Bob Seeds, who later was sold to the Giants, and the terrific hitting of Buddy Rosar and Charler Keller, now one-two in the league batting race, went on an 11-game winning streak. After dropping three games in a row to Buffalo they won 14 more in succession, a club record for consecutive victories, and just about ended the race.

Since Newark is playing only 153 games to the Chiefs' 154, even 15 straight victories for Syracuse and as many defeats for the Bears still would leave Newark out front by half a game at the end of the season.

Pirates And Cubs In Neck And Neck Race For Pennant

Domei Tsushin

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Sept. 27—Jerome "Dizzy" Dean and "Big Bill" Lee, mainstays of the Cub's pitching staff, today hurled a fighting Chicago aggregation to a 2 to 1 victory over the League-leading Pittsburgh Pirates, thus turning the National League pennant fight into a neck-to-neck race between the two teams.

Though granting a total of seven hits, Dean and Lee kept them well scattered and allowed only one man to cross the plate.

Jim Tobin and Bill Swift of the Pirates hurled consistent ball but the Cubs, by bunching their eight hits, scored two runs, enough to win the game. Both teams were credited with an error apiece.

Good Pitching

By BOB SANTELL

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—Best pitching in the league!

Therein you'll find the reason for the showing of the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates this season.

The star trio of righthanders, relief hurler Mace Brown, Cy Blanton and the newcomer, Bob Klinger, have won half the Pirates' victories and rank one-two-three in the league in percentage standing.

Brown, who has been with the Pirates several years but who has participated in only a few games each year, has developed into a wining relief star this season and did his finest work in the all-star game in Cincinnati when he fanned the heavy-hitting Rudy York with the bags full.

Pitchers Prove Potent

Blanton, a rookie star a few years ago, got off to a slow start this season but now has a top record of nine wins against one loss.

Biggest asset to the Pirates hurling staff this season, however, is Bob Klinger, a six-foot Missouri boy who came up from Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league where he won 19 games while losing 13 last year.

Klinger once before had a major league tryout. That was with the Cardinals—in 1933. The Cards could use him now.

Light stickwork of the Pirates in early season now has been given the double reverse, for the Smoky City team now is the best-average hitting team in the league.

As usual, Arky Vaughan, shortstop, is leading the Pirate attack from the plate. He is among the five leading swatters in the loop. "Little Poison" Lloyd Waner continues to keep in the .300 class. And "Big Poison" Paul Waner, a good .300-hitter, has snapped out of his early-season slump and his timely hits have won many ball games for the Pirates.

Rizzo Classy Rookie

Inspirational force for the Pirates this season has been Johnny Rizzo, rookie outfielder. Rizzo came up this season from Columbus of the American association where he swatted for a hefty .358 average. He was a teammate of Enos Slaughter, the Cardinal rookie star this season. Rizzo's big bat has kept his name among the .300 hitters and his fielding has been outstanding.

A glance at the fielding records of the National league teams will give another reason for the Pirates' success this year. That's in the matter of double plays, so vital in quenching rallies and protecting those one-run leads. The Pirates lead all other teams in two-ply killings.

While Manager Pie Traynor has attempted to keep talk of pennants and world series quiet, Pittsburgh fandom has other thoughts.

In fact, talk of Pirate victory in the league race now has become so strong that the Pittsburgh pro football team, which uses Forbes field for its game, has revised it early schedule, fearing possible interference with world series games.

Hartnett's Homer In 9th Aids Cubs To Top Pirates, 6-5, For Lead In National

Domei Tsushin

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Sept. 28—"Gabby" Hartnett's screaming homer after two were out in the ninth today blasted the Pittsburgh Pirates out of top position and placed the Cubs ahead by half a game in the race for the National League pennant.

With the score tied at five runs apiece, the veteran backstop, who only recently replaced Charlie Grimm as manager of the Cubs, broke up the game when he caught one of Mace Brown's offerings on the end of his bat and poled the ball outside the park.

Four errors marred the performance of the Pirates who garnered ten hits and five runs off six Chicago pitchers. Bob Klinger, rookie sensation, started for the Pirates, but later gave way to Bob Swift. Mace Brown hurled the last innings for Pittsburgh. Playing errorless ball, the Cubs coined six runs out of a dozen hits.

Pirates Blank Giants

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1 — The Giants bade farewell to the hostile West today with unconcealed pleasure. Their pennant chances are nearing the vanishing point and they now occupy their lowest position of the year in the National League standing.

Under the lulling influence of Bob Klinger's seven-hit pitching, the Terrymen submitted meekly to the Pirates in their season's finale at Forbes Field. The New Yorkers were handed their thirteenth shutout of the campaign—believed to be a record for scoreless reverses in Giant history and certainly a new low in the managerial career of Colonel Bill Terry—and skidded into fourth place in the flag hunt.

Beaten, 6 to 0, as thoroughly as the score indicates the Giants tonight entrained for their home base seven and one-half games back of the Pirates as their last road trip ended. The Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs have charged ahead of them on the trail of Pie Traynor's bold Buccaneers.

Another Record Crowd

Hal Schumacher was the victim today, hammered to cover in the seventh inning after the Pirates had blasted him for eleven of their twelve hits and all of their runs before a gathering of 28,839 fans, 14,029 of them constituting a season's Ladies' Day record turnout, the second record crowd in two days.

The cripple who cared not whether he figuratively threw his right arm off last Sunday as he pitched the Terrymen to victory in Cincinnati was back in there fighting with his heart alone to keep his club up there and inspire the less experienced hurlers on his firing line. But the chipped bones in his right elbow rendered him unequal to the task, and his mates' failure to pound in some runs sealed his doom as well as their own.

For Schumacher the pain was twofold: To the knife-thrusts with every move of his arm was added the dejection of that humiliating walk to the clubhouse, chased by an enemy's fire.

There was nothing much to the game. The Giants had only one chance to score. In the second inning they loaded the bases on singles by Bob Seeds and Bill Cissell and a pass, with two out. Then Arky Vaughan raced over back of second to grab Schumacher's drive, rob Hal of a hit, and force Johnny McCarthy.

Singles Are Nullified

Never again did Klinger let the Giants bunch two hits in an inning. Four singles were scattered over the remaining seven innings, no other Giants got past first, and in the five innings Klinger pitched to only three men. George Myatt was caught stealing for the second time in the third, and Jimmy Ripple banged into a double play in the seventh. Two Giants singles thus were nullified.

The Pirates, on the other hand, pecked at Schumacher while accumulating a three-run lead for six innings. The Waner boys, Lloyd and Paul, were Schumacher's particular enemies. Lloyd smote four blows, one a triple, and Paul hit two.

The first enemy run came in the second on a pass to Pep Young, Klinger's single and Lee Handley's long fly. Another came in the fifth on Lloyd Waner's triple and brother Paul's single. In the sixth Al Todd doubled Young home after Pep singled and in the seventh Schumacher disappeared under a four-hit shower, which included Young's double.

Klinger Does It Again

Klinger hurled his fourth victory over the Giants as the Terrymen ended their road trip with only four victories in eleven games.

Myatt hit two straight singles and was twice in succession caught stealing. Not only that but he was out on a bunt in the ninth.

Tomonaga-Uyeno Win Doubles Title In Nichi Nichi Tourney

Mrs. Keio Tomonaga and Mrs. Michiko Uyeno of the Denyen Tennis Club won the women's doubles title in the 10th annual championships sponsored by the Nichi Nichi Thursday afternoon at the Ochanomizu courts by defeating Mesdames Hara and Oura of the Green Club in the finals. The score was: 3-6, 6-1 and 10-8.

Mesdames Hara and Oura put up a game, fight in the third set to stop their opponents from scoring match-point four times in the tenth game, to put the set on a 5-all basis. Mesdames Tomonaga and Uyeno rallied to run the set through finally at 10-8.

Frisch Resigns As Manager Of Cardinals

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—Another managerial change has occurred in the majors, with Coach Mike Gonzales taking over Frankie Frisch's position in the Cardinals camp yesterday.

During the Cardinals-Pittsburgh game yesterday, Frisch left his post on the third-base coaching line, announcing that he was through. Immediately after the game Club Owner Sam Breadon appointed Gonzales as manager for the remainder of the season.

Frisch remained silent. Breadon hinted that a change had been contemplated. "Frisch was a good manager," the club owner complimented the outgoing boss. Frisch, Breadon further said, will receive his salary for the entire season.

The Cardinals won from Pittsburgh, 6 to 4, with Paul Dean on the box. It was Daffy's first appearance since his recall from the minors late last week. Although nicked hard, Paul managed to scatter the hits.

The second highlight of the day was Hank Greenberg's heavy slugging. The powerful Detroit first sacker clouted out his 48th and 49th homers of the season.

Miller Beats King In Liverpool Bout

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 1—Freddie Miller, former world featherweight champion from Cincinnati, outpointed Johnny King, British Empire bantamweight titleholder, in a ten-round bout tonight.

A crowd of 5,000 booed the decision. Each fighter weighed 127 pounds.

King's faster and more accurate punching enabled him to establish a lead in the early rounds. Toward the end of the third Miller, after absorbing a barrage of right upper cuts and left jabs, was hanging on to avoid a knockdown, but in the fifth the American rallied and began punching with something like his old-time skill.

Miller almost had King down in this round, but the bell saved the Englishman. Freddie gave the Briton a boxing lesson in the seventh, then faded somewhat in the last two rounds as King made a grandstand finish.

After the referee had awarded the decision to the American it was long before order was restored and the next bout could proceed.

Germans Break Even With U.S. Swimmers

LUDWIGSBURG, Germany, Aug. 31 — America's touring swimming team cleaned up in the freestyle contests but lost the other three races in a six-event meet against a team of German stars today. The United States swimmers won the 100-meter and 200-meter freestyle and the 400-meter freestyle relay, with the home forces capturing the backstroke, breaststroke and medley relay.

Otto Jaretz and Paul Wolf of Chicago finished one-two in the 100, with Jaretz clocked in 58.9 seconds, Wolf in 0:59.7 and Heibel of Germany in 0:59.9. Ralph Flanagan of Miami gained revenge on Werner Plath of Germany in the 200 for the defeat he sustained yesterday, finishing in 2:09.9 to Plath's 2:12.8.

Takashi Hirose of Hawaii, Jaretz, Wolf and Peter Fick of the New York A. C. formed the winning relay team, scoring in 3:59.5 to the 4:01.7 clocking for a German foursome of Laugwitz, Plath, Hanitzki and Heibel.

Heinz Schlauch beat Bill Neunzig of Ohio State by two-fifths of a second in the 100-meter backstroke, in which he was timed in 1:07.5, and Joachim Balke of Germany gained a handy triumph in the 200-meter breaststroke in 2:37.7. Schlauch, Balke and Heibel won the medley relay in 3:16.5, 1.6 seconds ahead of Neunzig, Jim Werson of the San Francisco Olympic Club and Fick.

All-Stars Beat Pro Footballers By 28-16 Count

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—Four touchdowns, two of them on intercepted passes, were more than Washington's Redskins could match tonight, and the collegiate All-Stars swamped the professional football champions, 28 to 16, in the highest scoring splurge of the five-year-old series.

Thus the All-Stars, selected by the fans in a nation-wide poll, defeated a professional champion for the second year in a row. A year ago the Green Bay Packers were vanquished, 6 to 0.

A near capacity crowd of 74,250 spectators sat thrilled in flood-lighted Soldier Field watching the collegians, vastly superior in man power, outrush and to a great extent outplay the professional squad.

Coach Alvin (Bo) McMillin of the collegians used forty-eight players from his squad of sixty-six to score the victory, which was classed as a distinct surprise by followers of professional football.

Beaten by Passes

The Redskins, with their aerial genius, Slinging Sammy Baugh in action, found this kind of play the boomerang that brought about their defeat. Intercepted passes by the alert All-Stars resulted not only in touchdown runs but also put them in position to score an easy field goal.

The collegians revealed a forward passing artist in Cecil Isbell, former Purdue star, who succeeded in matching Baugh's artistry. He tossed one touchdown shot of 40 yards and overshadowed the efforts of the famed Byron (Whizzer) White of Colorado, who got into the game as Isbell's relief. White's shots failed to find their receivers. He played only a short time.

First Pass Completed

The rivals wasted little time going into aerial maneuvers. The Redskins received the kick-off and Baugh pitched a short one to Riley Smith. The throat died when another toss was incomplete. Isbell tried a 45-yard heave to Puplis, but it was incomplete and a brief punting duel followed.

The All-Stars, intercepting a Baugh pass, quickly scored. Shirley, former Nebraska tackle, snatched the ball on the Redskins 30 and ran to the 11 before Baugh made the tackle. After being held to five yards on three plays, Jim McDonald of Ohio State replaced Puplis at quarter and booted the ball squarely bewteen the goal posts, with Patrick holding the ball on the 15-yard line, and the All-Stars led 3-0.

With Baugh throwing three passes for a gain of more than fifty yards, the Redskins soon took command.

The three Baugh aerials advanced the pros to the All-Stars 6, from where Max Krause scored on two smashes at right tackle. Smith added the extra point, making the score Washington 7, All-Stars 3.

Isbell Thrills Crowd

Isbell brought the crowd to its feet by passing to Jack White, Princeton, on the Washington 18, then tossed to Kovatch, Northwestern, who struggled to the Redskins 4 as the period ended.

As the second period opened, the All-Stars failed to convert their thrilling scoring chance. Davis, Indiana fullback, on four smashes failed to gain an inch and Washington took the ball on its own 4. McMillin made numerous replacements, one of which sent Whizzer White, Colorado star, into the All-Star backfield at left half.

Taking the ball on downs on their own 43, the Redskins smashed deep into All-Star territory before White intercepted a pass on his own 20. Karamatic, a Washington fullback, then intercepted White's pass and ran 15 yards to the All-Star 25. Baugh, coming back into the game after a rest, failed in two passes and Riley Smith, with the ball on the All-Star 23, booted a perfect goal from the 30-yard line, making the score Washington 10, All-Stars 3.

Placement Kick Wide

In the third period Isbell tossed a 12-yard aerial to Patrick, who put the ball on the Washington 39. Then Isbell shot a long pass to Kovatch of Northwestern, who caught it on the 10 and dragged a tackler across the line for a touchdown. Isbell's attempted placement went wide.

Within a few seconds the All-Stars snatched the lead on a spectacular pass interception. Bill Dougherty, Santa Clara center, grabbed Karamatic's toss on the Redskins' 40 and ran for a touchdown without a hand being laid on him. McDonald's try for the point went skimming along the grass, and the Collegians led, 15—10.

Jim Ryba, Alabama, blocking Baugh's punt on the Washington 15, gave the All-Stars another scoring chance. Isbell passed to Patrick, who battled his way to the Washington 1-yard line. Davis lost a foot at center as the period ended with the score All-Stars 15, Washington 10.

On the first play of the final period, Davis crashed center for a touchdown. Kinard's try for point was blocked, making the score All-Stars 21, Washington 10. Baugh went back into action, throwing three passes, one for 44 yards to Smith, who was upset on the All-Star 7. The Stars were penalized to their own 2 and Karamatic crashed over for a touchdown. Sweeney, Notre Dame end, blocked Smith's try for point and the tally was 21—16.

The All-Stars cashed in again when Andy Uram intercepted Tuckey's pass and ran 47 yards for a fourth touchdown. Patrick's kick was good, making the score All-Stars 28, Washington 16. In the last three minutes the Redskins threw the ball around frantically but could not score.

Montes To Compete In Japan National Open Golf Tourney

Larry Montes, foremost professional golfer in the Philippines, will compete in the Japanese national open championship to be staged in the middle of October at the Fujisawa course, according to announcement by the Japan Golf Association.

Montes has twice won the same title in the past, and is expected to be a strong contender.

Arrangements have been made with the Philippine Golf Federation for a Japanese topnotcher to play in the Philippine national open next Spring.

Six-Man Teams Showing Gain Among Schools

Christian Science Monitor

CHICAGO, Sept. 1—It was back in 1916 or thereabouts. The game wasn't an important one and it was getting dark. Partly as a joke the coach of our team, when the play brought us close to our benches, surreptitiously sent another man out to help. Not even the officials noticed it in the dark. We won, with 12 men. And the other side, as far as I know, doesn't know it to this day.

That wasn't good football! and, unless we think of it just as a joke it wasn't honest football. Changing the number of players on a football team isn't new, though. In fact in 1868, Princeton and Rutgers played with 25 on each side. In 1877, most teams had 15 men.

Today we are beginning to hear about six-man football, and this observer foresees the day not far off when most small high schools will have six instead of 11-man teams.

Six-Man Football

The scholastic use of the six-man team began in about 1934, when a few score of them were reported in action throughout the country. In 1936 there were more than 500, and last year the number had increased by several hundred more.

There are three main reasons for this shift. First, many small high schools simply haven't enough material to fill out a squad for 11-man teams. Second, many schools haven't the money to equip the larger team, or at least to equip it safely, and send it on long treks away from home. Third, the smaller team makes for more safety.

The added safety lies not only in the fact that there are fewer players to get in each other's way, but in certain changes in the rules. For example, players must, unless there is mutual agreement before the officials, wear canvas shoes with soft rubber soles; no player is allowed to play without a headgear; kicking is encouraged in place of line smashing by valuing a kicked field goal at four points instead of three; and by valuing a kicked try-for-point at two, and those made by carrying the ball or passing at but one point.

Other Rule Changes

There are other significant changes in the rules, all necessitated by the presence of fewer men, and to contribute to safety without the loss of interest or action. The field is 80 yards long instead of 100; the kick-off is from the defender's 30 yard-line; 15 yards instead of 10 must be made in four consecutive downs for a team to retain possession of the ball; the offensive ball carrier must pass the ball to a teammate before crossing the line of scrimmage; all players are eligible to receive a forward pass; and the playing time consists of four, 10-minute periods.

Much credit for the development of this game, which is bound to bring the recreational advantage of the nation's number-one scholastic sport to a larger number, goes to Stephen Epler, who prepared an official handbook on it as his thesis at Columbia University in 1937.

Illustrating the way in which the idea is spreading was the recent action of the Texas Interscholastic League approving six-man football in that state. It has proved popular there, especially in the sparsely settled districts. Champion competition for the present in Texas is to be limited to district play, however.

The result of it all should not only be, we think, more football, but better material for the 11-man college teams.

Schedule Is Out For U.S. Football Season In Tokyo

This year's season of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football league will open on Monday, October 10, at the Meiji Shrine stadium with Waseda, last year's champions, clashing with Hosei at 2 p.m., according to announcement by the league Thursday afternoon.

Waseda is scheduled to meet Meiji in what is expected to be the championship game in the final contest on December 11, at the Korakuen stadium at 3 p.m.

The schedule as announced follows:

Monday, October 10—Waseda vs. Hosei, 2 p.m. at Meiji Shrine stadium.
Tuesday, October 18—Meiji vs. Keio, 3 p.m. at Meiji Shrine stadium.
Wednesday, October 26—Rikkyo vs. Hosei, 3 p.m. at Meiji Shrine stadium.
Wednesday, November 9—Waseda vs. Rikkyo, 3 p.m. at Meiji Shrine stadium.
Wednesday, November 16—Keio vs. Hosei, 3 p.m. at Meiji Shrine stadium.
Saturday, November 19—Meiji vs. Rikkyo, 3 p.m. at Korakuen stadium.
Wednesday, November 23—Meiji vs. Hosei, 2:30 p.m. at Korakuen stadium.
Saturday, November 26—Waseda vs. Keio, 3 p.m. at Korakuen stadium.
Saturday, December 3—Rikkyo vs. Keio, 3 p.m. at Korakuen stadium.
Sunday, December 11—Waseda vs. Meiji, 3 p.m. at Korakuen stadium.

It is expected that the annual East versus West all-star game will be played on New Year's Day either at the Meiji Shrine stadium or at the Korakuen stadium.

Japan's Davis Cuppers To Play In Pacific S.W. Titular Tourney

Domei Tsushin

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28—Three members of the Japanese Davis Cup team, non-playing captain Tamio Abe, Fumiteru Nakano and Yasumine Kuramitsu, have decided to extend their return to Japan by one week because the Pacific Southwest Sectional Tennis Championships here, in which they are scheduled to participate, has been postponed for a few days.

The Japanese tennis stars will leave San Francisco on October 6 by the N.Y.K liner Asama Maru instead of by the Hikawa Maru at the end of this month as previously scheduled.

How An American Scribe Took The Uproar Caused In England By Hutton

By JOHN KIERAN
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—If the seismograph charts showed any wavering marks yesterday, that was no earthquake; it was England quivering with amazement and joy. As astonishing thing happened at the Oval.

Suppose Glenn Cummingham ran a mile in four minutes flat. Suppose Lou Gehrig hit five consecutive home runs in five consecutive times at bat in a world series, with the bases filled each time for an added flourish. Suppose Henry Armstrong went over his weight to the extent of knocking out Joe Louis to win the heavyweight boxing crown. These would be mild marvels in comparison to what happened at the Oval on the Surrey side of the Thames.

In the fifth and final test match against Australia—the world series of cricket, so to speak—a young cricketer on the English side scored 364 runs! So what? Well, that's tremendous, terrific, and might properly be called "colossal" if that word hadn't been worn to a shadow by constant usage in Hollywood.

The White Rose of York

All big-time cricket records went by the board or off the deep and when Leonard Hutton, out of Yorkshire, rolled up a triple century with a 64-run trailer. Doubtless some of the reverend elders among the onlookers wandered away from the Oval amending Shakespeare in their minds to read:

"Now is the Winter of our discontent.

Made glorious Summer by this son of York."

For decades in Merrie England the titular deity of the cricket pitch was the late Dr. W. G. Grace of the portly figure and the full-flowering beard. After him came the great Jack Hobbs. But more recently the primrose by the river's brim didn't seem to have quite the color or the perfume of the primrose of other days. The stardom in cricket had passed to Australia. The blazing batter was Don Bradman from the land of the ring-tailed wallaby and the bounding kangaroo. To make it plain in this area, he was the Babe Ruth of cricket, though somewhat less majestic in architecture than the retired Sultan of Swat.

The potency of the Bradman bat swept Australia to supremacy over England on the cricket pitch and there was woe all the way from Land's End to the most northerly reaches of Northumberland.

Ashes of Empire

For the past three years the Australians won "the Ashes," the cricket crown at stake in the big test matches. They already had clinched this year's victory before Leonard Hutton went to ● in the fifth and final match. Disconsolate onlookers, mourning England's loss, were muttering:

"O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"

It's true that John Bull had a champion named Wooderson who could run a mile like billy-o. Until Fred Perry turned pro, the Davis Cup was just a breeze for the British tennis team. Furthermore, British golfers have been rather successful in recent years in keeping their open championship trophy from traveling westward over the Atlantic.

But these were mild triumphs compared with the great loss of "the Ashes of Empire," if it's legal to put it in that fashion. Tennis is all right in its way. Wooderson's worth on the track is appreciated. Perry was crowned with laurels for his tennis triumphs. But cricket was bred in the bone and held in the heart of every native of the tight little isle. Looking at these lesser victories and sighing for vanished prestige at a greater game, they must have moaned with Byron (who was a world's champion moaner):

"You have the Pyrrhic dance as yet,
Where is the Pyrrhic phalanx gone?"

The Phoenix

At this sad stage there suddenly emerged a Phoenix from "the Ashes." By a facion and fetterlock on the old arms of York, young Leonard Hutton turned out to be a rare bird. As Fleetwood-Smith, the googly bowler, and others on the Australian firing line attempted to suppress him, the 22-year-old graduate from county cricket held forth there on the sacred soil of the Oval hour after hour, swatting their offerings to all corners of the field and scampering up and down for one amazing run after another.

Down went the old records! Up went the cheers in the Oval! In the gloaming back home in Yorkshire they were gathering in joyful groups all through the North Riding, the West Riding and the East Riding to plan a triumphal reception for the return of the native. Three hundred and sixty-four runs in a test match! Bradman never had done that. Nor had any other cricketer. Something was saved from "the Ashes." The favorite flower for decoration now is the White Rose of York.

Something to Remember

Those who saw the amazing batting exhibition of Leonard Hutton at the Oval will be telling their children's children of it on St. Crispin's Day in years to come; how the battle again had gone to the Australians and how all was lost save honor until Master Hutton out of Yorkshire rose up in the fifth match to set a record while all the world wondered—or, at least, every portion of the world where the inhabitants had even a faint idea of the first principles of the good old English game of cricket.

The fame of Babe Ruth penetrated even the rural districts of England. The rise of Leonard Hutton should be noted in this country. Why be provincial? The radio and airplane have come to stay. All countries are neighbors (good or bad) now. Consequently, it will be well to remember that name, Leonard Hutton. Along with Lord Runciman, he is now one of the great personages of Old England.

Bromwich Was Star In Doubles In Cup Finals

By ALLISON DANZIG
N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—Reversing the result of their rout at Longwood, Adrian Quist and John Bromwich kept Australia in the fight for the Davis Cup today as they played Donald Budge and Gene Mako off their collective feet in the challenge round doubles at the Germantown Cricket Club.

In a remarkable, almost mystifying turnabout, the stalwart Californians opened with a 6—0, set to continue the arithmetical recession of their 6—3, 6—2, 6—1 sweep at Brookline, and then went into a tailspin which was accelerated by the almost demoniacal fusillade of the 19-year-old, ambidextrous Bromwich in the final stages.

With the gallery of 9,000 looking on first in amazement and then in consternation, the team from Down Under took command of the match in the second set, and once in the saddle the Australians were never to be dislodged until they had exacted submission from their badly faltering opponents at 0—6, 6—3, 6—4, 6—2.

A Tonic for Invaders

Coming after their double setback in the singles yesterday, the victory served as a stimulating tonic to the Australians and rekindled the spark of hope that all but flickered out when Robert Riggs defeated Quist and Bromwich lost to Budge on the opening day. The challengers' chances of lifting the cup are still far from alarming from the American viewpoint, but Budge was so disappointing today and Bromwich played so extremely well that Captain Harry Hopman and his youthful charges are anything but reconciled to going back home empty-handed even though they must win the remaining two singles.

Tomorrow at 2 o'clock Budge will go on the court with Quist and the expectations are that, in spite of his shortcomings in the doubles, the American champion will rise to the occasion and seal the verdict for the series. In their four meetings to date in tournament and Davis Cup competition, Quist has failed to win a set from the Californian.

Should Quist furnish the biggest surprise of the year at the expense of the player who holds all four of the world's major tennis crowns, it will become the responsibility of the 20-year-old Riggs, playing in his first Davis Cup tie, to save the cup for the United States in the concluding match against the youthful Bromwich.

Might Need Peak Form

If Bromwich reproduces the form he displayed this afternoon and in the final set of his match with Budge yesterday, Riggs will need to be at the peak of his game to hold him in check. The chances are, however, that he will not have to assume so fearful a burden of responsibility.

For all of Budge's shortcomings today and even though he has failed to play the invincible tennis he displayed at Wimbledon since he returned home, the champion has the faculty and the fighting heart to lift his game in an emergency, as he showed against Baron Gottfried von Cramm when the latter led him 4—1 in the fifth set of their cup match last year.

Knowing that the fate of the cup may rest upon his match tomorrow, the incentive will be supplied to inspire him to play up to the full capacity of his great powers and this observer, for one, has complete faith that he will rise to the occasion. His whole record argues that he will.

At any rate, the atmosphere surrounding the challenge round has undergone a marked change in the past twenty-four hours. Last night no one would have given a nickel for Australia's chances. This evening, there is at least an element of doubt about the outcome of the series.

History Is Repeated

History was repeated today in the victory of Quist and Bromwich in the doubles. In 1922 Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood of Australia lost to William Tilden and Vincent Richards in the national doubles final and then inflicted a crushing defeat upon the Americans in the Davis Cup challenge round, the only match the Antipodeans won in the series.

There was the same staggering reversal this afternoon. In accounting for the turnabout from Longwood, it must be said that Quist and Bromwich were hardly to be recognized as the same team that played so listlessly in the national doubles, but at the same time they would never have won so quickly, if at all, if Budge and Mako had not let down so glaringly after their opening blast.

The Americans won the first set more ruthlessly than they did at Longwood. In fact, the Australians were so hopelessly outclassed that the gallery could not help feeling sorry for them and looked on in almost dead silence.

Quist was playing badly, partly from nervousness that caused him to open the match with two double faults in succession, and Bromwich had not worked into the form that was to stand forth so shiningly later. But Budge and Mako were hitting with such deadly effect and were in such complete command of the net that their opponents had no chance to find themselves.

The Americans were attacking from the net regardless of who was serving. Their return of service was so good that the Australians were immediately forced back, and the latter, particularly Quist, were so weak with their return of service that Budge and Mako were volleying or smashing for the point with their first stroke.

At the end of that set it was unthinkable that the Australians, or any other team in the world, could stand up against the scorching fire of the Californians. But with the start of the second chapter Budge and Mako began to slip.

Their return of service weakened. The net was taken away from them, and their lobs lost length. Quist and Bromwich, picking up and taking the offense, volleyed beautifully and murdered the short lobs that came over.

Take Three Games in Row

From 2—all the Australians proceeded to go away. They took three games in a row with the loss of only two points, breaking through Mako at love with four volleys, three of them by Bromwich.

The crowd was enjoying the resurgence of the Australians, but in the third set it began to lose some of its enthusiasm for the invaders. Bromwich was playing superbly, returning service particularly well and volleying brilliantly, and Budge and Mako were not improving, Don failing badly at the net.

The Americans made a great fight to pull out the fifth game from 0—40 on Mako's service, Quist's errors nullifying Bromwich's superlative shot-making, but then Mako began to overhit on his lobs and Quist found his return of service. Mako was broken through in the ninth through his inability to handle the Australians' returns of service to his feet and Quist served the tenth at love for the set.

The fourth and final set belonged to Bromwich. The ambidextrous youngster played the finest tennis seen in the series and had the gallery roaring its appreciation of his fiery exploits, even though it feared the worst.

Victors in Full Command

Quist was playing at his best now, and with both of the Australians in full command of their game and primed with confidence the Americans found themselves squarely on the defensive with their backs to the wall. Budge slumped badly until all the fire went out of his game. Twice he was broken through, in the first at 8—6 and in the fifth at 15.

Mako, although he made mistakes in setting up winners for Bromwich at the net, played magnificently in spots, but he was one man against two in most of the rallies. His work in the seventh game, with its mad volleying onslaughts, was nothing short of sensational, but after the opponents had been turned back at match point in that game Quist served and there was no denying the Australians again.

Bromwich volleyed, Bromwich smashed, Quist served an ace and then Quist came in to take Budge's return of service and volley it out of reach for a love game and the match.

Cubs Now Need Only 2 Victories To Win Pennant

Domei Tsushin

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Sept. 29—The slipping Pittsburgh Pirates dropped a notch lower in the nip-and-tuck National League pennant race when they lost their third straight to Chicago by the lopsided score of 10 to 1.

The Cubs, who yesterday ousted the Pirates from the top position, now lead in the pennant chase by one and a half games. Only two more wins will give them the flag and the right to face the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Ten hits coupled with three costly errors on the part of the Pirates gave the Cubs ten runs. Four Pittsburgh pitchers tried in vain to stop the slaughter. "Big Ed" Brant, veteran Pittsburgh portsider, was knocked out of the box in the early part of the game and the others fared little better.

Bill Lee, who went the full route for the Cubs, gave seven hits, but kept them well scattered. The sparkling performance of his teammates also contributed to keeping the Pittsburgh runs down to a single tally.

While Pittsburgh needs to win four games from the strong Cincinnati Reds, the Cubs can cop the pennant by taking two from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cubs Defeat Reds

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4—Augie Galan hit a triple and home run to give the Cubs a 2-to-1 eleven inning victory over Cincinnati in the final of the series today. The defeat snapped the Reds' winning streak at six.

Charlie Root held Bill McKechnie's men scoreless until the ninth when Ival Goodman clouted his thirtieth home run over the center field fence to knot the score. Galan had tripled and come home on Carl Reynolds's single in the fourth.

Mrs. Tomonaga Wins Nichi Nichi Singles

Mrs. Keiko Tomonaga of the Denyen Tennis Club won the women's singles title in the 19th anual tennis championships sponsored by the Tokyo Nichi Nichi Friday afternoon at the Ochanomizu courts by defeating Miss Sumiko Kamo of the same club in the finals. The score was: 4-6, 7-5 and 6-1.

Miss Kamo's underhand service handicapped her play considerably against the champion.

4 Homers Help Yankees To Down Senators, 7 To 4

By JOHN DREBINGER
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—Paced by Joe Gordon, who appeared to be in a mood for great violence, the Yankees exploded four home runs before the admiring gaze of 14,107 onlookers yesterday, and thereby exterminated the Sentaors so swiftly that the entire visit of Bucky Harris' men for their single game in the Stadium was over in 1 hour 34 minutes. The score was 7 to 4.

Gordon, out to make the going as easy as possible for his chubby friend, Irving (Bump) Hadley, hit two homers—as well as two doubles—to bring his season's total to twenty-one. Joe DiMaggio hit one for his twenty-eighth, while Tommy Henrich, not to be outdistanced by his comrades, unfurled his twenty-second.

At that it cannot be denied the Senators learn fast and perhaps had the Yanks not rushed them so they might have made considerable trouble on their own account. For they also cut loose with a couple of homers, one by Buddy Myer, the other by Sammy West.

Yanks Increase Lead

But both shots came with two out in the ninth and by then Hadley was not in the mood to tarry any longer. He quickly clamped down the lid on Rick Ferrell for the third out and so nailed fast his eighth pitching victory. In passing, it might be mentioned the result sent the Yanks winging to a distance of thirteen and a half lengths ahead of the second-place Red Sox, who broke even.

The left-handed Elon Hogsett and the portly Harry Kelley were the victims of the latest Yankee home run barrage. Hogsett going down for three and Kelley, who came on in the sixth, getting tagged for the fourth.

Hogsett, in fact, was tumbled for four runs in the third inning that virtually settled the battle right then and there. Gordon opened the assault with a towering shot into the left field runway between stand and bleachers.

A Frank Crosetti double and Red Rolfe single accounted for the second tally and DiMaggio then banged one off the bottom of the left field stand, the ball careening toward the bullpen, with Al Simmons making frantic efforts to pick it up. The ball seemed to be all handles and by the time Al got it to the plate DiMadge already had slid over it.

Henrich Hits No. 22

Henrich contributed his No. 22 in the fifth. Then in the sixth Gordon, doubtless under the impression Kelley had not seen his third inning blast, virtually duplicated the shot.

In the meantime Hadley, blanking Washington with two hits in five innings, yielded the first tally in the sixth, the second in the eighth and was about to close a five-hitter when Myer and West suddenly bobbed up with their two homers.

Resigned to the fact that none of them can overtake Hank Greenberg, Rudy York or Jimmy Foxx in the American League's home-run derby, the Yanks are having a private race with five of them, DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Henrich and Gordon bunched between 21 and 28. This in itself is a major league record.

Y.C.A.C. To Play Tokyo U.S. Style Football Teams

The Yokohama Country and Athletic Club of Yokohama foreigners will play a game each with Waseda, Meiji, Rikkyo, Keio and Hosei universities of the Tokyo Inter-Collegiate American Football league. The first four Club games will be played at their home grounds in Yokohama and the final game with Hosei on December 4 at the Korakuen stadium in Tokyo.

The fifth annual Thanksgiving games will be played again at the YC and AC grounds with Rikkyo.

Paul Rusch, League Chairman, has announced that J. Earl Fowler of Rikkyo will again head the Football Officials' Association and begin conducting a class in Official Rules next Wednesday for approximately 20 foreigners and Japanese who will officiate at games this Autumn. Every effort will be made to speed up the playing of each game. Mr. Rusch also announced the League would adhere to the two new changes for 1938 as authorized by the Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association of the United States. The only changes affect Rule 7 of American football. First, any forward pass (except those made on fourth down) which becomes incomplete behind the goal line will be treated in the same manner as though it struck the ground in the field of play. A forward pass made on fourth down which becomes incomplete behind the goal line, as heretofore, result in a touchback. The second change states when the ball goes out of bounds between the goal lines or becomes dead within 15 yards of a side line, it shall be put in play at a spot 15 yards from that side line instead of 10 yards as heretofore.

Rules Committee

From the inception of organized college football here on Thanksgiving Day, 1934, the young Japanese College League and its cooperating team of members of the Y. C. and A. C., has adopted as its official rules those of the American National Collegiate Athletic Association which are decided by 11 official members, including some of the most outstanding names in American football. The 1938 Rules Committee consists of W. J. Bingham of the New England States, W. G. Crowell of the Middle Atlantic States, W. A. Alexander of the Southeastern States, Dr. Fielding H. Yost, Middle Western States, G. F. Veenker, Missouri Valley States, D. X. Bible, Southwestern States, L. H. Mahoney, Mountain States, W. O. Hunter, Pacific Coast States, A. A. Stagg, life member of the American rules committee, and W. R. Okeson, Chairman, and W. S. Langford, Secretary.

Owing to the difficulties of the present year for sports, Mr. Rusch is appealing to members of the American communities of Tokyo and Yokohama and to members of the America-Japan Society to help the League maintain its 1938 schedule by becoming patrons of the game. About two-thirds of the cost of stadium rental can be realized from gate admissions but one third must depend upon the generosity of friends of football who will help keep the game progressing, he says.

A special reserved section at each game will be turned over to wounded soldiers now in Tokyo hospitals. Plans are being made for their transportation to and from their hospitals and the stadiums.

Matsumoto Back

Takizo Matsumoto of Meiji University who returned last week by the Tatsuta maru after having won the degree of Master of Business Arts from the Harvard Business School, attended the meeting and was elected Vice Chairman of the League for the remainder of the year. Last December Mr. Matsumoto attended a meeting of New England coaches and received a warm reception when he told of the progress the game is making here.

The fifth annual season of America football in Japan opens October 10 with the 1937 Waseda Champions playing Hosei at Meiji Jingu.

Small-Bore Prize Won By U.S. Team

N.Y. Times

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 4—The United States small-bore shooters compiled a total of 3,952 out of 4,000 today to win the R. W. S. (Rheinisch-Westfalische Sprengstoff Aktiengesellsschaft) international trophy team match in which Great Britain reported a score of 3,913.

This match is fired by teams of ten and is held on the home ranges, the British representatives having fired earlier in the year. The United States squad won the trophy last year with 3,961.

C. B. Lister, secretary of the National Rifle Association, was the official observer for Great Britain. Dr. Russell Gardner, Troy, Ohio, was team captain; A. J. Yearsley, Piqua, Ohio, coach, and J. C. Lippincott, Elizabeth, N. J., adjutant.

The individual scores were: Dave Carlson, New Haven, Conn., 399; John Wark, Buffalo, N. Y., 397; H. D. Triggs, Madison, N. J., 397; Ernest Pade, Sellersville, Pa., 397; V. F. Hamer, Woodstock, Minn., 396; F. O. Parker, Rock Island, Ill., 396; C. F. Rider, New Kingston, Pa., 395; E. F. Menhen, Atlanta, 395; E. J. Doyle, New Haven, Conn., 390; Charles Conrad, St. Louis, 390.

The inter-allied small-bore tenman match, known as the Fidac, was fired over the 50-meter range. The United States unit finished with 1,964 out of 2,000, 5 points lower than the British total of 1,969 which prevailed in 1937. The British score for this year has not been announced.

Lister was the official observer for Great Britain, C. Woodworth, Athens, Ohio, the team captain, and Robert Dunlap, Jackson, Ohio, adjutant.

The individual scores were: Byron Putnam, Wheaton, Ill., 199 out of 200; Lester Pope, Los Angeles, 199; C. F. Rider, Kensington, Pa., 198; J. W. Summerall, Waycross, Ga., 197; H. C. Berlin, Oil City, Pa., 197; A. J. Yearsley, Piqua, Ohio, 197; Thurman Randle, Dallas, 197; John Miller, Los Angeles, 196; Ray Louden, Butler, Pa., 193; Walter Oakey, Washington, 191.

Meiji Defeats Waseda, 9 To 8 For 2 Straight

Although the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league is only half way through, Meiji just about clinched its fourth straight title in the league's semi-annual play by defeating its strongest contender, Waseda, on Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium, to maintain top place in the standings with six straight victories. All Meiji now has to do is to topple over Keio and Hosei.

Southpaw Shimizu's nifty pitching won for Meiji on Saturday by a 2 to 0 score. He yielded but three hits to the usually hard sticking Waseda batsmen. Kondo, a left hander, hurled good ball for Waseda, allowing only six hits, but his team-mates had a bad day afield and chalked up six errors to lose him the game.

5 Run Rally Wins

A five-run rally in the first half of the eighth inning pulled Meiji ahead in Sunday's game by a 9 to 8 score. A capacity crowd of 50,000 fans saw the two teams battle for three hours in the hardest fought league game in years.

Both teams elected to use the same pitchers for the second successive day but both failed to end the game. Shimizu was sent to the showers in the sixth and Kondo was yanked out in the eighth after the Meiji players had scored four of the five runs.

Waseda pounced on Southpaw Shimizu for four runs in the first inning. Murase walked and Miyoshi was safe on Shimizu's wild peg to first after fielding the former's bunt. Nagata's hopper rolled for an infield hit when Shimizu was too slow in his fielding. Kataoka was thrown out at first on a grounder to second but Murase checked in. Minamimura walked and the bases were loaded again. Captain Takasu singled through third to bat in Miyoshi. Nagata then scored on Ogusu's fly to right. A hit and run play with Kondo at bat worked beautifully and Minamimura scored all the way from second. The scoring ended when Asai struck out.

Not a bit discouraged by Waseda's impressive start, Meiji rallied in the second to score three runs. It all started with Shortstop Sugiura's three bagger down the right field foul line. Third Baseman Kamei grounded out to short but Shigeo Kameda walked. By virtue of a fine start, Sugiura scored on Matsui's grounder to third. Shimizu singled to left and Kameda romped all the way home from second. Shimizu tallied a moment later when Captain Yoshida's grounder tunneled through the third baseman's legs.

Sugiura Doubles

Meiji deadlocked the score at 4-all in the third when Sugiura doubled to center after First Baseman Sakata had walked. But Waseda forged ahead by two runs in its portion of the same frame. Shimizu's loss of control walked four men to force in a run and Third Baseman Minamimura stole home.

Right hander Kodama relieved Shimizu on the mound for Meiji at the outset of the seventh and Waseda greeted him with a run to lead 7 to 4. Minamimura singled to get on after one out and tallied later on Kondo's timely hit to center.

The game looked a sure victory for Waseda as Meiji came in to bat in the eighth inning. But thing began to happen when Kondo walked Yoshida and Ito singled through the pitcher's box. Tobita, pinchhitting for Kato, came through with a Texas Leaguer to center and Yoshida, running for his very life, beat the peg home. Sakata popped out to short but Sugiura walked to clog the bases. Third Baseman Kamei turned hero of the day with a brilliant three bagger to left to clean up the bags putting his team into a one-run lead. The ball took a one-bound hop into the bleachers. Kondo, with tears in his eyes, was sent to the showers and Ishiguro, a right hander, replaced him. Kameda nicked him for a hit to left and brought in Kamei for what proved to be the winning run.

This time, it was Meiji in the lead by two runs as Waseda came in for the latter half of the eighth. Murase doubled to right center and promptly scored on Miyoshi's single through Pitcher Kodama. Nagata doubled down the left field line to send Kiyoshi to third. Here was an opportunity to tie the score. Kataoka grounded out to second. Minamimura rolled a hopper to short and Miyoshi dashed for the plate in a desperate attempt to put the count on a 9-all basis but Sugiura's accurate peg nabbed him. Nagata went to third on the same play but Tsujii, batting for Takasu, forced Minamimura at second.

Pitcher Kodama had plenty of steam left in the ninth and retired the Waseda batsmen in one-two-three order.

Teidai Wins

Tokyo Imperial University (Teidai) won its first game of the season by defeating Hosei, 4 to 3, in Sunday's game. They fought to a scoreless tie on Saturday.

A three-run rally in the last half of the ninth turned the trick in Sunday's game. Imanaka started with a hit over first and Tamaki walked. Uyesugi was sent in to run for him. Yamamoto struck out. Furukawa grounded to Pitcher Akaneya but his peg to first hit the runner and Imanaka scored from second. Nomura walked to fill the bases. Tajima worked Akaneya for a walk to force in Uyesugi to deadlock the count at 3-all. Ariuke was sent in to pitch for Hosei. But he uncorked a wild pitch with Mitsutake at bat and Furukawa romped home for the winning run.

The summaries for Sunday's games follow:

Run That Started Meiji Victory

Hitting the ground and scoring is Captain Yoshida in the eighth all the way from second as Pinch-hitter Tobita came through with a Texas Leaguer. It started a five run rally that won for Meiji against Waseda by a 9 to 8 score on Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Backstop Ogusu gets the ball too late.

Pitchers Leading Batting Race In Varsity League

It is interesting that the two leading pitchers of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league are leading the race for batting honors up to games played on Sunday.

In top place is Pitcher Kondo of Waseda with a .429 mark, the result of six hits out of 14 trips to the plate in four games.

Right at Kondo's heels is Pitcher Shimizu of Meiji with a .412 average. He registered seven hits out of 17 times at bat in six games.

Not a single Keio player is within those batting above .225.

Foxx's 39th Helps Red Sox Win, 5-3

BOSTON, Sept. 1—With Jimmy Foxx's thirty-ninth homer signalizing a return to hitting form, the Red Sox took the odd game of the three-game series from the Browns today, 5 to 3.

Lefty Fritz Ostermueller pitched steadily, giving the Browns only seven hits. He led, 5-1, going into the ninth, having allowed only five hits up to then, one being Ralph Kress' homer in the second. With one out in the final frame, however, Ostermueller walked Heffner and pitcher Buck Newsom sent the runner to third with a double, his third hit of the day. Pinch hitter McQuillan went out on a foul pop, but McQuinn doubled to score two runs. Joe Heving then came in to relieve the southpaw and fanned Buster Mills for the final out.

Keio Captures Kanto Water Polo Title

Keio University's water polo team won its third title this year Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine pool when it triumphed over Waseda, 3 to 2, in the finals of the Kanto Students Water Polo tournament.

Waseda led at half time by two goals to one but Keio rallied in the second to register two while it held Waseda scoreless.

The teams were:

Keio: Matsumoto, Wada and Natori, forwards; Ishihara, halfback; Nakamura and Oumaye, fullbacks; Okada, goalie.

Waseda: Ono, Shinma and Kawagoye, forwards; Okuda, halfback; Tsubota and Kono, fullbacks; Kawashima, goalie.

Feller Turns Back Athletics, 11 To 4

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1—Bob Feller gained his thirteenth triumph of the season today by defeating the Athletics, 11 to 4, in the final of a three-game series which the Indians swept from the Mackmen. The Cleveland youngster fanned eight batsmen.

Franklin Hayes contributed a home run in the six with two on base for the Athletics. It was his tenth homer of the season.

The Indians hammered four Philadelphia pitchers for twelve hits. Lee (Buck) Ross, who started, was charged with the defeat.

Britain Downs South Africa, 21-16 At Rugger

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 10—A great second-half recovery enabled Great Britain to win the third and final match against South Africa here today by 21 points to 16. South Africa had led by 13 points to three at half-time, and many thought that Great Britain were in for another defeat. But they fought back in grand style.

For the first time the British forwards were really successful in the scrummages, which were very even throughout. They gave a grand display in the loose with dribbling rushes, which repeatedly carried play down the field and unsettled the Springbok backs. Every British forward played a great game, but Walker, G. T. Dancer, and R. B. Mayne were outstanding in the open and magnificent in defense. G. E. Cromey and G. J. Morgan combined splendidly at half-back, Cromey being thrustful and courageous.

Great Britain were first to score, G. J. Morgan breaking away and passing out to Jones, who went over on the right for a try, which Alexander did not convert. The British were winning the early scrummages and attacked hard. Their forwards were playing with fire in the loose and forcing the Springboks back. With the tackling on both sides very fierce the backs had little chance to get away. Grieve once saved a threatening situation when he fell on the ball after a dribbling rush by the South African forwards, but a little later South Africa scored. Turner broke away brilliantly in his own half and passed to Williams, who kicked ahead. Turner raced up and scored after the ball had rolled over the line. He himself converted and South Africa led by 5—3.

South Africa Score Again

Then came another South African score. Dancer broke away in the loose, but his pass to Jones was intercepted by Bester, who ran on to beat Grieve. Turner converted with a difficult kick and South Africa led by 10—3. Attacking with great spirit the British team continued to press until Harris found touch two yards from the British line. Lotz secured the ball from the lineout and scored. Smith did not convert and this made South Africa 13—3 at half-time.

Great Britain reduced the arrears when Walker broke away from a line-out and passed to Dancer, who scored. McKibben converted the try. Then after a South African had been given offside, McKibben scored with a great penalty kick, taken on the touch-line just inside the "25."

The British kept up the attack. Cromey found touch inside the South African "25," and after the South Africans had fought back to the half-way line Cromey broke away in midfield, ran straight through, and passed to Alexander, who scored in the corner. McKibben failed with the kick, but Great Britain now led by 14—13. The South African backs and forwards swept down the field in fine rushes, but the British backs tackled desperately until they were penalized for an infringement in the loose, almost in front of the posts. Turner kicked a penalty, to give South Africa the lead at 16—14 six minutes from the end.

The British team came back in determined fashion. Cromey missed by inches with a drop at goal from 35 yards, but Grieve dropped a great goal from 40 yards to make the score 18—16 in Great Britain's favor. Just before the end Duff secured the ball from a line-out on the Springbok line and scored. McKibben did not convert, but Great Britain had won the match by 21 points to 16.

The teams were:

Great Britain.—C. F. Grieve (Army and Scotland), back; E. Jones (Llanelly), R. H. McKibben (Queen's University and Ireland), J. L. Giles (Coventry and England), and C. V. Boyle (Dublin University and Ireland), three-quarter backs; G. E. Cromey (Queen's University and Ireland) and G. J. Morgan (Old Belvedere and Ireland), half-backs; C. R. Graves (Wanderers and Ireland), W. H. Travers (Newport and Wales), G. T. Dancer (Bedford), R. Alexander (Royal Ulster Constabulary and Ireland), S. Walker (Istonians and Ireland), R. B. Mayne (Queen's University and Ireland), P. L. Duff (Glasgow Academicals and Scotland), and J. A. Waters (Selkirk and Scotland), forwards.

South Africa.—G. Smith (Eastern Province), back; D. O. Williams (Western Province), P. De Wet (Western Province), F. G. Turner (Western Province), and J. Bester (Western Province), three-quarter backs; T. Harris (Transvaal) and D. Craven (Northern Transvaal), half-backs; M. Louw (Western Province), J. Lotz (Transvaal), S. C. Louw (Transvaal), B. du Toit (Northern Transvaal), A. R. Sheriff (Northern Transvaal), W. E. Bastard (Natal), L. C. Strachan (Northern Transvaal), and B. Bergh (Northern Transvaal), forwards.

Chicago Annexes Championship In National Loop

Domei Tsushin

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—The Chicago Cubs today clinched the championship of the National League by splitting a doubleheader with St. Louis Cardinals, while the crowding Pittsburgh Pirates were losing to the Cincinnati Reds.

The Cards trimmed the Cubs, 4-3, in the opener, but lost the second game, 10-3, as Root hurled masterful ball, allowing only scratch hits during the last six innings. At the end of the game, Root's teammates hoisted him to their shoulders and paraded about the field.

The hard fighting but unfortunate Pirates bowed to the Rhinelanders, 9-6. Yesterday, the Bucs divided a twin bill with the Reds, while the Cubs fought the Cards to a 7-7 draw to hold their slim lead over Pittsburgh. It was the closest pennant race in the National League in 30 years.

By virtue of today's games, the Bruins will face the World Champion New York Yankees, this year's American League winners, in the World Series starting here at Wrigley Field on Wednesday.

Waseda Soccerites Beat Meiji, 2 To 0

Waseda vanquished Meiji by 4 goals to nil Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium in the opening game of the 1938-39 soccer season of the Kanto University league. The score at half time was 2 to 0.

The ball was in Meiji territory throughout the greater part of the game.

A soccer festival in which 1,500 soccer players of 81 teams participated preceded the game.

Purses Must Increase, Says Pro Golfer Sarazen

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Sept.—Gene Sarazen, one of golf's outstanding personages through all these years and a man who usually knows what he is talking about and says it right out loud, thinks professional golf is a "sucker's game" as it stands now, and in that opinion concurs with practically everybody who has ever given the thing a moment's thought. His ideas are not brand new. They just happen to be authoritative, coming from him.

The point he makes in an article recently published in Collier's is that the prize money for the big tournaments is not anywhere near what it should be. Inasmuch as he is a playing professional, the first reaction to that would be that he is out there in the magazine belting away with a keen eye looking toward his own interests. He may be selfish in his viewpoint for all I know, but he still has an argument you can't very easily quell.

He points out that besides any advantage that professionals would derive from an increase in purses, the game would get a shot in the arm that would result in a boom, for many youngsters now turning to other pursuits would play the game as a career, making it necessary that additional courses be built everywhere, for one thing, and for another the manufacturers would profit.

There are other reasons, too, why the prize total should be greater, but aside from all that the professionals have their best argument in the fact that they are among sportdom's most skilled performers but generally speaking, somewhat below par in the pay envelope received in the big events. They can't do nearly so well as a ball player, a fighter, a professional football player, a professional tennis tsar are numerous others on a comparative basis.

Sarazen says that only Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen made what might be termed real money out of golf, and theirs came largely from outside sources. Sarazen admits he did pretty well, too, and salted it away during the golden twenties with the result that he now has a farm, a cow, a field of corn, a chicken and a few other odds and ends and won't ever have to worry any more.

But what about hundreds of others who never got beyond a battered second hand car in worldly possessions? It is in their behalf that he is making his squawk, Sarazen says.

As a matter of fact, if the Squire, as he is known, wants to do some real earnest squawking he couldn't start at a better point than in the Professional Golfers Association, of which he is a member. They might figure out a way themselves to give themselves more money in their annual tournament, instead of arranging the thing so that the winner windsup with a couple of grand after having survived the toughest match play cannonading extant. They, in fact, don't get even that much for winning the P. G. A. championship by the time they pay their expenses for traveling to and from and for staying at the scene of the tournament.

Golf is the biggest game in the world to be run on so shoddy a basis insofar as the participants are concerned. It wouldn't be surprising to see them figure out a way soon to jack up the prize money in the big events and really put them on a world series basis. But for the fact that manufacturers kick in for the signatures of the leading professionals there wouldn't be much point in their playing.

In a few words, Sarazen sums the whole thing up as follows:

"What I'm trying to say is that any man is crazy to take up golf as a profession, just as he's crazy not to take it up as a pastime."

Placing second was Nihon University. It scored six victories and suffered one setback, the same with Meiji, but was credited with 49 points.

Everton Defeats Arsenal, 2 To 1 For 5th Victory

Times, London

LONDON, Sept. 12—Everton beat Arsenal at the Asenal Stadium on Saturday by two goals to one and so gained their fifth consecutive victory of the season.

All through the first half of the match Everton played perfect football, and Arsenal had the unusual experience for them of being made to look slightly foolish. They were, in fact, playing quite well, but Everton during that first half would have outplayed any side, and they thoroughly deserved their lead of two goals. They kept the ball on the ground, every pass found its man, and the half-backs were so quick on the ball that the Arsenal players seldom had a chance of doing anything with it. It would not be kind to praise any one member of the team more than the others, for all of them, from center-forward to goalkeeper, were craftsmen. It is to the credit of Arsenal that after the first half, which must have been a nasty shock for them, they hit back with fine spirit and very nearly saved the game. Everton lost some of their confidence, and after the interval for the most part were on the defensive. They may have made up their minds to sit on their lead, in which case they were probably guilty of an error of tactics, but it is more likely that the pace they set in that first half had taken a good deal out of them. If Drake had been able to play for Arsenal they might have drawn level in the last few hectic minutes, but on the run of the play Everton deserved their victory.

There were 63,000 people in the ground when Arsenal kicked off into the wind. The weather was fine and the ground hard, so that there was every prospect of good football being played. Arsenal immediately attacked, but Everton repulsed them and Lawton, their young center-forward who had scored six of their 10 goals in the previous matches, sent in a left-foot shot from a difficult angle. There would appear to be a great future for this player. He has ball control, dash, and height, and there is no doubt he can shoot. He and Boyes, with Stevenson to help, led the Arsenal defense as pretty a dance as they have had for some time. One move, in which Lawton and Boyes changed places, had the Arsenal defense completely beaten, but B. Joy headed away Lawton's shot. Although Arsenal attacked from time to time Everton were having so much of the play that it was no surprise when they took the lead after a quarter of an hour. Lawton got the ball just outside the penalty area and was apparently safely hemmed in by defenders, but clever footwork tricked the defense and he was able to slip the ball inside for Stevenson to dash through and shoot past Swindin as the goalkeeper came out.

One-Handed

Another movement between Lawton and Boyes would have led to a second goal if Swindin had not made a good one-handed save. Then it was that Everton made one of their few mistakes. Bastin pushed the ball through to Carr and the defense stood still, with arms raised, appealing for off-side. The whistle, however, was not blown and they only got back just in time to save the situation. It was a small blemish in what was, for Everton, a great half, and they were soon back to the attack, giving the Arsenal defense so much to think about that the Arsenal forwards seldom had a chance to do anything. Five minutes before half-time Everton attacked on the right and the ball came through to Lawton who, once again, seemed to have the way to goal blocked. However, he turned as if to take it to the left, drawing the defense with him, and then after a couple of paces hooked the ball past Swindin with his left foot to score a magnificent goal. Everton had some anxious moments just before the interval when Sagar was charged over the line, but there was no score.

Arsenal began the second half as if they were two goals up instead of two down, but the Everton defense was very sound, Jones getting through an immense amount of work at center-half. B. Jones, Arsenal's inside-left, had not seen a lot of the ball in the first half, but now he had more of it and all his passes found their man. A hard shot from L. Jones passed just wide of the Everton goal and then, after a corner taken by Bastin, Sagar was beaten and it was left to a back to kick the ball off the line. Everton at this time were showing little of their earlier form, and after 20 minutes Arsenal got their goal. Hapgood came up on the left and centered. The ball was headed away but fell at the feet of B. Jones, who scored from outside the penalty area with a hard shot along the ground. Everton had some more escapes before the end, although they were then having rather more of the play. Carr and Nelson both missed chances and one terrific shot from Bastin was only inches too high.

The teams were:—

Arsenal.—Swindin, goal; Male and Hapgood, backs; Crayston, B. Joy, and Copping, half-backs; Nelson, Jones (L.), Carr, Jones (B.), and Bastin, forwards.

Everton.—Sagar, goal; Cook and Greenhalgh, backs; Mercer, Jones, and Thomson, half-backs; Gillick, Bentham, Lawton, Stevenson, and Boyes, forwards.

Armstrong Likely To Give Up One Of Three Titles

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Sept.—(INS).—Along Bash Boul" these days some of the more knowing among the cauliflower gentry are willing to take a price that Henry Armstrong—the triple title-holder—won't be wearing more than one of his pugilistic tiaras at the end of the Winter season.

And if the odds were long enough, some would be willing to bet that he won't have any title by next April or May.

Now Too Heavy

They say it is a foregone conclusion that he will give up his featherweight title without defending it. The little coffee colored battler was razor fine for his battle with Lou Ambers. He weighed 134½ for that one and the cauliflower boys don't believe he can ever again make 126 pounds—the feather limit—without amputating a leg.

Henry probably will go right along cashing in on his three titles until he is asked to lay the lightest of them on the line against a good challenger and then gracefully announce that he can no longer make the weight.

He is going to risk his welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia in Madison Square Garden Nov. 2, and many of the denizens of Bash Boul' believe he will be minus his heaviet crown when that one is over.

There were only a few ounces difference between Henry and Ambers and only a few pounds between Henry and the washed-up Barney Ross who was never a real welterweight.

Henry is now a legitimate lightweight. Garcia is a legitimate welter who will have to train down to come in at 147 pounds. He will enter the ring with fully a dozen pounds advantage over Armstrong. This wouldn't make much difference against a cream-puff puncher. But it may make a great deal of difference against the Filipino who really can sock.

Some of the cauliflower brigade think Henry's style is made to order for Garcia. They readily admit that a "cutie" will always give Garcia trouble but they believe anybody who walks in swinging, as Henry does, will find himself in trouble against the Filipino.

Garcia Hits Hard

These observers declare Garcia will experience little difficulty in hitting Henry and when he hits he'll hurt. They have a vivid recollection of the shellacking Ambers gave Armtrong and don't let any one tell you Henry didn't get a good beating. He was so exhausted that he couldn't even talk for ten minutes after the fight.

They don't believe he will have recovered from that beating by November and they reason that if a notoriously light hitter like Ambers could do that to Armstrong, Garcia should do more.

As for that lightweight title, they believe he will blow that one when he meets Ambers again. They point to the fact that Ambers has always beaten anybody who beat him in a return bout as he did Tony Canzoneri, for example. And they figure that if Garcia hands Armstrong a severe beating, Henry will be just that much easier for Ambers to take later on.

This, of course, says nothing. Henry, of course, says nothing. He lets his fists speak for him and thus far they have been extremely eloquent.

Tsuruta Captures Tonichi Net Title

Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio, third ranking player in 1937, won the singles title in the 19th annual Tonichi tennis championships Monday afternoon at the Waseda courts by vanquishing Tetsuo Takakusu of the Koshien Club of the Kansai in the finals. The score was: 6-3, 2-6, 9-7 and 63-.

Tsuruta was in fine form. He not only scored aces from time to time but he was exceptionally good in his smashing and volleying. Takakusu resorted to deep court playing and gave a good account of himself.

Unbeaten Record Maintained By Wolverhampton

London Times

LONDON, Sept. 12—Wolverhampton Wanderers retained their unbeaten record when at Brentford on Saturday they rather surprisingly beat Brentford by one goal to none.

Although they remain unbeaten this was Wolverhampton's first win of the season, and, in studying their record before the game began, one inevitably came to the conclusion that they were a side strong in defense and weak in attack. But although much of their play confirmed this conclusion their forwards left the impression that when they learn to combine their speed and dash with control they will be every bit as formidable in attack as are their backs and half-backs in defense. At present they would seem to be missing sadly the directing mind of B. Jones, who recently was transferred to Arsenal. Their defensive play, on the other hand, was above reproach. Not only did Cullis completely bolt McCulloch out of the game, but he also found time to keep a watchful eye on the movements of A. H. Gibbons and Eastham.

In mid-field Brentford played clever football. Indeed, on occasions, their inside forwards were too clever. Both Eastham, who at times seemed almost to bewilder himself by the intricacy of his own footwork, and A. H. Gibbons were too inclined to overelaborate their passing movements with the result that valuable seconds were wasted when more go ahead methods might have enabled the front line of their attack to catch the Wolverhampton defense out of position. Then, again, their finishing was woefully weak. Against Cullis, McCulloch certainly had no chance, but on at least three occasions Gibbons, with the ball at his feet, found himself with no one, except the goalkeeper, between him and the Wolverhampton goal, and each time he threw away what appeared to be a certain goal by carelessly kicking the ball behind.

The Play

Most of the play at the start of the game was slow and rather pointless. A clever bout of passing between Eastham and Hopkins threw the Wolverhampton defense into a tangle, and had Gibbons, who at this stage was inclined to be too far back, followed up the attack something tangible might have come from this movement. A little later on McCulloch sent Gibbons away through the center with a nicely placed pass only for the inside-right to lose control of the ball at the critical moment and then McCulloch in his turn spoilt some clever play by Gibbons by needlessly falling off-side.

After 25 minutes a sudden raid by the Wolverhampton inside forwards caught the Brentford defense unprepared and out of position. Galley pushed the ball through the center to Kirkham, who from the edge of the penalty area sent in a short which left the Brentford goalkeeper standing still. Brentford soon threw away another good chance when McCulloch, who had worked his way over to the right of the field, sent a pass into the center where Gibbons, instead of taking a first-time shot, dallied and gave a beaten defense time to recover. Then came an even worse mistake. Once again McCulloch, performing the role of an outside forward, centered. Both Eastham and Gibbons were lying well forward and unmarked. Eastham, if he had so wished, could have taken the shot, but instead he feinted cleverly and allowed the ball to pass through to Gibbons. The inside-right had any amount of time to steady himself, but he muffed his shot and the ball rebounded harmlessly off one of the uprights. The story for the rest of the game continued to be one of missed chances. As it drew to a close the Wolverhampton forwards came more into the picture, but they too made very little use of their chances and it became increasingly clear that the one goal would be decisive.

BRENTFORD.—Crozier, goal; Wilson and Poyser, backs; Brown, James, and Sneddon, half-backs; Hopkins, A. H. Gibbons, McCulloch, Eastham, and Reid, forwards.

WOLVERHAMPTON WANDERERS.—Scott, goal; Morris and Taylor, back; Dorsett, Cullis, and Gardiner, half-back; Burton Gallec, Kirkham, Wright, and Mahuire, forwards.

All Blacks Win Two In Opening Soccer Season

The All Blacks Soccer team of the Yokohama Sport Club played two games in opening its new season on Sunday, at the St. Joseph's College ground at Yokohama and won both, defeating the "Rajputana" eleven, reputedly the strongest among those of merchant vessels plying the Pacific Ocean, by 4 goals to nil and the Mazda Club, 1 to 0.

The All Blacks, on the offensive most of the time, displayed very pretty teamwork against the sailors.

The All Blacks' first goal came four minutes after the initial whistle. Center Half Ishikawa made a long pass to Left Wing Sano who promptly centered, Planas scoring neatly. Six minutes later Ishikawa again started off with a lob pass to Center Forward Kondo who, being blocked, passed to Planas who again scored with a piledriver. Fifteen minutes after, Kondo dribbled up, passed to Planas who, being marked, returned the pass. Kondo was blocked but Left Inside Thorpe stepped up and scored a well aimed goal. Halftime found the score 3-0 in the All Blacks' favor.

In the second half only one goal was chalked. Five minutes before time Right Wing W. Plamey ran the ball down the line and centered; Planas tapped the ball in, to end the contest—a 4-0 victory for the All Blacks.

The Mazda aggregation kicked off at 4:26 p.m. Due to early darkness, play was called off after 35 minutes.

This fight was very evenly contested, both teams matching tricky combination work. The play was fast and furious, but the excellent defense of both teams stopped numerous threats.

Six minutes before the end of play, amidst a melee fronting the Mazda goal, Planas shot a beautiful goal to give the All Blacks their second triumph of the day.

JUST OUT
漢字カード
AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS
By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES
1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 5½ lbs.
Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR
By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Eiko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT
....this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

Current Yanks Considered Greatest Ever That Has Represented New York

By SID MERCER

NEW YORK, Sept.—The Yankees of 1928 are about to lose their rating as the best team that represented New York in the American League.

The Yankees of 1938 are piling up the evidence to support the contention that they are a smoother, smarter and more powerful aggregation than the last of the great teams commanded by the late Miller Huggins.

Arguments on this subject are now raging. There are many Yankee fans who will never be persuaded that the Yankees in the glamorous days of Babe Ruth in his prime, and Lou Gehrig coming to his peak will ever be surpassed. When Ruth quit, they said the mold of the greatest Yankee teams was broken.

On the other side is Ed Barrow, who had a hand in building those teams, and Joe McCarthy, who has managed three pennant winners and world's champions in the last seven years.

Barrow believes the current organization is the best ever.

"I don't know so much about the old Yankee champions," says McCarthy, "but this is the best team I have ever handled."

Your correspondent has for some time insisted that the present Yankee ensemble has more to commend it than it's predecessors. For a long time Barrow held out for his dandies of ten years ago, but the performance of this season's team since late in June furnished the convincer for him. Even Colonel Jake Ruppert, who revels in his baseball memories, is almost ready to give in.

If his present Yankees should happen to lose two consecutive games—something which has not happened in more than two months—the Colonel might not weaken.

In this humble observer's opinion the Yankees this year top all predecessors and here are some of the reasons:

1—It is the best defensive Yankee team, both in pitching and fielding.

2—The flow of power is smoother Ruth and Gehrig were homerun menaces. And man in the present lineup is likely to hit a homer and that includes a couple of the pitchers.

3—The home run power is greater because more evently distributed. Five men between them have accounted for 510 homers so far.

4—No other Yankee team ever maintained over a long stretch so high an average of runs driven in.

5—No other Yankee team has ever maintained a winning pace of .800 or thereabouts for a stretch of more than two months.

6—Double-play potentialities have increased with Gordon speeding up Crosetti.

7—With Hoag in the lineup, the best throwing outfield is presented. Ruth was a good outfielder and a good thrower in his prime but never as good on either count as Henrich.

8—Gordon improves with experience and even with Gehrig up the infield is as tight as any of its predecessors.

9—There are no cliques on this team; no players hard to handle; no prima donnas and very little of the playboy element. Gordon and Crosetti are the sparkplugs. Youthful talent is constantly freshening the team.

10—Dickey is the outstanding catcher of all Yankee teams. Handles pitchers smoothly and in a pinch is the most dangerous batter in the league.

11—Four starting pitchers who have lost but few games since the team started its rush late in June. And the best relief pitcher in baseball Johnny Murphy.

12—Strongest in reserves with Glenn and Jorgens to aid Dickey behind the bat and Dahlgren and Knickerbocker as infield reserves. Knickerbocker can play second or short; Dahlgren first or third. Hoag and Powell can be swung into the outfield against left handed pitching.

13—A pretty fair country manager, in Joseph Vincent McCarthy.

Owner Of Phillies Backs Night Games

PHILADELPHIA, Sept.—Night games are destined to play even a far more important part than at present in major league baseball's immediate future, it is predicted by Gerry Nugent, president of the Philadelphia Phils in his first official expression of opinion on contests under arc lights.

"Whatever doubt existed as to the advisability of staging major league games at night has, in my opinion, been eliminated by the success of the games in Brooklyn," stated Nugent. "The large crowds at 'Dodgers'" games, following so closely upon the splendid turnouts in Cincinnati, has convinced me night baseball is to become a feature of the sport—at least in the National League—in the years directly ahead.

"The fans have proved they want night games. The present system of restricting the number of games a team may play under lights should be continued. Under proper regulation, night baseball should be even more popular than our regular holiday listings.

"In many cities, folks take advantage of holiday week-ends to visit the seashore and mountain resorts. This counter competition can be eliminated by holding night games on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays."

Soft-Ball Pitcher Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game

CHICAGO, Sept. 10—Al Linde, twenty-one-year-old pitcher for the Des Moines, Iowa, Packers, hurled a no-hit, no-run game today as his team took a 2-to-0 decision over Pages' Dairy, of Toledo, Ohio, in a third-round game of the international soft-ball championships.

He fanned fourteen and walked four. It was his third no-hitter this season, the other two coming in the Iowa State championships.

Kanto Wrestling Body Is Dissolved

The Kanto Amateur Wrestling Association was dissolved on Monday night because of difference of opinion with the Tokyo Four University Wrestling league whose tourneys it has been sponsoring, it was revealed Tuesday night.

For this reason, all scheduled meets of the league for the Fall season have been cancelled.

Everton Is Only One Of 88 Clubs With Full Points

London Times

LONDON, Sept. 12—Although none of the Football League clubs has played more than five matches, Everton, who beat Arsenal on Saturday, are the only one of the 88 with full points. Southampton, Walsall, and Hartlepools United are now the only clubs who have yet to gain a point.

Visiting teams in the Championship had a good day, for five of them won and Chelsea drew at Middlesbrough. Chelsea's point was the only one gained during the afternoon by the four London clubs in the First Division. Mills, the center-forward, gave Chelsea the lead five minutes before the interval while the Middlesbrough defenders were appealing for off-side, but Yorkston made the scores level a quarter of an hour before the fin'sh with a good shot. Once again Chelsea owed a great deal to England's goalkeeper, Woodley, who was again at the top of his form. Craig, the center-half, also did well for Chelsea, who kept the second place in the league table. Brentford, having beaten Arsenal by the only goal of the match on Thursday evening, were themselves beaten by a single goal on Saturday when they met Wolverhampton Wanderers. The Wolverhampton team had drawn their first four matches, but they played like winners against Brentford. Wolverhampton were quicker on the ball and many of their passes were beautifully made. The Brentford forward line never settled down, neither McCulloch, in the center, nor A. H. Gibbons, at inside-right, being at his best. Cullis played a great game at center-half for the winners, whose goal was scored by Kirkham with a long, swerving shot after 27 minutes' play.

Liverpool deserved their victory over Charlton Athletic at Liverpool by the only goal of the match. Charlton were unlucky in that Robinson, the inside-right, was injured and had to play on the left wing during the second half, but Liverpool had the greater number of chances of scoring. Busby scored the goal about 30 minutes from the end. Another match to be decided by a single goal was that between Derby County and Sunderland at Derby. There was little to choose between the two teams, but both goals had narrow escapes in the closing minutes. Dix won the match for Derby when there were only a few seconds left for play. Aston Villa are holding their own in the First Division, but so far they have collected all their points in away matches. They played clever football at Blackpool on Saturday and did well to win by four goals to two after Blackpool had twice held the lead. Blackpool are now the only club in this division who have not won a match. Leicester City and Stoke City both recorded their first wins of the season, the latter scoring a rather lucky winning goal at Birmingham in the last two minutes. Portsmouth continue to show good form on their own ground and they completely outplayed Huddersfield Town, the runner-up for the F. A. Cup last season.

Sheffield Wednesday, as was generally expected, had little difficulty in beating Tranmere Rovers and going to the head of the Second Division. The other Sheffield club, who so narrowly missed promotion last season, also won, and their victory by four goals to three over West Bromwich Albion, one of the relegated clubs, suggests that they will again be among the leaders. West Bromwich scored two of their goals in the closing minutes after Sheffield United had appeared to have the match well in hand. The other relegated club, Manchester City, have lost their form. They opened the season with two convincing victories, but have since lost three times, twice on their own ground. On Saturday they shot weakly against Luton Town and were beaten by two goals to one. Manchester City took the lead in the first three minutes, but Connelly equalized 15 minutes later and Vinall scored the winning goal 12 minutes from the end.

Fulham were not at their best in their home match against Chesterfield, but they won by two goals to none and so moved into second place in the league table. Millwall, promoted from the Third Division at the end of last season, showed good form in beating Bradford at Millwall by three goals to one. Bradford's only goal was scored in the last few minutes, during which time Brolly, Millwall's right half, was sent off the field. West Ham United, who had made some amends for a bad start by winning at Manchester during the week, maintained their improved form at Bury, where they drew, each side scoring once. West Ham might have won, but Bradshaw, the Bury goalkeeper, made a remarkable save from a penalty kick taken by Goulden. London's other club in this division lost, Nottingham Forest rather surprisingly beating Totterham Hotspur by two goals to one. Hooper kept goal well for the losers when they were being hard pressed during the first half.

In the southern section of the Third Division the joint leaders on Saturday morning, Crystal Palace and Bristol City, were both beaten, and the table has an unfamiliar look about it with Swindon Town at the top and, among others, Newport County and Aldershot only a point behind.

In Scotland Celtic distinguished themselves by beating their great rivals, Glasgow Rangers, by six goals to two at Celtic Park before a crowd of 75,000 people, and in Edinburgh Hibernian, usually the weaker of that city's two leading clubs, beat Heart of Midlothian by four goals to none.

Cardinals Trade Baugh To Sacramento Club

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10—Sammy Baugh, former football star, and another player were traded to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League today by the St. Louis Cardinals for a catcher, pitcher and an infielder.

Baugh had been in Rochester of the International League. Art Garibaldi, like Baugh an infielder, was the other player. He had been with Columbus on option.

The Cards obtained Joe Orengo, shortstop; Herman Franks, catcher, and Lee Sherrill, pitcher. All to report next Spring.

California Seen As Contender For Swim Laurels

By L. de B. HANDLEY

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK Sept. 11—Sports critics of the Pacific Coast are predicting that within another year California will be the leading state in National A. A. U. aquatics for men, and one may admit that results of the waning outdoor season afford some justification for the prophecy. Not only did Californians figure rather prominently in the Summer's national championships, capturing one first, one second and five third places in competition with representatives of more than a dozen rival states, but most of the rating stars are youths likely to improve swiftly.

While the present top-notch sprinter and most versatile ace is Paul Wolf, now in Europe with our touring team, Paul Harron ranks as a far better prospect. A lad in his teens, Harron has to his credit long-course performances of 1:00.9 for 100 meters, 2:16.1 for 200 meters and 4:06.8 for the 300-meter medley, which denote he may prove a dangerous opponent in all three of these events hereafter.

Paris May Be Threat

Others who may have to be reckoned with are Henry Paris and Howard Adams, recent high-school graduates. Paris has done 4:56.7 for 440 yards freestyle in a 55-yard pool, as against Ralph Flanagan's national title victory in 4:51.1, and Adams more than once has averaged over 130 in springboard diving, against 141.46 tallied by Al Patnick in gaining the national crown. Alfred Van Dyle, third in the national 100-yard backstroke classic, and James Werson, surprise winner of the 200-meter breaststroke title, also are young men progressing rapidly. John Riley made clear at the nationals he is a formidable platform diver when he lost to Elmer Root by less than one point, 96.92 to 96.33. These are but a few of the Californians expected to make their marks in 1939.

Miss Humble Loses

The overwhelming victory scored by Danish over Dutch girl swimmers in the recent European championships has brought the usual inquiries as to the reasons for the sudden rise of the fair Danes to international supremacy "It would be easy to find plausible explanations. Some writers already have done so. But we prefer to confess in our opinion one guess is as good as the next. It is another of the many mysteries of the natatorial world. As well try to explain why Japan, supreme for six years in swimming for men, has failed signally to develop rating naiads; why Holland has produced a number of world beating mermaids, but never a male topnotcher; why this country outclassed the field in the women's events at the 1932 Olympiad, yet could master only a very mediocre team in 1936. Problems which defy solution can be brought up by the dozen.

Miss Florence Humble, of Montreal, Canada's national long distance swimming champion, who was a contender in the race for the Bernarr McFadden trophy at Rye last month, went down to crushing defeat in the one-mile championship of Ontario, decided over the open water lake course of the Canadian Exhibition of Toronto. After setting the pace for 400 yards, Miss Humble was passed by Miss Dorothy Hobson, seventeen-year-old Toronto star, who went on to win by a full furlong in 26:37.4. Gordon Devlin, of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., took the one-mile championship for men in 23:45.

Yamagishi To Play In National Tourney

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, and members of this year's Davis Cup team will compete in the national tennis championships to be held for 11 days from October 26 at the Denen courts in Tokyo.

Fimiteru Nakano, Yasumine Kuramitsu and Tamio Abe are the other members of the team who are expected to return shortly from the United States.

Mays Recovers Hill-Climb Mark

London Times

LONDON, Sept. 12—R. Mays regained the Shelsley Walsh hill-climb record on Saturday by climbing the 1,000-yard ascent on his 2-litre E.R.A. in 37.86 sec. The previous record of 38.77 sec. was made by A. F.P. Fane a year ago. On this occasion Fane's Frazer-Nash developed supercharger trouble as it entered the finishing straight, and the car could not be repaired in time to permit him to make another ascent. Mays confirmed his victory by breaking Fane's record again on his second run, but he did not improve on his own figures.

Mays drove with his usual dash and determination, and his car showed tremendous acceleration along the straight to the finish, where his speed was over 100 m.p.h. His passage through the "S" bend, however, was marked by a certain amount of skidding, and for sheer driving skill on this difficult section of the hill the palm undoubtedly went to the second fastest man, H. L. Hadley, at the wheel of one of Lord Austin's splendid little racers. Hadley recorded times of 40.49 sec. and 40.05 sec. on his two runs, and his cornering was perfectly judged and executed. On each bend the car slid bodily at it changed direction, and yet the rear wheels were not allowed to swing round an inch too far. Considering that his engine was only one-third the capacity of the E.R.A., Hadley's speed was extremely good. The team of three Austins driven by Hadley, C. J. P. Dodson, and C. D. Buckley won the Fray Challenge Trophy team award.

Third Fastest

The third fastest time, 40.36 sec., was made by Barry Goodwin with a Frazer Nash, which was also driven during the afternoon by Mrs. J. Palethorpe. Goodwin's first run was spoilt by misfiring, but on the second attempt all went well and he drove with fine spirit. P. G. Skinner, with his special car composed of a big 8-cylinder American engine in a British "baby" car chassis, was the fourth fastest in 41.22 sec. His sister, Mrs. J. Bolster, recorded 46.47 sec. in the same car. J. Bolster himself, in his special machine powered by four motorcycle engines, made exciting ascents in 42.49 sec. and 42.67 sec. This car was very unsteady through the "S" bend, in marked contrast to the curious "Friekaiserwagen," which was handled with great skill by J. G. and D. H. S. Fry. The latter made the better time of the two in 41.93 sec. Mrs. K. Petre once again made the fastest climb by a woman driver, but her best time of 44.83 sec. did not approach her record of 43.7 sec.

In an afternoon of uniformly excellent ascents—indeed, the general standard of driving at Shelsley Walsh has never been so high—special mention must be made of Lord Avebury's fine climb in 41.39 sec. with his 2-litre Alta; R. E. Ansell's second ascent in 42.78 sec. on a 1½-litre E.R.A., to the accompaniment of terrific wheel spin; C. Follett's splendid time of 44.40 sec. on his Railton, which thus proved to be the fastest T.T. type car; and the stirring performances of the pre-War racing cars, of which A. S. Heal's 10-litre F.I.A.T. was again the fastest, this time in 49.17 sec. The two most unfortunate drivers of the afternoon were P. W. Maclure, whose Riley lost first place in Class 4B to R. V. C. Bolster's "Special" by as little as a 100th part of a second, and S. H. Newsome, who stalled his engine at the start of his first run, failed to be timed on his next and had his engine cut out 50 yards before the finishing line on his third and final attempt. Even so, his 3½-litre S.S. recorded the remarkable time of 43.65 sec.

Foxx Captures Batting Honors In Major Leagues

Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox, who played here several years ago when Connie Mack, his boss then, brought a galaxy of major league stars, including Babe Ruth, was the leading hitter in both leagues for the 1938 season, according to a special dispatch to the Yomiuri.

The Red Sox first baseman, who takes a turn now and then at third registered a .349 mark. In second place was Heath of Cleveland with .344. Third was Lombardi of the Cincinnati Reds with a .342 mark.

Greenberg Fails

Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers fell shy by two in his valiant effort to tie Ruth's home run record of 60 which was set in 1927. He was four games ahead of Ruth on September 12 when he clouted his 50th home run.

Foxx was No. 2 in home runs with 50 to his credit. He led in the number of runs batted in with 174, followed by Greenberg with 145.

The leaders in both leagues follow:

Quiet Him

A scrap iron merchant was trundling his barrow along a narrow road. Behind him the impatient driver of a motor car was hooting for room to pass.

The scrap merchant set his barrow down in the middle of the road, turned round, and made a speculative survey of the car.

"Orl right, guv'nor," he said. "I'll call round for that tomorrow. I'm full up now."—People's Journal (Dundee).

Yankees Defeat Chicago Cubs, 3-1 In Series Opener

the latter going all the way to second on the throw-in to the plate. Herman singled to third and Hack dashed all the way from second in a desperate attempt to deadlock the count at 2-all but Shortstop Crosetti, who backed up Third Baseman Red Rolfe, made a brilliant stop of the ball that had bounced off Rolfe's glove and nailed Hack at the plate with a beautiful peg.

Both Gehrig and Dickey hit safely in the fourth but were stranded on the bases. Gordon came through with a double in the fifth but he died at third.

The Yankees forged into the lead by two runs in the sixth. Tommy Henrich started the fireworks with a double to right field. Joe DiMaggio flied out to Cavarretta and Gehrig fanned to the delight of the home town fans. But Backstop Dickey, considered by many experts to be the most dangerous hitter in the major leagues when in a pinch, lifted a Texas Leaguer to left to score Henrich.

First Baseman Rip Collins of the Cubs pulled off a snappy doubleplay unassisted in the seventh to leave Crosetti and Rolfe, who had singled, stranded on the bags.

With any sort of luck, the Cubs might have won the game in the seventh. Cavarretta singled to center but Center Fielder Reynolds hit into a doubleplay, Crosetti to Gehrig. Hartnet smashed a triple to right, a hit which would have tied the score at 3-all but for the preceding doubleplay. The Cubs supporters groaned as Collins grounded out to Crosetti.

Shortstop Bill Jurges provided a ray of hope to Chicago fans by opening the eight with a single. But O'Dea, sent in to pinchhit for Lee, could do no better than forcing Jurges at second. And Hack hit into a doubleplay, Gordon to Crosetti to Gehrig.

Jack Russell, pitching for the Cubs, retired the Yanks scoreless in the ninth despite Crosetti's double to right field.

Ruffing, Lee to Pitch

Domei Tsushin

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 4—Charles "Red" Ruffing, ace of the Yankee pitching staff who has seen action in three World Series campaigns, and "Big Bill" Lee, leading hurler in the senior circuit, will face each other in tomorrow's opening game of the World Series, it was announced here today.

Both right-handers, Ruffing and Lee finished the season in their respective leagues with imposing records. The former chalked up 21 wins and lost only seven, while Lee was credited with 22 victories and dropped nine. Ruffing also had the unique honor of being the only one in the American League to win more than 20 games.

Manager Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, who was instrumental in whipping the Cubs into a sensational drive for the flag, today announced that Phil Cavarretta will play right field and that Frank Demaree will switch over to left. Carl Reynolds will hold down the pasture in between. No changes were made in the infield combination.

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, star Chicago moundsman who was bothered all season with a sore arm, today appeared in practice and warmed up for ten minutes. He looked to be in excellent form, and indications are that he will be called upon to act at least as a relief hurler if not as a starting pitcher during the series.

Meanwhile, with the baseball world speculating as to whether the Windy City team can succeed in stopping the hard-hitting Yankees from taking their third straight world's championship, experts today quoted unofficial betting odds of 3 to 1 in favor of the Yankees.

German Girl Breaks Broad Jump Record

Domei Tsushin

NAUMBURG, Germany, Oct. 4—Breaking the recent mark made by Miss Stella Walsh, of Poland, by 20 centimeters, Miss Junghanns, German athlete, today cleared a distance of 6.7 meters to establish a new world's record for the women's running broad jump event, at a track and field meet here.

The former mark of 6.5 meters was established by Miss Walsh in London, on Aug. 29, 1938.

Are These Shorts Too Short?

Three stars of a softball team in Hollywood, the photo giving an idea as to the uniforms of the two girls softball teams that are arriving at Yokohama on October 10 from Los Angeles. The Metropolitan Police have found them too short and the reports are that the Mitsukoshi Department store has made shorts, three inches longer, to accommodate the visitors and meet the police objection.

Warm Welcome Ready For Girls Softball Teams

The American girls softball teams of 30 players arriving from Los Angeles by the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Chichibu Maru on October 10 at Yokohama will be accorded a warm welcome from all indications.

The aggregation, numbering a total of 51 persons, is bringing a message of goodwill from Secretary of State Cordell Hull to Premier Fumimaro Konoye, besides letters from Mayor Frank L. Shaw of Los Angeles to the Mayors of Tokyo and Osaka.

Here To Promote Goodwill

Domei says that the teams are making the trip with the primary intention of promoting better American Japanese relations. And for this purpose, a fund of $15,000 has been put up by them to meet their transportation and living expenses as well while on their tour in Japan. If any net profits are made, these will be contributed to the Red Cross and other appropriate agencies, it is said.

Official support of the teams' visit was assured by Noboru Ogawa, first secretary of the Information Bureau of the Foreign Office, in a statement issued Wednesday. He said:

"We are happy to welcome the American girls to this country, and I wish personally to congratulate them for their undertaking inasmuch as there is a great deal of unfavorable propaganda against Japan. Their visit will prove that Japan is a safe place to travel and above all that Japan is very friendly to America. It is the duty of the Japanese people to welcome them wholeheartedly."

The objection reportedly made by the Metropolitan Police against the shorts of the players' uniforms has been met, it is reported, through the making of shorts to the proper length by the Mitsukoshi Department store.

Program Mapped Out

The following program has been mapped out for the teams:

October 10: Arrival on Chichibu Maru; worship Imperial Palace; register at the Dai-Ichi hotel after a visit to the Meiji Shrine.

October 11: Practice, 10 a.m. to noon; sightseeing in city; tea party at Korakuen as guests of Tokyo Municipality, 4 p.m.

October 12: Game at Korakuen Stadium, 2 p.m.

October 13: Game at Korakuen Stadium, 2 p.m.; reception at Tokyo Kaikan, 7 p.m., open to public, fee, 1 yen per person.

October 14: Worship at the Yasukuni Shrine in the morning; console wounded soldiers; attend tea party by Japan-American Society at Gajoen at 4 p.m.; attend Takarazuka revue in the evening.

October 15: 11 p.m. leave for Kansai.

October 16: Game at Nagoya.

October 17: Game at Kyoto.

October 18: Game at Nishinomiya Stadium, near Osaka.

Before their return to Tokyo on October 25, the girls will visit Miyajima and perhaps play a game at Hiroshima. A trip to Yokohama and a farewell game at Yokohama are scheduled before departure on the Asama Maru on November 2.

Admission to all games will be 50 sen. There will be no charge for wounded soldiers.

Wrestling Team Going To America

Eight wrestlers and a coach will leave on the Asama Maru on November 2 from Yokohama for a series of meets on the Pacific coast of the United States.

Decision to accept an invitation from the Pacific Coast Amateur Wrestling Association was made by the Japan Wrestling Association on Wednesday.

It will be the first wrestling team to go to the United States from Japan. Two Pacific coast teams have already come to Japan.

Ex-Champ At 29 Now Penniless

By CHARLES SMITH

LONDON, Sept.—Yet another former prize ring headliner was recently regretting the way in which he let the dollars slip through his fingers when he was in the big money.

Jackie Brown, former fly-weight champion of the world, who earned thousands of dollars in the ring, is penniless at 29, heavily in debt, and looking for a job. If he doesn't find one soon he may be forced to seek public relief.

Brown won his title in 1932 from Young Perez, and with it a $15,000 purse. His last fight was for a purse of less than $500. It went in settling pressing debts.

"At least a quarter of the $150,000 I earned in the ring went in gifts to friends and acquaintances," Brown said. "I used to change my car twice a year, and never paid less than $2,500 for one. Suits cost me seventy dollars each, and I bought three, four, sometimes more, a year!

"A topcoat cost me $125. I wore it fewer than a dozen times. I would never wear shoes that cost less than $17.

Brown's income during his fifteen years' fighting enabled him to rent a 15-room house at a seashore resort for several months each year. His parties seldom consisted of fewer than ten guests.

"The thought of working at set hours for a few dollars a week does not go down too well, but I must face it," Brown said. "My telephone has been cut off, I have arrears of income tax to settle, there is a mortgage on my home, and there are many more debts besides."

Brown today walks out with a dollar in his pocket instead of a check book and well-filled wallet. He gets his amusement out of 25 cent movies and crunches candy. He rides on buses instead of in a luxurious chauffeur driven car.

"I must make an effort to get back to normal," he said. "Riding on buses is a start."

Football Means Million Dollars To Pittsburgh

By DICK SHANER

PITTSBURGH, Sept.—Football is a million dollar industry in this man's town.

With four major teams—three collegiate and one professional—showing their wares every Fall against the best competition in the country, more than a quarter-of-a-million fans shelled out $1,000,000 last season to set up an all-time high for attendance.

But that isn't all. Indications right now are that Pittsburghers and the perennial enthusiasts who follow a winning team will kick in with much more than that this coming season, making the turnstiles click off the merriest tune ever as far as the cash and carry business goes.

Better terms, better opponents, night football, and the fact that Pittsburghers are just naturally a trifle daffy over the game are a few of the reasons why each one is willing to pay an average dollar or more to see the local stalwarts in action.

Despite the fact that baseball is listed as "the" American sport, football here—both the amateur and cash kinds—draws more customers through the gateways during a season than the so-called national pastime.

Max Hannum, director of Athletics at Carnegie Tech, sizes up the situation succinctly:

"We have the greatest football city in the country, I believe. Pittsburgh is a hotbed for football. Everybody's football conscious, with four teams in the city and many smaller colleges in the district adding to the fire."

And for the professional side of it, Art Rooney, president and owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates Pro football team says: "Pittsburgh people know the game. The colleges have educated them. And that makes it the best kind of town for professional ball."

The Smokey City has three collegiate outfits, namely: the mighty Panther of Pitt, the battling Scotchmen of Carnegie Tech and the scrappy Night Raiders of Duquesne. In the professional field is Rooney's Buccaneers. Each and every one anticipate banner years, both on the gridiron and on the cash register.

Pitt has ranked in the first 10 teams for the past decade, climbing to the pinnacle last year on several rating cards. Carnegie Tech pulls the crowd to its game by booking "suicide schedules" while Duquesne's flood lights bring 'em out on Friday nights like the more familiar June bug. The Pirates figure they'll be doing a rush-hour business all season because of the presence of Byron "Whizzer" White last year's most publicized All-American.

The Pitt stadium, which is used by both Pitt and Tech for home games can seat about 65,000. Forbes Field used by Duquesne and the Pirate grid team, holds about 40,000. But despite this immense seating capacity, there are still sell-outs. The Pitt-Notre Dame game of 1930, for instance, drew 74,000 customers who paid out $130,000,000; The Pitt-Nebraska game of last year brought out 72,000 fans while just two weeks before that 65,000 turned out for the inter-city scrap between Pitt and Duquesne.

As for Duquesne, listen to what John D. Halahan, director of Athletics has to say:

"We were averaging between 2,000 and 3,000 a game until we installed lights at Forbes Field. The first game our attendance jumped to 18,000 and has been averaging 15,000 since then."

As a brief summation, it might be observed that Pittsburgh's universities have done more than just educate the students in the science and the arts; they have educated the public as a whole to football and they have done it well, creating an industry that promises to maintain an average $1,000,000 take annually.

Good Times Made In Triangular Athletic Meets

Some very good times were recorded in the track and field and swimming events at the Meiji Shrine stadium and pool Wednesday afternoon by Japanese athletes participating in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo triangular meets. The results will be sent by airmail to Berlin where the winners will be announced probably by November 1 after a comparison of the scores.

Results of the swimming were:

Bromwich Adds To Fame By Defeating Shields

By FRED HAWTHORNE
N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—A wildly enthusiastic crowd of 12,000 sat through three hours and more of play in the West Side Tennis Club's stadium yesterday as John Bromwich, of Australia, and big Frank Shields, of New York, were locked in a tremendous battle for supremacy, the young Australian finally coming through in five sets, 2—6, 10—12, 10—8, 6—2, 6—2. This was the greatest match played since the national championship singles began last Thursday. Shields' fight, though a losing one, was a magnificent thing to watch, but in the end it was that old story of youth triumphing over greater experience.

Shields, one of the most popular players on American courts during the last decade, had the big crowd with him, a crowd that had seen the start of the match a bit apathetically, for few expected the American to do more than win a set, if he could do that. But Shields played with such inspired skill and such magnificent courage through the first three sets that the crowd became wildly enthusiastic.

Shields Near Victory

Superior physical condition eventually told the story. Shields had been within two points of winning in straight sets in the eighteen-game third session, each time to be beaten back, either by remarkable recoveries for winners from the Australian's racquet, or by the big American's own errors. The match, starting at 3:15 o'clock, did not finish until just before 6:30, but not a person left the stadium until the final point had been decided. Shields and Bromwich had the same total of points at the end of the match, 188, and Shields had the greater total of earned points, but also made more errors than Bromwich.

In the opening set, Shields was playing the finest tennis of his life, making only four errors and scoring twenty-five earned points, an almost unparalleled performance against one of the world's finest players. He continued his magnificent display in the second set and until the last two or three games of the third, but Bromwich also had raised his own game to superb heights and the match developed into a battle of giants.

Shields Goes After Third

Many believe that Shields, after clinching the exhausting twenty-two-game second set, would take a "breather" in the third and then, after the rest period before the fourth set, put all his resources into the winning of the fourth or fifth set. Instead, he elected to try for the third, and he came so close to it, two scant points, that the youthful Bromwich was sorely pressed and ill at ease.

But once the Australian had pulled up from 7-8 to 8-all, Shields dropping the sixteenth game by making a double-fault at game point, it was evident that the big fellow had shot his bolt. As legs and arms grew weary, Shields could no longer keep on top of the ball and pound it back with that killing punch Bromwich found impossible to offset.

Shields' service was a thundering attacking weapon, scoring fourteen clean aces in the five sets and many other times forcing the Australian to return purely defensive shots. The American's forehand was also a potent weapon. He was crashing these shots through his opponent's court with blazing speed.

Bromwich Attacks Backhand

When Bromwich sought to search out the weak spot in Shields' backhand, and he started pounding it in the second set, he was dismayed to find the ball coming back at him persistently, and it was not until the last two sets, as Shields lost his stamina, that Bromwich's attack began to obtain results.

If Shields earned high praise in forcing a man ten years his junior and rated among the world's great today to the full five sets, what of young Bromwich himself, who was trailing from the opening game of the match until the first game of the final set, when he gained the lead for the first time? Full appreciation of the Australian's cool courage in the face of a devastating fire from the racquet of an inspired giant can only be had with the full realization of the crisis facing Bromwich. Always trailing, always giving of his best and finding it not quite good enough, Bromwich never conceded the possibility of defeat, and, once he had taken the fateful third set, the Australian speeded up, took more chances and went on to victory over a Shields who had lost his keen playing edge.

Bromwich Stars

By AL LANEY

The schedule of matches at Forest Hills yesterday did not promise much in the way of excitement. Every one was saying that it was the inevitably dull spot that must come somewhere in the early rounds to all tournaments. And it would have been on the dull side, too, but for that match between Frank Shields and Jack Bromwich, which made it as exciting a day as any tennis crowd need hope to find in a season of tournament attendance.

For this was a match that had just about everything. Here was an old favorite, one of the most popular of players, making a comeback after years of absence, against a young man with the definite mark of high class upon him, making his first appearance in our championships. And the stadium was packed to its capacity for a match that is entitled to take its place among the most exciting ever played at Forest Hills.

It is certain that Shields never played any better tennis, and there are many who feel that he never was quite so good even when he was a finalist at Forest Hills and Wimbledon. The combination of fierce hitting off the ground, great serving and fine volleying has seldom been equaled at Forest Hills or anywhere else.

Overcomes Poor Service

So Bromwich comes out of it with enhanced reputation. When ... remembered that he is only nineteen years old and has not a first-class service, it begins to look as if he really is this coming champion we have been talking about. With Shields hitting winners from all over the court over a long stretch of games, more than forty in fact, Bromwich was cruelly handicapped without a service that could not be attacked. It is an extraordinary thing that this boy could stay in the fight and hold on until the storm had blown over.

Bromwich certainly will be around for a long time, competing in tournaments and probably winning a good share of them, but he is unlikely to be in another spot where the pressure is greater. He was nearly blown off the court at the beginning. No one, not even Shields, could have foreseen the avalanche of blistering shots that came into Bromwich's court.

It was of course nice to have Shields back in the stadium. He was once the favorite player of a great many people and for good reason, since tennis has known no more attractive competitor. But no one thought he would make much of a match of it. And so when he hit this unbeatable streak the crowd grew a little hysterical. Bromwich could do nothing at first. The crowd roared as Shields blew him off the court and that was upsetting.

The throng did not mean it to be, for it was a fair crowd, but it was thrilled by Shields' performance and it wanted so badly for him to win.

Bromwich Meets Crisis

It was a long road that the youngster had to travel and very often it did not seem to have any turning. He must have felt as never before the value of a fine service. With one he could have won the second set in eight games instead of losing it in twenty-two. Shields did not let up even after he had taken the long second set and, facing a straight-set defeat, Bromwich had to go out and play better than a man who was inspired. We are not yet ready to say that Bromwich is one of the great ones, but we must point out that it is a sure sign of greatness in a player that he can, at a crisis, take charge.

Bromwich finally, after being nearly overwhelmed, took charge. He had against him that boisterous crowd, Shields, some very juicy line decisions, an uncanny series of net-cord shots, all in Shields' favor, and his own youth.

All of these he overcame and, in the crisis he came up with great shots when no other kind would do. It really seemed too bad that Shields could not win. He played so brilliantly, tried so hard and the crowd was so disappointed. But fatigue, a better player and faulty ground-stroke technique finally caught up with him.

Meiji Is Favored To Down Keio Nine In Weekend Series

Meiji, already with the scalps of Waseda, Rikkyo and Tokyo Imperial hanging on its belt, will take on Keio Saturday and Sunday in the doubleheaders of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Because of the presence of Southpaw Shimizu, who pitched scintillating ball against Waseda the past weekend, Meiji is favored to win. But Keio, playing its third and fourth twinbills after a long rest, may find his offerings to its liking and clinch the long end of the score.

Either Narita or Takagi, both right handers, will be picked to pitch against Meiji.

For the first time in years, Tokyo Imperial is picked a favorite to win. Its opponent for Saturday and Sunday, Rikkyo is at present the weakest team in the league.

Waseda Players Capture Doubles Of Tonichi Play

Keiji Tanaka and Masanori Takao of Waseda won the men's doubles title of the 19th annual tennis tournament sponsored by the Tokyo Nichi Nichi at the Waseda courts on Wednesday afternoon by defeating Yasuo Tsuruta and Kokichi Kagitomi of Keio in the finals by scores of 6—4, 6—2, 4—6, 4—6 and 7—5.

Tsuruta and Kagitomi could not get started and before they could display anything near their usual tennis, Tanaka and Takao had won the first two sets. The Waseda team led 2 to 0 in the third set but Tanaka doublefaulted and when he missed on his volleying, his team lost coordination to lose the next two sets. The Waseda players, however, rallied in the final set, which though it went to 5-all, found them always in the lead.

Waseda And Keio Draw 5 To 5 In Boxing Meet

Waseda and Keio split 5-all in their meeting of the Keio-Meiji-Waseda triangular boxing league, revived after a long rest, Wednesday night at the Hibiya Park amphitheater.

The best bout of the evening was the match between Bantamweights Hirokawa of Keio and Fujiki of Waseda. It was a battle royal all the way through with each side scoring knockdowns. Hirokawa managed to emerge victorious by virtue of landing a beautiful uppercut in the third round.

Keio led 5 to 4 before the final bout of the evening but its captain, Shibuya, was decisioned by Katsuno of Waseda. Both are welterweights.

The results were:

Flyweights

Hasegawa (Waseda) decisioned Kagiwada (Keio).

Matsuda (Keio) knocked out Goto (Waseda), 2 minutes 23 seconds in first round.

Kameya (Waseda) won by technical knockout over Osawa (Keio), 2 minutes in second round.

Bantamweights

Noguchi (Keio) decisioned Tei (Waseda).

Takizawa (Keio) decisioned Go (Waseda).

Hirokawa (Keio) decisioned Fujiki (Waseda).

Featherweights

Shiotani (Waseda) won by default from Itahashi (Keio), the latter being unable to fight because of injury.

Kamibe (Waseda) knocked out Koga (Keio), 1 minute 23 seconds in second round.

Lightweights

Morishima (Keio) decisioned Soda (Waseda).

Welterweights

Katsuno (Waseda) decisioned Shibuya (Keio).

Detroit's Eleven Downs Pittsburgh

DETROIT, Sept. 9—Scoring all their points in the first half, the Detroit Lions conquered the Pittsburgh Pirates, 16 to 7, tonight in the opening game of the National Football League season.

Byron (Whizzer) White, former Colorado University star who signed for a season's play with the Pirates for a reported salary of $15,000, registered his team's only touchdown on a plunge from the 2-yard line late in the final period. Earl (Dutch) Clark, Detroit quarterback and coach, remained on the sidelines throughout the game because of an ankle injury.

Detroit took the lead five minutes after the game opened on Bill Shepherd's field goal from placement from the 28-yard line. Later in the period Detroit got the ball on the Pirates' 5 as a result of a bad pass from center on fourth down that went over Stuart Smith's head. Ernie Caddel then raced around right end to score. Shepherd's try for extra point was blocked.

The other Detroit touchdown was scored midway of the second period as a result of a sustained aerial attack that carried to the Pittsburgh 5. Lloyd Cardwell raced around right end for a score and Monk Moscrip booted the extra point.

A penalty for forward pass interference that netted them a 33-yard gain placed the Pirates in scoring position in the last quarter. White, who had gained little ground up to this point, plunged for 8 yards to the Lion 10. Detroit was penalized 5 yards. John Karcis gained 3 and White crashed over for the score. A crowd of 17,000 witnessed the contest.

The line-up:

	Detroit (16)	Pittsburgh (7)
L.E.	Klewicki	Mansko

Yanks Win No. 2 From Cubs, 6-3; Home Runs Count

seventh when Cavarretta singled but Reynolds' hit into a doubleplay. And then came Boss Hartnett's triple.

The Cubs rallied in the third to score twice and lead once again by a run. Hack and Billy Herman both got on via infield hits. Demaree laid down a beautiful bunt and sacrificed, advancing the runners to third and second. Marty, playing his first game of the series, came through with a timely double to center and both Hack and Herman tallied as the Chicago fans went wild. Reynolds walked but Gomez bore down and retired the next two batters.

Snappy doubleplays cut short the rallies of both teams in the fourth inning.

Dean had settled down after the second, and with a one run lead began pitching scintillating ball. He retired the heavy hitting Yankees in order in the third, fifth, sixth and seventh innings. Gehrig's single in the fourth was the only hit off Dean since the second frame.

That one-run lead loomed larger for victory as the game progressed. Dean seemed master of the situation and on the way to put the series on a 1-all basis, but the Yankees came suddenly to life in the eighth and scored two runs to forge into the lead again by one run. Frank Crosetti did it with a home run smash into the left field bleachers with Myril Hoag aboard, and it came after two outs Selkirk singled but Gordon forced him at second. Hoag was sent in to pinchhit for Gomez. He in turn forced Gordon at second, and Dean seemed out of trouble. But Crosetti crossed him up with the aforesaid homer to sew up the ball game.

Johnny Murphy was sent in to pitch for the Yankees as the Cubs came in to bat in the eighth. Marty nicked him for a single but the Cub's hopes died when he was the victim of a doubleplay.

The Yankees scored two more in the ninth on DiMaggio's terrific smash over the left field wall with Tommy Henrich, who had singled, scoring ahead of him. This was too much for Dean and he was sent to the showers. French replaced him and retired the side.

The fighting Cubs put two men on the bases after two outs in the ninth but failed to put a run across.

Tokyo American Football Season Opens On Monday As Waseda Plays Hosei

The Tokyo Inter-Collegiate American football league will get underway Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine Grounds. Last year's championship Waseda University's eleven will clash with Hosei and the kick-off is scheduled for 3 p.m.

The Maroons' gridders have been going through three weeks of stiff training at their home grounds in Higashi Fushimi. Coach Richard Fukuda had a tough job of building up an entire new combination for his team. Waseda lost six regulars through graduation last year: Player-coach Masa Shimoda who was considered the best utility player last season; Co-captains Nouchi and Obayashi, both all-star backs; Terry Yoshimoto, speedy halfback who thrilled fans with his spectacular returns on the punts; Murayama, Waseda's best end, and "Blackie" Ueno, all star tackle.

Strong Heavy Line

But according to Coach Fukuda, this year's line will be just as good as last years'. Quarterback Captain Tama Nakayama has been shifted to center in place of Coach Fukuda who will remain on the sidelines in most of the games this season, as he will have his hands full coaching. Noro, a promising freshman will also play center. Last year's all star guard, Susumu Fujioka, will be back in his favorite position. Bear Miyamoto a freshman from Hawaii will be seen at guard. Kitamuta, Kaji, Doi, Hasegawa and Watanabe are all promising guards who have been training diligently this season. At tackles, last year's all star and the life of the team, Diamond Shimamura, and "Hammer" Nakadate, a new man who is plenty big and tough. Sai, Fujii, and Yoneda are also good as tackles. The veteran Long John Nomura, who is playing his fourth year for Waseda will be seen at end. Fukushima, last year's guard will play on the other end this season. Speedy Yamada, Sasai, Cho and Koide are developing into first class ends too.

The average weight per player of the line is 150 pounds.

Nice Backfield

"Doc" Noguchi, last year's all star, will again bark signals and his pals Gori Nishioka, all-star tackle and Larry Kunimoto, halfbacks, and Kojack Naito, fullback, will form the backfield combination, which has plenty of power and speed and has been clicking wonderfully during practice sessions. Umeda and Manager Shingu are also in the backfield lineup. Player-coach Fukuda will be ready to fill in any weak spot himself.

Hopes to Repeat

Coach Fukuda, when asked whether his team would repeat this season replied: "The fight for championship will no doubt be between Waseda and Meiji because the bulk of both teams are composed of boys from America who are more experienced in this game. But, there's no telling what the dark horse Keio, Rikkyo and Hosei will do. You must remember Hosei beat us two years ago. But I can say this much that our boys have been taking their practice sessions very seriously and they all look great. Our team is evenly balanced and we have a marvelous teamwork and team spirit. We will do our best and hope to repeat the championship for the third straight season."

Paul Rusch Speaks

"You are not playing football for self glory but you are helping to plant in the root of Japanese College Life, to bind the youths of Japan and America," said Paul Rusch, father of American Football in Japan, at the Football tea party held at the Asahi Shinbun on Thursday night. He went on and said, "We have a hard year ahead of us and we will face many hardships this season, due to the emergency situation, but we will go ahead, determined to carry on no matter what the difficulties may be . . . knowing that the eyes of the public will be focused on us. We will show them that American football is most suitable for Japanese youths to train youth than any other sports. We must show the Japanese people the physical, mental and social side of football and all must cooperate to make this game more interesting by playing a snappier and speedier game. We will strive to bind the youths of America and Japan through sports."

Waseda to Play Y.C.A.C.

At this meeting it was also announced that the Waseda University gridders twill play the Y.C.A.C. team on October 22, Saturday at 2 p.m. at Yokohama.

Migrating Baron

Two farmers met in town after a cyclone hit the countryside. "Yes, it did a lot of queer tricks round our way," declared one, reflectively. "By the way, Hank, was that new baron of yours injured any?"

"I ain't found it yet."—St. Neots Advertiser.

Nakayama, War Hero, Rejoins The Giants

Corporal Takeshi Nakayama, catcher of the Tokyo Giants, who was seriously wounded in September last year while attempting to make a landing from boats in the face of enemy fire on the China front, appeared for the first time in two years in a Giants uniform at the Korakuen stadium here this afternoon.

Honorably discharged from the service recently, he rejoined the Giants. He was one of the peppiest backstops in the professional league and should be of great help to the now league leading Giants.

Net Group Gives Mrs. Moody Check

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—The check for $1,309.45, which had been allotted to her for expenses while competing abroad with the Wightman Cup team and in the championships at Wimbledon, has been returned to Mrs. Helen Wills Moody by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, it was announced yesterday.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Moody revealed that she would be unable to take part in the women's national singles title tournament at Forest Hills, and because of her failure to keep her promise to do so sent the net body its check for her expenses.

Illness Forced Withdrawal

The former national champion, who set out on the comeback trail this Summer and won the crown at Wimbledon, was forced to withdraw from active tournament play upon her return to this country because of "a severe attack of neuritis."

In forwarding the check to her Chairman Julian S. Myrick of the Wightman Cup committee expressed regret at her inability to play, but insisted that the association felt the "expenses allowed were a proper charge against the event and your representing us in the British championships."

Mr. Myrick's Letter

The text of Mr. Myrick's letter follows:

Your letter of Aug. 21, in which you advised Mr. Moss that you would be unable to take part in the national singles championship, beginning Sept. 8, has been referred to me. The members of the committee have asked me to say on their behalf how very disappointed they are that you had decided that you could not get yourself in proper physical condition in order to play in the championships.

We hope that there is no foundation for what has been inferred from your letter—that it is your intention to withdraw from further active participation in tennis; that your indisposition is temporary and you will soon be your usual self, to continue to play the game for the pleasure you derive from it, whether in clubs or in tournaments.

In this connection one might note the fine record that you have achieved over the years, starting in 1921, when you won the girls' national championship, and, finally, in 1938, having won the championship at Wimbledon again. Through these seventeen years you won many championships in this country, England and France, Wightman Cup matches and other tournaments and tennis honors. It is a great record and one, I believe, that has never been equalled and possibly never will be by any other player.

With regard to your having sent your check to the association for reimbursement of expenses which were allowed you while a member of the Wightman Cup team and playing in the British championships, the committee has instructed me to return this check to you, as the expenses allowed were a proper charge against the event and your representing us in the British championships. Similar amounts were allowed the other members of the team. You represented the country in both events and are certainly entitled to have had your expenses paid by the association.

Very sincerely yours,
JULIAN S. MYRICK,
Chairman, Wightman Cup Committee.

Game Rally Gives Honors To Manero

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN
N.Y. Times

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 11—Scoring his first major triumph since he won the national open championship in 1936, Tony Manero of the Salem Country Club, Peabody, Mass., today captured the Glens Falls open golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 281.

A 68 in the third round put Manero back in the running today, enabling him to tie for the lead at the 54-hole mark with Sam Snead. He trailed Snead by five strokes at the end of the second round. And when Snead suffered a putting lapse, Manero scampered in with a 71 in the last round that was sufficient to bring him the victor's purse of $1,000.

It was not Snead but Gene Sarazen who pressed Manero in the final stages, as the West Virginian could do no better than a 74 on his concluding tour of the Glens Falls Country Club course. Snead's 74 was one higher than his third-round score.

Easy Shot Missed

Sarazen, former United States and British open titleholder, had a chance to tie at 281 with a ten-footer left for a deuce at the last hole. And Gene, who devotes as much time to his Brookfield Center, Conn., farm and dairy as he does to his golf these days, took considerable care with the putt, but he hit it a bit too hard.

The ball curled into the cup, hopped out and rolled three feet beyond. Sarazen missed coming back, then tapped in a 4 to finish with a 70 and tie for second place at 283.

Jimmy Hines, metropolitan open champion, who carried off the honors here for the last two seasons, spurted sensationally on the last three holes, taking a 3, 4, 2, an eagle, par and a birdie, for a 70 to bring his total to 283 also.

Craig Wood of Rumson, N. J., shooting some of his best golf of recent tournaments, added a 69 and a 71 today to move into a triple tie for fourth with Felix Serafin of Clarks Summit, Pa., and Snead at 284.

Moore Ties Four Others

After a 74 this morning that left him only four strokes back of Snead and Manero, Frank Moore, Westchester open champion, faltered badly on the last nine to finish with a 71 for 285, the figure returned by Paul Runyan, National Professional Golfers Association champion; Ray Mangrum of Dayton, Ohio; Gene Kunes of Itasca, Ill., and Jack Patroni of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa.

Moore had a grand chance with a 32 on the first nine of the last round, but after a par 4 at the tenth, went three over par at the next two holes. He hooked for a 5 at the eleventh, but the truly damaging hole was the difficult par 3 twelfth, where his tee shot was short to the left and, after pitching on the green, he three-putted for a 5. He added to his trouble by going out of bounds at the sixteenth and came back in 39.

Nornay Saddler Is Beaten In Terrier Group

By ARTHUR E. PATTERSON

TUXEDO, N. Y., Sept. 10—Once again that glamorous white poodle, Champion Blakeen Jung Frau, owned by Mrs. Sherman R. Hoyt, of Katonah, N. Y., went to the top of all breeds at the twentieth annual Tuxedo Kennel Club show today.

Moving in her characteristically gay style and flashy at all times, Jung Frau, a sound, compact specimen of her breed, won the highest of all awards at a dog show for the tenth time. En route she picked up another important member club show group victory which ultimately may swing the American Kennel Club's American-bred trophy competition to her favor for 1938.

Alfred B. Maclay, noted sportsman, made the final decision and it was not an easy one. In the ring, among others, he found John Mulcahy's gorgeous Kerry blue terrier, Champion Bumble Bee, of Delwin, already conqueror of the noted Champion Nornay Saddler, and Mrs. Vincent Matta's correct little Pomeranian, Champion Sealand Moneybox, shown in beautiful bloom and also an outstanding winner of the day after turning back Jack Royce's Peke, Champion Kai Lo of Dah Lyn, which also presented a problem.

Two Duke Dogs in Final

It was further unusual that Mr. and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, of this resort town, had two champions in the final ring—the beagle, Champion River Park Jim III and the pointer, Champion Pennine Paramount, of Prune's Own. Both have proved able competitors in the past. Rounding out the sextet was the Sumbula Kennel's boxer, Champion Ingo Von Heger Se Sumbula, never an easy dog to beat.

Maclay moved the dogs twice and lined them up several times before he made his decision. The poodle, he thought, was the soundest, and he must have this quality for his winners. He would not say as much, but he indicated that perhaps he rated the pom second, the beagle third and the Kerry fourth.

The terrier group competition perhaps was the keenest battle of the afternoon. John G. Bates, of Morristown, N. J., was the judge and he was forced to put down a dog of which he had rendered the highest praise at previous shows. That was Champion Nornay Saddler, the year's most consistent prize winner.

"Saddler, I thought, was not as keen today as he has been—just a bit over the edge. That was the difference. The Kerry blue was on his toes all the way and the fox terrier occasionally was back in his collar. I might say that was a very excellent Bedlington (Lady Rowena of Wildoaks, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Neary), and it was a close thing throughout." Fourth in the terrier group went to a good young Sealyham, Radio Beam, of Robin Hill, owned by Mrs. Robert B. Choate.

Mrs. Hoyt's poodle marched through the non-sporting group with plenty to spare, according to Louis Murr, the judge, who found his second place dog in the Ledgelands' chow chow, Ledgelands Tuff Fei, and his third in the Dalmatian, Champion Hollow Hill Atlas, owned by the Tally Ho Kennels. Royal Kennels' Royal Kid Regards continued as ever a consistent place winner after topping a good lot of Boston terriers.

Mr. and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke scored three breed victories with River Park Jim III in beagles, Pennine Paramount in pointers and Pilot, of Glen Grove, in English setters. Handling beagles for the first time, Mrs. Duke then took the beagle to first in the group over that well-known dachshund, Champion Herman Rinkton. It was a disappointing second for "Hermie" in as much as he fell two member groups behind Mrs. Hoyt's poodle in the exciting chase for the American Kennel Club American-bred award.

Ringside Notes and Chatter

Mrs. A. R. Moffitt had the biggest entry of the day. . . . She judged seventy-six cocker spaniels, more than double any breed and in a high quality lot found her best of breed in a dog which, although nearly five years of age, only recently finished his championship. . . . He is Sirdar Byngo Buddy, a big black one, sound and of good bone—Mrs. Moffitt's "idea of the modern ideal cocker, particularly in disposition." . . . The owner is Mrs. George A. Carruthers, and Buddy's keenest battle in the breed was against the other special dogs, Mrs. Leonard Buck's Champion Found and Mrs. H. Terrell Van Ingen's Champion Tommy Tucker VI. . .

Mrs. Whitehouse Walker revealed an entry of sixty-one dogs for the second annual specialty show of the obedience test club at the Westchester K. C. event tomorrow, with tracking competition lingering through Monday, when a half-dozen dogs will attempt to gain the U. D. title on the Mount Kisco estate of Henry Whitehouse. . . A dark brindle puppy Great Dane, Ingo of Brae Tarn, owned by R. P. Stevens, went best of breed and fourth in its group. . . Mrs. Florence B. Ilch's Bellhaven Kennels added another to the long list of champions when Miss Braddy L. of Bowood, was finished. . . Don't ever get the idea this dog show game is a life of leisure. . . Your correspondent happened to be a witness when James Austin took Nornay Saddler into his automobile at 6:30 a.m. and headed for Tuxedo toward a pale moon in a western sky. . . There probably wasn't another reporter awake on Long Island.

4 U.S. Net Stars To Stop Over Here En Route To Manila

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6—Three members of Japan's 1938 Davis Cup team, non-playing captain Tamio Abe, Fumiteru Nakano and Yasumine Kuramitsu, who have been participating in various tennis tournaments in Europe and the United States for the past seven months, boarded the N.Y.K. liner Asama Maru today en route back to Japan.

Before sailing, Captain Abe revealed that four young American tennis players, Donald McNeil, Hal Surface, Owen Anderson and William Robertson, as well as Franjo Kukuljevic, Yugoslavian ace, will stop over in Japan to participate in several matches before going on their way to the Philippines and India.

Aknusti Beats Jaguars, 16 To 9, In Polo Match

By HARRY CROSS

WESTBURY, L. I., Sept. 10—The visiting English players have fared badly in the polo tournaments here this year and the Anglo-American Jaguars tasted defeat again on Hitchcock Field this afternoon when the Aknusti team came to life and won, 16 to 9, in the Monty Waterbury Memorial Cup tournament.

Aknusti played ragged polo a few days in the open, but today it looked like a different team. The talented Pat Roark at No. 3 and Ray Guest at back team perfectly with the two Gerrys, Ebby and Bob, who were in the front positions. Roark and Guest interchanged positions frequently and the Gerry side always had their players in the right positions to take the passes.

There was no unity to the Jaguars' efforts and the individual efforts of the four players were easily brushed aside by the Aknusti defense. The Jaguars started with a one-goal handicap and Balding shot in two goals in the opening chukker, which gave the Jaguars a 3-to-0 advantage at the end of the period.

Aknusti Finds Range

In the first period the Aknusti players kept up a shower of shots at the enemy's goal, but could not find the range until the second period and then they went to it. Ray Guest sent through a forty-yard free hit and Ebby Gerry and Roark scored and the count was tied. After that the nicely coordinated play of Aknusti left the Anglo-American team in the lurch. The Jaguars did not score at all in four out of the eight periods. They were badly outplayed throughout.

Bobby Gerry's marksmanship improved as the match went along, and in the sixth and seventh he scored four goals in rapid succession as Roark and Ray Guest pumped the shots along to him.

Roark, the British veteran, was at his best, and that means that there was not a better player on the field. One of the game's finest stylists, the English rider played a useful game in the pivot position and did it with a graceful ease which was impressive. The two Gerrys were hitting well after the first period and were never out of position when the ball came sailing along from the backs.

Keith Rous was at No. 1 for the Jaguars, but Raymond Guest gave him a very uncomfortable afternoon. The two English internationalists, Gerald Balding and Eric Tyrrell-Martin, did a lot of galloping around in vain, and their efforts had little purpose. Winston Guest was at back, but he was unable to subdue the scoring enthusiasm of the two Gerrys.

The Jaguar in his habitat is a ferocious customer, but the impressive name did not lend much inspiration to the English visitors as the Aknusti riders galloped roughshod over them. Winston Guest tried out three or four names for his team this year, and then picked the wrong one.

All the ferocity and speed in playing this afternoon was with the Aknusti side, and they played excellent team polo. If they had been able to hit this pace in the open, well, that's something else again.

Raymond Guest took a tumble in the eighth chukker, but he no sooner hit the turf when he was up on his feet again. If all those shots, Aknusti missed in the first period had registered, this match today would have been nothing less than a polo debacle.

The line-up:

Pos.	Aknusti (16)	Jaguars (9)
No. 1	E. T. Gerry	Keith Rous
No. 2	R. L. Gerry jr.	Gerald Balding
No. 3	C. T. Roark	E. Tyrell-Martin
Back	R. R. Guest	Winston Guest

Score by Chukkers

Aknusti	0	3	1	2	2	4	3	1	—16
Jaguars	3	0	0	0	2	0	2	2	— 9

Goals—Aknusti: E. T. Gerry (4), R. L. Gerry (5), Roak (2), R. Guest (5). Jaguars: Balding (5), W. Guest (3), by handicap 1.

Referee—Devereux Milburn. Umpires—Billy Post and E. W. Hopping. Time of period—7½ minutes each.

Inglis-Murray Wedding Held At Christ Church

Bride Arrived In This Country From Scotland Last Week

A large gathering of foreign residents of Tokyo and Yokohama attended the wedding service of Miss Isabella Inglis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Inglis, of Edinburgh, and William Murray of Yokohama, which was held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Christ Church, Yokohama.

The service opened with three voluntaries, by the organist Mrs. J. T. Woolley. She played Prelude from Lohengrin, by Wagner; two Horidean Airs by Kennedy Fraser and Preislied from Die Meistersinger, by Wagner.

Church Beautifully Decorated

The church which was simply but beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums made an ideal background for the bride, who was attended by Miss Betty Cameron and Miss Kathleen Campbell Dewar, as bridesmaid and maids of honor, entered the church on the arm of T. G. Ely, who gave her away. Her bridal gown was of brocaded satin cut with a flaring skirt and she wore a matching bolero. Her veil, which had formerly been worn by her sister, was of beautifully embroidered net, and was attached to her head by a tiara of pearl. The bridegroom, who wore a spray of white heather in his button hole, was attended by A. A. F. Shearer, who acted as best man.

Miss Cameron and Miss Dewar wore wore identical gowns of apricot organdy with matching picture hats, and carried bouquets of tea roses. Miss Dewar is a friend of Mrs. Murray who came especially from Scotland for the occasion with the bride who only arrived in Japan last week. T. E. Bromley, J. S. Kerbey, J. Davidson, A. E. Hedges, W. A. Tomlinson, P. E. Joyce, G. R. Westwood and Alexander Ormiston of Kobe acted as ushers.

The marriage ceremony was conducted by the Rev. T. P. Symonds and The Most Rev. Bishop Samuel Heaslett, Bihsop of South Tokyo said a few prayers and pronounced the blessing.

The bridal party entered the church, following the choir, to the hymn The King of Love My Shepherd Is. After the marriages ceremony the psalm I will Lift Up Mine Eyes Unto the Hills was sung. During the last hymn, Lead Us Heavenly, Father Lead Us, the bridal party went into the vestry. The choir then sung the anthem Jesus, Joy of Man Desiring from Bach. The bride and bridegroom left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Reception At Negishi

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Ely, at No. 1, Takinoue, Negishi. The bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends in the garden, after which Mr. Ely proposed the toast of the bride and groom. Mr. Murray replied and Mr. Shearer then proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. After the speeches the bride cut the large three-tier wedding cake.

The guests then had the opportunity of seeing the wedding presents which were on view upstairs. After pictures of the bridal party had been taken the bride and groom left on their honeymoon. Mrs. Murray wore a heavy blue crepe silk ensemble. As Mr. and Mrs. Murray walked to their car they were showered with confetti.

Mrs. Murray after her arrival from Scotland last week has been staying part of the time with Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Blyth and part of her time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ely. After their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Murray will reside in Yokohama, where Mr. Murray is with the Rising Sun Petroleum Co. Ltd.

tion tour of China for the past several weeks to investigate the actual operation conditions of the China Iron Mining Company, the Internal Navigation Company of China, the China Raw Silk Company and the Shanghai Land Planning Company, and various electric, communications and water services.

Speaking of general impressions he had during the journey Mr. Aoki said that he felt it most reassuring to see a large number of Japanese actively engaged in their business in Shanghai, Hangchow, Kahing, Wusih, Changchow and Soochow.

There are many electric, communications and water service enterprises undertaken by the newly organized joint stock companies in the areas under the occupation of the Imperial forces, he said. They include the China Iron Mining Company, the Internal Navigation Company of China, the China Raw Silk Company and the Shanghai Land Planning Company, which are to be offered as investments in kind in the Central China Promotion Company, the vice-governor continued.

All of these enterprises are operating very actively, he said. Passenger trains between Shanghai, Nanking and Hanchow are operating on regular schedules, twice a day. These enterprises are to be managed as subsidiaries to the Central China Promotion Company, in line with the national policy, in view of a marked change which was taken place in the entire situation in China due to the present Incident.

The vice-governor then emphasized that the Japanese must make strenuous endeavor in the development of trade with the great consuming public of Central China. With respect to the prevailing conditions in Shanghai, Mr. Aoki said that the Japanese spinning mills are operating in a very brisk manner.

Japan's Policy For Colonies Proves Success

By J. E. WILSON

Peking Times

Two hundred miles north of the "mushroom" town of Mutanchiang, the population of which has grown from 3,000 to 100,000 in the last five years, lies Chiamussu nestling on the south bank of the Sungari River. It is this town, in the opinion of many, that will shortly outstrip Harbin in size and importance, although it is difficult at the moment to see how it can have more than a certain strategic importance, or importance as the provincial capital of Sanchiang. For some years, however, it has been one of the centers of the Japanese immigration farming experiment, and many still look to it as the cradle of this experiment. Its two farm settlements, south of the town, are among the most flourishing in the country and are taken as a good indication of the success of the immigration project.

More Colonists

The immigration scheme, under which it is planned to settle in twenty years a total of one million Japanese families comprising five million persons, entered its concrete stage only last year after many experiments which, for various reasons, met with failure. The internal condition of the country prior to the Manchurian Incident was one of the greatest obstables, while further difficulties were experienced in securing the right kind of settler. In 1914 and until 1917 the South Manchurian Railway adopted plans to accommodate men retiring from the railway guard service, but only thirty families accepted this offer in four years and of these many abandoned their settlements before 1933. In 1918 the Kwantung Government settled nineteen families on rice farms with similar poor results. Sixteen of the families quit owing to poor harvest in the first year.

The South Manchuria Railway Company in 1929 supplied Yen 5,000,000 capital to foster immigration into the Kwantung Leased Territory in 1929, but only seventy-four families took advantage of a scheme which was to provide for five hundred families. Several other private attempts to promote colonization were also made, but with the exception of the fruit farms in Kwantung Leased Territory and the former South Manchuria Railway Zone, all ended in failure. Indeed, during the thirty years since Japan acquired a foothold in Manchuria up to the time of the Manchurian Incident, there were only 1,500 Japanese farming families comprising 3,600 persons

Haphazard Methods Abolished

After the Incident, however, the Japanese Ministry of Overseas Affairs drafted tentative plans for the realization of the immigration programs to Manchuria with a scheme of training prospective immigrants and granting them financial assistance. Haphazard and uncontrolled methods of immigration were abolished and Japan settled down to her bold experiment in a business-like manner. The success is reflected in the present state of the farm settlements, which are springing up in many parts of the country. Between 1932 and 1937 a total of five groups composed of 2,785 families or 4,245 individuals in all settled in Manchuria, and the present figure, as far as could be ascertained in Harbin this month, is 21,000 persons.

The system on which the farms are run is particularly interesting. For the cold regions of North Manchoukuo, farmers chiefly from the north of Japan are selected owing to the similarity of the climates of the two areas. The selected settlers are given a period of training in Japan before being brought overseas, and are generally in batches of three hundred, headed by what they like to term their "Fuehrer." This leader, generally between thirty and forty years of age, is recommended by the Prefectural Governor of his own district in Japan, and examined as to his capabilities in Tokyo. Once in Manchoukuo, he is the undisputed leader of his settlement, with power to settle minor disputes and direct affairs generally. Ranking second to him on each settlement is the farming expert, while the veterinary surgeon ranks third and the doctor fourth. The school teacher reigns in his own domain. During the first year of their tenancy of the settlement, the farmers cultivate the land in ten batches of thirty; in the second year thirty groups of ten; in the third year individually.

The medical and veterinary facilities of the settlement are by no means confined to the Japanese settlers, and it is a common sight to see the Manchurian farmer driving in an ailing beast for treatment or consulting the farming expert on some agricultural point. Indeed, the Japanese settlements have the effect of drawing about them the Manchurian farms. There is no question of competition between the two, for the Japanese settlers sell their produce should there be any surplus over their own requirements (and it should be borne in mind that their proclaimed object is to become merely self-supporting) to the Kwantung Army, their only customers.

Baron Okura Confident of Success

Many ask will Japan be able to complete successfully her twenty-year program of settling five million families in Manchoukuo. I myself put this question to Baron Kimmochi Okura, Member of the Japanese House of Peers and one of the greatest experts on the problem, and later to Seitaro Yuki, Vice-Governor of Pinchiang Province. Both were confident of success, Baron Okura pointing to the rapid acceleration of the program in the past year and the success of the settlements hitherto established. With the suppression of the bandits the settlers were enabled to devote all their time to crops, and with three hundred farmers on one settlement the Japanese, ever desirous to be among his own people, felt quite at home. Desertions now were few, the death rate low and the birth rate high.

Mr. Yuki revealed that the settlement project was no longer confined to the Japanese. Pinchiang Province had taken the lead in emancipating the Manchurian farmer, many of whom hitherto had been but virtual serfs. Large landholders, he declared, rented their land to farmers at exhorbitant prices, compelling the farmer to live in poverty. Tracts of land had now been selected and many Manchurians were settled on their own farms. The execution of this plan was a great deal easier than the transplanting of Japanese farmers, and he anticipated that it would assume larger proportions.

United Artists Official To Inspect Branches

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president and foreign manager of United Artists Corporation, New York, is coming to Japan, on board the s.s. Empress of Russia, which is expected to arrive at Yokohama on October 12.

He is expected to stay in Japan for about two weeks and will visit Osaka and Hakata United Artists branches.

Relics Of Germ Warfare

Providing concrete evidence of the Japanese contention that the Chinese troops have been contaminating wells as they retreated in an attempt to retard the Japanese advance, these pictures show the containers used in carrying the germs. In the upper picture the tell-tale cans are seen near a contaminated well in Kiukiang, on the Yangtze. The broken ampoules below are said to have contained cholera germs. They were found in a contaminated well.

Friction Between Chiang, Provincial Leaders Increases

Protests Against Hankow Become Louder Among Officials

The friction between Hankow authorities and provincial leaders is apparently becoming worse, especially in view of the imminent fall of Hankow. These provincial leaders are becoming more outspoken in their defiance of Chiang Kai-shek than ever, says a report received in Tokyo.

In order to check the rise of anti-Chiang sentiment in the provinces, General Chiang has dispatched a number of what may be called a secret special mission, affiliated with the Blue Shirts. But the presence of these secret agents has further intensified the leaders' animosity against General Chiang and frequent clashes between the provincial authorities and these secret agents have been reported.

One prominent instance of such a clash was when one Chung Shao-kuei was murdered by some of these secret agents on charge of conspiring against Chiang Kai-shek. Chen-i, the head of Fukien province, declaring the murder a serious overstepping of one's authority and angered by the act that deliberately ignored his presense, brought one Chang Chao, chief of the Blue Shirts in Fukien Province, to a trial and shot him to death. This developed into a grave disputatious issue between the Hankow authorities and the province but the incident was hushed up. Similar instances are found in many other provinces, causing serious hitches in military defense work and creating great political unrest.

In view of the critical situation, the military council at Hankow has restricted the authority of the secret special commission and has drafted a plan for the purpose of preventing a recurrence of similar incident.

It was proposed that Chen-i be replaced by somebody else, but there are the indications that such a change will lead to further internal disorders beyond control, and he is kept in his former position. General Yu Hanmon, commander of the fourth military zone, has been made solely responsible for all military affairs in the province. This step is understood to have been taken by Chiang Kai-shek to eliminate frictions whenever possible.

70,000 Fans Jammed Yankee Stadium Sat. To See World Series

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—With pre-game sales indicating that a capacity crowd of more than 70,000 will jam the Yankee Stadium to witness the third game of the 1938 World Series, it was announced here tonight that Monte Pearson and Clay Bryant will hurl for the Yankees and Cubs respectively.

New York, which won both of the games played at Wrigley Field, needs only two more wins to take the series and retain the world championship. Baseball critics here gave the Yankees a good chance to take the series straight.

Both righthanded pitchers, Bryant has turned in 19 victories for the Cubs while Pearson has recorded 16 wins for the McCarthymen.

Kwangsi Flying Officers Pass French Indo-China

HANOI, Oct. 8—Under obvious connivance of French Indo-China authorities, more than 200 flying officers and men of the Kwangsi Army hastened from Laokai to Kwangsi province via Hanoi by the Yunnan railway on the night of October 23, it was revealed here today.

Ushio Munemura, Japanese Consul-general at Hanoi, made queries thereanent, to Louis Nouailhetas, acting Governor-general of French Indo-China. However the latter reportedly declined to make any comment.

Upon receipt of official information from Ushio Munemura, Consul-General at Hanoi, regarding the transportation of some 200 Kwangsi army officers and men by the Yunnan Railway, the Foreign Office Saturday instructed the Ambassador to Paris, Dr. Yotaro Sugimura, to file a strong protest with the French Government against the use of the French railway for the benefit of the Chinese Army.

Ta Kung Pao Comments On Czech Annexation

Domei Tsushin

HONGKONG, Oct. 8—Editorializing the Czech partition scheme under the title of "Lessons from European crisis," the Ta Kung Pao, noted Chinese paper now issued in Hankow, states that a nation should defend herself single-handed without asking assistance from others, if she wishes to secure political independence.

The latest partition of Czechoslovakia has given an unparalleled lesson to all the minor Powers of the world, said the editorial. It also urged them that they should always be prepared to resist foreign aggression.

Bearing in mind the lesson of the Czech issue, China should resist Japan to the bitter end, concluded the editorial.

Meiji Defeats Keio, 6 To 5 In Thrilling Uphill Fight To Maintain Lead In Race

Meiji came from behind and nosed out Keio, 6-5, Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium to split their series in the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league and maintain its lead in the standings.

Meiji scored two runs in the sixth to deadlock the count at 5-all and clinched the game with a rally in the eighth when it seemed as if near approaching darkness might have the contest called off a draw. Captain Masao Yoshida was the hero for Meiji, coming through with a two bagger to left center and scoring Backstop Matsui who had singled to center after one away.

Perfect autumnal weather prevailed and a capacity crowd of more than 50,000 witnessed the two teams stage the most keenly contested game of the season to date.

Shimizu Knocked Out

Although hit hard on the previous day when Keio registered a 4-2 victory, Southpaw Shimizu was sent to the mound once again to start the game by the Meiji bench. His indrops proved no mystery to the Keio players and they pounced on him for three runs and seven hits and sent him to the showers in the fourth inning. Except for the lone hit by Sakurai in the fourth after he had replaced Shimizu, Right Hander Kodama held Keio at bay throughout the rest of the game with his fast ball, yielding nary a hit.

Takagi started for Keio on the mount but was yanked in the sixth in favor of Narita, another Right Hander, when Meiji threatened. Keio still led at 5-3 so Narita was charged with the defeat.

Keio scored one in the first inning. Sakurai got to first on an infield hit and went to second on Nagara's sacrifice. Uno singled to right and Sakurai advanced to third. Uno dashed for second and was cut off by Shortstop Sugiura who took Catcher Matsui's peg. Uno headed back for first and Sugiura chased after him and vitrually forgot Sakurai at third that the latter beat out Sugiura's peg to the plate for the first run of the game.

Keio looked like a million dollars by scoring two more in the first half of the second. Iijima walked and Shortstop Odate, who missed bunting on the second strike, tripled to right, swinging at one of Shimizu's famous indrops, and Iijima tallied. Mizuno followed with a two bagger down the right field foul line and Odate checked in. He swung at the first pitch.

Meiji rallied and scored twice in the last half of the second. Sugiura walked and Sakata singled through third. Kamei also singled through third to bat in Sugiura. Kameda hit into a double play but Matsui rapped a single to center and Sakata scored.

Keio Leads

Keio led by two runs again in the fourth. Odate singled to short and went to second on a wild pitch. He advanced to third as Mizuno was thrown out, Kamei to Sakata. Pitcher Takagi swung at the first pitch and singled to right to score Odate. Shimizu received the high sing to quit and Kodama took over the pitching burden. He fanned Kakehi. Sakurai singled to center but Nagara grounded out to second.

Kodama lost control temporarily in the fifth and gave Keio a run. He walked a man after one out, then hit another with a pitched ball and walked two more to force in a run. Kondo was sent in to pinchhit for Kakehi but he swung at the first ball and popped weakly to second to retire the side.

But Kodama redeemed himself in Meiji's portion of the fifth by starting the inning with a double to left, the ball hitting the fence on the fly, scoring later on a fielder's choice as Keio attempted a doubleplay that failed.

It was Sakata that started the ball rolling for Meiji in the sixth when it tied the score at 5-all. He doubled to center and Narita replaced Takagi on the mound for Keio. But Kamei greeted him with a hit to right to score Sakata. Kamei went to second on a wild pitch. Narita fanned Kameda and Matsui but Kodama doubled again to left and Kamei scored to tie the count at 5-all.

Meiji's winning run in the eighth has been described in the foregoing. Keio had a chance after two outs in the ninth. Iijima walked and Miyazaki was sent in to run for him. Odate was safe on Sugiura's error. Here was a chance to tie the score with a man on second. Matsumori was sent in to bat for Mizuno, but all he did was to strike out swinging and the game was over.

Rikkyo Wins

Rikkyo made it two straight over Tokyo Imperial University in the curtain raiser, winning by an 8-3 count.

Yanks Top Cubs, For 3rd Straight In World Series

Domei Tsushin

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 8—Joe Gordon, rookie second baseman, batted in three runs and the New York Yankees downed the Chicago Cubs, 5-2, today for their third straight victory in the 1938 world series. The Yankees now need only one more win to clinch their third consecutive world's baseball championship.

Manager Leo (Gabby) Hartnett of the Cubs sent Right Hander Clay Bryant, who had turned in 19 victories in the National league's pennant chase, to the mound in the hopes of stopping the Yankees, but he proved unable to check the hard-hitting McCarthymen and had to give way to French in the sixth inning. French finished the game.

Monte Pearson, who recently pitched a no-hit no-run game for the Yankees was Manager Joe McCarthy's choice to work and he came through nobly, yielding but five hits.

Weather conditions were ideal for a ball game with a fine sun and a light wind. A crowd of 50,000 had packed the stadium before starting time at 1:30 p.m.

The Cubs filled the bases in the first when Stan Hack and Billy Herman walked and Marty singled. But Pearson bore down and retired the next three men, fanning Reynolds and Manager Hartnett himself.

Then it was Bryant who gave a fine exhibition of pitching in the second after he had walked two men and put himself into a hole. He struck out Selkirk and Gordon.

The Cubs threatened again in the third but Pearson stopped them again. Cavarretta singled to right and Marty duplicated to center after one out. Unruffled, Pearson struck out Reynolds. And Hartnett failed again by grounding out to Gordon.

The fourth inning ended with the Yankees still to get a hit off Bryant and victims of three strikeouts. The Cubs in the meantime had garnered three hits but were charged with seven strikeouts. Bryant and Pearson were staking a pitchers' duel that kept the rabid spectators in a keen state of excitement.

The Cubs scored once in the fifth. Hack doubled to left and went to third as Gordon messed up Cavarretta's grounder. He then tallied as Marty forced Cavarretta at second, Rolfe to Gordon.

But the Yankees forged into a 2-1 lead in their portion of the fifth. Gordon started the fireworks after two were away with a home run smash into the left field bleachers. Pearson then singled to left. Crosetti walked and Rolfe hit a Texas Leaguer to center, bringing in Pearson for the second run.

The Yankees scored two more in the sixth. Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig singled and Selkirk walked to fill the bases. Gordon kept up his good work by lashing a single to left to score DiMaggio and Gehrig. Bryant was sent to the showers and Jack Russell took the mound. He walked Pearson but retired Crosetti and Rolfe.

Marty, who was the Cubs' hitting star in the second game at Chicago with three hits, poled one into the left field stands in the eighth for the Cub's last run of the game.

Bill Dickey, the slugging Yankees catcher, retaliated in the second half of the same frame with a four-base clout into the right field bleachers. It came off French who had replaced Russell.

Pearson retired the Cubs in order in the ninth without trouble. One of the pinchhitters sent in was an old New York favorite, and a hero of past world series, Lazzeri, who had been released by the Yankees last year and who was signed by the Cubs as a coach. Despite the warm reception he received from the stand, he was unable to nick Pearson for a hit.

The next game, which will be the last if the Cubs fail, will be played here at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 7—Two weeks of intensive practice lie ahead for 52 University of Kansas football players when they report to Coach Ad Lindsey next Saturday. The Jayhawkers have only those 14 days in which to prepare for their opening game of the season with the University of Texas at Lawrence, Sept. 24.

Lindsey and his Jayhawkers face the toughest schedule in the college's history; but with 20 lettermen and a fine crop of sophomores included in the squad the outlook is promising.

Last year Kansas finished third in the Big Six and this season the Jayhawkers hope to do as well or better. Only one Big Six team, Kansas State, defeated Kansas last Fall, the Jayhawkers downing Oklahoma and Iowa State and tying with Nebraska and Missouri.

One New Coach

When the Jayhawkers start practice there will be one new member of the coaching staff. He is Dick Crayne, former University of Iowa star, who replaces Glenn Presnell as backfield coach. Crayne worked with the men in Spring practice.

Dana X. Bible, University of Texas coach, will be returning to familiar grounds when he brings his Longhorns to Lawrence for the season's opener. Bible, one of the best-known football coaches in the country, made Big Six history with the teams he turned out at Nebraska and he is now starting his second year at Texas.

Big Line

The Longhorn line may be even bigger than the lines Bible had at Nebraska. At center will be Glenn Jackson, 220-pound wheelhorse. The leading tackles range in weight from 205 pounds to 220. Two veteran guards who may get the starting call scale 200 pounds apiece.

The backfield, however, will be light and fast. Beefus Bryan, who set a record in the pole vault at the Kansas Relays at only one quarter of an inch under 14 feet, is also one of Texas' best halfbacks. He was a regular last Fall as a sophomore and is a great ball carrier.

None of the other backs will probably scale more than 185 pounds either, but all are fast and agile. The Longhorns boast three excellent punters and also expect to have a fine passing attack.

Gopher Coach Is Not Looking For Title Team

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 7—It's a tough row to hoe with little prospect of a harvest of football championship at the University of Minnesota this Fall, in the opinion of Head Coach Bernie Bierman.

Bierman has reverted to his usual early-season pessimism in pondering on acknowledged hard eight-game schedule opening with the University of Washington, a Pacific Coast Conference favorite, here Sept. 24.

"A championship team? That's out," Bierman snapped emphatically today; but he did admit, "We'll have a pretty good rugged team."

"Right now," Bierman said, "we fear Washington most, but they're all going to be awful tough."

Open With Huskies

Defending champions in the Western Conference, the Gophers after opening against the Washington Huskies, entertain a strong Nebraska team Oct. 1, and play their first Big Ten engagement here against Purdue Oct. 8.

Only 10 days of practice will be behind for Minnesota before Washington's invasion after the start of drill next Saturday. This worries Bierman, since he believes his athletes will have to be brought to the peak of condition for the opening fray and kept that way for the remainder of the schedule.

Barring complications, Minnesota should enter the season with 20 lettermen and 16 of last year's reserves, augmented by a good force of sophomore talent.

Stronger at Fullback

The squad should be stronger at guard, center, and fullback, Bierman said, and weaker at end, quarterback, and halfback. The tackles will be on a par with a year ago, he believes.

Harold Van Every, sophomore sparkplug of a year ago, again figures prominently in Bierman's scheme this Fall. Van Every passes, punts, and is one of the team's most consistent ground-gainers as a ball carrier.

Other veteran backs include Larry Buhler and Win Christianson, big, powerful fullbacks; George Faust, Wilbur Moore, and George Franck, halfbacks. There also are a few promising sophomores who may fill in nicely in the backfield department.

Three Seasoned Centers

Three seasoned centers are available. They are John Kulbitski, Dean Elmer, and Hilding Mattson, while Capt. Francis Twedell and Horace Bell, point-after-touchdown kicker par excellence, form a stonewall guard combination.

Charles Schultz, Win Pederson, Bob Johnson, and Warren Kilbourne head the veteran returning tackles, while at ends are John Mariucci, "Butch" Nash, and Earl Ohlgren.

Bierman said he anticipates little change in his system of play which means he again will depend on a hard-charging line, fast ballhandling, mixed with plenty of deception.

After the Purdue game, Minnesota plays Michigan here Oct. 15, Northwestern there Oct. 29, Iowa here Nov. 5, Notre Dame there Nov. 12, and winds up against Wisconsin at Madison Nov. 19.

Yankees Capture World Series In Four Games

but it lessened as the game progressed.

The Yankees scored three runs in the second inning after two outs. Hoag hit a hard grounder to short which Bill Jurges stopped but his throw to first was bad. Joe Gordon, hero of yesterday's game, singled to left. Ruffing, another one of those Yankees' good hitting pitchers, came through with a single to right scoring Hoag. Frank Crosetti, who contributed to Jerome (Dizzy) Dean's downfall in the second game with a homer with a man aboard, tripled down the left field foul line to bring in Gordon and Ruffing.

The Cubs threatened in the third when Lead-off man Stan Hack singled to left and Billy Herman duplicated to center after two down but they died on the bases.

Cubs Score on Error

An error by Gordon, "rookie" second baseman, helped the Cubs to break the ice in the scoring column in the fourth. Demaree and O'Dea walked. Jurges grounded to Crosetti but Gordon messed up the throw for a forced out and Demaree romped home.

Charley Root replaced Lee on the mound as the Yankees came in for the fourth. He started auspiciously by retiring the Yanks in order in the fourth and fifth.

Right Fielder Tommy Henrich lived up to the comments of experts that the 1938 edition of the Yankees is the best ever, not even excepting the 1928 club with the combination of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig et al., by opening the sixth inning with a homer into the right field stands. Dickey and Hoag both singled later in the same frame but they were stranded on the bags.

Jurges started the seventh with a line smash that bounced into the right field bleachers but it was limited to a double by the ground rules. Those fans pulling for the Cubs groaned as Lazzeri, former Yankee star, fanned and Hack and Herman both popped to Crosetti.

Vance Page, a rookie, replaced Root as the Cubs took the field for the seventh.

Cubs Rally

The Cubs rallied in the eighth to score twice and cut the Yankees' lead to one run. Cavaretta doubled to left and O'Dea poled one into the right field bleachers.

But the Yankees put the game on ice in their portion of the eighth, tallying four times for an 8-3 lead. After one out, Joe DiMaggio and Gehrig singled. French was sent in to pitch for Page. Dickey popped to Jurges. French removed himself from the game and Carleton took the mound. The latter uncorked a wild pitch and DiMaggio scored. Hoag doubled to left bringing in Gehrig. Gordon, was purposely walked. Ruffing walked and Dean replaced Carleton. But it was no help as Crosetti banged out a Texas Leaguer to left scoring Hoag and Gordon.

Keio Eleven Downs Meiji By 6-2 Score

Keio, national champions in 1937, had no trouble downing Meiji in the Kanto Inter-Collegiate Soccer league Sunday afternoon at the Tokyo Imperial grounds. The score was six goals to two, Keio leading at half time by 3-0.

Although behind by six goals, Meiji kept on trying and put two goals across before the gun ended the game.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

A Galley Built In 10½ Hours

In July, 1679, they expected the King of France to review the French fleet at Marseilles. In order to impress the King with the efficiency of the Navy, the Intendant of Marine, Brodart of Marseilles, built and launched a galley in 10½ hours. The galley was named Dauphin Royal. It was equipped with 26 banks of oars, each oar 40 feet long and operated by 5 rowers, a total of 130 rowers. In addition, the galley carried 100 marines. At 6:30 a.m. 800 laborers began to built it. At 5 p.m. the same day it was finished and equipped, and the General of Galleys, Duc de Vivonne, the Minister of Marine, Seignelay, and de Noailles, Lieut.-General of Galleys, made a trip in it to the Chateau d'If at the same time.

Waseda Routs Hosei, 19-0 In U.S. Football Opener

By KOSHI MIYAZAKI

Waseda routed Hosei 19 to 0 as the Tokyo Inter-Collegiate American Football League got underway Monday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. with formal ceremonies at the Meiji Shrine Stadium.

Ryozo Asano, President of the league, delivered the opening address and Captain Tama Nakayama of Waseda University returned the championship trophy to the league. The rising sun flag was hoisted by the captains of the five teams. All the players, officials and the 500 spectators paid homage to the Imperial Palace and then observed a minute's silent prayer in the direction of the Yasukuni Shrine where the dead are enshrined.

Meiji Works Out

Prior to the opening kick-off at 3 p.m., the Meiji squad took to the field and gave an exhibition of the various plays with explanations over the loud speaker by Professor Ogawa of Rikkyo. Waseda won the toss-up and chose to kickoff.

From the opening kick-off the ball went deep into Hosei's territory and remained there throughout the game. Although the Hosei aggregation showed marked improvement over last year, the Maroons' gridders outplayed them in every department of the game.

Waseda, using the old St. Marys' shift, utilized its powerful heavy line and ran roughshod over Hosei with their line bucks and end runs. One thing noticeable was they didn't execute a single trick play, apparently saving up for their big game against their traditional rivals Meiji.

The Maroons' ace fullback, Kojack Naito, was injured over his left eye in the first quarter and so was not at his best, but his running mate, Gori Nishioka, played a spectacular game at left half, and went through for big gains around the ends. But the Waseda boys were over zealous and were penalized five times. They crossed the goal line seven times but four times their touchdown was called back for penalties.

Hosei Takes to Air

Hosei, finding the Waseda line impregnable, took to the air and completed many beautiful passes but they never came anywhere near scoring distance. The line played a bang-up game but the back field men showed lack of good coaching. They committed three costly fumbles which accounted for all of Waseda's touchdowns. They were slow in finding their holes and time and again, they were thrown for big losses. The game as a whole was listless and uninteresting.

Waseda Scores

The first touchdown came late in the first quarter when, Hosei deep in their own territory, fumbled on an attempted trick play and the ball was recovered by Waseda on the 11-yard line. Nishioka went around right end for 10 yards; and Naito hit center in the next play for the remaining one yard to cross the goal. Try for extra point by place-kick failed. Score: Waseda 6 Hosei 0.

The second touchdown came early in the second quarter when Hosei again fumbled on their own 10-yard line, ball being recovered by Waseda. Nishioka hit right tackle for eight yards and Fukuda went through center and crossed the goal line. Captain Nakayama place-kicked the ball clear over the bar for the extra point. Score: Waseda 13, Hosei 0.

In the third quarter Hosei held its own against Waseda's second string. Their passes clicked and it seemed they would march down but the Hosei ball toters were too slow in picking their holes, consequently they were thrown for big losses; once for 15 yards and another for 10 yards. But both teams failed to score.

Trick Play Gains

In the fourth quarter the situation again looked bright for Hosei when a trick play around left end was good for 20 yards. A right end run gained another 10 yards. A center tuck added seven more yards. But again the slippery hands of Hosei's backfield fumbled the ball, to be recovered by Waseda. This time it was Waseda's second string that marched down, and from the 20-yard line, Quarterback-Coach Richard Fukuda shot a swift pass to right end Sasai, a freshman, who laterralled it to Cho, left end, another freshman, and he scored standing-up. Try for conversion failed. Final score: Waseda 19 Hosei 0.

Interviewed after the game Player-Coach Fukuda said: "Hosei is a strong team. Considering the fact that most of Hosei's players are Japan-born boys with only one or two year's experience they gave us a good fight and I hope they win the rest of their games. As far as my boys are concerned I'm very proud of them and they well deserve today's victory for, although most of the boys are in the midst of their second semester's examinations, they have been coming out regularly for practice. I have discovered a few promising freshmen too in today's game."

Hosei's Coach Nakajima said: "We are satisfied that we have held Waseda to only three touchdowns, considering last year's 46 to 0 defeat. It is reported that Waseda's team is stronger this year than last, so this goes to show that our boys are picking up this new game of football pretty fast and are improving with each game. Just now we don't have enough players, for instance in today's game we only had three substitutes. Next time we hope to do better."

Outstanding Hosei players on the line were Kawahara, Yatagai and Go. In the back field were Nakagami, Ono and Rokui. Waseda had no outstanding players. The whole team cooperated and there was nice team-work.

The starting line-up:

Waseda		Hosei
R.E.	Fukushima	Kawahara

Kongo Decisions Sakamoto In Bout Over Ten Rounds

Iwao Kongo of the Usuda Boxing Club, one of the best flyweights in the country, outfought Hajime Sakamoto of the Shinko Club in a rip-snorting 10-round bout Monday night at the Hibiya Park amphitheater.

Kongo resorted to his usual rushing tactics, with a windmill one-two attack, and proved too strong for Sakamoto. He scored right in the first round with effective blows to the mid-section.

Sakamoto never backed away and rallied from the fifth round on to give Kongo a keen battle.

It was one of the best fight in weeks.

Kongo weighed in at 108 pounds and Sakamoto at 110 pounds.

East Japan Wins Intersectional Track Tourney

East Japan defeated West Japan by 235 to 185 points in the two-day track and field meet of unprecedented national scale ending Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine grounds. The affair was jointly sponsored by the Japan Track and Field Federation and the Yomiuri Shimbun, supported by the Welfare and Education Ministries.

In the East, Central and West Japan tri-district women's championships, the Central athletes emerged victorious with 76 points, followed by the West and East teams respectively with 54 and 48 points.

Pro Grid Teams Use Air Lanes For 11 Scores

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—The National Professional Football teams weren't fooling when they centered their pre-season demonstrations on aerial maneuvers.

The season proper opened yesterday with eight clubs in action, and of the 22 touchdowns scored passes accounted for 11 and led to two others. A lateral brought another.

At Green Bay, every point scored by the Packers and Cleveland fled through the air—propelled by either an arm or a toe. Green Bay won 26 to 17 with Arnie Herber throwing three touchdown passes to Don Hutson, Hinkle kicking two field goals and Eddie Jankowski adding two points after touchdown via placement. Goddard and Peterson caught passes for Cleveland touchdowns. Peterson also booted a field goal and Snyder and Goddard kicked points after touchdowns.

Washington's defending champions, the New York Giants, and Chicago's Bears also sailed to victories last night to join the Detroit Lions, who opened the campaign Friday by defeating Pittsburgh 16 to 7.

The Redskins, already handicapped by the loss of Riley Smith, will be without the services of Sammy Baugh for three weeks, following their close 26 to 23 win over Philadelphia. After completing eight of nine passes, two of them for scores, Baugh was forced from the game in the second quarter.

Pittsburgh and Whizzer White bumped into their second straight setback when Ed Danowski and Tuffy Leemans unlimbered their arms and, threw enough passes to down the Pirates 27 to 14. White carried the ball 14 times from scrimmage and gained 33 yards, one attempt resulting in four yards, good enough for Pittsburgh's first touchdown.

The burly Bears had to call on Jack Manders' toe to turn back a mighty challenge from Chicago's Cardinals. With four minutes to play and the ball on the Cards' 14-yard line, Manders booted a field goal to break a 13 to 13 tie in night game at Soldier Field.

Max Krause, the veteran acquired by Washington, contributed the longest run of the day, a 71-yard touchdown sprint.

Frankie Frisch May Return To Giant Uniform

By EDWIN RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, Sept. 12—Now that Frankie Frisch has been released, the Cardinals are in the managerial market once again. Mike Gonzales, who is temporarily in charge of the club, is not being considered as permanent skipper.

Several prospects are mentioned in connection with the vacancy, but the most prominent seem to be Jimmy Wilson, present manager of the lowly Phillies, and Burt Shotton, who also ran the Phils at one time and currently pilots the Columbus Red Birds in the American Association. Columbus is a Cardinal farm.

Shotton Prominent

Shotton has done a splendid job in the minors, and will probably get another chance in the majors in 1939—with some other team, if not the Cardinals. Wilson, a former St. Louis catcher under Frisch, is considered one of the smartest field generals in the business. Given air material, he undoubtedly would produce a winner.

Meanwhile, Frisch intends to stay around St. Louis for a few days before going to his home in New York. Rumors of his joining the Giants as a coach under Bill Terry are strong. Frankie spent eight seasons in a Giant uniform before moving over to the Cardinals in 1927, to become manager in the middle of 1933. He would be welcome at the Polo Grounds.

Frisch was a victim of weak pitching and a collapsible infield at St. Louis this year. But despite these handicaps, he pulled the club together and paced the National League rivals through most of August and early September. It was thought that this late rally would save his position in the Cardinal organization.

Great Money Player

The one-time Fordham Flash remained with the Cards longer than a majority of pilots. Only Branch Rickey, now the club's general manager, had a more lengthy stay. During his playing days, Frisch was regarded as one of the game's greatest modern second basemen. He was an outstanding "money" player.

It was strange that Frisch's departure came on the day that Paul Dean made his successful comeback appearance with the Cards. The younger Dean's early failure this year is one of the chief reasons for the arrival of the team in the second division of the National League, and the release of the Fordham Flash.

Reich Lass Breaks Broad Jump Record

Domei Tsushin

NEUBERG, Germany, Oct. 9—Duplicating her performance at Naumberg last Wednesday, Miss Junghanns, sensational German girl athlete, again cleared 6.07 meters to tie her own unofficial world's record for the women's running broad jump at a track and field meet here today.

Miss Junghanns' mark eclipses both the unofficial record of 6.05 meters set earlier this year by Miss Stella Walsh, of Poland, and the recognized world's mark of 5.98 meters established by Miss Kinuye Hitomi, of Japan, in 1928.

Giants Maintain Lead In Japan Pro Ball League

The Tokyo Giants blanked the Nankai nine of Osaka, 2-0, Monday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium to maintain its two-game lead over the Hankyus in the professional baseball league.

Pitcher Stalphin was in fine form and checked the Nankai batsmen to five scattered blows.

The Giants got their first run in the fourth when they filled the bags. Chiba singled to left and Nakajima and Ito walked. Miyaguchi uncorked a wild pitch and Chiba scored. He bored down after that, however, and retired the side.

Hirayama's single brought in the other Giants' run in the sixth after Miyaguchi had walked two.

The Eagles and Nagoya fought to a 2-all tie that was halted at the end of the 11th inning.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

"Let George Do It"

The historical "George" of this phrase, was not a Pullman porter, but Georges d'Amboises, Prime Minister of France (1460-1510) under King Louis XII. The King was wont to rely in everything upon his Prime Minister and "Laissez faire a Georges" became a standing phrase at the French Court. It was brought to England by the British Ambassador, and has been an English phrase ever since. On his tombstone is written: "He was an excellent man, accomplished in sense, experience, loyalty and good life."

Shorts Not Too Short, Say Police

A snapshot as members of the girl softball teams from Los Angeles had their first workout at the Korakuen Stadium Tuesday. A representative from the Metropolitan Police who had voiced disapproval of the shorts as being too short was hot on the scene. After seeing the enthusiasm of the girls in the sport, his decision was an O.K. as concerning the shorts. The girls were to make their debut at 2 p.m. today but rain put it off to Thursday.

4 Home Runs Feature Games Of Pro League

Four home runs featured the doubleheader Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here as the Tokyo Giants bumped off Nagoya, 10-6, to continue their winning streak in the professional League. The Senators blanked Nankai, 9-0, in the other game.

Ito and Nakajima homered for the Giants, the former's coming in the fourth when the Giants clinched the game with a four-run rally.

A round-tripper by Masu contributed to Nagoya's four runs in the third for a 4-3 lead. Nagoya never had a chance after the fourth when Pitcher Stalphin replaced Mayekawa on the mound.

Nakajima's smash into the left field bleachers came in the sixth with a man aboard.

Pitcher Kaneko of the Senators stopped the Nankai team from Osaka with two measely hits, as his teammates blasted the offerings of Miyaguchi and Ri for 11 hits.

First Baseman Endo of the Senators poled one into the left field stands in the fifth after Ri had replaced Miyaguchi.

'Butterfly' Ball Puzzling To Foxx

BOSTON.—Some of the American League's best batters were made to look foolish this season by the "butterfly" ball developed and thrown by Fred Johnson, 41-year-old veteran pitcher for the St. Louis Browns.

Up for his second major league trial in 15 years, Johnson made a favorable impression with his sweeping curve ball and "cream puff" service.

No less formidable a hitter than Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox first baseman, admitted his helplessness before the ancient Texan.

"What's he got?"

"Well," answered Foxx, "he doesn't seem to have a thing. But he's one of the toughest birds to hit I've ever faced. He has a freak delivery the like of which I haven't seen before."

Johnson developed the "butterfly" ball after he realized that a pitcher his age couldn't get by throwing the lively ball past the batters. Despite winning more than 20 games a year for three straight years in the Southern League, major league scouts passed up the veteran because he lacked a fast ball.

Finally, the Browns purchased him from Toledo, and Manager Gabby Street liked his work and fine control. Rarely had Johnson walked himself out of the box because of erratic pitching.

Amano Is Credited With World Record In 1,500-M. Swim

The world's record set by Tomikatsu Amano, 19-year-old swimmer of Nihon University, of 18 minutes 58.8 seconds in the 1,500-meter swim on August 10 this year at the Meiji Shrine pool in the Kanto championships has been officially recognized by the International Swimming Federation, according to word received by the Japan Swimming Federation.

The former record was 19 minutes 7.2 seconds established by Arne Borg in 1927.

Amano's time of 12 minutes 33.8 seconds at the 1,000-meter mark was also sanctioned as a new world record.

Sonny Whitney's Team Annexes U.S. Polo Title

By ROBERT F. KELLEY
N.Y. Times

WESTBURY, L. I., Sept 11—One of the greatest polo teams that has ever galloped over the turf of an American field moved into its second successive national open polo championship today.

Before 36,202 spectators, the biggest crowd that has ever watched an open championship game here, the Old Westbury team of Sonny Whitney blasted its way to a 16-to-7 victory over Jock Whitney's Greentree side on International Field. And few among the thousands in the blue-painted stands believed there was a team anywhere in the world that could beat them.

Old Westbury not only defeated Greentree today; they defeated injuries which would have sent an ordinary team to defeat. Mike Phipps came to the game from the doctor's office, with a loose tendon in his mallet wrist held in place by surgeon's tape. Then, at the start of the second period, Sonny Whitney, charging into a play on the boards, was struck on the forehead by Jock Whitney's mallet and came off his horse with a cut on the forehead that required two stitches to close.

Injured Player Returns

Dr. Robert Mellen attended him and Greentree generously allowed him more than the legal limit of time to return. Old Westbury wanted this, for none believed then that Phipps would be able to play through the game, and they hoped to save Ivor Balding, the substitute, for that. Finally, with a bandage around his head, Whitney jammed his cap back on his head and the game was resumed.

For three periods Greentree stayed with the Old Westbury riders. The teams divided the only goals of a bitterly fought opening period, and it was long after the bell in the second before Stewart Iglehart shot the goal that put the champions in front. They divided two goals again in the third, but in the fourth Old Westbury stormed to three goals, and the issue was settled.

It was pony strength and the superb balance of this team that carried it through today, but there was also one player who turned in one of the best performances that the famous stretch of International Field has ever seen.

There can no longer be any doubt that Iglehart is worth the ten goals at which he is rated. Today he could do nothing wrong. The balls he hit went where he intended they should go, and he was forever turning up at the end of the Greentree attacks to send them back again with heartbreaking, lotted drives or with an offside backhander that traveled with the precision of a rifle bullet.

But it would be unjust to single out Iglehart. For Whitney, despite his injury, was the sound, clean-hitting back that he had been all season. Cecil Smith was a great polo player, one well worth his ten goals, and Phipps, though he was not quite so powerful as usual, held his position well and was a superb No. 1.

This team, mounted as few open championship teams have even been mounted, moved with relentless precision, and from the middle of the game they kept pressure on the Greentree goal as though they were playing a garden hose that used polo balls instead of water.

Phipps Gets First Goal

The victory was accomplished without bad polo on the part of the losers, Tommy Hitchcock, whenever he was able, and sometimes when it appeared he couldn't possibly do it, came through with thrilling runs and hits. Little Pete Post Bostwick got loose at times when it seemed he was bottled up, and Jock Whitney, in the face of the terrific barrage he was subjected to, turned in a fine game at back. Roberto Cavanagh brought cheers from the crowd with some of his shots, but the entire team was pursuing toward the end of the game, and never was able to settle down to the smooth teamwork which wins polo games.

Old Westbury scored first, when Phipps got through a scrimmage, but Bostwick finished off a nice play by Jock Whitney to tie it. Phipps got away to a good run to start the second, and shortly after that came the accident to Whitney. Just before this Bostwick had dug the ball from between two Old Westbury players and hit through Whitney to tally.

There was no further scoring after Whitney came back until the bell sounded. Finally Iglehart tipped the ball from under Hitchcock and galloped on the score with it. Greentree came back to tie it again in the third, when the only marker of the period belonged to Cavanagh, who galloped up to finish off a drive which Hitchcock had started and Sonny Whitney had partially saved.

The game really ended in the next period so far as the result was concerned. Old Westbury began going very fast. Smith galloped from the sideboards to score. Then Phipps took a pass from Iglehart, and the latter came through from his position to accept a pass from Smith and win a race to the goal with Jock Whitney. That left the score 7 to 3 at half-time, and Greeentree never could quite get back in the picture through the closing periods, though the action was spirited until the end.

The line-up:

O. Westbury (16)	Greentree (7)
1—M. G. Phipps	1—G. H. Bostwick
2—Cecil Smith	2—Roberto Cavanagh
3—Stewart Iglehart	3—T. Hitchcock Jr.

Yokosen Downs All-Blacks At Soccer, 3-1

The Yokosen secured a well-earned 3-1 victory over the All Blacks soccer team Sunday afternoon at the St. Joseph's College Grounds at Yokohama.

The Yokosen boys were in tiptop condition, displaying fine leadership and teamwork. The All Blacks put up a tenacious fight, breaking up the opposing combinations time after time, but inferior teamwork and lack of scoring punch gave the edge to their opponents.

Seven minutes after the whistle Yokosen's center Okamoto pushed in two feet from the goalposts the first and only goal of the first half. Nine minutes after entering the second stage, Kawate kicked in the pigskin for the second tally, Okamoto soon following up for the third count for his side.

Some minutes later the All Blacks scored their only goal, Planas booting it in following a hard tussle with the opposing fullbacks.

All Blacks Line-up:—Forwards: H. Frank, F. Kondo, J. Planas, B. Thorpe, W. Blamey. Halfbacks: M. Zapasnick, F. Ishikawa, M. Kikuchi. Fullbacks: G. Nishigori, T. Mourier. Goalee: P. Blamey.

Yokosen Line-up: Forwards: Shimizu, Ezawa, Okamoto, Kawate, Takeshita. Halfbacks: Miyake, Kato, Oyama. Fullbacks: Matsumoto, Kawano. Goalee: Kimura.

U.S. Women Golfers Win 5 Of 6 Singles To Retain Curtis Cup

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON
N.Y. Times

MANCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 8.—Miracles do happen, even in golf, as was proved today when the Americans won five of six singles matches against the British to retain possession of the Curtis Cup, which has never been won by Britain.

After being almost hopelessly out of the running when they dropped two and halved one of the three foursome matches at the Essex Country Club yesterday, the United States women's team rallied in brilliant fashion today to put the British golfers to rout and win the cup for the fourth time. The score was 5½ to 3½.

The only member of the British side to come through for the glory of John Bull was Miss Clarrie Tiernan, vivacious Irish girl who made her name known to Americans a year ago by winning the New Jersey women's championship.

Score Is 2 and 1

Miss Tiernan, a freshman on the British team, saved the British side from a shutout in today's singles when she defeated Miss Maureen Orcutt of New Jersey, metropolitan district star, by 2 and 1.

But that sole defeat made no essential difference in the outcome, for even had Miss Charlotte Glutting, the other New Jersey player on the team, lost her match to Miss Nan Baird, the result would have been the same even though the score would have been changed.

A triumph for Miss Baird would have meant a team tie, and under the terms of the competition, the Americans would have retained the trophy because they were the defenders.

Despite the fact that she was 2 up on Miss Glutting in playing the sixteenth hole, Miss Baird lost the match, 1 down, when she dropped the last three holes.

Playing No. 1 on the American side, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, the national champion, put the Americans on the right road when she beat Mrs. Andrew Holm of Scotland by the most decisive margin of the day. The match ended on the thirteenth green with the North Carolina matron the winner over the British champion, 6 and 5.

Little Miss Patty Berg of Minneapolis, who played the No. 2 match against Miss Jessie Anderson, kept the record straight when she gained the first Curtis Cup triumph of her career by the slender but sufficient margin of 1 up.

Then Miss Marion Miley, raven-haired ace from the bluegrass region of Kentucky, defeated Miss Elsie Corlett, 2 and 1, of after trailing during most of the first nine holes. And Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, who is still close to being America's No. 1 golfer despite long years of service, put the last spike in the British guns when she beat Mrs. J. B. Walker, 2 and 1.

Fine Opportunity Wasted

It probably will be a long time before the British women have as good a chance to win the cup as they had when they started today with a lead of 2 points, gained in yesterday's foursomes. All they had to do after that surprising upset was to win two and halve one of the singles to take the trophy back to England.

By the time all the matches passed by the ninth hole it seemed reasonable that they would accomplish the task they began so splendidly the day before. Although by then Mrs. Page had her match well in hand, the rest of the contests were at a point where anything might happen.

Little Patty, battling grimly for her first Curtis Cup victory, was 2 up on Miss Anderson, who is about her size and just as tenacious an opponent, but there was no assurance at that point she would win, and Mrs. Vare was only 2 up on Mrs. Walker, despite her 39 on the first nine, the best scoring done by any one in today's field.

Miss Corlett was 1 up on Miss Miley, Miss Tiernan held the same advantage over Miss Orcutt, and the sixth match, between Miss Baird and Miss Glutting, was all square.

Birdie Saves Victory

Things turned against the British soon after that, the final stroke being delivered by Miss Berg, who, 4 up on Miss Anderson at the eleventh, slipped back to a point where she was only 1 up in playing the sixteenth, saved a half there by holing a fifteen-foot putt, then hung on by holing a six-foot putt for a birdie 4 on the last green after Miss Anderson had run one down three times that length for what appeared to be a halved contest.

Theirs was about the best-played match of the day, Miss Anderson coming home in 36, one under women's par, and Miss Berg being only one higher. In the final analysis it was Patty's putter that sank the British girl and, with her, the rest of the team.

Mrs. Vare, driving and chipping faultlessly, was never behind in her match with Mrs. Walker, save for the first hole. She squared matters at the second.

The cards:

Mrs. Page vs. Mrs. Holm

Out—
Mrs. Page	5	4	5	3	5	4	4	6	5—41
Mrs. Holm	5	5	8	4	5	5	4	5	6—47

Mrs. Page 4 up.

In—
Mrs. Page	5	4	3	5
Mrs. Holm	5	4	.	6

Mrs. Page wins, 6 and 5.

Rin Leads With 69 In Open Golf Play

Manfuku Rin, professional at the Tokyo Golf Club, shot a 69, four under par, to lead in the qualifying round over 18 holes Tuesday at the Fujisawa course in the national open golf championship.

A total of 46 players, registering 80 and under, qualified.

Forty-eight professionals and 20 amateurs teed off.

Larry Montes, leading pro in the Philippines, was unable to compete because of illness he incurred while on his trip from Manila.

The best score turned in by an amateur was a 75 by Kihei Narimiya of the Ibaragi Club.

The Cross Of Blood

When Francisco Pizarro (1475-1541) was struck down by the sword of an assassin, Juan de Rada, he wet his finger in his own blood which was copiously flowing from a wound in his neck. With this finger he traced a cross on the floor and bent down to kiss it, when a conspirator smashed a heavy vase on his head and finished him, before he could touch his lips to the bloody cross. Thus was fulfilled the curse wished upon him for his betrayal of the Inca Atahualpa, that he may die without the consolation of his faith, June 26, 1541.

The Greatest Service In Present Day Amateur Tennis

Crowd Shouted Protest Of Foot Faults Called On Quist In Cup Play

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5—America's defense of the Davis Cup was brought to a successful conclusion against Australa today by the player whose omnipotent racquet reclaimed it abroad last year after an absence of a decade.

With the United States leading by two matches to one, J. Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., holder of all four of the world's major tennis crowns, defeated Adrian K. Quist, 8—6, 6—1, 6—2, in the first of the final two singles matches to seal the verdict, as 10,000 spectators looked on from the stands of the Germantown Cricket Club on this day of perfect weather.

In the concludin gengagement 19-year-old John Bromwich, in whose ripening, ambidextrous talent lies Australia's hope for the consummation of its nineteen-year quest of the cup in 1939, overcame the lusterless opposition of Robert L. Riggs Jr., 6—4, 4—6, 6—0, 6—2. So the international series for the world's team championship ended in the score of 3 to 2, and the cup remains in this country for at least another year.

Victory to Stronger Team

There can be no question that the stronger team won at Germantown, on whose turf the trophy was lost to France in 1927 in the last previous challenge round held in this country. But while all conceded the superior valor of the defense, including those splendid sportsmen from Down Under who won so many new friends for Australian tennis, at the same time the climactic victory was attended by circumstances that were keenly regretted by all jealous of any suspicion of impeachment of the American spirit of fair play.

They included, apparently, every one of the 10,000 spectators who packed the Germantown stands, as well as the players, officials and the press.

In the tenth game of the opening set between Budge and Quist, with the former fighting desperately to turn back the dangerous challenge of his opponent, the gallery was provoked to a stormy outburst of disapproval by the calling of a foot fault on Quist on his second service.

Makes the Score Deuce

The score at the time stood at 5—4 for Budge and 40—15 for the Australian in the tenth game. With the count at 40—30, Quist served and again, in rapid succession, Harold Lebair of New York, who was serving as judge at the south end of the court, called foot faults on both the first and second balls for another double fault, making the score deuce.

As one man, the great throng roared out angrily in bitter protest. If the penalties had been inflicted upon Budge the gallery could hardly have been more indignant.

There was no ignoring the situation. Paul W. Gibbons, who was in the umpire's chair, turned to the stands and expostulated with the incensed spectators, reminding them that there was a foot fault rule in the code and that the official was only carrying out his duty.

Budge, obviously distressed by the advantage he had gained from the penalties, lost the next two points quickly and the general impression was that the big Californian, one of the most genuine sportsmen ever to grace a tennis court, intended that they should be lost. On top of that, he faltered badly to drop his service in the eleventh game, in which he double faulted and found himself in a particularly dangerous position.

Quist's Backhand Weakens

Budge extricated himself from the hole with a slash and a volley, following a double fault by Quist, to make the score 6—all, and then went on to pull out the thirteenth game from 0—40, mainly through the instrument of his service and the weakening of Quist's backhand.

Then came the real storm. Quist served and on his second ball, Mr. Lebair called another foot fault, the fourth of the match. The uproar over that decision had hardly died down when a fifth one was called, again on the second serve. The infuriated crowd let out such a bellow of rage that the unhappy official jumped up from his chair with a gesture of mingled resentment and despair.

Captains Walter L. Pate of the American team and Harry Hopman of Australia, seated near the net, got up hastily from their chairs and conferred. Then Hopman went over and spoke to Quist and Umpire Gibbons announced to the crowd that the Australian captain was satisfied that Quist was foot fauting and again implored the stands to realize that the rule was the rule and had to be enforced.

Afterward it was learned that Hopman had said to Quist: "Adrian the call was right and you must not hop in serving." Quist was reported to have answered: "But that is the only way in which I can serve."

It was generally agreed by all qualified to judge that Quist was foot faulting in fact, with his left foot hopping off the ground, and Captain Hopman concurred verbally after the match when asked for his opinion. It was regarded, however, as unfortunate that no foot fault was called until the play had reached a crucial stage, and some asked why the foot-fault judge at the north end of the court, Louis W. Shaw of Hackensack, N. J., had failed to call a single one during the match.

Mr. Lebair, when asked why he had not penalized Quist earlier, when the decision might have been passed over lightly, said:

"In my honest opinion, Quist had a jumping motion right along, but had maintained contact with the ground until the tenth game. I watched him very carefully and the first time I was positive that he was violating the rule I called the foot fault."

It was said by another official that the reason that his foot fault had not been called at the other end of the court was that Mr. Shaw had been unable to see clearly because of the sun in his eyes.

Captain Hopman and all of the other members of the Australian party, including Leonard Schwartz, Bromwich and Mervyn Weston, correspondent and player, took the costly decision smilingly and without a word of protest. Their graciousness made the unfortunate incident all the more deplorable in the eyes of Americans, though no question was raised of the integrity of Mr. Lebair's decisions.

Sympathy From Gallery

Unhappily for Quist, he could not take the penalties in stride, even through he offered no protest other than by the anguish and vexation written upon his face. He eventually lost the fourteenth game, after he had gone ahead amid the frenzied cheers of the sympathizing gallery, and when Budge broke through with two winning strokes to take the set the disconsolate Australian youth was through.

Quist had made a dangerously strong bid for that set against a Budge who was constantly in trouble as he labored in vain to find his true form, and the knowledge that he might have won it had it not been for the foot faults took the heart out of him.

Budge, afflicted last night with a renewal of the throat ailment that gripped him at Newport and Boston, was not the invincible monarch who has swept the world's championship and Davis Cup courts for two years. His control was ragged all through the opening set, with his forehand failing him deplorably.

Quist, sensing his opportunity in the faltering play of his opponent, kept quietly and steadfastly to his guns and got the jump from the start. He was returning service regularly with deep forcing shots. His backhand straight down the line was functioning beautifully as time and again he blocked the ball at the baseline and steered it down the sideline to pass Budge coming up to volley.

The stroke analysis shows how close was the set. Except for the double faults, they were even in points.

With the end of the set, the match was over too, to all purposes. Budge took the first four games of the second chapter before Quist got his heart into the fight again. The Australian youth broke through in the fifth, lost his own service again in the sixth, and put up a stirring fight for the seventh, which found Budge playing like a whirlwind for the first time and ended finally after sixteen points had been contested.

Budge played more like himself in the third set than at any other time. From both his marvelous backhand and his forehand he was nailing the ball like rifle fire. His service was like a whiplash and he kept on the pressure relentlessly to hammer down the opposition.

With the score at 5—2, Budge served and went to the net for a winning volley, served an ace, scored with a killing forehand and the match came to an end as Quist's return service went out of court. The Davis Cup was won for the United States and Captains Pate and Hopman rushed to shake hands with each other and with the players. When it was all over none could truly doubt that Budge would have won regardless of the foot faults.

Two Field Goals Aid N.Y. Giants To Top All-Stars

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—Two almost incredible field goals by Ward Cuff, the first of 43 yards and the second of 42, gave the New York Football Giants a 6-0 victory over the Eastern College All-Stars at the Polo grounds before a gathering of 40,382 last night and thus stretched their winning streak over the collegians to three games.

This third annual contest was a bitter, grinding game that saw the offense completely overshadowed by the defense, a knock-'em-down-and-drag-'em-out affair in which the total yardage gained by both teams on running plays did not even amount to the length of the gridiron.

But in the fierceness of the play this was a stirring enough pre-season treat for a crowd that contributed considerably to the Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund, sponsor of the game. The lino play was bone-rattling. The All-Stars could pick up only ten yards net during the long evening.

Still a Great Passer

For that matter, the Giants were not quite balls of fire along the ground themselves. There was no continuity to the New York attack and it was only as the result of the still marvelous passing ability of that ancient mariner of the professional seas, Ed Danowski, that the Maramen were able to keep the pressure on the collegians at all.

And the pressure was on them. Make no mistake about that. A recovered fumble by the All-Stars in the opening quarter backed the pupils of stout Steve Owen right against the wall, but when the Giants finally wriggled out of that predicament the collegians never got past midfield for the rest of the way.

Three golden opportunities faced the New Yorkers and they frittered them all away. They went up to the 3 and the 6 yard lines in the second session and to the 6 once more at the start of the fourth. The total proceeds amounted to a large zero.

Kicking Provides Answer

Had it not been for the educated kicking toe of Cuff this would have resolved itself into a scoreless tie. But the man from Marquette was Johnny-on-the-Spot and that was the answer to it all.

The collegians had two field-goal chances in that opening quarter at much closer range. Frank Souchak of Pitt tried one placement from the 31 and another from the 25, but neither one was even close. One wobbled off to the right at a sharp tangent while the other floated off to the left.

Cuff, however, split the posts on his two attempts. The first one came in the second period after the Giants had failed to get a first down at the Collegian's 35. Danowski dropped back and knelt on the soggy turf as the crowd gasped in amazement at the sheer daring of the play. No one dreamed that it ever would succeed.

But Cuff measured the distance carefully, stepped in briskly and his right toe described an arc along the ground and the ball an arc through the flood-lighted air. It barely cleared the cross-bar, but it did clear it any the Giants were three points to the good.

Dangerous Man on Field

There they stayed until their attack stalled once again after an end zone pass was intercepted and the All-Stars had kicked out of danger. But it always is dangerous when Cuff is on the field. He proved that once again as he kicked his 42-yarder, for three more points in the fourth period.

It was clear in the closing stages of the fray that the Giant two-team system was wearing down the All-Stars. What life they had had in the beginning disappeared toward the end as the Owen system began to pay dividends.

The weather itself did not help the collegians either. Rain before the game began cut down the crowd from what had been expected and then the evening was heavy and humid with an occasional shower relieving affairs not one whit.

The first-string All-Star line was the better one, which was proven when the Giants began to threaten toward the close of the second quarter. The four brilliant graduates of the Fordham-Pitt series—Alex Wojciechowicz and Ed Franco of Fordham and Tony Matisi and Frank Souchak of Pitt—were rushed back into the battle and wrested away the ball on downs on the 3-yard line.

It was not so long after this that Danowski began to hit the bullseye with his passes—he completed ten of twenty—as the Giants worked the ball up to the 6-yard line, only to have the whistle halt play for the period.

In the third quarter Danowski's passing and the running of Hank Soar moved the ball 40 yards to the 8-yard mark as the period ended. The Giants went to the 6 at the start of the fourth, and then a Tuffy Leemans-Will Walls pass slipped through the end's arms right on the goal line. Finally, a fourth-down aerial was intercepted to end the threat.

Handy Andy Stopper of Villanova and the aforementioned quartet from Fordham and Pitt were outstanding for the All-Stars. For the Giants heroes were harder to find, so well did they all play, but Danowski, Soar, Ed Widseth, Leemans, Jim Poole and, oh yes, Cuff caught the eye.

Von Cramm Expected To Be Released From Prison Soon

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, Oct. 12—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, famous German tennis player, who has been in prison here since his arrest last April on a moral charge, is likely to be released this Sunday, it was revealed today.

Von Cramm appeared in an exhibition here in Tokyo last November with his then Davis Cup team-mate, Henner Henkel. The two also competed in the national tennis championships at the Koshien courts where von Cramm won the singles title.

Rin Keeps Lead In Open Golf Championship

Shooting a 73 despite the rain and chilly wind that swept across the course, Rin Man-fuku, professional of the Tokyo Golf Club, maintained his lead in the second day's play of the national open golf championship at the Fujisawa links on Wednesday. He had a 37 going out and a 36 coming in. His score for the two days is 142, better by six over Tomekichi Miyamoto of the Ibaragi club, former champion, who registered a 74 for the 18 holes.

Chin Sei-sui of the Musashino club had a bad day, shooting a 77, to drop into a tie with Torakichi Nakamura of the Hodogaya club with a 149.

Sutekichi Murayama of the Fujisawa course and Giichi Sato, the amateur champion, were highest among the amateurs with a 153.

The final 36 holes were to be played today.

Eagles Turn Back The Pirates, 27-7

BUFFALO, Sept. 16—A tight defense proved the best offense tonight as Philadelphia kept famed Byron (Whizzer) White bottled up and defeated Pittsburgh, 27 to 7, in a National League football game.

Two comparative unknowns, Jay Arnold, a 200-pound back from Texas University, and Dick Riffle, a slender speedster from Albright, both playing with the Eagles, stole the famed Coloradan's thunder.

Arnold scored three touchdowns in the first half to settle the game. White contributed to the Pirates' downfall when he fumbled a punt on his own 20 which Arnold scooped up and converted into a touchdown.

Riffle Tosses Long Pass

In the second quarter Riffle heaved a 34-yard pass to Arnold over the goal line for the second tally and a few minutes later the husky Texas back picked a Pirate pass out of the air and dashed 20 yards to his third touchdown.

A fast-charging Eagle line kept the Pittsburgh offense in its own territory throughout the first two quarters.

The Eagles picked right up where they left off as the second half opened. Dave Smukler intercepted a Pirate pass on the Pittsburgh 44. On the next play Riffle cut through center, reversed his field and galloped the forty-four necessary yards to a score.

White on Long Gallop

White swung into action as the last quarter opened. Faking a pass on his own 10 he twisted his way twenty-eight yards down field. A sensational catch of Filchok's pass by Davidson placed the Pirates on the Eagles' 13 and White finally dived over from the 1 for the Pittsburgh touchdown.

The attendance was officially announced at 19,749.

Softballers Rarin' To Go

Three pictures taken of the visiting American girls' softball team when they had their first workout at the Korakuen Stadium on Tuesday which will give an idea of the game to those who don't know it. Left, a batter ready to take a healthy swing, the same as in regular baseball; center, a pitcher just after she has completed her underhand delivery, the only style allowed (three balls by the way and not four allowing a free pass to first); and right, an infielder in the act of throwing, overhand and sidearm and any style allowed for players other than the pitcher in her pitch to the batter. The girls, divided into two teams, were to make their debut at 2 p.m. today at the same stadium. Rain kept them from playing on Wednesday and Thursday.

Wooderson Best Performer In Britain's Track Season

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON.—The British track and field athletics season has ended with a smashing finale. And for once that is not just the good old cliche, a figure of speech. On the contrary, it is a plain and literal statement of fact, relating to a figure of action. The fastest figure of action in the world today when it comes to running miles, half-miles and 800 meters—Sydney Wooderson.

Wooderson supplied the said smashing finale by breaking the world's record for 880 yards and 800 meters set up on July 11 last year by the American ace, Elroy Robinson—1m. 49.6s. That time stood as the best mark for both distances, but Wooderson has furnished two separate new ones to take its place. Namely 1m. 48.4s. for 800 meters (which is 874yds. 2ft. 8¾in.) and 1m. 49.2s. for the half-mile. Both being produced in the course of a single run, a special attack on records at Motspur Park, where Wooderson established his world's record for the mile (4m. 6.4s.) almost exactly a year previously.

As on that occasion, he was running in a carefully arranged handicap, the star attraction at a meet promoted on the University of London's ground by Wooderson's club, Blackheath Harriers. Wooderson's only opponent was the clock. And he had six fine runners aiding him to beat it. So his achievement is really rather a different proposition from a record made incidentally by a man engaged in winning a race.

Anyway, it was a grand piece of running on a fast track in fair weather conditions and it causes one to marvel again at the extraordinary reserves of power possessed by this modest little 126-pound solicitor. If ever appearances were deceptive, it was certainly in the case of Sydney Wooderson, who has nothing about his slight physique to suggest that he is one of the fastest humans the world has ever seen.

Consistent Speed

In his record half-mile run, Wooderson started too fast, covering the first 110 yards in 13.8s., and the second in 12.9s. The third occupied 13.1s., the 13.7s., and that took him to the half-way mark in 52.6s. Which was rather staggering.

Then came the inevitable penalty. This fifth 110 yards was a matter of 13.9s., his sixth 13.8s., his seventh 14.1s., and his last 14.8s.—statistics which tell eloquently of the courageous manner in which he stuck it out after his prodigal burst of speed in the first lap. Wooderson started a foot and a half behind the scratch line because the track is 9 inches short of 440 yards to the lap, and the only pacemaker he failed to catch was his younger brother, Stanley, running off the limit mark, 85 yards away.

American Achievements

American athletes have figured conspicuously in Britain during the past Summer. And if you were to compile a list of their most notable performances here it would read something like this:

Cornelius Warmerdam's 14ft. 3in., British record for the pole vault.

J. Patterson's 53s., new British record for the 440-yard hurdles.

Perin Walker's "double" at the White City (100 yards in 9.9s., and 220 yards n 21.7s.)

A. Tolmich's victory over Donald Finlay, British champion, in the 120-yard hurdles (14.6s.)

Charles Fenske's facile victory in a slow mile (4m. 19.4s.) at the White City.

Victory of J. N. Irwin, former Princeton captain, for Oxford against Cambridge in the inter-varsity sports—he took the 220-yard low hurdles in 24.9s. (1s. outside the inter-varsity record).

Victory of H. W. Welch, Cornell, for Princeton-Cornell against Oxford-Cambridge in the 3 miles, 14m. 44.8s., record for the meet.

Victory of Princeton-Cornell over Oxford-Cambridge by the overwhelming score of 9 events to 3—a success which brought the rivals level at four victories apiece with one tie.

The only events that the Americans failed to win in the international inter-varsity meets were those in which the great Cambridge crack, A. G. K. Brown, was competing (the quarter and half-mile), and the mile won unexpectedly with a lion-hearted finish by R. A. Crossley-Holland, Cambridge, in 4m. 23.4s. Brown's time were 48.9s. and 1m. 56.6s., a great double that marked this brilliant runner's exit from university athletics.

British Victories

Apart from the European championships at Paris, Sept. 3, 4 and 5, the British Amateur Athletic Board has had no international engagements abroad this year. Two international team contests took place in Britain, and the home athletes won both of them, defeating Norway with difficulty (72 points to 67) and France with ease (70-50).

Against the Frenchmen, Britain supplied the first two men home in seven out of nine races, but lost all the five field events. Which serves as a reminder that, although the general British standard of field-event performances is rising all the time, it is still well below Continental and American levels. The match with Norway was an exceedingly tight affair, the result depending upon the very last event. And, for once in a way, the British field event men managed to obtain a few points.

A pleasing feature of international competition this year was the reappearance of a composite Northern Ireland and Eire team to represent the Emerald Isle against Scotland and England at Dublin in a triangular match revived after a lapse of seven years. England was victorious by 84½ points to the Irishmen's 44½ and Scotland's 23. But much more important than the result was the evidence of the restored harmony among Irish athletes of the North and South and the restoration of Eire's international contacts for track and field.

Top of the List

For "the" individual performer of the British season there is no doubt we must come back to Sydney Wooderson. Having last year put the world's mile record more or less where he wants it, he turned his attention in 1938 to halves. And ran them superbly. Though the merit of his new world's record is rather diminished in some people's eyes by the fact that he was taken along by special pace-makers who conceded him the inside of the track all the way. Detractors of the "special handicap" system of taking time off records maintain that it is an "artificial" method and is therefore unfair to people who set up marks under genuine racing conditions. They may be right or they may be wrong.

Grid Razz Futile As Officials Are Immune To Sound

LOS ANGELES.—The striped-clad official paces off five steps. Immediately the stadium is rocked by a thundering angry roar. "Why don't you wear a uniform?" someone shouts in a voice that manages to penetrate the bedlam.

The official cooly blows his whistle and orders play to resume. "Were his ears burning? Was he white with anger and resentment?"

"I'm afraid it is a waste of crowd energy," he said. "We officials are immune to sound. It has no bearing on our conduct. We realize that the football fan is by nature partisan so we don't mind his display of temperament."

Football officials are walking rule books. They must carry all their knowledge in their head. In the Pacific Coast Conference, officials are urged not to have a book on their persons when engaged in officiating. They are expected to know the rules.

In order that they do, the official, Blewett said, commits the book to memory by constantly reviewing it time and again before and during the season.

It is not considered ethical for a referee to overrule another official. However, it is not often any official steps into a complex situation without first consulting his colleagues.

On those certain occasions when tough problems come up, the referee calls for a conference of officials to review the play before reaching a final decision.

"Such a case came up last year in the Washington State-U.C.L.A. game," Blewett explained. "A U.C.L.A. back fumbled the ball, Callow of Washington State, batted the ball free of the pack before recovering it.

"Now, simmple as this appears to be on the face of it, there were several complications that entered into the incident. In the first place, U.C.L.A. had been guilty of illegal motion putting the ball into play. I had checked that in my mind, for a penalty, from the beginning. However, when Callow batted the fumble he was committing a violation of the rules which make it illegal to bat or kick a free ball. There were two infractions on the same play.

"I called for a consultation to check opinions of the other officials as to whether Callow had actually batted the ball. They agreed that he had. That made the decision simple. One infraction nullified the other. It was no play and we ruled accordingly."

Waseda, Keio Nines Favored To Tumble Hosei And Teidai

Waeda, now with a possible chance of deadlocking Meiji for the lead in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league by virtue of Keio's victory over the latter last Saturday, is a heavy favorite to down Hosei two straight Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

With Akaneya, big southpaw, unable to get into form, Hoesi has been suffering with a poor pitching staff.

Keio is a hot favorite over Tokyo Imperial in the half of the double-headers. But if Pitcher Yutani is in good form, he is likely to turn the tables over Keio.

Montanez Beats Garrison To Add Another To List

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Pedro Montanez, fast-punching Puerto Rican, added another triumph to his long list last night when he outpointed Jimmy Garrison of Kansas City in the feature bout of ten rounds at Madison Square Garden. While a crowd of 6,000 fans looked on, the battle from the West Indies had little trouble proving his mastery over the youthful mid-Westerner.

With his characteristic aggressiveness, Montanez forced the action at every turn and subjected his rival to a terrific body attack. He landed a number of lefts and rights to the head as well, but these blows, effective as they may have been, were as naught compared to the punishing wallops to the body.

Garrison got off to a good start, and rather puzzled the Puerto Rican in the first two rounds with his sparkling defensive work. Montanez threw punches from every angle, but so deft was Garrison in blocking that few of these swings did any damage.

Moves to Close Quarters

In the third, however, Garrison made the mistake of engaging in close-quarter battle. Montanez is a master at this phase of the game, and he made the most of this chance.

Montanez proceeded to rip both hands to the midsection in this and the succeeding session. Garrison fought back with short right uppercuts to the head, but the blows carried little power.

Then Garrison tried fencing at long range again, but the body attack had taken its toll and he did not have the speed to get away from Montanez's powerful swings.

The Puerto Rican took the sixth frame easily, but was outboxed in the seventh when Garrison repeatedly beat him to the punch. Through the succeeding sessions Garrison made an effort to match punch for punch, but he was not up to it.

Staggers Rival in Tenth

There were no knockdowns, although Montanez came close to registering one in the tenth when he staggered Garrison with a sharp right to the jaw. Montanez weighed 139¼ pounds and Garrison 139.

In the six-round semi-final Jack Sharkey Jr. of Union City, N. J., survived a first-round knockdown to fight his way to a draw with Al Davis of Brownsville.

Davis, who has yet to meet defeat as a professional, spilled Sharkey for a count of nine with a left hook to the jaw, but the latter recovered quickly. He soon drew even on points and held his own with the hard-hitting Davis the rest of the way. Davis weighed 135½ pounds and Sharkey 134¼.

Walter Franklyn, East Side middleweight, defeated Johnny Sharkey of the Bronx in six sessions. Franklyn weighed 157 and Sharkey 153¾. Johnny Compo, 126, New Haven, battled to a draw with Baby Louis, 122½, Havana, in another six. Ernie Vigh, 156¼, Newburgh, outpointed Larry Kellum, 157, Coney Island, in four rounds. Joe de Jesus, 135, Puerto Rico, won from Dave Pastor, 134, Washington Heights, in the opening four.

Soft Touches Are Thing Of Past In Grid Schedules

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK.—Soft touches have almost disappeared from the football scene.

A few years ago the bigger schools used to start their campaigns with two or three games with little fellows they were sure to slaughter. No almost all of them pick on rivals in their own class.

The result has been fewer injuries, bigger crowds, better games and increased gate receipts. The last point was the main factor in bringing about the happy change from carnage to competition.

A glance at the schedule of some of the leading colleges will show what a change has been made in lining up games. For instance, you will find no Amherst or Williams or Trinity on the Yale schedule this Fall.

The Eli gamely start off against Columbia and then in order take on Penn, Navy, Michigan, Dartmouth, Brown, Princeton and Harvard. Right now every one of these opponents, except Brown, must be given at least an even chance to beat Yale and even Brown will be far from a pushover.

Fordham is one of the few big schools that still books two easy starters—Upsala and Waynesburg—but from then on takes on real tough ones—Purdue, Oregon, Pitt, St. Mary's, North Carolina, South Carolina and N. Y. U. It may be that Fordham has long standing agreements about their opening games and is not yet in position to switch to harder competition at the bell.

A few of the larger institutions start off against strong foes but take a breather or two along the road. But most of them start swinging with the opening gun and never quit firing until the end.

Take a look at what Minnesota faces. The Gophers going against Washington, one of the best teams in the land, and then takes a shot at the always powerful Cornhuskers from Nebraska, and follow that up with Purdue, Michigan, Northwestern, Iowa, Notre Dame and Wisconsin. If the Gophers can wade through that schedule unbeaten and untied they will have as good a claim as anybody to the mythical national title.

Notre Dame, which has been facing the best for years and years, opens with Kansas, and then tackles Georgia Tech, Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army Navy, Minnesota and Northwestern.

Some of the others who face killing schedules without a breather are Washington, California, Rice, Texas, Purdue, Pitt, Nebraska, Michigan, Indiana, Louisiana State, Harvard, Columbia and Cornell.

Offhand, one would say that not one of these will have an unbeaten and untied season. Any one who should prove good enough and sufficiently lucky may enter a just claim for national honors.

Rin Captures Open Golf Title With 294 Score

Rin Manfuku, Taiwanese, professional at the Tokyo Golf Club, was off form and shot a 152 in the final 36 holes but his lead of six strokes at the end of the second day's play carried him to victory with a 294 for the 72 holes in the 11th annual national open golf championship at the Fujisawa links Thursday afternoon.

The rain and cold from early morning handicapped the play of the contestants considerably.

Rin, who was hot on the first two days of the competition, got off to a bad start Thursday morning. He was one over par for the first four holes for an unimpressive 40 going out. Coming in, he was little better with a 39, or a 79 for the first 18 holes. Whether he'd pull through a winner seemed a big question mark with the other contestants pressing him closely.

Miyamoto Rallies

Especially hot on his heels was Tomekichi Miyamoto of the Ibaragi links, the former champion, who started with six strokes behind Rin but carded a 37 going out and a 38 coming in to be only two strokes short of Rin's tally at the end of the first 18 holes for Thursday.

Chin Seisui, who was in third place on Wednesday with a 149 tied with Torakichi Nakamura, registered a 74 in the morning round to be within two strokes of Rin's score. Nakamura shot a 75 to be three strokes behind the leader.

Rin, however, retrieved his usual form after lunch, regaining his confidence right at the second hole when he scored a birdie. He kept hammering par after that and emerged the champion with a three-stroke lead over the second man, Toichiro Toda, of the Hirono course. He shot a 36 going out and a 37 coming in, both for par.

It was a battle royal for second place. And to make things more interesting Toda and Miyamoto, who were giving Rin the closest chase, were in the same twosome. They came all even on the 13th hole in the afternoon round. Miyamoto was up a stroke on the 14th but Toda tied it on the 16th. Toda shot a birdie on the 17th and he pulled through ahead by 297 to 298 by halving the 18th.

Nakamura shot consistent golf to register a 298 to be tied with Miyamoto for third place.

Gichi Sato, the national amateur champion, was highest among the amateurs, 17th on the list tied with seven others with a 312.

The scores follow:

U.S. Girl Softballers Make Great Hit With Japanese; 'Internationals' Lose, 9-8

A three-game series that had been tentatively arranged between a picked team from the visiting American girls' softball squad and a combined team from the Waseda-American Society and the American School to be played sometime between October 22 and 28 has been cancelled because of objection on the part of certain government officials, opposed to the idea of women playing against men, it was reported this morning.

The visiting American girl softball players made a great hit in their debut Friday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium. Despite threatening skies, ten thousand inquisitive individuals jammed the main stand, and though a drizzle started from the fifth inning and continued throughout the rest of the afternoon, they kept their seats until the final putout was made by Third Baseman Miss Norma Stonebraker to give the "United States" team a 9-8 victory over the "Internationals."

The slippery infield, from the rain that kept the teams from playing according to schedule on Wednesday and Thursday, handicapped the players considerably but they played rattling good ball nevertheless. But four errors were charged against the "Internationals" and two against the winners.

Snappy Fielding

Their snappy fielding and hitting, from the time they took the field for the infield practise and to the end of the ninth inning (nine innings were played instead of the ordinary seven-inning regulation for girls) were applauded warmly by the usually undemonstrative Japanese spectators.

It was an exhibition game between the two divided teams among the visitors but they fought with all they had for victory.

The two teams marched onto the field as a khaki-clad band struck a march shortly before 2 p.m., with the "Internationals" carrying a great Japanese flag and the "United States" squad following with the Star Spangled Banner. The former wore jackets of blue with white sleeves and blue pants. Before the game started, they took off their jackets to show shirts of the same color scheme, on the back of which were the Japanese and American flags perched side by side over a rising sun, and with the exception of the pitchers, wore shorts that had been approved by the police as not being too short.

The two teams lined up in front of the main stand, and together with the spectators in the direction of the Imperial Palace. Facing them were some 20 representatives from the Takarazuka Girls revue in their uniform attire sporting the well-known green "hakama" or skirts. Matsuzo Nagai, executive-secretary of the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee, welcomed the American contingent. He made it a point to express appreciation for the encouragement given by the American people toward organization of the 12th Olympic Games, which finally had to be abandoned because of the emergency situation confronting the country. He told the girls they were in Japan at its best season. Marty Fiedler, leader of the visiting party, responded, declaring that each member of the party had come as an ambassador of goodwill and would carry back to the United States pleasant memories, especially that the kindness and hospitality extended by the Japanese people cannot be surpassed anywhere else in the world.

Players Introduced

The American players were introduced individually. The Takarazuka girls then presented a bouque each to the captains of both teams. And Miss Yoshiko Futaba welcomed them in Japan, and asking for a helping hand when the Takarazuka girls go to the San Francisco and New York Fairs next year.

The ceremonies over at 2:05 p.m., the two teams went through their infield workout. Their snappy fielding, plus plenty of chatter, won the approval of the fans.

This over, all members of both teams lined up, faced each other and bowed, a custom that is observed in this country, as the three officiating umpires, all from the professional baseball league, participated in the ceremony.

Deputy Mayor Hara tossed the first ball and the game got underway with the "United States" team at bat. Catcher Melita Forster wore a mask as well as a body protector. Miss Edith Richards, about the largest player on the field, also did the same. The four balls rule for a free pass to first was used. Outside of the non-scoring rule on a wild pitch with the bases loaded and the regulation to hold onto a base before the ball passes the plate when stealing, the game was played like the regular baseball game.

Fourteen-year-old Dorothy Harrell, the youngest player, reached first as lead-off hitter for the "United States" in the first inning on an infield hit. She rolled a slow grounder to third. Miss Kazui Oshiki, a second generation Japanese, fielded it but she slid to the ground and Miss Harrell reached first easily. Miss Kay Rohrer forced her at second but the former went all the way to third when Pitcher Sparlin picked up Miss Kay Shinen's grounder and threw wild to first. A hit through short by Miss Kay Elliott brought in Miss Rohrer for the first run of the game. Miss Shinen tried to score on the same hit but a perfect throw from Miss Lila Rasey, southpaw centerfielder, nailed her at the plate.

Internationals Lead

The "Internationals" forged into a one run lead in their portion of the first inning. Miss Oshiki walked and after two outs romped home on Miss Lois Roberts' smashing triple down the left field foul line. Miss June Young then doubled to left to bring in Miss Roberts.

The "Internationals" got another in the fourth when Miss Louise Embree, who had replaced Miss Sparlin on the mound at the outset of the same inning, singled to right and Right Fielder Miss Esther Hakapoff pegged wild to third to allow Miss Jean Fuller, who had walked, to score.

Miss Kay Rohrer, shortstop of the "United States" team and easily the most outstanding player afield, her fielding and pegging being as good as any man, hit a three bagger over the left fielder's head to start the fifth inning. She scored later on Miss Richards' fly to left.

The "Internationals" increased their lead to 5-2 in the last half of the fifth on three hits by the Misses Lila Rasey, Roberts and Louise Robinson.

The "United States" squad came within a run of tying the score in the sixth, Miss Kay Rohrer's hit to left batted in Miss Robby Borchers, who had walked, and Miss Virginia Gillen, the pitcher, also scored on the left fielder's wild peg to the plate.

It looked like a sure victory for the "Internationals" when they tallied four times in the sixth on five hits. Miss Forster started with a single and Miss Geraldine Cox, a blonde pinchhitting for Miss Embree, hit a three bagger to left to score Miss Forster. Miss Oshiki singled to right scoring Miss Cox. It was too hard for Miss Harrell to catch it running backwards. Miss Wanda Macha was safe on an error by Miss Kay Rohrer. Miss Rasey bunted perfectly for a hit to receive a big hand. Miss Roberts flied out to left and Miss Young forced Miss Oshiki at the plate. Miss Robinson doubled to score Miss Macha and Miss Rasey.

Miss Terry Pitches

The "Internationals" sent Miss Lois Terry, a left hander, considered one of the bext pitchers in America, to the mound as the seventh started. She possesses an exceedingly fast ball with an impressive delivery. But her control was poor. And forced to put strikes over, she was hit for three hits and three runs in the seventh, two hits and a run in the eighth and a hit and the winning run in the ninth.

Miss Martha Cooper replaced Miss Gillen on the mound for the "United States" in the seventh and checked the "Internationals" from scoring in the last three innings.

Here's how the "United States" team broke an 8-all tie in the ninth. After two outs, Miss Kay Shinen walked and stole second. She went to third on a wild pitch. Miss Richards walked. Miss Elliott went to first, hit by a pitched ball. Miss Borchers hit one too hard for Miss Terry to handle and Miss Shinen tallied.

Miss Borchers was the leading slicker of the game, four hits in four trips to the plate.

Annual Judo Meet Slated At Kodokan On October 16, 17

The 8th All-Japan Judo Championship Contest will be held at the Kodokan Hall with a two day program, October 16-17.

The first day's program consists of ceremonial proceedings and demonstrations of different forms of judo; model instructions of juvenile students, both boys and girls; girls' free exercises and the first semi-final contest. The hall opens at 11 a.m. and the program begins at 1 p.m.

On the second day the hall opens at 8 a.m. and the second semi-final contest begins at 10 a.m. After the championship contest, the presentation of medals and banners to the winners, closing remarks by the president of the contest meet, three cheers will close the program. On the second day there will be shown, after the second semi-final, forms of classical judo and school physical exercises in which the principle of judo is embodied.

Campbell Breaks Motor Boat Mark

N.Y. Times

LUCERNE, Sept. 17—Sir Malcolm Campbell of England, former holder of the world land speed record, broke his own world record for speed on water today by driving his motor boat Bluebird more than 130 miles an hour over a mile course on Lake Halwil.

He made the outward run over the measured mile at 131.86 miles an hour and the return at 129.96. His average for the two runs, which becomes the new record, was 130.91 miles an hour. Campbell set the previous record of 129.50 at Locarno on Lake Maggiore Sept. 2.

Today's outgoing mile was covered in 27.3 seconds and the incoming mile in 27.4.

The feat crowned Campbell's repeated tries for a new record this Summer on Switzerland's lakes. At first he believed he had failed to break the record and announced he would try again tomorrow.

This evening, however, the timers found they had made an error in their computations and a recheck showed Campbell had established a new mark. He indicated, nevertheless, that he would try to push the record still higher.

Softball Teams In Debut

"Never Mind the Weather," said 10,000 individuals as they trekked their way to the Korakuen Stadium Friday afternoon to see the American girls' softball teams play their first game in Japan. Alabama's Air Attack Wrecks U.S.C., 19 To 7

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24—A furious tide of Crimson from Alabama swept through vast Memorial Coliseum today, carrying before it the wreckage of the Southern California Trojan football team.

When the debris was cleared away, Alabama headed back to Dixie on the long end of a 19-to-7 score and once again Southern California postponed its return to gridiron greatness. A crowd of 65,000 saw the game.

Time and again the stalwart Trojans tried to stem the tide, plugging up a hole off one tackle, where George Zivich had ripped through, or rushing to the ends to cement a crumbling wing battered by a Holm, a Bardford or a Mosley. When the tide quit pouring through Troy's forward wall it showered destructive passes from above.

Everything Southern California tried was to no avail, because the Crimson came out to avenge a defeat administetred in the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day by California, and would not be denied.

Twice in the second period Alabama crossed the goal line, both times the hand of slender Herky (for Hercules) Mosley. The first touchdown pass went to Billy Slemons, reserve back, and he was tackled just across the goal line.

The next touchdown climaxed an eighty-yard drive down the field. Gene Blackwell, a substitute end, juggled Mosley's pass on the ends of his fingers and came down for the score.

Southern California, several times failing to cash in on a break, found the Bama line almost impregnable and tried to score through the air. Once the Trojans hit Alabama territory, after Grenville Lansdell had passed to Bog Peoples, sophomore, a play good for forty-four yards, but the threat ended on downs on the Tide's 13-yard stripe.

It was not until the last quarter that Southern California scored, and that came as a gift. Ollie Day punted for down the field, Charley Boswell, safety man, tried to field it as it rolled, fumbled and Al Krueger, Trojan end, fell on it half a yard from the goal. Day, a reserve back, went through the middle of the line on the next play for the touchdown, and Phil Gaspar, using the new rubber "kicking toe," kicked the extra point.

Just a bit before Alabama had rung up its third touchdown of the day, lanky Hal Hughes, another Alabama reserve back, reached high for one of Day's passes, brought it down with one hand and galloped twenty yards across the line.

The Trojan outfit, boomed as one of the top contenders of the Pacific Coast Conference championship, seemed sluggish, although Bob Peoples, Bob Hoffman, blocking back, and Lansdell showed well.

But it was Alabama's revenge day, and the Tide rolled up 131 yards on the ground to fifty-two for Southern California. The Alabama passes were smart, surely executed.

Once Mosely, needing a yard on fourth down, fired a pass straight to Blackwell with the ball in midfield, and made it. The line-up:

St. Mary's Loses To California's Late Rally, 12-7

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 24—Beaten and befuddled for three periods, University of California's coast conference and Rose Bowl champions of a year ago opened their 1938 football campaign today with a 12-to-7 victory over St. Mary's Gaels.

More than 50,000 fans saw the Bears come back from behind with two power drives in the final quarter and turn apparent defeat into victory.

The Gaels dominated the play for most of the first three periods, went into a 7-to-0 lead a few minutes after the second period opened and missed two field goal tries.

Until the last minute of play, the result was in doubt, the Bears trailing by a point. At this stage of the contest a poor punt, with the ball slithering off the foot of Jerry Dowd, Gael captain and center, set the stage for the winning touchdown.

California put the ball in play on its own 45-yard marker. Straight power thrusts, after fake spins, with Vic Bottari, Louis Smith and Dave Anderson alternating at packing the ball, brought the Bears down the field without a halt. At the 4-yard line Bottari lateraled to Smith who loped across the line untouched.

Earlier in the same period, the Bears charged eighty yards down the field on nine line plays and a twenty-two-yard pass from Bottari to Bill Elmore. Anderson cracked the center of the line for the final ten yards and the touchdown.

Heads-up ball gave St. Mary's its touchdown. The sophomore left halfback, Mike Klotovich, recovered Anderson's fumble on the Bear 21 late in the first quarter, and sharp tackle smashes put the ball on California's two when the quarter ended.

On the first play of the second period, Klotovich skirted California's left end for the touchdown, and Mike Perrie place-kicked the extra point.

Clubs Of London Need Coaching In Rugby Football

London Times

LONDON, Sept. 21—The signs and portents, vague and distant as many of them still are, point to a much-needed improvement in London club Rugby, though until the progressive coaching and encouragement of young players move with the times there will remain an appalling waste of ability.

This especially applies to the hordes of Public Schoolboys who annually enter business and professional life. All of these no doubt cannot find the time or opportunity to obtain experience of first-class football. The impression, however, persists that not nearly enough is done to develop the natural talent revealed by many of them at school. One cannot expect an amateur game to equal the hair-comb methods of professional Association football, and the very size of London is a grievous handicap, but retiring players could do much more than they do at present to help their hard-worked officials, first, to sort out the highly promising players who really want to improve and, then, to see that their technique and enthusiasm do not rust for want of expert coaching. Only a few players of instinctive genius can progress without a proper study of technique and tactics. In the American game coaching has reached such a pitch that an accredited coach can earn a large salary and win more applause even than the players, who for their part, tend to become highly efficient automats. No one over here would wish for that. On the other hand, the existing methods of training—if they can be called methods at all—in most cases are haphazard and slipshod to the -nth degree and the result is clearly shown in representative as well as club matches.

Kicking and Passing

How many players show that they know how to place the ball properly, let alone kick it accurately? Some of them must have learnt how to do so at school. Only a casual indifference to detail by the player and a lack of correction by club coaches with authority and prestige behind them can account for some of the wretched place-kicking one sees from time to time in quite important matches. The same applies to passing the ball, much of which is so careless or so mistimed that most passing movements are doomed to failure from the moment when the stand-off player hands on the ball some two or three strides too soon to one of the centers. The usual explanation given for the failure of back-play is the wicked activity of the winging forwards. Yet one has seen important matches in which those gentlemen were both slow and incompetent and yet an attack in the open has failed to draw a single member of the defense. This fault can be overcome by the humblest player who is not afraid to be tackled if he is reminded of it persistently and no less persistently shown in practice and runabouts how effective it is to run up to an opponent before getting rid of the ball.

These are only a few examples of what one means by poor technique. It may be argued that there are not enough coaches to go round, but there are plenty of old players who know the game sufficiently well to analyze the weaknesses of their own period and to show at least in practice how the thing should be done. Captains should be carefully chosen for their ability to coach in an understandable—and, of course, pleasant—manner. Vice-captains, too. Encouraging shouts and discouraging curses are not enough. Players should be made to feel that it is worth while and enjoyable to keep on learning. If London clubs wish to regain public interest in their games let them make bigger efforts to find players who are keen to improve their technique and are not convinced that they left school the finished product. And, having found these players, who undoubtedly exist in ample numbers, let them be coached on progressive lines and given every chance, if needs be at the expense of cleverer players who are not so keen and willing to keep on improving their game.

Let the London clubs learn from the painful object-lessons of South Wales, where few of the players or their officials appear to be interested in the old technique which once made the Welsh passing game a joy to watch. In the old days, crowds of 20,000 or more watched the big club matches. Today, 5,000 ranks as a fair figure. The London spectator may be less critical than the Welsh, but he is equally capable of knowing when a match clamors for his attendance and when it promises little more than 70 or 80 minutes of thud and blunder.

Hosei Upsets Waseda, 3-1; Keio Blanks Teidai, 6-0

Waseda virtually lost all hopes for the championship of the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium when it was bumped off 3-1 by Hosei in a royal upset. Keio kept itself in the running for the title with the league leading Meiji by blanking Tokyo Imperial University (Teidai) 6 to 0 in the other part of the doubleheader.

Waseda must win all three remaining games on the schedule for a possible chance to tie Meiji, provided the latter loses its two remaining games on schedule to Hosei, and that is unlikely to happen. The standings follow:

	G.	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Meiji	8	6	1	1	.813
Keio	5	3	1	1	.700
Waseda	7	4	3	0	.571
Hosei	7	2	2	3	.500
Rikkyo	8	2	5	1	.313
Teidai	9	1	6	2	.222

Southpaw Akaneya of Hosei was in fine form for the first time in several weeks and he checked Waseda to six scattered blows.

Ishiguro Pitcher

Righthander Ishiguro of Waseda allowed only six hits but Murakami and Tsuruoka, who accounted for two and three of them respectively, bunched them timely to send him to defeat.

Ishiguro and Akaneya engaged in a pitchers' duel without a run up to the beginning of the fourth. Miyoshi started with a hit to left and went to second as Nagata grounded out to second. Kataoka flied out to center, but Minamimura came through with a Texas Leaguer to left to bat in Miyoshi.

Akaneya retired Waseda in order in the sixth and his team mates came in to put him into a 2-1 lead. Murakami smashed one for a one-bound hop into the left field grass stands for a triple. Tsuruoka was walked purposely. Nagasaka, batting for Yoshida, popped out. Takeuchi singled through third and short and both Murakami and Tsuruoka tallied.

Waseda got two men aboard in the seventh but Ishiguro grounded out to third to retire the side.

Hosei clinched victory with another run in the eighth. Murakami singled to center and Tsuruoka promptly batted him home with a double to left center.

Takatsuka pitched brilliant ball for Keio up to the eighth when the Keio bench elected to give him a rest, sending Narita to the mound. He had allowed but three hits.

Keio Rallies

Keio won the game with a four rally off Pitcher Yutani, the Teidai's best bet, in the fourth inning. Iijima singled through short. Odate flied out to right. Kakehi walked and Takatsuka singled to left to load the bases. Kawase followed suit with a Texas Leaguer to second to score Iijima. Kakehi scored as Miyazaki grounded to short and forced Kawase at second, Takatsuka going to third on the play. Miyazaki stole second. Sakurai gained life on the right fielder's error and both Takatsuka and Miyazaki tallied.

Purdue Downs Detroit, 19-6, In Late Attack

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 24—Purdue's Boilermakers came to life in the last half of their football inaugural with the University of Detroit in midsummer heat today and rushed across three touchdowns, winning 19 to 6, before 21,000 spectators.

A blazing sun boosted the temperature to 82 degrees.

The teams battled through almost three quarters without a score. Then a burst of offensive fireworks brought three touchdowns in less than seven minutes. Detroit seized a break on a Purdue fumble to push across the first, but Purdue came right back to tally twice in four minutes, one marker coming on a fifty-eight-yard pass from Miko Byelene to Jack Krause.

The Boilermakers added a third touchdown in the final period.

The fumble that touched off the scoring spree came when Brown dropped the ball midway in the third period. It was recovered by Ted Pavolec on the Purdue 18. In three plays John McDermott went over for Detroit.

After the next kick-off Brown went wide around right end behind perfect interference, barely got away from the last two Detroit tacklers and scooted fifty-eight yards to the Detroit goal. Then Augie Morningstar grabbed a Detroit fumble on the Titan 29 and Byelene heaved his touchdown pass to Krause.

In the last two minutes of play Byelene picked out a tiny hole in the right side of the Detroit line and dashed twenty-two yards for the final score.

The two teams were even so far as first downs were concerned, but Purdue had a 293 to 154-yard advantage in ground gained.

Ohio 'U' Upsets Illinois, 6 To 0

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 24—A one-time pupil taught the old master at Memorial Stadium today when a smartly coached Ohio University eleven upset the favored University of Illinois, 6 to 0, before 20,000 spectators.

Don Peden, a great football player for Bob Zuppke almost two decades ago, led his charges back to the Illinois campus and saw John Montgomery, 145-pound senior quarterback, spark a sturdy defensive team to a fine victory.

It was Montgomery's pass to James Snyder, right halfback, which permitted the Ohio team to snatch its precious six points shortly after the second half started. Montgomery took careful aim and fired a ten-yard pass to Snyder, who ran fifteen yards for the only touchdown of the game. Montgomery missed the try for point.

The desperate Illini stormed again and again at the stubborn Ohio defense, but to no avail. Once the Illinois first-stringers were halted on the eight-yard line.

The only Ohio first down came as a result of an Illinois penalty. The Illini gained 205 yards to Ohio's fifty-nine.

Patty Berg Wins U.S. Golf Title, For First Time

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—Determined little Patty Berg won the women's national golf championship today—and a place among the sport's all-time greats.

Climaxing the most amazing burst of sub-par golf the forty-two-year-old tournament ever has witnessed, the Minnesota marvel captured her first national crown by overwhelming the defending champion, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Chapel Hill, N. C., 6 and 5.

Just a year ago, Patty had bowed in the final to Mrs. Page, 7 and 6. Miss Berg amply avenged that defeat. Going into the final match with a record of having played her last forty-two holes in eight under par, Miss Berg uncorked a game which sent her into command during the morning round and made the match a rout which ended on the thirty-first green.

The imperturbable Mrs. Page, herself holder of a brilliant five-year golf record, didn't have a chance against Miss Berg's amazing game. All even after nine holes, the Minneapolis star won the tenth with a par 4, led, 2-up, at the twelfth, lost the thirteenth through a wild tee shot, then came back to go 2-up at the fourteenth and stubbornly hold that margin to the intermission point.

Miss Berg's putting gave her an edge during the first eighteen holes. She had only thirty-one putts and no three-putt greens as Mrs. Page needed four on another.

In the afternoon, Miss Berg carded straight 4s on the first eight holes, finishing the twenty-seven with a lead of five holes. She picked up three birdies and was over par only once, touring the out nine holes in thirty-seven, two under par. She won the twenty-first with a birdie, halved the next two, then won the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth with a display of iron play and accuracy.

After two halves, Miss Berg went 6 up at the twenty-eighth with a birdie 3 after dropping a fifteen-foot putt. She won the next hole as Mrs. Page needed four to reach the green, then lost the thirtieth as she put her second in a trap. Then the Minnesota ace matched Mrs. Page's birdie with one of her own, making a great chip shot to within four feet of the cup and dropping her putt to end the duel.

73 Holes in 11 Under Par

Starting with the last nine of her Wednesday afternoon match, Miss Berg compiled a record of seventy-three straight holes played in 11 under par, a performance ranked by tourney officials as the greatest scoring streak in the championship's history. She played the first round today in 40—39—79, even par, and was three under par for the final thirteen holes. Mrs. Page was five over par for the distance.

Acquisition of the national crown climaxed a brilliant three-year performance by the Minnesota girl, who next week will matriculate at the University of Minnesota as a freshman. In her first national championship, in 1935, she was runner-up to Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare. In 1936, she went to the third round before losing and last year battled her way to the final.

Cuban Game Takes Strongly In U.S., Providing Thrill

WASHINGTON, D. C.—New York is getting acquainted with an exciting game that has been giving thrills around the world for years. A combination of handball, lacrosse, and tennis, the old Basque sport of pelota (jai alai as it is known in Cuba and elsewhere) was recently presented to an audience that cheered and jeered as balls speeding at the rate of a hundred miles per hour smacked points or fouls against the wall.

"Jai alai, pronounced 'Hy-Lie' has been called the world's fastest indoor game," points out a bulletin from the Washington, D.C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "As played today by sturdy, hard-hitting professionals, it is both spectacular and simple, requiring only space, three high walls, a ball, and a curved basket-like scoop lashed to the arm of each player.

Players Dwarfed

"Served from the basket, or cesta, the ball—slightly softer than a rock and about the size of a tennis ball—is first driven against the front wall, to be scooped up before its second bounce, and returned by a member of the opposing side. Teams range from one to four on a side. Sometimes a handicap is given, when two more expert players are matched against three less trained.

"Technique, as in tennis, lies in slamming the ball to a spot from which it is hard for the opponent to return it. Unlike other fast-moving indoor games, however, jai alai is a sport of magnificent distances. Flashing 150 or 200 feet from one wall to the other, the curving arc of its traveling white globe dwarfs the players, and gives spectators an added thrill.

"Occasionally, when a ball is missed, there is an accident, for the hurtling sphere is no sofa cushion. About five years ago, at Miami, a jai alai player was killed in such an accident, as the ball, zooming off the front wall, struck him squarely in the forehead.

"To the audience, safely behind wire netting that guards against wild shots, one of the most dramatic points of the game is the rebote, or rebound stroke, whereby a player scoops the ball on its rear-wall bounce, and sends it flying through the air in a sweeping motion that often pulls him off his feet.

"Though the game may look easy when played by experts smoothly returning each serve, it is one that requires considerable skill, as well as endurance and strength both from players and from the arena itself. A jai alai player's heart takes terrific punishment, while muscles in his overdeveloped playing arm become steely hard. So heavy is the strain of constant bombardment against the arena that the walls of one jai alai court in Havana, Cuba, weakened, and had to be rebuilt of granite and reinforced brick.

Takes New Name

"Played three centuries ago in the Basque country of northern Spain, this dashing sport of pelota, which means 'small ball,' evolved from a simple village pastime of ball-tossing against church walls. Spreading to other countries, it is now a super-specialty whose fans number thousands, from the Pyrenees to the Andes, as well as in such centers as Madrid, Miami, and Mexico, D.F., and as far away as Shanghai.

"The baseball of South America, it is played with magnificent facilities in such cities as Buenos Aires, or on the single adobe wall of a remote country inn. Courts are even found on the great pampa ranches.

"In Cuba, under an alias, it is the national sport. Called jai alai for 'merry festival,' as was the Havana building where early games were held) it is a regular feature of tourist and local night life in the Cuban capital. It is because of this association that the name jai alai has now generally replaced pelota, although in Mexico, and in a few other places, it is also known as fronton, or court.

Leave War to Play

"Whatever the name for it, pelota, after 300 years, is still going strong. In the land of its birth, on both French and Spanish sides of the shadowing Pyrenees, few villages are too poor to afford at least a crude wall court. Occasionally, where other means are lacking, players return to the old way of pounding the ball against church walls, their only restriction by authority being the request, please not to play during divine service.

"Today as the Spanish conflict rages, bombings, not ball games, occupy headlines. Yet there was a war, according to stories told in the northern villages, in which French-Basque soldiers took 'time out' to go home, play a long-scheduled match against their Spanish rivals, and return to the army to take part in the battle of Austerlitz in 1805 between Napoleon's forces and those of Austria and Russia.

"Such international contests long played an important role in Basque life. Handed down through generations is the tale of the great match at Irun, nearly a hundred years ago, when peasants for miles around wagered their oxen, crops, and even their homes on their favorite side. After the game, the story goes, the French players who won had to flee across the border without having time to remove the bats attached to their arms."

Tigers Nose Out Giants, 3 To 2 In Pro League

A three-run rally in the fifth won for the Osaka Tigers over the league-leading Tokyo Giants by 3-2 in Monday's doubleheader of the professional baseball circuit at the Korakuen stadium here.

Hits by Kageura and Matsuki plus two errors accounted for the three runs off Pitcher Stalphin in fifth.

Pitcher Nishimura, after a long rest, kept the Giants at bay in the first seven innings. Rightfielder Nakajima tallied for the Giants in the right field stands and brought in the other Giants' run in the ninth with a Texas Leaguer to center.

The Senators won their fifth straight game from the Dolphins, 8-1 in the other game.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

The Rev. Adolphus Walker, of Osterburg, Pa., was so intent on keeping his favorite cow "Lady" free from the pesky horseflies of August last year that he stood by her all day long for the entire month swatting the flies as they lit on her back. His best week-day was 778 flies and best Sunday for the month was 750. By actual count he swatted 5,778 from the grateful animal's hide during the month.

Keio Nine Beats Teidai By 4 To 0; Iijima Triples

Before the smallest attendance ever in the annals of the Tokyo Six University Baseball—there were only several hundred fans because of the cold and strong wind—Keio defeated Tokyo Imperial (Teidai) 4-0 Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium to make it two straight in their Fall series.

Waseda and Hosei were scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. today in their second game, the first day's play having been postponed because of rain last Saturday.

Keio sent a recruit to the mound in the person of Shiraki, a lanky right hander, and he came through in glorious style despite his debut in the fastest amateur ball circuit in the country. With his fast ball, he checked Teidai to three hits and never was in danger throughout the game. It was Right Fielder Ota with the count 2 and 3 after one out in the fifth inning that registered the first hit off Shiraki.

Pitcher Yutani of Teidai chucked good ball in the first four innings but he lost his control in the fifth, walking four men to force in a run. And then came First Baseman Iijima's sparkling three bagger over the right fielder's head to clean up the bags for four runs, which won the ball game.

Teidai came pretty near scoring in the seventh. Yamamoto started with a Texas Leaguer to left. Mitsutake singled through first and second but Yamamoto was thrown out at third. Mitsutake went to second as Tajima rolled out to second. Ota fanned.

Teidai completed its schedule for the Fall season with one victory, 2 draws and seven defeats.

The standings follow:

Vanderbilt Beats Washington, 20-0

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24—The gold and black Commodores of Vanderbilt University took advantage of three breaks to score a touchdown each time and defeat Washington University 20 to 0, in an intersectional game today before a crowd of 5,000.

The sparkplug of the Southerners was Art Keene, a Memphis lad who passed most of last season on the third team. Twice he broke through behind beautiful blocking and scored touchdowns.

The first came four minutes after Jack Warner, Washington halfback, fumbled the opening kick-off on his 30-yard line. Vandy drew a fifteen-yard penalty, but quickly made up the distance with one of its few forward passes. Keene then knifed through from the 8-yard marker.

Midway in the third period Vanderbilt blocked a Washington punt on the Bears' 35-yard stripe. Keene picked up five through the line, and on the next play eluded five tacklers as he twisted thirty yards for his second tally.

Joe Agee, 278-pound center, converted both extra points from placement.

After recovering a fumbled punt Vanderbilt opened up its highly rated aerial attack late in the game and scored a third touchdown with about a minute left to play. Bert Marshall lateraled to Ray Andrus, who galloped to the 5 and then passed over the goal line to Dutch Reinschmidt. The place kick was wide.

Vandy attempted nine forward passes and completed four for a total gain of fifty-five yards. The Commodores piled up twelve first downs to Washington's five, and outgained their opponents from scrimmage, 194 yards to 113.

Sparkling Base Running

Chikaki Honda, a "Nisei" from Hawaii, stealing second for Keio in the fourth inning after he had singled against Tokyo Imperial University Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine Stadium. He was stranded, however, as Uno fanned for the third out.

Meiji Downs Keio, 27 To 0 By Passes In U.S. Football

The Meiji University eleven took to the air and won a 27 to 0 victory from the Keio gridders Tuesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

The Keio gridders surprised the 300 spectators who braved the cold and rain to watch this game, by completely outplaying the Meiji squad in the first half of the game. The heavy Keio line showed a 100 per cent improvement from last year and put up a stone wall defense, allowing Meiji to make only three first downs, throughout the game.

Keio's backfield was terribly disorganized.

Score on Passes

But Meiji, with a far better backfield, took to the air and completed five passes, three of which accounted for touchdowns.

Meiji's first touchdown came late in the second quarter. Keio recovered Meiji's fumble on the 30 yard line. Instead of using power plays, by which it was doing good, Keio resorted to aerial attack, throwing two passes which were incomplete. Another pass high over the right flank was intercepted by Machida, left end, who romped 70 yards for a touchdown. Try for extra point failed. Score Meiji 6, Keio 0.

In the last few minutes of the second quarter, another Keio pass was intercepted by halfback Wada, who ran 30 yards to put the ball on the 25 yard line. Three line plays gained only two yards so again Wada stepped back and shot a beautiful pass over the left flank to Toyama, who crossed the goal. Extra point was made by a line plunge. Score Meiji 13, Keio 0.

Early in the third quarter the Keio safetyman dropped a short 20 yard punt to be recovered by Meiji on the 25 yard line. Meiji hit the stonewall Keio line twice for no gain and then shot a quick short pass which was good for five yards only. But another long pass over the left flank went right into Toyama's hands who again crossed the goal. A drop kick by Yoshimoto crossed the bar for the extra point. Score Meiji 20, Keio 0.

Hamasaki Score

The last touchdown was made by another pass when deep in Keio's own territory, Keio started throwing wild passes. A high long pass dropped right into safety-man Yoshimoto's hands on the 30 yard line. Yoshimoto tried a right end run but was held for no gain. Then a swift beautiful pass from Yoshimoto to Hamasaki over the right flank went over the goal. Fujika's place kick was good, to make the total score 27 to 0.

Meiji threatened once more in the last minute of play when Sakamoto, center, rushed in and blocked Keio's punt, which was recovered by Meiji on the Keio five yard line. But Meiji was penalized five yards for stalling. But, it was still first down goal to go. Yasuda shot a short pass to Hamasaki for seven yards. A line plunge gained two and a half yards. With only about a foot to go they hit left tackle but the gun went off to end the game, before the ball was snapped.

Bates Crushed In Dartmouth Opener, 46 To 0

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 24—The Dartmouth Indians, as impressive as they were last season when they escaped defeat, opened their football campaign today by riding roughshod over a courageous but inexperienced Bates team for a 46-to-0 victory.

The Indians used their star-studded varsity line-up for only twenty minutes of the one-sided action and during that brief interval the regulars accounted for three of the Tribe's touchowns.

Shifty Bob MacLeod, accounted for most of the yardage before making two scoring plunges from the Bates 6-yard line early in the first period. When he and his mates returned for their second tour of duty in the third quarter, Bill Hutchinson shook himself loose for a forty-six-yard touchdown dash. Earl Blaik, coach used every member of his fifty-man squad against the hapless garnet-clad youngsters from Maine.

The Dartmouth second-stringers bore the brunt of the fray, during which they also tallied three touchdowns, the most spectacular of which was the seventy-two-yard runback that Jack Orr, a fullback, replacement, made into the Bates end zone with one of Bill Belliveau's punts in the final period.

The remaining three counters were provided by Jim Davis, Buford Hayden and Ray Hall, a third-team back.

The Indian became merciful during the third period, when they tossed away three easy scoring chances from the 10-yard line by permitting Hutchinson to attempt placement field goals. Although their performances thrilled the slim crowd of 2,500 students, Blaik seemed unimpressed by their initial start.

He bewailed the wide gaps between his first-stringers and their immediate replacements and declared he was convinced that Dartmouth's 1938 success depends entirely on the regulars. "We've got plenty of football players here, but only one football team," he said.

The line-up:

Oregon Eleven Conquers Washington State, 10-2

PULLMAN, Wash., Sept. 24—The University of Oregon, its football men playing their first game for Tex Oliver, coach, today defeated Washington State College, 10 to 2, before a crowd of 7,000.

Oregon's fleet-footed Jimmy Nicholson gave Oregon a field goal and a 3-to-0 first-quarter lead that was bolstered later by a touchdown scored on a sixty-five-yard run by Emmons, Oregon fullback.

Washington State's two points came on a safety in the second quarter when Smith of Oregon, was buffeted back over the Cougar goal when he intercepted Callow's pass on the 2-yard line.

Giants Swamp Senators, 10-1; Hit Four Homers

Smashing out three home runs, the Tokyo Giants routed the Senators, 10-1 Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium to maintain their two and a half game lead over the second place Osaka Hankyus in the professional baseball league.

On top of it, Mizuhara checked the Senators to one hit in the eighth innings he twirled. Kusunoki, a newcomer, finished the game. Pitcher Shioda was the only man able to nick Mizuhara for a hit and that came in the third after Mizuhara had gotten into a hole by walking the first man and the next man had gained life at first on the shortstop's error.

The hitting star was burly Right Fielder Nakajima of the Giants with four hits, including a homer, out of four times at bat, repeating his performance on Monday. The other homers were banged out by Mizuhara and Ito.

The Osaka Tigers vanquished the Dolfins, 9-3, in the other game. Sei of the losers poled a homer into the left field stands with a man aboard in the third.

Providence Put To Rout, 28-0, By Holy Cross

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 24—Displaying a powerful ground attack, Holy Cross scored in every quarter today and trounced Providence Colleague, 28 to 0, before 12,000 football fans.

Four different backs tallied for Holy Cross, opening its 1938 season against an eleven which held last year's undefeated Crusader team to a 7-to-0 score.

Captain Bill Osmanski, ace Holy Cross back, secred first on a short thrust after a thirty-two-yard march midway in the opening quarter. A twenty-six-yard run by Andy Giardi paved the way for the second score, which Hilary Renz banged over from the 3-yard line late in the first half.

Holy Cross started its second-string backs in the third period and, with Giardi leading the way, soon set up a forty-five-yard drive, climaxed with Giardi tossing a short pass to Jack Whelan in the end zone for the score.

Bruno Malinowski, a big sophomore who substituted for Osmanski, provided the final touchdown, slashing across from the 8-yard line at the end of a forty-six-yard drive.

Jim Turner place-kicked the points after the first three touchdowns and Jack Kellar, sophomore, converted after the fourth.

The Crusaders, using many substitutes, had a wide edge in the statistics over the Friars. Holy Cross made ten first downs to five, picked up 131 yards rushing to 25, but was slightly outpassed, 13 yards to 40.

The line-up:

Record Feat Recognized

The certificate and medal (both sides shown) received by Tomikatsu Amano, 19-year-old swimmer of Nihon University, for his world record breaking performance of 18 minutes 58.7 seconds in the 1,500-meter freestyle swim on August 10 last at the Meiji Shrine pool.

Minnesota Tops Washington, 15-0 Before 50,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 24—Minnesota's Golden Gophers hurled another sharp challenge to the football world today, defeating the Washington Huskies, 15 to 0, before 50,000 persons in a game closely fought for the first half only.

The Gophers had a bad scare in the opening period and missed a great chance for scoring in the next quarter. Finally with a minute of the first half remaining a field goal sent the Gophers into a lead which they augmented by touchdowns in each of the last two periods.

When the mighty golden clad squad got going it was unstoppable. It broke up Washington's aerial game, stopped its fleet backs and blocked one kick that led to the final score.

Pass interceptions paved the way for the first score, a field goal by George Faust, quarterback, and brought the first touchdown when Bob Johnson, tackle, snatched Jimmy Johnston's short forward and raced eighty-five yards to count.

Interceptions Beat Huskies

Winning decisively, the Gophers flashed a cagey crew of ball hawks who recovered two costly Washington fumbles and speared the Huskies' passed with deadly consistency.

They presented a spectacular backfield star in Wilbur Moore, whose hard running included dashes of thirty-one, sixteen, twelve and ten yards. He grabbed a Washington pass in the second period to set up the successful field goal bid.

Larry Buhler, fullback, pressed Moore for honors, running thirty yards on one tackle drive and then single handedly blasting through to the second touchdown by slashing fifteen yards to the Washington seven and then charging over two plays later.

The turning point of the game came late in the third period when Washington finally got its attack functioning, and used a forward, a lateral and terrific line smashes to rush to the Minnesota twenty-three, where it was first down.

Johnson Goes 85 Yards

On the first play Jimmy Johnston shot a forward diagonally across the line of scrimmage. Bob Johnson, who had just come into the game and had not yet been slowed up by the hot weather, leaped high, speared the pigskin and thundered up the field.

First one Husky player and then another was cut down as Johnson headed straight for the pay-off counter. Finally, only Jimmy Johnston had to be beaten and John Mariucci, stocky end, dumped him with a perfect block on the 10-yard line. This make it 9 to 0.

The second Minnesota touchdown in the fourth period came after Alan Rork, tackle, partly blocked McAdams's punt, the ball rolling out on the Minnesota 30. Shortly afterward Buhler ripped over for the score.

The punting of Harold Van Every for Minnesota was deadly, two kicks being down inside the Huskies' 5-yard line.

'Whizzer' White Says Pro Football Is Lot Of Fun

By LEAVITT MORRIS
Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, Sept. 20—Professional football appeals to Byron "Whizzer" White, last year's all-America grid sensation, more than the same played by collegians.

And, according to the "Whizzer," it isn't only the $15,000 that the Pittsburgh Pirates are paying him to wear their colors.

"Pro football is a lot more fun than the game we played in college," White said yesterday as he whiled away the rainy day in the Hotel Manger where his team is staying for their exhibition game with the Boston Shamrocks at Fenway Park.

"In pro ball," the Colorado star continued, "the boys know what it's all about and they go out there playing real football. Assignments are carried out and things, as a rule, click pretty smoothly."

In his opinion there is too much cheering, flag waving, and band playing in college football. It stirs up a player's emotion to a point where he can't play the game he's capable of, White revealed.

"I think there can be too much of that sort of thing," White said. Asked if he missed it, he said only to the extent that it was good not to have to hear it.

Another thing about the pro game which White likes over that of the collegians is the rules. In the professional sport the goal posts are on the goal line and an offensive team may throw a forward pass from any point behind the line of scrimmage, whereas the college rules call for the forward pass to be thrown from at least five yards behind the line.

"That pro forward pass rule is something the colleges should have," Whizzer said, "It's not hard to learn and make the game far more interesting."

White, who won a Rhodes Scholarship last year, will leave for England early in January to pursue his studies. He plans to study law. This year is probably the first and the last that White will compete in professional football. For his course at Oxford is to take three years and he does not plan to return home during the Summer holidays.

"We've been smacked around quite a bit this season," White said, "but I feel sure that we'll improve as the season progresses and play some winning football."

Wakabayashi Fails To Stop Giants, Who Win By 8-3

The Osaka Tigers sent the veteran Henry (Bozo) Wakabayashi, former star Hosei pitcher, to the mound in an attempt to stop the league leading Tokyo Giants but Wakabayashi, who has been on the bench for a considerable period, was batted hard in the third for six runs and the Giants clinched victory by an 8-3 score at Korakuen stadium Wednesday. The Giants scored two more off Wakayashi in the fifth. Tsuri took over the pitching assignment from the sixth on and held the Giants scoreless.

Staphin worked the whole route for the Giants and yielded nine hits but he had an easy afternoon.

The Giants hit two homers, Chiba's came in the third with two on the bases. Right Fielder Nakajima poled his third homer in three successive days. He slammed one into the left field bleachers in the fifth.

A home run by Kuramoto with the bases loaded in the last half of the tenth inning won for Nagoya over the Senators, 6-2, in the other game. The summaries follow:

Detroit Football Coach To Abandon Huddle This Fall

Christian Science Monitor

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 21—On the theory that the fans don't like the huddle, because in their opinion it tends to slow up the game, Coach Charles E. "Gus" Dorais of the University of Detroit will have his signals called from regular formation this season. By so doing he may be running the risk of having signals gummed now and then; but he believes that the spectators ought to have some say in determining the kind of entertainment they get.

It is a moot point whether the huddle actually does slow up the action. Some authorities say that just as many plays are run in the course of a game with it as without it. But there is no question that the people in the stands regard huddles as a species of anti-climax. For one thing, huddles give a very well defined pause during which nothing can happen, while the ball may be snapped at any time when signals are given from formation.

The advantage claimed for the huddle is that it permits teams to take up their positions and get under way before the enemy has had a chance to size up the offensive formation. This advantage doesn't mean much to the Titans, however, as they run everything from a shift.

Another of the so-called benefits of the huddle is that it gives the players a chance to make sure they understand the signals before they get ready for action. Against this, Coach Dorais claims, is the disadvantage that sometimes players are inclined to make a debating society of the group gathering and argue about the quarterback's choice of plays, something that they can't do when the numbers are called from formation.

When a team has the enemy definitely on the run, so Dorais believes, there is a very definite advantage in keeping things moving faster than is possible from a huddle. The pauses during which the defense does not have to be alert are definitely shortened by abolishing the huddle and the chances for complete demoralization of a hard-pressed eleven are increased.

Dorais is giving up the huddle at a time when he probably will be using a number of inexperienced men in his backfield; but he is willing to take the chance of a few muffed signals in order to give the crowd a break.

Internationals Beat Americans, 10 To 9 In Softball Game

Georgia Defeats The Citadel, 20-12 With Late Rally

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 24—The superior manpower of Georgia's Bulldogs was extended to the limit today in overcoming a scrapping team of The Citadel, 20 to 12, before 7,000 spectators witnessing the debut of Joel Hunt, as Georgia coach.

The Citadel light brigade, with Captain Graham Edwards, 160-pound halfback, as the sparkplug of the attack, checkmated Georgia's somewhat ragged but forceful offensive in the first half but bogged down under the relentless driving in the final periods.

Fumbles were numerous and costly on both sides. Substitutes were made frequently because of the burning September sun. The citadel, featuring the performances of Edwards and Big Bob David, an end, rushed across two touchdowns to lead at the half 12 to 6.

The Bulldogs' first team went back to start the third period and remain in there for most of the second half as Georgia overcame the disadvantage and scored one touchdown in each of the period. The play of the second half was marked by Earl Hise, who made many fine gains.

After driving thirty-seven-yards, Georgia lost the ball at the Citadel 5 on a fumble by Jimmy Fordham, but came back to score from the thirty when Carroll Thomas recovered a Citadel fumble. Harry Stevens then passed to Vassa Cate, who caught it at the four and crossed the goal.

Tatum Gresette's fighting eleven scored at the start of the second period. Edwards intercepted a pass and ran back to the Bulldog 16. A forward-lateral placed it on the 3 and Edwards scored. A few minutes later Edwards tossed a twenty-three-yard pass to David on the Georgia 33 and passed again to the lanky end, who snagged the ball at the 10 and raced across.

Georgia drove sixty-three yards for its third-period touchdown, Stevens sweeping around end from the two yard line, Bill Badgett making the extra point. A Citadel fumble recovered at the twenty-two-yard line by Bob Nowell, gave Georgia its next score. Hise raced fourteen yards through tackle for the touchdown and Knox Eldredge added the extra point.

The line-up:

Georgia (20)	The Citadel (12)

Waseda Thrown Out Of Running By Hosei Nine, 3-1

Waseda was definitely thrown out of the running in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league Wednesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine Stadium when it dropped its second straight game to Hosei by a 3-1 score.

Inability to hit Southpaw Akaneya proved to be Waseda's stumbling block. The big fellow yielded but four hits.

Left Hander Kondo started on the mound for Waseda but he gave way to Matsui, another southpaw, in the eighth after allowing three runs.

Hosei scored its first run in the fourth when Tsuruoka walked after one out and went all the way to third on Yoshida's hit to right. He then tallied on Takeuchi's hit through short.

Hosei got two more in the first half of the seventh. Akaneya walked. Takino bunted in front of the plate. Backstop Ogusu scooped it up pegged wild to second in an attempt to force Akaneya. The latter dashed for third and rompt all the way home when Center Field Asai's peg to third hit him on the back. Karazawa flied out to center. Tagawa walked and Murakami hit a Texas Leaguer to center to load the bases. Tsuruoka hit safely through third and Takino tallied. Tagawa tried to register on the same hit and was thrown out at the plate.

Waseda got its lone run in the last half of the seventh on Asai's double against the left field fence to bring in Kakijima who had walked.

The standings follow:

The Tigon

One of nature's strangest hybrids, a 4-year-old cub of an African lioness and a Siberian tiger, is the latest resident of the Central Park Zoo in New York City. The animal, known as a tigon, resembles a lion with the exception of the head, but its ears are striped like a tiger's, and in wintertime, when the pelt is in its prime, the body shows the tiger's stripes. The animal had been bred in the Hamburg, Germany, Zoo, and is the gift of an anonymous donor. The head keeper of the Zoo explains that when the tigon resembles a lion more than it does a tiger it is known as a liger.

Keio Soccerites Vanquish Bunrika By 6 Goals To 2

Despite the game efforts of the Bunrika University players, Keio, national champions, triumphed 6 goals to 2 in their game of the first division of the Kanto University Soccer league Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Brilliant passing was the outstanding feature that won for Keio.

With Harima as pivot man, Keio's forwards swept down the field and Left Wing Inomata scored on a cross shoot at 7 minutes. Then at 14 minutes, fast dribbling by Harima carried the ball into Bunrika territory. As Right Back Matsuura of Bunrika attempted to check a Keio shot for the goal, the ball caromed against Inomata and split the goal posts for the second goal.

Bunrika tried desperately for a goal and with a fast running attack, stormed the Keio line on several occasion but were unable to tally. As a matter of fact, the players forgot their defense and with Harima again leading the attack, Keio worked the ball down with a clear field and Ninomiya headed in a goal for a Keio lead of three goals at 35 minutes. With 5 minutes to go before the interval, Bunrika scored on a penalty kick by Ogawa. Then a shoot from the right flank by Right Inside Kobayashi scored another for Bunrika in 42 minutes.

It appeared as if Bunrika had a chance against the national champions but the latter scored a lucky goal after 4 minutes of play in the second half to clinch victory. A corner kick by Inomata fell in front of the Bunrika goal. Left Back Mizuka attempted to boot it away to safety but the ball sailed into his own goal instead. This proved to be the turning point of the game as the Bunrika players never recovered from this bad stroke of luck during the rest of the afternoon. Keio, thoroughly encouraged, registered two more goals before the final whistle.

Temple Is Routed 28-6 By Passes Of T.C.U. Eleven

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7—Texas Christian University's famed aerial circus, with little Davey O'Brien replacing Sammy Baugh in the passing role, swamped Temple, 28 to 6, in an intersectional game tonight before 25,000.

Little Davey, a 150-pounder from Dallas, tossed a 28-yard forward to Don Looney almost as soon as the Texas got the ball, and in the second period proceeded to bewilder Temple's backfield as he flung three long forward passes that brought as many touchdowns.

The first, caught by Earle Clark covered 49 yards. The second and third, grabbed by Johnny Hall, covered 31 and 65 yards, respectively. O'Brien added the extra points from placement.

Little Davey left the game at the half, but Jack Odle took his place and proceeded to heave a 40-yard forward to Woodrow Duckworth that paved the way for another T. C. U. touchdown. Duckworth was downed on the Temple 8. On the third play thereafter Lacy McClanahan plunged over from the 6 inch mark.

Honochick Scores for Owls

Although woefully weak on pass defense, Temple rallied in the last period to score. Allen Nichols intercepted one of Odle's forwards on his 41 and raced to the visitors' 47. Albert Juralewicz, a substitute back, got loose for 18 yards around end, then tossed a forward to Nichols on the T. C. U. 1-yard mark. George Honochick went over on the next play.

Temple threatened several times in the first half, but O'Brien stopped the threats by intercepting two passes.

Strangely, Temple threw thirty forward passes to twenty for T. C. U. The Owls completed eleven for 146 yards. The Texans also completed eleven for 229 yards. Temple made fourteen first downs to eight and gained a net of 116 yards by rushing to seventy-nine.

Owls Send In Reserves

Six Temple substitutes came into the game at the start of the second. On the first play O'Brien passed to Clark on the Temple 49. Another O'Brien-Clark forward was good for a touchdown. O'Brien converted.

Shortly after the kick-off, Hale blocked Stevens's punt and Horner recovered for T. C. U. on the Temple 31. O'Brien heaved a forward to Hall, who raced across the goal line. O'Brien again converted.

Late in the period O'Brien intercepted a Temple pass on his 35 and, on the next play, heaved a 44-yard forward to Hall, who galloped 21 yards for a third T. C. U. score. O'Brien converted once more. Temple gained a first down on the Texans' 10 on a forward-pass interference but had lost five yards when the half ended.

The line-up:

Keio Smothers Bunrika Eleven

A goal by Keio, national soccer champions, after 30 minutes of play in the last half against Bunrika University Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Keio won 6 goals to 2.

Meiji Swamps Rikkyo Ruggers By 45-0 Count

Meiji University, strong contenders for the championship of the Kanto University Rugby league, ran roughshod over the Rikkyo University fifteen Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium by 45-0. The game followed the soccer tilt between Keio and Bunrika universities.

Meiji's forward line proved too powerful for the losers.

Meiji scored one try, three goals and one penalty goal in the first half to lead 21 to 0.

Both teams resorted to open plays and the game was far more interesting than the one-sided score might indicate off-hand.

The line-ups follow:

Meiji: Mori, Endo, Sakashita, Kashima, Yamamoto, Nabeka, Kurosawa and Niijima, forwards; Fuji and Wada, halfbacks; Takahashi, Sazawa, Horikawa and Nakagawa, three-quarters; and Kitano, fullback.

Rikkyo: Miyoshi, Nakahara, Yokoda, Okakura, Ibara, Enomoto, Katagiri, forwards; Nakayama, Takehisa, halfbacks; Michida, Kakiuchi, Yamamoto, Suzuki and Fujii, three-quarters; Ito, fullback.

Feller Sets Mark By Striking Out 18

N.Y. Times

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2—Bob Feller, young Cleveland marvel, enhanced his fame today, but the Indians bowed twice to the Tigers, 4 to 1 and 10 to 8.

Feller fanned eighteen batters in the opener to topple the major league record for strike-outs in one game, but couldn't pull the game out of the fire.

In 1937 Feller fanned seventeen Athletics to set an American League record and tie Dizzy Dean, who was then with the Cardinals, for the major league mark.

Feller's eighteenth victim today was Chet Laabs, who struck out for the fifth time in the ninth. He fanned Pete Fox twice, McCoy twice, Hank Greenberg twice, Tony Piet once, Mark Christman three times and his mound rival, Harry Eisenstat, three times.

Bob allowed seven hits, walked seven men and hit Piet. Detroit scored twice in the seventh on Greenberg's double, Roy Cullenbine's single and George Tebbetts's double. Two walks, a sacrifice and Christman's single gained the other two Detroit runs. There were two men on base when Feller fanned Laabs for strike-out No. 18. He disregarded the runners and pitched with a full wind-up.

Today's feat raised Feller's strike-out total for the season to 240, which leads both major leagues in that department, and gave him a margin of fifteen over Buck Newsom of the Browns, who fanned ten today for a total of 225.

Eisenstat held the Indians scoreless until the ninth of the opener, allowing only four hits.

Greenberg failed to hit a homer and finished the season with fifty-eight, two under Babe Ruth's mark.

Keio, Waseda Play Second Game Today

Rain postponed the second game between Keio and Waseda scheduled for Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Weather permitting, the two ball teams were to meet at 1 p.m. today at the same diamond.

While considerable interest has been taken away because of Waseda's 7 to 5 victory on Saturday, which gave the championship of the Tokyo Six University league to Meiji, the two teams nevertheless were expected to battle to the last out for it is the most widely talked about series in the country.

Keio won two straight in the Spring series.

Coach Lon Stagg Gives His Views On Football Game

STOCKTON, Calif., Oct. 6—The "immortal" football teams of 30 years ago would be a pushover for any good class B college team of 1938, declared Amos Alonzo Stagg, football's Grand Old Man who is enjoying his 49th year of coaching.

Considered the most imaginative contributor to the progress of football, Stagg has been head man of football at the College of Pacific since the University of Chicago considered him "too old" to coach and wanted to make him Emeritus Director of Athletics six years ago.

Nov. 12 he takes his team East for a game with Chicago. He has fond hopes his western team will be able to lick the university he coached for 41 years.

"Much as I love Chicago U." Stagg said, "I hope Pacific beats 'em and I'll tell my boys to play their darndest."

In Stagg's opinion the most progressive trend in current football is not the lateral pass, but the return to the old single wing-back.

When asked what he thought of football today, he grinned.

"Any good Class B college football team of 1938 could beat the 'immortal' football teams of 30 years ago by two touchdowns," he said. "The boys of today are bigger, stronger, faster and more agile athletes than the men who made up the squads of Old Yale, Princeton and Harvard.

"Thirty years ago, football was an exclusive sport for the few young men who could afford to go to college. Today it is the common man's sport and because more boys are playing it, it naturally must be better.

"In every department of the game, I can see a vast improvement. We have better passers today, better punters and more of them, although there may be a falling off in drop-kicking because that art is no longer so necessary in deciding the outcome of games."

The College of Pacific contest will be the "Home Coming Game" on Chicago's schedule, a tribute to Stagg.

Dodgers Vanquish Chicago Cardinals By 13 To 0 Score

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—Striking twice within a five-minute span, the Brooklyn Dodgers vanquished the Chicago Cardinals before 17,129 spectators at Ebbets Field yesterday, 13 to 0, and thereby vaulted into a three-way tie with New York and Philadelphia for second place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

Brooklyn marches were short and right to the point—the point behind the goal line. Beattie Feathers flashed over from the 2½-yard stripe for a touchdown right at the start of the second quarter to culminate a brief 30-yard drive. Then, nine plays later, Ace Parker passed laterally to Boyd Brumbaugh on the 5-yard marker and that rang the bell once again to finish a 14-yard advance. Ralph Kercheval added the first extra point but missed the second one.

Thus all the scoring of a wild-and-woolly game was compressed into a very compact segment of the fray. This engagement had about everything. It had passes galore by Chicago, four stabbing runs of more than 40 yards, a fist fight between Earl Nolan and Jim Whatley (no decision) and even one play when Brooklyn had twelve men on the field.

Shuts Down on Aerials

Chicago gave this battle its helter-skelter aspect. The Cardinals filled the air with passes, tossing 34 in all and completing only 14 of them. Brooklyn, of course, had to shut down on its aerial display when it stepped out in front, the Dodgers finally winding up with only nine forwards and completing just three of them for 25 yards.

The law of averages, if nothing else, gave the Cardinals a sizable figure in yardage although many of the completed passes went for one-yard gains and the like. Still Chicago managed to add enough together for 143 yards and a first down total of fifteen to Brooklyn's eight.

But there could be no doubt about the fact that Potsy Clark's young men were the better team. With Parker giving a superb performance in the backfield and Bruiser Kinard on the line, the Brooks were a far more rounded combination than the Cards.

Frankie Frisch, from force of habit, rooted for the Cardinals from a midfield box but his pleas were in vain. Chicago never got inside the Dodger 25-yard line. Its greatest advances were to the 25, the 32, the 32 again and the 27.

Hurled for Big Losses

But nothing seemed to work for the Midwesterners. When they drove 50 yards to the 25 in the third quarter, Parker intercepted a pass behind the goal line and romped 43 yards before he was finally stopped. Twice, when they went to the 32, Brooklyn tacklers hurled potential passers for huge losses and even when they reached the 27 they lost the ball on downs on the 34.

That Cardinal passing was something of a boomerang anyway. Kinard intercepted one toss and brought it 43 yards down the field to the 14 before he was knocked out of bounds. Three plays went no farther than the 5, and on the fourth down Parker passed to Brumbaugh, alone in the left flat. Pete Tyler missed an easy tackle and Brooklyn had a touchdown.

But before that the Dodgers had scored once on their own account. An exchange of kicks after Parker had booted one out of bounds on the 8 sent the Brooks under way at the 30. Brumbaugh, Feathers and Parker carried the ball on to the 5. The going was heavy but on the fourth down Feathers outraced every one on the corner in the identical Ernie Caddel play that Clark installed at Detroit.

Field Goal Try Wide

Brooklyn had only one other scoring chance and that was not too shining a one. Kercheval was wide in an attempted field goal from the 33, seconds before the first half ended. It was this play that wound up with Nolan and Whatley trading punches that did nothing but dent the air. And a play later, the last of the period, Brooklyn had a twelfth man of its own on the field. But the horn sounded and the officials chose to ignore it.

The line-up:

Jiro Yamagishi And Partner Win Match Easily

Jiro Yamagishi and Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University dropped only two games in eliminating Mizutsu and Yamada of Meiji in the second round of the doubles of the 17th annual national tennis championships Saturday at the Denyen courts. The score was 6-0, 6-0 and 6-2.

Fumiteru Nakano, Davis Cup player, and Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei had a tough battle on their hands in downing Miura and Washimi of Waseda. Matsumoto's smashing was ineffective for errors that made it tough going and Nakano also tended to be erratic. But greater experience pulled them through, a winner in five full sets 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, 7-9, 6-3.

Yamagata and Kusumoto of Keio scored the only upset of the day by eliminating Kimura and Taneda of Waseda. The latter appeared to lack in fighting spirit while the former was weak in volleying. The score was 7-5, 6-1 and 9-7.

Rained washed out all games scheduled for Sunday.

The results on Saturday were:

Yamagishi-Tsuruta (Keio) defeated Mizutsu-Yamada (Meiji), 6-0, 6-0 and 6-2.

Yamagata-Kusumoto (Keio) defeated Kimura-Taneda (Waseda), 7-5, 6-1, 9-7.

Kuramitsu-Okumura (Kansai University) defeated Matsuyama-Fuwa (Kyoto Imperial), 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

Tanaka-Takao (Waseda) defeated Nakamura-Sato (Keio), 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Nakano-Matsumoto (Hosei) defeated Miura-Washimi (Waseda), 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, 7-9, 6-3.

Ikujima-Yamagata (Kwansei Gakuin) defeated Kagitomi-Koshiyama (Keio), 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Matsuoka-Tamai (Keio) defeated Nakahara-Okuno (Waseda), 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Abe-Kawachi (Tomon) defeated Takahashi-Shiga (Rikkyo), 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

Shioda of the Nagoya Club defeated Imada of the Denyen club in the only match played in the first round of the singles for the men's veterans' championship. The score was 6-2, 6-8, 6-4.

Waseda Downs Keio Nine, 3-2 In 13 Innings

In a game that went to 13 innings, the last three of which was played in semi-darkness and which took the lengthy time of 3 hours 25 minutes, Waseda nosed out Keio, 3-2, Monday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium in what was undoubtedly the hardest fought tilt between the two rivals since the initiation of their series in 1925. It was a fitting close to the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league.

Both teams played above their heads, the infielders and outfielders, particularly the latter, pulling off spectacular plays throughout the afternoon. And there was grand pitching by the pitchers of both teams.

Waseda Scores Revenge

Waseda scored revenge of the double victories by Keio in the Spring season this year. The record now stands 28 victories for Waseda as against 23 for Keio. One game was called a tie.

Waseda threatened in the 11th and 12th, the first man singling and then sent to second on each occasion with a sacrifice, as darkness was fast falling over the field, and finally put over the winning run in the first half of the 13th. Shortstop Murase opened the inning with a hit to left. Kimura struck out as rain began to fall. Nagata walked on four straight pitches, the bespectacled Takagi of Keio who had been chucking great ball with the exception of the first when Waseda scored its two runs, apparently showing signs of tiring. Takasu grounded sharply to third. The ball bounced off Uno's chest and as the latter attempted to retrieve it, Murase bumped into him and all were safe. Keio charged the runner with interference, and rightfully as Uno had a possible chance of either throwing to second for a forced out or to first. The umpires conferred and called it an error, allowing Murase to reach third. The second piece of hard luck for Keio in the series, Pitcher Takagi quit in disgust and Right Hander Shiraki took over the pitching. Minamimura sent a foul fly down the right field line close to the fence. Right Fielder Mizuno should not have gone after it because there was a chance for a doubleplay to retire the side with the bases full, but went after it he did and he caught it, and Murase scored what proved to be the winning run easily from third. Kataoka popped to second to retire the side.

Ishiguro Pitches

Right Hander Ishiguro, who had pulled Waseda out of a tough hole in the eighth by doing some nice relief pitching, put everything on his fast ball that was most effective in the semi-darkness and struck out Haiyama, Odate and Inouye in a row to win the ball game.

Keio had a chance to win in the last half of the eleventh. The dark clouds over the field had made it difficult to follow the ball. Shortstop Odate singled to right after one out and stole second. Mizuno flied out to center but Takagi and Kawase both walked to fill the bags. Up came Captain Sakurai to bat. He had nicked Southpaw Matsui for a double in the third inning to bring in one of the two Keio runs in that frame and had singled sharply to right in the fourth off the same pitcher. He swung at the first pitch and met it squarely on the nose of his bat but Right Fielder Nagata made a spectacular running catch of it against the fence to check Keio's final bid for victory.

As it happened, Waseda really won the game in the first inning when Takagi had not yet been able to get his control. Murase popped to short but Kimura doubled to right. The latter was caught between third and second on Nagata's infield grounder. Takagi seemed out of danger but Takasu singled to left and Minamimura doubled against the fence in left center to bring in Nagata and Takasu.

Matsui's fast ball from the portside gave the Keio batsmen plenty of trouble but the latter tied the count in the third. Takagi walked. Kawase grounded to second but Shortstop Murase dropped Takasu's peg. Sakurai smashed the first pitch for a double through third to score Takagi, advancing Kawase to third. Miyazaki walked. Uno lifted a fly back of second. Honda grounded to short and Waseda attempted a doubleplay but Honda beat Takasu's throw to first and Kawase scored on the play.

Keio Threatens

Keio loaded the bags on three hits in the fourth but Miyazaki flied out to right for the last out.

Matsui hurled a tight ball since then, as did Takagi, but he gave up in the eighth when Honda and Haiyama lashed him for hits after one out. Ishiguro whose pitching had virtually won for Waseda on Saturday, retired Odate on a fly to center and Miyoshi's scintillating fielding threw Kusumoto out at first.

Meiji Wins "Big Six" Title

Tsuruoka Wins Batting Honors In Varsity Loop

Both Captain Kiyoshi Takasu of Waseda and Chikaki Honda, veteran left fielder of Keio, garnered only one hit apiece in six trips to the plate in Monday's game at the Meiji Shrine stadium and Kazuto Tsuruoka, Hosei third baseman, won the individual batting honors of the Fall season of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league. He banged out 13 hits out of 35 times at bat in 10 games for a .371 mark. He will be graduated next Spring.

Lashing two hits out of three times at bat in Saturday's first game between Keio and Waseda, Takasu had forged into the lead with a .375 mark. Honda, who had been leading up to Saturday's game with a .407 mark, failed to get a hit out of three hits on Saturday to shoot down into third place with a .367 average. As it was, both players had a chance on Monday but each registered only one apiece in the tilt that went to 13 innings and shooting up their times at bat.

Hayafusa Saigo, Rikkyo pitcher, finished second in the standings with a .360 mark, the result of nine hits out of 25 times at bat.

Honda and Takasu tied for third place with a .333 mark. Honda lashed out 12 hits out of 36 times at bat while Takasu got 10 hits out of 30 times at bat.

Detroit Defeats Catholic U., 27-0

DETROIT, Oct. 7—Swept aside by a brilliant University of Detroit passing attack in the opening period, Catholic University never recovered and went down to defeat, 27 to 0, tonight in an intersectional football encounter witnessed by a crowd of 20,000.

With Ed Palumbo, pass-throwing halfback, as the spearhead, Detroit needed only six plays after the kickoff to score. Palumbo tossed a 7-yard aerial to Jack Halpin in the end zone for the tally. Five minutes later Palumbo set up another Detroit tally by returning a punt 47 yards through a broken field to the Catholic 8. He then passed to Jack Charbeneau in the end zone.

Detroit substitutes played the second and fourth periods, but only in the latter quarter was Catholic able to stop the attack.

Catholic made fourteen first downs to Detroit's thirteen. The Washington team had a net loss of 2 yards from rushing, but gained 158 yards by passing, most of the completed aerials coming late in the game. Detroit gained a net 175 yards by rushing and 129 yards through the air.

Marquette Stops S.M.U. At Chicago

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—An alert and fast-charging Marquette eleven broke up Southern Methodist's famed aerial attack tonight at Soldier Field, then converted a blocked punt into a surprise 7-to-0 triumph before a crowd of 25,000.

The touchdown came with six minutes of the game remaining. Ray Mallouf, Southern Methodist's star sophomore halfback, attempted to punt after a Mustang drive had bogged down on the S. M. U. 49. Benny Vosberg, one of the seven sophomores in the Marquette starting line-up, broke through to block the kick. Bill Burke picked it up and ran to the 16 before Mallouf caught him.

Norm Woods, another sophomore, passed to Don Vosberg on the 4, then passed again to Larry Leysenaar for the touchdown. Dan Koster place-kicked the extra point.

Southern Methodist quickly tried the air. Mallouf passed 30 yards to Dan Patterson and to Bill Dewell for 17 more, placing the ball on the Marquette 17, but Marquette held.

The Mustangs made nine first downs to Marquette's five and threw thirty-three passes, twelve of them completed. But after the first period, Marquette's line, led by Ray Apolskis, another sophomore, held command.

The line-up:

Michigan Victor, 14-0, Over Rivals Before 82,500

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 1—The University of Michigan hit the football comeback trail today by vanquishing Michigan State, 14 to 0, in a fiercely contested struggle before 82,500 fans.

Michigan partisans hailed the victory, achieved through touchdown marches in the second and fourth periods, as the end of four years of groping in the gridiron wilderness.

Paul Kromer, 15-year-old sophomore halfback from Lorain, Ohio, scored both touchdowns on line plunges to crown with success Coach Herbert Orrin (Fritz) Crisler's debut as Michigan coach.

Conservative Football Wins

Crisler was reported to have discarded the "pass, punt and prayer" system that kept Michigan at the football heights for years, but in the final analysis it was that same sound, conservative style of play that gave Michigan its first victory over its State rival since 1933.

The game was decided in the line, with Michigan's veterans presenting a stone wall that forced State to take to the air.

Intercepted passes set off both Michigan touchdown drives. Fred Trosko, veteran Wolverine halfback, snared a pass from Johnny Pingel, State's ace back, on Michigan's 47-yard line late in the first period and ran to State's 47.

Valek Makes Good

A fourth-down pass, Kromer to Valek, gave Michigan a first down on State's 10 in the second period, and on fourth down Kromer plunged over from 2 yards out. Valek place-kicked the extra point.

Late in the game Norman Purucker, Michigan halfback, stopped a desperate Spartan drive by intercepting Pingel's pass on the Wolverine 15 and running to the 25. With Purucker, Trosko and Wally Hook, another veteran, gaining consistently, the Wolverines swept to State's 2. Then Kromer plunged over and added the point, picking up the ball as Valek's placekick was blocked and running around his right end.

The line-up:

Abe Eliminated By Waseda Star In National Play

Tamio Abe, captain of this year's Davis Cup team, went down to defeat at the hands of Yasu Kimura, rising star of Waseda University, for a major upset in the third round of the singles of the 17th annual national tennis championships Monday at the Denyen courts.

Abe was unable to fathom the slow bounding balls that came off Kimura's racquet and was downed taking only one set. The score was: 6-2, 6-1, 6-8 and 6-2.

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, eliminated Nakahara of Waseda in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-2 and 6-4.

Fujikura of Keio, who had eliminated Yasumine Kuramitsu, Davis Cup player, in the second round, lost out to Yamagata of Keio, after a match that went to the five full sets. Team-mates, each knew the other's weakness, and it was a battle royal all the way through. The score was: 2-6, 6-2, 12-10, 2-6, 6-3.

The results were:

Yamagishi (Keio) defeated Nakahara (Waseda), 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Matsuoka (Keio) defeated Ikujima (Kwansei Gakuin), 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.

Tsuruta (Keio) defeated Kodera (Nagasaki Higher Commercial), 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

Matsumoto (Hosei) defeated Tanaka (Waseda), 8-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Nakano (Hosei) defeated Yasukawa (Tokyo Imperial), 6-4, 6-4, 8-10, 6-0.

Kimura (Waseda) defeated Abe (Tomon Club), 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

Takakusu (Koshien Club) defeated Taneda (Waseda), 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.

Yamagata (Keio) defeated Fujikura (Keio), 2-6, 6-2, 12-10, 2-6, 6-3.

Tulane Team Held To Scoreless Tie

N.Y. Times

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1—A scoreless tie for the third straight year was the story of the annual football duel between the Auburn Plainsmen and Tulane Green Wave today.

Only by presenting a line-up marvelously improved over its weak and unorganized play of the opening game last week, when Clemson won, 13-16, was Tulane able to hold Auburn to the traditional tie. In four years Tulane has not scored on Auburn, whose Plainsmen have been equally kind since plastering the Wave with a 10-0 defeat three years ago.

Plenty of Punting

For the most part today's game was an exchange of punts, the Auburn pair of Kelly and O'Gwynne having an edge over the Tulane boomers.

There were several set-ups from which scores might have developed but there was only one which had the crowd of 13,000 standing in expectation.

Starting the third period Bronco Brunner, Tulane left halfback, took the kick-off on his own goal line and fought his way 85 yards to Auburn's 15. He received excellent blocking on the first part of his thrilling jaunt but wriggled and made the last half of his journey unattended except by the lone Auburn man who finally dragged him down.

Auburn Holds for Downs

Auburn held for downs and thereafter there was nothing to thrill the sweating spectators except a few futile dashes, some forward passes which did not click and the punting.

Kelly, O'Gwynne, McGowen, Mimms and Walker stood out for Auburn.

Close Scores Mark Games As British Hockey Starts

Observer

LONDON, Oct. 9—Allowing for the fact that they were not strongly represented, and also lost a player injured in the second half, Beckenham gained a good victory over the Aldershot Command by 2—1 at Beckenham yesterday. The play was fast, though it was continued in incessant rain in the last half hour. A feature of the match was the constructive play of Cranston, at right halfback for Beckenham. He has seldom shown greater cleverness, while Paterson, the home goalkeeper, also acquitted himself well. Golder, at back, and Kerr, at outside-right, were in form for the Command, who were speedy on the ball. Garthwaite hit both goals for Beckenham, and the inside right for the Command.

A draw of 2—2 resulted in the meeting of Wimbledon and Southgate at Wimbledon Park. The play was somewhat drab in the first half, but it livened up considerably in the last thirty minutes. Two goals by Strachan for Wimbledon placed his side ahead at the change of ends, but Southgate, although losing Spencer, their center-half, through an accident, fought back with great heart, and succeeded in drawing level through Wonnacott and Haycraft, the latter putting in a grand shot to beat Gove, the home goalkeeper. The slipperiness of the turf rather slowed up the game, but the rival defenses worked tremendously hard. Both Wonnacott, for Southgate, and Strachan for Wimbledon, were seen to advantage in their attacks.

Spencer beat Tulse Hill at Kent House by 3—2 and were rather the more adaptable side in the second half. Tulse Hill scored in the first five minutes by Clayton, but Spencer equalized by Gregory, and then Woolley scored to give Spencer the lead. After crossing over, Tulse Hill put on an equalizing goal by Rothwell, but Gregory obtained the winning goal ten minutes from the end. For Spencer Ritchie was a hard worker at center-half, as was Gale at right-half, with Woolley always quick in the attack.

Chances Missed

On the run of the play Richmond just about deserved to beat Mid-Surrey by 1—0 at Richmond. It was rather by virtue of improved combination, as, when the Richmond forwards got moving, they revealed clever tactics in their passing. Mid-Surrey's forwards had one or two favorable chances to score, but failed to take them, and the cohesion left something to be desired. Beaumont and Cavalier, the Richmond backs, were smart in their tackling and judicious in their clearances. The international player, Rowan, for Mid-Surrey, was ever a thorn in side of the Richmond attack. Markes hit the only goal in the first half.

Teddington and the Old Kingstonians played a drawn game at Bushey Park, each side scoring three times. East play in the first half brought no advantage to either team, and play degenerated and was scrappy in the second period. The Old Boys combined usefully, and their defense was sound. Although Teddington started promisingly they deteriorated, and often their defense was shakey under stress of keen attacks. Brown, Buckner, and Lindsay were prominent for Teddington, and Chambers, Groves, and Muncaster were outstanding for the Kingstonians. Buckner (2) and Lindsay scored for Teddington, and Muncaster, Chambers, and Scott for the Old Boys.

Some fast and strenuous play was seen in the game between Dulwich and Cheam at Herne Hill, which the latter club won 3—2. The first half was noticeable for the grim duel between the Dulwich defense and the Cheam forwards. While the visitors had rather more of the exchanges in the first half, play was more even in the second half. Had the home forwards been surer in their shooting they might well have had a different result. Dennis, the Dulwich goalkeeper, shaped with confidence, and Cheam's leftwinger, R. Freeman, put in some effective play. Norman (2) and W. F. Freeman got through for Cheam, and Parsons put on both goals for Dulwich.

In losing to Bromley, at Chingford, by only 2—0 the Old Felstedians must be said to have accomplished a fine performance. In the play during the first half the Old Boys proved slightly superior, and Keep twice narrowly missed scoring. Bromley gained a goal immediately on the resumption, as Waddams broke away from the bully-off and hit a quick goal to be shortly followed by a second from Lythe. Subsequently, keen defensive play on both sides prevented further scoring.

Surprise for Blackheath

A big surprise awaited Blackheath on their own ground when the N.P. Bank gained a decisive victory by 7—2. After Blackheath had enjoyed most of the attacking the game took a sudden turn. By really skilful hockey the Bank team put on three goals to cross over 3—1. Then in the second half the visiting halves and forwards attacked vigorously, and four further goals were registered, Penn, the international player, shooting six in the match. Perhaps the score does not actually represent the run of the play, but the Bank forwards were in grand form, Penn's display being brilliant and clever. Robinson hit the remaining goal for the Bank, and Robins had both goals for Blackheath.

In view of the past record of the Hawks, the Old Cranleighans did not perform at all badly in losing by 4—2 to them at Thames Ditton. It was a fast game, with the Hawks showing that additional quickness on the ball in the first half which gave them a definite advantage over their opponents, though the Old Boys were not specially favored to lead 2—1 at the change of ends. Yet when the second half was played the greater speed and dash of the Hawks enabled them to overrun the Old Boys' defense, and they put on three goals. There was cleverness in the work of the Hawks' forwards, who scored by Bell (2), H. Gould, and Ball, while Clifford and Coggan hit the goals for the Old Cranleighan.

Lloyds Bank and the Metropolitan Police drew 3—3 at New Beckenham. Territorially, there was little to choose in the first half, but the Police forwards were more dangerous and more thrusting than their opponents. O'Connor put in some really excellent play, though well held by Baylis at right-half. Being in arrears of 3—1 on the change of ends, Lloyds improved, and were much quicker in their passing. Gardner, for the Police, was rather subdued by the Bank's defense, though he worked hard. Roy, Spong, Souster scored for the Bank, and Abbott (2) and Gardner hit goals for the Police.

Scoring two early goals against Barclays Bank, at Norbury, Westminster Bank maintained their advantage in spite of gallant efforts of Barclays to reduce the arrears against them. Returning to center half for Westminster, Baker played up to his customary form. Miller was a sound back for Barclays. Whitbread and Ireland scored the goals for Westminster.

Hampstead and Purley played a drawn game at Richmond, each side scoring one goal, by Whitby for the home team, and by Taylor for Purley. It was a fast game, with Hampstead doing most of the attacking. Watson and Howard Taylor were most prominent for Purley. In the Hampstead defense Pickering and I. M. Milsted were hard working, and Palmer was a thrustful froward.

Rutgers Topples Vermont By 15-14

N.Y. Times

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 1.—By forcing a safety in the last period when it trailed, 14 to 13, Rutgers triumphed today over a fighting University of Vermont eleven, 15 to 14, in the most exciting game seen on Neilson Field in years. Eight thousand fans saw the Scarlet win when Doug Hotchkiss, center, blocked Pike Trigilio's punt from behind the Vermont goal line.

Rutgers dominated the play in the opening period, driving to the one-yard line early in the session, only to be turned back by a stubborn Catamount line. Five minutes before the quarter ended, Trigilio punted out on the Vermont 39. Interspersing passes and laterals with a running game, the Scarlet advanced the ball to the Vermont 13-yard mark. From here Art Gotlieb threw a pass to John (Moon) Mullen in the flat and the latter crossed the Vermont goal line standing up. Big Bill Tranavitch's try for the extra point failed and the quarter ended two minutes later with Rutgers leading, 6-to-0.

Loses Ball on Downs

As the second period opened the Scarlet put on another drive, carrying from the Rutgers 30 to the Vermont 10, where it lost the ball on downs. Frank Taylor hit right tackle for one yard, and then brought the crowd to its feet as he skirted his right end and outraced the Rutgers secondary to score after an 89-yard dash. His place kick for the extra point was good and Vermont went ahead. The half ended five minutes later.

Shortly after the second half opened, Rutgers took possesion on its own 37 and, in a drive featured by a 37-yard run by Tranavitch, and another of 20 yards by Mullen, scored when Tranavitch plunged through center from the 3-yard mark. Len Cooke's placement was good and Rutgers led, 13 to 7. Only eight plays later, Trigilio intercepted Tranavitch's pass and raced 63 yards to tie the score. Taylor again made good from placement to give Vermont a 14-13 advantage when the third period ended.

Vermont Recovers Fumble

In the final quarter a pass from Gottlieb to Mullen carried from the Vermont 40 to the 8-yard mark. Here Tranavitch fumbled and Vermonth recovered on its own 1-yard line. Trigilio dropped back to kick from behind his goal line and Hotchkiss and Harvey rushed him. The former blocked the kick to give Rutgers 2 points and the game.

The Scarlet had a big edge in the statistics, making 18 first downs to 1 for Vermont, and gaining 180 yards by rushing, as against 98 for the Catamounts. It was the Scarlet passing game, however, with Mullen starring both as a passer and receiver, that gave Rutgers its advantage. The victors completed 14 out of 23 passes for a gain of 152 yards. Vermont gained nothing through the air.

Kubota Wins Kanto Amateur Golf Title

Mizuho Kubota of the Fujisawa Golf Club won the Kanto amateur championship by defeating Tamotsu Usami of the Takanodai Club, 10 and 9, in the final 36-hole match play Tuesday at the Abiko course.

While Kubota was a heavy favorite, Usami shot good golf and was only one down going out and then two down coming in to be three down in the morning round. Kubota was much too good for his opponent in the afternoon. The match came to an end when he took the ninth hole going out with a par 4.

New Yorkers Top Washington Pro Eleven, 10-7

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—The magic in the trusty right arm of big Ed Danowski was more than a match for the pitching cleverness of Slingin' Sammy Baugh today as the Giants rode the airways in a rousing last-quarter comeback to topple the Washington Redskins, 10 to 7, before a record crowd of 37,500 in Griffith Stadium.

Apparently hopelessly beaten, their attack stymied by the brulsing bulk of the Redskin line and on the verge of being eliminated from the National Football League's Eastern Division race, the pupils of Stout Steve Owen suddenly clicked with a spectacular 74-yard drive that dropped Washington into a first place tie with Brooklyn and lifted the Giants from the cellar into a third place deadlock with Philadelphia.

The New Yorkers knew they had to win. They went on the gridiron before a hysterical overflow crowd with grim determination stamped on every face. And strangely enough, this almost brought about their downfall. They were too tense and too constrained never relaxing until it almost was too late.

Lead Appears Safe

A 17-yard field goal by Ward Cuff in the first three minutes gave the Giants the jump but Washington fled 54 yards in three plays in the second quarter to take a lead that seemed as safe as the Federal Reserve Bank. The Maramen could do nothing further until the final quarter.

But they atoned for all mistakes, all their uncertainty and all their jitters. Stout Steve found his best backfield combination after almost fifty minutes of constant shuffling and experimentation. Danowski, Cuff, Hank Soar and Leland Shaffer gave the New Yorkers fire and drive, the line hit savagely and every man did his job well.

Four times in this stirring rally, Danowski dropped back to pass. Once he hit Jim Poole for 34 yards. Twice he whisked the ball into the arms of Soar for short but important gains and then he almost knocked Jim Lee Howell over the goal line with a bullet peg for an 18-yard gain and the touchdown.

Soar ran well and hard, tightening the Washington defense for Fordham Ed to spread again. This was a beautifully functioning machine, realizing on its full potentialties at last.

The play that won was a perfect one that gave just the right touch to a splendid march. With the ball on the Redskin 18, Danowski faded back to his 25, coolly looked over the situation and found his target.

Howell, 6 feet 6 inches was standing on the goal line, facing the play and all alone. Danowski rifled the ball into his arms as Jim Lee fell backward. Cuff added the extra point.

Freshman End Scores

For the Washington touchdown, Baugh passed to Andy Farkas for seven yards. Farkas picked up seven more off tackle and then Slingin' Sammy whirled a floater down the middle alley. Bob Masterson was racing down the field with Tuffy Leemans in hot pursuit, but the freshman end from Miami took the ball on the dead run on the 13 and continued for the touchdown. He also kicked the extra point.

At the start Max Krause fumbled the kickoff and Will Walls recovered on the 25. The Giants went to the 8, found the Redskin line too tough after Walls had dropped a Danowski pass while alone in the end zone and Cuff booted his fifth field goal of the year.

This was a teeth-rattling game in the line. The Redskin titans, with Turk Edwards and Jim Barber doing most of the damage, were terrific. For the Giants Jim Poole, Ray Hanken and Howell were great ends and Ed Widseth the magnificent tackle he always is. Kayo Lunday and Mel Hein, a sixty-minute man, were towers of strength backing the line.

Most of the Redskins' gains were in their territory. Once they passed that midfield stripe the Giants tightened perceptibly, as the 32 was the closest approach outside of the touchdown march.

In the passing duel Danowski completed eleven of twenty-one and Baugh six of fifteen, with two tosses intercepted.

Nakajima Clouts Two Homers For 11th In Season

Burly Right Fielder Nakajima of the Tokyo Giants clouted two homers to aid his team to a 15-8 victory over the Senators in the doubleheader of the professional baseball league Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium. It brought his total of home runs to 11 for the season and a new record in the circuit.

Nakajima also lashed out a double and a single in five trips to the plate. He is presently leading the race for the individual batting honors with a .395 mark, the result of 49 hits out of 124 times at bat in 29 games.

Sato of the Senators also registered a homer during the game.

Three homers marked the other game between the Hankyus and Nagoya which the latter won, 5-3. They were by Kuroda and Yamashita of the Hankyus and Kuramoto of Nagoya.

Yamashita's homer deadlocked the count at 3-all in the first half of the eighth. But Nagoya rallied in its portion of the same inning to win. Osawa singled and Kuramoto lifted one into the right field bleachers to clinch victory.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

Sailing Vessel Wrecked In Absolutely Clear Weather

The Daniel Barnes encountered one of the strangest disasters in maritime history, when it was wrecked on the Island of Lombok, Allass Strait, Dutch Archipelago, on December 13, 1898. The vessel was commanded by Captain Otto C. Arpe of Kennebunkport, Maine. The sea was calm. The weather perfect. All sails and running gear were in perfect order. There was perfect order among officers and crew. There was no explosion, no collision. The captain knew his ship's position almost to the inch—yet the ship was wrecked. Captain Arpe explains that the ship was becalmed and drifted on the rocks. The crew struggled without sleep for 72 hours to prevent the disaster.

Notre Dame Swamps Kansas, 52-0, With Sensational Running Attack

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 1—Notre Dame's fifty-first football team, sparked by a classy sophomore and powered by almost a score of hard-running ball carriers, rolled over Kansas today, 52 to 0.

Opening their second half-century of football, the Ramblers scored in every period to rout the Jayhawks and give promise of producing one of the strongest running games in recent Notre Dame gridiron history.

Something of a rarity in the Notre Dame system, a first-year player played a stellar role in the triumph. Bob Saggau of Denison, Iowa, six-foot sophomore, broke away for the longest touchdown run of the afternoon—51 yards—and otherwise gave a brilliant account of himself.

Miller Star for Losers

The Kansans, unable to crack the strong Rambler forward wall, relied largely on passes, and in Sophomore Ralph Miller they had a tosser of high caliber. In the final period two aerials carried Kansas to the Notre Dame 14 for the Jayhawks best scoring bid, but an intercepted pass ruined that opportunity. It was the fourth and final time during the game that Kansas advanced past midfield. Notre Dame, at the time, was using the last of about eighty men.

Tonelli, on a six-yard dash around end, scored the first touchdown midway through the first period. In the second, Ben Sheridan, speedy reserve back, reeled off 30 yards to score, after which Ed Simonich crashed 11 yards through center for another marker.

The third period saw Lou Zontini go 25 yards for a touchdown and Harry Stevenson pass 30 yards to Earl Brown for the fifth score. Before the stanza was over, Sheridan tore 13 yards off tackle for a touchdown on a particularly brilliant reverse.

Scores on 6-Yard Plunge

On the second play of the last period, Saggau broke away for his 51-yard scoring jaunt, with the final touchdown being turned in by Nilt Piepul on a six-yard plunge.

The Ramblers, in opening their difficult nine-game schedule, piled up 392 yards by rushing, with a fast charging line playing well both on defense and offense.

Miller's accurate passing completed seven of twenty-four aerial attempts and only an alert Notre Dame secondary prevented a higher number of completions for the Kansans.

Pitt Ground Plays Win Against Temple, 28-6

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1—With an awesome display of that power for which it is famous, Pittsburgh ran roughshod over Temple before the startled gaze of 41,728 spectators in the Temple Stadium today and crushed the Owls, 28 to 6. There was just nothing to it.

The Panther varsity uncovered its so-called "dream backfield," and to the red-jerseyed home forces it resembled a nightmare much more a mere dream. Three times the first-stringers had possession of the ball and three times they swept to touchdowns. They saw action for only the first and third quarters and used only four simple plays.

What made this explosive onslaught all the more remarkable was that only once during the game did the Panthers throw a forward pass. Temple used a five-man line with four backers-up and switched occasionlly to a six-man line with three backers-up, but whichever it was it amounted to a solid nine-man wall.

And Still Temple Fell

No tighter defense could be devised than this. Yet Pitt riddled it at will without having an aerial attack to weaken the massed forces ahead of it. The way that backfield of Dick Cassiano, Curly Stebbins, John Chickerneo and Mad Marshall Goldberg performed had to be seen to be believed.

They slashed away at the tackles, swept the ends, ripped off long distances on reverses and pummeled the middle on straight bucks. There was nothing fancy on display. It was all power.

Right at the start the pupils of Dr. John Bain Sutherland blocked a punt and had the ball for the first time on the Temple 29. In six plays Pitt tallied as Cassiano, with a terrific burst of speed, swept wide from the 10-yard line for a touchdown. Bill Daddio kicked the extra point and the Panthers had a 7-0 lead before the fray was five minutes old.

When Pitt had the ball again, it was a steady 79-yard pounding along the ground that supplied another marker. Again Cassiano fled furiously to his right from the 10 for touchdown No. 2. Daddio obliged once more and then the varsity gave the field to the reserves.

They did nothing, so the first team came back after half-time intermission, took the kick-off and surged 63 yards along the ground to a third touchdown, Goldberg cracking over from the 2. Again Daddio added the point.

The second team returned for the final quarter, only to watch Temple passes fly over their heads for 49 yards in six plays, the last of these being good for 22 yards and the only Owl points of the afternoon, Mike Lucac snatching a toss from John Berrier for the tally.

But the reserves at least had the fortitude to match that, and more. An exchange of kicks gained 51 yards for Pitt and the Panthers were off from the Temple 19. On the fourth play Emil Naric swept 14 yards for the last touchdown. When Larry Peace converted, the third-stringers came in and held the fort till the end.

Pittsburgh's varsity was simply terrific. It seemed a physical impossibility for any team to get as many blockers ahead of the ball as these Panthers did. Blue waves cut down everything in sight, Chickerneo and Goldberg in particular blocking out Temple tacklers.

The starting quartet carried the ball 36 times and gained 195 yards. On defense it let the Owls past midfield only once as it smothered the fancy double wingback and the new double punt formations that Pop Warner had on display.

Temple's passing was exceptionally effective, especially against the second and third teams. That the Owls made more first downs than Pittsburgh was due entirely to this. But that Pitt varsity! It looks like the best Panther team of recent years.

The line-up:

Hopman Sets Back Budge, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1

N.Y. Times

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 9—Harry Hopman, non-playing captain of the Australian Davis Cup team, eliminated J. Donald Budge of Oakland in a quarter-final round match of the Pacific Coast tennis tournament today, 6—2, 5—7, 6—1.

Hopman had the second set at match point three times, leading by 5 to 3. The final set was a walkaway for Hopman, who played an excellent game, while the world champion was erratic.

In another quarter-final match John Bromwich, Australian Davis Cup star, bowed to Jack Tidball of Los Angeles. The Californian won by 6—3, 6—4. Roberts Riggs of Chicago, member of the United States cup team, also advanced to the semi-finals by stopping Franjo Kukuljevic of Yugoslava, 6—4, 9—7.

Mme. Simone Mathieu of France entered the final round of the women's singles with a 6—1, 6—1 victory over Mrs. Harry Hopman. In the men's doubles, Bromwich and Adrian Quist of Australia gained the last round, turning back Charles Hare of England and Riggs, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

In a third-round mixed doubles encounter Miss Nancye Wynne and Quist of Australia conquered Mrs. Edison Holt of San Francisco and Robert Mouyet of Belgium, 7—5, 6—2.

Minnesota Beats Nebraska, 16 To 7 As 47,000 Look On

N.Y. Times

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—A powerhouse Minnesota outfit thundered over Nebraska's Cornhuskers today, winning by 16 to 7, mainly through a blasting first-half drive that netted two touchdowns.

Forty-seven thousand persons saw the Golden Gophers spoil Coach Biff Jones' record of not having lost a season's opener.

The Cornhuskers battled desperately, but they managed to score only through a spectacular play that saw Halfback Jack Dodd grab a third-quarter Minnesota fumble and race 91 yards for a touchdown.

It was too much smashing power that Minnesota produced right at the start that settled the contest. In seven plays Coach Bernie Bierman's Big Ten champions ripped through for the first score three minutes after the kick-off, with Wilbur Moore slashing nine yards around end over the goal.

Again Leads Parade

Moore, who paced Minnesota to a 15-to-0 victory over Washington's Huskies last week, again led the parade and was a big factor in the fifteen first downs registered to four for Nebraska. His fourth-quarter pass interception spoiled a Cornhusker scoring threat.

With his regular key back, Harold Van Every, out of the game, Bierman used his heavyweights to pound through for tremendous yardage, gaining more than six times as much ground as Nebraska.

He shifted the 210-pound fullback, Larry Buhler, to right half, Moore to left and used Marty Christiansen at full, with George Faust, a 195-pound quarterback, rounding out a devastating attack that blasted the Cornhuskers to bits in the first half, which ended with the score 14 to 0 for Minnesota.

The Gopher line shattered the Cornhuskers' offense so badly that they went into the fourth quarter with only two first downs to their credit.

Going into the second period with a 7-to-0 lead, Minnesota through a pass interception started from Nebraska's 47. It finally was first down on the Nebraska 9 and in two quick thrusts halfback George Franck shot over for the second score. The half ended with Minnesota on the Cornhuskers' 5.

Dodd Keeps Going

Minnesota was again pounding at the Cornhuskers' goal shortly after the second half opened, when Jack Dodd snatched a fumble on the Nebraska 9-yard line. Christiansen caught up with Dodd on Minnesota's 35 but in a brilliant, twisting dash, the fleet halfback out-maneuvered him, eluding Christy's final, futile dive on the Minnesota 10.

Early in the fourth period, Nebraska stopped a Minnesota drive on its 16 and took the ball. Then Butch Nash, Minnesota's right end, threw Dodd for a 9-yard loss. Porter tried a shovel pass to Dodd, who fumbled the ball. It was downed back of the goal for a safety, making the score 16 to 7.

Minnesota was on the Cornhuskers' 12 as the game ended.

The line-up:

Pos.	Minnesota (16)	Nebraska (7)
L.E.	Mariucci	Kahler
L.G.	Pederson	Dobson
L.T.	Bell	Mills
C.	Elmer	Brock

Nakano Defeated By Yasu Kimura In Quarter-Finals

Yasu Kimura of Waseda University, 20th ranking player in 1937, scored a major upset in the quarter-finals in the singles of the 17th annual national tennis championships by eliminating Fumiteru Nakano, Davis Cup player Wednesday afternoon at the Denyen courts. The score was: 9-7, 6-4, 1-6, 3-6 and 6-4.

It was the second upset scored by the Waseda rising star for he already had beaten Tamio Abe, captain of the Davis Cup team.

Nakano Erratic

Kimura's drives lacked speed but he was all over the court and was consistently returning Nakano's attack. Like his Davis Cup colleagues, Abe and Yasumine Kuramitsu, the latter too having been eliminated, Nakano found trouble with the slow bounding balls and netted a bit too many to get into trouble from the outset of the match.

Kimura led 3-0 in the first set and Nakano worked it up to 5-all and then led at 6-5 but Kimura broke through his attack and finally ran through the set, 9-7. Kimura led again at 2-0 in the second set and Nakano rallied to 3-3 and 4-4 but Kimura took the set winning the next two games. Nakano resorted to a volleying attack in the third and won it easily 6-1. Kimura led 3-2 in the fourth set but Nakano took the next two games to make it two sets all.

Nakano was extremely careful in the fifth and deciding set but Kimura centered his attack on slow balls to the corners of Nakano's court to stop the latter from advancing to the net. Thus it was a battle between the two from the baseline with Kimura waiting patiently for Nakano's errors. His strategy succeeded and he took the set 6-4 to win.

Yamagishi Given Battle

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, was forced to extend himself for the first time in the tourney by Matsuoka, a team-mate from Keio University. The latter's backhand was especially working to perfection. The score was: 7-5, 6-3, 11-9.

Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio defeated Taken Matsumoto of Hosei University, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6 and 6-3.

Takakusu of the Koshien Club, eliminated Yamagata of Keio in the other match, 8-6, 6-0 and 6-2.

Furuta of the Nagoya Club won the singles title for the men's veterans competition by taking the measure of Minami of the same club, 6-1 and 6-2.

Mrs. Hara and Mrs. Oura of the Denyen Club eliminated Mrs. Hayakawa and Mrs. Ban of the same organization in the semi-finals of the women's doubles. The score was: 0-6, 6-2 and 6-1.

Misses Kimata and Hamada of the Koshien Club defeated Mrs. Kuwana and Miss Kondo of the Denyen Club, 6-2, 6-8 and 6-0, in the remaining quarter-finals match.

The results of the second round tilts in the women's singles follow:

Miss Kimata (Koshien) defeated Mrs. Oura (Green), 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Enotani (Nakamozu) defeated Mrs. Narukawa (Nagoya), 7-5, 6-3.

Miss Jun Kamo (Denyen) defeated Miss Hamada (Koshien), 6-0, 6-0.

Mrs. Tomonaga (Denyen) defeated Mrs. Kuwana (Denyen), 6-1, 6-2.

Snead Must Rank With Topnotchers Of Golfing World

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK.—With the northern golf season drawing to a bitter conclusion, Sam Snead, gangling White Sulphur Springs p[illegible]ional, was rapidly approaching [illegible]iche reserved for the Scottish pastime's immortals.

Still only 26 years old, "Slammin' Sammy," admittedly the longest driver the game has known, has proven to the golf world in the short space of two years that he deserves mention along with Harry Vardon, Ted Ray, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones.

In the past five years, the professionals, who barnstorm from tournament to championship from coast-to-coast have bemoaned the fact that making a living in that manner is reserved for the select few top-notchers. They have been right in their contention, for on the average, the leading money winner of the circuit has finished with somewhere between $6,000 and $8,000.

That was before the Snead era.

Sammy has changed all that—as far as he, himself, is concerned, but has added to the woes of the other "pay-for-play" golfers. So far this year, he has annexed a grand total of slightly over $17,000, which is well in advance of the former record set by Horton Smith.

Virtually in every major tournament, Sammy's name is either on top when the cards are counted up, or he is found within the first three.

Secret of his success? It is a combination of factors, starting with a perfect golfing temperament coupled with a strong, wiry physique.

Snead's long drive plays an important part in his consistently low scoring in medal play tournament. Occasionally, it is no help when playing a shorter driver, who sticks his second shots dead to the pin. But with further experience, Sammy will overcome this tendency toward pressing—slight, as it is—such as he showed when Paul Runyan took an 8 and 7 decision from him in the 1938 PGA finals.

With his all-around fine game and ability to surge from behind down the stretch in an important event, Snead has fashioned his game on the pattern of Bobby Jones, always a terror under pressure.

He follows up his tremendous driving with a deft putting touch, and is nearly perfect in recoveries from trouble. Golfing greats today predict an even greater future for the lanky youth, who came out of West Virginia's mountains to blaze his path across the fairways of the nation.

North China Cagers Beat All-Yokohama

The Chinese basketball team here on a goodwill mission from North China defeated an all-Yokohama team, 46 to 37, Wednesday afternoon at the Yokohama Park.

The score at half time was 20 to 18 in favor of the Yokohama quintet.

Fans Numerous But Real Fighters Few, Says Jacobs

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct.—There never was a time in the history of the ring when public interest in the fight game was as great as it is today.

Curiously enough, although there are more fighters than the game has ever known, there are fewer well-known boxers of real class than there ever were.

I say "well-known boxers" advisedly because there undoubtedly are many boys in the tank towns who need only the opportunity to show their stuff and a chance for a little development to make the headlines in the big cities.

You have only to scan the roster of fighters more or less well known to the public to discover how few boys of class there are.

After you mention Joe Louis, what other great heavyweight is there worthy of the name? Certainly not the Baers, Barlunds, Galentos, Pastors, Farrs, Novas or Lovells of the ring. Most of those wouldn't have been considered worthy sparring partners for Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney. And yet they are about the best we have.

The lightheavyweight ranks disclose the champion, John Henry Lewis, and possibly Jack Fox.

The middleweights have champion Al Hostak, a truly great fighter, Fred Apostoli and—and—well, you try to name some more.

The welters have champion Henry Armstrong, Ceferino Garcia, who may win the title, and Pedro Montanez.

The lightweights have the same Armstrong, Lou Ambers and perhaps Davey Day. The fact that Armstrong could hold the feather, lightweight and welter titles at one time is in itself a tip-off on the lack of class in at least two of those divisions.

The feathers, bantams and flyweights have many boys in process of development and at best the public no longer seems to care much about watching the little fellows in action.

Mike Jacobs, promoter of the 20th Century Club, is going to try to find a suitable opponent for Joe Louis by a series of heavyweight elimination battles.

He will have his hands full for every ham and bean fighter wants to meet Louis but the h. and b. fighters don't want to meet one another.

The hams figure they will be assured a good gate and lose no prestige even if knocked out by Louis. But no two hams want to meet each other for the dubious privilege of meeting Louis.

Jacobs has said that anybody who refuses to fight a worthy opponent will be automatically eliminated from further consideration and he is already taking steps to bring new faces into the game.

To an outsider it might appear that it would take years to bring along a new heavyweight fighter but experience teaches that fighters, especially heavyweights, are sometimes developed almost overnight.

Jim Jeffries won the title in his ninth fight. Stan Ketchel bloomed overnight and Jack Dempsey fought his way up in a hurry from Manassa, Colorado (see large maps).

Oxford Defeats Southgate, 2-1 In Hockey Game

London Observer

LONDON, Oct. 16—Oxford University opened their first term's engagements yesterday with a match against Southgate, and after a fast and even game they won by 2—1. The only goal scored in the first half was by Graham, who, with a nice reverse stick shot, caught the Southgate goalkeeper unawares. Halfway through the second half Oxford hit their second goal by Montgomery, who took a first time shot from a pass from the right wing. Before the end, however, Southgate, always keen and applying powerful pressure on the defense, reduced the arrears through Wonnacott. Oxford, for their first outing, certainly shaped confidently, and their forwards worked well together with Montgomery, the captain, an outstanding figure. Wright for Southgate, playing at half, was as clever as any other half on the field.

Cambridge Wins

In their first match Cambridge University beat Beckenham at Cambridge by 2—1, which was most encouraging. Cambridge showed good combination for an opening game. They were well served by their new recruits, in defense, especially C. L. Hawson in goal, R. M. Argyle at right-back, and D. N. Jackson at center-half. The Cambridge captain, P. R. Oliver, played cleverly at left-half, and Beckenham were equally well served by their back division, which included experienced international players such as Leeming, Cranston, and Fison. Flight-Lieutenant Sales hit the first goal for Beckenham after ten minutes, and Wakeling put Cambridge on even terms after thirty minutes. In a strenuous second half Wakeling obtained the winning goal just before the end, following a determined attack by the Cambridge forwards.

In a fast game Wimbledon defeated Bromley by 2—0 at Wimbledon Park. The play went up and down the field, and there was little to choose between the teams. Leading by a goal scored in the first half by Strachan, who is quite an opportunist in the circle, Wimbledon added the second by Powell in the later stages. There was more thrust amongst the Wimbledon front line, who had adequate support from their halves. The Bromley backs were very sure and steady when hard pressed. There was much hard hitting during the match, though there was also a certain amount of mishitting due to the state of the ground.

A drawn game resulted in the meeting of Spencer and Richmond, at Wandsworth, each side scoring three goals, by Bufton (2) and (2) and Pearmund for Richmond. Both teams suffered as far as shooting was concerned, as chances that looked favorable were missed, though the hockey was contested at a fast pace and each goal visited in turn. Both goalkeepers were frequently called upon, and each did well, if sometimes the clearances were somewhat fortunate. Wright, for Spencer, was prominent in a good defense, and Richmond's passing amongst the forwards was well timed, the combination being a feature.

Cheam Beaten

Cheam lost to the Old Felstedians, at Cheam, by 3—1. Though Cheam went strongly in the first half and scored by Williamson, and Keep for the Old Boys, there seemed to be much more life and dash shown by the latter in their attacking, and Cheam's defense was given many anxious periods. Keep, the Felstedians' center-forward, was always a continual worry and followed up rapidly. Truman, Cheam's leftback, tackled finely, though the home forwards were not particularly well together, nor were they as reliable as usual in their shooting.

Hounslow and Brondesbury beat Dulwich at Herne Hill by 2—1. Keith Smith obtaining both goals before the interval. Although taking control of the play in the first half, it was some time before Dulwich could really settle down. There was real improvement in the second half—when Perdriau scored. Yet the play was rather scrappy with little individual prominence.

Boston Bees Ask For Return Of 25-Player Limit

By JAMES W. BAGLEY

BOSTON.—A bitter battle to bring the national league back to the old 25-player limit at the Winter meeting of the national league is the intention of President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees.

Quinn's contention and argument against the present 23-player limit is the condition of the National League this season as the result of injuries that forced the clubs to use players in other departments than their own. Pointing out that some clubs were even forced to use outfielders as pitchers, Quinn said clubs in the National League because of the unusual amount of injuries that cropped up, this season were forced under the circumstances to resort to such measures.

The suggestion of President Quinn, that the league go back to the old limit seems to be a good one for since the new rule was adopted about five or six years ago, any club that has been hit by injuries has had tough sledding.

This season however, with the large amount of injuries that hit clubs left them handicapped, all seem to favor going back to the old 25-player limit.

So regardless of the expected opposition of certain league officials. It seems to be the opinion of the majority that when the 1939 major league season starts, the junior loop will be operating on the old basis of the 25-player limit. There is also the possibility that the American League will fall in line.

Yugoslav Star, Who Beat Budge, Is Visitor Here

One of the six players this year to have beaten J. Donald Budge of California, the first player in tennis history to win in the same year all four of the world's major tennis titles—the Australian, French, British and American, Franjo Kululjevic, Yugoslav Davis Cup player, arrived on the Tatsuta Maru Thursday afternoon and will appear in exhibitions during the week he will be here.

Accompanying the Yugoslav star was his wife and R. Mouvet, Belgian tennis star. They are scheduled to board the Empress of Asia on November 11 en route to Manila where the two players will compete.

According to present plans, the visiting stars were to go through a brisk workout in Tokyo this morning and then catch an afternoon train for the Kansai. After appearing in exhibition matches in Nagoya on Saturday and at the Koshien courts, near Osaka, on Sunday, they will return to Tokyo in time to play at the Yomiuri courts at Denyenchofu against Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano, Japanese Davis Cuppers, and other Japanese stars, on November 8.

Nakano is anxious to meet Kululjevic inasmuch as the two had met twice in Europe this year and the Yugoslav star had won on both occasions.

"I defeated Nakano twice in Europe but I can't say how a match with Yamagishi will turn out," Kululjevic told reporters Thursday on the ship's arrival.

Having been able to defeat Budge, who is a virtual barometer of tennis ability today, Kululjevic should be able to give Yamagishi a battle royal.

Mouvet, the son of a wealthy family, is not yet in the first ranks of tennis. He was eliminated in the first round of the recent American national championships.

Leicestershire, East Midlands Battle To Draw

London Times

LONDON, Oct. 14—Leicestershire and East Midlands played a drawn game at Bedford yesterday, Leicestershire scoring a dropped goal, two penalty goals, and a try (13 points) to the two goals and a penalty goal (13 points) of their opponents.

Such is a bare statement of the result of a match whose last quarter of an hour contained as much excitement as one could normally ask for in two whole games. Leicestershire were on top throughout the first half, at which stage they led 10—0, and for a fair portion of the second period, but then the East Midlands really started. Their forwards got more of the ball and their backs started to do something constructive with it. V. J. Lyttle came inside J. G. Rogers and the chance seemed to work wonders. East Midlands drew level one minute from no-side by means of a penalty goal and if the efforts of the players in the last minute did not cause them heart failure, many of the spectators must have felt that they were liable to suffer such a calamity themselves. The match did not start until half-past 3, with the result that the play at the end was perhaps unnecessarily hard to follow.

The Leicestershire forwards did their job well in the first half. T.G. Ridgway, the hooker, ably performed his duty, though it must be mentioned that he was too often gratuitously and illegally aided by those around him. H. P. Jerwood was, as usual, always in the thick of it, and the back row were quickly up and among the East Midland backs. The three-quarter-back line continually gave promise of good things to come, but never quite achieved them. It would be hard and unjust to find fault with E. Watkin at fullback. The East Midlands forwards were a solid lot, and some of their storming tactics took a deal of stopping. Their three-quarter backs were at sea in the earlier part of the game, but once they realized the value of their left wing one felt that anything might happen. R. O. Baillon played a sound game at fullback.

A Good Penalty Kick

Leicestershire had the advantage of a downfield wind at the start, and in the first minute R. Ball darted through and very nearly scored in the right-hand corner. Leicestershire did score a few minutes later through a good left-footed penalty kick by S. F. Herbert from some way out, the ball hitting an upright and bouncing over. East M'dlands hit back, and two vigorous tackles by S. F. Herbert cut off Tyson when the latter was going strongly. The Leicestershire pack, with Jerwood in the van, brought some relief, but they were then penalized for obstruction. Watkin caught the kick and countered with a huge one of his own into the extreme left-hand corner, but Leicestershire could not score. But they did everything else until the ball came out well to A. R. Squibbs, who steadied himself and dropped a neat goal. Almost immediately afterwards S. F. Herbert appeared to have scored in his corner, but it was not to be. He went one better a few minutes later, however, when he followed up his own kick and went over for a try which Jerwood could not convert.

Leicestershire kept it up after the interval and went further ahead when S. F. Herbert scored another penalty goal. J. G. Cook had a number of chances to reciprocate from various angles and for various offences, but all his efforts failed. After some more Leicestershire attacks the East Midlands started to come into their own. Once Lyttle slipped up in swerving inwards when it looked as though he would score and a little later came the first part of his team's revival. G. S. Sturtridge cut through, J. O'B. Power and a forward backed him up and the latter hurled out a long pass to Lyttle, who raced round and scored a try which Cook converted. This was just the encouragement which the East Midlands needed and soon they had drawn nearer still. Rogers, flying along the left wing, found R. Smyth inside him, and a perfectly judged pass enabled the latter to score, near the posts, Cook again converting. With three points in it and five minutes to go there was everything to play for, and both sides responded to the situation. As it happened the equalizing score came from a penalty kicked by Cook. The closing minute was almost unbearably hectic, with Leicestershire pounding away on their opponents' line, but the East Midlands defense held firm.

The teams were:—

Leicestershire.—E. Watkin (Leicester), back; S. F. Herbert (Leicester), A. R. Squibbs (Leicester), W. G. Young (Leicester), and S. C. Wade (Hinckley), three-quarter backs; R. Ball (Coalville) and K. A. Wait (Leicester), half-back; D. Bolsworth (Leicester), T. G. Ridgway (Leicester), G. B. Herbert (Leicester), H. P. Jerwood (Leicester), R. G. Mackenzie (South Leicester), J. T. W. Berry (Leicester), W. Garner (Kibworth), and J. Reeve (Hinckley) forwards.

East Midlands.—R. D. Baillon (Northampton), back; V. J. Lyttle (Bedford), J. G. Rogers (Bedford), J. O'B. Power (Bedford), and W. J. Tyson (King's College Hospital), three-quarter backs; G. S. Sturtridge (Northampton) and R. Smyth (Bedford), half-backs; A. E. P. Joy (Bedford), S. E. F. Petts (Northampton), R. C. Powell (Northampton), F. Jeffcoate (Northampton), A. Wood (Northampton), R. Willsher (Bedford), O. V. Bevan (Bedford), and J. G. Cook (Bedford), forwards.

Referee—Flight Lieutenant J. Lawson.

National Athletic Meet Under Way

Louis Signs Contract To Fight Lewis, Jan. 27

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Joe Louis, holder of the world's heavyweight boxing championship, has signed to defend his title against Challenger John Henry Lewis, sensational negro light-heavyweight boxing champion, at the Madison Square Garden on January 27, promoter Mike Jacobs announced here today.

On Time With The Season

CHICAGO—Along with their ham and eggs each morning, passengers on the Panama Limited will also receive instructions on how to dress for the day. As this train, operated by the Illinois Central System nears New Orleans or Chicago, each passenger will receive attached to his breakfast menu card a report on the weather at his destination.

There is often a wide range of temperature between the two cities, especially during the Winter season, and the change is not perceptible to the traveler in an air-conditioned train. The new service will give passengers sufficient information to dress for comfort upon arrival. Weather reports will be received by telegraph enroute.

Borotra Annexes Ninth Victory At Queen's Club

Observer

LONDON, Oct. 16—There was indeed a full house at Queen's Club yesterday. Every seat in the stands and galleries was packed, and people sat on the floor all along the side of the court. Everybody was anxious to see whether Jean Borotra—as big a favourite at Queen's as at Wimbledon—could pull off his ninth victory in the covered courts championship singles, and so add still further to his lead over anyone who had ever won it before.

All through the week Borotra had been playing well, defeating in succession C. M. Jones and M. D. Deloford, though dropping a set to each of them. Now he had to face a third—and, perhaps, the best young English player, D. W. Butler. Opinions varied as to Butler's chance, but the general feeling was that Borotra, even giving away eleven years, would prove the master. But, in any case, a match between two of the fastest men about a court could not fail to be interesting. Borotra won, but not by any means in a hollow fashion: indeed, there was one time in the third set when it seemed as if he might not win at all. He began at the top of his form, while Butler could not, except for a few service aces, find his at all, with the result that Borotra won a love set in less than a quarter of an hour, his racket seeming more than ever to possess the qualities of a magician's magnetic wand in attracting the ball to it wherever its holder might be.

He missed two or three volleys early in the second set, and Butler, with some perfect lobs, went to 2-1. Attacking more vigorously than ever, Borotra went to 4-2, though he nearly dropped the sixth game after he had been 40-love in it. Then Butler pulled out his best game, took the next game to love with four service aces, and, with volleys as brilliant as Borotra's own, got on terms and went on to take the set at 6-4. Still serving well he kept in front in the third set up to 3-2, but after three all dropped his service. This proved fatal. He only won one more game in the set, Borotra smashing with decisive power, and quite himself again.

Spurred on by his success, Borotra pursued a more energetic attack than ever in the fourth set, and was soon 3—love, and later, 5—1. Butler had one last flicker in winning his service to love in the seventh game, but Borotra gave him no chances in the next, and went out, to thunders of applause, with a characteristic forehand volley into the corner. His volleying and overhead work all through had been reminiscent of his very best days; but it was his superior return of service that won him the match. Plus, of course, his amazing activity: nobody could have dreamt that he had damaged a leg so much in a ski-ing accident last Winter that he had been laid up for months. The man, in short, is just a miracle.

Only the semi-finals of the ladies' singles were played, the final being left over to Monday. In one of these matches Mrs. McKelvie, now returning to the form she seemed to have lost, defeated Miss Harvey, who had had a very heavy week's play. In the other Miss M. C. Scriven, the holder, was opposed by the diminutive Chinese girl, Miss Gem Hoahing. The little girl, though she fought bravely and never gave up trying, could not cope with the pace of Miss Scriven's forehand drive.

Miss Kimata Gets To Singles Final In National Play

Miss Toyoko Kimata of the Nippon Seinen reached the final of the women's singles in the 17th annual national tennis championships Thursday at the Denyen courts by defeating Miss Kiyoko Enotani of the Nakamozu Club in two straight sets, 6-1 and 6-1.

No other full match was played because of the rain which began to fall after the foregoing match.

Miss Enotani an all-round good player, has a tendency to be weak in tournament play, and this again proved her weak stand against the No. 1 ranking player last year.

Play was stopped in the second set of the other semi-finals match between Miss Junko Kamo of the Denyen Club and Mrs. Keiko Tomonaga. The former took the first set, 6-3, but the latter led at 1-0 when the second set was stopped.

Miss Kamo's attack to the baseline worked too well for Mrs. Tomonaga.

The Hosei doubles team of Fumiteru Nakano, Davis Cupper, and Takeo Matsumoto took the first set, 6-2 and led at 2-1 when its semi-finals match in the men's doubles play with the former Davis Cuppers, Abe and Kawachi of the Tomon Club, was halted by the rain.

Play was to be continued today at the same courts.

St. Mary's Tops Loyola

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9—St. Mary's Gaels, their once famous gallop slowed down to a walk for three quarters, engineered a sharp passing attack in the final period today to defeat Loyola University's Lions, 7 to 0, before 50,000 fans.

Two spectacular passes hurled by Halfback Ed Heffernan put the ball on the Loyola 2-year line and Fullback Herb Smith crashed center on the next play.

Loyola began a furious passing game but the threat ended when Smith intercepted one on the Gael 7.

Keio Combination To Take On Hosei Duo For Net Title

Jiro Yamagishi and Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio and Fumiteru Nakano and Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei entered the finals of the men's doubles of the 17th annual tennis championships Friday afternoon at the Denyen courts.

Yamagishi and Tsuruta took the first two sets, 6-2 and 6-3, from Tanaka and Takao of Waseda but the latter put up a game fight in the third set, knotting the count at 5-all and it wasn't until the 22nd game that the former finally won out, 12-10. Counting on the errors of the Waseda team, Yamagishi and Tsuruta led 40-0 in this last game, but Tsuruta netted one and Yamagishi's return went out to put the score 40-30. Then Takao came through with an ace on a volley to make it deuce. Tanaka netted his volley and Tsuruta drove an ace past Takao for match point.

Nakano and Matsumoto, who led with one set on Thursday when rain halted play, defeated the former Davis Cuppers, Abe and Kawachi. They took the second set, 6-2, dropped the third, 4-6, and won the fourth, 6-4. Against the steadiness of the Hosei team, Abe and Kawachi committed too many errors to have any chance of winning.

Miss Junko Kamo of the Denyen Club took the measure of Mrs. Keiko Tomonaga of the same club in the remaining semi-finals match in the women's doubles, in two sets, 6-3 and 6-3. She will meet Miss Toyoko Kimata of the Kansai, the defending titleholder, in the final.

Mrs. Tomonaga and Mrs. Uyeno of the Denyen Club entered the final of the women's doubles by vanquishing Miss Kimata and Miss Hamada of the Koshien Club, 7-5 and 6-4. They will meet Mrs. Oura and Mrs. Hara of the Denyen Club for the championship.

The results of the matches Friday follow:

Men's Doubles Semi-finals

Nakano-Matsumoto (Hosei) defeated Abe-Kawachi (Tomon Club), 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Yamagishi-Tsuruta (Keio) defeated Tanaka-Takao (Waseda) 6-2, 6-3, 12-10.

Women's Singles, Semi-finals

Miss Junko Kamo (Denyen) defeated Mrs. Keiko Tomonaga (Denyen), 6-3, 6-3.

Women's Doubles, Semi-finals

Mrs. Tomonaga-Mrs. Uyeno (Denyen) defeated Miss Kimata-Miss Hamada (Koshien), 7-5, 6-4.

Mixed Doubles, First Round

Abe-Mrs. Hara (Tomon-Denyen) defeated Tanaka-Miss Ikeda (Koshien), 6-1, 6-1.

Kawachi-Mrs. Oura (Tomon-Green) defeated Ito-Miss Imai (Popular), 6-4, 6-1.

Idaho Eleven Showing Power And Experience

Christian Science Monitor

MOSCOW, Idaho, Oct. 7—The victory of Idaho over Oregon State by a score of 13 to 0 in its opening game of the season and the 12-to-12 tie with Washington last Saturday, prove that the optimism which has been vested in the Vandal football camp has sound basis, despite Coach Ted Bank's efforts to appear dubious. The Idaho warriors, who faced only eight teams last year, are scheduled to fight 10 battles this Fall.

Although only five of the games are against Pacific Coast Conference opponents—Oregon State, Washington, Oregon, Washington State, and U. C. L. A.—none of the other five is a "breather." Gonzaga, Montana, Utah, Utah Aggies, and North Dakota State must be met.

Plenty of experience and plenty of brawn distinguish the Vandals. The 18 lettermen on the squad enable Bank to start a veteran eleven, make letterman replacements in the backfield, and send in veteran substitutes in all line positions, except guard.

The potential power in the Idaho line has evoked predictions that the 1938 Vandals would be a strong defensive team, and the predictions seem sound. The starting linemen average 198 pounds. Twenty-two of the squad weigh more than 199 pounds, and nine of them weigh 200 pounds or more.

Has Plenty of Power

That the 1938 Idaho team intends to gain yardage by turning on the power, as well as by using deception and passes as it did so often last year, was demonstrated when Idaho kept Oregon State backed against its goal line during half the game and never really "opened up."

For years, Idaho was dubbed "the midfield marvels" because the Vandals repeatedly were held for downs after impressive marches down the field into scoring territory. Last year, however, they showed some ability to score in the pinches; if they can master the trick of making scoring plays work, they might win most of their games this season, for they have the old knack of "midfield marching."

Idaho has no front-rank "star," the sort of spectacular groundgainer around whom teams are sometimes built. Several capable backfield men give good accounts of themselves; they shine, but seldom dazzle.

Obeying Orders

During Fleet exercises, a small floating object passed one of the battleships, and the officer of the watch asked the lookout what it was.

"Only a piece of wood, sir," came the reply.

"What!" roared the officer. "Only a piece of wood! How do you know there isn't a submarine under it? Don't you know your duty yet? You're there to report everything you see, not to think!"

A short time passed and then the look-out hailed the officer.

"Nine seagulls passing overhead in formation," he shouted.—Answers.

To Limit Clubs At St. Andrews In 1939 Season

Observer

LONDON Oct. 16—Recent world events obscured two important decisions made by the Royal and Ancient Club, of St. Andrews, the governing body of golf. One concerned the limitation of the number of clubs a player may carry, and the other the ball. The proposal restricting the number of clubs to fourteen was carried practically without discussion.

The regulation which has been in force in the United States for the past two years will come into operation in this country, and, presumably in all countries adopting the St. Andrews code of rules, after the resolution has been confirmed at the club's Spring Meeting next May. As it is hardly likely that the decision will be reversed, the limitation law will probably come into force on January 1, 1940. It may, of course, become operative at once, in which case the rule will be effective in the Amateur Championship, at Hoylake, in the week beginning May 22, and the Open championship, at St. Andrews, in the first week in July.

In order to prevent misunderstanding it becomes necessary to state that the rule will apply to every form of competition, and every form of match, private or otherwise. A player found to be carrying more than the stipulated number of clubs will automatically be disqualified, while a player in a private match may, if he deems it advisable, object to his opponent carrying more than fourteen clubs.

It is to be imagined that in private matches there will be a "gentleman's agreement," in which event an examination of one another's bag of clubs before driving off will be unnecessary. Should, however, a player be found to be carrying more than fourteen clubs the act will be regarded as dishonorable. No player is likely to risk such a condemnation from friends and acquaintances, even if the advantages to be gained by breaking the law are considerable, which they most certainly are not.

Burdened Caddies

The objects of the limitation rule are twofold; firstly, to prevent mechanization of the same, and, secondly, to ease the burden of the over-weighted caddie. Though not liking the blow at the freedom of the player, I do not suppose that the rule will affect more than ten per cent of golfers, mostly professionals, and a few of the leading amateurs. The vast majority of handicap golfers are quite undisturbed by the St. Andrews edict, for the reason that they do not carry fourteen clubs the average number being somewhere in the neighborhood of ten.

An unexpected reaction to the rule is that many golfers are now making up their sets to fourteen having concluded that, this is the standard fixed by St. Andrews as being the ideal equipment. The modern set of steel-shafted clubs is fourteen, made up as follows: four woods, nine irons, including the popular sand-iron, or "dynamiter," and a putter. Any golfer worthy of the name can get along anywhere, and in any conceivable conditions, with a set of clubs of this kind.

John Ball, Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor, and James Braid, who between them won thirty-two national titles, never carried more than ten clubs, a number they regarded as sufficient for all purposes. However, the technique of the game has advanced since those days, and a matched set of fourteen steel-shafted clubs with varying degrees of "whip" seems to me to be the ideal equipment.

Some players carry "spares," and one or two favorite clubs for special types of shots, and a left-handed club for emergencies. These will either have to be discarded or the matched set broken up to include them.

The limitation rule will go hard on some of the "fashionable" players who carry as many as twenty-five clubs. Eleven clubs will require to be thrown out, and, as one player told me in tones of regret, "I don't know where to start, as each is a trusted friend." I would suggest that he begins by discarding a couple of woods, five irons of the "plus" and ½ variety, the left-handed club, and two of his putters. This reduces the number to fifteen, and as to the remaining alien club he must himself decide as to which goes on the scrap-heap.

This type of player is the exception. In the case of Cotton, he will not have the least difficulty in reducing his equipment to the required number; neither will Padgham, the Whitcombes, nor Perry. From an amateur I get this complaint: "The more clubs the merrier. Golf is hard enough without taking any implements away. Modern weapons have kept me young. The game was not nearly as much fun in 1910, no matter what some of the old 'fogeys' say. I am all for more and better clubs." Obviously he is one of the young "bloods" who buys every club which comes on to the market, and sticks it in his bag, hoping for the millennium.

Max Marston, a former U.S. champion and Walker Cup player, sums up the position as follows: "In the old days we suited our swing to the shot instead of fitting the club to a given range. Sets of matched clubs have helped to popularize the game, but it is more of a mathematical formulae, and less of an art, than it used to be when personal initiative and individual skill were at a premium. Today, the player seldom varies his swing no matter what the range. He picks out the numbered club which corresponds to the distance, and lets the angle of the blade do the work."

Big Bags and Big Tips

In theory this may be so, but in practice, particularly as regards the average player, the making of a shot is not quite so simple as my friend Marston makes out. In the case of the young caddie, the lightening of his burden will certainly be appreciated, especially in hot weather, but I am not so sure that the grown-up caddy with vast experience will get excited because of the limitation rule. It is his experience that the bigger the bag of clubs the bigger the tip at the end of the round. He is apprehensive as to the size of the tip when his regular employer comes along with 14, instead of his usual 20 clubs.

The question of the ball affects everybody from champions to 18 handicap players. Therefore, the decision of the Rules of Golf Committee to consult other golfing bodies and associations with a view to arriving at some specification to restrict the distance that the ball can be hit is of vital interest and importance. It is the view of St. Andrews that the game is in danger of being ruined, and of courses rendered featureless, because of the ever-increasing power of the ball, and that it is imperative something should at once be done about it.

This may be so in the case of the professional brigade in the Summer months, but 90 per cent of golfers are never likely to ruin the game, or courses, because of the driving and carrying powers of the ball.

Their cry is, "We want more and not less length." As their pleasure is derived mainly from hitting the ball as far as possible, it is to be hoped that St. Andrews will have consideration for the mass of the players who, though they are never likely to rise from the ruck, are the real backbone of the game. By their enthusiasm, and through the medium of their pockets, they keep the game alive.

Horiguchi To Fight Kikuchi On Tuesday

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's best known fighter, will take on Goro Kikuchi of the Shinko Club in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds next Tuesday night at the Kokusai Theater in Asakusa.

Kikuchi has been making an impressive showing in recent months, winning all of his battles, and has been favored by many boxing enthusiasts as the best opponent available in the country for Horiguchi.

There will be six other six-rounders on the card.

The first bout is slated to start at 6:30 p.m.

Briton Comments On Polo As Played In United States

By TIMES CORRESPONDENT

London Times

LONDON, Oct. 16—One of the great advantages enjoyed by the American polo player is that he may play the game of his choice for a good 10 months in the year in his own country, and that on grounds which compared with most of ours are amazingly true. The reason that these fields are so true is that they do not receive a tenth amount of the wear that ours suffer, for there are so many of them that there is no excuse for overworking them.

For instance, Long Island has, at a conservative estimate, 23 grounds within a radius of about 15 miles from Meadow Brook (the club has eight of its own), and it would take a hard season indeed to subject them to really serious wear and tear. The quality of the turf is another story, and certainly I have not seen in that district a single ground, including the vast International Field, that can compare with the No. 1 ground at Hurlingham. Moreover, if any of these had in a season a fair half of what they get at any of the London grounds, they would disappear completely. As it is, these Long Island grounds are nursed with the utmost tenderness, and the result is perfect going and a surface on which the ball runs with extraordinary trueness. That, naturally, encourages a faster game and more confident hitting, and the games are definitely faster and harder than most of the ones seen in England. That the grounds (at least, in the East) are faster than the English I do not admit. In fact, it is my impression that they are definitely slower to ride and they run slower. But English grounds cut up so much that the ball is everlastingly bumping and jinking, which gives the illusion of slowness.

Unneeded Boards

I cannot understand why, in America, they persist in the use of boards. They have all the room that they could wish for, and yet these unsightly and detrimental boards are universal. To be sure, in good polo the play is kept in the center, so that the boards do not come in for half as much work as they do in England. Nor does one see the furious and incessant hitting out to the sides, even in attack, as is the case in England. But why not remove this drawback from the game altogether? Side boards were introduced only in order to keep up with the growing need for more space as the game became faster and the ponies larger and faster, with only a definitely limited space in which to accommodate it. They were never anything but a makeshift in order to ensure that the game could still be played on the old grounds. Yet the Americans, who have an admirably open mind so far as experiments are concerned, maintain a mysteriously impenetrable conservative attitude to an innovation (if one can call it that) that would benefit the game enormously. There is, I admit, a school of thought which holds that play on the boards is one of the greatest beauties and attractions in the game. Since the finest player of modern times is alleged to hold this opinion, there is obviously much to be said in favor of it, but, I submit, the game could be better without them. Apart from the temptation to "use the side wall" and so tend to slow up the game, the boards are a constant source of fouling, quite unintentional, but inevitable. If the umpires blew their whistles on every cross committed on the boards a game would never get started, let alone finished. However, there does not seem to be much prospect of the U.S.P.A. doing anything about it yet awhile.

The U.S. Association

With regard to this same United States Polo Association, which has been reconstituted quite recently, it is notable that the big majority of its officers are young men, who are still active players. This, perhaps, leads to a little more willingness to depart from accepted convention and to experiment with innovations that might in the long run be advantageous to the game in general. The ideas of the comparatively young are apt to be rather more fluid than those of their elders. Behind them, however, are tried and experienced counselors, such as Devereux Milburn, ready to "apply the brakes" if need arise. Certainly it seems to work admirably, and in England there has been apparent in recent years a tendency to follow suit. Of course, in the United States there is an enormous amount to be done, for the game is played in some part or another of the country all the year round, and a more extended organization is needed than is the case at home. No doubt they have in America their own problems, as we have them, which must be solved by trial and error, but the new constitution certainly seems to be working smoothly and on the right lines. It would be absurd to suggest that this country should slavishly follow their example, for conditions in the two countries are so vastly dissimilar, but the theory of "youth at the helm" (but with no suggestion of "dropping the pilot") seems to promise well under the increasing difficulty of keeping the game alive and progressing in these hard days.

Keio Team Wins Doubles Crown In National Play

Jiro Yamagishi and Takeo Tsuruta of Keio University won the doubles title of the 17th annual national tennis championships Sunday at the Denyen courts, downing Fumiteru Nakano and Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei University in four sets, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2 and 8-6.

With Davis Cuppers Yamagishi and Nakano playing on either side, the spectators had the opportunity of seeing some of the best tennis in months. Yamagishi and his partner were expected to win easily but Nakano, who had been weak in doubles play, showed great improvement. Had the latter's team taken the fourth set to put it on a 2-all basis, for a certainty the match would have turned out into a battle royal.

Matsumoto Weak

Matsumoto, Nakano's partner, was especially weak. He was woefully erratic in his smashes and then his tendency to commit doublefaults in his service weakened his attack.

Yamagishi and Tsuruta won the first two games in the first set and appeared on the way to an easy victory but dropped the next six games and the set.

Matsumoto and Nakano were thus off to a fine start but they lost the second and third sets without putting up much of a battle. Yamagishi and Tsuruta took a 3-1 lead in the fourth set but the Hosei team rallied and worked it up to a 3-3 tie and then led at 4-3 and at 5-3. It was then Nakano's service. To make the situation better for the Hosei team, Yamagishi erred on two rather easy balls and it seemed as if the score would be put on a 2-all basis. But Nakano lost his service game. Yamagishi then won his service to make it 5-all. The score then went to 6-all but Nakano lost his service again and the Keio team finally ran through the set 8-6.

Tamio Abe and Mrs. Hara defeated Kusumoto and Mrs. Ban, 6-2 and 6-2, while Kawachi and Mrs. Oura took the measure of Miki and Miss Kamo, 10-8 and 12-10, in the semi-finals of the mixed doubles.

The finals of the men's singles and the mixed doubles were to be played today at the same courts.

Yamagishi and Tetsuo Takasu of the Fukuoka Club entered the finals of the singles on Saturday defeating Tsuruta of Keio, 6-1, 6-1 and 7-5 and Yasu Kimura of Waseda, 7-5, 6-2 and 6-2 respectively.

Miss Kimata Wins

Miss Toyoko Kimata of the Kansai retained her singles title in the women's competition by triumphing over Miss Junko Kamo of the Denyen Club, 2-6, 6-3 and 6-2.

The women's doubles title went to Mrs. Oura and Mrs. Hara who vanquished Mrs. Tomonaga and Mrs. Uyeno, 6-4 and 6-3.

Pirate Machine To Be Revamped For Race In 1939

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK.—Out of the wreck of the Pirate machine that foundered on the rocks of the National League campaign in the stretch duel with the Chicago Cubs, will rise a more compact and spirited ball club in 1939, if Pittsburgh officials have their way.

Recovered from the supreme disappointment of watching their club drop from the leadership of the senior loop at the final moment of the pennant race, the Pittsburgh front office is moving ahead with plans to bolster the Pirate club.

First step in the building-up process occurred at the annual minor league draft meeting when the Pirates selected Fern Bell, a fine outfielder from Louisville, and Jack Jculich, Rochester Red Wings first baseman.

But the axe is expected to swing through the Pirate roster, especially at those positions which split at the seams under the pressure of the hectic pennant race.

The snappy Pirate infielders—third baseman Lee "Jeep" Handley, shortstop "Arky" Vaughan and second sacker Floyd "Pep" Young—are due to remain, but first baseman Gus Suhr may be traded.

In the 1939 Pittsburgh outfield, Lloyd Waner, younger of the veteran brothers, again will find himself playing alongside Johnny Rizzo, the lad who came up from Columbus of the American Association to break the all-time Pittsburgh home run record by smashing out 23 four sackers. Whether Paul Waner will be back in right field is problematical. Paul, a fixture in the Pittsburgh outfield since 1926 has fallen into disfavor by his drop from the ranks of the .300 hitters and his reported flaunting of training regulations.

Among others said to be ready for the open market, are: catcher Al Todd, utility outfielder Woody Jensen, infielder Tom Thevenow and Red Lucas, Ed Brandt and possibly Darrell "Cy" Blanton, all of the pitching staff.

Prime purpose of the Pirates' maneuver is to instill new blood into the Bucs lineup. Traynor and Benswanger, deprived of the pennant after leading the league since mid-July, are determined to have the Pirates in the flag picture next season for keeps.

Brandt, Lucas and Blanton won only 22 games among them, the latter getting half that number himself. Thevenow and Jensen, have been up with the Pirates for many years, and will be traded, if possible, to make room for fleeter and nimbler players.

Waner's slump this season has been the thorn in the side of the club. Depended upon for much of the Bucs' punch, the elder Waner bogged down miserably winding up with a .279.

When the Bucs take the field next Spring, look for new faces and—they hope—new spirit and fresh drive sufficient to carry the Pirate machine to the top.

Upset Features Volleyball Series

Kwansei Gakuin (left side of net) downing the Fukushima Normal School Club team in the final for the open volleyball championship Sunday at the Hamamatsucho courts. Waseda, the strong favorite, fell by the way side in the secon d round, losing to the Kobe Higher Commercial team.

Kukuljevic Loses In Exhibition Play At Koshien Courts

Franjo Kukuljevic, Yugoslav Davis Cup star, and R. Mouvet of Belgium, lost all their matches in an exhibition tournament Sunday afternoon at the Koshien courts, near Osaka.

Kukuljevic appeared to be out of practice and suffering from his traveling. He gave splashes of scintillating play however, in his match against Yasumino Kuramitsu, Japanese Davis Cupper. His forehand drive from his left hand seemed to be a dangerous weapon when functioning.

Mouvet was no match for the Japanese players.

The results were:

Hirai defeated Mouvet, 6-2, 6-2.

Kuramitsu defeated Kukuljevic, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Nunot and Murakami defeated Kukuljevic and Mouvet, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3.

Nunot versus Kukuljevic, match stopped after two sets, 6-4 and 3-6.

Seabiscuit Short Of Money Goal For Year's Wins

By LOU BINDMAN

NEW YORK.—Even if Seabiscuit tops War Admiral in a match race before the year is out, it is extremely unlikely that the Biscuit will reach his long sought goal of world's leading money winner by the time December blends into January.

And on that hinges the supposition that the Biscuit set the Admiral back on his heels to garner the money bag that goes with the winner's share of prizes.

Seabiscuit, if he were to start in the several stake offerings still open to him on Maryland's racing slate, could elevate himself through winning performances to within smelling distance of Sun Beau's top total, but he would still fall short unless that match tilt with Samuel D. Riddle's turf star could be arranged. That appears hardly likely. The two satellites went their own respective ways throughout their campaigns this year and their owners, at this late stage of the season, seem determined to unwind them that way.

One of the engagements for which Seabiscuit is eligible during the Laurel session in Maryland is the Washington Handicap, worth $15,000 in added money. Last year it was War Admiral who captured this mile and a quarter number but the Riddle horse this year will not be numbered as a starter.

With the Admiral absent as has been the case all year when Seabiscuit was a starter and vice versa, it is difficult to see which horse now campaigning could stop Charles S. Howard's ace from reaping further rewards.

The Biscuit is rounding out his 1938 itinerary in tip-top shape. The most journeyed horse in American turf history stood his harrowing grind without the slightest ill effect although shipped from one coast to another time and time again, stopping frequently in-between to gather some rich plums in the middle west.

Car legs and grogginess, which frequently afflict less hardly members of the equine fraternity, did not affect him in the slightest. The knee injury which forced cancellation of his "almost" match race with War Admiral at Belmont Park last Summer occurred in training and not in transportation.

Fully recovered from his knee affliction, Seabiscuit resumed his winning habits promptly and is now scheduled to "mop up" late Fall turf prizes of any value.

The prospects for such a clean up are extremely bright, unless muddy tracks, his nemesis, should manifest themselves, in which event he may be kept in his barn.

But even were he to sweep the remainder of his engagements this year he still could not touch Sun Beau's money-winning mark before the end of December through the medium of his regular agenda. It will require an extra big money event, such as the aforementioned match with War Admiral, to possibly do the trick, under the assumption that he won such a race. Otherwise he will have to wait until next year when he might start on the trail again by starting once more in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, which he so unfortunately lost by fractional margins two years in a row. From there on he will have the greater part of a full year ahead of him to become the greatest money-winning thoroughbred in the world.

Meiji Ruggers Rout Teidai By 60 To 13

Tokyo Imperial University's rugby team, which had registered one of the biggest upsets in years by downing Waseda 10-9 recently, proved to be no match for Meiji's ruggers Saturday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. The latter excelled in all departments of the game and won by the overwhelming score of 60 to 13.

Score at halftime was 26-3 in favor of the winners, who registered two tries and four goals.

Joe McCarthy Wonder Man Of Bushleaguers

NEW YORK, Oct.—The only bush leaguer ever to attain managerial greatness in the major leagues, Joseph Vincent McCarthy of the New York Yankees is the first pilot ever to win three straight world championships.

Stocky, 51 years old, a moon-faced product of Philadelphia's Germantown sector and once a student at Niagara University, McCarthy, in appearance and manner, provides other contradictions in a paradoxical career. He looks the part of a small town business man, yet under his command is the greatest ball club of these times, backed by the most millions, and representing the biggest city. He is quiet, almost genteel and sedate, generally, even while in his monkey suit on the bench directing baseball's highest-priced vassals. But he can get tough, if necessary and sometimes does.

His success generally is attributed to his ability to handle men. The hard muggs who have fought their way up through the minors, the fading veterans, the kids fresh from college and all the rest respond to his leadership.

Among his accomplishments as he goes about the business of rewriting some of baseball's most glowing chapters is that he is the only manager who has won pennants in both leagues. His first triumph was with the National league Chicago Cubs in 1929. He later was fired, and signed by the Yankees in 1931. In his eight seasons as Yankee pilot his club never has finished lower than second. He won his first pennant with them in 1932—and knocked off the Cubs in four straight in the series.

The Yanks took the pennant next up 1936, repeated in 1937 and again this year. Having trounced the Giants in '36 and '37, McCarthy now has made it three in a row over the Cubs.

Spartan Gridder Has '14' Jinx

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct.—Thirteen an unlucky number?

Not for Charley Asher, 200-pound fullback at Michigan State College who has played only 15 game minutes in two years. Charley is sure that No. 14 has the sign on him. For two years now the former Detroit star has been laid low by injuries on Sept. 14. A year ago as a sophomore he was hurt on that date and did not see action until late in the season against Temple. For 15 minutes he helped rip the Owls apart, then he aggravated his injury and went out of circulation for the balance of the season.

This fall Charley was all set for a big year. Came Sept. 14 and he bunged his knee. He is limping around the sidelines with slight prospects of seeing action until late in the season.

"I'll show 'em yet!" mutters Charley grimly as he rubs his ailing leg.

Y.C.A.C. Eleven Routs Keio At Negishi, 25-0

The Y.C. and A.C.'s best American football team since its adoption of the sport routed Keio University, 5-0, Sunday at the former's field at Negishi.

The winners registered a touchown each in the first and second quarters and tallied two more in the third.

6 Major League Managers Given Gate During 1938

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct.—Now that Doc Prothro, the old Arkansas Traveler from Little Rock, is safely entrenched as manager of the Phillies (heaven help him), speculation is rife in baseball circles over the pilots to be named for the Browns, Dodgers and Cardinals.

Six major league managers have been given the gate this year and there is a strong probability that another will be added to the list.

The Cardinals dropped Frankie Frisch; the Browns ousted Gabby Street; the Cubs put the rollers under Charley Grimm; the Tigers gave Mickey Cochrane the boot; and Jimmy Wilson gave himself the air with the Phillies, and the Dodgers ousted Burleigh Grimes.

Grimm and Cochrane are definitely out of baseball. Street will hook on somewhere either as a major league coach or a minor league manager. But what about Frisch, Wilson and Grimes?

Frisch may land with the Dodgers or Browns; Wilson may go to the Cardinals or Dodgers; Grimes may go to the Cardinals or Browns.

Many baseball men believe the most likely set-up will find Wilson piloting the Cardinals, Frisch the Browns, and Leo Durocher, the team's present shortstop and captain, the Dodgers. This, of course, would leave Grimes somewhere out behind the eight ball.

Should Frisch land in Brooklyn, Durocher probably would have to be traded because he and Frisch are not what one might call bosom pals. The Cardinals would like to have Durocher again, and if they got him, would make him playing-manager and thus save a salary, which is always an important consideration in St. Louis.

Waseda Is Upset In Volleyball Tourney By Kobe

Waseda University's volleyball team, which had made an impressive showing of 41 victories without a defeat, was upset by Kobe Higher Commercial team in the second round of the men's open championships Sunday at the Hamamatsucho courts, with the consequence that Kwansei Gakuin finally emerged champions.

The Kobe Higher Commercial smashing stars took the measure of Waseda, 22-20 and 21-17. But they lost to the Fukuoka Normal School Club team, 21-18, 16-21 and 21-11 in the semi-finals. The Kwansei Gakuin team bumped off the Akamon Club squad, 21-11 and 21-18 in the other semi-finals match.

A whirlwind start and a strong finish won for the Kwansei Gakuin team over the Fukuoka Normal School Club representatives in the finals, 21-12, 17-21 and 21-12.

The members of the championship team were: Hatano, Sakuma and Kawada, forwards; Omatsu, Kamada and Hasegawa, centers; Sakurai, Wada and Tanaka, backs.

The Hiroshima Second Middle School won the championship for the middle schools. The results were:

Second Round

Hiroshima Second Middle School defeated Matsue Middle School, 21-16, 21-23, 21-19.

Semi-Finals

Fukuoka Normal School defeated Kyoto Normal, 21-13, 21-13.

Hiroshima Second Middle School defeated Chukyo Commercial School, 21-14, 21-18.

Finals

Hiroshima Second Middle School defeated Fukuoka Normal School, 21-15, 17-21, 21-17.

Members of the championship team follow:

Nakamura, Fukumoto and Kuramoto, forwards; Tamaka, Kano and Saiki, centers; Tai, Watanabe and Tanabe, backs.

Yamagishi Wins Singles Crown For Fourth Time

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, had little trouble disposing of Tetsuo Takakusu of the Koshien Club in the finals and won the singles title in the 17th annual national tennis championships Monday afternoon at the Denyen courts. The score was 6-4, 6-3, 5-7 and 6-2. It was Yamagishi's fourth time that he clinched the championship.

Takakusu was simply not in Yamagishi's class, and the match might really be said to have progressed in accordance with the errors committed by Yamagishi. In other words, the games won by Takakusu were due to Yamagishi's errors. But Takakusu deserves praise for the fight he put against one of the world's ranking players.

Yamagishi Thrills Fans

Yamagishi thrilled the spectators with his superb volleying and ground strokes, but at that he was not up to his usual performance. The Japanese manufactured balls must have affected his play but at that he committed too many errors, even to the extent of losing a set.

Yamagishi led 4 to 2 in the first set only after a bitter struggle and when he was within a point to lead at 4-2 he netted the ball thrice in succession, and the score stood 4-3. Yamagishi then led 5-3 but he dropped the next game. He rallied however in the ninth game and with effective lobbing ran through the set, 6-3.

Yamagishi dropped the first game in the second set but he ran roughshod over Takakusu to take the next five games. He then faltered to lose two games but was back in excellent form to take the next and the set.

Taking advantage of Yamagishi's errors, Takakusu was off to a 3-1 lead in the third set. Yamagishi took the next for a 3-2. Takakusu, realizing that this was the most crucial stage of the match, played with all the skill he was worth and with a service ace led 30-0. Then with two more aces on his first service, he took the game with a love score to lead at 4-2. Yamagishi, however, rallied and worked it up to 4-4 and then forged into a 5-4 lead. By virtue of Takakusu's strong play, coupled with Yamagishi's error, the former took the next three games and the set by 7-5.

Yamagishi was much too good for Takakusu in the fourth set and won it without any trouble.

Abe-Hara Win

To Tamio Abe and Mrs. Hara went the mixed doubles title without playing. For Kawachi and Mrs. Oura forfeited.

Fumiteru Nakano, Davis Cupper, defeated Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio, 6-1 and 6-2 in an exhibition match.

Franjo Kukuljevic, Yugoslav Davis Cup player, and R. Mouvet of Belgium, were scheduled to play in exhibition matches at 1 p.m. today at the Denyen courts.

The matches scheduled were:

Singles

Kukuljevic versus Jiro Yamagishi.
Mouvet versus Fumiteru Nakano.

Doubles

Kukuljevic-Mouvet versus Yamagishi-Tsuruta.

Waseda Defeats Meiji By 3 To 1 At Ice Hockey

Waseda defeated Meiji, three goals to one, to lead with two victories in as many games in the Kanto Five University Ice Hockey league Monday night at the Shibaura rink.

Keio took the measure of Tokyo Imperial University, five goals to nil, in the other game.

Outstanding factor which won for Waseda was the strong offensive shown by its defense players Ichikawa and Kichijima. The forwards of both teams failed to show coordination of the sort that produces goals.

Waseda's three goals were accounted as follows: the first in the first period came as a result of Ichikawa's charge and a beautiful shot by Kichijima who followed up. The second also in the first sessions, was through brilliant passing by Forwards Kawanishi and Onikura. Nakagawa registered the third goal in the third period.

Meiji's only goal was scored by Defense Hirabayashi in the third session on a pass by the younger of the two Yezoe brothers, both playing as forwards.

Meiji's failure to follow up on the charges down the ice was its principal weakness.

Keio's stickwielders outclassed Tokyo Imperial's combination both in speed and in technique but the latter put up a far stronger defense than was expected, and it was only in the third period that Keio registered three goals for a one-sided period.

Keio scored one goal apiece in the first and second periods.

The line-ups were:

Waseda: Nakagawa, Onikura, Kitabori, Suzuki, Shichida, Kawanishi, forwards; Ichikawa and Kichijima, defense; Onoda, Ota, goalie.

Meiji: Yezoe (younger brother), Yamanouchi, Fukumoto, Tamura, Yezoe (older brother), Nakamura, Ogino, forwards; Hirabayashi, Taguchi, defense; Yuya, Kusakari, goalie.

Keio: Mekari, Tsutsumi, Kimura, Fukazawa, Kosuga, Naruse, forwards; Inaba, Kagatani, Fujioka, defense; Ono, goalie.

Tokyo Imperial: Takahashi, Matsuda, Senishi, Totsuki, Sato, Matsudaira, forwards; Dazai, Kobayashi, Shimizu, defense; Nonaka, goalie.

Chinchilla—Rarest and Most-Prized of Fur-Bearing Animals

The Chinchilla, a squirrel-like animal that lives high up in the Andes of Chile and Peru, has been hunted and trapped almost to extinction. Its fur is so wonderfully soft, of a French gray color darkly mottled, that it makes the most luxurious fur wraps in the world. A single chinchilla coat is valued at $50,000 or more. And so rare is the animal, that, although it takes but 150 pelts to make a wrap, there aren't many more than 100 in the world. So delicate are the live chinchilla that attempts to transport them usually were fatal until Pan-American Grace Airways, "made the fur fly" by transporting them to the United States by plane, at the same high altitudes in which they normally live.

Minnesota Rally Nips Michigan, 7-6 Before 55,000

N.Y. Times

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15—Minnesota's mighty men of the gridiron, their power house dynamited today by a scrappy Michigan wrecking crew, unveiled a puzzling passing attack to come from behind with six minutes to play and win, 7 to 6.

Some 55,000 homecoming fans saw the Big Ten champions retain the historic Little Brown Jug in a game in which Coach Fritz Crisler's huskies gained the edge in everything but the final score.

It was just a case of the Golden Gophers doing what the Michigan teams of old did—finish second in the statistics, but pay off on the point needed to grab victory.

In the last quarter, with Michigan holding a 6-to-0 edge after a great 90-yard march up the field, Coach Bernie Bierman's squad called on the injured Harold Van Every, triple-threat halfback, to search for success through the air.

Pitches a Perfect Strike

Van Every, out of action since the opener against Washington, shot a perfect strike from his own 48-yard line to Bill Johnson, substitute right end, who caught the ball on the Michigan 18 and plunged to the 14 with three Michigan players taking a ride.

Two plunges took the ball to the 10. Then Van Every stepped back and pitched another strike to Halfback Wilbur Moore. He grabbed it on the Michigan 3 and, with a trio of Wolverines hanging on, hit the goal at the extreme corner of the field.

Quarterback George Faust placekicked the extra point, something that Dan Smick, Michigan end, had failed to do in the first few minutes of the last quarter.

Moore, smothered in a cluster of Maize and Blue behind the Michigan goal line on the winning touchdown, was carried from the field with a seriously sprained left ankle.

The last-minute Minnesota victory broke the heart of Michigan's cagey outfit. They outgained the Gophers from scrimmage almost two to one, completed seven out of sixteen passes and flashed a terrific ground-gaining attack behind a hard-hitting line.

Bell Misses Try for Goal

Except for those two last-period passes, the Big Ten champions had little success in an offensive that had wrecked Washington, Nebraska and Purdue.

The only time Minnesota power threatened was after a poor Michigan punt in the second quarter. Moore, Buhler and Franck blasted to the 19 where the Wolverines held and Horace Bell missed a place kick.

Michigan got started then and seconds before the half ended Smick vaiglly tried a place kick from the Minnesota 35.

Using a plain old-fashioned delayed buck, with Harmon and Kromer feeding Purucker the ball, Michigan slashed straight up the field, ripping Minnesota's heretofore impenetrable defense into bits.

They went into the fourth quarter with the ball on the Minnesota 21 and fourth down. Here Harmon crossed up the Gophers and shot a short pass to Smick on the Minnesota 7. Three plunges got six yards and then Kromer shot over his own right tackled to score. Smick missed the extra point.

Later there was an exchange of punts and Michigan started another parade but Harmon fumbled on the Minnesota 48. Van Every recovered and after Minnesota had been set back 15 yards on a holding penalty, Van Every began pitching, first for 40 yards and then to the winning touchdown.

Michigan got thirteen first downs to Minnesota's six.

The line-up:

Pos.	Minnesota (7)	Michigan (6)
L.E.	Mariucci	Valek
L.T.	Pederson	Janke
L.G.	Bell	Brennan

Nango Is Nominated To Succeed Kano As President Of Kodokan

Rear Admiral Jiro Nango, retired, has been nominated as president of the Kodokan to succeed the late Professor Jigoro Kano, who died this year while en route back from the International Olympic Committee's meeting at Cairo.

Admiral Nango is a nephew of the late Professor Kano and is a possessor of the second rank in judo. He also is the father of Lieutenant Commander Motoaki Nango, famed naval flier, who died in gallant action over Nanchang last Summer.

Notre Dame Tops Illinois, 14 To 6 As 45,000 Look On

N.Y. Times

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 15—Two spectacular maneuvers, one a sudden bid through the air and the other a breath-taking thrust on the ground, carried Notre Dame's football legions to a 14-to-6 victory over Illinois today.

Before the 45,000 spectators hardly had settled into their seats, Notre Dame scored on a long pass from Harry Stevenson to Earl Brown. In the third period, fleet Ben Sheridan brilliantly returned a punt 68 yards to tally.

Illinois got its touchdown shortly afterward by recovering a blocked punt a yard from the goal line, but didn't have quite enough left for a serious threat.

Playing here for the first time, Illinois depended on a line which had whipped Indiana a week ago. This time the Illini forwards were outplayed from start to finish. Illinois, stopped on the ground, took to the air only to encounter an alert secondary which permitted only three completions in 12 attempts.

Three Running Plays Fail

The game was barely five minutes old when Notre Dame scored. Taking the ball after a punt, Notre Dame failed to move from the Illini 35-yard line on three running plays. Then Stevenson faded back and shot a 47-yard pass into the end zone, Brown making a great fingertip catch.

After a hard second period, highlighted by strong play of the home forwards and Sheridan's punt returns, the throng was treated to two scoring thrills. Rettinger, Illinois fullback, got away a long punt which Sheridan took on his 32. Twisting and dodging from the entire Illini team, the little speedster from Havana, Ill., streaked down the field for a touchdown.

Illinois, after several nice runs by Bob Wehrli, a 10-yard pass and a 15-yard penalty against Notre Dame, drove 50 yards to the 10. The South Bend line held for downs, Stevenson's punt was blocked by Philips and several Illinois players recovered on the one-yard marker. Ralph Ehni, reserve quarterback, hit center for the touchdown, but his try for point was blocked.

Pezzoli Intercepts Pass

Early in the final period, Phil Pezzoli intercepted a Notre Dame pass on his 10 and returned 81 yards to the Notre Dame 9, but Longhi intercepted a pass to ruin that chance.

Notre Dame, using numerous sets of backs and giving first string linemen repeated rest periods, gained 254 yards by rushing to 70 for Illinois. In first downs the home players, winners of three starts this reason, had a 15-to-9 margin. That Notre Dame did not score on sustained ground drives was more because of the inability of backs to hold the ball than to the Illinois defense.

The line-up:

Pos.	Notre Dame (14)	Illinois (6)
L.E.	Brown	Zimmerman
L.T.	Beinor	Reeder
L.G.	McGoldrick	Hathaway
C.	Longhi	McDonald
R.G.	Rossu	Martin

Carnegie Defeats Holy Cross, 7 To 6 On 42-Yard Dash

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15—Carnegie Tech, champion short-ender, upset Holy Cross today, 7 to 6, the first victory for the Plaid in a four-year rivalry.

Ray Carnelly's 42-yard touchdown run and placement conversion in the second period were the first points Tech scored against Holy Cross in four meetings.

Bill Osmanski, the Crusaders' fast fullback, nearly evened the score by returning the second-half kick off 92 yards right down the middle of the field for a touchdown, but Jim Turner's placement attempt for the extra point veered wide.

Both teams took the field undefeated and untied against minor opposition, but Holy Cross, which had won by 7 to 0 in 1935 and 1936 and had played a scoreless tie in a blizzard last year, was a slight favorite with the crowd of 30,000 which watched.

First Period Scoreless

The first period was a stand-off, but on the fifth play of the second Carnegie's Carnelly skirted left end for his touchdown.

A 60-yard punt by Ronald Cahill put the Tartans in a hole in the second and Holy Cross punched its way to the 1-yard line, only to lose the ball when Osmanski fumbled.

Punting on third down and waiting for a break, Holy Cross got one midway through the first period when Histen blocked Lee's punt and the invaders took the ball on the Tartan's 24, but Carnegie quickly ended the scoring chance as Condit intercepted a pass on his 5 and ran 21 yards. Condit later made a 25-yard put return and skirted right end for 14 yards to reach the Holy Cross 42.

Carnelly broke away two minutes after the second chapter had started, but the lead was immediately threatened by the Crusaders, who opened their bag of tricks and rolled up three first downs drilling to Carnegie's 1-yard line before Osmanski fumbled and Muha recovered. A 33-yard sprint by Muha and a 11-yard run by Condit sent to the Holy Cross 25 just before half time.

Condit Intercepts Pass

After Osmanski had hauled in the second-half kick-off and raced for a touchdown, the Tartans spent the rest of the period trying to improve their slim lead, but the best they could do was reach the Holy Cross 38 late in the period when Condit intercepted a pass and returned 26 yards. The Crusaders were never out of their territory after the opening play.

In a wild finish the Tartans drove to the Crusaders' 1 on a 15-yard cut-back by Moroz and a 23-yard pass from Moroz to Friedlander, but Moroz fumbled and Turner recovered on the Holy Cross 14. Mostly by passes, the invaders galloped 56 yards to Carnegie's 30, but alert defenders intercepted four passes to stop the threats.

Everton Beaten At Bolton In Upsets Featuring English Football League

By J. T. BOLTON

Observer

LONDON, Oct. 16—The Football League clubs have now gone through, roughly, one-quarter of the game which are on a full season's program. Even at this early stage there is talk of a championship for this or that club, and of relegation for others. Those followers of the game, however, who persistently refuse to engage in such discussions until the latter half of the season has been reached, would find full justification in the latest series of results. Even a casual glance is sufficient to call forth, as a general summary, the expression, football's crazy day. Seldom is the uncertainty of the game so fully illustrated. Clubs which had been doing well enough to gain leading places had their colors lowered, and some of the lowly teams rose up to demonstrate anew the general level of equality. As the clubs enter on the second quarter, there is none which can claim immunity from defeat, and only two—Swansea Town and Walsall—have still to record their first victory. To say that the end is a long way off is a truism, but pointed, none the less.

Large attendances were reported from many centers. Included among the spectators, here and there were members of the England International Selection Committee. They meet tomorrow to choose the team to play against Wales next Saturday and also to oppose Europe at Highbury on the following Wednesday. With form in general so contrary the notes made by individual selectors would make interesting reading. As typical of the matches which led to confusion was that between two of London's First Division rivals, Chelsea and Arsenal, withnessed by 64,000 people. Previous figures suggested that Arsenal have the best defense in their section. Yesterday, however, Chelsea, whose forwards do not get many goals as a habit, scored four times. Not once throughout last season did Arsenal have four goals scored against them, and their goalkeeper had not been beaten in any of the previous four engagements. Arsenal took a chance in playing Bastin, who has been away for a month, in the unusual position at inside-right. The international winger did not suggest that he has fully recovered his confidence.

Having made many attempts to get a smooth-working attack, Arsenal may now beface with anxiety about their defense. Mistakes were made by the defenders to account largley for the Chelsea victory. The two inside-forwards of the home club, however—Argue and Burgess—schemed cleverly in a game which was somewhat disappointing in the scientific sense, even though the onlookers had thrills provided by six goals. In the Arsenal defense is Hapgood, who has recently captained England. He played well for the most part, as did Woodley, international goalkeeper of Chelsea. This defeat meant a big drop for Arsenal in the League table, and a corresponding rise for Chelsea. Meantime, another London club—Brentford—now figure in the last position of all. Six of their last seven games have been lost, including that at Stoke yesterday. Brentford, with a side again showing several changes, made a determined struggle in the later stages after Holliday had scored for them from the penalty spot, but could not get the goal which would have given them a valuable point.

Eight home teams were victorious in the First Division. Among the leading places—Everton and Derby County. So well have the young players of Bolton Wanderers risen to the occasion that the defeat of Everton was not particularly surprising. Roberts, one of the Bolton men who have come to the front this season, scored three times from the inside-right position. His wing partner, Woodward, claimed the other one. Lawton scored his usual goal for Everton, and played so well that he is likely to be retained as England's center-forward. To emphasize the equality among the clubs, Birmingham, with only one previous victory to their credit and starting the day at the bottom of the table defeated Derby County by three goals. Against such a strong defense as that of Derby County, this performance by Birmingham was specially creditable. The win will give the players who have been shuffled about rather a lot increased confidence to face the future.

The strangely topsy-turvy course pursued by Sunderland continues. Not once have they been victorious this season on their own ground, but they have won four times when playing the role of visitors. Yesterday Sunderland were the only away winners of their section, but Leicester City, defeated by two goals, will feel that they are continual victims of misfortune. While they still had a chance of gainning some reward from the match against Sunderland, the International half-back Smith had to leave the field injured. While he was away Smeaton scored the goal which left Leicester without a chance of saving a point, as the emergency center-forward Spuhler had previously scored for Sunderland. Aston Villa had done very well in their away matches, in which they had not been defeated. They lost this record against the greatly improved Liverpool side. Throughout the game the Aston Villa forwards, with Broome again at outside right, displayed midfield cleverness, but the more direct methods of the Liverpool attackers brought them three goals, including another success by the South African Van Den Berg.

The name of Beattie figures largely in the reports of First Division games. Three of them were included among the goalscorers, but they are not related. Both the successful shots on behalf of Preston North End were sent in by R. Beattie, but these were not sufficient to give the Cup-holders victory against Portsmouth, who obtained their first away point of the season. The other drawn game was that between Manchester United and Blackpool. In the closing moments of this game Finan, of Blackpool, failed when presented with a chance to win the match for his side. An unusual double record is that held by Wolverhampton Wanderers. Of all the clubs in their class they have had fewest scored against them, and also scored fewest themselves. At Leeds yesterday Wolverhampton had so much of the play that in one short period six corner-kicks fell to them, but Twomey in the Leeds goal was in magnificent form. In the end Wolverhampton lost by a goal scored by Thomson, after having by far the greater share of the game. In their team against Grimsby Town, Middlesbrough included a new full-back, Scrimshaw, from Stoke, and giving a good display he finished on the winning side. Long-service players in Yorston and Camsell scored the Middlesbrough goals. With a narrow victory over Huddersfield Town Charlton continued their upward trend. In this game sterling displays were given by the respective center half-backs, John Oakes and Young, both under consideration as possible England players.

The Second Division vied with the higher class in providing games of many thrills, much excitement, and some unexpected results. There were four drawn matches, but the whole series did not produce a victory to a visiting side. Fulham had established such a strong lead that defeat merely reduced the margin between them and their competitors. It was an out of the way experience for Fulham to be defeated on the Tottenham Hotspur ground, where they have drawn on four successive occasions. This game held a big crowd of nearly fifty thousand from first to last. It was played at a tremendous pace, but Tottenham, revealing themselves the more scientific side, deserved the victory. They nearly lost the lead, which Lyman had given them, in the closing stages, however, when Fulham rallied strongly after Arnold had gone from outside-left to center-forward. Brilliant full-back play was a big feature of this game, even Sproston, who is most likely to play for England again, being little superior to Bacuzzi and Keeping for Fulham. Claims by each set of players for penalty kicks, following alleged handling incidents, were refused by the referee.

Both the Sheffield clubs were concerned in thrilling matches. Against Sheffield United Millwall failed to take advantage of a penalty kick award in the early stages, but took the lead ten minutes from the end. In the last four minutes, however, Sheffield United scored twice, to secure both points, and retain their place in close proximity to the leaders. In one spell of eighteen minutes Southampton and Sheffield Wednesday each scored three goals, Napier being successful on all three occasions for the Wednesday. In the end, however, they were defeated, West Bromwich Albion, relegated at the end of last season, moved up to second place. A threat of return to former power is being held out by Newcastle United. They beat lowly Tranmere by five goals to one, and for the second successive Saturday center-forward Cairns scored three times.

Many goals have been registered against Manchester City in recent weeks. At Plymouth, however, their defense was kept intact. Swift giving a great display in goal. It will be heartening to followers of Manchester City to learn that their goalkeeper appeared to have regained his confidence to the full extent. Among the many neighboring clubs in opposition were Burnley and Blackburn Rovers. In a splendid struggle Clayton, the center-forward of Burnley, whose transfer was recently obtained from Aston Villa, scored twice in the first few minutes, and, later, had a third shot into the net disallowed. Clarke obtained both the Blackburn goals, giving a fine exhibition of inside-forward play, but failed to save his side from defeat, and the Rovers have dropped several places in the League table.

The story of exceptional results has to be continued in making reference to the Southern Section of the Third Division. Only two home teams—Reading and Bournemouth—gained full points, while visiting sides actually scored the greater proportion of goals. Walsall are still without a victory. The most creditable performance was the victory of Clapton Orient at Cardiff, whilst away successes of Newport County and Aldershot merely confirmed the improvement shown this season by these clubs. Starting their career in League football with two victories, Ipswich Town have since discovered the path to success most elusive, and only Walsall are below them in the League table.

More in accord with general expectations were the results in the Northern Section of the Third Division, although, however, Crewe Alexandra, occupying the leading position when they started against Stockport County, conceded more goals than any other team in the section.

The first serious knock-out competition of the season has ended in a triumph for Celtic, who had little difficulty in beating Clyde, and thus winning the Glasgow Cup once more. In the League competition Glasgow Rangers and Aberdeen registered home wins. Incidentally the games in which they were concerned were the only ones in which more than one goal separated the contestants at the finish, three matches being drawn at one goal each.

¥10,188 Is Donated To Army And Navy By 'Big Six' League

A sum of ¥10,188.10, or 10 per cent of the split to the member teams of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league from the gate receipts for the Fall season, has been contributed to the Army and Navy.

It is interesting that gate receipts for the 16 games up to October 2, including the Waseda-Meiji series, totaled higher than those for the 14 games afterwards, including the famed Waseda-Keio series. The former set yielded ¥5,840.26 as contribution to the Army and Navy, the latter, ¥4,347.84.

Horiguchi Wins By T.K.O. In 4th From Kikuchi

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi proved too tough for Goro Kikuchi, pride of the Shinko Boxing Club, and won by a technical knockout in the fourth of a scheduled ten-round bout Tuesday night at the Kokusai Gekijo in Asakusa before 6,000 enthusiastic fans that jammed the largest movie-house in the Far East to overflowing.

Horiguchi weighed in at 124 pounds and Kikuchi at 122½ pounds, but it is a cinch that the former was with a greater weight advantage when the gong sounded for the opening round.

Horiguchi Changes Tactics

It was a different Horiguchi that fought Tuesday night. His tactics have been to let his opponent lead during the early stages of a bout and then to wear him out through sheer aggressiveness as the rounds progressed. But with the gong Tuesday night, he was after Kikuchi like a tigress after a prey. He chased the latter all over the ring and scored heavily with lefts and rights to the head and body. Kikuchi fought gamely as he was forced to retreat from the avalanche of Horiguchi's blows, connecting with lefts and rights to the face, but they lacked power to slow up Horiguchi. The first round ended with Kikuchi bleeding from his nose and mouth.

Horiguchi started furiously in the second round, taking Kikuchi's punches without even as much as caring to block them, and pumping his straight lefts and rights to the body. Kikuchi hammered Horiguchi's face with one-two-three punches with his right, but being an overhand punch from close range, it failed to do much damage, and Horiguchi worked him against the ropes and punished him severely with lefts and rights to the body. It was another big round for Horiguchi.

Game to the core, Kikuchi was bleeding profusely but he came out fighting as the gong started the third. Horiguchi was a sucker for lefts and rights to the face, and as matter of fact, he took a bit too many and he was slowed up considerably. Kikuchi rocked him with lefts and rights to the head as the round ended.

Kikuchi started the fourth in auspicious style, continuing to score with lefts and rights to the face. Horiguchi started to bleed from his nose. The latter, determined to score a quick victory, kept boring in, and the rally being made by Kikuchi suddenly terminated when Horiguchi socked in a left to the jaw and followed with a straight right to the identical spot. Down went Kikuchi but he was up with a three count. He kissed the canvas again but was up again and started trading blows with Horiguchi right in the center of the ring, throwing all defense to the winds. Horiguchi had only to land one on the button for a knockout when Horiguchi's seconds tossed in a towel.

Aoki beats Yuki

Toshiro Aoki of the Fuji Boxing Club and Toshio Yuki of Osaka, two featherweights, put up a good scrap in the six-round semi-final. A right hook to the body won the decision for the former. Aoki weighed in at 125 pounds and Yuki at 127 pounds.

Stanford's Rally Tops Oregon, 27-16

N.Y. Times

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 15—Stanford came from behind to beat the University of Oregon, 27 to 16, today, giving the Northerners an unexpected setback in the Pacific Coast Conference football race.

In a brilliant but spotty performance, the Indians scored touchdowns on two passes, a blocked punt and a final drive through the Oregon line. Meanwhile, the Webfoot eleven piled up a 238-yard net gain on running plays, to the Indians' 75.

Oregon, by virtue of a field goal in the first period and a touchdown early in the second, held a 10-to-0 advantage until Quarterback Bill Paulman went into action.

He tossed a pass to right end Stojkovich, who ran 30 yards to a touchdown. A few minutes later he flipped another aerial to substitute end Graff, who ran 15 yards unmolested to a score. Stanford was ahead, 14 to 10, at the half.

Oregon came back to score in the third quarter, but a touchdown run by end Willard after a blocked punt put Stanford in the lead again.

The line-up:

Pos.	Stanford (27)	Oregon (16)
L.E.	Willard	Yerby
L.T.	Zagar	Foskett
L.G.	Pool	Giomanini
C.	Calvelli	Cadenasso

Yamagishi Beats Yugoslav Net Star

Franjo Kukuljevic, Yugoslav Davis Cup player, showed Japanese fans the potency of his left-handed service, but he fell to Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 ranking star, in two straight sets, 6-4 and 7-5, in the former's debut in Tokyo at the Denyen courts Tuesday afternoon.

Virtually all the service that went to Yamagishi's back hand resulted in aces. And then his forehand drives in which he put plenty of speed gave the Japanese Davis Cupper plenty of trouble throughout the afternoon. But he was woefully weak in his back hand, and this proved to be the biggest factor for Yamagishi's rather easy victory. It must be said, however, that the latter played the tennis he is capable of, and that is something when it is considered that he is among the ten first ranking players of the world.

With a little more practice on the part of the Yugoslav star, who arrived last week from the United States en route to Manila, there should be a great match between the two Davis Cuppers when they meet in the second exhibition matches at the same courts on Saturday and Sunday.

Fumiteru Nakano, team-mate of Yamagishi on the Davis Cup team, defeated R. Mouvet of Belgium, 6-2 and 6-4, in the other singles match.

Yamagishi and Nakano also took the doubles from Kukuljevic and Mouvet, 7-5, 6-1 and 6-4.

Nebraska Held To Scoreless Tie By Indiana Eleven

N.Y. Times

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 15—Opportunity knocked repeatedly for Nebraska but Indiana knocked too, and their interconference football game today ended scoreless. A crowd of 31,000 watched the tussle. The result left each team still gunning for its first victory of this season.

The Cornhuskers were in scoring position six times. The Hoosiers used most of their efforts blocking Nebraska's attempts, which seemed to lose force near the goal line.

A sophomore halfback, Herman Rohrig, made four attempts to score for the Huskers by way of field goals, but each effort was wide or short. Nebraska's most serious bid for victory came late in the third quarter.

Captain Paul Graham, Indiana fullback, fumbled on his 21-yard line and Center Charley Brock recovered for Nebraska. Halfback Harry Hopp punched the line on fourth down with a yard to go and made a first down on the Indiana 10.

Rohrig plowed through for 4 yards and Fullback Bill Callihan added another yard to place the ball on the Indiana 5. Hopp lost 2, and his pass to Rohrig was complete but fumbled. Indiana recovered to stop the threat as the quarter ended.

Two pass interceptions in the final period made it look as if the Huskers might score, but those chances fizzled also.

The first downs were five for Nebraska and four for Indiana. Nebraska made 109 net yards rushing and Indiana 53.

The line-up:

Kameda Pitches One-Hitter To Aid Eagles' Victory

Ted Kameda, who hails from Honolulu, had a good day Tuesday and he pitched a one-hit game to aid the Eagels to trim the Hankyus, 4-0, in the best tilt of the professional league's tripleheader at the Korakuen stadium.

He struck out ten men and issued four free passes to first. The only man to nick him for a hit was Rightfielder Nishimura, who singled to center in the third inning.

Centerfielder Nakane put the Eagles into a 2-run lead in the last half of the first with a homer into the right field stands with a man on.

A perfect bunt by Urushibara with Sugitaya on third scored another for the Eagles in the seventh. Onuki's round-tripper into the left field bleachers accounted for the other in the eighth.

The Giants added another in their race for the championship by routing the Dolfins, 9-4. Centerfielder Ito contributed to the victory with homers.

The Tigers banged out 12 hits to down the Nagoya team, 6-2.

Waseda Routs Rikkyo Eleven By 33-6 Score

By KOSHI MIYAZAKI

The powerful, championship-bound Waseda University gridders, swamped the Rikkyo eleven 33 to 6 in a thrilling game Wednesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

The game was broadcast over station JOAK and Prof. Ogawa of Rikkyo University gave a play by play explanation in Japanese over the speaker to the 500 spectators.

Outplay Rikkyo

The Maroon ball totters clicked like a clock and they outplayed Rikkyo in every department of the game. Every time Waseda came into possession of the ball they just bored through the ragged Rikkyo defense and marched down the field for touchdown. Many spectacular runs were executed by the heavy Maroon backfield. R. H. Larry Kunimoto intercepted a long Rikkyo pass, early in the third quarter and galloped 50 yards for touchdown, with Naito taking down the two would-be tacklers. F. Kojack Naito also romped 25 yards for touchdown on an intercepted fumble, late in the second quarter and made another spectacular 50 yard return on a kick-off in the third quarter. Coach Clarence Sakaguchi almost scored a touchdown in the last few minutes before half time. He snagged Suzuki's beautiful long pass over the left flank, side-stepped, two Maroons and took-off for 43 yards. It was only the speedy legs of Coach Richard Fukuda of the Maroons who managed to catch up and down him on the 30 yard line. The half-time robbed Rikkyo of their chance to score.

Rikkyo really lacked both team work and fighting spirit. Tiny L. H. Shima, was the only man on Rikkyo's team who had his heart and soul in the game. He practically did all the tackling himself. He was in every play and did most of the ball carrying too. His blockings were beautiful and they paved the way for Q. Suzuki and F. Captain Hosoda, two boys who also played a bang-up game.

But Rikkyo's greatest weakness was in defense. Nearly all of its players, with the exception of Shima, tackled high and the Maroon backfield had a great day using the straight-arm jab. On one occasion, R. H. Nishioka took the ball around right end, running without interference, he shook off and jabbed six Rikkyo men squarely in the face, and it took Shima to down him finally after he had gained 15 yards.

Waseda Uses Subs

Coach Fukuda of the Maroons started the game with his first string but later mixed up the combination with his second stringers. The second string backfield did just as much damage on offense with their power plays but were rather ragged on defense. But the second string linemen held their own and the new players look quite promising.

Waseda's first touchdown came in the first three minutes of play. "Doc" Noguchi returned Rikkyo's bad punt to the 35 yard line. L.H. Nishioka hit right tackle four times for a total of 20 yards, then F. Naito carried the ball twice on a reverse left end run, and crossed the goal. Try for conversion by place-kick failed. Score: Waseda 6, Rikkyo 0.

On the next kick-off Rikkyo vainly tried to break through Waseda's line with their power plays but, finding the Maroon line impregnable, Kuribayashi stepped back and booted the ball to Safety-man Naito, who made a beautiful 20 yard return to the 53 yard line.

From here, Waseda this time took to the air and brought the ball own to the three yard line, only to lose it by a fumble.

Rikkyo's ball again they took no chances and Kuribayashi again punted a high one to "Doc" Noguchi, who dropped it, to be recovered by Rikkyo's Captain Hosoda. Rearing to go, Rikkyo stepped into formation with Shima at back, for what looked like an end run. But the ball slipped out of Shima's hands and it was again Waseda's ball on the 50 yard line.

Again Waseda utilized their powerful line and marched across the field with a succession of nine line bucks. Kojack Naito hit center to cross the goal and also converted with the same center plunge. Score: Waseda 13, Rikkyo 0.

In the second quarter both teams took to the air but only one pass was complete. Q. Suzuki flipped a beauty to Coach Sakaguchi which gained 43 yards. But prior to this, on Rikkyo's 41 yard line, Q. Suzuki attempted to take the ball around left end. Waseda's best tackle, "Diamond" Shimamura rushed in so fast and tackled Suzuki so hard that the ball bounced off his chest, right into the arms of R. E. Fukushima. The quick thinking Fukushima lateralled it to Kojack Naito who romped 25 yards for the third touchdown. He smacked a high-tackling Rikkyo man straight in the face with his straight arm, on this run. An attempt for conversion by a center plunge failed.

Score:—

Rikkyo	0

Waseda started the third quarter with its first string back and second string line. Sai kicked-off to Suzuki who returned it to the 40 yard line. Three line bucks gained only six yards. Suzuki stepped back and flipped a long pass over the left flank. Larry Kunimoto snagged the ball from the air and galloped 50 yards for the fourth touchdown. Naito hit right tackle for the extra point.

Score:—

Waseda	26
Rikkyo	0

Rikkyo Scores

Sai kicked-off for Waseda, again and Hosoda was tackled on the 25 yard line. Two line bucks gained five yards but an attempted pass lost six yards so Kuribayashi stepped back and booted a high one which bounced over Naito's head. The Rikkyo ends were down fast and recovered the fumble on the 30 yard line. A long pass over the right flank gained 20 yards. Shima hit center for 2 yards. Hosoda went around right end for four yards. Another center plunge by Shima crossed the goal. Try for conversion by a line play failed.

Score:—

Waseda	26
Rikkyo	6

Waseda's last touchdown came as a result of Rikkyo's fumble. Captain Nakayama recovered Shima's fumble on Rikkyo's 30 yard line. L. H. Nishioka broke through for 15 yards around right end without interference. Then Naito crossed the goal with a reverse left end run. Captain Nakayama's place-kick cleared the bar for the extra point.

Chicago Defeated By Iowa, 27 To 14

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—Presenting a powerful running attack, Iowa won its first Big Ten football game since 1935 today when the Hawkeyes walloped Chicago, 27 to 14, before less than 10,000 persons at Stagg Field.

Iowa quickly scored a touchdown in the first period, after a weak Chicago punt went out on the Maroon 39. McLain went around end for the final 4 yards. Niles kicked the point. Busk set the stage for another Iowa touchdown when he grabbed Hamity's pass and dashed to the Chicago 25. Niles and Kinnick alternated in cracks at the line. Niles going over from the Chicago 2. Niles kicked the goal.

Eicherly, Niles and Busk ripped the Maroon forwards in the fourth to the Chicago 11, where Murphy hit the line for a touchdown. But the Maroons came right back for their second touchdown on Sherman's pass to Meyer.

Duke Eleven Tops Georgia Tech, 6-0

N.Y. Times

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 15—Duke's powerhouse struck quickly at the first of the second half and defeated Georgia Tech, 6—0, today in an inter-Conference game witnessed by a crowd of 23,000.

The touchdown, a 7-yard right tackle slice by Wesley McAfee, ended an advance covering 85 yards which was started by Bob O'Mara's spectacular 60-yard return of the kickoff opening the last half.

All the scoring power then was packed in the next five plays. McAfee in two tries got 4 yards at tackle, then tried a pass which failed. On the fourth down he shot the ball like a bullet to Jim Marion for 14 yards to Georgia Tech's 7-yard stripe. McAfee then ran far to his right, cut back through a wide hole and crossed the goal line virtually untouched.

Coach Wallace Wade rushed Anthony Ruffa, a tackle and point-kicking specialist, into the game to try for the extra point from placement, but the ball sailed wide.

Duke's Blue Devils had a clear edge over the Engineers from the Southeastern Conference, but the crowd was kept on a nervous tension by fumbles, pass interceptions and daring, sometimes costly plays by the Georgians.

Georgia Tech offensively never carried the ball beyond the Duke 22-yard line but the Devils reached the Tech 5-yard line at the end of the first quarter, to the 16-yard mark in the fourth period and saw drives that sent the ball to the Tech 9-yard line as the game ended.

Duke rolled out nine first downs compared with three for Tech. The Devils gained 125 yards from scrimmage compared with eighty-one for the invaders. But the Yellow Jackets had the edge in gains by passes, seventy-six yards to sixty-three, when they completed six of twenty efforts as compared with five completions in fourteen tries by Duke.

Texas Christian Routs T. Aggies By 34 To 6 Score

N.Y. Times

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 15—Unbeaten Texas Christian University blew the Texas Aggies off their own field to win, 34—6.

Seven minutes after the opening kick-off before 25,000 the T. C. U. giants, led by little Davey O'Brien, started scoring. Dick Todd, Texas A. and M.'s broken field runner, tried valiantly on two kick-offs to cut the lead, returning 65 and 50 yards before Ki Aldrich, 200-pound center, slammed him out of bounds.

Aldrich, greatest figure on the field, played fifty-eight minutes of spectacular defensive football and was given a thunderous ovation.

Seven minutes after the start T. C. U. took off from the Aggie 48, O'Brien passing 23 yards to Durwood Horner, then giving way to Sparks, who cracked the Aggie line to the 10. O'Brien hurled a waist-high pass direct to Halfback Johnny Hall on the 6 and Hall went across. O'Brien missed the try for point.

Starting on the Aggie 20, O'Brien and Sparks smashed through the Cadet line to their 46, then O'Brien passed to Hall again on the Aggie 27. Trapped, he wheeled and threw laterally to Fred Shook, guard, who scored. O'Brien added the point.

In the third period Steffens picked up O'Brien's fumble on the T. C. U. 40 and Todd and Britt reached the 9. Hogers circled left end for the score.

O'Brien then ordered a running play or two, passed to Don Looney on the 15 and spotted Charlie Williams on the goal for a score.

Little Davey next passed to Charlie Williams on the 9-yard line. This time the little fellow took the ball across.

Oregon State Tops Washington, 13-6

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 13—Taking advantage of Washington misplays, Oregon State College defeated the Huskies, 13 to 6, in a Pacific Coast Conference football game today.

Twenty thousand fans were dumbfounded to see Coach Jimmy Phelan's fumbling footballers make it three losses and a tie in four starts, after having been hailed as potential champions. As a consequence Oregon State moved into title consideration.

Five fumbles, one leading to Oregon State's first touchdown, put the skids under the Huskies and kept them from making any headway except when they made their score in five plays at the outset of the second half.

Ecuador Balsa Log

So light is balsa wood that a small girl can carry a huge log as easily as though it were a baseball bat. About half as heavy as cork, it is one of the lightest woods ever discovered—the bantamweight champion of the forests. Travelers are amazed to see loading crews at Ecuador ports toss around the huge logs of balsa as casually as though they were little more than air. Balsa is used for making model airplanes, lining refrigerators, surf boards, catamarans, and artificial arms and legs.

Yale Stops Winning Streak Of Navy By 9 To 7 Score

By KINGSLEY CHILDS

N.Y. Times

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15—Navy's football fleet floundered and had its winning streak smashed to fragments before 55,000 fans in the Yale Bowl today as the fighting forces of old Eli flashed a complete form reversal in the second half to triumph by 9—7.

Completely outplayed offensively during the first two quarters, Yale appeared headed for its third straight setback. But Coach Ducky Pond's men gave a brilliant display after the intermission.

Thrills galore have been recorded in the long and glamorous history of this football arena, but few games here have had as many exciting final-period moments as the battle today in ideal weather.

Checked temporarily at the Navy 8-yard mark midway in the third stanza, the Bulldog came charging right back and had the ball on Navy's 2 as the fourth session opened. Promptly, the Elis capitalized on this opportunity and Gil Humphrey shot a pass which traveled like a bullet to Bill Snavely for a touchdown.

Misses Placement Kick

The Yale rooters went wild at the sight of the first score registered against the Middies in four games this season. Then a hush quickly fell over the Bowl as Humphrey dropped back to try for the extra point from placement. When he failed, many in the stands thought the Eli cause was lost, but the Blue eleven on the field did not lose heart.

A few minutes later they were swinging downfield again, intent upon bagging the winning points in whatever fashion possible. Down around the 8-yard stripe the Annapolis contingent braced once more and, on fourth down, Humphrey slipped back to the 15 to attempt a field goal.

With Al Wilson holding the ball, Humphrey, the former Hotchkiss star, sent the pigskin over the crossbar and between the uprights, and the three points thus gained proved the difference between victory and defeat.

Little more than seven minutes of playing time remained then, but the Navy did not give up the ship. They began an aerial bombardment and struck hard with ground plays to reach Yale's 9-yard mark.

It was first down for the gold-jerseyed Middies at that point, and the Annapolis delegation in the stands howled with delight. But Yale made a marvelous defensive stand and held the opposition to two yards on a trio of plays.

With the ball on the Yale 7 and directly in front of the posts, Navy chose the field goal channel as its last hope of victory. Emmett Wood, who had place-kicked for the extra tally following the Navy touchdown in the first half, was entrusted with the task, while Lem Cooke held the ball on the 15.

The scoreboard clock said three minutes to go as Bill Moody, Yale right end, broke through and rushed the kicker. The ball sailed under the bar. Thus Yale's lead was preserved, Navy's string of three straight triumphs was snapped, and the Bulldog's gridiron mastery over the Middies was extended another notch. The teams have engaged in four clashes and Yale has always finished on the long end of the count.

Eli Passes Effective

The spectacular developments of the concluding session far overshadowed those of the first half, in which Navy gained its 7-to-0 lead. The Navy had rolled up six first downs while Yale had to be content with three. The Eli first downs, incidentally, were all engineered by passes. In this department the winners were outstanding, with Humphrey playing the firing role in brilliant style.

Halted at the Eli 27 midway in the opening quarter, the Middies soon plowed back again to the 19, only to lose the ball when Humphrey intercepted a pass by Cooke.

Yale had apparently crawled out of this hole in the second quarter when John Miller puted out to the Navy 13, the ball traveling 75 yards from the kicking point. But the invaders reeled off a couple of first downs and in a jiffy were back in Eli territory again.

Once more their attack stalled in the neighborhood of the Yale 40 and Cooke punted. The ball bounded past Humphrey to the Eli 5 and Miller was forced to kick from behind the goal line on first down. He booted out of bounds at the Yale 41 and on the next play Navy struck with the suddenness of a tropical hurricane for its touchdown.

Long Toss by Cooke

While a couple of his back-field mates faked reverses, Cooke cunningly faded back to the 50 and heaved down the right side of the field. At the 5, Ulmont Whitehead, in the clear, grabbed the ball and crossed the goal line standing up. Wood added the extra point.

In the waning minutes of the quarter, the Elis again were struggling to keep afloat. Substitute Cliff Lenz had intercepted a pass flung by Yale's Ray Anderson and dashed 17 yards to the home team's 28. Lenz tossed to George Ghesquiere for first down at the 10, but the wearers of the Blue yielded just five yards on three ground thrusts and then knocked down a fourth-down end-zone pass.

Yale took the second-half kick-off and progressed 60 yards, with Humphrey pitching aerials to Art Dyess and Johnny Miller for sizable gains, while Wilson added yardage on running plays. Reaching the enemy 8, the Elis could go no farther.

Later Humphrey darted 10 yards to the Navy 34 upon receiving a punt and Yale started the advance to its touchdown, with Humphrey and Wilson sharing the spotlight. The former chucked a pass to John Miller for first down at the 22 to begin the drive and then became a prominent cog in the running offensive along with Wilson as Yale went along to the 2.

Lenz Fumbles Kick-Off

Humphrey resumed his hurling duties as the final stanza got under way and Yale scored. He fired the ball at Snavely, who went over. Lenz fumbled the subsequent kick-off, and Snavely recovered for Yale at the Navy 33, but on the next play Earl Malcolm intercepted a Humphrey toss.

However, Yale began clicking again after Whitehead punted to Humphrey at the Eli 39 and from that point the victors swept along to get into position for Humphrey's field goal.

On their last drive, the middies sailed more than 45 yards, after getting the kick-off at their 44. A pass from Cooke to Captain Lucien Powell that netted twenty-eight yards and planted the ball on the Yale 9 was the highlight of the advance.

Giants Increase Lead Over Tigers In Pro Ball Loop

The Giants increased their lead in the near-ending fall season of the professional baseball league to 5½ games over the second place Osaka Tigers by defeating the Nankai team, 3-1, in Thursday's triple-header at the Korakuen stadium.

The Tigers would have climbed a notch higher in the standings but for their 2-0 setback at the hands of the Senators.

Bombarding Pitchers Ted Kameda and Ted Furukawa, both from Honolulu, for 16 hits, the Osaka Hankyus routed the Eagles, 13-5, in the day's nightcap.

The cellar-holding Nankai squad put up a game fight against the Giants. A homer by Pitcher Miyaguchi into the right field stands in the fifth gave the team a 1-0 lead up to the eighth. With the exception of a double by Left Fielder Ito in the second, Miyaguchi had been giving the Giants plenty of trouble and seemed well on the way to victory.

But the Giants came to life in the last half of the eighth. Pitcher Mayekawa started the ball rolling by gaining life at first on the third baseman's miscue of his grounder. Miyaguchi apparently began to show signs of tiring and Mihara leaned on a fat one for a double to right center to bring in Mayekawa to deadlock the score. Chiba walked to fill the bags. Nakajima's grounder tunneled through Shortstop Kobayashi's legs and Mihara and Shiraishi tallied.

Pitcher Kaneko of the Senators contributed to the team's 2-0 victory over the Tigers by yielding only five hits. Misonou too of the Giants hurried a good game, allowing six hits.

First Baseman Endo accounted for the Senators' runs with a round-tripper into the left field stands with Omoda, who had walked, on the bags.

Hornsby Appointed Baltimore Manager

N.Y. Herald Tribune

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10—Rogers Hornsby, who held many of the individual titles in major league baseball, signed as manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League tonight.

John Ogden, general manager, in announcing the deal, said there had been several weeks of dickering. Ogden declined to reveal terms but it was reported Hornsby, at one time one of the highest paid players, will receive $10,000.

But even $10,000 is a high for Hornsby in the minor league. Travis Jackson, former Jersey City manager, has hitherto been considered top salary man with a reported $9,000.

Hornsby replaces Bucky Crouse. The Rajah served for a time last season as coach and pinch hitter for the Orioles, but talk of dissension spread and he announced he was going home. For the remainder of the season he worked with Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

Hornsby is now at Hot Springs, Ark., where he is arranging for the opening of the baseball school he conducts in the Spring.

Waseda And Meiji Favored To Defeat Rikkyo And Keio

Two good games are in store for rugby fans Saturday and Sunday at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

Waseda clashes with Rikkyo on Saturday and Meiji takes on Keio on Sunday.

The first named is favored to win in each case but victory will not come without a battle. Waseda, the title-holder last year, already has been defeated by Tokyo Imperial and will take no chance against Rikkyo.

Cambridge Beats St. Bartholomew's Fifteen, 25 To 10

Times, London

LONDON, Oct. 20—Cambridge University beat St. Bartholomew's Hospital by three goals, one dropped goal, one penalty goal, and one try (25 points) to two goals (10 points) at Cambridge yesterday.

For a considerable time the University were not wholly convincing, and it was not until the closing stages that they had the Hospital team in difficulties. The Cambridge center triangle did not work quite so smoothly as usual, as Bruce Lockhart was scarcely so safe with his hands and Forrest was closely marked, but later, when the Hospital's defense was beginning to show signs of weakening Forrest showed something of his true form. Geddes was in splendid form at full-back and Reed did several good things, while Knapp, the Welsh Freshman, made a satisfactory first appearance. The Cambridge forwards were erratic and not quite as good as they should have been.

The visitors attacked strongly and on a number of occasions they tried their opponents highly. Altogether Candler was never very prominent. The Hospital left gaps in their defense of which the home side were not slow to take advantage and two of the University tries came from mistakes made in this way. St. Bartholomew's got the ball in the scrummage quite as frequently as Cambridge, but on the whole their backs were not sufficiently clever enough when it came to pace and tactics in the open. Although the Hospital worked hard at the start they could not penetrate the home defense and nine minutes from the start Downes made an opening which was followed by several passes before Reed raced over and Geddes kicked a goal. St. Bartholomew's were kept on the defensive for a short time but they cleared, and when Forrest failed to hold a pass Irving scored a try which Macpherson converted. The University gained some advantage from the breeze, which was apparent when the Hospital were penalized near the center line and Geddes kicked a fine goal, while just before the interval Bruce-Lockhart dropped a goal to give them a lead of 12 points to five.

The start of the second half saw Cambridge forcing the attack and Downes cut through but his pass to Knapp near the line was forward. Shortly afterwards the visiting full back failed to gather a short punt and Parry scored an easy try which Geddes converted. The visitors were held on the defensive until a loose rush transferred play to the University's line, where St. Bartholomew's wheeled the scrummage with the ball in possession and scored a try which Macpherson converted. The Hospital were now showing determination and after Macpherson had missed a penalty goal Knapp cleverly cleared a dangerous situation. The University, however, were not to be denied and a good run by Forrest and Reed ended in Forrest scoring for Geddes to make it a goal. Two penalty kicks by Macpherson failed and just before the finish Forrest picked up in the scoop and was clear in a flash for a try under the crossbar which Geddes converted. The University showed their superiority at the end.

The teams were:

Temple Swamps Bucknell, 26-0 To Stop Streak

The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—Temple, battered by Pitt and Texas Christian University, came back tonight to swamp a favored Bucknell eleven, 26—0, before a crowd of 18,000. The defeat toppled Bucknell from the ranks of unbeaten teams.

John Berrier of Harrisburg, Pa., and Mike Lukac of Lansford, Pa., shifty halfbacks, led the Owls to the most decisive victory scored in the twelve-year rivalry between the teams and the first a Warner-coached Temple eleven has gained over the Bisons. The previous largest score in the series was made by Bucknell in 1933 in winning, 20—7.

Berrier brought the climax to a 43-yard advance by going off tackle 6 yards for the first touchdown. Lukac scored twice, the first time on a 13-yard run and later on a short plunge off tackle. A 69-yard drive, with Al Nichols going over from the 1-yard stripe, accounted for the other Temple score.

Fog Hides Players

Bucknell threatened in the second quarter but Bill Lane fumbled on the Temple 9 and Bowles recovered for Temple. In the last quarter, with a dense fog making the players almost invisible from the press box, Bucknell reached the Temple 4 and 19, but failed to score.

Making fifteen first downs to six and gaining 241 yards from scrimmage to 26, Temple dominated the game from the opening kick-off. A Temple kick that went to the Bucknell 6 a minute after the start of the game led to the Owl's first score.

Lane's punt from behind the goal line carried to the Bucknell 43, from where Temple started a drive behind fierce blocking. Nichols' 10-yard gain off tackle put the ball on the Bucknell 6, from where Berrier went over.

Nichols Intercepts Pass

Nichols intercepted a pass from Lou Tomasetti a few seconds later, giving the ball to Temple in mid-field. Clem Stevens threw a short forward to Lukac, who raced 34 yards to the Bisons' 13. Lukac went wide around end on the next play to score.

Temple took the second half kick-off and marched 69 yards in ten plays for a third score, Nichols going over from the 1. Later Lukac intercepted one of Tomasetti's aerials and returned 26 yards to the Bucknell 15. Berrier made first down on the 3, from where Lukac scored on a triple reverse.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

He Won The Wager

When cronies of Nels Patrick, Quimby, Iowa, youth, offered to give him a 100-pound sack of sugar if he could carry it without setting it down, to Schisselville, 4 3/5 miles away, he accepted the challenge. He was preceded and followed by a car to make sure he followed the regulations of the contest; he was permitted to stop to rest, but was prohibited from sitting down or leaning against any object. Although he carried the 100 pounds over icy roads, the 138-pound youth covered the entire distance making only one stop—to take off his rubbers.

Stellar Combination Broken Up

With J. Donald Budge, left, world's greatest tennis player signing on the dotted line for $75,000 contract, the most famous doubles team in the United States has seen the end of its days. Gene Mako, right, will be teamed hereafter with Jack Tidball, former intercollegiate champion from the University of California at Los Angeles.

Budge Turns Professional Signing $75,000 Contract

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Climaxing months of negotiations, J. Donald Budge, 22-year-old kingpin of America's amateur tennis sport, last night accepted sports promoter Jack Harris' standing offer of $75,000 to turn professional. The world's greatest amateur player received $25,000 immediately upon signing his contract.

In addition, Budge will receive privileges of taking a percentage of the gate receipts if the percentage exceeds the $75,000 guarantee. He had for mord than six months been holding out for $100,000.

The Californian will make his professional debut against H. Ellsworth Vines, Jr., next January 3 at Madison Square Garden, following which the two, accompanied by Bruce Barnes and Dick Skeen, will make a tour throughout the country, playing about 50 matches.

Budge reached the pinnacle of his tennis fame during the past year by establishing a grand slam, winning the American, French, Australian and Wimbledon championships. He was also the backbone of the United States Davis Cup team which won the trophy in 1937 and which successfully defended it this year.

Mako Gets New Partner

Domei Tsushin

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10—Simultaneous with the announcement that J. Donald Budge had accepted an offer of $75,000 to turn professional, Gene Mako, his long-time doubles partner, announced today that he would henceforth team with Jack Tidball, former national intercollegiate champion from the University of California at Los Angeles. Tidball defeated Budge in an exhibition match two weeks ago in the latter's last appearance as an amateur.

Commenting on the outlook of amateur tennis with the departure of Budge, Perry Jones, secretary of the California Tennis Association, declared that there will be "somebody else" next year. "When William Tilden turned professional," he added, "everybody thought it would be the last of amateur tennis in the United States, but subsequently Ellsworth Vines appeared, and then Budge."

Saban Outpoints Pacho In 8 Rounds

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—Baby Salvy Saban, 153½ pounds, Greenwich Village, received the decision over Bobby Pacho, 149¾, Mexico, in the feature eight-round bout at the New York Coliseum in the Bronx last night before 7,000 persons. Aggressiveness and clever fighting at close quarters accounted for his victory.

In a six-rounder Ed Alzek, 139, Brooklyn, beat Mike DeStefano, 146¼, Philadelphia. Over the same distance Mike Gomeri, 140, Greenwich Village, drew with Joe Zoddea, 140¾, New Haven.

Three four-round bouts completed the program. Frank Reese, 133, Harlem, triumphed over Lou Fortuna, 134, Philadelphia. Angelo Santorelli, 134, Jamaica, beat Frank Savia, 136, East Side. Frank Conn, 133, Brooklyn, scored a technical knockout over Frank Di Lillio, 134¾, West Side, in 2:14 of the second round.

Jackie (Kid) Berg, 147, London, won the decision from Johnny McHale, 150½, Brooklyn, in the feature eight-rounder last night before 5,000 at the Broadway Arena in Brooklyn.

In the eight-round semi-final Mickey Farber, 134½, East Side, outpointed Johnny Cabello, 132½, Puerto Rico, and in a scheduled six, Tommy Tucker, 130, East Rockaway, stopped Leonard Neblett, 188, Flatbush, in 1:51 of the first.

In fours, Maxie Shapiro, 128½, East Side, halted Tony Della, 126¾, West Side, at the end of the second; Tommy Fontana, 131¾, Brooklyn, knocked out Alex Cupiano, 136, Santo Domingo, in 1:40 of the second, and Vince De Marco, 134, Brooklyn, defeated Nat Kolin, 131¾, Brownsville.

Durocher Named New Manager Of The Dodgers

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—Leo Ernest Durocher, up to last Summer still the ranking shortstop in the National League and known far and wide as Lippy Leo, is the new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Formal announcement of his appointment to succeed Burleigh Grimes, deposed last Monday, was made by General Manager Larry MacPhail at a luncheon in the Hotel New Yorker yesterday. If it did not exactly floor the assembled baseball scriveners with surprise, it certainly was not lacking in customary MacPhailian fanfare.

Leo himself was present to take over the talking with the same facility that has marked his superb defensive play in the field. He said he was signing for one year at terms which could not be revealed because they had not yet been determined. But there will be no trouble on that score.

"When Mr. MacPhail offered me the job," said Leo, "I told him I would sign a blank contract and let him write in his own figures."

Both Receive Congratulations

Privileged to name his own coaches, Durocher said he has chosen Chuck Dressen and Bill Killefer, both of whom were also present to receive congratulations. Dressen, former Cincinnati Red infielder and subsequently manager of that club under the regime of MacPhail, piloted Nashville the past season. Killefer, one-time battery mate of the famous Grover Cleveland Alexander, has been managing the Sacramento club in the Pacific Coast League the past three years.

The appointment of these two who, along with Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Wilson, had been outstanding candidates for the managerial job, definitely eliminates Babe Ruth from the Brooklyn picture for 1939.

At this point, however, MacPhail hastily interrupted to explain that this should not be construed to mean the Dodgers, who gave the Babe the opportunity to return to baseball last Summer as coach, were closing the door again on the glamorous Bambino.

"As I said a number of times," said Larry, "Ruth, while available to us as manager, was never considered by us for that post. However, he could have remained as coach, but for this he told me he would not be available."

Other Irons in Fire

The interpretation on this, of course, was that Ruth at present has other irons in the fire which may yet enable him to realize his ambition to manage a club.

Durocher, who was 33 years old July 27 last, spoke freely on the Dodgers' 1939 prospects. It is not for nothing they dubbed him Lippy Leo years ago. He paid a surprisingly strong tribute to his predecessor.

"I think Burleigh deserves a lot of credit for what he did for us the past season," said Leo. "And though we finished seventh I know the Dodgers were a better ball club in 1938 than they were in 1937. I am even more confident we will be better in 1939."

On he rattled. Van Lingle Mungo, former fireball ace, is not to be placed on the auction block. He believes Mungo is still of potential twenty or even thirty game winner.

Durocher considers himself set at first base with Dolph Camilli, at third with Cookie Lavagetto and at short, where he hopes to continue in the role of player-manager. Ernie Koy and Tut Stainback are his present fixtures in the outfield. He hopes the Winter trading season will enable him to come up with a left-handed, long-hitting gardener, and there is to be considerable experimentation at second base with much expected from Pete Coscart, a Nashville recruit highly recommended by Dressen.

Mound Problem Great

Pitching offers his gravest problem, but with Freddie Fitzsimmons and Luke Hamlin for a nucleus and always the possibility of a Mungo comeback present, Durocher is confident he will come up with a good mound corps.

And is this peppery fellow who once helped the Yankees win four world series games exactly ten years ago afraid of the present world champions? Not at all, and to prove it Leo revealed that in the exhibition campaign next Spring the Dodgers will meet the Yankees in eleven games.

A native of West Springfield, Mass., Durocher began his professional career with Hartford in the Eastern League in 1925 and was purchased at the close of that season by the Yankees, who optioned him to Atlanta in 1926 and St. Paul in 1927. He played with the Yankees in 1928 and 1929 under the late Miller Huggins, whom Leo still regards as one of the greatest managers of all time.

But though already earmarked by Huggins to become one of the game's greatest defensive shortstops, his inability to hit up to Yankee standards caused him to be cast adrift. He was sold to Cincinnati in 1930 and in 1933 went to the Cardinals to become one of the original members of the celebrated Gas House Gang.

Leo came to Brooklyn last Winter for Joe Stripp, Johnny Cooney, Jimmy Bucher and Roy Henshaw. His luck is proverbial and, though boasting a mere .250 lifetime batting average, he rates as an exceedingly dangerous man at the plate in a pinch.

The new pilot appeared in two National League all-star line-ups, 1936 and 1938, the only two years in which the National Leaguers won. He also took down a winner's share in the only two world series he has ever appeared, with the Yankees in 1928 and the Cardinals in 1934.

California Beats Washington, 14-7 By Strong Spurt

SEATTLE, Oct. 22—The University of California's marauding Bears, heading for a second straight Pacific Coast Conference football championship and the Rose Bowl, downed a fighting University of Washington eleven, 14—7, before 25,000 spectators today.

The Huskies, valiantly seeking their initial victory of the season, made a battle of it in all but the third quarter, when California pushed over two touchdowns in quick succession.

Tricky Reverse Functions

After fighting off a Washington attempt at a field goal, and getting nowhere in the first half, California finally got its tricky reverse functioning in the third period and rambled away for two touchdowns. All-America candidate Vice Bottari made the first and Louis Smith the second. The touchdowns were made in two long, sustained rushes, the first a 41-yard drive, and the second of 73 yards.

Washington made its score in the fourth quarter, outplaying the Bears during the entire last period.

The Huskies carried the ball to the California 3-yard line in the final fifteen minutes, only to have Halfback Rudy Mucha fumble, Halfback Ray Winterbottom recovered for California, and the Bears kicked out to their 38.

Gleason Makes Pass

Washington came right back, however, and scored with an aerial barrage, Right Halfback Johnson hauling down Gleason's pass for the score.

During the Washington drive Coach Stub Allison had the California regulars in the game trying to hold down the Huskies.

The line-up:

Dutch Mermaid Sets New Backstroke Mark

Domei Tsushin

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 10—A new world's record of one minute 48.3 seconds for the women's 150-yard backstroke was established in a tank meet here tonight by Miss J. van Feggelen, well-known Dutch swimmer. She already holds the world's mark for the 400-meter backstroke.

Eastern Counties Tops Kent, 13-8 In Rugby Battle

London Times

LONDON, Oct. 20—Eastern Counties, instead of losing to Kent by two dropped goals (8 points) to two goals and a penalty goal (13 points), should have won the first game in the South-Eastern Division of the County Championship played at Maidstone yesterday and won it comfortably.

Their forwards, who were very lively and backed each other up well in the loose, gained far more than their share of the ball in the set scrummages, heeled cleanly, and generally paved the way for success. Behind them H. R. Burt was exceptionally quick and accurate with his passes, while showing initiative when occasion arose. He started so many promising movements, and the handling of R. G. Oxborrow, O. Jones, and S. J. Williams was so crisp that tries seemed bound to come. Yet somehow they never did. On at least two occasions it was unfortunate for them that the same heavy-handed forward was up to take and drop the final pass, though credit must be given him for being there at all. Even without tries they might have won through penalty goals, of which a number were given them within easy range and at not unreasonable difficult angles. But neither R. Eidsforth or S. J. Williams could combine distance with direction.

A treacherous Surface

Although the ground appeared in excellent condition, the surface must have been treacherous, as players frequently slipped at critical moments. It was a good game, fast and open. On the comparatively few occasions on which Kent heeled the ball D. D. Thomas's passes went everywhere except to R. B. Comyn, of whom less was seen than usual. After coming across cleverly to bring R. C. S. Dick nearer to him before giving him the pass which opened Kent's score, G. F. Morgan was inclined to repeat the mancuver unnecessarily and so to edge Kent's attack across field. N. A. Bromage converted Dick's try into a goal. Eastern Counties, quite undaunted by this reverse, attacked more determinedly than ever, and short passing between R. G. Oxborrow, S. J. Williams, and T. A. Hall ended in the latter being tackled on the line. Instead of playing the ball with his foot before touching down Hall rashly picked it up, and lost not only a try but yards of valuable ground from Dick's penalty kick. R. L. France was very noticeable among the Kent forwards for good work, but though he, W. B. Young, and Bromage drove the Eastern Counties back time after time it was never for long. After good passing by the Counties' centers E. J. Unwin, finding his way blocked, doubled to the center, and while running at speed as though for the line and a try dropped an unexpected goal.

Scores 35-yard Goal

The Eastern Counties' forward restarted with great dash, and a weak clearance by Thomas went straight to Eidsforth's hands. By dropping a goal from 35 yards out he gave his side at last a lead they deserved. They were not to retain it for long, however, Bromage kicked a fine penalty goal to make the scores level. Before this the Eastern Counties had lost several scoring chances, and they were to lose many more. It was good to see R. G. Oxborrow and Jones going through the same opening together, but there was a tendency to over-elaborate. All against the run of the game, Young, Bromage, and France broke for the line, and France touched down for Bromage to kick another goal. Even then Eastern Counties had ample opportunity of winning, but threw away chance after chance through poor finishng.

The teams were:—

KENT.—C. A. C. de Boinville (Richmond), back; W. P. Barton (Blackheath), R. C. S. Dick (Guy's Hospital), G. F. Morgan (Old Dunstonians), and J. A. Macdonald (Blackheath), three-quarter backs; D. D. Thomas (Sidcup) and R. B. Comyns (Rosslyn Park), half-backs; C. E. Oxborrow (United Services), D. M. Harper (Richmond), A. C. Wallace (London Scottish), B. S. Downward (Blackheath), P. D. Gange (Blackheath), W. B. Young (King's College Hospital), N. A. Bromage (Old Dunstonians), and R. L. France (R.E., Chatham), forwards.

EASTERN COUNTIES.—R. Eidsforth (Bedford), back; E. J. Unwin (Rosslyn Park), O. Jones (Ford's), S. J. Williams (R.A.F., Feltwell), and W. E. Vesey (Old Cralloghans), three-quarter backs; R. G. Oxborrow (Midland Banks) and H. R. Burt (Bede College, Durham), half-backs; W. P. Wey (Upper Clapton), T. A. Hall (Old Haileyburians), H. A. Constantine (R.A.F., Feltwell), T. F. Huskisson (O.M.Ts), G. F. Smith (Blackheath), W. Phillips (The Brigands), L. Fox (United Services, Portsmouth), and J. D. Howard (Woodford), forwards.

Referee.—E. A. Richardson.

Lions Cross Up Giants By 6-2 In Pro Ball Loop

The Lions scored an upset by bumping off the league leading Giants, 6-2, in Friday's tripleheader of the professional baseball league at the Korakuen stadium.

Victory would have clinched the Fall season pennant for them and so the Giants were out there determined to win but the Lions bombarded the offerings of Pitchers Mizuhara and Mayekawa for 14 hits to stop them.

Kondo of the Lions chucked a good game and held the Giants to six hits.

The lowly Nankai team turned the tables over Nagoya, 15-4, while the Senators triumphed over the Eagles, 8-5, in the other two games.

Harris and Onaki of the Eagles poled homers for the Eagles without avail.

The summaries follow:

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

Christopher Columbus

Christopher Columbus first landed in the New World on the Island of San Salvador, October 12, 1492. On the same voyage he visited the islands of Rum Cay, Long Island, Crooked Island and Cuba, but did not come near the mainland. On his second voyage, in 1493, Columbus visited and named the West Indian Islands of Dominica, Marie Galante, Guadalupe, Monteserrat, Antigua, San Martin, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, but did not get as close to North America as on his first voyage.

On the third voyage, in 1498, he sailed very near to South America, landing on the island he named Trinidad, the South American mainland, but thought the land he saw was but a series of islands and he gave all the land peninsulas island names. On his fourth voyage, in 1502-1503, he visited the West Indies again, and sailed west to the north coast of Honduras and landed on the Island of Guanaja. From this point he sailed all along the coast of the mainland of what is now Central America down to South America, but he went back to the islands of West Indies and back to Spain without having set foot on either North or South America. And to his death he believed he had discovered a new route to India, instead of a New World.

His name was not Columbus but Christobal Colon. He always referred to himself as such. In his will he provided that no one could inherit his fortune unless his name be Colon. Pope Alexander addressed him in Latin as his "filius Christopherus Colon." When, 80 years after the Almirante's death, his entailed estate was liquidated for lack of a direct heir, a man by the name of Balthazar Columbus came forward to claim his fortune, the papal tribunal and the highest court of Spain, after long deliberations and testimony, decided that Columbus and Colon were two different names entirely unrelated to each other. See "Colon: in "Encyclopedia Universal Illustrada."

Chickens Wear Green Glasses

Chicken fanciers have discovered that fitting chickens with goggles that prevent them from seeing straight ahead, restrains them from pecking at each other and from fighting. At the Goodwill Industries Summer Camp, Athol, Mass., Rhode Island Red chickens have been equipped with green glasses. The glasses are attached by passing a thin wire through a thin membrane on the beak, which it is said, can be done, without discomfort to the bird.

Notre Dame Stops Carnegie Tech, 7-0 In Tough Battle

N.Y. Times

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 22—Notre Dame, off on another march for national championship honors, relegated Carnegie Tech to the ranks of the defeated teams today in the most bruising encounter of the Fighting Irish have played this season.

Notre Dame won, 7 to 0, but only after a savagely fought game that kept the crowd of 25,000 in an uproar of excitement. Third-string players accomplished what the regulars failed to do.

Outweighed and outmanned, the Scots waged a heroic battle for three furious periods to outplay Notre Dame. Then, after four minutes of play in the fourth, Notre Dame launched a touchdown drive that was set up in midfield when John Getchell, the referee, gave the ball to Notre Dame. The Carnegie players and even Coach William Kern swarmed around the referee to dispute the decision vigorously.

Piepul Start Drive

The fourth period opened with Tech making first down on its own 38, but failing then and Notre Dame taking the ball on downs on the Tech 46-yard line. Getchell told the invaders' quarterback that it was third down, then reversed himself. The protest of the Scots was of no avail.

Getchell conceded he had made a mistake in informing Quarterback Friedlander it was third down instead of fourth, but insisted Tech failed to make the needed distance on the play and since it was fourth down the ball went to Notre Dame. The Scots had a yard to go on the final play when Carnelly fumbled. Team-mate Laposki recovered, but the point of recovery was still shy of first down requirements.

Milton Piepul, third-string fullback, was in the Notre Dame backfield at the time and set off a scoring charge with an 18-yard smash through center, going to Tech's 18 before he was brought to earth. Then Willie Kerr, a substitute end from Newburgh, N. Y., dashed into the hero's role.

Sheridan slashed through left guard to reach the Scot 10, where he fumbled. The ball bounced forward and Kerr pounced upon it on the 7-yard stripe. On the next play Kerr, on an end-around, received the ball and dashed over the Carnegie goal line. Morrison, another third-stringer, added the extra point with a perfect boot.

That was Notre Dame's one and only scoring chance. For the previous periods Carnegie repulsed Notre Dame's running attack with vicious tackles. Notre Dame relied on power and drive all the way and heavy only one forward pass.

Simonich Is Carried Out

The tackling of the invaders was so vicious that they lost 30 yards because of their rough playing. They hit big Ed Simonich, Notre Dame fullback, so hard in the fourth period that he had to be carried off the field.

Carnegie Tech, chalking up six first downs to four for Notre Dame, was in scoring position twice. In the opening period Reith, a Tech guard, pounced on the ball when Simonich fumbled on the Notre Dame 19. The invaders failed on three running plays and also on Condit's attempt to score on a pass to Striegel.

Carnegie missed a second scoring chance in the third, when Simonich again fumbled on Notre Dame's 43. He was charged so viciously that the ball rolled out of his hands as he lay unconscious. Carnelly heaved a 14-yard pass to Condit, who was downed on Notre Dame's 24. The Tech backs gained 6 yards on two smashes and then Carnelly went to the air only to have the Irish knock the ball down.

George Muha was Tech's outstanding ball carrier and was dangerous from start to finish. The Scots' guards, Dominy and Reith, smeared the Notre Dame runners all over the gridiron.

Trojans Conquer Stanford, 13 To 2 To Tie With Bears

N.Y. Times

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 22—Southern California had to come from behind to defeat Stanford, 13 to 2, today, but when the Trojan Horse started galloping after the intermission there was nothing the Indians could do about it. The result enabled the Trojans to remain tied with California for the Pacific Coast Conference lead with three straight victories for each.

Thirty thousands spectators, including James Roosevelt, son of the President, sat under a warm sun to see the home team take an early lead with a lowly safety in the first few minutes of the struggle before going down to its first defeat in three Conference starts.

Two Points Loom Large

The two points thus presented to the Indians loomed large on the score board as the teams left the field at half-time, for although Stanford could not score again, a stout defense kept the visitors back in their territory most of the time.

Granville Lansdell ran a kick back seven yards to Stanford's 43 midway through the third quarter to start the Trojans on their winning way. A pass put the ball on the 31, and Lansdell followed with another pass to Halfback Bill Hoffman for a first down on the 18. Then, after two passes had miscued, Lansdell flipped a short one to Fullback Bill Sangster, who ran 14 yards for the touchdown. Phil Gaspar added the extra point with a kick from placement.

The final score came in the last quarter and was counted by Quarterback Mickey Anderson, playing for the first time in three weeks. He needed only three plays to cross from the 10.

Try for Point Fails

The way was paved by Sangster, who intercepted a pass on his 25 and ran to the 40. The Trojans went on from there in a series of short but potent thrusts. Hoffman's kick for the extra point was low.

Colgate Downs Iowa Eleven By 14-0 Count

N.Y. Times

IOWA CITY, Oct. 22—Colgate's Red Raiders, football aerial artists from New York State's Chenango Valley, struck twice with their favorite weapon today to humiliate Iowa, 14 to 0, in an intersectional game played before 10,000 shivering fans.

Crafty Andy Kerr's boys scored only two touchdowns, but their superiority was more than the score indicated.

Hall Lube, ace Colgate passer, sat on the side lines while Walter Davids and Edward Wilson took over the hurling assignment. Lube's side was strained in Colgate's victory over Columbia last week.

Hawkeyes Never Threaten

Colgate also had the complete answer to Iowa's offense. The Hawkeyes, their ball carriers getting little protective blocking, failed to make a first down by rushing. They did click through the air for two first downs and added a third by a penalty. Not once did Iowa threaten the Red Raiders' goal line.

After missing what appeared a certain touchdown because of a fumble shortly after the first kick-off, Colgate waited until late in the second quarter to score. Then the Red Raiders, mixing their aerial gunning with hard punches at the big Hawkeye line, drove from their 42 to the Iowa 8.

Davids faded back and snapped a perfect pitch to Art Zimmerman, who snatched the ball on the goal line out of the grasp of several Hawkeyes. Joe Hoague added the extra point with a place-kick.

A fifteen-yard penalty after a punt return put the Red Raiders on the Hawkeye 20 late in the fourth quarter. Wilson plunged to the 14 before a pass carried to the 6. Dilson hit the line twice more, then flipped a pass to John Long, substitute back, for the touchdown.

Busk Intercepts Pass

Little Russell Busk, the hard-playing Iowa quarterback, provided the only Iowa offensive gesture when he snatched a Colgate pass on his 30 and scampered through the broken field to the Red Raiders' 35 before he was hauled down.

Colgate lashed through Iowa's defense for 15 first downs, while the Hawkeys got only 3. The Red Raiders made a total of 230 yards, 179 by rushing and 96 by passing. Iowa made a scant 47 yards by rushing and 84 through the air.

The victory avenged a 12-to-6 defeat Iowa handed Colgate in 1935.

Arkansas Topples Texas Longhorns As Martin Leads

N.Y. Times

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 15—Lanky Neal Martin, a whirling dervish of a halfback, led the scarlet-shirted University of Arkansas Razorbacks to a 42—6 victory today over the Texas Longhorns.

Thrice in the first half Martin swivel-hipped his way over the Texas goal line from within the 10-yard stripe. He watched proceedings from the bench in the last half.

The Razorbacks surprised 10,000 shirt-sleeved fans by specializing in a ground attack for the most part, gaining 207 yards through the Texas line.

Recovers Blocked Punt

The hapless Texans scored first, Peterson blocking a Porker punt and picking it up to race 46 yards for a touchdown.

Arkansas started a drive immediately after the Texas score. A weak Longhorn punt went to the 35. Lyons passed 24 yards to Hickey. Martin skirted through tackle to score standing up.

Martin's 49-yard punt, which went out on the Longhorn 8, placed the visitors on the spot again. Bryan fumbled and Mosley recovered for Arkansas on the 4. Seemingly trapped far behind the line, Martin picked up his heels and cantered around end for a touchdown.

After Arkansas kicked off, Martin intercepted a Texas pass on the visitors' 35, ran 15 yards and lateraled to Mosley, who was stopped at the 5. Martin hit right tackle for the tally.

Eludes Texas Secondary

Gaining the ball on an exchange of punts in midfield, Lyons passed 15 yards to Yates, who eluded the Texas secondary to make it Arkansas 28, Texas 6 at the half.

A 66-yard aerial and ground drive gave the Porkers their fifth touchdown early in the third, Hickey scoring on an end-around play good for 11 yards.

Another fumble by Bryan paved the way for the final tally, Sutherland recovering on the Texas 11. Smith went around end to the 2, McDaniel hit the line for 1 and Mitchell cracked over.

Tulane Halts Rice In Exciting Battle

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15—Tulane University's football team not only stole Rice thunder in passing but counted on the ground as well in a 26-to-17 victory today.

The exciting contest showed Tulane possessed a backfield, led by Warren Brunner, with a versatile attack. Rice's 226-pound Ernie Lain also rose to the heights and, almost single-handed, nearly gained victory with his unerring passes and runs before 24,000 fans.

Rice seemed on the way to a steamroller victory in the first few minutes with a 48-yard drive to the Tulane 10. The Greenies braced, however. Lain connected on three passes to the 25, and Matt Landry, guard, place-kicked a field goal from a difficult angle.

Tulane drove to the Texans' 33. Hays passed beautifully to Paul Krueger on the 25, and the latter scored. Bob Kellogg's placement was blocked. Butler intercepted a Lain pass on the Rice 25, and Brunner tossed to Ralph Bodney for another touchdown. Billy Payne's placement was good.

Rice, after the half, went down the field on substantial gains by Lain and Jake Schuchle. Lain passed to Joe Brandon, who was behind the goal, for a touchdown. Landry's place kick was good.

Tulane started another drive in the final period and Payne, Cassibry and Brunner put the ball on the Rice 3. Harry Hays scored. Tom O'Boyle's place kick was blocked.

An intercepted pass gave Tulane the ball on the Rice 40 and Butler burst off tackle to the 3. Brunner made the score. Cassibry's kick was good.

Lain threw passes desperately in the closing minutes. E. Y. Streakley held on to one and threw laterally to Stokes Green on the Tulane 30. Streakley took Lain's pass for a score and Landry converted from placement.

The line-up:

Santa Clara Tops Arkansas, 21 To 6 In Bid For Title

N.Y. Times

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22—The undefeated, untied University of Santa Clara, one of the two great football teams of the West Coast, strengthened its bid for national recognition today with a smashing 21-to-6 victory over the University of Arkansas Razorbacks.

From the opening kick-off until the final gun barked it was the wildest, thrill-filled game seen here this year. Some 25,000 fans stayed until the last play as the ball changed hands time after time on intercepted passes, punts and recovered fumbles.

The Broncos, two-time Sugar Bowl champions and rolling ahead behind a finished, powerful team again this year, moved into a lead in the first period, scored another touchdown in the second quarter and piled up its margin with a third counter in the final fifteen minutes of play.

Tallies in the Second

Arkansas made its lone touchdown shortly after the second period got under way, the score coming on the tail-end of a 75-yard advance.

The Broncos scored first on a forward-lateral play, sub left halfback Clark tossing to right end Anahu and the latter flipping a lateral to John Schiechl, center, who sped some 20 yards to cross the goal line. It climaxed a spurt of 76 yards.

Arkansas pulled up to within nearly even terms after a drive which opened later in the first period and paid off in the second quarter. During the 75-yard thrust the Razorbacks abandoned their vaunted passing tactics until the scoring play. They moved along the ground to within 15 yards of the goal, where left half Kay Eakin tossed a lateral to sub right half Atwood, who dived over a couple of Santa Clarans to light in the end zone.

Fails to Make Point

Simington, right guard, failed to convert the extra point and the Razorbacks still trailed.

Shortly after, sub-fullback Roche bobbed up to intercept a pass by Lloyd Lyons, substituting at left half, and raced 52 yards to score in a clear field.

An intercepted pass paved the way for the fourth-period Bronco touchdown. Quarterback McCarthy snagged the ball 15 yards from the Arkansas goal and Clark went through left guard for 2 yards and the touchdown.

Rutgers Subdues Springfield, 6-0 In Tight Contest

N.Y. Times

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 15—The Rutgers football team closed forty-five years of gridiron history on Nelson Field today when it defeated a surprisingly strong Springfield College eleven, 6 to 0. Next week the Scarlet moves across the Raritan River to its new stadium to play its first game on the new site against Hampden-Sydney of Virginia.

The game was one of the tightest defensive battles seen here since Holy Cross downed Rutgers, 6 to 0, in 1932. Art Gottlieb kicked off for the Scarlet, and Linwood Gatley took the ball on the Springfield 10 and returned it to the 30. Al Solamon hit the line for no gain, picked up 2 yards through left tackle and then dropped back to kick.

Paul Harvey, Scarlet end, blocked his punt and Walt Bruyere recovered on the 15 and went over for a touchdown. Len Cooke's try for the extra point failed, and the scoring was over for the day.

Play Confined to Mid-Field

For the remainder of the first period the Scarlet penetrated no further than the Springfield 40, and Springfield never had possession in Rutgers' territory. The second quarter saw both teams resort to punting as their attacks bogged down in the face of determined line play.

In the third session a Springfield drive, featured by a pass from Ben Hargraves to Dick Redding for 18 yards, advanced the ball to the Rutgers 23, but here the Scarlet stiffened, and Springfield lost the ball on downs. Rutgers never carried the ball beyond mid-field in this quarter.

In the closing minutes of the last period Rutgers came to life and staged an offensive which carried from the Scarlet 11 to mid-field largely on the running of Burt Hasbrouck, who pounded through the line for gains of 13 and 14 yards on two successive plays.

The game ended, however, as the Scarlet reached midfield.

Rutgers, whose strong forte in the past two games has been its passing, took to the air only eight times, and completed passes only twice for gains totaling 30 yards. Rutgers made 8 first downs to Springfield's 3 and gained 129 yards by rushing against 38 by the Maroon and White.

Hargraves Springfield Star

Springfield tried 14 passes and completed only 3 for gains totaling 44 yards. The running and punting of Ben Hargraves, sophomore back of Springfield, stood out for the New Englanders.

Big Bill Tanavitch, Rutgers' backfield star, is in the university infirmary suffering from the possible fracture of two ribs. He played the entire first half, but did not appear on the field for the second.

The line-up:

The Original St. Raphael's Rectory

When it was built about a decade ago, the new St. Raphael's Rectory in Chicago was designed to include the old rectory, moved from a nearby street and elevated so the new structure could be built around and under it. It was believed that time and city grime would blend the old and new portions of the building. However, fate has decreed that the old rectory should remain a Chicago landmark—its bricks remain much lighter than those in the newer part of the building. The old rectory is famous as the place where "Our Nation's Prayer" was written.

N.Y. Times

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22—As game a team as has worn the Blue of Yale had one of the season's most stunning victories within its grasp today when a penalty for running into the kicker paved the way for its downfall at the hands of Michigan in the last seven minutes of play in the Bowl. The score was 15—13.

Leading by 13 to 8 and with most of the 45,000 spectators preparing to storm down on the field to celebrate the defeat of the powerful eleven that outplayed Minnesota last week and ruled a 3-1 favorite today, the tiring but savagely fighting Elis had their opponents stopped stonedead when misfortune struck from an unexpected quarter.

On fourth down, with the ball on its 20-yard line and 19 yards to go, Michigan dropped into punt formation. Bob Brooks and Arthur Dyess had just thrown Paul Kromer for a 12-yard loss in a manner typical of the defense Yale had been offering to the Wolverines' running attack up to this late point, and the team from the Big Ten looked to have met its master.

Din Ceases Suddenly

Purucker's kick was short and the Eli cohorts in the stands jumped to their feet cheering in anticipating of another score as Gil Humphrey, a a heroic performer all this beautiful Indian Summer afternoon, returned the punt to Michigan's 37-yard line. But the tumult and shouting stopped abruptly. The ball was being brought back.

Brooks, who had been doing a magnificent job on the defense, along with Captain Bill Platt and the sophomore, Harold Whiteman, had run into Purucher as he sought to block the kick. Michigan was given the ball on its 25-yard line and a first down.

Then and there the complexion of this first meeting between Yale and Michigan in fifty-five year changed. Lifted by this almost last-minute reprieve, the Wolverines caught on fire and the Elis were too tired to hold them in check.

In five plays Michigan went 73 yards, 52 of them on three passes thrown by Big Tom Harmon and Purucker. On fourth down, after Yale had stopped three successive running plays for a net of a yard's loss with another of its magnificent defensive stands, Harmon threw a pass into the end zone to John Nicholson for the touchdown that won the game.

Yale's Last Bid Fails

There were still five minutes left, and the Elis, goaded to fury by the cruel adversity that had snatched victory from them, struck back with the last ounce of strength they could muster, but Forest Evashevski squelched their last lingering hopes when he intercepted one of Humphrey's passes.

And so Coach Fritz Crisler's return to the East was crowned with victory over the team that caused him so much grief when he was at Princeton and which appeared to be on the verge of scoring as great an upset as was the 7-0 triumph of the Blue over the Tigers several years ago.

Although the statistics are in Michigan's favor, it is hardly unfair to say that the Wolverines were a little bit lucky to have won today. Certainly Yale was unlucky that a penalty (the justice of which is uncontested) should have turned the tide of what had been unquestionably a winning battle for the Elis.

Yale had dominated this ball game from the opening kick-off, when it put a complete quietus on Michigan's first efforts to advance the ball, to throw the Eli cohorts into a delirium of delight and leave them rubbing their eyes in wonderment. The Bulldog had demonstrated forthwith that this was to be a scrap and not the runaway that had generally been anticipated, and in short order it proceeded to reveal that it had an attack as well as a defense.

The game was not four minutes old when Humphrey intercepted a pass at his 45-yard line, and from there Yale went 55 yards in two plays to score. The Elis were committed to a passing game, figuring they would make little headway against a line that had played Minnesota to a frazzle in the closing stages and it was through the air that they struck.

Humphrey's first two passes were grounded, but for the rest of the half the brillint Yale quarterback gave an exhibition that Sid Luckman would have been proud of. He threw to John Miller for 20 yards and, after another had failed, he heaved the ball far down the field to Bill Moody, who caught it a yard short of the goal line and ran across for a gain of 35 yards and a touchdown.

The stands were a mass of hysterical shrieking people pounding each other on the back to make sure they were not dreaming.

Then came the first break of the day for Michigan. After John Miller had intercepted another pass Al Wilson fumbled and Nicholson recovered on Yale's 28. Harmon on powerful runner of great speed went 20 yards on a beautiful, snaky run that was the first sign of an offense the Wolverines had shown.

Safety on Blocked Kick

Here Yale showed the strength of its goal line defense and took the ball away on down on its 1-yard line. The cheers of its adherents had hardly died when Don Siegel rushed in to block John Miller's kick and recover the ball for a safety. It was not realized then, but these 2 points were to furnish the margin of Michigan's victory.

If any one had any fears that Yale had been playing over its head and that the turning point had been reached in the Wolverines' favor, they were speedily dispelled as the Blue started late in this opening quarter on a march of 80 yards to its second touchdown. Wilson began it with an end run of 25 yards behind the fine blocking of Whiteman and Moody, and the rest of the distance was negotiated mostly by Humphrey's passes.

He threw one to Dyess for 14 yards as the quarter ended, went through left tackle for 11 to start the second period, then threw three more. The first went to Wilson in the flat zone for 3 yards. The second was over center to Dyess for 15 and the last was caught by Moody in the pit of his stomach in the end zone.

The crowd's delight knew no bounds now, with Humphrey increasing the Elis' margin to 13—2 with his placement kick, and right after the next kick-off this amazing Yale team went on another march.

Elis Show Superiority

Starting from their 35, the Elis went to Michigan's 14. They were advancing the ball not only through the air but along the ground, and by this time the crowd was thoughly convinced Yale was the better team. Michigan was playing a disappointing game that mystified the stands.

The Wolverines had shown little on the attack and hardly any more on the defense. Their blocking was ineffectual and their tackling lacked the finality and punch expected of a team that had stood up so magnificently against Minnesota.

Apparently, Michigan, like all of Minnesota's other opponents this year, was paying the penalty for the punishment it absorbed from the Gophers. The only explanation that could be offered for its weak showing was that it was either overconfident or it was in a letdown and could not find the spark again against a Yale Bulldog that was full of fight and playing far better football than the Wolverines had probably counted on.

When Humphrey threw two strikes for 12 and 18 yards and a first down on Michigan's 18, then went to the 14, it seemed that the Wolverines lacked the strength to prevent another score, but they dug in and took the ball on downs and the half ended with Yale leading, 13—2, and by ten first downs to five, 70 yards net gain by rushing to 62 and 128 by passing to 61.

Poor Kick Costly to Blue

There wasn't any question of Yale being the better team thus far, but Michigan got into the ball game early in the third quarter after Humphrey had intercepted another pass near midfield. Miller got off a poor kick that went only 11 yards from the line of scrimmage, and Michigan, thus encouraged, proceeded 63 yards for its first touchdown.

A pass from Harmon to Purucker accounted for 52 yards, Purucker dashing 38 yards down the side for a first down on the 12.

Here Yale made another great stand, stopping three rushes for 3 yards. But on fourth down the Elis were fooled. Purucker, standing still on the line of scrimmage with the ball hidden, waited until the Elis had chased the Michigan decoys to their left, then he dashed to the 2-yard line for a first down. On the second plunge Purucker went over, making the score 13—9.

Neither team came close to a touchdown for the remaining eight minutes of the period, and it looked as if there would be no further scoring in the game until the final quarter was halfway over. Then came Purucker's kick and the penalty that touched off the dynamite in Michigan's attack at a time when the Elis were too tired to sustain their great defensive efforts.

Felix Caracciolo, one of the best of Yale's guards, had been hurt in the opening minutes of play, and with Bill Starbuck crippled and Joe Stack unable to play more than a few minutes, the Blue was short of hands to go in and fill the breach.

Cheers Echo for Players

It was a heart-breaking game for Ducky Pond's team to lose, but one of which both the embattled Elis and their coaches can well be proud, against an opponent that was expected to run all over them. The ovations for them individually as they left the field were ample testimony of how completely they had won the admiration of the crowd.

Captain Platt, Humphrey, Whiteman, Brooks, Moody and Dyess stood out vividly all through the play, but this was surely one instance on which it may be said that every man on the team did a great job.

Even the Yale band put up a good fight in competition with one of the finest ever seen in the Bowl. The Michigan band of 120 pieces, led by one of the fanciest-stepping drum majors ever to swing a baton, put on a show that had the crowd roaring its applause.

Rikkyo's victory settled this season's ranking of the five universities: First, Rikkyo with 4 wins; second, Waseda, with 3; third, Meiji with 2; fourth, Keio with 1; fifth, Tokyo Imperial with none.

Babe Ruth Still Looks For A Job

Babe Ruth, after all, may take the long road toward a managing job in the major leagues. He is considering at least two propositions in the American Association. Babe always said it was the majors or nothing for him. But since his experience at Brooklyn, he apparently has changed this policy, reports the Christian Science Monitor.

Of course, there is a slim possibility of the greatest slugger of all time signing elsewhere in fast company before 1939 looms on the calendar. But this is doubtful. Not once has his name been mentioned in connection with the berths at St. Louis.

Everyone knows that Babe is financially independent. He is assured of something like $1,400 a month through annuities and collects in the vicinity of $25,000 yearly from other sources. He will live comfortably always, without assistance from charitable institutions.

But at this very moment the big fellow is silently walking the streets of newer New York, wondering why he continues to be an outcast. Was he not the biggest gate attraction in history? Did he not rekindle interest in the game at a time when it needed a kindling? He undoubtedly contributed more to modern baseball than any other player, and is directly responsible for the present-day high salaries. And yet, he is left wandering like the man without a country.

You may say that Ruth was well paid for his work. Perhaps so. It is true that for two years he received more than the President of the United States. But for every dollar Babe took out of baseball, he paid a dividend of many times that figure. He was the biggest man the game ever produced, possibly in more ways than one. There should be room for him somewhere—permanent room—among the 16 major organizations.

From Brooklyn comes a hint that Leo Durocher was not the popular managerial choice for Ebbets Field. Fans wanted either Ruth or Frankie Frisch. Frankie was eliminated however, because he and Durocher are no longer friends. The appointment of the former Cardinal pilot would have forced a search for a new shortstop. Durocher would not have stayed under the Frisch plan. Also, the Dodgers signed the shortstop as playing manager at a much lower figure than they could have anchored either the Babe or Frankie. Durocher will get no further at Ebbets Field than did Grimes, however, unless the club goes out and gets him a few big league players.

Rally Gives Game To Oregon State

N.Y. Times

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 22—Oregon State College came from behind today to down out-beaten Washington State, 7—6, in a Pacific Coast Conference football game.

Prescott Hutchin's point after touchdown let the Beavers with an outside chance of winning the conference title.

The Cougars had all the better of it in the first half, breaking the Beaver line repeatedly and twice getting to Oregon State's 5-yard line. Their touchdown came late in the first period when Chuck Holmes, fullback, ran from the Oregonians' 23 to the 6-yard line, then passed to Callow for the score. Joe Angelo failed to convert from placement.

Oregon State began its victory drive late in the third period, with Vic Kohler and Jim Kisselburgh doing the running and passing to reach their opponents' 19-yard line. Then came an intercepted fourth down pass, but Washington State fumbled and the Beavers recovered. The score came in the fourth period when Hal Higgins, quarterback, tallied on fourth down from the 3-yard line.

The line-up:

Joe Di Maggio Through With Holdout Role

SAN FRANCISCO.—Joe DiMaggio, one of Col. Jake Ruppert's wayward Yankees at the start of the 1938 season, confided in the home folks today—"I'm through being the holdout kid."

Back in San Francisco at picturesque fishermen's wharf, Joe talked with the humble fishermen who were his companions before he deserted the nets for baseball and who are among his greatest boosters.

"Yes," said Joe, "that's right, I'm through being the holdout kid. I expect to be among the first in camp next Spring and I'm gonna get myself in shape so that I can't miss having a good season." Some believe Joe already knows what Colonel Ruppert will pay him next season.

Joe thought he did not have a very good 1938 season, but said his holdout for $40,000, final signing for $25,000 and lack of Spring training were not the reasons. It was rain—two weeks of it—he claimed.

"To begin with I was going good." Joe explained. "But then we ran into a lot of rain. As a result we played but two games in two weeks. After that I couldn't get going again for a couple of months."

But when he did get going, Joe did all right. He batted at a .324 clip for the season, drove in 139 runs and whacked 32 homers, not counting the ball he put out of the park in the World Series.

"That homer I hit in the series of Dizzy Dean was the hardest ball ever hit," said Joe.

A Century Of Baseball In Movies

NEW YORK.—Before a small but highly baseball-minded gathering, which included Commissioner K. M. Landis, as well as the two major league presidents, Ford Frick and William Harridge, the National League's centennial motion picture, "The National Game," received its preview recently at the National Artists' studios, reports the New York Times.

All voted it an entertaining and instructive production and one that is certain to gain wide appeal among the nation's fans as it makes its rounds this Winter and next year.

Although patterned in part along the educational lines of the films produced by the American League in recent years, there is a distinctively novel touch to the introduction which reveals baseball playing a major role in striking contrasts between the youth of Europe and America.

Contrast With Troops

In fact, for several minutes one imagines he is looking at nothing more than a newsreel of Europe "on the march again," as columns upon columns of continental troops parade in review. Then a flash of American fields with youngsters fighting it out with bats, balls and gloves.

The story itself is one of unusual interest, tracing the history of America's national pastime from its earlier days to the present. There is a scene portraying Abner Doubleday's inspirational moment 100 years ago which led to the conversion of the then popular game of four o' cat into the present form of baseball.

There was something radically wrong at the beginning. There were entirely too many "infield hits," as we know them today, as the distance between bases was only sixty feet. So it was not until 1845 that an engineer, Alexander Cartwright, arrived at ninety feet as the distance which would give the most perfect balance between "offense and defense." It was never found necessary to change that distance to this day.

Lincoln Early Rooter

As the game grew in favor there are a number of dramatic scenes such as one showing General Grant expressing some annoyance because President Lincoln's attention seems to be lagging during a detailed description of certain military maneuvers. Explanation comes when a courier arrives with the news that Illinois defeated New York in a championship ball game fought behind the battle lines and the President closes the scene with a fervent request that Grant "end this war as soon as possible so that the youths of both sides can go back to playing baseball on their home fields."

The memorable occasion of the founding of the National League in a New York hotel in 1876 is shown along with a touching scene two years later when an erring player, ousted for crooked dealing, pleads for reinstatement. A forlorn figure, he receives $50 to help him get a fresh start elsewhere, but his request is turned down. It set a precedent from which baseball down through the regime of Landis himself has never deviated to this day.

Stars Seen in Parade

The closing half of the film is given to instructional chapters made under the supervision of Ethan Allen, former star outfielder. These give all the highlights of batting, pitching, fielding and base running form as portrayed by the outstanding stars of the National League, with much of the action taken directly in championship games.

Carl Hubbell gives an unusual demonstration of his uncanny control by firing away at a window frame containing four lights and erected directly behind home plate. In four pitches the Giants' screwball maestro knocks out each of the four window panes.

In addition to baseball's Big Three—Landis, Frick and Harridge—others to attend the preview included John A. Heydler, retired president of the National League; Frankie Frisch, Leo Bondy, James Mulvey and Larry MacPhail.

The picture, sponsored by the National League and General Mills, Inc., was produced by Burton Holmes Films, Inc., under the direction of Nate Watt, and will be ready for showing here and abroad after Dec. 1 upon application to the National League's headquarters at 30 Rockefeller Plaza.

The Round Chapel Of The Holy Cross

The Round Chapel of the Holy Cross in Praha, was built by a returning crusader in fulfillment of a vow. The crusader, a Bohemian knight named Palerius, was imprisoned in the Round Tower in Damascus, a dreaded place of detention in the time of the Crusades. The prisoner made a vow that he would build a church in Praha in the exact shape of his prison, if he should ever recover his liberty. His prayer was heard and the vow kept. The church is nearly 9 centuries old.

N.Y. Giants Win 17-7 Over Eagles In Second Game

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

The Giants beat the Philadelphia Eagles on the scoreboard as well as on the field recently, a minor item they neglected to attend to in their previous meeting three weeks ago. At that time two 90-yard runs with recovered fumbles brought about an Eagle victory after the Maramen had hit the Bert Bell troupers with everything but the goal posts.

But in the bright Autumn sunshine before a gathering of 33,187 at the Polo Grounds it was a different story. Again the pupils of Stout Steve Owen maltreated the visitors, but they had the good sense to score sufficient points for a 17-7 triumph. This lifted the Giants into second place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League, a nice little hop from a tie with the Philadelphians for third.

The high spot of an afternoon of fumbles and intercepted passes that switched the complexion of the game from green shirts to red with greater rapidity than a chameleon was a 74-yard return of a recovered fumble by John (Bull) Karcis for the first score of the fray in the second period.

Home Debut as Giant

A moment before the Bull had entered the game in his first home appearance as a Giant, Jay Arnold of the Eagles swept to his left on a reverse from the 22-yard line. Giant tacklers cracked him with gay abandon and the ball popped out of him arms like a squeezed pumpkin seed. And the first man to spot the errant pigskin was the Bull.

He picked it up and started to puff his way down the sideline. A cordon of Giant blockers surrounded him like a fleet of mosquito boats escorting a dreadnought. The Bull galloped along with only Dave Smukler between him and the goal line on the horizon.

Three or four members of the convoy broke away to block out Dynamite Dave, but no one did a clean job until Tuffy Leemans chopped him down very neatly at about the 20-yard line as Karcis raced over the line in solitary majesty after a run of 74 yards. Ward Cuff kicked the extra point and the Giants had a 7-0 lead.

In practically no time at all they made it 14 to 0. Jim Lee Howell fell on a fumble on the 22 and five plays later Leemans had slid off tackle from the 2½-yard line for the touchdown. Again Cuff obliged.

Too Close for Comfort

Philadelphia received its lone real chance of the day when a Giant fumble in the third period set the stage for a 25-yard pass from Emmett Mortell to Elwood Dow in the end zone for a tally. After Hank Reese converted it was a little too close for comfort so Cuff kicked his sixth field goal of the year from the 20 a short while later to insure the victory.

The Giants outstatisticked the Eagles completely, even outfumbling them. Only twice were the Philadelphians inside the New York 45, so rugged was the defense of the Maramen. One was on a fumble and again on a pass interception. As for the Giants, they had two chances that did not end in tallies. Once they were down to the 16 and fumbled, and then had reached the 10 at the finish.

To the great surprise of no one at all, the big Giant star was Fordham Ed Danowski, whose uncanny accuracy with a forward pass has lifted him ahead of the more greatly publicized Sammy Baugh. Big Ed pitched fifteen tosses and had nine completed for a gain of 85 yards. Furthermore, he ran beautifully and picked up 40 yards as a ball-carrier.

Gertrude Ederle Plans Comeback

By JANE COCHRAN

NEW YORK,—(INS)—That knock you hear, Grover, is no love tap. It's the loud and purposeful rapping of Gertrude Ederle who plans to make her come-back next year and wants to do it at the New York World's Fair.

And when a woman, particularly a woman swimmer who mastered the English Channel at the age of 19, makes up her mind on new fields to conquer things are bound to happen. Grover Whalen, No. 1 man at the fair, will be hearing from her soon.

There's only one drawback, Gertrude Ederle admitted recently. She hasn't heard about any aquatic plans for the New York World's Fair. But if there are any, she plans to be in them.

Miss Ederle plans her comeback for next year because she believes she'll be fit as ever then. For five years, since a spinal injury, she's been taking things easy but she started swimming again this Summer.

Denies Wild Rumors

"I wish you'd tell people also that there is absolutely no truth to the statements that I am blind and deaf. Everybody asks me so much they almost get me to pitying myself."

She admits that she is a little hard of hearing but she is getting to hear better every year.

Waves in the English Channel, which she was the first girl to swim, where responsible for the injury to her ears.

"I've never regretted the Channel swim but I'd not like to do it again. I don't see any sense to repeating the achievement.

"You see, my swim proved that it was possible for a woman to conquer the Channel. I felt that I had to go through with it then as I was representing my country," Miss Ederle said recently in reminiscing on her historic feat.

The public is fickle but Miss Ederle doesn't believe they've forgotten her.

Sees Interest Still Alive

"A person doesn't want brass bands following them everywhere they go, they want some privacy. But interest in me still seems to be alive. Even now I tell the whole Channel swim every time I go to a social gathering."

It was this interest of friends and people she met that gave Miss Ederle the idea of writing a book about her swimming experiences. She's half through the book now and works on it whenever she feels like it.

"But I can't spend all my time on the book. I sew, I make most of my own clothes you know, and I'm always traveling places. I just get in my car and go as I hate to stay in one place for any length of time."

Visiting Friend

Right now Miss Ederle is visiting a friend in Flushing after a three-week's trip through Virginia. She doesn't know where she will be next week.

The recent storms on the eastern seaboard didn't frighten Miss Ederle:

"I'm not easily scared. I felt quite at home during the storm and, although the water didn't get high enough for me, it reminded me of the Channel."

Swimming is still the main interest in Miss Ederle's life and she'd like to instill this love of the sport in everyone.

"It makes me feel terrible when I go to a beach and see the mass of people on the sand and only a handful in the water. I think everyone should be able to swim."

Miss Ederle would like to be able to impress the importance of being able to swim on every school child.

Swim Knowledge Essential

She believes swimming should be taught just like any other knowledge, as part of the equipment necessary for getting along in the world.

"I'd like to teach in schools or perhaps go around with a film to show the importance of swimming to protect yourself. I'd much rather be working than sitting around."

But Miss Ederle's "sitting around" has been a matter of necessity since she slipped on some loose tiles in an apartment in Hempstead and injured her sacroiliac bone. She was forced to stay in a cast for two years and slept every night on a board.

Had Difficult Time

"It was just this Summer that I was permitted to sleep on a mattress and the bed was so soft that I couldn't sleep the first night. I even had to sit on hard chairs to keep my spine straight.

"But I'm so much better now. I started out by walking then got into the water. At first I clung to the edge and kicked my feet but now I can swim 15 lengths of a 25-yard pool without stopping. Yes and last September I couldn't walk two blocks. Now I can walk two miles."

She wants the public to realize that she isn't an invalid, that she can see and hear very well and added:

"You tell them that I'm going to make my comeback next Summer."

St. Mary's Downs Portland U., 32-7

SAN FRANCISCO.—St. Mary's Gaels put on a wild fourth-period scoring splurge on Oct. 16 to smother the University of Portland eleven, 32 to 7, says the N. Y. Times.

A crowd of approximately 8,000 saw a close, hard-fought encounter turn into a rout.

The Gaels, scoring touchdowns in the first and second periods, saw their lead cut midway in the third quarter when the Oregonians rushed over a touchdown after an 80-yard drive to make the score 13-7.

St. Mary's fears were dissipated, however, as the contest moved into the final fifteen minutes, during which the Gaels tallied three times, twice as the result of intercepted passes.

The line-up:

Packers' Passes, Power Plays Defeat Dodgers By 35 To 7

MILWAUKEE.—The Green Bay Packers smashed and passed their way to a 35-to-7 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in a National Football League game played in midsummer heat before a crowd of 13,000, says the New York Times.

The Wisconsin team opened with a terrific drive and scored before the game was five minutes old. The first touchdown came on five plays, with Cecil Isbell tossing to Joe Laws for the counter. Tiny Engebretsen kicked the extra point. The next score came on a plunge by Clarke Hinkle from the 1-yard line. He also converted. Brooklyn tallied in the second period on a pass from Ace Parker to Jeff Barrett for 11 yards. Parker's kick was good.

The Packers added another touchdown in the second period on a 14-yard run by Andy Uram. Don Hutson kicked the extra point. A pass from Isbell to Hutson, for 33 yards, chalked up another Green Bay marker in the third period and again Hinkle converted. Bob Monnett passed to Berny Scherer, end, for 22 yards and the final touchdown. Hinkle made good the point.

Gantenbein Catches Pass

Green Bay's first touchdown came on five plays. A pass, good for 34 yards, from Isbell to Milt Gantenbein, carried the ball to the 34. Isbell and Eddie Jankowski slashed the Brooklyn line on power plays to the 12 and Isbell tossed a pass from that point to Laws for the score.

The Packers fired right back with another scoring threat on runs by Isbell and Jankowski, but they lost the ball on downs on the 3-yard line. Brooklyn punted back and a third time the Packers smashed down the field, with Laws and Monnett carrying the ball on reverses and quick-opening plays. Hinkle went over from the 1-yard line and then made the extra point.

A 20-yard pass from Parker to Barrett, Brooklyn end, gave the invaders a first down on the Packer 26 in the second period. Parker then raced around end for 15. A toss from Parker to Barrett produced a touchdown.

Laws, Hinkle and Uram ripped the Brooklyn line for substantial gains after Barrett scored, going to the Eastern's 14. Uram then raced around right end for a touchdown and Hutson added the point.

Four Aerials Fail

One pass from Ralph Kercheval to Perry Schwartz, after a lateral, was good for 54 yards for Brooklyn late in the second period, and the Eastern eleven went to the Packer 16 on the play. Four passes then failed.

The Packers marched 93 yards to score their fourth touchdown early in the third quarter, the pay-off coming on a pass from Isbell to Hutson that was good for 33 yards. Hinkle kicked for another extra point and Green Bay led, 28 to 7. Jankowski and Isbell ripped off long gains on direct smashes in the march.

Hinkle intercepted a pass on the Dodger 22 a few minutes later and Monnett tossed to Scherer in the end zone for a touchdown.

Judge Landis Keeps On

The recent reinstatement of Johnny Broaca, the Yankee pitcher who quit the team during the middle of the 1937 season, again brought Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis into the spotlight.

Veteran baseball fans are fully acquainted with the circumstances which brought about Landis' appointment as Baseball's Czar, but there are thousands to whom he remains practically a legendary figure.

The rising generation of fans is unaware of, or remembers but dimly, the tainted World Series race of 1919. The Chicago White Sox, winners of the American League pennant, were a superior team to the Cincinnati Reds, the National League champions, yet they lost.

Kid Gleason, veteran manager of the Sox, and Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the team, decided that an investigation should be carried out against several players who acted suspiciously in the Series and as the result of clever work by the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, indictments charging confidence games were returned against seven active players of the Club in 1920.

Heads of organized baseball realized that, as a remedy to the damage done the national pastime, it was necessary to appoint a supreme, independent, uncontrolled overseer who would administer affairs as he saw fit, and whose decision would be final and unappealable.

Unanimously, it was decided to offer the job to Judge Landis, who, on November 12, 1920, assumed charge of the great American sport, with its huge minor league ramifications.

The first official act of the new arbiter was to insist that the fight against crookedness among ball players be continued relentlessly. All connected with selling the Sox were barred for life.

Today, a thin, old man of over 70 years, Judge Landis is not looking for crookedness, because he is satisfied that his work is done in that regard. His inflexible rules of life exile for crooks have done their work.

Archibald Takes Title

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS
N.Y. Times

Joey Archibald boxed his way to the featherweight championship of the world October 17 at the expense of Mike Belloise of the Bronx, whom he outpointed in a 15-round bout at the St. Nicholas Palace. The clever Archibald, a native of Pawtucket, R. I., evinced little stage-fright opposing the favored Belloise, who once ruled the 126-pound division, and Joey had comparatively little trouble making off with the decision.

As clean cut as his triumph seemed to be, however, Archibald did not receive a unanimous vote. Judges Joe Lynch and George Le Cren voted for him but Referee Arthur Donovan called the bout a draw.

The fans and the critics, though, saw eye to eye with the judges. There were 6,000 spectators and probably four-fifths of them favored Belloise before the fight, yet when the decision was announced not a dissenting voice was raised.

Better Strategist Wins

The battle was savagely waged and there were few dull moments in any round. It was a spectacle of two boxers, neither a particularly hard hitter, seeking to outmaneuver one another, both at long range and at close quarters, and to Archibald went the honor of being the better strategist.

Although Belloise is primarily a counter-fighter, Archibald met him at his own game and forced the New Yorker to make the first move most of the time. Almost invariably, the first move was the wrong one, for Archibald, possessed of perfect timing, would weave out of the way of Mike's advance and then return a barrage of punches that found their mark.

In tagging his foe the Pawtucket boxer did not persist in following one line of counter-attack. Instead he mixed his delivery splendidly, punching sometimes to the body and sometimes to the head, with about equal effect.

Belloise was willing to make a fight of it at every turn, but his willingness was rendered almost futile by his elusive foe's generalship. A number of times Mike did hit Joey squarely on the chin, but the latter stood up well under the blows, and quickly shook off their effect.

Belloise Starts Well

Just as the bout started, Belloise bounced a thunderous right off Archibald's chin and followed with three more such punches in the first round. Archibald seemed on his way to a one-sided defeat, and the 2 to 1 odds in Belloise's favor appeared justified until the New England fighter easily forced Belloise to miss many punches in the second, at the same time shooting back effectively at the head and body.

Following these tactics, Archibald won every round from the second through the sixth. In the seventh and eighth Belloise made his way into close quarters and outpunched Archibald but the latter regained command before the end of the eighth and won every round thereafter, except the twelfth, which Belloise took by virtue of several rights to the law.

There were no knockdowns, but the battlers were on the floor five times as they toppled over the ropes locked in clinches.

Neither boxer entered the ring as champion. The title was held by Henry Armstrong until two months ago, when he decided to give it up and devote himself to campaigning in defense of his lightweight and welterweight championships. On Armstrong's abdication the New York State Athletic Commission consented to recognize the winner of a bout between Archibald and Belloise.

Victor Is Outweighed

Archibald weighed 124¾ pounds and Belloise 125¼. The latter held the featherweight title about a year ago, but was forced to surrender it because of illness.

In the semi-final, limited to four rounds by the commission's curfew, Tommy Tucker, East Rockaway heavyweight, defeated Mike Rabin of Bethlehem, Pa. Tucker scaled 180 and Rabin 185.

Mario Serverino, 129, of Schenectady, defeated Monty Pagnatore, 129, West Side, in a close six-round bout.

Austin McCann, 139¼, of Astoria pounded out a triumph over Vic Corchado, 131¼, of Yorkville, in the first six-round bout.

Jerry Grieff, Washington Heights heavyweight, outpointed Tony Miller of Hudson, N. Y., in a four-round bout. Each weighed 135½ pounds. In the four-round opener Steve Belloise, brother of Mike, defeated Lawyer Kirkland of Harlem. Belloise weighed 141½ and Kirkland 146.

Redskins Victors Before 42,850; Bears Score, 34-28, Over Cards

Washington Beats Detroit, 7-5, For Undisputed Hold On Eastern Group Lead

DETROIT.—The champion Washington Redskins came from behind with a third-period touchdown to down the Lions on Oct. 16, 7 to 5, and take undisputed hold of first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League. A crowd of 42,850, largest ever to see a gridiron game in Detroit, witnessed the arrival of football at Briggs Stadium, home of the baseball Tigers, says the N. Y. Times.

Washington got the break that decided the contests early in the third period when Willie Wilkin, tackle, blocked a punt and the ball bounced out of bounds on Detroit's 17-yard line. Bill Hartman passed to Andy Farkas, former University of Detroit player, on the 7. Farkas then plunged over in three plays and Riley Smith converted from placement.

Detroit scored all its points in the opening quarter. Regis Monahan place-kicked from Washington's 30, and on the kick-off following the field goal Farkas was tackled behind his goal line for a safety.

It was Detroit's second defeat in four starts and Washington's third victory, again one defeat and a tie.

Previous to today's game the Redskins were deadlocked for first place in the Eastern Division of the league with the Brooklyn Dodgers. As the Dodgers were routed by the Green Bay Packers, Washington was able to take sole possession of the group lead.

Chicago Football Rivals Stage Thriller; Masterson's 50-Yard Passes Mark Game

CHICAGO.—The Bears ran up a 34-to-14 lead over their Chicago rivals, the Cardinals, on Oct 16, then had to stave off a furious passing offensive to gain a 34-to-28 National Football League victory, says the N. Y. Times.

A crowd of 21,614 saw the Bears' fourth triumph of the season.

The Cards scored first on Ray Parker's plunge after a 58-yard march. Two 50-yard passes by Bernie Masterson then marked the Bears' drive, Ray Nolting scoring on one and the other setting the stage for Sam Francis to plunge over. In the last few seconds of the first half Dick Bassi, Bear guards, grabbed a Card fumble and raced 63 yards to score.

A pass good for 47 yards, Masterson to Dick Plasman, yielded a fourth Bear touchdown and a 27-to-7 lead soon after the last half opened. Then came a flurry of Card aerials by Dwight Sloan, Pat Coffee and Jack Robbins.

Sloan's pass to Bill Smith made the score 27 to 14. The Bears retaliated with their final marker on Joe Maniaci's 10-yard sprint. Jack Robbins made a 23-yard touchdown pass to Frank Patrick, and in the final period interference gave the Cards the ball on the Bears' 1-yard line, from where Sam Agee plunged over. A final Card drive ended on the 34-yard line with a pass interception.

Reagan Helps Quakers Beat Old Eli Jinx

By Red Smith

Penn's dreaded trial by ordeal came and passed in the roaring court of Franklin Field without so much as a Quaker eyelash singed in the fire, without a single Red and Blue toe even dampened on the ducking stool.

Their cause espoused by a master advocate in tow-headed Frank Reagan, the Quakers literally stampeded a sunburned jury of 50,000 with a 21-0 victory over Yale, the glowering, inexorable jinx of 59 years' standing.

Renaissance at Penn

In the doing, George Munger's young men proved they are, indeed, the prophets of a new order, the heralds of a football renaissance on Franklin Field; proved beyond the flimsiest, remotest chance of cavil their claim to peerage in the Ivy League.

So utterly convincing, so impressively unequivocal was the evidence adduced that as early as the end of first quarter the mammoth maw of the court rocked and rumbled and reverberated with the exultant tumult of a Penn crowd feasting to the point of gluttony on the fruits of certain victory.

Rare Treat for Quaker

For this was a rare treat for Penn—indeed, an almost unprecedented banquet, since only once before in the 59-year span of the Yale series did the Red and Blue fight off the frowning hex of Eli.

That previous triumph was scored 13 desolate years ago in the Yale Bowl. Not only was this the first Blue defeat ever accomplished in Philadelphia, not only Penn's most crushing and conclusive conquest of a major opponent in years, but it was also the first shutout ever experienced by an Eli team coached by Ducky Pond. Not since the Georgia game of 1933 was the scoring door slammed in the Bulldog's face.

Locked and Barred

And it wasn't only slammed recently. It was locked and barred, bolted and barricaded. So deftly were the Bulldog's teeth pulled that only once in the weary, fruitless struggle did he approach the threshold of a score.

This lone chance came through a combination of Penn blunders—a fumble that gave Yale the ball in Quaker territory, a palpable violation of the pass interference rule that moved Yale within striking distance of the goal. But, even when escorted to the very edge of the welcome mat, Yale found itself without a card to gain admittance.

The Blue ground attack piled up against a stern, unyielding wall. Forays by air found an alert, unperturbed secondary. And Yale's one shining chance was punctured nine yards short of the objective.

Save for that occasion, Yale never passed Penn's 35-yard line, and only one of its two advances to that point was made under its own power. The first came in the early minutes of the game when the shadow of the old hex lay dark and forbidding over the uneasy crowd. The second came shortly before intermission, when a Penn pass was intercepted on the Quaker 38. Three yards was all Yale could wrest from Penn's stubborn grap.

Ah, That Reagan!

But the defense is only a little of the story. You could talk of the stalwart play of the whole line and particularly that of the giant George Becker, the sophomore Rix Nelson Yard and of tall Bob Hunt, who played through every one of the 60 minutes.

You could lavish superlatives on the thunderous backing-up by Jim Connell, the running of Mike Burke and the blocking of Jim Coulter.

But you wouldn't have started talking until you got to Reagan, the animated icicle, the sophomore of the cocksure aplomb, of the booming punts, of the omnipresent and almost omniscient pass defense, of the winged feet.

Paves Way to Tally

For Reagan was the meat and kernel of the performance, the hub of the show. It was he who opened the door to the first touchdown by Connell by snatching a Yale pass and carrying it 37 fleeting, twisting yards to the 3-yard line.

It was he who personally scored the ensuing two, swishing around his right end for 20 yards the first time, then striding through a yawning gap inside the same end for 21. Captain Walt Shinn place-kicked all three points after touchdown.

Throughout it was Reagan. Reagan kicking. Reagan running. Reagan whirling from the arms of tacklers with a dancer's pirouette, which had not only the customers but also the Blue defenders goggle-eyed.

Spectacular Running

Reagan showing tacklers a limp leg, removing it deftly as he skittered past them. Reagan picking up speed with every lengthening stride, then skidding to a tantalizing stop, faking a change of direction with head and shoulders to make a tackler commit himself, then darting away through sprawling forms.

In short, Reagan was the ball game and the ball club. Not, perhaps, a great team, Penn proved itself an alert and willing one. Its game wasn't one of perfection, but rather of cool opportunism made profitable because the lineup included a man who knew how to take swift advantage of every break.

For it was as the result of those happenings loosely described as "breaks" that each touchdown was scored. The first was made possible by Reagan's interception; the second by a Yale fumble on its own 29-yard line; the third by another fumble on the 44.

Penn needed three plays to capitalize on the first opportunity, two to cover 29 yards on the second, and five to negotiate 44 on the third. On three other occasions the Quakers stormed goalward and were halted either by the Yale defense or by holding penalties. The latter, incidentally, marked what seemed the only really glaring fault in Penn play.

Yale lost a regular on the first play of the game. Stu Hemingway, tackling Burke as the latter ran back the opening kickoff, hit the ground hard and was carried off with a slight brain concussion. He was in the university infirmary last night.

After that, Cale suffered many headaches, but no serious injuries. First great disappointment came when, a few minutes after play started, the Blue used passes and Al Wilson's light feet to march to the 35-yard line. These passes failed and Al Humphrey's punt was partially blocked by Harlan Gustafson.

Reagan Steals Pass

"When our kids stopped that first march and came right back" Munger gloated afterwards, "I knew we had something. You know, we try to laugh off the hex, but we couldn't forget it when Yale started driving."

Penn did come right back, but not all the way to the goal. A holding penalty balked the advance at Yale's 25. But it put the ball in Blue territory, when Humphrey tried to escape by air. That was when his pass was snatched by Reagan, who went swirling, bobbing, twisting until Wilson shunted him out of bounds on the 3-yard line.

A shot by Connell, another by Reagan, each good for a yard, then Connell flung himself completely over the massed line for the score.

It was two minutes, 18 seconds after the second-half kickoff when Penn scored again. The chance came when Humphrey, fading back to pass, was jarred loose from the ball and almost from his intellect by Yard's tackle. Gustafson recovered for Penn on the 29.

Rugby Football

London Times

Clifton beat Blundell's by a goal, a dropped goal, a penalty goal, and three tries (21 points) to nothing at Clifton. Ten minutes after the start Moreland went over for Clifton from a scrum near the Blundell's line. The play was fast and open, and the Clifton three-quarter line often looked dangerous. Gibbs touched down after a forward rush, but the kick hit the crossbar. Blundell's then launched some attacks but Moreland broke away and carried the game into the Blundell's "25." Hooper then dropped a goal from a good distance out.

Blundell's recovered for a time after the interval, but they were then driven back and Gibbs kicked a penalty goal. A good three-quarter movement and forward rush nearly produced another try for Clifton, but the ball was knocked-on on the line. From the resulting scrum Moreland scored, and then Higgs added another try, which was converted.

The teams were:—

CLIFTON COLLEGE.—E. H James, back; A. P. R. Pell-Hiley, A. M. Stobie, C. E. N. Hooper, and A. C. B. Ford, three-quarter backs; J. H. Rudman and W. H. Moreland, half-backs; G. A. Gibbs, P. M. Hudson A. P. Farrant, G. T. Swaine, T. L. Mitchell, O. H. Muir, P. W. Ullman, and H. T. Lawson, forwards.

Epsom v. Christ's Hospital

Epsom beat Christ's Hospital by two goal and three tries (19 points) to nothing at Epsom. Christ's Hospital, playing downhill in the first half, obtained the ball from most of the set scrummages, but they were unable to make any use of this advantage because of the keen tackling of Epsom. A cut through by Neilson in the center sent Soar over for a try, which he converted. With the slope the Epsom forwards got possession of the ball regularly, and Soar scored two more tries from movements begun by Hancock and Neilson. Vivian then sent Soar over for his fourth try on the blind side, and near the end Hancock scored from a reverse pass by Neilson.

The teams were:—

EPSOM COLLEGE.—B. R. Pollard, back; A. D. Pearson, A. S. Neilson, J. W. Hancock, and P. A. Soar, three-quarter backs; N. W. J. Leach and F. T. Vivian, half-backs; J. R. Duncan, J. G. Sparkes, E. H. Couper, P. C. H. Fairhall, B. R. Reynolds, P. D. B. Davies, R. C. B. Arthur, and A. W. Lloyd, forwards.

CHRIST'S HOSPITAL.—T. G. Hughes-Parry, back; D. W. Copithorne-Castle, G. F. Fenton-Livingstone, N. L. Illett, and R. F. Ayrton, three-quarter backs; G. W. Cornish and A. W. H. Bush, half-backs; R. H. Tuff, S. J. B Bates, M. J. Clarke, N. H. Burdett, W. B. Pearson, W. S. Bates, T. R. Brabazon-Jones, and R. Veal, forwards.

St. John's, Leatherhead v. Eastbourne

Eastbourne beat St. John's, Leatherhead, by four goals, a dropped goal, and five tries (32 points) to a try (3 points) at Leatherhead. St. John's were completely outweighted but managed to obtain the ball frequently from the set scrummages. Roberts and Jackson went through and Anderson scored St John's only try. Eastbourne played really well, showing speed and teamwork. Man scored three tries, and Chadburn, Hughes, Gourlay, Gray Bryan-Brown, and Mackenzie one each. Chadburn converted four and Gourlay dropped a goal.

The teams were:—

ST. JOHN'S, LEATHERHEAD.—C. R. Hillis, back; F. H. Anderson, J. W. Ashmore, V. O. Roberts, and J. D. Worley, three-quarter backs; A. W. Jackson and C. V. Allen, half-backs; P. Bruce-Walker, B. P. L Davis, R. J. Streatfield, B. R. Spreadbury, J. Williams, S. N. Dingley, C. M. Handley, and J. D. Cowan, forwards.

EASTBOURNE COLLEGE.—D. T Williams, back; D. M. Man, A. P. R. Chadburn, K. J. W. Hughes, and I H. Williams, three-quarter backs; R I. S. Gourlay and J. A. Gray, half backs; E. B. R. Young, F. B. Bryan Brown, H. C. B. Mackenzie, B. J. W Young, N. P. J. Wildy, J. S. Brown G. C. A. Gilbert, and P. C. Stephens, forwards.

Bishop's Stortford v. Emanuel

Emanuel beat Bishop's Stortford by a goal and a try (8 points) to a penalty goal (3 points) at Bishop's Stortford. Both sides were inclined to make mistakes and the game was keen and vigorous rather than skilful. Emanuel deserved their victory because of the grand work of their forwards is the lines-out and the loose. W. L. Page, the Emanuel captain, was an inspiring leader. Bishop's Stortford attacked hard at the beginning, and G. E. Page kicked a penalty goal. Emanuel equalized before half-time through Bloore and after the interval were well on top. Good touch kicking by Bishop's Stortford held Emanuel back for a time but Knight broke through and E. D. Page converted his try.

The teams were:—

BISHOP'S STORTFORD COLLEGE.—P. F. Wherry, back; J. E Barry, G. W. Mohun, D. W. Smith, and J. A. Stanier, three-quarter backs; G. E. Page and D. W. Dupont, half-backs; J. Ferguson, C. M Stephens, C. Carlile, L. G. Wilson; G. F. Allen, P. B. Mills, R. V. Bennett, and E. K. Salmon, forwards.

EMANUEL SCHOOL.—M. E. Vincent, back; F. W. Harris, E. D Page, D. L. Reddis, and G. P. Warren, three-quarter backs; K. C Bloore and J. B. R. Kiebooms, half-backs; A. F. Fox, B. F. T. Johnson, H. S. Page, N. S. Fairman, F. G Burnett, W. L. Page, W. M. S. Jeffery, and M. W. Knight, forwards.

Sedbergh v. Yorkshire Wanderers

Yorkshire Wanderers, who included three internationals in L. A Booth, B. C. Gadney, and F. J Williams in their back division, beat Sedbergh School at Sedbergh by three goals and two tries (21 points) to a goal (5 points). The Sedbergh forward played well, especially in the loose, and their backs, though lacking in speed, prevented a much larger score by their keen tackling. Sedbergh held their own well in the first half when each side scored five points, McSwinney scoring a try which Bruce-Lockhart converted for the school and Schaap scoring a try which Rostron converted for the visitors. In a second half, although facing a strong wind, the School defense held out well until the last quarter of an hour, when the Wanderers added tries through Boyce (2), Gadney, and Booth, Rostron converting twice.

The teams were:—

SEDBERGH SCHOOL.—J. H Atkins, back; A. C. B. Owen, C. P. Noble, R. W. W. Watson and J. M. McSwinney, three-quarter backs; L Bruce-Lockhart and J. B. Cavanagh, half-backs; H. Frew, J. M. Holmes, S. R. Wraith, T. M. Cullingworth, W. G. Wood, A. McDonald, H. R. Birtwistle, and R. F. Ewing, forwards.

YORKSHIRE WANDERERS.—C Rostron, back; L. A. Booth, J. C. Boyce, R. Naylor, and G. O. Scargill, three-quarter backs; F. L. Williams and B. C. Gadney, half-backs; P. L. Barstow, D. B. Vickerman, P. Boyd, P. C. Burt, H. Towler, T. D. Ambler, T. C. Atkinson, and C. Schaap, forwards.

Tonbridge v. Richmond 'A'

Richmond "A" beat Tombridge School at Tonbridge by three goals and three tries (24 points) to a goal and a try (8 points). Richmond's forwards were quicker on the ball and their backs always looked dangerous. A redeeming feature of the School's display was the good work of P. A. O. Graham at full-back. Shenstone scored two early tries for Richmond, one of which was converted, and the School replied with a try by C. L. Welford. Richmond went ahead with two tries, one of which was converted, but before half-time B. W. Burnett scored a try for the School and C. H. Pillman converted. In the second half Richmond increased their lead with two more tries by Shenstone, and although Welford made two fine runs the School could not score again.

The teams were:—

TONBRIDGE SCHOOL.—P. A. O. Graham, back; K. E. Seel, R. A. Smith, C. L. Welford, and B. W Burnett, three-quarter backs; T. N Ladejoged and G. N. C. Mieville, half-backs; P. Maggs, G. Izonidlian, J. A. Dew, R. E. Mellian Smith, J. L. Rampton, C. H. Willman, M. J. Ephrams, and C. R. Kirkpatrick, forwards.

RICHMOND "A".—Malcolm, back; Neave, Law, Shenstone, and Thwaites, three-quarter backs; Godfrey and Field, half-packs; A. N. Other, Carey, Hobbs, Wray, Langton, Arlington, De Glanville, and Robson, forwards.

King's, Canterbury v. Blackheath 'A'

Blackheath "A" beat King's School, Canterbury at Canterbury by three goals, a penalty goal, and five tries (33 points) to a try (3 points). Blackheath's heavier pack gave them a big advantage in the scrummages, and G. A. Walker, the England Trials and R.A.F. player, was in brilliant form at stand-off half-back. The School, however, had more of the game than the score would suggest, and D. G. Carter, at full-back, kicked with good judgment, and D. Evans on the left wing and A. Grindal at scrummage half-back did good work both in attack and defense.

The school team was:—

D. G. Carter, back; D. L. Evans, D. Page, D. L. Hurford, and P. A. Gibbs, three-quarter backs; A. Willsdon and A. Grindal, half-backs; J. Wortham, A. M. Dean, J. Watts, Vernede, Piercy Wayland, Donaldson, and Strallen, forwards.

Y.C.A.C. Tackles Old Boys; Meiji Heavily Favored

By BILL OMURA

The Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football League has two games slated for the week-end. Meiji, strong contender for the championship, will tackle the boys from St. Paul's on Saturday and on Sunday Y.C.A.C. will meet the Tokyo Old Boys. Both games are to be played at Korakuen Stadium.

Meiji should find it no trouble to defeat Rikkyo. Coach-Captain Paul Kurokawa finds it most opportune to try out his trick plays before encountering Waseda, last year's champions, three weeks hence.

Meiji's intensive preparation for the invasion of Rikkyo this Saturday must include prominent mention of two Jimmy's, Jim Hamasaki and Jimmy Wada who scored to-spectacular heights against Keio.

But Jimmy is mainly important when the boys are on the attack, where his three-strike passes and forceful running comprise the major share of the Purple-and-White offense. On defense the mighty Wada becomes just another cog in the secondary.

Line Seems Stronger

The players who overshadow Wada when Meiji defends are the linemen. From end to end, Meiji seems to have the strongest line this year since they lost the championship to Waseda two years ago.

The Purple and White linemen are best exemplified by their Captain, Paul Kurokawa veteran tackle, Hanaoka, veteran guard, "Sabo" Sakamoto, veteran center, and Machida and Toyama veteran ends. Overlooked by fans last year, are two of the best blocking and plunging backs in town "Chuck" Fujika, and "Min" Yasuda.

Odds are even on the Y.C.A.C. and Tokyo Old Boys.

The Yokohama boys will have the advantage in weight, and demonstrated line power. Aware of the fact the O.B.'s promise surprise plays and hope to upset the Big Lions.

Operating behind a stalwart line, Clubs' chief threats are Ross and Bucky "Speed" Harris veteran backs at the two half positions, triple-threat Rasbury starting at Full, and agile Hamsher, former Beverly Hills High Star calling signals.

Wrestler in Line

The line will be strengthened with 186 pounds of Vorobioff, who held the middleweight wrestling championship of Japan in 1936.

The Club has a snappy Notre Dame shift with a balanced line, and it is most obvious that they will concentrate their offensive plays on power plunges as the Lions have featured in their previous games.

For the O.B.'s, Kasahara and Obayashi, playing halfback positions should equip the eleven with more trick than expected. Kasahara is former Meiji rugger of renown, shifty with his hip's, and the club boys should find him a hard target to tackle.

With Sho Matsumoto former Meiji Captain barking signals, Kasahara and Obayashi at half's, and Chiwa at full, weakside sneakers, reverses, and spinners are to be looked forward to. And if these tricks don't click, beware of Kawashima—Kajitani taking to the air.

Inouye (W) Ando (R) Kajitani (H) Obayashi (W) Matsumoto (M) Kuruki (M) were in their college days "All Japan" stars.

Due to a misunderstanding of the Japan-America Young People's Society, dates have been conflicted with the Y.C.A.C.-O.B. game and their Garden Party. Thus the game will be started at 1 sharp instead of 2:30 in the afternoon as previously announced.

Starting lineup:

Tokyo Old Boys		Y.C.A.C.
L.E.	Kamei (R)	Holtom
L.T.	Inouye (W)	Worden
L.G.	Ando (R)	Childs
C.	Komesu (G.K.)	Cooke
R.G.	Nago (H)	Hinnen
R.T.	Karaki (M)	Vorobioff
R.E.	Kajitani (H)	H. Salters
Q.	Matsumoto (M)	Hamsher
L.H.	Kasahara (M)	Ross
R.H.	Obayashi (W)	Harris
F.	Chiwa (B)	Rasbury

Substitute

Tokyo OB.:—Miura (M) tackle Nii (M) half, Hara (H) half, Kawashima (W) half, Shuin (M) guard.

Y.C.A.C.:—Smith, Salters.

Note:—(M) Meiji, (W) Waseda, (R) Rikkyo, (H) Hosei, (B) Bunrika.

Referee Calls Wrong Down

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24—Coach Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech has severely criticized Referee John Getchell of Minneapolis for a decision that set up a 7-0 victory for Notre Dame against Kern's team.

Kern said Getchell had erred in informing Tech's quarterback it was third down instead of fourth. Getchell admitted he had made the mistake. The quarterback called a running play and the Tartans lost the ball on their 46-yard line. The inspired Irish scored three plays later.

"It was the biggest bonehead I ever saw pulled by any official," said Kern upon his return from South Bend. "It certainly meant defeat for us."

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Elmer Layden, head football coach at the University of Notre Dame, said he believed Paul Friedlander, Carnegie Tech quarterback, knew it was fourth down when he disputed the official ruling of Johnny Getchell, the referee, in Saturday's football game between the two teams.

"Any further discussion of the dispute seem to me to be in poor taste, but since I am asked to comment, I only want to point out that it is the quarterback's responsibility to know what down it is." Layden said: "The score board and the head linesman's marker showed fourth down.

"The Tech players knew it was fourth down because they checked signals when Friedlander called for a running play. But he called it again, apparently trying to take a chance with official sanction."

MINNEAPOLIS.—Johnny Getchell admitted here he had called third down instead of fourth on the much disputed play in the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame contest.

After the referee told the Tech quarterback it was third down, Carnegie called a running play instead of a punt and lost the ball. Notre Dame scored the game's only touchdown three plays later.

"I just said third down instead of fourth down, that's all there is to it," Getchell said.

Keio Eleven Shows Power To Down Hosei 33-13 In American Football Game

By BILL OMURA

Keio University eleven showed an amazing display of power Wednesday afternoon as they tallied 33 points to Hosei's 13.

Hosei spent the afternoon in the defense, finally yielding before a procession of running plays intermixed with sharp passes that gathered two touchdowns and an extra point.

Hosei totaled 114 yards in gain by the air, to none for Keio.

Fullback Tamura bore the brunt of the attack, smacking through off tackles and end runs for three of Keio's touchdowns. Halfback Todo got credit for the other two.

Though it started to rain from the second quarter in the Meiji Jingu Stadium, ardent fans kept their seats and remained throughout the game.

First Quarter

Following Todo's consecutive power plunges, Keio scored two touchdowns in the first three minutes of the game. Score: Keio, 14. Hosei, 0.

First quarter found Hosei on the defensive till Yatagai, receiving a pass from halfback Nakagami, romped 70 yards to Keio's 10 yardline.

Ono, on consecutive center backs, plunged over a touchdown. The try for extra point failed. Score: Keio, 14, Hosei, 6.

Kawabara returned Hosei's kickoff to its own 45 yardline. Kawabara attempted a pass but was intercepted by Fujita of Hosei, finally brought down on Keio's 40 yardline.

The quarter ended with Keio taking the offensive on their own 44 yardline. Score: Keio, 14, Hosei, 6.

Second Quarter

After a series of line plays gave Keio first down on the Hosei 45 yardline, as Hosei line stiffened holding Keio to a five yard gain, Todo kicked to Nakagami, who returned to the Hosei 20 yardline.

At this point Minami was replaced by Yamada for Hosei. Attempting an end run Nakagami was thrown for a loss.

Retaliating by quick punting, Keio took the ball on the Hosei 42 yardline. Tomi was sent into the game substituting for Toda, for Keio. Sasaki replaced Nishikawa for Hosei.

An attempt by Tamura to carry the ball over the line was smothered by Hosei. On the next play Tomi kicked to Nakagami who fumbled on the 10 yardline, recovered by Keio. Following a series of attempts through the line, Tomi drove through center to the Hosei two yardline. Tamura through off tackle, plunged for a touchdown. Try for extra point failed. Score: Keio, 20, Hosei, 6.

Tomi kicked off for the Keio eleven to Nakagami who ran back to his own 35 yardline. Another Hosei pass from Nakagami to Ono was completed on the Keio 49 yardline. The pass was good for 10 yards.

Ono romped around left end to Keio 35 yardline. Fujita clipped off 11 yards on line play to Keio 24 yardline, following with another pass, Nakagami to Ono, brought the ball on Keio 5 yardline.

Fujita drove through center for a touchdown. Nakagami converted for the extra point. Score: Keio, 26, Hosei, 13.

Keio received the Hosei kickoff on their own 20 yardline. Tamura gained 6 yards sweeping around left end. Tomi followed romping 20 yards around right end on the next play, bringing the ball to their own 46 yardline. Tomi quick-kicked to Hosei 40 yardline

Ono, carrying the ball through center, gained 9 yards, followed with the same for first down with the ball on Keio's 45 yardline. Penalized for clipping, in addition to Fukuda's fast charging, threw Hosei for a loss of 15 yards.

Keio received Nakagami's poor kick on the Hosei 30 yardline. After a series of plunges through the line, quarterback sneak made it first down for Keio. Consecutive drives through the line Tomi brought the ball to the Hosei eight yardline. On the next play, Tamura crossed the goal on an off tackle play. Tomi, on the same play, added the extra point. Score: Keio 27, Hosei, 13.

Fourth Quarter

Coach Kunishima, relieved with a 14-point lead, sent in four substitutes at this point of the game. Hosei, receiving the Keio kickoff on its own 20 yardline, brought the ball to it's own 30 yardline with Fujita carrying the ball around right end.

An attempted pass by Nakagami was intercepted by Keio on the Hosei 35 yardline.

Charging Hosei lineman Mutsui, threw Todo for a loss of 10 yards as Todo attempted to pass. Todo punted over the goal. Hosei took the ball on its own 20 yardline. Nakagami retaliated with a poor kick which Keio received on the Hosei 20 yardline.

A fake reverse by Todo resulted in a gain of 15 yards. Tamura ran around right end for a touchdown. The try for an extra point failed. Score: Keio 33, Hosei, 13.

Todo kicked off to halfback Nakagami of Hosei who was nailed on his own 15 yardline. Hosei punted but Keio fumbled on it's own 44 yardline Hosei recovered. Nakagami's long pass to Ono completed for a gain of 15 yards, with Hosei in possession of the ball on Keio 41 yardline as the game ended.

Walton Heath Beats Cambridge

LONDON, Oct. 31—Walton Heath beat Cambridge by 12 matches to four on Saturday. They had a strong, level side and Cambridge have no cause for despondency. The more one sees of them the more one thinks that they will be an uncommonly good team by next Spring; they hit the ball a long way, which is not everything, but is undeniably valuable.

The day was fine and still with, in the morning, no more than a suspicion of mist, but in the afternoon the mist nearly turned into a fog and the judging of distance must have been difficult for the visitors. The foursomes, which were played over 14 holes only, less the singles should finish in the dark, left Walton Heath in a good frame of mind for their luncheon. Langley and Winton, another new combination, began very well for Cambridge by beating Braid and Tipping by four and three. They had the best of the short game and had an average of four when they won. The second couple were rather cruelly used by Russell and Allom who had four 3's running from the third hole and were more or less paddling home ever afterwards. Browne and Booth halved with a well-tried pair in Costain and W. C. Carr and might well have won, since they were dormy one only to hook a fatal tee shot into the heather. The other three foursomes were all won by Walton Heath, and there was a "That's thatishness" about the situation which the singles did nothing to alter.

Lesser Lights

In the afternoon I began by watching some of the lesser lights and left the Langleys and Braids to themselves. N. Mann, from South Africa, was again impressive. He is not yet 18, but he has already mastered to the full the art of keeping the ball in play; he goes very, very straight with his short swing and quite far enough for all practical purposes. I doubt whether since the days of Johnny Bramston at Oxford so good a golfer has played so low on a University side. He went on hitting the ball, reached the turn in 34, and never relaxed, so that H. L. Carr did well to get him to the 16th. Booth played the other Carr, who came with a spirited rush at the end to win by two and one. I still think Booth would be better if he could go a little slower. He is as a rule both long and straight, but liable to sudden aberrations, as on the third tee, when I saw him spin round like a teetotum and hit the ball from behind the heel of his driver into the heather at silly mid-on. That is a stroke that needs elimination from his armoury.

Reynolds, who is of the Aldeburgh school, did well to beat Allom after a bad start, in which he lost the first two holes and only saved the third by something approaching a miracle. After that he played sound golf and his swing had the considered approval of the most august of all authorities on the heath. I cannot help thinking that one who swings the club so well must have something in him which will in time emerge. Carris is big and powerful, and hits some fine shots, but it would be good for him to clamp his head in a photographer's vice in the upswing. It would be a painful but perhaps a salutary experience.

The Big Match

Now for the big match between Langley and H. M. Braid, and a very fine one it was. Braid deserved great credit for winning at the last hole, for he had some cruelly magnificent driving to play against. He is not so long as he once was, being inclined now and then to cut the ball, but even so it must have felt very strange to him to be so outhit. Braid won the first two holes in 3 and 4, but Langley led by one at the eighth. Then Braid put on a spurt; he won the ninth, holed a vast putt to halve the 10th in 3; won the 11th, when Langley was naughty and took three putts; holed another huge putt, under his parent's wholly unmoved eye, to win the 12th in 3. That was two up, and to one vital hole he clung thereafter. The long 14th was splendidly halved in 4 and Braid holed a four-yarder to halve the 15th. At the 16th Langley got a 3 with a glorious second from the rough and a long putt.

That was down to one, and he had all the best of the 17th, only to see Braid chip dead from the left. At the 18th he outdrove Braid by 70 yards—carefully stepped by more than one witness—but it availed not; Braid played the hole like a copy book and a really good match ended. Incidentally Langley holed his tee shot at the fifth hole—250 yards—with a spoon; so the long putts were not all on his conqueror's side.

The results were:—

Richmond Wins Football Game

LONDON, Oct. 21—The Richmond forwards won a battle after their own hearts when they met the Gloucester pack on the Richmond Athletic Ground on Saturday. The back-play was negligible, though there was plenty of it, and here Gloucester may be said to have beaten themselves. In the matter of place-kicking both sides lost chances. There arrived a moment, about seven minutes from no-side, when Boughton's toe at last directed the ball properly and reduced the Richmond lead to a precarious three points. But in a fighting finish Richmond snatched their third try and converted it into a goal. In this way the final score read:—Richmond one goal and two tries (11 points). Gloucester one penalty goal (3 points).

Before the fog from London and the river joined the fog of war in confusing the issue—and incidentally toned down the criticism, which was becoming mordant—it was a bit of a mystery how Gloucester managed to attack so often without scoring any points. Their lusty, long-experienced pack, with Grand Old Man Carpenter in the middle of the front row, had plenty of the ball, and behind them one preferred the passing of Parfitt to that of Cooke. There even seemed to be a certain amount of life and cleverness further behind in midfield until it became apparent that the best passing movements went straight across field, while the worst represented the only hopes that the opposing side had of scoring. There was an occasional use of the reverse pass which ought to have led to something but never did—bad backing up or mishandling always wasted the initial effort.

Futile Attack

This went on for so long that, after a while, it ceased to be a matter of much importance where the play was taking place. Even Boughton, who otherwise was in grand form as a full-back, failed with a straight penalty kick at goal from about 40 yards. He scored a soccer goal to the accompaniment of a slight moan, presumably from some Gloucester visitors. The forward rushes, it should be added, were as frequent and more threatening than the passing movements, but equally futile at the finish.

Such cleverness as could be detected behind the Richmond scrummage was chiefly shown in shaking off the nearly continuous Gloucester attacks in the first half. C. M. Squire was an entertaining as well as an efficient full-back. Several of his daring escapes from tight corners led to one of those rare events, a Richmond attack. A. G. Oxborrow, the new stand-off player, also struggled hard in the toils, and once A. F. Dawkins broke right away, only to throw a forward pass to Styles. The latter, for his part, was a positive Samson in the breaksaway but a glaring example of how not to do it when it came to passing the ball. Still, it may be granted that the Samson touch was extremely useful in such a game and, after all, it did help Styles to score a try in the second half.

It was soon after Dawkins' exciting breakaway and a following foot-rush which was magnificently stopped by Boughton that Gloucester returned to their usual role of attackers and this time at least failed to some effect. The passing broke down and L. V. Cornish, the Richmond right wing, went away at the dribble. He and a supporting player did well to keep the ball out of touch and, moreover, they also kept it rolling on for the goal-line. In the end, a combination of good luck and good foot work enabled Cornish to score a try, the only try of the first half. Cooke, just before the interval, gave Cornish another run, and only E. V. Manning, a tall center who may become a really good man when he has acquired balance, got back to tackle him. Another incident, one of the few worthy of note, was provided by H. M. Hughes, the former Oxford Blue, who once took a lot of stopping in the loose. Richmond's lead of three points was altogether against the run of the game.

A Change of Jerseys

At half-time, with the fog making it all the more difficult to distinguish the jerseys of the two teams, it was decided to dress the Richmond team in white jerseys and the referee in a brown sweater. Soon there were only 14 men in white, but that was due to injury, not the fog. Cornish sustained a cut eye and had to retire. This brought W. G. S. Brooke out of the pack and, incidentally, added considerably to the honors gained by the remaining seven in the closing stages of a hard fight. Squire again did as much as anyone, which, perhaps, was not saying very much, to make Richmond into an attacking side. Gloucester blundered along, still with ample chances to press home their general advantage, but quite unable to finish off an attack. Once, admittedly, a run by E. L. Phillips, supported by the forwards, did very nearly bring a scramble try.

Then, with a quarter of an hour to go—if the fog allowed—one of the periodic breaksaway by the Richmond pack brought a try by Styles and, though Squire again failed with the place-kick, a lead of six points seemed more than enough against a Gloucester in Saturday's form. Soon afterwards, however, Boughton was offered two chances to kick a penalty goal and was successful with the second from moderate range. This stirred up the dying embers and it would be ungenerous not to praise the Richmond pack very highly for their final effort, though it was the interception of an enemy pass by Dawkins which enabled that player to score the try which robbed Gloucester of their last hope.

The teams were:—

RICHMOND—C. M. Squire, back; L. V. Cornish, A. F. Dawkins, K. Wreford, and A. L. Warr, threequarter backs; A. G. Oxborrow and P. Cooke, halfbacks; W. G. S. Brooke, E. A. Styles, J. Mcgaw, G. Fowler, C. D. Laborde, R. G. P. Almond, D. M. Harper, and D. E Teden, forwards.

GLOUCESTER—H. Boughton, back; R. E. Burke, E. V. Manning, E. L. Phillips, and R. E. Hook, threequarter backs; D. Meadows and E. J. Parfitt, halfbacks; H. M. Hughes, S. Mabbett, A. G. Hudson, R. Morris, J. G. A'Bear, C. Harris, A. D. Carpenter, and T. Price, forwards.

Referee—R. B. Hunt.

Japanese Wrestling Team Arrives In U.S.

Domei Tsushin

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 16—Seven members of the all-Japan wrestling team, headed by Captain Eiichi Kazama, intending to make an extensive tour of American universities arrived here today aboard the Chichibu Maru.

Indicating that members of the team are in excellent condition, Captain Kazama told newspapermen that they had trained intensively during the trip and are confident they stand a good chance against their strongest opponents.

It is understood that a definite itinerary for the visitors will be decided upon following their arrival in Los Angeles.

Temple Battles To 26-26 Deadlock

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21—A fighting Temple eleven that refused to be beaten came surging back in a thrilling fourth-period rally tonight to tie undefeated Boston College, 26—26, before a crowd of 15,000 that yelled itself hoarse.

Behind, 26—19, when the visitors shoved over their fourth touchdown with less than three minutes to play, Temple's Al Juralewicz ran back the succeeding kick-off 50 yards to the Owls' 48. On the first play Clem Stevens heaved a 52-yard aerial to James Powers over the Boston goal to make it 26—25.

Stevens then booted the tying point from placement as the climax of a dramatic see-saw game replete with long runs and forward passes. Even the usually calm Glenn (Pop) Warner, Temple's coach, let out a cheer as Stevens's kick went between the crossbars.

Temple Opens Scoring

Temple, which piled up thirteen first downs to Boston's eight, scored first early in the second quarter when Al Nichols went over from the Boston 1, ending an 80-yard march. The Eagles came right back with two touchdowns to take a 13-6 lead at the half. Folla Gintoff heaved a 34-yard pass to Richard Harrison for the first Boston touchdown and a few minutes later tossed a 9-yard aerial to Dave White for the second score.

Temple marched 68-yard in the third period to tie the score, with George Honochick going over from the 1. Boston promptly regained the lead, staging a sustained 73-yard drive with Charlie O'Rourke passing 23 yards to Vito Ananis for the score.

Juralewicz sparked Temple in a 70-yard drive for the Owls' third touchdown early in the last quarter with Honochick plunging over on a short line buck. Goodreault blocked Stevens' try for the extra point to keep Boston ahead at 20—19.

Zabilski Goes Across

When Horsfall, Boston's sub back, ran back one of Stevens's punts 65 yards to the Temple 1 and Zabilski went over for another touchdown, Temple's followers virtually gave up. Then came Juralewicz's long run and Stevens' long forward to Powers.

Boston gained a net of 142 yards from scrimmage to 55 and completed six of eight passes for 104 yards. Temple completed twelve of sixteen forwards for 206 yards.

The line-up:

Pos.	Temple (26)	Boston Coll. (26)

Newport Victor

London Times

A Newport team, pledged it seemed to the open game and attack, won an entertaining match on the Rectory Field. There were some curious features about the actual scoring, but, after the change of ends at any rate, there was little doubt as to who were the better balanced side. Yet Blackheath, in spite of the fact that they hardly ever heeled out cleanly from a scrummage, kept pegging away and were the last to score. Newport won by two goals, one penalty goal, and one try (16 points) to two goals and one try (13 points).

Blackheath began with a strong breeze at their backs and were having considerably the better of things when a breakaway by K. A. Lancey, the opposing stand-off player, led to a penalty goal by W. G. Legge. An over-anxious Blackheath forward had fallen offside, 30 yards out, in front of the posts. As, previously, Blackheath had had two clear chances to score penalty goals they had only themselves to blame for falling three points behind in this way. About this time one especially liked the way in which D. N. F. Kempston, as pivot, took and gave his passes and backed up any of his fellows when they broke away. So far there had been few signs of any serious weakness in the Blackheath scrummaging, while the backs looked a stronger combination than those of Newport, lively as the latter always were. These impressions were confirmed soon afterwards by a really splendid team try. The Blackheath forwards heeled back from a loose scrummage, the passing produced a breakthrough by Kempston and J. S. Moll of the H. P. Jacob-like stride, and J. A. Macdonald showed all the necessary dash on the left wing. Macdonald was the "man over" and his try behind the posts was converted into a goal by M. H. A. Martin.

Try For Try

This magnificent try had no sooner been scored than the Newport men in midfield suddenly came to life in attack, and one of them, M. G. Baker, shot so fast through a gap in the Blackheath defense that he was diving over for a try between the posts before anyone got to him. Legge made no mistake with the place kick, and Newport were three points up again. It was now raining slightly, and fumbled passes and cases of misfielding began to add to the hazards, but the tricky conditions did not prevent a spirited counterattack by Blackheath, in the course of which J. Parsons regained his own kick ahead and found both Moll and W. P. Barton up in support. Barton took Moll's pass at top speed and scored in the right-hand corner. Martin's kick at goal failed, and a moment later half-time came with the score eight points all.

So far as scoring went Newport won the match in the opening minutes of the second half, during which they scored two tries and made one of them into a goal. A hardly less telling achievement, however, was the way in which the Newport pack gained an almost complete monopoly of the ball in the scrummage. This so deprived the Blackheath backs of the initiative that one saw little of them save in defense, where apart from Barton's easy mastery of J. T. Knowles, they were far from sound. It was in midfield that Newport excelled in attack rather than in line. One had no opportunity to discover the merits of G. Williams on the right wing, where one gathered he had shown the highest promise. There was, however, ample evidence of the penetrative qualities of both centers and of Lancey, who has rapidly become a most effective partner of J. Hawkins. Why, incidentally, Hawkins has never even been a reserve for Wales seems a bit of a mystery. He is a decidedly useful player.

A powerful rush by the forwards, at the end of which B. Gough very nearly forced his way over, led up to the try by Lancey. The latter went straight through a crowd of players and slap into a defender on the goal-line. He seemed to drop the ball, but if he did the referee could not be blamed for being unsighted. In any case Lancey's was a deserving effort, worthy of Cliff Jones himself. Before Blackheath could settle down properly after this blow another Newport rush brought a long kick ahead and two or three disastrous fumbles of the greasy ball. Hawkins followed up and touched down in an easy position for Legge to add the goal points. In this way Newport led at 16—8 with over 20 minutes to go.

An Exciting Finish

The course taken by the play was now indicated by an ironical cheer or two when Blackheath actually heeled out from the scrummage. Their resort to the three-four-one formation had little effect, though one would not like to blame the formation for that. Several players, and especially D. T. Kemp and E. G. Cooper, were splendid in the loose, but the scrummaging was very ragged. Unfortunately, too, there were some bad flaws in the defense in midfield. Still, Newport were unable to score again, and Blackheath were fast finding their earlier form in the closing stages. It was now largely their superiority in front and in tackling that enabled Newport to keep in front. One glorious tackle of J. G. W. Davies by E. R. Thomas broke up a dangerous Blackheath attack, and in the last minute of all Legge raced across just in time to hurl Barton into touch when an equalizing score seemed to be likely. Meanwhile it must, of course, be added Moll's easy stride had enabled him to make a telling run, and the excellent backing up of several forwards had produced a score under the posts. G. F. Smith got the try and Martin kicked the goal.

These last 10 minutes were most exciting and both sides went near to scoring in sudden breaksaway. Just before Smith's try Kempston had a clear chance to drop a goal, while a grand Newport dribbling rush was foiled only by one man, Kemp. It was Kemp, too, who cleared a dangerous situation following a drop at goal by Lancey.

The teams were:—

Blackheath.—C. J. Fletcher, back; W. P. Barton, J. G. W. Davies, J. S. Moll, and J. A. Macdonald, three-quarter backs; D. N. F. Kempston and J. Parsons, half-backs; E. G. Cooper, L. S. Bailey, D. T. Kemp, B. S. Downward, P. D. Gange, G. F. Smith, M. H. A. Martin, and F. J. L. Carey, forwards.

Newport.—W. G. Legge, back; G. Williams, M. G. Baker, E. R. Thomas, and J. T. Knowles, three-quarter backs; K. A. Lancey and J. Hawkins, halfbacks; V. J. Law, I. Driscoll, B. Gough, J. C. Jerman, A. Bale, W. G. Jones, I. H. Harry and A. L. Richards, forwards.

Referee.—C. H. Gadney.

The Canary That Snores

Mrs. W. P. Melton of Minden, La., owns the male yellow singing canary which has developed the amazing habit of snoring. The only theory advanced to account for the strange habit, is that it has been kept in a bedroom where adults sleep and may be imitating the snoring sleepers. When it starts to snore, the bird has to be removed from the room so its owners can sleep.

Magnificent Exhibition Of Tennis By 'Bouncing Basque' Thrills Crowd

By A. WALLIS MYERS

LONDON, Oct. 17—Jean Borotra has done it again, and for the ninth time! Playing D. W. Butler in the final of the covered court championship at Queen's Club, the Basque won in four sets—6-0, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

He is not the first to win the indoor title at the age of 40. A. W. Gore was the same age in 1908. M. J. G. Ritchie, another English holder, was four years older when he won in 1914, and E. G. Meers, who was champion in 1892, did not begin to play the game until he was in the late thirties.

But the Frenchman has no peer as a non-stop victor. Since he first competed in 1926, the year of his second triumph at Wimbledon, Borotra has been defeated only three times in 12 tournaments—in 1934 and 1937 by H. W. Austin, and in 1936 by K. Schroder, of Sweden. And it would certainly have required the best Austin or the best Schroder to check him last week. After a dominating first set, in which the Frenchman's eye was as clear as his progress, he was given an excellent match by Butler. He lost four successive games to forfeit the second set from a 4—2 lead and perhaps his opponent was a little lucky here in that Borotra had a key service ace nullified by the foot-fault judge and required nearly six games to regain his confident aim.

Level-Pegging

But in the third set there was level-pegging for a testing period, and Borotra had to strain every nerve to prevent the Worcestershire first service, and the shrewd lobs which were hoisted, from squaring the match.

Not until he recovered his range behind the service line and could create forcing shots off Butler's spin-laden second service was Borotra safe from reprisal.

Although lacking the groundstroke vigour of either Jones or Deloford, Butler played a more strategic game, and, lighter of foot, was able to cover court more rapidly. Yet if his generalship was sounder, he did not strain the Frenchman's stamina quite as much, since his driving length was shorter and the slice on many of his shots enabled the volleyer to come up with less risk.

Butler was also foot-faulted—I believe because, like Adrian Quist at Philadelphia, he raised both feet from the ground in the act of serving. This is the least venial of all the various kinds of foot-faults. The server gains only height and not distance. It is also the most difficult to detect and the one easiest to perpetrate unconsciously.

Did Not Affect Result

As neither Bortora's nor Butler's foot-faults affected the result of their encounter nor curtailed the pleasure of the gallery—and conceivably Borotra's lapses added to it by allowing the crowd to see four sets instead of three—we need not dwell on the incident. Sufficient to suggest that, before any new legislation is supported to amend the existing rule, it must be demonstrated that genuine hardship is inflicted.

Complete lawn tennis players—Tilden, Budge H. L. Doherty and Lacoste are examples—have served without once risking the loss of a stroke by a technical breach of the law. It may very well be that the service needs reconstruction, and not the law.

Butler won many clean aces with his service, notably at the end of the second set and in the third set. Indeed, as I have said, Borotra's ultimate victory depended on his ground-stroke efficiency. When that weakened he was sorely handicapped, because his chance to make the finishing volley was gone.

In the fourth set, having got his break-through for a lead, he could afford to take pot luck for a winner. In one game four returns fell into the bottom of the net. A man of 40 must be allowed to covertly select his breathing spaces, coming back to the keenest fight at his own moment.

Borotra's Best Year

In 1926, perhaps Borotra's best year of all, he reached the final of the American championship after defeating—against the odds, by the way—two such giants as W. M. Johnston and Vincent Richards.

To this day many Americans hold that the Frenchman deliberately throw away games to deceive his opponents as to his real condition. They think he "played possum." He did nothing of the kind. Both matches were contested in humid heat, and only by taking recuperating intervals on the baseline could he possibly whip up the energy to make his successive offensives at the net. The tactics were perfectly fair.

Percy Stevens, the L.T.A. chairman, in presenting the cup to the winner, did but echo the sentiments of a packed house when he said that Borotra was a "grand sportsman and a great friend." Mr. Stevens was deputising for Sir Samuel Hoare, the Association's president.

Wins At 40

LONDON, Oct. 17—Marvellous Jean Borotra, 40 years old, with a leg broken in the Alps and having another six months before he is quite sure of it, bounded and drove and volleyed his way through the National Covered Championships at Queen's Club to his ninth title.

He was magnificent. In all his matches he was up at the net in a twinkling, darting, diving, forcing the ball through the narrowest of openings. It was a wonderful demonstration of physical fitness, willpower and nervous resources at the age of 40.

Every available space was occupied by spectators to see Borotra beat D. Butler in the final. It was thought that the handicap of years (he was conceding 11) would tell against Borotra, but his old-time speed and sagacity gave him victory by three sets to one.

This year, Borotra will probably become president of the French Lawn Tennis Federation, but Borotra is not giving up active play.

"I will not play any more singles in major championships," he said. "I will confine myself to playing doubles and in endeavoring to help my young countrymen to improve."

Those who saw him win this title can hardly realize that he is 40 and there are many more years of tennis in the most popular player who ever swung a racket.

Notre Dame March Over Minnesota

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Shades of the brilliant Knute Rockne, one of America's most-beloved football coaches, settled over the campus at South Bend tonight as one of the greatest Notre Dame grid teams in recent history continued its undefeated march toward the national championship by clubbing down Minnesota, 19-0 in the feature classic of the day.

It provided a fitting climax for the "Fighting Irish," who went through their early season schedule undefeated, watching the Golden Gophers, the Pittsburgh Panthers and the California Golden Bears grabbing all the headlines while sports writers continued to ignore the feats of the Notre Dame Boys.

Today, however, the "Ramblers" from South Bend not only defeated the Gophers—they practically annihilated them. From the opening whistle to the gun-shot that ended 60 minutes of bitter playing, the Notre Dame eleven marched over, around and above a bewildered Minnesota eleven.

Irish Cross the Line

Three times the Irish crossed the last white marker, and though they converted only once, the joyous, victory-mad Notre Dame rooters cared little for those extra points. All they wanted was a win, whether by 60 points or one point, for sports experts had predicted that Minnesota angered by the unexpected 6-3 defeat inflicted by Northwestern—might thrust aside the lighter but trickier Notre Dame squad. That would have spoiled South Bend's dream of a national championship.

Today's victory not only established the Irish as the leading undefeated, untied team in the country, but definitely showed that Minnesota—for years the top team in the country—is definitely on the downgrade. Two defeats last year, one by Nebraska and the other a 7-6 heart-breaking loss to this same Notre Dame team, coupled with the two losses of the 1938 season have proved that the men o' Bernie Bierman are not invincible.

In the Far West, mighty Southern California, with its record unblemished save for an early-season 19-7 loss to Alabama, hit a cropped against the University of Washington when the Huskies from the north pounded out a 7-6 win over their traditional rivals.

As Thousands Cheer

While thousands of spectators cheered the War Horse on toward the Rose Bowl, following their victory over California last week, the Trojans bogged down under the brilliant Washington defense that so far this year has been lacking. Touted as one of the finest elevens on the coast, Jimmy Phelan's men tumbled to the bottom of the conference ladder and then started back the head way—by defeating the West's outstanding eleven. Both teams crossed the goal line for tallies, but Fullback Al Cruver's trusty toe sent the pigskin spinning between the cross-bars to give the northerners a one-point lead which they held despite all fury that Jones men could muster.

Southern California's loss drew the Trojans and the California Bears into a two-way tie for the conference championship. It left Santa Clara as the only major undefeated, untied eleven on the coast—and so far the Rose Bowl moguls have refused to permit teams outside the conference to represent the West.

Pittsburgh Pushes On

In the Southwestern Conference Texas Christian continued its streak of wins, bowling over Texas, 28-6 to establish itself as one of the outstanding teams of the country. Duke University, the East's representative in this select circle continued its march, downing Syracuse, 21-0.

Pittsburgh, not a bit disheartened by its 20-10 loss to Carnegie Tech last week, smothered Nebraska, 19-2 to gain back a certain measure of their former confidence. Carnegie Tech, undefeated except for a close 7-0 decision dropped to Notre Dame went on the rampage to smother its little intra-state rival, Duquesne, 21-0.

AmericanGirlsWin At Last In Manila

MANILA, Nov. 12—The American Girls All Star Softball team won its first victory in three starts against the best of Manila's softball teams when it eked out a thrilling 1-0 win over Johnson-Pickett Rope Company.

Reyes, pitcher for the Johnson-Pickett squad hurled a no-hit game, but lost the contest when his control went haywire, and the American Girls took advantage of a series of three passes to fill the bases. Reyes, still unable to control the ball, walked another batter, forcing a run across home plate—a run which eventually proved to be the winning margin.

Johnson-Pickett played air-tight ball throughout, with not a single man on the team making an error.

The Hollywood All Stars played a clearer game in field than last night when they lost to the U.S. Army team, 11-6, after making six errors. The girls from America committed but two blunders, but were virtually helpless at the plate, seemingly unable to solve the wierd assortment of curves and twists tossed at them by Reyes.

In the opening game at Rizal Memorial stadium, Columbia Pictures annihilated the 16th Naval District, 11 to 2. Columbia Pictures garnered 11 hits while making two miscues, while the sailors clubbed out five hits for two runs, and at the same time having five errors counted against them.

Girl Submarine Swims Under Water 303 Feet

By SAM JACKSON

SAN FRANCISCO.—The world's underwater swimming record for women, which stood for more than 40 years, has been broken by an 18-year-old college girl who doesn't even take her swimming seriously.

It was in 1895 that Anne Johnson of Salford, England, swam 151 feet 6 inches without coming up for air.

Now Ruth Kahl has gone 303 feet—exactly twice the distance you'll find listed in the sports records books. Experts say they can think of no record in any sport that has been beaten more decisively.

That Ruth's performance was no freak is attested by her weekly exhibitions at Santa Cruz, a popular California beach resort.

"Ruth has been swimming every Saturday night before thousands of spectators," relates Skip Littlefield, her professional. "We let the best men swimmers see how far they can go under water, and then Ruth dives in and beats them.

Duke Was Surprised

"That usually takes about 270 feet, a big gain on the women's record in itself. It requires Ruth to stay under water about two minutes. As soon as she's beaten the best man's mark, we send in guards to stop her and avoid unnecessary strain."

The famous Duke Kahanamoku and his swimming troupe were at Santa Cruz last Summer and were amazed at the "girl submarine." None of the islanders, men or women, could equal her.

A report has spread around that Miss Kahl had great difficulty learning to swim on the surface but readily took to her fish-like underwater performance.

"That's ridiculous," says the girl herself. "I've been swimming since I was 6 years old. As children we used to see who could stay under water the longest, so actually, I've had plenty of experience in that line."

Considers Men's Mark

She demonstrated with a powerful crawl stroke and several graceful dives off the 10-foot board.

Coach Littlefield, who is taking steps to have Ruth's record officially listed, says her performance is the more remarkable because she is not a very technically accomplished swimmer.

"She lacks rhythm and co-ordination," he says. Littlefield thinks that, with an improved stroke, plus her unusual ability to stay below the surface, Miss Kahl might shoot for the men's underwater mark. It is 343 feet and is held by Robert L. Pearson of Chicago.

Ruth is the daughter of a family that spends its Summers in a religious colony in the Santa Cruz mountains. She was brought up on a farm and neither smokes nor drinks. She is now in Marin (Calif.) junior college and well ahead of average standing for girls of her age. She has no wish to make anything professionally of her unusual ability in the tank—doing things "just for fun."

Under water, Ruth uses a breast stroke with her arms and a scissor leg action.

On that important point of knowing just how long one can go without breathing, she says:—

"I usually can feel when I'm about to pass out, so I come to the surface. There have been times when I lost consciousness just as I came up, but I seem to revive quickly."

Britain's Failure In Curtis Cup

LONDON.—Britain's women golfers will have to try again to win the Curtis Cup for the first time, but they cannot hope for a better start than they got in the foursomes in the latest match.

The conditions seemed ideal, yet Britain won only one single to the United States five. It is difficult to find a reason for such a sad collapse apart from the one of lack of experience of playing under the strain of international rivalry; only one player, Mrs. Vare, formerly Miss G. Collett who has won the United States women's championship six times, reached the turn in under 40, so that America's victory cannot be credited to brilliant golf.

Women golfers will be greatly concerned at the defeat. Nowadays they take the game as seriously as the men and have been at pains to improve their standard by assiduous competitive practice.

Their intercountry matches are much more of a battle than the men's and the national championships are now stern affairs productive of much sound golf. They apparently need, however, to go a step farther: and perhaps under the stimulation of home support in 1940 they may succeed in forcing defeat upon most stubborn opponents, who by their great recovery in Massachusetts can lay claim to a fighting instinct equal to that of their men folk, even if the figures are not so convincing.

Japan Gets Invitation To '40 Olympic Games; Acceptance Undecided

The Japan Amateur Athletic Association Friday received a formal invitation to participate in the 12th Olympic Games at Helsingfors, Finland, in 1940, association authorities announced. Domei says.

The invitation was extended by the Olympic Organizing Committee of Finland.

Japan's attitude toward the 1940 Olympics, in view of the situation she now faces, has not yet been definitely decided.

Shelaeff To Fight Fasano Again

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11—Although it was Armistice Day here today, Heinrich Seelig declared war on Johnny Fasano, leading North Beach welterweight, by signing him to fight Andre Shelaeff, Orient welterweight titleholder, on November 25.

Fasano and Shelaeff will clash in the semi-final when they clamber through the ropes of the Dreamland Stadium November 25.

It will be the second time that they will don the gloves. The two first met when the Harbin Boy Wonder made his American debut last month and forced a draw.

For four rounds Fasano, who has beaten practically every leading welterweight on the Pacific Coast, outboxed the murderous hitting Russian from Shanghai.

He revealed excellent ringcraft to take the lead on points against his more aggressive foe, but Shelaeff was not to be denied. He forced the fight and in the fifth round opened up such a furious barrage that the American youth had to cover up.

Seelig Jubilant

It was while they were slamming away at each other that Shelaeff accidentally cut open a gash on Fasano's head by butting him. The referee halted the fight and on learning that Fasano could not continue he called the fight a technical draw.

Since then, Shelaeff gained a big following by disposing of Al Evans in three quick rounds of a planned ten-round main event last week.

Seelig, manager of Shelaeff and brother of Eric Seelig, leading middleweight, was jubilant in signing Fasano for a return bout.

"Just wait and see Andre get revenge," he sputtered, after announcing that papers for a rematch had been signed by the Dreamland officials.

Good at Return Bouts

He explained that the Russian youth, who will only be 19 years of age on December 14, has never lost a return bout.

Going through the fine knockout record of the lad he pointed out that Shelaeff had always reversed the verdict in return bouts against men to whom he had dropped decisions in the initial bouts.

The Russian's manager excitedly related how Shelaeff, after losing to Jimmy Mecredy of the 15th U. S. Infantry in Tientsin, knocked out the soldier in the return bout.

"And Fasano just beat this Mecredy on points few months ago, so Andre easily can win," the German-Jewish manager said.

Shelaeff himself was not so verbose when asked how he felt about meeting Fasano.

"I learn plenty things," he said in broken English. "I think I do better because I can hit hard and not afraid Fasano's punches. Sure, I do my best."

YorkshireBeaten In County Rugger

LONDON, Nov. 13—Yorkshire were beaten in a Rugby Union County Championship match at Newcastle yesterday, losing to Northumberland by eight points to six.

Gloucestershire beat Devon at Bristol by ten points to four, Lancashire defeated Durham at Manchester by 14-10, while at Taunton, Somerset and Cornwall battled to three-all tie.

In club matches, Bedford was held to a scoreless draw by Moseley while Devonport Services drew 3-3 with the Old Blues. The London Welsh defeated Bath easily by 15-6. United Services just beat London Scottish by 11-9.

Results of club matches were:

Electrical Device Correctly Spots Pins For Bowling

HELENA, Mon.—Bowlers are about to lose their number one alibi: "The pins weren't spotted properly."

J. R. Kaiserman and Art Merkle of Helena have invented a system that takes all the guess work out of spotting.

With pins in the proper places, an electric circuit is made. This circuit is connected with a triangle and in the triangle are ten lights to represent each pin. Each pin on the bowling alley has an electrical connection so delicate that if the pin is off a fraction of an inch the light to which it is connected fails to burn.

When the bowler knocks down a pin the light goes out. Thus the device not only is referee to settle disputes between player and pinsetter over the setting of pins but it also is an automatic scorer. The lighted triangle can be placed on the wall in sight of both players and spectators.

The inventors claim the appliance does not change the weight of the pins, nor does it interfere with the free movement of pins and balls.

Vines To Desert Pro Tennis

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Ellsworth Vines, in his hey-day as an amateur one of the most expert American racquet wielders, revealed today that he will quit the courts after completing his Winter tour with Donald Budge, who this week turned to the professional rank.

"I'm getting old," the lanky Californian who was ranked No. 1 in the world in 1932 declared today. He is 27 years old.

Vines is planning to become a contact man in a sporting goods firm for both tennis and golf.

"I might stage an exhibition now and then, but no more real action for me," he declared. "I want to concentrate on golf . . . watch me in the 1939 tournaments."

Vines, who in 1932 retained the American singles championship at Forest Hills and then took the Wimbledon title on his first visit, the first player under 21 to win the championship of two hemispheres in the same year, joined the professional game in October 1933, when he signed a contract with William T. "Big Bill" Tilden, perhaps the most brilliant figure ever seen on a tennis court.

After his first year in the professional game, Vines declared that it was a "hard life."

To Help Sick Father

"Professional tennis is much harder than the amateur game because one has to play almost every night and in different towns on unfamiliar courts," he declared.

When asked if amateur tennis did not have certain advantages over the professional game, he replied, "None, after looking at my bank book."

He has consistently refused to reveal how much he made during his professional career of the past four years, but his income is reported as averaging US $45,000 a year.

Vines joined the professional ranks "to earn enough to help the family," while his partner on next year's tour, Donald Budge, turned professional to earn money enough to assure his sick father of the proper medical attention.

Budge, the first man in the history of lawn tennis to complete a grand slam of the American, English, French and Australian titles in one year, accepted a guarantee of US $75,000 to make the nation-wide tour with Vines and Fred Perry.

Highway Of Salt

The four-mile highway across Searles Lake literally floats on the surface of the lake. The hot Mojave Desert sun has hardened the surface of the brine lake into a cake of salt strong enough to support loaded trucks and tractors, and airplanes land on it in complete safety. Its only support is the salty water of the lake. The road leads to the industrial town of Trona, Calif., and the plant of the American Potash and Chemical Corporation.

Passes By Rasbury Pave Way To Y.C.A.C.'s 6-0 Victory Over Tokyo O.B. Gridders

By KOSHI MIYAZAKI

The Y.C.A.C. gridders took to the air and won from the Tokyo O.B. by 6-0 in a hard fought tussle at the Korakuen stadium Sunday afternoon.

Prior to the game, Prof. Frank T. Matsumoto of Meiji University explained the fundamentals of American football over the loud speaker to the 500 interested spectators, with the O.B. team giving exhibition of the various plays. He also gave a play by play explanation throughout the game in order to teach this new game to the Japanese sportsmen.

Kasahara Stars

These Japanese sportsmen were amply satisfied for they saw their favorite Tsunemi Kasahara, speedy O.B. Halfback and formally Meiji University rugby player, at present a Nikkatsu film star, play a spectacular game. His brilliant broken field runs, cut backs and side stepping had the ardent fans on their feet throughout the game. His playing ability was a real treat to all football fans for he was capable of booting the ball on surprise punts, with either his right or left leg, for 50 yard averages. He is also an accurate passer with either left or right hand.

Although the O.B. completely outplayed the Club men in the first half, they failed to rally in the breaks and consequently failed to score.

The O.B. had their first break early in the first quarter. Kasahara punted a high one to Safetyman Ross, who dropped the ball and the two O.B. ends were down fast and recovered the pigskin on the 13 yard line. A center plunge and two off-tackles by Kasahara gained 10 yards, to make it first down, goal to go. Here the Club men put up a stubborn resistance and aided by a 5 yard penalty for delaying, they won the ball on downs, with Obayashi and Kasahara making a vain attempt to break through the stonewall Y.C.A.C. defense. The Club men in possession of the ball once again, took no chances and punted out of danger.

Rasbury Stars

Both teams played a defensive game in the second quarter and resorted to an exchange of punts. Ross' punts travelled high and far, averaging 40 yards. Fullback Hamsher played left end on defense and was in there doing most of the tackling. The speedy and hard hitting Rasbury was the mainstay on the Y.C.A.C. secondary defense. The score at half time was 0-0.

The Clubmen came back with renewed pep in the third quarter and resorted to an aerial attack. The Rasbury-Hamsher combination clicked perfectly and led to the lone touchdown of the day.

Ross booted a high one from the 50 yard marker and Safetyman Kasahara, finding himself in a tough spot with the two Y.C.A.C. ends waiting to tackle him, attempted to break loose with a jumping catch, but the ball slipped through his hands and Smith recovered it on the 16 yard line. Y. C. A. C.s chance to score. Ross hit center but was thrown for a one yard loss. On the next play Y.C.A.C. was penalized 5 yards. A quick pass from Rasbury to Hariss was illegal and called back. Another pass over center from Rasbury to Salters gained 10 yards. Rasbury stepped back again and flipped another long pass over the right flank and Hamsher made a difficult and beautiful catch on the goal line for the lone touchdown. He was covered by three O.B. men when he made that catch. Try for conversion by a pass failed.

Score: Y.C.A.C. 6—O.B. 0

Kasahara Attempts Goal

A field goal by Kasahara was attempted in third quarter when the O.B. team marched down from the 50 yard line to the 27. It was a beautiful kick but it fell a few inches short of the bar.

The last quarter was a see-saw tussle with neither team making any threats.

Outstanding on the Y.C.A.C. team were: Rasbury, Ross, Hariss and Hamsher. For the O.B. Kasahara, Obayashi, Chiwa, Komesu and Moto Inoue.

The starting line-up:

Y.C.A.C.		Tokyo O.B.
L.E.	Holton	Chiwa
L.T.	Worden	M'ura

Anniversary Of Screen Snapshots

To celebrate the 18th year of Screen Snapshots, Harriet Parsons, producer, has assembled and completed the new Columbia short feature, "Anniversary Reel," which will be distributed throughout the world soon.

The short feature reveals the comparison of famous film personalities as they were years ago and as they are today. Scenes of fifteen years ago of Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford, and Douglas Fairbanks are balanced by recent scenes of Chaplin with Paulette Goddard, Fairbanks with Mrs. Fairbanks, and Mary Pickford with Buddy Rogers honeymooning in Hawaii.

In addition, more than 40 other prominent screen personalities appear in the feature. Of special interest is the portion devoted to kid stars, such as Jackie Coogan, Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney and Frankie Darro shown as little boys and now as young men.

The "Anniversary Reel" was photographed by Robert Tobey.

Keio Tops Waseda, 7-4 In Kansai Tilt

In the first Keio versus Waseda university baseball game ever played in the Kansai, the boys from Mita downed the Tezuka nine, 7-4, Sunday afternoon at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, as a part of the first day's events of Kansai national grand athletic meet.

The summaries were:

Waseda	021 000 100	4	9	3
Keio	022 300 00x	7	8	2

Batteries: Matsui, Ishiguro and Ogusu, Tsujii; Takagi, Shiraki and Inouye.

Up In The Air For A Save

Goalie Fuwa of Waseda checking a Keio goal in Sunday's hard fought soccer game at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Keio won, 2-0.

Yoshimoto Scores, Running 60 Yds. As Meiji Downs Rikkyo Eleven, 14-0

By BILL OMURA

Taking advantage of the breaks and rallying in the second half, Meiji defeated Rikkyo 14-0 in the Tokyo Intercollegiate Football League at the Korakuen stadium Saturday afternoon.

Meiji's first period safety was followed with two touchdowns in the third quarter. Tackle Watanabe, breaking through Rikkyo's stalwart line blocked halfback Hosoda's attempted kick, recovering it for a safety. Halfback "Terry" Yoshimoto of the Purple and White, breaking loose made a spectacular sweep around Rikkyo's left end and romped 60 yards for one of his touchdowns.

Meiji Fumbles

Consecutive fumbling and its over-anxious line being penalized four times for off-side in the first quarter, resulted in Meiji taking to the defensive in their own territory most of the time. Meiji's goal was threatened on numerous occasions with Rikkyo taking to the air.

Although Meiji outplayed Rikkyo from the second half, the Purple and White did not display the smoothness and power that marked their games earlier this season.

Several times their play was messed up back of the line of scrimmage and resulted in fumbles. Their blocking was also far below normal.

First Quarter

Yoshimoto of Meiji took the kick-off on his own 20 yard line and returned to his own 40 yard line.

On the first play Hamasaki kicked to Rikkyo's 19 yard line.

Hosoda, plunged through center, Meiji penalized 5 yards for off-side. Fullback Yamada made necessary yardage for first down on an off-tackle play. After a series of line plunges Yamada was held for no gain. Hosoda attempted to pass but Meiji's charging line broke through and he was thrown for a loss. Meiji took the ball on the Rikkyo 38 yard line. Yoshimoto broke loose for 9 yards. On the next play Hamasaki fumbled, Rikkyo recovering on its own 35 yard line. Hosoda attempted line plunges but was held for no gain. Suzuki's kick on the next play was blocked by Meiji's tackle Watanabe. Ball rolled over Rikkyo's goal, Watanabe recovered for safety. Score: Meiji, 2, Rikkyo, 0.

Hosoda took Hamasaki's kickoff on his own 20 yard line, and returned 17 yards before he was finally brought down on Rikkyo's 37 yard line.

Quarterback Suzuki heaved to right end Ikegami for a gain of 33 yards bringing the ball to Meiji's 27 yard line. Meiji was penalized 5 yards for off-side.

Second Quarter

As the teams changed goals, Halfback Yamada of Rikkyo was replaced by Takeuchi, and Hanaoka substituted for Kitamura for Meiji. Rikkyo's ball on Meiji's 22 yard line. Meiji was again penalized 5 yards for off-side. Following series of line plays Saguchi made the necessary yardage on a fake reverse for first down, bringing the ball to Meiji's 11 yard line. Suzuki fumbled on the next play and Sakamoto of Meiji recovered on his own 5 yard line. Hamasaki kicked to Rikkyo's quarterback Suzuki who took the ball on his own 35 yard line.

Three attempts through the air failing, Suzuki kicked to Yoshimoto. Receiving the kick on his own 20 yard line, brought the ball to mid-field before he was tackled.

At this point Wada replaced Hamasaki at halfback for Meiji who was taken out of the game for twisted ankle.

Third Quarter

Wada kicked off for Meiji, Hosoda took the kickoff on his own 30 yard line. Rikkyo kicked on the first play. Yoshimoto received the kick on Meiji's 45 yard line. On the first play Yoshimoto broke loose on his famous end play and romped 60 yards for a touchdown. Conversion by Yoshimoto was incomplete. Score: Meiji 8, Rikkyo, 0.

Wada's kickoff was received by Shima, Rikkyo's center, who returned the ball to his own 30 yard line.

Yoshimoto took Suzuki's punt on his own 30 yard line and returned 20 yards before he was brought down in midfield. Wada, kicked to Suzuki of Rikkyo who was thrown out of bounds on his own 10 yard line. Suzuki fumbled on an attempt through center, but the ball was recovered over the goal line by Meiji for touchdown. Conversion failed. Score: Meiji, 14, Rikkyo 0.

Center Shima of Rikkyo received Wada's kickoff on his own 31 yard line.

Meiji's charging line held Rikkyo for no gain in three tries, and Suzuki kicked to Wada downing the ball on Meiji's 40 yard line.

Following consecutive end runs by Yoshimoto, Meiji brought the ball to Rikkyo's 10 yard line. Wada on the next play steamrolled to Rikkyo's 2 yard line.

Fourth Quarter

Ball on Rikkyo's 2 yard line. Wada attempted a pass to Quarterback Inouye, but it was incomplete and Rikkyo took possession of the ball. Rikkyo punted clear out of danger Yoshimoto received kick on Rikkyo's 40 yard line and returned to the 14 yard line.

Shima of Rikkyo intercepted Wada's pass to Inouye. Rikkyo's ball on own 43 yard line. Meiji line again penalized 5 yards for off-side. Hosoda's intended pass for Ikegami was intercepted by Meiji's Yasuda. With the ball on Meiji's own 45 yard line, Yoshimoto lateraled to Yasuda. Yasuda carrying the ball around left end, the gun ended the game. Score: Meiji, 14; Rikkyo, 0.

Keio Soccerites Tumble Waseda By 2 To 0 Score

Keio's smooth passing attack won over Waseda's gallant defense and the former took the longer end of a 2-0 score Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Keio now will meet Tokyo Imperial University, each with four straight victories, next Sunday afternoon for the championship of the Kanto University Soccer league.

Keio's speedy team attacked from the opening kick-off and with Forwards Shinozaki, Ninomiya and Harima, Olympic players, leading the offense, the Waseda eleven was forced on the defensive and so did play continue for the greater part of the afternoon.

Ninomiya of Keio stormed the Waseda goal early in the first half but the Waseda backs put up a good defense to check a score. Keio finally scored in 17 minutes when Shinozaki took a pass from Inomata and booted it into the net from close range.

Waseda had an opportunity of deadlocking the count at 20 minutes with a free kick but Sugi, outside right, missed goal by a wide marg'n.

Waseda pressed hard right at the outset of the second half. The entire line stormed the Keio goal on a corner kick but failed to score.

Keio threatened after play had gone on for 10 minutes. Attacking from the right flank, Shinozaki attempted a goal after taking a pass from Ishikawa but the ball swerved too much to the left. Obata dribbled the ball back to the center and passed to Ninomiya who scored easily.

The line-ups were:

Keio: Shinozaki, Harima, Ninomiya, Obata and Inomata, forwards; Kasahara, Ishikawa and Takashima, halfbacks; Kato and Miyakawa, fullbacks; Tsuda, goalie.

Waseda: Takahashi, Watanabe, Suecka, Kamo and Sugi, forwards; Sasano Miyake and Shibata, halfbacks; Yoshida and Kurata, fullbacks; Fuwa, goalie.

Oldest Living Things On Earth

The oldest living things on earth are believed to be the macrozamia denisoni trees found in the Tambourine Mountains near Brisbane, Australia. Their age is estimated at more than 12,000 years, which makes California sequoias look like mere infants.

These trees are only 20 feet high, but in spite of their comparatively insignificant size, they are older than sequoias or even the Tree of Tule, Mexico. A macrozamia which measures one foot in diameter and 5 feet in height is more than 1,000 years old. In the big trees, the age is determined by counting the annual rings. In the case of macrozamia, their age can be established most accurately by counting the armor of leaf bases, a peculiar protective tissue which envelopes the base of its crown of leaves and which increases with each biennial production of leaves. The tree has growing periods and periods of prolonged rest. It cannot be sawed apart but it can be chopped down with an axe. Its leaves have a tint of reddish purple.

Fordham Routs Oregon, 26-0 Before 27,000 At New York

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—The dynamite planted in Fordham's new and high-powered offensive exploded with a roar at the Polo Grounds yesterday before a gathering of 26,866 onlookers as the mighty Rams toppled Oregon, 26 to 0, and pointed to Pittsburgh still undefeated.

For a few agonizing moments, however, it looked like a Pyrrhic victory. The biggest stick of dynamite in the powder house, the sophomore, Leonard Eshmont, was carried off the field with a badly twisted knee in the last quarter but a hasty examination in the clubhouse revealed he probably will be able to face the Panthers next Saturday.

With how much effectiveness he can play, though, remains to be seen.

This was a gorgeous victory carved out against the giants from the Pacific Coast. Before the fray was four minutes old Pete Holovak had cut from the Webfoot right tackle in a routine Rockne play. But that keen pupil of the old master, Sleepy Jim Crowley, Fordham coach, had taught his blockers well.

Spurt Eludes Last Man

They chopped down the Duck linemen and Holovak broke into the clear. A sudden burst of speed as he neared the Oregon defensive halfback left the Ram free and he raced 80 yards for a touchdown.

But Oregon was not to be balked so easily. These titans fought back bitterly for the rest of the half and for most of the third quarter as well. But a 63-yard march begun by Fordham in the third ended with another touchdown in the fourth, and then it became a rout.

Three times in that final session the Rams scored as their defensive power mounted along with their offensive strength. Not once in the second half did Oregon get past midfield as Fordham took command of a situation that had seemed for a while it never would get.

The Maroon started to drive and kept going against a Webfoot eleven that became more and more demoralized. The score was 13 to 0 when Eshmont, the incomparable one, swept wide on a sideline gallop. Erling Jacobson, Oregon center, drove into the Atlas Antelope roughly when he was trapped and Lopin' Len had to be carried to the clubhouse.

Jacobson Taken Out

Tex Oliver, Oregon coach, exiled his overzealous young man to the sidelines amid the boos of a pro-Fordham crowd, but the Ducks seemed to feel the error even more than Fordham because even thirdstring Ram players were able to gain great yardage on their giant rivals.

In statistics the Maroon had everything in its favor. The first downs were 18 to 5, the yards by rushing 307 to 94 and by passing 133 to 49. At the end Fordham merely used this major game as light target practice for its aerial attack.

Yet for all the 26-point margin Oregon was a hard-luck team when ill fortune counted most. The Ducks drove to the 26 in the first period and bobbled a pass from center for a costly loss; they went to the 28 and fumbled, and in the second quarter they reached the 28 again and missed a field goal.

A smile from the fates when the count was 7—0 might have made a great alteration in their fortunes. But no such smile was forthcoming. And Fordham, growing mightier, soon gave fortune not even a chance to help.

A Ram defense that was porous in the beginning tightened until nothing could push back the Maroon except the officials on penalties. More encouraging than even that to Fordham supporters was the fact that Sonnenlent James was able to substitute almost at will without any appreciable difference in attack or defense.

The eventful period was that fatal fourth. The 63-yard drive went from the third quarter into the last. It was sustained with fire and fury, a sharp contrast to earlier endeavors as the Maroon touched the 17, the 23, the 8 and the 18 yard lines without having a point to show for it.

The 63-yard advance was accomplished with class. It had two high spots. One was a 22-yard gallop to the 5 by Holovak on that most ancient gridiron dodge, the Statue of Liberty play. Then Fordham dazzled the crowd with a one and a half spinner reverse.

Holovak faked to Dom Principe and handed the ball to Eshmont. And the prize sophomore skirted the Oregon left end in a wild dash for the corner. He made it on sheer speed and Fordham had a 13-0 lead.

Passes Put Ball Near Goal

A short while later the Rams dashed 57 yards and, by way of variety, struck mostly through the air. Mike Hearn passed to Bill Krywicki for 28 and Kazlo spun two tosses for 23 yards more and a first down on the 2. The hapless Oregonians were penalized a yard for offside play and Principe burst through a gaping hole on a weakside play for a touchdown.

Oregon was so badly beaten by this time that the Webfoots had to pass. Naturally enough, alert Fordham intercepted and went 25 yards more for another counter.

Ralph Friedgen, third-string fullback, went through on weak-side plays like Principe himself, tearing off 19 yards in one dash. This brought about a first down on the 14.

Then, apparently disdainful of Pitt scouts, Fordham unveiled a beauty. Friedgen bucked through the middle and handed the ball to Krywicki, who threw laterally to the fleet Hearn, free on the wing. A burst of speed and the Ram back was over for a touchdown. It was a variation of a Minnesota play that always was effective.

Eshmont Goes 45 Yards

These scoring plays were eye-catching in their execution but the fans probably went from the game with only one play in mind. This came in the second period, when Eshmont split the Oregon line over guard, cut sharply to his left and raced 45 yards before he was tripped by the last man between him and the goal, Bob Smith, a halfback. Eshmont dodged him but a wild-swinging arm was enough to upset the Ram ace on the 23.

For Fordham the second line looked at times better than the varsity. The star line man of the afternoon was Paul Berezney, a senior tackle, who finally fulfilled his early promise. Mike Kochel at guard and the sophomore Lou De Filippo also were outstanding. For Oregon, Larry Lance, an end, and Jim Stuart, a tackle, played well.

If Eshmont is sound of limb, Fordham will face Pitt stronger than ever before. This will not be another scoreless tie. That much can be guaranteed.

Only Three Hit Over .300 In Pro League During Fall Season

Only three players, with more than a hundred times at bat, batted over .300 in the Fall season of the professional baseball league, according to official statistics announced.

They were: Outfielder Nakajima of the Tokyo Giants with a .361 mark, the result of 56 hits out of 155 times at bat.

Catcher Harris of the Eagles, who banged out 49 hits out of 153 times at bat.

Outfielder Omoda of the Senators, who made 45 hits in 150 trips to the plate.

New School Desks

NEW YORK. (INS)—New York high schools of the future may be equipped with the new type of movable desks and seats. Time worn arguments that a movable desk cost more to manufacture than a fixed one, or, if competitive in price was inferior in quality, were blasted at recent tests conducted for school authorities. Bids for outfitting two new high schools with sturdy movable furniture averaged about $2,000 less per school than the cost of fixed furniture.

Illinois Toppled By Northwestern By 13 To 0 Score

N.Y. Times

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 22—Northwestern's Wildcats bared their claws for two bruising touchdown drives today and defeated Illinois, 13 to 0, in Memorial Stadium before 37,000 spectators.

In handing the Illini their first Western Conference setback, Northwestern fought its way to touchdowns in the first and final periods. Jack Ryan scored to end a 50-yard march in the opening quarter and in the final period Sophomore Ollie Hahnenstein climaxed a brilliant afternoon by adding another six points to the Northwestern total.

Illinois, meanwhile, was almost too hard pressed fighting off the Wildcats to engage in an attack of its own. Northwestern made sixteen first downs to three for Illinois and gained 169 yards by rushing as Illini backs were held to a scant 38.

Drive Starts at Midfield

Northwestern's first touchdown drive began on the 50-yard stripe. The Wildcats quickly completed their only pass of the game in three aerial attempts to reach the Illinois 35, the pass being Bernie Jefferson to Bob Daly. Ryan, Jefferson and Laskay smashed to the Illini 3, from where Ryan ripped over through right guard. Laskay's try for point was good.

In the final period Dick Richards' interception of an Illinois pass at his own 33 started another Wildcat surge. With short smashes, aided by a 1-yard penalty, Northwestern drove to the Illinois 35. Hahnenstein then sliced off right tackle, shook off several Illini and ran 29 yards to the Illini 6.

Fourth Smash Scores

On the fourth line smash Hahnenstein went over from 2 yards out. Laskay's try for point was low.

Illinois had scoring chances but Northwestern's veteran line nullified them. In the closing minutes Illinois desperately tried passes from deep in its own territory. One was intercepted and Northwestern was making another bid as the game ended, the final gun sounding just after a Wildcat field goal try dropped short.

The triumph gave Northwestern one victory and a tie in two Big Ten starts.

Illinois lost the services of Bob Wehrli, senior halfback from Naperville, Ill., as well as the game.

Dr. L. M. T. Stilwell, team physician, said Wehrli, the Illini's most dependable back this season, would be out for the remainder of the season as a result of a fractured left elbow, suffered in the first quarter while attempting to make a tackle.

Hosei Depending On Aerial Attack To Defeat Meiji

The Meiji versus Hosei American football game scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium has been postponed to Sunday at 12:30 p.m., according to a last-minute decision taken by the league authorities Monday night. Waseda and Keio will meet in the nightcap of the doubleheader the same day.

By BILL OMURA

Meiji, with two victories in the Tokyo Inter-collegiate American Football League, steps into the front line Wednesday against the Hosei eleven at Korakuen stadium, the kick-off is slated for 2:30 p.m.

Rikkyo will go to Yokohama on Thursday and meet a heavier team, the Y.C.A.C., at the Negishi grounds in the annual Thanksgiving Day game.

Though losing to Keio, Hosei outplayed the boys from Hiyoshi in its previous game in aerial attack and has an impressive record on completed passes.

With Hosei's versatile Nakagami, equipped with a deadly firing arm, continuance of aerial play is most obvious.

Meiji meanwhile has piled up a huge total of gains and unleashed a spectacular running attack against Rikkyo. Meiji's chief threat, Yoshimoto, who romped 60 yards to score against Rikkyo will start at left half.

The charging line will be headed by "Barking" Sabo Sakamoto, the best punt-blocker in the league Toyama and Machida, the 60-minute ends; Watanabe and Matsumoto at tackles; and the impregnable Hanaoka at right guard.

Coach-captain, Paul Kurokawa, watching his hopefuls go through a final tuneup drill at Daitabashi Monday afternoon, spoke with a mixture of doubt and optimism.

"I can't tell what they'll do," he admitted. "They have plenty of stuff, but with overwhelming victory in the past games the boys might become victims of over-confidence.

Hosei's coach, Nago, is still having trouble with his line, and there lies a disturbing factor. Captain Nakashima who plays from tackle to halfback is on the "no play" list with a broken nose and this undoubtedly will weaken the left side of the line.

The meeting of Meiji and Hosei should be spectacular, and provide the final test for the Purple and White high-geared attack before its climaxing affair with Waseda, last years champions three weeks hence.

Takamuku Beats Jiro Yamagishi In Tennis Match

Tetsuo Takamuku of the Koshien Club, fourth ranking player in 1937, sprung a major surprise in the second day's events of the Kansai National Athletic meet at the Koshien layout near Osaka, by defeating Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 tennis star. The score was 3-6 6-4 and 6-3.

Outside of his defeat in the national championships last year to Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany, then on a visit to this country, it was Yamagishi's first setback in Japan since he lost to Jiro Fujikura in the semi-finals of the national championship of 1933.

Takamuku, who defeated Franjo Kukuljevic, the Yugo-Slav Davis Cup star, in an exhibition match on Sunday before last at the Denyen courts in Tokyo, deserved great credit for his feat Monday. While Yamagishi took the first set at 6-3, the Koshien Club player, played a good backcourt game and the games went to the limit. His play became steadier with the second set and Yamagishi decided to quit the duel from the baseline. He rushed to the net again and again but Takamuku outmaneuvered him with aces on either side through him. Takamuku led 4-2 and then 5-3 in the third set. He missed a match-point once but ran through the set when Yamagishi double-faulted.

Yamagishi attempted his effective drop shots time and again but Takamuku in turn retaliated with the same tactics to wage battle on even terms in this respect.

Tamio Abe, non-playing captain of the Davis Cup team this year, defeated Shunji Ikujima of Kwansei Gakuin, 6-1, 3-6 and 6-0.

The East Japan team beat the West Japan contingent, 76 to 59 points, in the bicycle races.

Kyoto Imperial took the measure of Kwansei Gakuin, 52-42 in the basketball competition. The score at half time was 30-20 in favor of the winners.

Meiji University defeated a picked Kansai team by 13-2 in handball, which is being introduced in this country.

AN EASY METHOD TO LEARN CHINESE-JAPANESE CHARACTERS

By Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Vaccari

This new and unique publication is indispensable to students wishing to learn Chinese-Japanese characters methodically and quickly.

Every character, printed in large size in handwriting style on one side of a card, is given, in printed style, in combination with other characters, which combinations reproduce the essential Japanese compound words that are necessary to know in order to understand Japanese newspapers and books.

The compound words are given a progressive number, and on the other side of the cards the numbers are repeated with the pronunciation in Roman letters and the English translation of the compound words under consideration.

The cards are contained in a specially designed box.

MAIN FEATURES

1. The first publication showing how Chinese-Japanese characters are written with the brush (fude).
2. Containing 7000 compound words used in modern Japanese.
3. All characters have been given in the order of the progression of the number of their strokes, which is indicated on the upper edge of the partitions that divide the cards in the box.

Size of the cards 4 x 2¾ inches
Size of the box 9 x 6 x 4½ inches
NET WEIGHT 5½ lbs.
Price of the set ¥12.00 and postage.

COMPLETE COURSE OF JAPANESE CONVERSATION GRAMMAR

By Mr. Oreste Vaccari and Mrs. Enko Vaccari

THE LONDON TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

....this new manual is practical and useful, and what Count Kabayama in his prefactory note calls its "human method" will make it acceptable to the growing number of English students of Japanese. When the student has mastered its sixty lessons he will have completed the equivalent of an ordinary Japanese school education and will be at home in the language and able to proceed to higher things.

A feature of the book is its transliteration with Chinese characters of every Japanese example rendered in English spelling so that the student is gradually familiarized with the appearance of the language as well as with its sound.

Grammar: 15 x 22.5 cm, Pages 538, ¥12.00 (Abroad £1 2s. or $6.00) (with two large maps, one of Japan, and one of Tokyo)
Supplement: Pages 280, ¥5.00 (Abroad 9s. or $2.50)

Thanksgiving Day Grid Game Slated At Y.C.A.C. Field

The fifth annual Thanksgiving Day game will be played Thursday at 2:30 o'clock between the Y.C. and A.C. team and Rikkyo University Club team at the Yokohama Club grounds. This is the third time the annual game has been played at the Y.C. and A.C. grounds.

The first two Thanksgiving Day games in 1934 and 1935 were played at the Meiji Shrine Stadium in Tokyo. Since 1936 they have been played at the Y.C. and A.C. by the courtesy of that wellknown athletic club without charge as a special feature of the celebration of Thanksgiving Day by the American community in Tokyo and Yokohama. All members of the American community are especially invited to attend the game this year. A large American attendance at this annual game has done much to create interest in the game in Japan. The courtesy of the Yokohama Country and Athletic Club is extended to Americans that day.

First Game in 1934

The first game of American football played in Japan took place at Meiji Shrine Stadium on Thanksgiving Day, 1934 when fewer than 25 Japanese college students of Meiji, Waseda and St. Paul's unversities made up a squad to play the all foreigners squad of Y.C. and A.C. The game was well received and newspapers began to take some interest. During the Spring and Summer of 1935 two other wellknown Tokyo universities, Keio and Hosei, were admitted to the young League. Members of the American community and several prominent Japanese who had attended American colleges responded to the appeal by Paul Rusch, chairman of the league, for equipment funds. During October and November, 1935 a full ten game series was played off. Japanese newspapers began to support the game with real interest, news sports writers even forming a team of their own to study the various plays to enable them to better write up the games.

Regular seasons have been maintained since and the game has become thoroughly rooted as another sports winning increasing support in Japan. With the aid of a few American college teachers and some of the American attaches of the Embassy and some businessmen, there are five of the major universities in Tokyo, Meiji, Waseda, Keio, Rikkyo, Hosei, and one in the Kansai, Kansai University, playing American football.

A great deal of credit for the game's development in Japan is due to the willingness of foreign members of the Y.C. and A.C. of Yokohama and the K.R.A.C. of Kobe to form teams and play games with the much younger Japanese collegians. After three years of pioneering effort the sport secured the interest of Ryozo Asano, president of the Harvard Club of Japan, who has become president of both the pioneer Tokyo Intercollegiate Football League and the newly formed Japan Football Association which was set up last year to be the governing body for the future development of American football in Japan.

Doubleheaders Slated

At a special call meeting of the entire registered list of players of the five universities making up the Tokyo Intercollegiate Football League held in the auditorium of the Tokyo Asahi on Monday night, Chairman Rusch announced that certain changes in the remainder of the season's schedule must be effected for financial and other reasons. The four remaining college games will be combined into two doubleheaders. The game scheduled for today between Meiji and Hosei will not be played until Sunday November 27 at the Korakuen stadium as the curtain raiser at 12:30 p.m. for the Waseda-Keio game. Tickets will entitle holders to both games. The Waseda-Keio game was scheduled for Saturday but owing to restrictions due to the air-raid drills it has been changed to November 27.

The Rikkyo-Keio game billed for December 3 has been changed to the first game of a doubleheader on Sunday, December 11 with the Waseda-Meiji game at 2:30 p.m.

The Meiji versus Old Boys, the Y.C.A.C. versus Hosei and the Rikkyo versus Old Boys games, previously billed for November 23, December 4 and December 10 have been eliminated from the schedule due to financial reasons.

According to Mr. Rusch the league officials regret this decision to eliminate three games at the Korakuen but he points out it is equally unwise this year to run the chances of the young game running behind and piling up a deficit which could cripple the development of the game in Japan for two or three years. It is also pointed out that by combining the four remaining college games into two doubleheaders the full collegiate schedule will be played and the remaining Y.C.A.C. game with Hosei might be billed later to suit the convenience of the Yokohama foreigners.

Pitt Vanquishes S. Methodist By 34-7 Count

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22—Pitt's football juggernaut, unbeaten in twenty-games, swept over Southern Methodist, 34 to 7, today in a scramble at times so bewildering the 37,500 spectators were left gasping.

The Mustangs trotted out a southwest aerial attack for its first showing in this section and the Panthers, true to Coach Jock Sutherland's promise earlier in the week, struck back with the same weapon.

Yet through the links of the chain used to shackle the visiters, Pitt threaded its unparalleled power with such skill the Methodists never had a chance.

The first of their five touchdowns came on a 30-yard pass from Harold (Curly) Stebbins to John Chickerneo in less than six minutes of the first period and the others were scattered through each of the succeeding chapters.

Mustangs Fight Hard

The Mustangs, wild as their prairie namesakes, fought every minute, including the last, but collected on their gallantry only once.

Taking the opening kickoff Ray Mallouf tried three consecutive passes from the vicinity of his own 20-yard line. After Pitt's first score he brought the second kickoff back 56 yards to Pitt's 39 and engineered the ball to the Panther eight only to be stopped and a field goal attempt go wide.

But by their very persistence they cashed their chips early in the second period—traveling 78 yards in three plays with Billy Dowell, their towering right end, taking the ball out of a mixing bowl behind center to race the final 51 yards. Bob Belville place-kicked the point.

Pitt's second team, which had been sent in at the start of the period, came running out and the regulars retaliated with two touchdowns in less than seven minutes while the Pittsburgh fans, accustomed to a staid Sutherland troop movement, sat amazed.

Score in Three Plays

Including the kickoff which Dick Cassiano returned 35 yards to his own 40, Pitt used only three plays to reach Southern Methodist's 7-yard line and Cassiano crashed right tackle for the score.

Three plays later they took the ball on a fumble on the Methodist 31 and quickly sent Cassiano around right end from the 9-yard stripe for another touchdown.

Although Pitt punched out two more scores in the second half, Cassiano passing 22 yards to Fabian Hoffman for one in the third period and Ben Kish, understudy for Marshal Goldberg at fullback, went 1 yard over center for another in the fourth, they were not needed to prove Pitt's superiority.

The Panthers gained 246 yards net in sixty-six scrimmage plays and completed nine of their sixteen passes for 120 yards while the Mustangs gained only 93 yards from scrimmage and 159 from passes, of which they tried twenty-two and completed seven. Pitt led in first downs, 17 to 11.

The line-up:

Tigers And Giants To Clash In 7-Tilt Series For Title

The 7-game series between the Osaka Tigers and the Tokyo Giants for the 1938 championship of the professional baseball teams of Japan will be played on November 26 and 27 at the Koshien Stadium, near Osaka, with the third and fourth games on December 1 and 2 at the Korakuen Stadium here. The remaining three games, if necessary, will be played on December 3, 4 and 5 at the Korakuen Stadium.

The Tigers won the championship of the Spring season while the Giants captured the pennant for the Fall season.

All games will start at 2 p.m. Admission will be 50 sen, first come, first served.

Bradman Recovers From His Injury

PERTH (Western Australia), Oct. 25—D. G. Bradman's foot, which was injured in the final Test Match at the Oval, is well on the mend, and on his arrival here with the touring team from England today he said that he would play for Australia against The Rest in the match at Melbourne beginning on December 9. The match will mark the centenary of the Melbourne Cricket Club.

It is generally thought by the Australians that England's young players are better than Australia's, and Bradman said that he expected the next series of Test Matches in 1940 to be extremely exhausting.

Bradman declined to say whether he would ever visit England again as a Test cricketer, but he said that the reports that he intended taking up a business appointment in London could be completely forgotten. Speaking on the duration of Test Matches, Bradman said he favored playing those in England to a finish. He thought that under normal conditions a result could be reached in five days. If it was decided to play five-day Test Matches he would advocate a reduction in the hours of play.

Oxford Beaten 5 Goals To 0 By Corinthians

London Times

LONDON, Oct. 17—Oxford University gave an unconvincing display on Saturday in their fine home match of the season, losing to a strong Corinthian side by five goals to none. Both in defense and attack the Corinthians were superior, and, though Oxford were unlucky not to score, the result accurately reflects the difference between the two teams.

The Corinthian attack, under the brilliant generalship of G. Allen, mercilessly exposed the limitations of the Oxford defense and placed their side in an impregnable position within 20 minutes of the start. Oxford paid a heavy penalty for their weak clearance and crooked passes and never looked like regaining the lost ground. Their wing half-backs and forwards worked hard individually, but except for a short period in the second half, when H. A. Davies and H. A. S. Disney made a gallant attempt to pull the side together, there was not one to coordinate their efforts.

Oxford started off strongly, and in their first attack J. H. Binch struck the upright with a shot that deserved to score. The Corinthians recovered quickly from this shock, and soon took the lead through G. Allen who tricked a defender some distance from goal and calmly drove the ball past the advancing Naylor. Six minutes later P. H. Williams found H. Commer with a clever pass, and the center-forward increased the Corinthian's lead with a glorious left-footed drive. As if to prove that this was no accident, Gomm repeated the performance within a minute, this time from well outside the penalty area. J. W. Naylor got a hand to the ball, but could not prevent a score.

More Of The Game

Oxford began to have more of the game, and a well-planned movement ended with R. G. Sturdy centering into the goalmouth. G. A. Strasser, however, headed clear, and play swung to the other end, where H. S. Scott was proving far too quick and clever for S. Schofield. One of Scott's centers would certainly have produced a goal had not R. W. Mulrenan, for whom it was intended, been temporarily off the field with an injured ankle. Shortly before half-time Gomm scored his side's fourth goal, following a corner from Mulrenan.

Oxford began the second half in more promising style, but the Corinthian defense, which included four internationals, was as steady as a rock. J. M. Lomas made a great effort to break through on one occasion, but Strasser caught him up, and, though Lomas regained the ball, he was unable to work his way into a scoring position. Sturdy, on the University right wing, made some dangerous runs. He was inclined, however, to center too low, and either W. T. Whewell or P. H. Williams usually managed to block the ball. After a fine movement between Lomas, Seaford, and Davis had all but produced a goal for Oxford, Scott, who had changed places with Mulrenan, raced away on the left and from his center Mulrenan scored with his uninjured foot.

H. A. S. Disney then joined the Oxford attack, and hit the crossbar with a powerful drive, after which Davies made another heroic but unavailing effort. During a prolonged Corinthian attack Naylor brought off two superb saves, first from J. Sutcliffe, who sent in a fierce drive that looked a goal all the way, and then at point-blank range from Scott. There was a glimmer of hope for Oxford when Binch, veering into his old place at inside-left, drew the defense and put Lomas through, but it was not Oxford's day, and Lomas shot wide.

The teams were:—

CORINTHIANS—H. F. Reed, goal; G. A. Strasser and W. T. Whewell, backs; K. P. S. Caldwell, P. H. Williams, and J. Sutcliffe, half-backs; H. S. Scott, G. Allen, H. Gomm, J. Entwiste, and R. W. Mulrenan, forwards.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY—J. W. Naylor (Ashburton and Exeter), goal; L. K. Parry-Jones (Llanrwst G.S. and Jesus) and S. Schofield (Bolton G.S. and Brasenose), backs; H. A. S. Disney (Winchester and Brasenose), W. H. Pedley (Private and New College), and H. A. Davies (Bradfield and Brasenose), half-backs; R. G. Sturdy (Munro College, Jamaica, and University College), J. H. Binch (Mansfield G.S. and Brasenose), J. K. G. Webb (Highgate and Balliol), H. S. Seaford (Repton and Oriel), and J. M. Lomas (Charterhouse and New College), forwards.

10 Players Named On Team Going To Manila Series

Selection of the All-Japan team of 10 players to compete in the Philippine Carnival at Manila next January was announced by the Japan Basketball Association Tuesday night. The team will compete in the Philippine, American and Japanese triangular as well as the Philippine-Japanese dual series.

Including four players who represented Japan creditably in the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936, the combination is the strongest available in Japan and is expected to make a good showing at Manila.

Shinzo Ashida, Waseda graduate, and Yasuzo Omura, Rikkyo graduate, who are coaches of the team preparing for the 1940 Olympic Games, will accompany the team. Takashi Goh, who was chairman of the games committee of the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee, will be superintendent.

Satoshi Matsui, of Kyoto Imperial University, who played at Berlin, has been designated as captain. He is a guard.

The other players selected are:

Uichi Munekata, Waseda, guard, played at Berlin, candidate for the 1940 Olympic team.

Kenshichi Yokohama, Waseda, forward played at Berlin, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Cho Ri-chin, Rikkyo, center, played at Berlin, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Hisakazu Mitsuta, Kyoto Imperial, forward.

Kin Tei-shin, Enki College, guard, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Cho Toku-shun, Fusei College, center, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Goh Juku-kichi, Fusei College, forward, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Ri Ko-zen, Fusei College, forward, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Fo Ju-retsu, Fusei College, guard, candidate for 1940 Olympic team.

Holy Cross Routs Georgia, 29 To 6

N.Y. Times

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 22—Holy Cross's rebounding Crusaders unleashed a devastating offense today and crushed a big, unbeaten University of Georgia eleven, 29 to 6, in a colorful intersectional football war before 24,000 spectators.

Although Bill Osmanski, their great fullback, and regular quarterback Henry Ouellette, both injured, were forced to watch the game from the sidelines, the Crusaders showed a new ball-carrying quartet which had speed, power and precision, and romped to touchdowns in each of the four periods.

Pass Starts Drive

After end Bill Histon started the scoring by blocking Harry Stevens' early punt for an automatic safety, the Crusaders roared 45 yards to their first touchdown. A 23-yard pass from Ronnie Cahill to Jack Reardon started the drive, and then Arigo Latanzi and Gus Gerasimas took turns in lugging the ball up to the 1. Walewski, big tackle, fell on the ball for the touchdown.

Georgia immediately countered with a 50-yard march for its score, produced by the hard-plunging Jimmy Fordham on a fourth down rush from the one-foot line early in the second quarter after his powerful running and a long pass from Stevens to Gillespie had placed the Bulldogs in position.

Gerasimas Recovers Fumble

Shortly thereafter Gerasimas recovered Cate's fumble and the Purple drove the remaining 30 yards to a touchdown with Hilary Renz, who did the bulk of the carrying on this march, driving across from the two.

The Crusaders completely dominated the last half and scored midway through the third period on a 73-yard drive. Giardi took the ball across from the one.

Georgia halted another long Holy Cross drive on its 15 in the final quarter but the Crusaders' second backfield commenced a late 46-yard march which was capped when Jack Kelley sliced off tackle for 18 yards and the final touchdown.

The line-up:

Pos.	Holy Cross (29)	Georgia (6)
L.E.	Histon	Thomas
L.T.	Walewski	Badgett
L.G.	Bogdan	Hodgson
C.	Titus	Lumpkin

R.E.	Reardon	Gillespie
Q.B.	Latanzi	Salisbury
L.H.	Cahill	Stevens
R.H.	Giardi	Cate
F.B.	Gerasimas	Fordham

SCORE BY PERIODS

Holy Cross	8	7	7	7—29
Georgia	0	6	0	0—6

Touchdowns—Fordham, Walewski, Renz (sub for Gerasimas), Giardi, Kelley (sub for Giardi). Points after touchdown—Turner 2 (place picks), Whalen (rush).

Waseda Defeats Keio Fifteen By 36-13 Score

Waseda University's ruggers, champions for the last two seasons, put themselves back into the running for the title by triumphing over the Keio fifteen, 36-13, in their annual game on Nihamesai. Wednesday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Thus did they redeem themselves from the unexpected defeat they tasted at the hands of the Tokyo Imperial University team earlier in the season.

The score, however, does not do justice to the keenness of the game throughout the 80 minutes of play. Especially did the Keio combination come back strong in the last half, giving the Waseda team an even fight. So it was that the one-sided lead of 25-3 in the first half was responsible for the Waseda victory.

Waseda Threatens

The Waseda forwards threatened at the outset of the game, penetrating deep into Keio territory, but failed to register. A penalty kick charged against Keio gave Waseda a 3-point lead in the first minute of play as Igawa booted a beauty from the Keio 35-yard line. Keio in turn had a chance to deadlock the count at 3-all with a penalty kick in two minutes from the Waseda 24-yard line but Kohri's kick deflected to the left.

Both teams fought on equal terms for the next 12 minutes of play until Waseda registered the first try of the game as Kakutani took a three-quarter pass from the center of the Keio 20-yard line, and worked it to the right. He passed to Sotoyama, who in turn lateralled to Tanaka for a try in the right corner. Waseda counted again in 21 minutes when Ikeda recovered a loose ball after a punt by his team-mate Igawa.

Keio Scores

Keio's only score in the half came in 23 minutes on a penalty goal, Kohri making good the kick from the Waseda 35-yard line.

Halfback Ouye of Keio picked up a loose ball from the Keio 40-yard line in 33 minutes and punted. Onishi of Waseda got hold of the ball and romped half of the field for a try. A penalty goal from the Keio 25-yard line was converted by Igawa in the next minute of play. The same Igawa scooped up the ball in a fierce scrimmage and crossed the goal line in 27 minutes and converted. Waseda counted again during the last minute before the half, with Igawa converting, for a 25-3 lead.

Both teams battled without a tally in the first 17 minutes of play in the second half. And it was Keio that drew first blood. On Okura's kick, Keio worked the ball to the Waseda 10-yard line. Yoshiwara finally registered a try after a smashing passing attack. Kohri converted. The elusive Tanaka retaliated for Waseda in 22 minutes when he shook off a Keio tackler and scored in the right corner. Then it was Igawa, who pierced the Keio three-quarter line and scored in 27 minutes. Nishida converted. Keio tallied from a line-out in the right corner in 30 minutes as Yoshiwara took a pass and crossed the line, left of the goal. Kohri converted. Yamaji of Waseda retrieved a loose ball and fell across the Keio goal line for a try in 38 minutes for the final score of the game.

The line-ups were:

Waseda: Yamaji, Murayama, Sai, Odagaki, Okura, Onishi and Izawa, forwards; Matsumoto, Endo and Kakutani, halfbacks; Ikeda, Igawa, Sotoyama and Tanaka, three-quarters; Nishida, fullback.

Keio: Onishi, Hirosuye, Shirai, Nakasu, Matsuno, Kitamikado and Kokura, forwards; Takarabe, Maki and Ouye, half-backs; Yoshiwara, Kohri, Watanabe and Suzuki, three-quarters; Arizaka, fullback.

The standings follow:

North Carolina Wins On Passes

DAVIDSON, N. S., Oct. 22—North Carolina's Tar Heels staged an air circus for 6,000 football fans today as they routed the Davidson Wildcats, 34 to 0, in the thirty-third renewal of their football rivalry.

With Jumping George Stirnweiss and Jim Lalanne tossing to a versatile corps of seven receivers, the Tar Heels completed thirteen of sixteen forwards against the pint-sized Davidson backs for a total of 209 yards.

Stirnweiss missed only one in nine tries and Lalanne two in seven as the air attack accounted for or led directly to one touchdown in the second quarter and three in the third. The North Carolina reserves got the fifth in the last on a 13-yard spring by Lalanne. The Tar Heels piled up sixteen first downs to Davidson's nine, and gained 122 yards rushing to the Wildcats' 100.

George Radman scored the first two touchdowns, one on a line smash and the second on an 18-yard sprint off tackle. Jack Kraynick added the third, and Stirnweiss passed 18 yards to George Watson in the end zone for the fourth as the whole Carolina backfield divided up the honors.

The Wildcats brought the aerial bombardment down on themselves by stymying the Tar Heels' running game in the first quarter.

Displaying a tight defense, the pony Davidson backs took the offensive and drove to Carolina's 9-yard line for their only serious bid on a touchdown. Two other times they got down to Carolina's 20 before their running attack was smothered.

The line-up:

Pos.	N. Carolina (34)	Davidson (0)
L.E.	Palmer	Benfield
L.T.	Maronic	Warden
C.	Adam	McCall
R.G.	Abernethy	Pennington

England Defeats Rest Of Europe At Soccer, 3 To 0

By FRANK COLES

LONDON, Oct. 27—In the presence of the Duke of Kent and a crowd officially returned at 40,185—the gate receipts were £7,000—England beat the Rest of Europe team on the Arsenal Club's ground at Highbury by three goals, two of which were scored in the first half.

The victory was as convincing as the margin suggests, but I was not entirely satisfied with the display of the Englishmen. Some of the faults in evidence against Wales last Saturday were repeated, and the forwards were puzzled by the Europeans' tactics of fighting a retreating battle.

The Rest of Europe played no better and no worse than was expected of a scratch side made up of five Italians, two Germans, and one player each from four other countries. Several individual triumphs were scored, but the team work was often at fault.

England's players were often at a loss how to tackle their rival's tactical scheme.

The Europeans used their wing half-backs almost entirely in defense, and with none of the defenders anxious to throw out a challenge until they had fallen back into their penalty area Lawton and his fellow forwards repeatedly ran into a crowd, from which it was hopeless to escape.

The English forwards would have been far more successful if they had played direct football and made ground by using the long pass. The short kick back to a supporting colleague was pretty to watch, but it led nowhere.

Hall Outstanding

The best dribbler and also the outstanding constructive forward England had was Willie Hall, of the 'Spurs. In the first half he supported Matthews very intelligently and was not afraid. I counted four shots of his which whizzed a foot over the crossbar and one other found the net for the vital first goal.

For some reason or other, however, Hall faded almost completely after the interval, which was a great pity. Goulden then came into the picture prominently, but this was not one of his happiest days. Too many of his passes went direct to an opponent or were too slow to be effective.

In the center Lawton again proved what a dangerous young man he is with that quick body turn which gets him into shooting position. The ball was too often in the air, though, for him to try many shots and, moreover, he had to take a rare buffeting from the Italian backs, Foni and Rava.

Matthews' Good Spell

Matthews was easily the superior of the two wingers. His close dribbling frequently took him round a surprised Kitzinger, and he had one especially good spell midway through the first half. Boyes, on the left flank, added to the confusion in the penalty area by running into the middle.

Except for an occasional burst down the wings, the European forwards were generally well and firmly held. The anticipated threat from the tall Italian, Piola, in the center, never materialized, for the very sound reason that Cullis was his master throughout.

These two fought a dour battle, and a less indulgent referee than, A. J. Jewell would have penalized Piola many times for breaking the rules. Piola and several of his colleagues failed to realize, as has happened before before when Continental teams have visited us, that obstruction is an offence in British football.

Hapgood's Polished Kicking

The English wing halves were used mainly as attackers and I thought Copping had an excellent match. So, also, had Hapgood, whose polished kicking was one of the game's brightest features.

The Europeans, as I have indicated, impressed more as individuals than as a team and that, after all, was only natural. The spectacular Olivieri, with his flying leaps, is a brilliant goalkeeper and Rava, the left-back, would go into a First Division defense tomorrow if his services were available.

Remembering that, in marking the wing men and playing nearly square with their own backs, the two German halfbacks, Kupfer and Kitzinger, were playing a game foreign to their usual style, they did extraordinarily well. Braine, who captained the side, was easily the pick of the forwards, though both Aston and Brustad showed speed and ability to beat an opponent on the few occasions they were brought into the play.

In order to win the match decisively one felt it might be necessary for England to strike a quick blow, but in the first quarter of an hour Olivieri's goal was not seriously menaced except for a volleyed shot from Hall which narrowly missed the crossbar.

Very quickly after this incident, however, Hall started the scoring with a picture goal. At the 20th minute he ran on to a neatly placed short pass by Matthews, who had brought the ball inside, and aiming with his left foot, scored in the top left corner from about 20 yards.

I had a perfect view of the flight of the ball, and it was a goal from the second it left Hall's boot. Olivieri made a gallant attempt to get to the shot, but it was always out of even his agile reach.

Should Have Had Penalty

Goulden, whose shooting was below standard, missed a chance to drive the advantage home almost in the next minute, and when Willingham was tripped the referee ought to have awarded a penalty against the Europeans instead of a free kick just outside the area.

However, the second goal England were striving so hard to score arrived after 27 minutes, Lawton finding the net, just inside the post, after a hot drive by Copping had cannoned off a defender.

The only occasion when the Europeans looked like getting a goal before the interval was from a surprise shot by Blaine which struck the crossbar, and the same player, racing through in the first minute of the second half, sent in a drive which Woodley parried in great style.

The English goalkeeper also saved finely from Aston and the European threat was short-lived. A quarter of an hour from the end Goulden retrieved his early shooting mistakes by smashing the ball past Olivieri at lightning speed from just outside the penalty area.

The line-ups follow:

England 3; Rest of Europe 0

England:—Woodley (Chelsea); Sproston (Tottenham Hotspur), Hapgood (Arsenal) (Captain); Willingham (Huddersfield Town), Gullis (Wolverhampton Wanderers), Copping (Arsenal); Matthews (Stoke City), Hall, G. W. Hall, (Tottenham Hotspur), Lawton (Everton), Goulden (West Ham United), Boyes (Everton).

Rest of Europe:—Olivieri (Italy); Rava (Italy); Kupfer (Germany), Foni (Italy), Andreolo (Italy), Kitzinger (Germany); Aston (France), Braine (Belgium) (Captain), Piola (Italy), Zsengellier (Hungary), Brustad (Norway).

Referee:—A. J. Jewell (London).

Big '3' Becoming Grid Pushovers As Talent Fades

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK.—Are Yale, Harvard and Princeton going to be the Czechoslovaks of football? Will the Big Three, once rulers of the football world, be relegated to minor powers among the gridiron forces?

Anyone asking such questions ten years ago would have been rushed to the nearest psychopathic ward for observation. Now the old grads of the three ivy colleges are asking them with emphasis.

The answer to both queries appears to be an emphatic 'yes' unless the triumvirate adopts some such plan as the regional scholarship idea now in vogue at Cornell.

A few years ago Cornell de-emphasized football to such an extent that its coach had reason to fear an opening game with Hobart. Then the old grads took a hand, adopted the regional scholarship plan, and football talent again found its way back to the Cornell campus.

If Harvard, Princeton and Yale want to keep their huge stadia well filled, they will have to have football teams. The most enthusiastic old grad cannot be expected to lay out dough every Saturday with only the prospect of seeing his alma mater take a good hiding from a college which may be a little short on tradition but is decidedly long on football talent.

The writer does not intend to suggest that the Big Three go out in the open market to hire football players. But they could make scholarships for athletes, who also are students, so attractive that they could snare their fair share of gridiron talent.

The opening games this season showed which way the wind was blowing for Princeton, Harvard and Yale, when Columbia and Penn knocked off the Elis; Dartmouth trounced the Tigers and Brown and Cornell played rings around the Johnnies.

Oct. 8 will go down as the blackest day in the football history of Yale, Princeton and Harvard for it was on that date that Penn, Dartmouth and Cornell ran up a total of 63 points to none for the Big Three.

However, there may be many more days like that if there isn't a radical change in athletic policy. And for once the old grads can't blame the coaches. Harlow at Harvard, Pond at Yale and Wieman at Princeton are all capable men. Given good material, they could turn out good football teams. But neither they nor any other coach can produce great teams out of material which couldn't make the second team at some other colleges.

There was a time when the All-America selections were confined to members of the Big Three. This year the Big Three among them probably will not produce one candidate for that mythical team.

Offhand, one could name today at least 40 teams which would be 3 to 1 favorites to whip any one of the Big Three tomorrow.

And that's the tip-off on to what a low estate Big Three football has fallen.

Country Doctor Honored

BROOKFIELD, Vt.—To a country doctor who for 41 years braved the whims of New England weather to care for the sick, bringing babies into the world, and comfort the dying, the town recently dedicated a bronze tablet set in a 5,000-pound block of granite. "Elmer E. Ellis, M. D.—our doctor from 1896 to 1937" was inscribed on the tablet.

Extremes

Wife: "Really, John, you are the shabbiest man in the whole town. Cannot you dress better?"

Husband: "No, I can't afford it."

Wife: "Why not?"

Husband: "Because you are the best-dressed woman in the town."—Humoristicke Listy, Prague.

Durocher Named Pilot Of Dodgers In 1939 Season

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Oct.—Leo Durocher, better known as "The Lip," may turn out to be one of the great figures in baseball in the next year or two, but more likely he will slip into the limbo of the lost. He is the new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Great Shortstop

The Lip has been ranked among the best shortstops the game has seen, a man of flaming competitive spirit and technically adept in all departments afield, his shortcoming being lack of batting punch. Nevertheless, he has managed to stay in the majors through all these years and that in itself bespeaks his defensive qualities.

At 33, he assumes control of a team which persists in floundering about in no particular direction and, for one of his temperament, it just simply may be too much for him to stand. General Manager Laughing Larry McPhail keeps saying that the club will be strengthened and that a first division finish is sought, but they've been saying that in Brooklyn for a couple of decades.

They've tried everything over there in the way of managers—portly, uncertain Wilbert Robinson, known as "Uncle Robbie"; baseball wise Max Carey; clowning and baseball wise Casey Stengel, hard-bitten, scrapping Burleigh Grimes—and now Durocher. The latter can be best described for the time being as a hopeful young man.

His full name is Earnest Leo Durocher and he comes by the monicker of Lippy because he has argued and prattled his way through 10 years of major league baseball. He not only will argue with you, but he will go under the stands with you and belt it out if you insist. He is a fighter, and thus may be what Brooklyn needs, for he is a fighter of a different type than Grimes. The latter actually hindered his team with his tantrums.

If Durocher goes ahead being his level-headed and competitive self, he may and probably will do the Dodgers some good. But he won't be able to do them much good unless he gets at least three or four ball players to be added to the nucleus of a team that he will take over. Specifically, he needs some outfield, some infield, some pitching and some catching strength. He also could use some hitting. He has a problem.

He plans to play the entire schedule at shortstop and manage the team at the same time, which he may do, but it probably will leave him very tired before the thing is over. In fact, others have found themselves suddenly tired of managing the Dodgers even without playing.

Has Good Offices

He will have a pair of good coaches as his aides in Charlie Dressen, the ex-pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, and Bill Killifer, who once handled the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Browns, but he still will need players. An All-American board of strategy can't win without somebody to do the hitting and the fielding.

Laughing Larry McPhail may come through with some talent. Up to now he has brought in several players who have turned out all right, and he has made money for the club with night baseball and circusy stuff of one kind and another. It may be that they will loosen up and get some ball players and really try to move into the first division. For the sake of Durocher, a charming young man with a flair for sartorial splendor, plenty of courage and baseball brains, let us hope the renaissance is on.

And let us wonder, too, what now will become of Babe Ruth. He, a Dodger coach last season, couldn't get along with Durocher, then just the shortstop, and bowed out when Durocher became manager. Just as a guess I'd say that it's carpet slippers for the Babe for the rest of his life insofar as baseball is concerned.

Kansai Defeats Kanto By 8 To 6

Kansai triumphed over Kanto for the first time in seven years in their dual students' table tennis competition Thursday afternoon at the Horticultural Garden at Koishikawa when the Kwansei Gakuin team defeated Rikkyo University by eight matches to six.

Kwansei Gakuin's victory was the result of a strong comeback on Thursday, offsetting a 4-8 lead by Rikkyo on Wednesday afternoon.

The unexpected defeat of Captain Rai of Rikkyo at the hands of Kurozaki, No. 1 man for Kwansei Gakuin, was a primary factor for Kanto's defeat.

The result of the matches on Thursday follow:

Doubles

Kawamura-Rai (Rikkyo) defeated Nishitani-Nagata (Kwansei Gakuin), 21-10, 21-18.

Kurozaki-Higaki (Kwansei Gakuin) defeated Mizuho-Funaki (Rikkyo), 21-17, 21-19.

Singles

Kawamura (Rikkyo) defeated Nishitani (Kwansei Gakuin), 21-11, 19-21, 21-11.

Rarin' To Go In Sunday's Games

Meiji University's line which is expected to lead the team to a triumph over Hosei in the curtain-raiser of an American football doubleheader Sunday at the Korakuen stadium, left to right: Machida, Kurokawa, Sakamoto, Hanaoka, Ohama, Watanabe, and Toyama. Meiji And Waseda Are Favored To Win In U.S. Football Twinbill

By BILL OMURA

Meiji and Waseda, traditional rivals for the Tokyo Inter-collegiate American Football championship, are both expected to add another to their unbroken strings of victories when each team sees action in Japan's first gridiron doubleheader at the Korakuen Stadium on Sunday. The kick-off in the opener is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

Meiji is a 3 to 1 favorite to down Hosei in the first of the day's encounters, while Waseda's husky Maroons are given a slightly narrower margin of superiority over Keio's up-and-coming eleven in the nightcap.

Keio Improve

Local sentiment favors the Maroons to come out on top, but the Hiyoshi eleven has improved it's game 100 per cent since the beginning of the season and only last week handed Hosei a 33 to 13 drubbing. So there are still chances of an upset.

Thus the Keio boys will be fighting from first to last and no matter what the score you can depend on it that they won't quit. In fact they'll be out there to upset the present league standing; for they're still sore about losing to Meiji. They claim the only thing that beat them was their poor aerial defense.

Meiji's chief threat Yoshimoto, who has piled up a huge total of gains and unleashed a spectacular running attack against Rikkyo, will start at left half against Hosei.

The line will be headed by Sabo Sakamoto, the best punt-blocker in the league, Toyama and Machida the 60-minute playing ends; Watanabe and Matsumoto at tackles; and the impregnable Hanaoka at right guard.

Keio will pit a tremendous line and a bulky batch of backs against Waseda's equally stalwart forward wall, behind which operates one of the fastest and most powerful backfields in the league.

Chief interest of the fans will be divided between Keio's versatile halfback Todo and Waseda's fleeting fullback Naito, both possessing a record averaging three to ten yards a play with their line plunges, end runs and what have you.

Todo to be Watched

Todo probably will handle the brunt of the Keio attack, but if the Maroon's stone wall should stop him, it will be up to Tamura, their aerial specialist.

A spotty pass defense, a weakness that cost Keio many a game last year, will be given a good going-over tomorrow. Every man in the Maroon backfield can pass, and the team has the nittiest collection of pass-catchers so far.

The starting line-ups for Sunday follow:

Soda Gets Decision Over Boxer Hanada

Motomichi Soda of the Minato Club, 117 pounds, pounded out a decision over Yoichiro Hanada, 115 pounds, of the Teikoku Boxing Club in a 8-round bout at the Hibiya Hall auditorium Wednesday night.

Hanada, the recognized flyweight champion of Japan, outboxed Soda in the early rounds of the fight but he began to tire as the rounds progressed, and therein did the tide of the battle change.

Fitt Rated First In National Poll

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Mighty Pittsburgh, unbeaten since mid-season in 1936 and perennial Paladin of the East in intersectional warfare, is the nation's first football team.

Eighty-three of the ninety-four writers voting in The Associated Press gridiron poll chose Pittsburgh as the country's best eleven. The Panthers got 926 points on the final check-up of the first nation-wide ballot of the season.

The emphatic thumping administered to Wisconsin by Pitt and Minnesota's narrow margin of victory over Michigan combined to give the Panthers a margin of 235 points over their closest rivals, the Golden Gophers, who tallied 691 points. Six writers chose Minnesota as the top team, three picked Texas Christian, while Dartmouth and California each had a single vote for first place.

The Leading Elevens

The first ten (first place votes bracketed, points scored 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1):

	Points.
Pittsburgh (83)	926
Minnesota (6)	691
California (1)	517
Dartmouth (1)	515
Notre Dame	500
Santa Clara	496
Taxas Christian (3)	453
Tennesse	419
Duke	128
Syracuse	82

Second ten: Fordham 77, Michigan 48, Carnegie Tech 45, Oklahoma 49, Alabama 34, Vanderbilt 32, Baylor 31, Northwestern 23, North Carolina 18, Villanova 9.

Others mentioned: Arkansas 7, Oregon 6; Auburn 5, Iowa State and Boston College 3; Ohio State, South-California, Louisiana State and Stanford 3, Tulane, Cornell, Columbia, Purdue, Idaho and Holy Cross 1 each.

Of the first ten only Pittsburgh (third), Minnesota (fourth), California (first) and Duke (tenth) were in the select circle a year ago when the first poll of the season was made; an indication of the rise and fall of football power in a year's time.

Two Out of Contention

Saturday's rash of upsets is reflected in the rankings. Cornell, supposedly Dartmouth's chief threat in the Ivy League, and Columbia, a dark horse which had gained plenty of fame by beating Yale and Army, are out of contention after rude smackings by Syracuse and Colgate.

Alabama ran into an improving Tennessee team and as a result is out of it in the South for the present. Northwestern and Michigan, ranking threats in the Big Ten, were stalled by Minnesota and Ohio State, after building up impressive early season records.

Of the unbeaten first ten only Minnesota, Tennessee and Duke appear to be safe this week. The Gophers don't play, while the Vols meet The Citadel and Duke toys with Wake Forest.

Pittsburgh must trim Southern Methodist. Dartmouth faces dangerous Harvard. Notre Dame plays unbeaten Carnegie Tech. California meets a Washington team surely due for victory. Santa Clara engages air-minded Arkansas. Texas Christian plays Marquette. Syracuse journeys to East Lansing for Michigan State.

Y.C.A.C. Gridders Tumble Rikkyo By 26-6 Score

The Y.C.A.C.'s best American football team since the club's adoption of this sport five years ago ran roughshod over the plucky Rikkyo University eleven of the Tokyo Inter-Collegiate league, 26-6, Thursday at the Negishi field at Yokohama.

It was the fifth Thanksgiving Day game in this country, and the third played at the foreigners' club grounds.

The game also marked the end of the Y.C.A.C.'s schedule for the season, its previously slated contest with Hosei on December 4 having been cancelled. The following is its brilliant record for 1938:

Oct. 22.—Tied Waseda, 1937 champions of the Tokyo league, 7-7.

November 6: Defeated Keio, 25-0.

November 12: Lost to Meiji, 6-0.

November 20: Defeated Tokyo O.B. (former players of Tokyo league), 6-0.

November 24: Defeated Rikkyo 26-6.

The foreigners got off to a flying start against Rikkyo by tallying two touchdowns early in the first quarter, and the outcome of the game was never in doubt.

Rikkyo registered a touchdown in the second quarter, on a 45-yard forward pass from Quarterback Suzuki to Kishi, but the Y.C.A.C. counted once in the third and another in the fourth to emerge victors by a wide margin.

Aided by effective play by the linemen, Y.C.A.C.'s backfield men, Easbury, Ross, Harriss and Hamsher reeled off good gains, via running plays as well as through the air.

The line-ups follow:

Pos.	Y.C.A.C.	Rikkyo
L.E.	Holtom	Ueda
L.T.	Worden	Suzui
L.G.	Hinnen	Teh
C.	Childs	Hattori
R.G.	Cocke	Hai
R.T.	Chevalerie	Kaneko
R.E.	Vorchioff	Koike
Q.	Rasbury	Suzuki
L.H.	Ross (Capt.)	Kuribayashi
R.H.	Harriss	Hosoda
F.	Hamsher	Yamada

Scoring: Y.C.A.C.—Ross, 7; Harriss, 13; Hamsher, 6. Rikkyo—Kishi, 6.

Substitutes: Y.C.A.C.—Valenza, Smith Vorobin and Decker. Rikkyo—Kishi, Shima, Nagai, Ando and Nukui.

Officials: Referee, Kunishima; umpire, Todo; head-linesman, Takemura; field-judge, Ogawa.

The Bridge Made Of Eggs

The Charlies Bridge in Praha, Czechoslovakia was 143 years in building, a longer time than any other bridge in the world. 202 carloads of eggs were finally mixed with the mortar to give it resistance. Every one of the 202 towns and cities of ancient Bohemia contributed a carload of eggs for the purpose. At the time this bridge was built, Praha was the capital of Germany.

Peaches 75 Years Old

On the third day of the Battle of Gettysburg, the grandmother of Mrs. Pfeffer was driven from her home on the "Peach Orchard" farm which became the scene of one of the bloodiest encounters of the battle. The fleeing family managed to save, among other things, twelve jars of preserved peaches from the orchard. The family has saved the jar Mrs. Pfeffer owns as a curiosity. The fruit seems to be in practically perfect condition.

Princeton Rallies Twice To Deadlock Navy, 13-13

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON

N.Y. Times

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22—Football history repeated itself in the Baltimore Stadium today when Princeton and Navy wound up in another deadlock, 13—13, in the presence of some 40,000 spectators.

Today marked the third year that the Tigers and Middies have tangled in this horseshoe-like civic amphitheater and each time the result has been a stand-off.

The Bengals and future Admirals baptized the stadium by fighting a 3-3 tie in 1923, and then, two years later, the pair again fought a no-decision bout here, the score this time being 10—10.

In order to continue the tradition today, however, Princeton had to come from behind twice, once to offset a brilliant single-handed effort on the part of Emmet Wood, 175-pound bullet who put Navy in the van by dashing 60 yards and then making the other five that put the Middies in front in the opening period.

The Tigers required two periods to catch up by means of a 55-yard march which was climaxed by a final smash by their illustrious captain, Tom Mountain.

It wasn't long until Navy again gained the upper hand by way of a march that started late in the same period, the third, and ended in the early stages of the fourth when Clifford Lenz, a fellow Pennsylvanian of Wood's, shot through a hole at right tackle to put the Middies in the lead once again.

This time it looked as if it might be for keeps until the Tigers, roused into a fighting frenzy, carried the ball seventy yards, the last thirty-four of which were covered in a single play.

Clever Bit of Deception

The tying touchdown was the result of a clever bit of deception. Dave Allerdice, Princeton's passing ace, shot a forward over the scrimmage line into the waiting arms of Jack Daniel who, dashing out toward the side line, tossed the ball laterally to Tom Dixon. The latter, straight arming one would-be Navy tackler, traveled like the wind down the sideline toward the Navy goal.

Ulmont Whitehead, Annapolis right halfback, came over fast and made a desperate attempt to haul him down but Dixon was too bent on scoring to be deterred, he and the Navy man sliding across locked like a couple of wrestlers.

This put the issue squarely up to Bob Hinchman, who had been shuttling in and out of the Tiger line-up for one purpose or another most of the day, and the tall Pittsburgh youngster delivered by sending a placement kick high over the uprights but squarely between them, to tie the score.

Although the outcome was another tie, the sixth in the twenty-six-game series that began back in 1892, Navy looked the better team for the greater part of the contest. The statistics of the game substantiated that, for the Middies made fifteen first downs to the Tigers' ten and outgained the Bengals in rushing by a matter of 101 yards with a total of 213.

The only advantage the Tigers held was in passing and here considerable of the difference was made up in that one run that gave them their tie.

Princeton today was another of those Tiger teams that simply refused to be beaten. With Mountain for their example, the Tigers fought with the ferociousness of the beast of the jungle for whom they are nicknamed. Another on the Nassau team who deserved great credit for the deadlock which, all things considered, was a moral victory, was Dixon, who in addition to scoring the tying touchdown, played heroically. His tackle on Wood in the first period was a thing of beauty.

Allerdice also shone, making several spectacular passes, two of which were important factors in both of Princeton's touchdowns. For Navy, Wood, who made several dashes in addition to the one on which he scampered 60 yards; Cooke, Whitehead and Lenz all covered themselves with glory. Both Cooke and Lenz did fine passing and running. The line playing was about a stand-off. And if any one had deserved to be singled out for praise, it was Herman Spector, Navy guard, who tackled both often and hard.

Scampers Around End

No sooner had Hinchman kicked off than the Middies began a drive that swept everything before it. In a series of nine plays Navy moved all the way down from its own 35 to a first down on Princeton's 21. It was all in short stages, the longest gain being a 14-yard scamper by Whitehead around Princeton's right end.

It ended when the omnipresent Mountain intercepted Lem Cooke's pass on the Tiger 10. Gaining possession of the ball a short while later, Cooke and Whitehead completed a forward for a 12-yard gain and a first down on the Tiger 35, but that was as far as they were able to do.

Finally, near the end of the period after Mountain had again made another saving interception down in the danger zone, the Middies took the ball on downs on their own 35.

It was at this point that Wood, on the first play, broke through the center of the line and, with feet churning like piston rods, was soon out in the clear heading for Princeton's goal line. Veering toward the sideline, he looked to be out in the clear for a sure touchdown until Dixon got him from behind on the 5. That tackle, however, merely prolonged matters, for Wood then went off right guard and scored unscathed. He failed on his placement and so the score was Navy 6, Princeton 0.

Mountain made a 44-yard runback of Whitehead's kick-off as the period ended, but neither side's goal was in danger through the second quarter.

Show a Sustained Drive

Princeton's tying touchdown came in the third period and was started by Dixon's return of a Navy punt. Starting from their own 45, the Tigers, showing the best sustained drive of either team in the course of the game, travelled all the way up the field, finally to tally when Mountain scored.

The Navy made a great stand and almost averted disaster until Mountain, on an end-around play, made the inches that were needed to give the Tigers a first down only inches from Navy's goal. Both Wood and Wallace had their hands on him, but when he squirmed the required yard or so it was all that was necessary. He went over on the next play.

Pearson's attempted drop-kick was blocked and so the score was tied at 6—all.

Now it was Navy's turn to march and the Middies matched Princeton's drive with one of their own. This one started on the Annapolis 45 and went to the Tiger 35 before the end of the quarter. Taking up where they had left off, the Middies battered their way down to the 5, from where they finally went over, but only after a desperate effort by the Tigers to turn them back.

Again Supplies Spark

It was Wood who again supplied the spark as he bucked Princeton's center for a 15-yard gain to the 7. In desperation Bokum, Princeton tackle, interfered with Powell's attempt to catch a pass and that gave the Middies a first down on the 5, from where Lenz scored on a slash at right tackle. Wood made the extra point from placement.

Then came Princeton's retaliatory touchdown, which was scored by Dixon. The setting for this was a 23-yard gain on a pass, Allerdice to Daniel, which took the ball to beyond midfield.

U.C.L.A. Ousts Idaho From Unbeaten Group

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22—The University of California at Los Angeles jolted Idaho out of its Rose Bowl dream today, swamping the erstwhile unbeaten Vandals, 33 to 0, before 25,000 fans.

In the worst walloping ever handed Idaho by the Uclans, Kenny Washington broke loose for 46 yards on one dash to set the stage for a touchdown, tore down the field for 47 yards for another score and drove 7 yards for still another tally.

The nearest the Vandals got to the U. C. L. A. goal was the 46-yard line. The stalwart Bruin forwards, led by Center Johnny Ryland, stopped the threats of Hal Roise and his cohorts, giving them only three first downs.

It's Up To Them Sunday

Syracuse Halted In Thriller, 19-12 By Mich. State

N.Y. Times

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 22—In a breath-taking struggle that developed into an individual battle between Johnny Pingel and Wilmeth Sidat-Singh, Michigan State's Spartans downed Syracuse, 19 to 12, today to topple the Orange from the ranks of the nation's undefeated college football elevens.

Pingel, Michigan State's veteran halfback, and Sidat-Singh, Syracuse's star aerial artist, either had a part in or set up all the touchdowns.

Pingel put State in the lead when he shot a scoring pass to big ole Nelson in the end zone in the second period. He counted the last two touchdowns almost single handed, fighting his way 23 yards for a third period score and going 26 yards on an off-tackle smash in the final quarter.

Pass Gains 32 Yards

Held in check in the first half, Sidat-Singh connected in the third period for a 32-yard gain that ended on the State 1 and led to a subsequent touchdown, and tossed a 45-yard scoring pass to Phil Allen on the opening play of the last quarter.

Sidat-Singh was the better passer, completing 4 of 12 tosses for 121 yards, but Pingel was the superior runner, as he averaged better than 3 yards a crack to gain 115 yards in 39 tries. In the end, the ground game proved superior to the pass.

A trick, 33 mile an-hour south wind that swept the length of the field placed one team at a distinct disadvantage in each period.

A punt into the wind by Dick Kanger that gave Michigan State the ball on the Syracuse 35 led to the first score. Pingel smashed to the 16 in three tries, tossed to Usif Fancy on the 1, and to Nelson for the touchdown. Leslie Bruckner place-kicked the point.

Fumble Ends March

Sidat-Singh engineered a 64-yard march in the third period that ended in a team-mate's fumble, but taking Pingel's punt on the State 33, the Orange back tossed to Henry Piro on the 1, and then Walter Zimdahl plunged for a touchdown. Jim Bruett missed the try for point and Syracuse trailed, 7 to 6.

After Pingel had scored the second State touchdown, Sidat-Singh again put the Orange in the ball game with his pass to Allen, but the single point margin held, and Pingel's last scoring dash made the victory secure.

Britain Boasts Of World's Best Flyweight Boxers

Britain still breeds the world's best flyweight boxers, and is likely to keep this title for some years. Peter Kane is now on the throne of the little men, and when he is able to resume boxing—he sustained a damaged hand in beating Jackie Jurich—he will not be short of challengers, British challengers.

Kane is in the position today of being world champion British champion—curious but not unknown before in the game. There is no British champion, but Tut Whalley and Paddy Ryan fight for the Northern Area title, and the winner will most probably be given the job of meeting Kane for the British championship.

It is a position full of interest. Ryan, a Manchester boy, who is thrusting his way rapidly to the forefront, is a made-to-measure flyweight standing an inch over 5ft. broad, and very strong, with a tremendous punch, and those who support him believe that no man, including Kane himself, can stop his progress.

Jurich's Tribute

Obviously, when Kane fights for the British title he puts the world's crown at stake, since the conditions are the same.

At any rate, whatever the written conditions are when the match is made, Kane would lose his world's title if he were beaten.

He is eager to win the British honor, and he proved that he can still box 15 rounds at 8st. by beating a clever American, though many of his admirers are doubtful whether Kane at 8st. is any longer the deadly fighter of a year or two years ago.

Someone, incidentally, has tried to find an alibi for Jurich, and circulated a story of Jackie not being able to box properly because of toothache.

So that there shall not be any misunderstanding or dispute, here is what Jurich himself said: "Kane would have beaten me even if I had not had trouble with my tooth."

That seems to be final—and it shows what a great little sports man Jurich is.

4 U.S. Net Stars Stop En Route To Manila Series

Four well-known American tennis stars arrived this morning at Yokohama aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan en route to Manila to compete in the All-Comers tournament in the Philippine Carnival next month.

They were: Don McNeill, member of the Eastern Inter-Collegiate outdoor doubles champion team with George Pryor in 1937, and present 9th ranking player in the United States; C. Harris, 8th ranking player in 1936; Owen Robertson, Eastern Inter-collegiate outdoor singles champion in 1937; and W. Robertson.

They were scheduled to leave Tokyo by the Fuji Express at 3 p.m. today to appear in their only exhibition matches in Japan Sunday at the Koshien courts, near Osaka.

Representing the Japanese side will be:

Jiro Yamagishi and Ryosuke Nunoi and Tamotsu Murakami and Rei Murakami, doubles.

Jiro Yamagishi, Yasumine Kuramitsu, Tetsuo Takamuku and Reizo Hirai, singles.

The American stars will board the Empress of Canada from Kobe immediately after their matches.

Duke Vanquishes Wake Forest, 7-0

N.Y. Times

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 22—Duke's powerhouse struck quickly in the waning minutes of the opening period today to whip Wake Forest's scintillating sophomores, 7 to 0, in a Southern Conference game before 10,000 spectators.

It was fitting that Leonard Darnell, fleet Duke wingman, who is a Winston-Salem boy, should be the hero of his team's triumph.

With a matter of seconds to go in the first session, Darnell swept around the flank and took a pass from Welch, Duke quarter, on Wake Forest's 19, and sprinted across the goal line untouched. Tony Ruffa, a reserve guard, kicked a placement for the extra point.

Wake Forest threatened late in the final quarter with an inspired drive that started when Mayberry, substitute back, took a Duke punt on his own 26 stripe and ran back to his 42.

The march ended when Fuller fumbled and Perdue, Duke end, recovered on the 17.

The line-up:

Texas Christian Wins From Marquette, 21-0

N.Y. Times

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22—Texas Christian, led by Davey O'Brien, great little quarterback who tossed passes all over the field, smothered Marquette's football team today, 21 to 0, before 14,000 fans.

Marquette was helpless as it tried to stop O'Brien's accurate tosses in the opening period. The T. C. U quarterback threw seven straight completed tosses which figured in two touchdowns before he retired to the sidelines at the end of the quarter, only to return in the final period to produce another marker.

The first score came after an 82-yard march, with O'Brien passing to Clark and Wilkinson. O'Brien scored on a smash from the 4. O'Brien passed to John Hall, a half-back, for the second touchdown.

The final tally came on a pass O'Brien to Earl Clark. O'Brien passed from his 32, Clark catching the ball on the Marquette 28 and out running every one. O'Brien kicked successfully for points after all the touchdowns.

The T. C. U. squad tried 25 passes completing 13 to gain 200 yards, and picked up 193 yards on running plays.

Marquette threatened only once late in the second period, when the Golden Avalanche got possession on a blocked punt, drove to the 7, but lost the ball at that point on a pass interception.

The line-up:

Pos.	Texas Christian (21)	Marquette (0)

Annie Smith Peck, Mountain Climber

Until she was 45, Annie Smith Peck never had attempted to climb mountains. She then scaled the Matterhorn and began a series of assaults on the most rugged peaks of the Andes. After she had scaled all other highest peaks of South America, she planned her greatest feat—the conquest of Huascaran, in Peru, regarded by many geographers as the highest point in the Western Hemisphere. On September 2, 1908, she reached the summit of the mountain's north peak, which has been named in her honor: "Cumbre Ana Peck," by the Lima Geographical Society. Miss Smith died July 18, 1935.

Keio Wins All-Japan Hockey Title

A keen scrimmage as Keio University's eleven defeated the Kansai Club, one goal to nil (the score coming in the second half), at the new athletic field at Tsukijima, Tokyo, on Sunday afternoon. By virtue of the victory, Keio won its second straight title.

Keio's Improved Eleven Downed 33-7 By Waseda

By KOSHI MIYAZAKI

The championship bound Waseda University gridders put on a wild scoring splurge on Sunday at the Korakuen stadium to smother the University of Keio eleven 33 to 7.

A crowd of approximately 2,000 saw a close, hard-fought encounter turn out into a rout. Player-coach Richard Fukuda, former Honolulu Inter-scholastic all star center, and Kojack Naito, who won the most valuable player award last year, were the outstanding ball carriers for Waseda.

Kawashima, former Maroon halfback, took over the teaching position to give a play by play explanation of the game over the loud speaker to the interested Japanese sportsmen who are fast picking up this game.

Keio Improves

Keio's Coach, Ray Kunishima, University of Southern California graduate, deserves a big hand for the wonderful team he has built up in Mita. The Keio eleven is undoubtedly the best American football team in the league which is composed of all Japan-born boys only. The Keio ball totters played classy football and it was only a more experienced team that beat them.

The Maroons scored once in the first period, twice in the second and two more in the third quarter, with their tricky power plays and aerial attack. Keio's lone touchdown came late in the third period after left tackle Fukuda intercepted Shingu's lateral on the 16-yard line.

Coach Fukuda started the game with his first stringers and kept them in there until the end of the first half. The teamwork of these boys were unsurpassed. Every man cooperated to enable the backs to pile up a total of 11 first downs to only one by Keio. Also they scored enough touchdowns in the first half to relieve Coach Fukuda of unnecessary worries about the highly publicized Keio power line and flashy backfield, that he gave every man on the Maroon team a chance to play at least 15 minutes of the game.

The second stringers didn't do so bad either for although Keio really outplayed them, they allowed the hard hitting and speed Keio eleven to score only one touchdown. But Keio piled up a total of five first downs to only two by the Waseda reserves.

Penalty Leads to Score

The Maroons' first touchdown was scored after three minutes of play in the first quarter. Naito received Tamura's opening kickoff on his own 20-yard line. On the first play Nishioka circled right end of 12 yards. Then Naito went through off-tackle on the weakside for 20 more yards. Quarterback Noguchi then pulled off a quick surprise punt to Todo, who was downed on his own 15-yard line. Taking no chances, Todo stepped back and attempted to kick out of danger but the hard charging Maroon left tackle, Diamond Shimamura, rushed in to block the punt. Fortunately a Keio man recovered it. Again Todo stepped back and this time booted a beautiful one to Noguchi on the opponents' 40-yard line. Noguchi then flipped a pass over the right flank to Nomura for eight yards. On the next play Waseda was penalized 15 yards for clipping so the ball was brought back to the 47-yard line. Quarterback Noguchi called for another pass and threw a long one over the left flank to Fukushima but Todo blocked him and Waseda demanded a penalty but the Referee ruled Todo's blocking perfectly legal. But on the next play Noguchi shot another long pass over the right flank to Nomura and again Todo bumped into him. This time Todo was charged with interferring with the receiver and the ball was placed on the one-yard line. With first down one yard to the goal, Naito took the ball and jumped over center for the first touchdown. A pass from Noguchi to Fukushima added the extra point.

On the next kickoff Keio almost scored when "speed" Todo, an 11-flat man, made a beautiful 33-yard run around the left flank. He sidestepped all the would-be tacklers except Naito, who downed him on the 32-yard line. But from here Waseda put on a stone-wall defense and Keio lost the ball on downs. Waseda's ball on its own 32-yard line, Fukuda took the ball around left end and then lateraled it to the stalwart tackle, Diamond Shimamura, who romped 35 yards toward the goal, only to be overtaken by "Speed" Todo on the 35-yard line. Then Waseda made a vain attempt to break through Keio's powerful defense as the quarter ended. Score: Waseda 7, Keio 0.

Trick Plays Gain

The two touchdowns in the second quarter resulted after a grand march down the field with a succession of trick power plays and passes. Fukuda and Nishioka did most of the ground gaining but Naito crossed the goal for the first touchdown and Noguchi for the second with a quarterback sneak. Naito converted for the extra point with a center buck. Score at half time: Waseda 20, Keio 0.

The Maroons' last two touchdowns came in the early minutes of the third period. Halfback Gori Nishioka recovered Tamura's fumble on Keio's 40-yard line. Fukuda faked an end run and, seeing Nomura all open near the east sidelines, flipped a beautiful spiral pass to "Long-John" Nomura, who made a difficult catch. Again he was tackled by "Speed" Todo, on the 1-foot line. Naito crossed the goal on the next play through center. Conversion failed.

Nakayama kicked off to Todo again, who made a beautiful 15-yard return. But the Maroon power line was impregnable so Todo punted a high one to Fukuda on the 50-yard marker. Fukuda gained five yards through center and on the next play, Naito again took the ball through center, emerged untouched, then he side-stepped Keio's secondary defense and outran "speed" Todo for the last Maroon touchdown of the day. A spectacular 45-yard run. Captain Nakayama converted with a place kick.

Waseda, having won the ball on downs, on their own 20-yard line, prepared to march down the field. Relief Quarterback Yamada called for a lateral so Halfback Shingu received the ball from center and attempted to lateral it to Yamada. But left tackle Fukuda jumped in and snagged the lateral from the air to make it first down for Keio on the 10-yard line. Todo hit the line six times and finally tallied for Keio's lone touchdown, as the quarter ended. Tamura converted with a line plunge. Scores are third quarter: Waseda 33 Keio 7.

Keio Rallies

Both teams failed to score in the last 15 minutes of play but Keio had the better of that quarter. Todo's offtackles and end runs were good for a total of five first downs and the ball was mostly in Waseda's territory, but, Doc. Noguchi, the only first stringer remaining in the line-up, kept the ball away from his goal line with his beautiful long punts.

The most outstand lineman on the Maroon defense was Right guard Susumu Fujioka. He stopped many a Keio play behind the line of scrimmage. Diamond Shimamura, Nakadate, Fukushima, Miyamoto and Nomura also shared honors on the Maroon stonewall line.

Left Halfback "speed" Todo was undoubtedly the most outstanding player on the Keio line-up but Tamura, Takemura and Kuwabara also did fine work. On the line, Tomita, Fukuda, Motoki, Jodo, Yamataya and Watanabe played a bang-up game.

The starting line-up:

	Waseda	Keio
L.E.	Nomura	Tomita
L.T.	Shimamura	Fukuda
L.G.	Miyamoto	Watanabe
C.	Nakayama	Mitsuyoshi
R.G.	Fujioka	Motoki
R.T.	Nakadate	Jodo
R.E.	Fukushima	Yamagata
Q.	Noguchi	Kuwabara
L.H.	Nishioka	Todo
R.H.	Umeda	Takemura
F.	Naito	Tamura

Substitutes: Waseda—Sasai, Cho, Yaneda, Sai, Kaji, Doi, Kitamura, Fujii, Yamada, Shingu and Coach Fukuda. Keio—T. Yoshida, Hirata, Tanifuji, Ogata, Matsuo, Tomi, Tazawa and Yoshida.

Officials: Referee, Sakamoto. Umpire, Sakaguchi. Headlinesman, Yasuda. Timer, Shima.

Keio Wins Soccer Title By Beating Teidai By 3 To 1

Keio defended its title as soccer champions of the Kanto University league by triumphing over the Tokyo Imperial University eleven, 3 goals to 1, in the final game Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

With both teams undefeated in four previous games, the season's largest crowd was on hand to witness the two teams battle for the title.

Keio's smashing attack in the first half was the deciding factor of the game as it produced the three winning goals. Its forward line pressed from the opening kick-off and kept storming the Teidai goal. The combination of Harima and Ninomiya functioned too well for Teidai. Although outplayed in the first half, Teidai came to life in the second half. It not only held Keio to no score but accounted for the only goal during the half.

Keio Scores First

Keio broke the ice in the scoring column after 10 minutes of furious scrimmaging. With Center Forward Ninomiya leading the attack, Keio pressed. Goalie Gando of Teidai made a save but Outside Right Shinozaki was on top of the ball and booted it into the net from close range.

Two corner kicks gave Keio a chance to score during the next two minutes of play but Teidai put up a stellar defense. Keio tallied again in 17 minutes when Teidai's heading was ineffective. Ninomiya headed the ball toward the rear and Shinozaki in turn headed it into the goal.

Keio kept on pressing and Teidai never had a chance. With the ball continuously in Teidai territory, Keio registered another goal in 29 minutes. Ninomiya delivered down the field and it was Shinozaki who booted a goal from the left wing. Teidai stormed the Keio goal during the last few minutes of the first half but Goalie Tsuda effected a nice save.

Teidai Scores

Teidai came through with its only goal, and the only score in the half after 17 minutes of play after the interval. Penetrating the Keio defense in midfield Naoki booted a strong one down the field. Left Inside Otsuki worked it into scoring zone and Outside Left Matsumura finally scored from close range.

The lineups follow:

Keio: Shinozaki, Harima, Ninomiya, Obata and Inomata, forwards, Kasahara, Ishikawa and Takashima, halfbacks; Kato and Miyake, fullbacks; Tsuda, goalie.

Teidai: Oya, Naoki, Abe, Otsuki and Matsumura, forwards: Tamura Kikuchi and Shoku, halfbacks; Tsukijima and Oyama, fullback; Gando, goalie.

The final standings follow:

Eventually, Why Not Now?

Sam, who was ambitious but penniless, desired to be a junk dealer. He went to the village banker to seek the necessary sum to start in business.

The banker sympathetically heard the Negro's story.

"But don't you think it could be done on less than the $100 that you ask?" queried the would-be benefactor.

"No, suh," replied Sam. "A horse and wagon would cost mos' of dat."

"Well, what guarantee can you give me for the money?"

Sam thought for a moment.

"Well, suh, Ah could have youah name painted on th' wagon."

What They Think

What they think when little Oswald starts to school for the first time:

His mother: "Just think, my little darling is almost grown up."

His father: "I hope he makes a fullback."

His older sister: "That means I've got to walk to school with him."

His teacher: "I hope he's smarter than he looks."

His neighbors: "Now we can have peace for a few hours a day."

Meiji Gridders Rout Hosei By 74-0 Score At Korakuen

By BILL OMURA

Meiji's football team, gathering power and speed as the game progressed, swamped the Hosei eleven for a 74 to 0 victory in the first game of a doubleheader at the Korakuen Stadium, Sunday afternoon.

From the opening of the game till the final gun, more than 2,000 fans saw the Meiji gridders dominate their heavier opponents with their beautiful laterals, long gains via overland and air intermixed with trick plays in convincing fashion. Once under way they completely outplayed their opponents and displayed their craft which makes them favorites to win the 1938 intercollegiate championship.

Hosei Tackled too High

Hosei eleven tackled too high, fumbled frequently and lacked running power and punch.

Yoshimoto, Wada, Omai and Yasuda, tallied seven of the eleven touchdown during the first half of the game.

Before the game was three minutes old, Yoshimoto leading the brunt of the attack, steam-rollered Hosei's line of defense for the initial score, adding the extra point by plunging through center. Omai, recovering his own fumble heaved over the goal to right end Toyama for the second touchdown. Yasuda, taking the ball on Hosei's 10-yard line, smacked through center for the third count. Wada, receiving quarterback Yasuda's lateral, ran wide around left end for the fourth. Following Machida's recovery of Ono's fumble on Hosei's 7-yard line, Wada carried the ball through center for the sixth. For the seventh touchdown, Powerhouse Omi, knifing through center and beautifully evading the secondary defense, ran 25 yards making the score 48 to 0 at the end of the first half.

Details of the second half follow:

Third Quarter

Yoshimoto kicked off for Meiji. Fujita returned the ball 20 yards to the 50-yard line. Fujita's intended pass for Yatagai was knocked down by Yasuda. Nakagami kicked to Yoshimoto who was downed on Meiji's 20-yard line. Following a series of play, Yasuda kicked to Fujita who fumbled and Toyama of Meiji recovered on the 50-yard line. Yoshimoto sneaked through center to Hosei's 40-yard line. On the next play Yoshimoto heaved a long forward pass to Machida who ran five yards for a touchdown. Conversion failed. Score—Meiji 54, Hosei 0.

Fujita of Hosei returned Yoshimoto's kickoff to Hosei's 40-yard line. Takamoto of Meiji messed up Hosei's triple lateral and threw Fujita for a 15 yard loss. Nakagami's attempted pass to Yatagai was intercepted by quarterback Yasuda of Meiji on Hosei's 20-yard line. On the initial play, Yasuda circled left end, then lateraled to Yoshimoto who carried the ball to score. Yoshimoto's place-kick was incomplete. Score—Meiji 60, Hosei 0.

Nakada took Yoshimoto's kickoff on Hosei's 25-yard line. Omai replaced Futa at half for Meiji. Wada substituted for Yoshimoto for Meiji. Hosei fumbled on the first play. Meiji recovered. Wada knifed through off-tackle and carried the ball to Hosei's 3-yard line. On the next play, Wada smacked center to score. Wada, place-kicked for the extra point. Score—Meiji 67, Hosei 0.

Fourth Quarter

After a series of line-plays failed to gain, Nakagami kicked to Wada of Meiji who returned the ball to his own 42-yard line. Meiji was penalized for off-side. Failing to complete two passes, Yasuda kicked but the ball rolled out of bounds on Hosei's 40-yard line. Fumbling the ball behind the line of scrimmage, Yatagai was thrown for a loss of 10 yards by Meiji's left end, Machida. Ono attempted a pass on the next play but it was intercepted by Wada in midfield. Wada heaved to Toyama, good for a gain of 17 yards. Wada circled right end for 22 yards to score. Yasuda's pass to Machida completed for the extra point. Score—Meiji 74, Hosei 0.

Omai kicked-off for Meiji. Ono took the ball for Hosei who returned the ball to his own 35-yard line. Fujita recovered his own fumble but was thrown for a loss of seven yards. Hosei was penalized for off-side. Fujita's kick rolled out of bound on Hosei's 36-yard line. Machida took ball on the red Statue of Liberty play for a gain of three yards. Meiji was penalized 15 yards for clipping. Omai's attempted pass to Yasuda was downed by Fujita. Meiji was again penalized for off-side, and the gun ended the game. Final score—Meiji 74; Hosei 0.

Captain Eiichi Kazama pinned Kimura in five minutes 12 seconds.

The second match for the Japanese will be held in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon where they will meet a squad of American wrestlers from along the coast.

A definite schedule will be decided on later.

The Bending Towers of the Golden Gate Bridge

Because of the uneven heating of the steel in the towers of the 8½-mile long San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, the towers bend away from the sun. On one occasion, before the cables and suspended structure were installed, the towers bent as much as six inches from plumb. The bending of the towers is explained by the bridge engineers as follows: the steel plates of which the towers are built expand when the sun shines on them. The expansion elongates the side in which the sun shines, thus forcing the tower to lean in the opposite direction. The bridge is built to compensate for stresses that cause the bridge to bend

Blanche Of Valois

Blanches of Nalois (1316-1348), who married Emperor-King Charles IV of Bohemia, did not bring him any dowry. Instead of a dowry, she brought her husband a decree signed by the King of France to the effect that henceforth and for all time to come, inhabitants of Bohemia should have the right to enter France without a passport.

First Title In 7 Years

Rikkyo players storming the Waseda goal after five minutes of play in the first half in their game Monday afternoon which the former won, 43-40, to clinch the title.

Rikkyo Wins Cage Title, Beating Waseda, 48 To 40 In 2 Extra Period Battle

In a torrid contest that necessitated two extra periods, Rikkyo University's basketball team finally emerged victorious over Waseda, 48 to 40, Monday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi to win its first championship in the Kanto Intercollegiate league in seven years. It finished the season with 10 victories and one defeat. The schedule is not yet completed but Tokyo Imperial University's quintet has already suffered two defeats and Waseda, last year's titleholder, has been beaten thrice.

The standings follow:

	R	T	W	M	B	S	G	W	Pct.
R	x	2	2	2	2	2	11	10	.909
T	0	x	:	2	2	2	8	6	.750
W	1	:	x	2	2	2	10	7	.700
M	0	0	0	x	2	:	9	2	.222
B	0	0	1	1	x	2	12	4	.333
S	0	0	0	:	0	x	8	0	.000
Games lost	1	2	3	7	8	8

Key: Rikkyo (R); Tokyo Imperial (T); Waseda (W); Meiji (M); Bunrika (B); Shodai (S).

Having humbled Rikkyo, 37-36, for the latter's first defeat of their season in their second game of their two out of three series on Sunday (Rikkyo won the first, 47-42 on Saturday), the Waseda five was a determined combination to win on Monday. And it was the offensive team as the game got under way with the Rikkyo quintet showing signs of nervousness.

Rikkyo Nervous

It might have been due to airtight defense put up by Waseda, the younger and less experienced Rikkyo players apparently lost their eye for the basket. Then they fell down heavily in their conversion of free throws, otherwise they might have had an easier time defeating Waseda.

The main reason for Waseda's defeat was the listless showing by Forward Yokoyama, the team's most highly reputed scoring ace, an Olympic player as well. He had been in a slump throughout the season, but he was even worse on Monday. He scored nary a point in the first half and on top of it was charged with three personal fouls. Consequently he was forced to play a more conservative game, and it naturally affected his effectiveness. He finally was discharged with four personals.

Waseda suffered a considerable handicap toward the latter part of the second half with several of its players forced to continue play despite injuries, and with the necessity of having to send in a number of second stringers into the game.

Center Cho was the outstanding star for Rikkyo. He not only was the pivot man in the attack but was high scorer with 13 points.

The game was a nip and tuck fight from the first tip-off. Forward Takahashi of Rikkyo rang the first field goal of the game in four minutes but Munekata retaliated for Waseda. The game see-sawed with Rikkyo leading 18-17 at the end of the half.

Waseda got off to a flying start after the interval, goals by Munekata and Kameoka giving the team a 24 to 20 lead after eight minutes of play. Munekata came through with another basket to up the lead to 28-21 in 9 minutes. But Waseda suffered heavily with Yokoyama and Kuroda being thrown out of the game because of having committed the maximum of personal fouls. Rikkyo's attack began to function from this stage of the tussle and the score stood 28-all after 15 minutes of play. It was a see-saw affair that followed and the score was deadlocked at 32-all when the gun went off.
